

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at `http://books.google.com/`

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

17640

DICTIONARY

OF

AMERICAN BIOGRAPHY, INCLUDING

MEN OF THE TIME;

GENERAL LIBRARY University of MICHIGAN

CONTAINING NEARLY

TEN THOUSAND NOTICES OF PERSONS OF BOTH SEXES, OF NATIVE AND FOREIGN BIRTH, WHO HAVE BEEN REMARKABLE, OR PROMINENTLY CONNECTED WITH THE

Arts, Sciences, Literature, Politics, or History,

OF THE

AMERICAN CONTINENT.

GIVING ALSO THE PRONUNCIATION OF MANY OF THE FOREIGN AND PECULIAR AMERICAN NAMES, A KEY TO THE ASSUMED NAMES OF WRITERS, AND A

SUPPLEMENT.

BY

FRANCIS S. DRAKE.

BOSTON:
HOUGHTON, OSGOOD & COMPANY.
The Riverside Press, Cambridge.
1879.

Digitized by Google

CT
213
.D76

Entered, according to Act of Congress, in the year 1872,
By FRANCIS S. DRAKE,
In the Office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington.

Boston:
Stereotyped and Printed by Rand, Avery, & Co.

Digitized by Google

TO

SAMUEL GARDNER DRAKE,

THE HISTORIAN OF BOSTON,

This Work

IS INSCRIBED,

AS A TRIBUTE OF FILIAL REGARD.

Digitized by Google

Digitized by Google

Trans. to G-Stacks
6-9-61

PREFACE.

THE design of this work is to give, in a single volume and at a moderate cost, a manual of reference, containing in a condensed form all the more important data of American biography, including that of persons still living. Its scope, as set forth in the titlepage, is continental; and it aims to include within the prescribed limits as many facts and dates as possible; while, at the same time, ample reference is made to fuller sources of information. It is obvious that the utility of such a work must depend mainly upon its correctness; and, to insure this all-important object, much time and labor have been given to the verification and completion of its dates. In regard to persons now living, it has not always been practicable to obtain the requisite facts; and, in some instances, these have been so long withheld as to make it necessary to embody them in a Supplement.

While the investigations of historical students in New England, New York, and in some of the other States, have been so fruitful in the materials for biography, that the principal difficulty has been that of selection and condensation, it is unfortunately true, that in many of the States, and in other portions of the continent, such materials are exceedingly scanty. Another deficiency in the sources of American biography is found in the departments of industry, inventions, and the fine arts. The politicians, authors, and clergy of America have had their full share of notice; while her inventors, engineers, and practical scientists, — to whom her wonderfully-rapid progress in the arts of civilization and her high rank among the nations are mainly due, — have been in a very great degree overlooked. One object of the author has been to remedy to some extent this injustice.

Among the features calculated to enhance the value of the work are the pronunciation of such names as present unusual difficulty; and the Key to

Digitized by Google

Assumed Names, which will enable the reader at once to trace the authorship of writings published under a pseudonyme.

To JOHN WARD DEAN, M.A., Librarian of the New-England Historic-Genealogical Society of Boston, whose thorough and accurate knowledge of American history and wonderfully-retentive memory are exceeded only by the readiness with which its abundant stores are imparted, the author is under weighty obligations. For much valuable material relating to the West, his acknowledgments are also due to the late ALFRED T. GOODMAN of Cleveland, Ohio, Secretary of the Western-Reserve Historical Society, whose recent decease at the early age of twenty-six is not alone a calamity to his friends, but is a serious loss to the community. To the late Dr. JOSEPH PALMER, who kindly loaned him his annotated copy of the Harvard-College Triennial, he is also under obligations. To Rev. ELIAS NASON, to WILLIAM B. TRASK, Esq., and to all who have aided him in the prosecution of his labors, the author returns his grateful acknowledgments. And, finally, his thanks are justly due to the proof-readers, — Messrs. GEORGE WADHAM and GEORGE W. POWERS, and Miss MERCIE L. TAYLOR, — of the value of whose critical labors he is fully sensible.

F. S. D.

Digitized by Google

KEY TO ASSUMED NAMES.

| | |
|---|---|
| Abimelech Coody, | Gulian C. Verplanck |
| Admonish Crime, | James Cook Richmond |
| Agate, | Whitelaw Reid |
| Agricola, | William Elliott |
| Alice G. Lee, and Cousin Alice, | Alice B. Haven |
| Allan Grant, and Alpin, | William Wilson |
| Anthony Pasquin, | John Williams |
| Arp. Bill, | Charles H. Smith |
| Artemus Ward, | Charles F. Browne |
| Aunt Fanny, | Mrs. F. D. Gage |
| A. W. Farmer, | Rev. Isaac Wilkins |
| Bailey, | Fred. Douglass |
| Barclays (One of the), | Mrs. H. G. Otis |
| Bard. Samuel A., | Ephraim G. Squier |
| Barrett. Walter, clerk, | Joseph A. Scoville |
| Barry Gray, | Robert B. Coffin |
| Belle Brittan, | Hiram Fuller |
| Belle Smith, | Louisa Kirby Platt |
| Benauly, | Benjamin, Austin, and Lyman Abbott. } jointly |
| Benson, Carl, | Charles Astor Bristed |
| Berkley, Helen, | Anna Cora (Mowatt) Ritchie |
| Berwick, | James Redpath |
| Biglow, Hosea, | James Russell Lowell |
| Bigly, Cantell A., | Geo. W. Peck |
| Bill Arp, | Charles H. Smith |
| Billings, Josh, | Henry W. Shaw |
| Blythe, White, jun., | Solon Robinson |
| Bob Short, | A. B. Longstreet |
| Boston Bard, | Robert S. Coffin |
| Boston Rebel, | John Lowell |
| Breitmann, Hans, | Charles G. Leland |
| Brown, Vandyke, | Wm. P. Brannan |
| Buntline, Ned, | E. Z. C. Judson |
| Burleigh, | Matthew Hale Smith |
| Cæsariensis, | J. W. Alexander |
| Cantell A. Bigly, | Geo. W. Peck |
| Carl Benson, | Charles Astor Bristed |
| Carleton, | Charles Carleton Coffin |
| Caustic, Christopher, | Thos. Green Fessenden |
| Caspipina, Tamoc, | Rev. Jacob Duchi |
| Charles Summerfield, | Alfred W. Arrington |
| Clavers, Mary, | Mrs. C. M. Kirkland |
| Constantia, | Judith Sargent Murray |
| Coody, Abimelech, | G. C. Verplanck |
| Cousin Alice, | Alice B. Haven |
| Cramer, Julian, | Joseph Lemuel Chester |
| Crayon, Geoffrey, | Washington Irving |
| Crayon, Porte, | Gen. D. P. Strother |
| Creyton, Paul, | J. T. Trowbridge |
| Croaker, | Fitz Greene Halleck |
| Crowfield, Christopher, | Mrs. H. B. Stowe |
| Cypress, | W. P. Hawes |
| Dare, Shirley, | Susan Dunning |
| Della Crusca, | Robert Merry |
| Dick Tinto, | Frank B. Goodrich |
| Diedrich Knickerbocker, | Washington Irving |
| Doesticks, Q. K. Philander, | Mortimer N. Thompson |
| Dow, jun., | Elbridge G. Page |
| Downing, Major Jack, | Seba Smith |
| Dr. Oldham at Grayestones, | Caleb S. Henry |
| Druid, | Henry M. Flint |
| Dunn Brown, | Rev. Samuel Fiske |
| E. C. Revons, | Charles C. Converse |
| Edith May, | Anna Drinker |
| Edmund Kirke, | J. R. Gilmore |
| Elizabeth Wetherell, | Susan Warner |
| Estelle, | Elizabeth Bogert |
| Ethan Spike, | Matthew F. Whittier |
| Everpoint, | J. M. Field |
| Falconbridge, | Jonathan F. Kelly |
| Fanny, Aunt, | Frances D. Gage |
| Fanny Fern, | Mrs. Sarah (Willis) Parton |
| Fanny Fielding, | Mary J. S. Upshur |
| Fanny Forester, | Emily C. Judson |
| Farmer, A. W., | Rev. Isaac Wilkins |
| Farmer, Pennsylvania, | John Dickinson |
| Fat Contributor, | A. Miner Griswold |
| Fleta, | Kate W. Hamilton |
| Florence Leigh, | Anna T. Wilbur |
| Florence Percy, | Mrs. Elizabeth Akers |
| Folio, Tom, | Joseph E. Babson |
| Francis Oldys, | George Chalmers |
| Frank Forester, | Wm. H. Herbert |
| Gail Hamilton, | Mary Abigail Dodge |
| Gath, | Geo. Alfred Townsend |
| Genesee Traveller, | Matthew L. Davis |
| Geoffrey Crayon, | Washington Irving |
| Gleaner, | Nathl. I. Bowditch |
| Glyndon, Howard, | Laura C. Reddon |
| Grace Greenwood, | Sara J. Lippincott |
| Grant, Allen, | William Wilson |
| Gray, Barry, | Robert B. Coffin |
| Gringo, Harry, | Henry A. Wise |
| Hamilton, Gail, | Mary Abigail Dodge |
| Hans Breitmann, | Charles G. Leland |
| Harland, Marion, | Mrs. Terhune |
| Harry Gringo, | Lieut. H. A. Wise |
| Helen Berkley, | Anna Cora (Mowatt) Ritchie |
| Helen Mar, | Mrs. D. M. F. Walker |
| Honestus, | Benj. Austin |
| Horus, | G. C. Fisher |
| Hosea Biglow, | J. Russell Lowell |
| Howard Glyndon, | Laura C. Reddon |
| H. Trusta, | Mrs. Eliz. Stuart Phelps |
| Ianthe. | Emma C. Embury |
| Ignatius Loyola Robinson, | Samuel L. Knapp |
| Ik Marvel, | Donald G. Mitchell |
| Jack Downing, Major, | Seba Smith |
| Jeemes Pipes of Pipesville. | Stephen C. Massett |
| Jennie June, | Mrs. Jennie C. Croly |
| Job Sass, | George A. Foxcroft |

Digitized by Google

| | |
|---|---|
| John Oldbug, | Rev. Leonard Withington |
| John Paul, | C. H. Webb |
| John Phœnix, | George H. Derby |
| John Quod, | John T. Irving |
| John Waters, | Henry Cary of Boston |
| Jonathan Oldstyle, | Washington Irving |
| Jones, Major, | Wm. Theodore Thompson |
| Josh Billings, | Henry W. Shaw |
| Julian Cramer, | Joseph Lemuel Chester |
| Karl Reden, | Charles C. Converse |
| Kerr, Orpheus C., | R. H. Newell |
| Kirke, Edmund, | J. R. Gilmore |
| Kirwan, | Rev. Nicholas Murray |
| Knickerbocker, Diedrich, | Washington Irving |
| K. N. Pepper, | James M. Morris |
| Laco, | Stephen Higginson |
| Laura Caxton, | Lizzie B. Comins |
| Lay Preacher, | Joseph Dennie |
| Lee, Alice G., | Alice B. Haven |
| Lee, Patty, | Alice Cary |
| Leigh, Florence, | Anna T. Wilbur |
| Leighton, | Rev. Jesse Appleton |
| L'Inconnu, | L. Virginia French |
| Lovengood, Sut, | George W. Harris |
| Lynn Bard, | Alonzo Lewis |
| McArone, | George Arnold |
| Mace Sloper, | Charles G. Leland |
| Mar, Helen, | Mrs. D. M. F. Walker |
| Maria del Occidente, | Maria (Gowen) Brooks |
| Marion Harland, | Mary Virginia (Hawes) Terhune |
| Marion Ward, | Mrs. H. M. Stephens |
| Mark Twain, | Samuel L. Clemens |
| Marvel, Ik, | Donald G. Mitchell |
| Mary Clavers, | Caroline M. Kirkland |
| Mary Orme, | Mrs. Mary Sargent Gove Nichols |
| Massachusettensis, | Daniel Leonard |
| May, Edith, | Anna Drinker |
| May, Sophie, | Miss R. S. Clarke |
| Miles O'Reilly, | Charles G. Halpine |
| Minnie Myrtle, | Anna L. Johnson (Mrs. Joaquin Miller) |
| Mrs. Manners, | Cornelia H. (Bradley) Richards |
| Nasby, Petroleum V. | David Ross Locke |
| Ned Buntline, | E. Z. C. Judson |
| Nevers, C. O., | Charles C. Converse |
| Novanglus, | John Adams |
| Oldbug, John, | Rev. Leonard Withington |
| Oldham, Dr., at Graystones, | Caleb S. Henry |
| Old South, | Benjamin Austin |
| Oldstyle, Jonathan, | Washington Irving |
| Oldys, Francis, | George Chalmers |
| Oliver Oldschool, | Joseph Dennie |
| Oliver Optic, | Wm. T. Adams |
| O'Reilly, Miles, | Charles G. Halpine |
| Orme, Mary, | Mrs. Nichols |
| Orpheus C. Kerr, | Robert H. Newell |
| Partington, Mrs., | B. P. Shillaber |
| Pasquin, Anthony, | John Williams |
| Patty Lee, | Alice Cary |
| Paul Creyton, | J. T. Trowbridge |
| Paul, John, | C. H. Webb |
| Paulus Silentiarius, | George P. Philes |
| Peasant Bard, | Josiah D. Canning of Gill |
| Penn, Wm., | Jeremiah Evarts |
| Pennsylvania Farmer, | John Dickinson |
| Pepper, K. N., | James M Morris |
| Pequot, | Charles W. March |
| Percy, Florence, | Mrs. Elizabeth Akers |
| Perley, | Ben. Perley Poore |
| Peter Parley, | S. G. Goodrich |
| Peter Porcupine, | Wm. Cobbett |
| Peter Quince, | Isaac Story |
| Peter Schlemihl, | George Wood |
| Peter Scriber, | Charles Aug. Davis |
| Petroleum V. Nasby, | David Ross Locke |
| Philanthropos, | William Ladd |
| Philip Quillbet, | George E. Pond |
| Phœnix, John, | George H. Derby |
| Pipes, Jeemes, of Pipesville, | Stephen C. Massett |
| Poor Richard, | Benjamin Franklin |
| Porte Crayon, | D. P. Strother |
| Publicola, | John Quincy Adams |
| Pylodet, F., | F. Leypoldt |
| Quillbet, Philip, | George E. Pond |
| Quince, Peter, | Isaac Story |
| Quod, John, | John T. Irving |
| Richard Hayward, | Fredrick S. Cozzens |
| Regester, Seeley, | Mrs. O. J. Victor |
| Revons, E. C., | Charles C. Converse |
| Robinson, Ignatius Loyola, | S. L. Knapp |
| Rustic Bard, | Robert Dinsmoor |
| Rutledge, | Mrs. Miriam (Coles) Harris |
| Salmagundi, | Washington Irving |
| Sam Slick, | T. C. Haliburton |
| Samuel A. Bard, | Ephraim G. Squier |
| Sass, Job, | George A. Foxcroft |
| Schlemihl, Peter, | George Wood |
| Scriber, Peter, | Charles Aug. Davis |
| Se De Kay, | Charles D. Kirk |
| Sexton of the Old School, | Lucius M. Sargent |
| Shirley Dare, | Miss Susan Dunning (now Mrs. Waters.) |
| Sigma, | Lucius M. Sargent |
| Sloper, Mace, | Charles G. Leland |
| Smith, Belle, | Louisa Kirby Platt |
| Sophie May, | Miss R. S. Clarke |
| Sparrowgrass, | Fredrick S. Cozzens |
| Spy in Washington, | Matthew L. Davis |
| Squibob, | George H. Derby |
| Stampede, | Jonathan F. Kelly |
| Straws, | J. M. Field |
| Straws, jun., | Miss Kate Field |
| Summerfield, Charles, | Alfred W. Arrington |
| Sut Lovengood, | George W. Harris |
| Talvi, | Thérèse A. L. Robinson |
| Theodore de la Guard, | Nathaniel Ward |
| Timothy Titcomb, | Dr. J. G. Holland |
| Tinto, Dick, | Frank B. Goodrich |
| Tom Folio, | Joseph E. Babson |
| Traveller, Genesee, | Matthew L. Davis |
| Trusta, H., | Mrs. Eliz. Stuart Phelps |
| Twain, Mark, | Samuel L. Clemens |
| Uncle Toby, | Rev. Tobias H. Miller |
| Updike, Underhill, Dr., | Royall Tyler |
| Vandyke Brown, | Wm. Penn Brannan |
| Veteran Observer, | E. D. Mansfield |
| Walter Barrett, clerk, | J. A. Scoville |
| Ward, Artemus, | Charles F. Browne |
| Ward, Marion, | Mrs. H. M. Stephens |
| Warrington, | W. S. Robinson |
| Waters, John, | Henry Cary of Boston |
| Wetherell, Elizabeth, | Susan Warner |
| White, Blythe, jun., | Solon Robinson |

Digitized by Google

ABBREVIATIONS AND EXPLANATIONS.

a., aged.
ab.. about.
acad., academy.
accomp., accompanied.
adm., admiral, admitted.
Amer., America or American.
Ant. Coll., Antioch College.
app., appointed.
art., artillery.
assist., assistant.
asso., association, associate.
atty., attorney.
b., born.
bapt., baptized.
brev., brevet.
bro., brother.
com., commanded, commander, committee.
commiss., commissioned, commissioner.
commo., commodore.
conf., conference.
Confed., Confederate.
Cong., Congregational.
consec., consecrated.
Const. Conv., Constitutional Convention.
Cont., Continental.
contrib., contributed, contributions, contributor.
corresp., correspondence, corresponding.
C. S. A., Confederate-States Army.
d., deceased.
Democ., Democratic.
dep., deputy.
dept., department.
dist., district.
disting., distinguished.
eccles., ecclesiastical.
exped., expedition.
explo., exploring.
Inf., Infantry.
Inst., Institute, Institution.
legisl., legislature, legislative.
m., married.
mag., magazine.
manuf., manufacturer.
Mpi., Mississippi.
N. A., North America.
nat., national.
N. E., New England.
Nouv.Biog.Univ., Nouvelle Biographie Universelle.
N. W., North-west.
occas., occasional.
ord., ordained.
Pr-Ep., Protestant-Episcopal.
pres., president.
Presb., Presbyterian.
prof., professor.
prov., provincial.
provis., provisional.
pub., published, publication.
rev., review.
Revol., Revolutionary.
sem., seminary.
theol., theology, theological.
Unit., Unitarian.
vols., volunteers.

Names of colleges generally abbreviated by first letters.

The strictly alphabetical order has been deviated from in such names as Clarke, Deane, and others, in which the final e is sometimes dropped; in that of Matthews, — sometimes spelled with a single t; and in those having the prefix Mc, which are placed as though spelled Mac. Names of members of the same family are sometimes grouped together in one paragraph; as in the cases of Shubrick, Lemoine, Wyllys, Hallam, Claiborne, Brenton, &c.

Pronunciation as in Worcester's large Diction ary.

Digitized by Google

INDEX TO AUTHORITIES, CITED BY THE AUTHOR'S NAME ONLY.

Allen, American Biographical Dictionary, 8vo, 1856.

Allibone, Dictionary of Authors, 3 vols. 8vo, 1859–70.

Appleton, New American Cyclopædia, and Annuals, 27 vols. 8vo.

Blake, Biographical Dictionary, 8vo, 1856.

Bradford, New-England Biography, 12mo, 1842.

Collins, History of Kentucky, 8vo, 1848.

Cullum, Register of West-Point Graduates, 2 vols. 8vo, 1868.

Duyckinck, Cyclopædia of American Literature, and Supplement, 3 vols. 8vo, 1856–66.

Eliot, New-England Biographical Dictionary, 8vo, 1809.

Gardner, Dictionary of the Army, 2d edition, 12mo, 1860.

Gayarre, History of Louisiana, 2 vols. 8vo, 1854.

Goodman, A. T., MS. notices.

Grigsby, Virginia Convention of 1776, 8vo, 1855.

Gross, American Medical Biography, 8vo, 1861.

Hamersly, Record of Living Officers U. S. Navy, 8vo, 1870.

Henry, Record of Civil Appointments U. S. Army, 8vo, 1869.

Lanman, Dictionary of Congress, 5th edition, 8vo, 1867.

Lossing, Field-Book of the American Revolution, 2 vols. 8vo, 1852.

Morgan, Celebrated Canadians, 8vo, 1865.

O'Callaghan, New-York Colonial Documents, 11 vols. 4to.

Phillipart, Royal Military Calendar, 5 vols. 8vo, London.

Rogers, Biographical Dictionary of Revolutionary Worthies, 8vo, 1829.

Sabine, American Loyalists, 2d edition, 2 vols. 8vo, 1864.

Simpson, Eminent Philadelphians, 8vo, 1859.

Sparks, American Biographies, 1st and 2d series, 25 vols. 12mo.

Sprague, Annals of the American Pulpit, 9 vols. 8vo, 1857–66.

Thacher, American Medical Biography, 2 vols. 8vo, 1828.

Thomas, Universal Biographical Dictionary, 2 vols. 8vo, 1871.

Tuckerman, Book of the Artists, 8vo, 1867.

Wheeler, History of North Carolina, 8vo, 1851.

Williams, American Medical Biography, 8vo, 1845.

Digitized by Google

DICTIONARY

OF

AMERICAN BIOGRAPHY.

Abascal (ä-bäs-käl′), Don José Fernando, Viceroy of Peru, b. Oviedo, 1743; d. Madrid, June 30, 1821. Entering the military service in 1762, he became a brigadier during the war with France, and in 1796 was sent as lieutenant of the king to defend Havana against the English. Called thence to the intendancy of New Galicia, his services there were rewarded in 1804 with the viceroyship of Peru. On his way thither, he fell into the hands of the English. By prudence and firmness he overcame various obstacles, and gained the confidence of the people. He established free schools, an academy of design, and chairs of medicine and surgery, at Lima, besides effecting important changes in its administrative Indian and police organizations. For these and other services, the Spanish Cortes, May 30, 1812, gave him the title of Marquis de la Concordia Española del Peru. Subsequent reverses caused his recall in 1816. The title of deputy-general was decreed him by the Junta of Asturias for his benefactions to the widows and orphans of the patriots of that province who died fighting for the national independence.

Abasola (ä-bä′-sō-lä), Mariano, Mexican revolutionist, b. near Dolores Guanajuto ab. 1780; shot in Chihuahua, July, 1811. He was a zealous supporter of Hidalgo, a colonel of his army; and at the capture of Riaño was conspicuous for courage, and humanity to the prisoners. He was at Las Cruces, and, after the disastrous battle of the Bridge of Calderon, fled to Saltillo with Hidalgo. Both were taken by Elizondo, March 21, 1811, and shot soon after; their bodies being publicly exposed on stakes, and left unburied until 1822.

Abbadie, d′ (dä-bä dē′), M., governor of Louisiana from 1763 to his death, Feb. 4, 1765. June 29, 1763, he arrived at New Orleans, where the French king had a factory, of which d'Abbadie was made director-general, with the powers of a military commandant. Ordered in 1764 to surrender the country to Spain, his grief at this duty caused his death. He protected the Indians, repressed the excesses of masters towards their slaves, and left a memory dear to all Louisianians. — O'Callaghan.

Abbeville, d′ (däb-vēl′), Claude, a Capuchin, author of "Histoire de la Mission des Pères Capucins en l'Isle de Maragnon;" d. Paris, 1632. The mission to the Island of Maranham (on the coast of Brazil) was undertaken in 1612.

Abbot, Abiel, D.D. (H. U. 1838), minister, b. Wilton, N.H., Dec. 14, 1765; d. West Cambridge, Ms., Jan. 31, 1859. H. U. 1787. Descended from George, who settled in Andover, Ms., 1643. His father, Abiel, was a major in the Revol. army. Soon after graduating, and until July, 1789, he was a teacher in Phillips Academy. After studying theology, and engaging in missionary labors in Maine and elsewhere, he was, from Jan. 1794 to Jan. 1795, Greek tutor at Cambridge. Ord. minister of Coventry, Ct., Oct. 28, 1795. June 6, 1811, he was deposed from the ministry on account of differences of opinion with his church. In Sept. 1811, he took charge of Dummer Academy; which, in April, 1819, he quitted for a farm in North Andover. Installed minister of Peterborough, N.H., June 27, 1827, he remained until his retirement in Sept. 1848. He was an able writer and popular preacher. In 1811, he pub. a statement of the Coventry difficulty; in 1829, a "History of Andover;" and a "Genealogy of the Abbot Family" in 1847. — Necrology, H. U.

Abbot, Abiel, D.D. (H. U. 1821), minister, b. Andover, Aug. 17, 1770; d. Staten Island, N.Y., June 7, 1828. H. U. 1792. After being an assistant in the Andover Academy, he was minister of Haverhill from June 8, 1795, to June 13, 1803; and then of Beverly until the winter of 1827–8; when he went to Charleston, S.C., for his health, and thence to Cuba. Returning in improved health, he preached at Charleston June 1, and sailed the next day for

Digitized by Google

New York, but died of yellow fever at the quarantine near that city. He was an eloquent and liberal preacher. His "Letters from Cuba" were pub. in Boston in 1829. His sermons, with a memoir by S. Everett, were pub., 12mo, 1831. — Abbot Genealogy.

Abbot, BENJAMIN, LL. D. (D. C. 1811), educator, b. Andover, Sept. 17, 1762; d. Exeter, N. H., Oct. 25, 1849. H. U. 1788. He was for fifty years principal of Phillips (Exeter) Academy; a position for which he possessed peculiar qualifications, — among them, dignified manners, an equal and happy temper, quick perception of character, and a native authority which secured obedience and affection. Under his charge, the institution was exceedingly popular. Among his pupils were Daniel Webster, Edward Everett, Jared Sparks, George Bancroft, and many others who became distinguished. He stood at the head of his profession in New England. Mary, his wife, sister of Thos. H. Perkins, merchant, of Boston, d. Exeter, March 17, 1863, a. 93 y. 10 mo.

Abbott, BENJAMIN V., b. Boston, June 4, 1830; AUSTIN, b. Dec. 18, 1831; and LYMAN, b. Roxbury, Dec. 18, 1835. The Abbott brothers, sons of Rev. JACOB, practise law in N. Y. City; and have jointly pub. Admiralty Reports, 1857; N. Y. Practice Reports; Forms of Pleading; Digest of N. Y.; C. P. Reports, 8 vols.; Digest of U. S. Statutes and Reports, 1789–1867, 4 vols.; Clerks' and Conveyancers' Assist.; Digest of the Law of Corporations, 2 vols., 1869; Treatise on the Practice and Jurisdiction of the U. S. Courts; many articles in law magazines; and "Conecut Corners," a novel in support of prohibitory temperance laws. — Allibone.

Abbot, HULL, minister of Charlestown, Ms., from Feb 5, 1724, to his death, April 19, 1774. B. Boston, June 15, 1702. H. U. 1720. Many years colleague with Rev. Simon Bradstreet. He pub. sermons on the "Artillery Election," 1735; on the "Rebellion in Scotland," 1746; "Against Swearing," 1747.

Abbott, REV. JACOB, author, b. Hallowell, Me., Nov. 14, 1803. Bowd Coll. 1820; And. Theol. Sem. 1825. JACOB, his father, b. Andover; d. Farmington, Me., Jan. 25, 1847, a. 70. Prof. of mathematics and nat. philos. Amh. Coll. 1825–9. Ord. Sept. 18, 1834, at Eliot Church, Boston Highlands; and was succeeded by his bro., Rev. J. S. C., Nov. 25, 1835. Among his many writings, chiefly for the young, are "The Young Christian," 1825, "Corner Stone," "Way to do Good," "Hoary-Head," and "Mac. Donner," "Teacher," "Summer in Scotland," 24 vols. of the "Rollo," "Lucy," and "Jonas" stories, and 30 vols. of juvenile biographies.

Abbott, JOHN, author of "The Natural History of the Rarer Lepidopterous Insects of Georgia," edited by Sir J. E. Smith, Lond. 1797, with 104 colored plates. Resided many years in Georgia.

Abbot, JOHN EMERY, clergyman, b. Exeter, N.H., Aug. 6, 1793; d. Salem, Ms., Oct. 7, 1819. Bowd. Coll. 1810. Son of Benjamin, principal of Phillips Academy, where he received his academical education. Ord. April 20, 1815, pastor of the church in Salem, as successor of Rev. Thomas Barnard, where he was highly esteemed for his literary acquirements and the liberality and candor of his religious views. His sermons, with a memoir by H. Ware, jun., were pub. in 1829.

Abbott, REV. JOHN STEVENS CABOT, author, bro. of Jacob, b. Brunswick, Me., Sept. 18, 1805. Bowd. Coll. 1825; And. Theol. Sem. 1829. Ord. Jan. 27, 1830. Settled in the ministry successively at Worcester, Roxbury, and Nantucket, Ms., Howe-st. Ch., N. Haven, 1861–6, and over the Second Ch., Fair Haven, Ct., 1869. His first work, "The Mother at Home," has been translated into various foreign languages. Among his principal publications are "The Child at Home;" "Abbott's Historical Series," 6 vols.; "Confidential Correspondence of Napoleon and Josephine;" "Napoleon at St. Helena;" "Memoirs of Napoleon," 2 vols. 8vo, 1855, and of Napoleon III.; "History of the French Revolution," and of the "Civil War in America;" "Life of Frederick the Great;" d. Fair Haven, Ct., June 17, 1877.

Abbot, SAMUEL, a founder and benefactor of the And. Theol. Sem., b. Andover, Ms.; d. there April 30, 1812, a. 80. Having a feeble constitution, he adopted the mercantile profession in Boston, and, acquiring wealth by integrity and methodical habits, devoted it to religious and charitable objects. Upon the establishment of the seminary at Andover, Aug. 31, 1807, he gave to it $20,000, and in his will left it $100,000 more.

Abbot, SAMUEL, inventor of the process by which starch is made from the potato, b. Wilton, N.H., March 3, 1786; d. there Jan. 2, 1839. H. U. 1808. Son of Major Abiel. Practised law at Dunstable, and afterwards at Ipswich. Burned to death in a starch-factory at Wilton.

Abeel, DAVID, an officer of the frigate "Alliance" in the Revol. war, d. N. Brunswick, N.J., Oct. 1840, a. 78.

Abeel, DAVID, D.D., missionary to China, b. N. Brunswick, N.J., June 12, 1804; d. Albany, Sept. 4, 1846. Educated principally at his native place. He was ord. to the ministry in 1826, and labored at Athens, N.Y., two years. His health failing, he went in Oct. 1829 as a missionary to China, and thence to Java, Batavia, Singapore, and Siam. Visiting Europe in 1833, on returning home he pub. "The Claims of the World to the Gospel;" "Residence in China" in 1829–33; and "Missionary Convention at Jerusalem," 1838. He went again to Canton in 1839; but, the "opium war" precluding his usefulness there, he visited Malacca, Borneo, and other places, and settled at Kolingsu. Ill health compelled him to return home in 1845, after beginning a mission at Amoy in 1842; and he died soon after. He was well qualified for his work by great practical judgment, good sense, and persevering energy. — Memoirs by Rev. G. R. Williamson, 1849.

Abeel, JOHN NELSON, D.D. (H. U. 1804), an eloquent Presbyterian minister, b. New York, 1769; d. there Jan. 20, 1812. Princeton Coll. 1787. He studied law while a tutor at Princeton, but began to preach, in Apr. 1793 in Phila. From the autumn of 1795 until his death, he was pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church in New York. He possessed a voice of much sweetness and melody.

Digitized by Google

Abercrombie, JAMES, of Glassaugh, a British gen., b. 1706; d. deputy-gov. of Stirling Castle, Apr. 28, 1781. Descended from a wealthy Scotch family, he entered the army; became a col. Apr. 16, 1746; maj.-gen. Jan. 31, 1756; lieut.-gen. Mar. 31, 1759; gen. May 25, 1772. Sent to America in June, 1756, with the rank of maj.-gen., to which he had been promoted for services on the Continent, he held the chief command until the arrival of Loudoun in Aug., and resumed the command on the return of that officer in 1758. July 8, 1758, at the head of 15,000 men, he attacked Ticonderoga with the bayonet, — a piece of folly which cost the lives of nearly 2,000 brave men. He still further displayed his incapacity by unnecessarily retreating to his intrenched camp on the south side of Lake George. Superseded by Amherst, he returned to England in 1759, and, as a member of parliament, supported the arbitrary measures which resulted in the independence of the United States.

Abercrombie, JAMES, his son, a lieut.-col., mortally wounded at Bunker's Hill; d. Boston, June 24, 1775. Made capt. 42d Highlanders, Feb. 16, 1756; aide-de-camp to Gen. Amherst, May 5, 1759; maj. 78th, July 25, 1760; lieut.-col. 22d, March 27, 1770. He led the grenadiers to the assault of Bunker's Hill; was a brave and noble-hearted soldier; and, while being borne from the field, begged his men to spare his old friend Putnam.

Abercrombie, JAMES, D.D. (N. J. Coll. 1804), clergyman and scholar, b. Phila. Jan. 26, 1758; d. there June 26, 1841. Phila. Coll. 1776. Ord. deacon and priest Dec. 29, 1793. He was for many years one of the associated rectors of Christ Church, St. Peter's, and St. John's, in that city; and was also widely and favorably known as a classical teacher. For impressive eloquence and classical acquirements, he was excelled by few.

Abercrombie, JOHN JOSEPH, brig.-gen. U. S. Vols., b. Tenn. 1802. West Point, 1822. His father emigrated from Scotland, was a volunteer in the Revol. army, and settled in Tennessee. Entering the 1st Infy., he was adjutant from 1825 to 1833; became capt. Sept. 4, 1836; brev. maj. for services in the Florida war, especially at Okechobee, Dec. 25, 1837; brev. lieut.-col. for gallantry at Monterey, where he was wounded Sept. 23, 1846; lieut.-col. 2d Infy. May 1, 1852; col. 7th Infy. Feb. 25, 1861; brev. brig.-gen. U. S. A. March 13, 1865; retired June 12, 1865; brig.-gen. of Vols. Aug. 31, 1861. He commanded a brigade in Patterson's division in May; in July was transferred to Banks's division on the Upper Potomac; and early in 1862 joined the army of McClellan, and was in the battles before Richmond, being slightly wounded at Fair Oaks; d. Roslyn, L. I. Jan. 3, 1877.

Abercromby, SIR ROBERT, a British gen., bro. of the celebrated Sir Ralph, b. Oct. 1740; d. near Stirling, Scotland, Nov. 3, 1827. Ensign in the 44th in July, 1758; capt. in 1761; lieut.-col. 37th, 1775; col. 1781; maj.-gen. 1790; lieut.-gen. 1797; gen. 1802. He served in Canada until its surrender by the French in 1763; commanded his regt. through the whole American war until captured at Yorktown, and was wounded at Monmouth He commanded the exped. which, May 7, 1778, destroyed the American shipping in the Delaware; May 1, 1778, surprised Gen. Lacey at Crooked Billet, Pa.; and, during the siege of Yorktown, led a successful sortie, capturing two batteries. He afterward served in India, where he succeeded Cornwallis in the chief command in 1793; and, at his death, was the oldest gen. in the service.

Abert (ā'bert), COL. JOHN JAMES, military engineer, b. Md. 1787; d. Washington, D.C., Jan. 27, 1863. West Point, 1811. He was employed in the war office in 1811–14; was in the battle of Bladensburg, Aug. 24, 1814; Nov. 22, 1814, was app. maj. of topographical engineers; became lieut.-col. Nov. 22, 1824; and Mar. 19, 1829, was placed in command of the corps of topographical engineers, and at the head of the topographical bureau, which was by his efforts made a distinct branch of the war dept. June 22, 1831. He was an Indian commissioner in 1832–3; and, on the reconstruction of the army, was appointed col. of his corps, July 7, 1838. The military topography of the United States was under his supervision until his retirement, Sept. 9, 1861.

Abert, COL. WM. STRETCH, son of J. J., b. Washington, D.C., Feb. 1, 1836; d. Galveston, Tex., Aug. 25, 1867. During the Rebellion, in which he rendered faithful service to the government, he was col. 3d Ms. Heavy Art., and brev. lieut.-col. U. S. A. for gallantry at Antietam.

Aboville, D' (dă-bo'vēl'), FRANÇOIS MARIE, Count, a French gen. of artillery, b. Brest, Jan. 23, 1730; d. Nov. 1, 1817. Entering the artillery, he disting. himself at the siege of Munster in 1759. He commanded in chief, with the grade of col., the artillery of Rochambeau's army, and directed its operations at the siege of Yorktown with great skill, earning promotion to the rank of brigadier, and the order of the Cincinnati, Maréchal de camp, in 1788. In 1792 he com., as lieut.-gen., the Army of the North and of the Ardennes, and in 1807 was gov. of Brest. Adhering in 1814 to the Bourbons, he was made a peer, and commander of the order of St. Louis.

Acamapixtle I. (ä-kä-mä-pitch'-tlee), king of the Aztecs from 1352 to his d. in 1389; was the legislator of his subjects; built roads, canals, and aqueducts; collected the scattered tribes together, and founded the city of Tenochtitlan, near Mexico.

Ackland, LADY CHRISTINA HARRIET CAROLINE FOX, dau. of Stephen, Earl of Illchester, and wife of Maj. John Dyke Ackland of Pixton, b. 1750; d. July 21, 1815. Her husband, maj. in the 20th foot, joined Burgoyne's exped. in 1776; disting. himself, and was severely wounded, and made prisoner, at the battle of Saratoga, Oct. 7, 1777. While on parole in New York, he alleviated the sufferings of the American prisoners there. He was a member of parliament, and d. Oct. 31,

Digitized by Google

1778. Lady Harriet, who accompanied him during Burgoyne's exped., is memorable for her sufferings and heroism during an anxious attendance upon her husband throughout the perils of a long campaign. The story related by Wilkinson in his memoirs, and often repeated, of her husband falling in a duel, her consequent insanity, and subsequent marriage to Mr. Brudenell, a chaplain in Burgoyne's army, lacks confirmation. Some authorities state that Maj. A. died from the effect of his wounds. Lady A. could never after hear an allusion to his name without tears. Her sister, Lady Susan, also came to America with her husband, William O'Brien, who held office under the crown, and returned to England during the war, by which he was a large loser in landed property

Acosta, JOAQUIN, an officer in the service of the republic of Colombia, travelled extensively there and in New Granada, and compiled a map of New Granada, with a history of the discovery and colonization of that country (Paris, 8vo, 1848). He also repub. the work of Caldas, cited by Humboldt, with notes and a preface; d. about 1862.

Acosta, JOSEPH D', a Spanish Jesuit and missionary, b. Medina del Campo, 1539; d. rector of the U. of Salamanca, Feb. 15, 1600. He spent some years subsequent to 1571 in the conversion of the Indians of S. America, and was afterwards a provincial in the Jesuit College in Peru. On his return to Spain, he pub., besides his missionary works, "The Natural and Moral History of the Indies," 8vo, 1590, translated into French in 1600; to which was afterward added De Natura Novi Orbis, libri duo, a work quoted by Robertson and others. He was at one time professor of theology at Ocaña.

Acrelius, ISRAEL, a Swedish clergyman, b. Osteraker, Dec. 25, 1714; d. Follingsbro', Apr. 25, 1800. U. of Upsal. Ord. 1743. App. provost of the Swedish congregations on the Delaware in 1749, and pastor of Christina. Reaching Phila. in Nov., he superintended successfully the ecclesiastical affairs of the Swedish colonists until obliged by ill health to resign in Nov. 1756. On his return, the king gave him a pension and the living of Fellingsbro'. Besides articles on America in the Swedish journals, and some religious works, he pub. a description of the Swedish colonies in America, 4to, Stockholm, 1759.

Acuña, D' (ä-koon'-yä), CHRISTOVAL, Jesuit and explorer, b. Burgos, 1597; d. Lima, ab. 1675. He was one of the early explorers of the River Amazon, and was sent to report the incidents of the exped. of 1639. On his return to Spain, he pub. at Madrid, in 4to, 1641, Nuevo Descubrimiento de Gran Rio de las Amazones. The copies of this work were all destroyed but two, one of which Gomberville translated into French in 1684. The work is accompanied with a curious dissertation. He subsequently went to the East Indies, returned to S. America, and died on the way from Panama to Lima.

Adair, JAMES, trader, and author of a history of the American Indians, 4to, 1775, London. The writer, who lived chiefly among the Chickasaws from 1735 to 1775, assigns to them a Hebrew origin, — an idea then regarded as visionary, but which has since found supporters; among them Dr. Boudinot in his "Star of the West." His argument is founded on their division into tribes, their language and customs.

Adair, JOHN, general, b. Chester Co., S.C., 1759; d. Harrodsburg, Ky., May 19, 1840. He served in the Revol. army; removed to Ky. in 1787; was a maj. under St. Clair and Wilkinson in the expeditions against the Northwestern Indians in 1791; was attacked by the Miami chief, "Little Turtle," in camp near Fort St. Clair, Nov. 6, 1792, and forced to retreat; and was lieut.-col. under Gen. Charles Scott in 1793. He was a volunteer aide to Gen. Shelby at the battle of the Thames, Oct. 5, 1813; made brig.-gen. of Ky. militia in Nov. 1814; and com. the Ky. troops with distinction at N. Orleans, under Gen. Jackson, in 1814–15. He was several years a representative of Mercer Co. in the Ky. legislature, of which body he was also speaker; was a member of the Ky. Const. Conv., and register of the U. S. Land Office; U. S. senator in 1805–6; gov. of Ky. 1820–24; and M. C. 1831–3, serving on the Committee on Military Affairs.

Adams, ABIGAIL, wife of Pres. John, b. Weymouth, Ms., Nov. 22, 1744; d. Quincy, Oct. 28, 1818. Dau. of Rev. William Smith. Feb. 24, 1764, she m. Mr. Adams, then a lawyer at Weymouth. She visited Europe while her husband was minister to England, in 1784–8; and during his Vice-Presidency and Presidency, 1789–1800, resided in Phila. Her letters were pub. by her grandson, Charles F., 4th ed. Boston, 1848, 12mo. They are interesting and valuable pictures of the Revol. period.

Adams, AMOS, minister of Roxbury, Ms., from Sept. 12, 1753, to his d. at Dorchester, Oct. 5, 1775, b. Medfield, Ms., Sept. 1, 1728. H. U. 1752. He was an ardent patriot, and was scribe of the convention of ministers at Watertown, which in May, 1775, recommended to the people to take up arms. He pub., besides sermons, two discourses on "Religious Liberty," 1767; "A Concise Historical View of New England," in two discourses; on the General Fast, Apr. 6, 1769, repub. London, 1770.

Adams, ANDREW, LL. D. (Y. C. 1796), jurist, b. Stratford, Ct., Jan. 1736; d. Litchfield, Nov. 26, 1797. Yale Coll. 1760. He was admitted to the bar of Fairfield Co.; practised law some time in Stamford; removed in 1764 to Litchfield; was a member of the legislature from 1776 to 1781; delegate to Congress in 1777–80 and 1781–2; member of the Council in 1781; app. judge of the Supreme Court in 1789, and chief-justice in 1793. He was an adroit and learned lawyer, and an able judge.

Adams, BENJAMIN, lawyer, b. Worcester, Ms., 1765; d. Uxbridge, Ms., March 28, 1837. B. U. 1788. He was an able lawyer, a member of the legislature in 1809–14, State senator in 1814–15 and 1822–25, and a useful member of Congress in 1816–21

Adams, CHARLES, historian of the "Patriot war," b. Arlington, Vt., Mar. 12,

Digitized by Google

1785; d. Burlington, Vt., Jan. 12, 1861. U. of Vt. 1804. He was an eminent lawyer, and held many public offices.

Adams, CHARLES BAKER, naturalist, b. Dorchester, Ms., Jan. 11, 1814; d. St. Thomas, Jan. 19, 1853. Amh. Coll. 1834. He studied at the And. Theol. Sem. two years, and then, with the Rev. Dr. Hitchcock, made a geological survey of New York. Tutor at Amh. Coll. 1837. From 1838 to Aug. 1847, he was prof. of chemistry and natural history in Middlebury Coll., and from 1847 to his death was prof. of astronomy and zoölogy at Amh. Coll. He made the geological survey of Vt. in 1845–7, and, between the years 1844 and 1851, made scientific explorations in Panama and several of the West India Islands. He was a member of numerous scientific societies, and, besides his geological reports of Vt., pub. eleven numbers of "Contributions to Conchology," "Monographs of Several Species of Shells," "Catalogue of Shells collected in Panama," N.Y., 1852, "Elements of Geology," and some papers in Silliman's Journal.

Adams, CHARLES FRANCIS, LL.D. (H.U. 1864), statesman, son of John Quincy Adams, b. Boston, Aug. 18, 1807. H. U. 1825. His boyhood was passed with his father at St. Petersburg. Accompanying his father in his mission to England in 1815, he was placed at school there until his return home in 1817. He studied law in the office of Daniel Webster, and was, in 1828, adm. to the bar, but never has practised. In 1829, he m. the youngest dau. of P. C. Brooks, a Boston millionnaire. Representative in the legisl. of Ms. 1831–4; senator 1835–7. Having left the Whig party, he was, in 1848, the candidate of the newly-organized Free Soil party for the Vice-Presidency. In 1845–8, he edited at Boston a daily paper which prepared the way for the present Republican party. M. C., for the district so long represented by his father, in 1859–61, and, from Mar. 1861 to Feb. 1868, minister to Great Britain, — a position which had been filled by his father and grandfather before him. This post was, during the great Rebellion, an exceedingly trying one; but he acquitted himself with great credit. He was a contributor to the North American Review and to the Christian Examiner, and has edited his grandfather's collected writings, with a Memoir by himself, in 10 vols. 8vo; "Letters of Mrs. Adams," 4th ed. 1848; and "Letters of John Adams addressed to his Wife;" also a "Life of John Adams," 2 vols. 1870. His son, JOHN QUINCY, b. Boston, Sept. 22, 1833 (H. U. 1853), has been several times democ. candidate for gov. of Ms.

Adams, DANIEL, M.D., physician, and author of school text-books, b. Townsend, Ms., Sept. 29, 1773; d. Keene, N.H., June 8, 1864. Dartm. Coll. 1797; M.D. 1822. He taught a select school in Boston in 1806–13; practised medicine in Lancaster, Boston, and Keene, N. H.; was State senator in N. H. in 1838–40; and was president of the N. H. Medical and Bible Societies. Besides an arithmetic, which was extensively used, and other school-books, he pub. an oration at Leominster, on the death of Washington; edited the Telescope, at Mt Vernon, and the Medical and Agricultural Register, at Boston. — Dartm. Coll. Alumni.

Adams, EBENEZER, educator, b. New Ipswich, N.H., Oct. 2, 1765; d. Hanover, Aug. 15, 1841. Dartm. Coll. 1791. Descendant of Henry of Devonshire, Eng., who settled in Braintree ab. 1630. Preceptor of Leicester Acad. in 1792–1806; then took charge of the Portland Acad.; prof. of mathematics in Phillips (Exeter) Acad.; prof. of languages at Dartm. Coll. in 1809–10, and of mathematics and natural philosophy there in 1810–33. Member of many scientific and literary societies.

Adams, EDWIN, comedian, b. Medford, Ms., Feb. 3, 1834. First appeared at the National Theatre, Boston, Aug. 29, 1853, as Stephen in "The Hunchback." His first appearance in Phila. was Sept. 20, 1854, at the Chestnut, as Charles Woodley in "The Soldier's Daughter." His first great hit was at the St. Charles Theatre, Baltimore. He has appeared as a star in all the principal cities of the U.S.; d. Phila. Oct. 28, 1877.

Adams, ELIPHALET, minister of New London, Ct., b. Dedham, Ms., Mar. 26, 1677; d. Oct. 4, 1753. H. U. 1694. Ord. Feb. 9, 1709. William, his father, was second minister of Dedham. A Diary kept by him, 1667–85, is in Ms. Hist. Coll. iv. 1. Eliphalet was a scholar of reputation, and pub. a number of sermons. His son William, also a minister, d. 1798. — Sprague.

Adams, HANNAH, historian, b. Medfield, Ms., 1755; d. Brookline, Ms., Nov. 15, 1831, and was the first person interred at Mt. Auburn Cemetery. Her father was a shopkeeper of literary tastes. Her mother d. when she was but two years of age. Evincing an early fondness for study, she obtained a knowledge of Latin and Greek from some divinity students boarding at her father's house. He failed in business when she was 17; and the children were obliged to provide for themselves. During the Revol. she supported herself by making lace, and teaching. She was, perhaps, the first of those literary women of whom our country has since been so prolific, and, though much esteemed as a writer, derived little pecuniary benefit from her literary labors. Her friends, however, contributed liberally to her support, raising for her declining years a comfortable annuity. Simple in her manners, she possessed rare modesty, and great excellence and purity of character. Small in stature, she was, in old age, very deaf, fond of strong tea, and an inveterate snuff-taker. She corresponded with learned men in Europe, among them, the Abbé Gregoire, who assisted her with material for her "History of the Jews." She pub. "View of Religions," 1784; "History of New England," 1799; "History of the Jews," 1812; "a Controversy with Dr. Morse," 1814; "Letters on the Gospels," 2d ed. 1826; and "Evidences of the Christian Religion," 1804. Her Autobiography, with a continuation by Mrs. G. G. Lee, was pub. in 1832.

Adams, ISAAC, inventor of the power printing-press in general use, b. Rochester, N.H., 1803; descended from Rev. Joseph of Newington, 1689–1783. His education was very limited. He first became a factory operative, afterwards learned the trade of a cabinet-maker; came to Boston ab. 1824, and went into a machine-shop. He invented a printing-press in 1828, which in 1834 he improved, making it substantially what it now is. With his bro. Seth, he engaged in the manufacture of these and other machines, and acquired a competency. Member Ms. senate.

Digitized by Google

Adams, JAMES HOPKINS, politician, b. S.C. ab. 1811; d. near Columbia, S.C., July 27, 1861. Yale Coll. 1831. He strongly opposed in the S. C. legisl. in 1830, the nullification doctrine; was subsequently a member of the Senate; was gov. of S. C. in 1855–7, and, after the passage of the "Secession Ordinance," was one of the commissioners to treat with the President concerning the U. S. property in South Carolina.

Adams, JASPER, D.D., educator, b. Medway, Ms., 1793; d. Charleston, S.C., Oct. 25, 1841. B. U. 1815. He studied theology; was prof. of mathematics in B. U. 1819–24; took charge of Charleston Coll. in 1824, and of Geneva Coll. in 1825–7; and was president of the former in 1827–36. He next occupied himself in preparing a treatise on moral science, pub. in 1837. He was in 1838–40 a prof. of geography, history, and ethics, in West Point Acad., and subsequently had charge of a seminary at Pendleton, S.C.

Adams, JOHN, poet and Cong. minister, b. 1704; d. Cambridge, Ms., Jan. 23, 1740. H.U. 1721. Son of Hon. John Adams of Nova Scotia. Settled minister of Newport, R.I., Apr. 11, 1728; dismissed Feb. 25, 1730, afterward settled in Phila. His poems (Boston, 1745) include the Book of Revelations in heroic verse, and evince a lively fancy, and a harmony of versification remarkable for that period. An ingenious and satirical piece on the love of money, pub. during his lifetime, is not included in this volume. He had genius and learning, and was a popular preacher; was "master of nine languages, and conversant with Greek, Latin, French, and Spanish authors."

Adams, JOHN, second President U.S., b. Braintree, now Quincy, Ms., Oct. 19, 1735; d. there July 4, 1826. H. U. 1755. His father was a selectman and farmer of limited means. He first taught school at Worcester, and began to study law; though his early inclination was for the army. Returning to Braintree in 1758, he acquired a good practice, and in 1764 m. Abigail Smith, a woman of superior abilities and sense. He was the author of the Instructions of the Town of Braintree to its Representatives on the Subject of the Stamp Act, which were adopted verbatim by more than 40 towns. App. by the town of Boston, together with Gridley and Otis, to support a memorial addressed to the governor and council that the courts might proceed with business without stamps, Adams opened the case, boldly taking the ground that the Stamp Act was absolutely void, parliament having no right to tax the Colonies. Some papers written by him at this time for the Boston Gazette were subsequently pub. as an "Essay on the Canon and Feudal Law." He moved to Boston in 1768; drafted the instructions to its representatives; and in 1770 was chosen to the General Court, notwithstanding his defence of Capt. Preston and his soldiers for the "Boston Massacre." He was from this time forward the chief legal adviser of the patriots, and a leader among them. Elected to the Provincial Council in 1773 and 1774, he was negatived by Gov. Hutchinson. Chosen a delegate to the Congress of 1774, he advocated resting colonial rights upon the law of nature as well as the law of England, and shaped the resolutions thereupon. On his return, he was chosen to the Provincial Congress. At this time, he wrote, under the signature of Novanglus, his reply to Massachusettensis, — a series of effective papers in vindication of the course of Great Britain. An abridgment of them was pub. in Almon's "Remembrancer" for 1775 as "A History of the Dispute with America;" and they have twice been repub. In the Continental Congress of 1775, he carried the practical measures of putting the Colonies in a state of defence; adopting the N. E. army about Boston; and also, to conciliate Virginia and the South, proposed Washington for the chief command. In Sept. he drew up, as one of the Committee of Naval Affairs, rules and regulations, the basis of our existing Naval Code. He urged upon Congress to advise all the provinces at once to institute governments of their own, which was done. His views upon State governments were printed under the title of "Thoughts on Government Applicable to the Present State of the American Colonies." Placed on the Committee on the Declaration of Independence, and also on that of Foreign Relations, upon him devolved the task of battling the Declaration through Congress in a three-days' debate. President of the Board of War, June 12, 1776–Dec. 1777, and was also chairman of the committee which decided appeals in admiralty cases from the State Courts. Appointed, Nov. 28, 1777, commissioner to France to supersede Deane, he reached Paris Apr. 8, 1778, and finding a want of harmony between the commissioners, Franklin and Lee, advised intrusting the mission to a single person. Franklin having been made sole ambassador, he returned home in time to take a seat in the State convention for forming a constitution, and took a leading part in its formation. App. by Congress minister to treat with Great Britain for peace and commerce, he sailed for France in Nov. 1779. Vergennes, the French minister, who distrusted him, finally obtained from Congress the recall of Mr. Adams's powers to negotiate a treaty of commerce, and the conjunction with him of several colleagues, of whom Franklin was one. In July, 1780, he went to Holland to negotiate a loan, and Apr. 19, 1782 was received as ambassador by the States-General, from whom he soon after obtained a loan of two million dollars, and with whom he made a treaty of amity and commerce. In Oct. he returned to Paris to assist in making the treaty of peace, and was chiefly instrumental in securing the fisheries to the U. S. With Franklin and Jay he negotiated a treaty of commerce with Great Britain. In the following winter, he negotiated another Dutch loan; was commissioned with Franklin and Jefferson to form treaties with foreign powers, and in May, 1785, went as minister to the court of St. James. While at this post, he prepared his "Defence of the American Constitutions." Recalled in Feb. 1788, on his arrival home, he was re-appointed a delegate to Congress, but did not take his seat, having been elected Vice-President of the U.S., receiving the next highest number of votes to Washington in the first Presidential election. He sustained the policy of Washington, giving, as president of the senate, his casting-vote in many important measures. The French Revol., to which he was opposed, led him to write his "Discourses on Davila," in which he controverted the radical democ. doctrines of the day. Chosen president by a small majority over Jefferson for the term beginning Mar. 4, 1797, his administration was vehemently opposed by the new party under the lead of Jefferson, called Republicans, who were friendly to the French Revol., while the Federal party were determined to preserve neutrality. The French Directory having issued decrees and orders highly injurious to American commerce, a navy was set on foot, an army partly levied, with Washington for commander-in-chief; and a quasi war with France ensued. Commissioners Ellsworth, Davie, and Murray, however, succeeded in arranging the matters in dispute with Bonaparte, then just elected consul. The heavy taxes to meet the expenses of warlike preparations, the ill-advised Alien and Sedition Law, and the charge of being under British influence, countenanced by Hamilton, destroyed Adams's popularity; and in the following election he received but 65 electoral votes, while Jefferson and Burr had 73 each. His subsequent life was passed in retirement at the homestead in Quincy. At the age of 85, he was chosen a delegate to the Convention to revise the Constitution of Ms., and was requested to preside, but declined. He lived to see his son President, and to receive Jefferson's congratulations upon it. By a remarkable coincidence, they both expired on the fiftieth anniversary of that Declaration of Independence in which they had both taken so active a part. His dau. Abigail m. Col. Wm. S. Smith, his secretary of legation in London. He wrote for the Boston Patriot many valuable contributions to the history of his times, a portion of which, entitled "Correspondence," was pub. 8vo, 1809. His Letters to Mr. Tudor led to the publication of the Life of Otis, and shed much light on the early history of the Revol. His grandson Charles Francis Adams has pub. his collected writings, including his "Autobiography." Among his other publications are "Twenty-six Letters on the American Revolution, written in Holland in 1780;" "Correspondence with W. Cunningham," 1823; and Letters on Government to Samuel Adams," 1802. Though courteous in manner, Mr. Adams was somewhat irritable in temper.

Digitized by Google

Adams John, maj.-gen. C.S.A., b. Tenn. 1825; killed at the battle of Franklin, Tenn., Nov. 30, 1864. West Point, 1846. Entering the 1st dragoons, he was brevetted 1st lieut. for gallantry at Santa Cruz de Rosales, Mar 16, 1848; capt. Nov. 30,1856; had seen considerable Indian fighting in Utah and N. Mexico; resigned Mar. 31, 1861, to join in the Rebellion.

Adams, John Quincy, sixth President of United States, b. Braintree, July 11, 1767; d. Washington, D.C., Feb. 23, 1848. H. U. 1787. Son of Pres. John Adams. He received his name of "Quincy" from his maternal grandfather, an influential citizen, who died just as his grandchild was born. In Feb. 1778, he accompanied his father in his mission to France, occupying himself, until his return in Aug. 1779, in studying the French and Latin languages; enjoying the special favor and friendship of Franklin. In Nov. he made a second visit to France, and resumed his studies, which were subsequently pursued at Amsterdam and at the U. of Leyden. In 1781, at the age of 14, he accompanied Mr. Dana to Russia as private sec. In 1782, he spent some time in Stockholm, Copenhagen, and Hamburg; accompanied his father to England, and, in 1784, to Paris; returning home early in 1785. After graduating at Harvard with disting. honor, he studied law with Theophilus Parsons, and practised at Boston, obtaining distinction as a political writer. Under the signature of "Publicola," in 1791, he advocated neutrality with France; suggesting doubts of the favorable issue of the French Revol. From 1794 to 1801, he was successively minister to Holland, England, and Prussia, receiving in 1798 a commission to negotiate a treaty of commerce with Sweden; and residing in Berlin from Nov. 1797, to Apr. 1801, when he was recalled. While here, he wrote his "Letters from Silesia." July 27, 1797, he m. Louisa, dau. of Joshua Johnson, consul at London, and niece of Thos. Johnson gov. of Md., and judge of the U. S. Supreme Court. In 1802, he was in the senate of Ms., and was in that of the U.S. from 1803, until, in 1808, he resigned on account of disagreement on the question of embargo with the Ms. legisl. His course in this matter led to a serious controversy between him and his colleague Timothy Pickering. From 1806 to 1809, he was prof. of rhetoric at H. U. Minister to Russia 1809–14, his influence at that court induced its offers of intervention, which culminated in the treaty of peace between Eng. and the U. S. He was one of the commissioners to negotiate that treaty at Ghent in 1814; after the signing of which, he, with Gallatin and Clay, negotiated at the court of St. James a commercial treaty with Great Britain, signed July 13, 1815. He remained in London as resident minister until Mar. 1817. While at St. Petersburg in 1811, he was app. a judge of the U. S. Supreme Court, but declined. A series of letters to his son on "The Bible and its Teachings," was written at this period. From 1817 to 1825, he was Sec. of State to President Monroe, whom he succeeded as President in 1825. In 1831, he was sent to Congress, where he was continued, by successive re-elections, until his death, which occurred suddenly in the Capitol. His last words were, "This is the last of earth: I am content." As a scholar, his attainments were various and profound. Congress devolved upon him the duty of pronouncing the eulogium upon Lafayette; and he also pronounced at Boston the funeral-orations upon Madison and Monroe. As Sec. of State, the claims on Spain were by his influence adjusted; Florida was added to the Union; and the republics of S. America recognized. Mr. Adams's administration favored the application of all the superfluous revenues of the country to internal improvements. The fearless stand which he maintained in Congress upon the right of petition was in the highest degree honorable to him. He looked upon slavery as an unmitigated curse. His voice was heard on nearly every important question before the House. When more than fourscore, he was yet "the Old Man Eloquent." Independent, manly, and patriotic, he never swerved from what he believed to be the path of duty; leaving behind him a high reputation for purity and disinterestedness. In 1810, his "Lectures on Rhetoric and Oratory" were pub.; "Letters on Freemasonry," in 1833; "Dermot MacMurrough," a poem, 1832; and, in 1848 "Poems of Religion and Society." A Memoir by Josiah Quincy was pub. in Boston, 8vo, 1858.

Digitized by Google

Adams, MATTHEW, writer, of Boston, d. Mar. 2, 1749. He was a merchant or tradesman, and had a large collection of books. Dr. Franklin acknowledges his obligations for access to his library. He contrib. essays to the New-England Journal, and pub. some poetical essays. His son JOHN, minister of Durham, N.H., 1748–78, b. June 19, 1725; d. June 4, 1792. H. U. 1745. Rev. HUGH, minister of Durham, bro. of Matthew. H. U. 1697, d. 1750. — See Drake's Boston, pp. 634, 675.

Adams, NATHANIEL, author, b. Portsmouth, N.H., 1756; d. Exeter, Aug. 5, 1829. Dartm. Coll. 1775. He began the study of law with Gen. Sullivan; but, before the expiration of his term, was app. clerk of the N.H. Superior Court, and for more than fifty years officiated in the courts of the State. He was the reporter of the first vol. of "Decisions of the N.H. Court," pub. 1819, and author of "Annals of Portsmouth," 1825; one of the founders of the N.H. Hist. Society.

Adams, NEHEMIAH, D.D., Cong. clergyman, b. Salem, Ms., Feb. 19 1806. H. U. 1826; And. Theol. Sem. 1829. Settled as colleague with Rev. Dr. Holmes of the First Church, Cambridge, Dec. 17, 1829, and since Mar. 26, 1834, has been pastor of the Essex-st Church, Boston. Many years an officer of the Amer. Tract Soc. and of the A. B. C. F. M. An eloquent and earnest preacher. Dr. Adams took an active part in the Unitarian controversy, and has pub. "Remarks on the Unitarian Belief;" "The Friends of Christ," 1851; "Autobiog. of Thos. Shepard," &c., 1832; "Life of John Eliot," 1847; "Southside View of Slavery," 1854, presenting a favorable view of the institution; "Correspondence with Gov. Wise of Va." on the same subject; occasional discourses, &c. He was a frequent contributor to the Spirit of the Pilgrims, Boston, 1826–33.

Adams, SAMUEL, one of the foremost of the Revol. patriots, b. Boston, Sept. 27, 1722; d. there Oct. 2, 1803. H. U. 1740. LL.D. 1792. Samuel and Pres. John Adams were great-grandsons of the son of Henry, the first emigrant. His father, Samuel, many years a rep. in the Ms. Assembly, d. 1747. He studied for the ministry. On receiving the degree of A. M. in 1743, he proposed, and took the affirmative in the discussion of, the question, "Whether it be lawful to resist the supreme magistrate, if the commonwealth cannot otherwise be preserved?" About the same time he pub. a pamphlet called Englishmen's Rights. Unsuccessful as a merchant, as a writer he soon became eminent, preserving by his efforts the estate of his father, which had been attached on account of the "Land Bank Bubble." His able writings in opposition to the administration of Shirley procured him public esteem and confidence. App. tax collector, his political opponents styled him "Samuel the Publican." He was a member of a political club which originated important measures; fomented hostility to the Stamp Act, the tea-duty, and other aggressive measures; and drew up the instructions of the town of Boston in May, 1764, to its representatives, against Grenville's schemes of parliamentary taxation. Elected a representative in 1765, he was chosen clerk, and for nearly ten years was the soul of that assembly. Courageous and ardent, he was yet prudent, and knew how to bend the passions of others to his purpose. He is said to have suggested the congress which assembled at N. Y. in 1765. In consequence of the act imposing duties, in 1767, Adams suggested the non-importation agreement, which took effect Jan. 1, 1769. On the day following the "massacre" of Mar. 5, 1770, he addressed a public meeting with impressive eloquence, and was chairman of the committee to demand of Gov. Hutchinson the immediate removal of the troops. The stern and inflexible patriot carried his point, and clearly exposed the fallacy of Hutchinson's reply to the demand. Committees of correspondence were in 1772 first adopted by Ms., on motion of Adams; and the plan was followed by all the provinces. To Gov. Gage's overture to him to make his peace with the king, he replied, "I trust I have long since made my peace with the King of kings. No personal considerations shall induce me to abandon the righteous cause of my country." He was one of those who matured the plan of a general congress; was one of the first delegates; and was an active member from Sept. 5, 1774, to 1781, rendering most important services to his country. The last official act of the British Government in Ms. was to proscribe John Hancock and Samuel Adams, June 12, 1775. He was one of the earliest and most zealous advocates of independence, which he had avowed as early as 1769, and which he wished to have declared immediately after the battle of Lexington. With John Adams he made the draft of the State Constitution, 1779, and also the address of the convention to the people. President of the senate of Ms. in 1781. Member of the convention which adopted the Federal Constitution in Feb. 1788, though objecting to some of its provisions: some of his amendments, afterwards agreed to, now form a part of that instrument. Lieut-gov. of Ms. 1789–94; gov. 1794–7. His only son, Samuel, b. Oct. 27, 1741 (H. U. 1770), studied medicine under Dr. Joseph Warren, served as a surgeon during the war, and d. Jan. 17, 1788. Though poor, Samuel Adams possessed a lofty and incorruptible spirit, was pure in morals, and grave and austere in manner, though warm in his feelings. An enthusiastic love of liberty, an inextinguishable hatred of tyranny, great promptness of decision, and inflexible firmness, were his prominent characteristics. His Revol. services were not surpassed by those of any individual. From the commencement of the disputes, he was incessantly employed, — writing State papers from 1765 to 1774, planning and organizing clubs and committees, haranguing in town-meetings, or filling the columns of the public prints adapted to the spirit and temper of the times. As a speaker, he was pure, concise, logical, and impressive; and the energy of his diction was not inferior to the depth of his mind. Jefferson attributed to him a greater share than to any other member of Congress in advising and directing its measures in the northern war. He was jealous of all delegated power, even in the hands of a Washington. He was a warm admirer of the French Revol., and belonged to the Republican or Jeffersonian party. His wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Rev. Samuel Checkley, whom he m. Oct. 17, 1749, was a most exemplary woman. Adams pub. a Letter to the Earl of Hillsborough, a Letter in Answer to Thomas Paine, in Defence of Christianity, and an Oration in 1776. Four Letters on Government were pub. in pamphlet form in 1800. — See Life and Public Services, with extracts from his writings, edited by his grandson, William V. Wells. 3 vols. 8vo, 1866.

Digitized by Google

Adams, Seth, inventor, b. Rochester, N.H., Apr. 13, 1807. Apprenticed to a cabinetmaker; removed to Boston in 1828; worked in a machine-shop; began business for himself in 1831; in 1833 became interested in the printing-press invented by his bro. Isaac; erected a new machine-shop in 1836, and embarked largely in manufacturing the new press, and established the firm of I. & S. Adams, which continued until 1856, with great pecuniary profit. In 1849 he began the business of sugar-refining; and in 1859 built in So. Boston an establishment for this purpose, which is one of the most noteworthy in the world. He has been a member of the city council and of the board of public works. M. A. of Bowd. Coll., to which he gave a considerable sum for the enlargement of their buildings; d. Boston, Dec. 6, 1873.

Adams, William, D.D. (N. Y. U. 1842), LL.D. (N. J. Coll. 1869); b. Colchester, Ct., 1807. Yale Coll. 1827. His father, John Adams, LL.D., principal of the Colchester Acad., and afterward of that at Andover, Ms., d. Jacksonville, Ill., Apr. 24, 1863, a. 90. Yale Coll. 1795. At 27 he left his N. E. parish to visit the South for his health, became pastor of the Broome-st. Church, N. Y. (1835–53), and has since been pastor of the New School Presbyterian Church, cor. 24th St. and Madison Ave., N.Y. City. Besides sermons, Dr. Adams has pub. "The Three Gardens, — Eden, Gethsemane, and Paradise."

Adams, William T., "Oliver Optic," writer of juvenile books, b. Medway, Ms., July 30, 1822. 20 years a teacher; for 6 years he was principal of the Boylston and Bowditch Schools, Boston. He has pub. "Boat Club," "Woodville," and "Army and Navy" series, 6 vols. each; "Riverdale," 12 vols.; "Young America Abroad," 6 vols., and "Starry Flag," 6 vols. These have been pub. by Messrs. Lee & Shepard, Boston, and have attained great popularity. He has for some years edited Oliver Optic's Magazine for Boys and Girls.

Adams, Winborn, Revol. officer of Durham, N.H., mortally wounded at the battle of Stillwater, Sept. 19, 1777. Capt. 2d N. H. regt., 1775; maj. in 1776; lieut.-col. in Reid's regt. in the spring of 1777.

Adams, Zabdiel, minister of Lunenburg, Ms., b. Braintree, Nov. 5, 1739; d. Mar. 1, 1801. H. U. 1759. Ord. Sept. 5, 1764. His father was uncle to Pres. John Adams. Ab. 1774, he pub. a pamphlet maintaining that a pastor had a negative upon the proceedings of the church. Some ministers, in consequence of embracing this doctrine, lost their parishes. He pub. sermons on "Church Music," 1771; "Christian Unity," 1772; "Election Sermon," 1781; on Apr. 19, 1783, and at the ordination of E. Whipple, 1788.

Addington, Isaac, sec. of the province of Ms., b. Jan. 22, 1645, in Boston; d. there Mar. 19, 1715. Son of Isaac Addington, surgeon, by Anne, sister of Gov. Leverett, and was bred to his father's profession. Member of the house of representatives and speaker in 1685; an assist. in 1686; was one of those who opposed the administration of Sir Edmund Andros, and on its overthrow, Apr. 1689, was chosen clerk of the Council of Safety, to whom the government was committed by the people. Sec. from his appointment in 1690 till his death, — a period of nearly 26 years. Judge of the Court of Common Pleas from 1693 to 1702, and chief justice of the Superior Court in 1702–3. He was many years chosen to the council, and was successively clerk, registrar, and judge of the Probate Court of Suffolk; holding the latter office from 1702 till 1715. He was as remarkable for his modesty as for his great integrity, wisdom, and industry.

Addison, Alexander, a disting. lawyer of Pittsburg, Pa., b. 1759; d. Nov. 24, 1807. He was judge of that circuit 12 years; was an accomplished scholar and a cultivated writer. He pub. "Observations on Gallatin's Speech," 1798; "Analysis of the Report of a Committee of the Va. Assembly," 1800; "Penn. Reports," 1800.

Adet (ä'dā'), Pierre Augustus, French politician and chemist, b. Paris, 1763; d. ab. 1832. Brought up in the artillery service, he quitted it to devote himself to the study of the sciences, but, engaging in politics, was successively chief of the administration of the Colonies, member of the council of mines, colleague of the minister of marine in 1793, resident at Geneva in 1794, ambassador to the U. S. in 1795–7; was afterward called to the tribunate; prefect of the Nievre in 1803; chosen to the senate in 1809, and to the chamber of deputies in 1814, as a constitutionalist. He pub. some chemical works. In 1796, he presented to congress, on the part of the French nation, the tricolored flag, and in 1797 sent to the Sec. of State the famous note in which the Directory declared that the flag of the republic would treat all neutral flags as they permitted themselves to be treated by the English,—a declaration regarded by our government as contrary to the tenor of the treaty of 1778. Adet then suspended his functions, and returned to France.

Digitized by Google

Adler, GEORGE J., Ph.D., author, b. Leipsic, Germany, 1821; d. Bloomingdale Insane Asylum, N.Y., Aug. 24, 1868. U. of N.Y. 1844. He came to the U.S. in 1833; was prof. of German at the U. of N.Y. from 1846 to 1854, and, until he lost his reason in 1860, was a teacher, and writer of text-books. Among his works are a German grammar, 1846; a reader, 1847; a dictionary, 1848, and a manual of German literature, 1853; a Latin grammar, 1858; translations of the "Iphigenia" of Goethe, and a history of Provençal Poetry, by C. C. Fauriel, 1860; notes on the Agamemnon of Æschylus, 1861; and his last, a "Review of Nathan the Wise," in Putnam's Magazine for Sept. 1868. He delivered lectures in N.Y. on "Roman Literature" in 1862, and in 1864 on Goethe's "Faust." His "Letters of a Lunatic" appeared in 1854.

Adrain, ROBERT, LL. D., mathematician, b. Carrickfergus, Ireland, Sept. 30, 1775; d. N. Brunswick, N.J., Aug. 10, 1843. He taught school. Was dangerously wounded in the Irish rebellion of 1798, in which he commanded a company; escaped pursuit, and, arriving in N.Y., taught school successively at Princeton, N.J., York and Reading, Pa., and was a contributor to a scientific journal pub. in N.Y., and to the Annalist in Phila.; prof. of mathematics and natural philosophy in Rutgers Coll. in 1810–13, and in Col. Coll. in 1813–25; from 1827 to 1834 was prof. of mathematics in the U. of Pa., and also vice-provost; and afterwards engaged in teaching in N.Y. He was a member of many scientific bodies in Europe and America; edited an improved edition of "Hutton's Mathematics," also a periodical, the Mathematical Diary, in 1825–8, and pub. papers on "The Figure and Magnitude of the Earth," and on "Gravity" in the periodicals of the day."

Agassiz (ă'-gă-see), LOUIS JOHN RUDOLPH, naturalist, b. in the parish of Motiers, near Lake Neufchâtel, Switzerland, May 28, 1807. Of Huguenot descent: his father was pastor of St. Imier. He studied at Bienne and the Coll. of Lausanne, at the Zurich medical school (1824–5), and at the universities of Heidelberg and Munich, besides attending, for four years, Schelling's lectures on philosophy. He aided Martius in his great work on Brazil, and, by the help of Cotta the publisher, was enabled to complete his "Natural History of the Fresh Water Fishes of Europe." Receiving at Erlangen the degree of Ph. D., and at Munich that of M. D., he next studied the fishes of the Danube, and gave seven years to the study of fossil fishes. He was enabled by Christenat, a friend of his father, to prosecute his studies in Paris, and was offered by Cuvier all his own collections. Returning in 1832 to Neufchâtel, he was app. prof. of natural history there. The liberality of Humboldt enabled him to pub. his great work on "Fossil Fishes," 5 vols. (1834–44), with a folio atlas. He arrived in Boston in 1846, intending to study the natural history and geology of the country, and lectured there on the animal kingdom and on the glaciers. Returning in the summer of 1847 from a journey south, Prof. Bache, superintendent of the U. S. Coast Survey, tendered him its facilities for the continuance of his labors, of which offer he availed himself, and has since resided in Cambridge, Ms. Prof. of zoölogy and geology in the Lawrence Scientific school, Cambridge, since its foundation in 1848; in which year he made, with some of his pupils, a scientific exploration of the shores of Lake Superior. In 1850, he spent the winter upon the reefs of Florida. While prof. of comp. anatomy in the Charleston (S. C.) Med. Coll. (1852–4), he studied the marine animals of that coast. In 1865, he explored Brazil, the results of which, "A Journey in Brazil," by Mrs. Agassiz, was pub. 1867, and another vol., by C. F. Hartt, in 1870. In 1861, he received the Copley Medal from the Royal Society of London. From the Acad. of Sciences, Paris, he has received the Monthyon Prize, for experimental philos., and the Cuvier Prize; the Wollaston medal from the Geolog. Soc., Lond.; and the Medal of Merit from the King of Prussia. Member of the leading scientific bodies, and contributor to the prominent scientific journals of Europe and America. LL.D. of the Universities of Dublin and Edinburgh. His researches upon the glaciers of the Alps are embodied in "Études sur les Glacières," 1840, and "Système Glaciale," 1847. Among his works are "Lake Superior," 8vo, 1850, and "Contributions to the Natural Hist. of the U. S.," of which four vols. only have yet appeared; "Methods of Study in Natural Hist.;" Geological Sketches," "The Structure of Animal Life," 8vo, 1862; and "Twelve Lectures on Comparative Embryology," before the Lowell Institute, Boston, 1849; d. Dec. 14, 1873.

Agate, FREDERICK S., artist, b. Sparta, N.Y., 1807; d. N.Y. City, May, 1844; visited Italy in 1835; was an assiduous student in art, but d. without leaving any works of very great interest. Of those he left, the best known are, "Dead Christ and Mother," "Columbus and the Egg," "The Ascension," and "Count Ugolino."

Agnel, HYACINTH R., teacher of French at West Point Milit. Acad. since Feb. 4, 1840, b. N. Y.; d. West Point, N. Y., ab. Feb. 15, 1871. Author of a "Treatise on Chess," 1867, and "Tabular System of French Instruction."

Agnew, JAMES, a British gen., killed at the battle of Germantown, Oct. 4, 1777. Maj. 58th Foot, Dec. 1757; lieut.-col. 44th, Dec. 1764; came to Boston late in 1775; was engaged at Brooklyn Heights, Aug. 27, 1776; when, as well as in the following campaign, be com. the 4th brigade of the royal army. He com. a detachment under Gov. Tryon, in his exped. to Danbury, Apr. 26, 1777, and was at the battle of Brandywine, where he was slightly wounded by a cannon-ball.

Digitized by Google

Aguirre (ä-gēr'-rā), Lope de, a Spanish adventurer. He went to Peru during the exped. of Orsua, in quest of the imaginary Eldorado (1560–61), a history of which has been written by Southey, and committed great atrocities. He prompted Orsua to seize supreme power, then killed him to obtain his place; and from that time committed frequent murders. He d. by violence in Venezuela.

Ahuitzol, emperor of the Aztecs ab. the close of the 15th century, is said to have enlarged his empire, and to have expended large sums in building canals and public edifices in Mexico. Tradition says, that, in 1486, he inaugurated a temple by the slaughter of 72,344 prisoners, the butchery lasting 43 days.

Aiken, William, statesman, b. Charleston, S.C., 1806. S. C. Coll. 1825. After travelling for some time in Europe, he returned in 1829, and in 1830 became the proprietor of Jehossee Island, 30 miles south of Charleston, where he employed 1,000 negroes, and cultivated near 2,000 acres of rice. Member of the State legisl. in 1838–40; State senator in 1842; governor in 1844–6; and representative to Congress from 1851 to 1857. A Democrat of the Calhoun school: he was supported by that party in Congress for the speakership, and lacked but one vote. He has contrib. largely to the local enterprises of that region, making large donations to the Orphan Asylum of Charleston, and contrib. to the endowment of the Charleston Coll. and other public institutions of his native city. He took no part in the Rebellion.

Aikman, Alexander, loyalist editor, b. Scotland, 1755; d. Prospect Pen, St. Andrews, Jamaica, July, 1838. At 16, he emigrated to Charleston, S.C., and was apprenticed to Robert Wells, printer. He left the country at the Revol., and settled in Jamaica, where he established the Jamaica Mercury, afterward the Royal Gazette. He was many years a member of the House of Assembly, and printer to that body and to the king. In 1795, he sailed for Great Britain, but was captured on the passage, and compelled to ransom his property.— Sabine.

Aillebout, Louis d', gov. of Canada 1647–51; d. Quebec, 1660. He came to Canada with colonists for the Island of Montreal; administered its government in the absence of Maisonneuve; was afterward gov. of Three Rivers, and, while gov. of Canada, endeavored, unsuccessfully, to form a combination with the N.-England governors to stop the encroachments of the Iroquois.— Morgan.

Ainslie, Hew, poet, b. Baugeny Mains, Carrick District, Ayrshire, Scotland, Apr. 5, 1792. He received a good education, and in his 17th year went to Glasgow to study law, but, disliking the pursuit, obtained a situation in the Register House, Edinburgh, passing some of his time at Kinniel House, as the amanuensis of Dugald Stewart, and left it in 1822 to emigrate to the U. S. He landed at N.Y. City July 26, and purchased a small farm in Hoosic, N.Y. In 1825, he removed to the West, tried New Harmony one year, and, finding it a failure, settled down as a brewer at Shippingport, Ky. In 1829, he built a brewery in Louisville, which was ruined by an inundation of the Ohio in 1832. Another in New Albany, Ind., was destroyed by fire in 1834. He has since employed himself in superintending the erection of breweries, mills, and distilleries, at the West, and is a resident of Louisville, Ky. On the eve of his departure from Scotland, Ainslie pub. "A Pilgrimage to the Land of Burns," a volume of notes interspersed with numerous songs and ballads suggested by a visit to his early home in Ayrshire. These, with his other songs, ballads, and poems, which originally appeared in various magazines, were pub. in 1855; d. Mar. 12, 1878.

Ainsworth, Laban, minister of Jaffrey, N.H., b. Woodstock, Ct., July 19, 1757; d. Jaffrey, N.H., Mar. 17, 1858. Dartm. Coll. 1778. Son of Capt. Wm. Ainsworth. Ord. first pastor of the church at Jaffrey, Dec. 10, 1782, he continued 49 years without a colleague, and was pastor over the same people 76 years. He retained his bodily and mental powers so as to participate at the public services at the church, celebrating his 100th birthday.

Aitken, Robert, printer and bookseller, b. Scotland, 1734; d. Phila., July, 1802. He came to Phila. in 1769; pub. the Pennsylvania Magazine, or American Monthly Museum, from Jan. 1775 to June, 1776, with Hopkinson and Witherspoon for contributors, and, for his attachment to the cause of liberty, was thrown into prison in 1777, and narrowly escaped a residence in the prison-ships of N. Y. In 1782, he pub. the first American edition of the Bible, by which he was pecuniarily a loser. He is the supposed author of "An Inquiry concerning the Principles of a Commercial System for the U.S.," 1787.

Akerly, Samuel, M. D., physician, b. 1785; d. Staten Island, July 6, 1845. Col. Coll. 1804. He studied medicine with his bro.-in-law, S. L. Mitchell. Besides being a large contributor to medical and scientific journals, he was a founder and most efficient supporter of the institutions for the deaf and dumb, and for the blind. Author of "Essay on the Geology of the Hudson River," 1820; "Observations on Deafness," 1821.

Akerman, Amos T., U.S., atty.-gen., app. Jan. 15, 1870, b. N.H. 1819; adm. to the bar in 1841; removed to Elberton, Ga. in 1850; U.S. atty. for Georgia, 1866–70.

Akers, Benjamin Paul, sculptor, b. Saccarappa, Me., July 10, 1825; d. Phila., May 21, 1861. At 18 he went to Portland, where he worked in a printing-office; but the sight of Chantrey's statue of Washington in the State House, Boston, led him to become a sculptor. In 1849, he opened a studio in Portland, and modelled busts of Longfellow, and others. In 1851–2, he visited Italy, and, on returning to Portland, modelled a statue of "Benjamin in Egypt," which was exhibited at the N Y. Crystal Palace in 1853. During a subsequent visit to Washington, he produced busts of Judge McLean, Edward Everett, Gerrit Smith, and Sam Houston. In Jan. 1855, he again visited Europe, residing two years in Rome, where he produced his "Una and the Lion," a statue of "St. Elizabeth of Hungary," the "Dead Pearl-Diver," and an ideal head of Milton, his last, and perhaps his best production in Rome. In 1859, he revisited Rome, where he modelled a statue of Com. M. C. Perry for the N.Y. Central Park. On returning to America in 1860, he established himself first in Portland, and then in Phila., where he died of consumption. He executed about 40 portrait busts and statues, besides some marble copies from the antique. He contrib. papers on art and artists to the Atlantic Monthly. His wife, Elizabeth Akers, has contrib. to juvenile literature under the pseudonym of "Florence Percy." A vol. of her poems was pub. in Boston in 1866.

Digitized by Google

Alaman (ä-lä-män'), Don Lucas, Mexican statesman, b. in the State of Guanaxuato; d. Mexico, June 2, 1855. Educated at the Coll. of La Minerva, he entered the Mexican army soon after the breaking-out of the war of independence. Soon relinquishing the military profession for that of the law, he devoted himself assiduously to politics. After the deposition of Iturbide, Alaman became minister of foreign affairs; retiring on the return of the former in 1824. He then visited Europe; but upon the overthrow of Guerrero in Dec. 1829, at the invitation of Bustamente, he resumed his former office. Out of a state of the greatest confusion, under his hands, the country soon emerged to a settled and orderly condition; and, during the years 1830–31, Alaman effected many useful reforms. He introduced European machinery, encouraged industrial undertakings, and established a bank for the encouragement of those engaged in manufactures. Santa Añna, however, believing Alaman to be interfering with his plans, succeeded in driving him from public life. He re-appeared in 1837, upon the return of Bustamente to power; and afterwards became reconciled with Santa Añna, who, Mar. 17, 1853, on again coming into power, conferred on him the office of minister for foreign affairs.

Alarcon, Hernando de, a Spanish navigator of the 16th century, to whom we owe the first precise knowledge of California. He sailed May 9, 1540, in the service of Spain; missed a junction with the exped. of Coronado on the western coast of America, and, returning to New Spain in 1541, drew up his maps and observations. His discoveries and those of Ulloa were so complete, that the map of California of 1541 differs little from that made in our own day.

Alarcon y Mendoza (ä-lar-kōn e mĕn-dó-thä), don Juan Ruiz de, a celebrated Spanish-American poet, b. of a noble family at Tashco, Mex. ab. 1600. He was employed in Spain in 1622; and in 1628 is named Relator del real Consejo de las Indias. At a celebrated fête in Madrid in 1634, he was a competitor, and bore off the prize, for a dramatic composition. A writer in the Nouvelle Biographie Universelle (Ferd. Denis) calls him "The greatest poet that America has yet produced." His comedies were pub. Madrid 1628; a second vol. in Barcelona, 1634. Some of his pieces have since been repub. in some Spanish collections; d. in Spain in 1639.

Alcott, Amos Bronson, teacher and philosopher, b. Wolcott, Ct., Nov. 29, 1799. While a boy, he was a vender of merchandise in a small way among the plantations of Va. On his return to Ct., he taught an infant school; removed to Boston in 1828, and acquired reputation as a teacher of young children at the Masonic Temple. (See "Record of a School," E. P. Peabody, Boston, 1834.) Mr. Alcott then removed to Concord, interesting himself in the study of natural theology, and the various questions of reform in education, diet, civil and social institutions. On his return from Eng. in 1842, he brought with him two of his English friends, Charles Lane and H. G. Wright; and Mr. Lane having bought a farm called "Fruitlands," at Harvard, Ms., they all went there to found a new community. Messrs. Lane and Wright soon returned to Eng., and the scheme was abandoned. Mr. Alcott removed to Boston, and has led the life of a peripatetic philosopher, conversing in cities and in villages, whenever invited, on theoretical and practical questions. He attaches great importance to diet, and government of the body, and to race and complexion. Author of "Tablets," pub. in 1868, and "Conversations with Children on the Gospels," 2 vols., 1836. Louisa May Alcott, his dau., is the author of "Little Women," "The Old-fashioned Girl," "Moods," "Hospital Sketches" (1863), "Aunt Joe's Scrap Bag," and "Little Men."

Alcott, Wm. Alex., M.D., physician and author, cousin of A. B. Alcott, b. Wolcott, Ct., Aug. 6, 1798; d. Auburndale, Ms., Mar. 29, 1859. Educated at a district school, he supported himself until 25 by farming and teaching. His health being poor, he studied medicine at Yale Med. School., practised physic a few years, and in 1832 engaged with William Woodbridge in preparing school-geographies and in editing "The Annals of Education" and "The Juvenile Rambler." He wrote upon school reforms in the Hartford and N. Haven papers, gaining a premium from the American Institute of Instruction for his article on the "Construction of Schoolhouses." Abandoning animal food and all drinks but water in 1830, his health gradually improved. Removing to Boston in June, 1833, he engaged in various reforms in morals, education, and physical training, having for his object the prevention of vice, disease, and poverty, and the dissemination of physiological knowledge. He lectured in different parts of the country. He pub. above 100 works, among them "Young Man's Guide;" "The House I Live In;" "Young Woman's Guide;" "Young Housekeeper;" "Library of Health," 6 vols.; "Moral Reform;" "My Progress in Error;" "Young Mother;" "Young Husband;" "Young Wife;" and "Prize Essay on Tobacco."

Alden, Ebenezer, M.D., b. Randolph, Ms., Mar. 17, 1788. H. U. 1808. M.D., U. of Penn. 1812. Practices medicine in R. Author of "Alden Memorial," 1867; "Memoir of Mrs. M. A. O. Clark," 1837; and "Hist. Sketch of Ms. Med. Soc.," 1838.

Digitized by Google

Alden, ICHABOD, col. Revol. army, b. Duxbury, Ms., Aug. 11, 1739; d. Nov. 10, 1778. His father, Capt. Samuel (d. 1781, a. 92), was grandson of John, one of the original settlers of Plymouth. Ichabod was lieut.-col. of the Plymouth regt. before the Revol., lieut.-col. of L. Baldwin's regt. at the siege of Boston, and col. 7th Mass. regt. until slain by the Indians at Cherry Valley.

Alden, JAMES, rear-admiral U. S. N., b. Portland, Me., Mar. 31, 1810. Midshipman Apr. 1, 1828; lieut. Feb. 25, 1841; commander, Sept. 14, 1855; capt. Jan. 2, 1863; commodore, July 25, 1866. Attached to Wilkes's exploring exped. in 1839–42. During the Mexican war was at Vera Cruz, Tuspan, and Tobasco; com. steamer "South Carolina" early in 1861; reenforced Fort Pickens; attacked the batteries in the rear of Galveston, and captured 13 schooners laden with merchandise; com. steam-sloop "Richmond" at the passage of Forts Jackson and St. Philip and capture of N. Orleans; at the passage of the Vicksburg batteries twice; at Port Hudson, 1862–3; com. steam-sloop "Brooklyn" in the action with Forts Morgan and Gaines and rebel gunboats in Mobile Bay; and in the two attacks on Fort Fisher. He took part in nearly all the great naval battles of the war, and was honorably mentioned in the official reports. App. in Apr. 1869 chief of the bureau of navigation, rear adm. July 1871.

Alden, JOHN, Pilgrim, b. England, 1599; d. Duxbury, Ms., Sept. 12, 1687. He was hired as a cooper at Southampton, where "The Mayflower" victualed, signed the compact in her cabin in 1620, and ab. 1621 m. Priscilla Mullens. He was many years an assist. to the governor; and by his wisdom, integrity, and decision attained a commanding influence over his associates, although the youngest of the Pilgrims.

Alden, JOSEPH, D.D. (Un. Coll. 1838), LL.D. (Coll. Col. 1857), b. Cairo, N.Y., Jan. 4, 1807. Un. Coll. 1829. He studied 2 years at the Princeton Sem.; was 2 years tutor in Princeton Coll. Ord. pastor at Williamstown, Ms., July 3, 1834; prof. in Williams Coll. from Aug. 1835 to 1852; prof. of moral philos. in Lafayette Coll., Pa. 1852–7; pres. of Jefferson Coll., Pa., 1857–67; and, since 1867, pres. of the N.Y. State Normal School. Author of numerous Sabb.-school books, "Elements of Intell. Philos.," "Science of Government in Connection with American Institutions," and "Christian Ethics." At one time editor, and long a contributor to the N. Y. Observer. — Alden Memorial.

Alden, ROGER, maj. Revol. army, b. Lebanon, Ct., 1748; d. West Point, Nov. 5, 1836. Y. C. 1773. Some time aide to Gen. Greene; agent of the Holland Land Co., residing at Meadville, Pa., from 1795 to 1825; ordnance storekeeper at West Point from Jan. 20, 1825, till his death.

Alden, TIMOTHY, D.D., Cong. clergyman and educator, b. Yarmouth, Ms., Aug. 28, 1771; d. Pittsburg, Pa., July 5, 1839. H. U. 1794. Son of Rev. Timothy of Yarmouth (H. U. 1762; d. Nov. 13, 1828). He was from Nov. 20, 1799, to Aug. 11, 1805, minister of Portsmouth, N.H., where he taught school from 1800 to 1803, and in 1810–17 taught in the acad. at Newark, N.J. Removing to N.Y., he prepared and pub. his collection of Epitaphs in 5 vols. 1814, and while teaching in Boston, in 1808–10, made the valuable Catalogue of the Library of the N. Y. Hist. Society. He next removed to Meadville, Pa., where he founded Alleghany Coll., of which he was first pres. (inaug. July 28, 1817), and for which he collected a valuable library. Want of patronage caused his withdrawal from the college Nov. 11, 1831; and he resumed educational labors in Cincinnati in 1832, and in 1834 took charge of an acad. at East Liberty, near Pittsburg, Pa. He pub. "An Account of Sundry Missions among the Senecas," N.Y. 12mo, 1827; "New-Jersey Register," 1811 and 1812; Alleghany Magazine, 1816; "History of the Pine-Creek Ch.," 1839. During the year before his death, he preached as stated supply to the people in Sharpsburg. — Sprague: Alden Memorial.

Alden, TIMOTHY, inventor of a machine for setting and distributing type, b. Barnstable, Ms., 1819; d. N.Y., Dec. 4, 1858. He was 6th in descent from John Alden, the Mayflower Pilgrim. When very young, and a compositor in his bro.'s printing-office, he said, "If I live, I will invent a machine to do this tiresome work." He steadily pursued this object, and after 20 years' labor accomplished it. It was improved after his death by Henry W. Alden.

Aldrich, JAMES, poet, b. near the Hudson, Suffolk Co., N.Y., 1810; d. N.Y., Oct. 1856. Educated partly in Orange Co., and partly in N.Y. City. In 1836 he quitted mercantile for literary pursuits. He edited several popular periodicals, and in 1840 established the Literary Gazette, in which first appeared many of the poems which established his reputation. One of these, "A Death-Bed Scene," is familiar to most readers. He subsequently engaged again in business under the style of Aldrich & Barton. — See Specimens of his poetry in Griswold's "Poets and Poetry of America."

Aldrich, THOMAS BAILEY, poet, b. Portsmouth, N.H., Nov. 11, 1836. He passed his youth in La.; was 3 years in a counting-house in N. Y.; then became "reader" for a large publishing-house; and was afterward a writer for the N. Y. Evening Mirror, and an editor on The Home Journal, and Saturday Press. He has contrib. many poems and prose sketches to Putnam's Monthly, The Knickerbocker, Harper's Monthly, and the Atlantic. His writings have been reprinted in Lond. He pub. "The Bells," 1854; "Daisy's Necklace," 1856; "The Ballad of Baby Bell, and other Poems;" "The Course of True Love," &c, 1858; "Pampinea, and other Poems," 1861; "Out of his Head," a prose romance, 1862; "Poems," 1863 and 1865; "The Story of a Bad Boy," 1869. — Duyckinck.

Aldridge, IRA, a mulatto actor of merit, b. at Bellair near Balt., Md., 1804; d. Lodz, Polonia, Aug. 7, 1867. Entering in 1826 the service of Edmund Kean, he is said to have accompanied him to Eng., where he studied for the stage. He subsequently made an unsuccessful attempt at the Mud Theatre, Balt., but shortly afterwards returned to Eng. He made his debut at the Royalty Theatre, Lond., as Othello; met with striking success at once; and though, in Eng., he was preferred in such plays as "Othello," "Merchant of Venice," "Zanga," "Orozemba," "Pizarro," "Hugo," &c., he was generally regarded as one of the ablest and most faithful interpreters of Shakspeare's best characters. He first appeared at Covent Garden Theatre, Apr. 10, 1833, as Othello. At Belfast, Ireland, he played Othello to Kean's Iago, and also Orozemba to his Alboin. Upon the Continent, where he performed in the principal cities, he received tokens of high approbation. The King of Prussia wrote him an autograph-letter accompanying the first-class medal of art and science. The Emperor of Austria conferred on him the grand cross of Leopold; and at Berne he received the medal of merit in the shape of a magnificent Maltese cross. His wife was a white woman.

Digitized by Google

Alemany, Joseph Sadoc, C.S.D., R. C. archbishop of California, consec. bishop of Monterey, June 30, 1850; made archb'p. July 29, 1853.

Alexander, Abraham, chairman of the famous Mecklenburg Convention in May, 1775; d. near Charlotte, N.C., Apr. 23, 1786, a. 68. He was a magistrate of Mecklenb. Co., and represented it in the colonial legisl.

Alexander, Archibald, D.D. (N.J. Coll. 1810), Presbyterian divine, b. Rockbridge Co., Va., Apr. 17, 1772; d. Princeton, N.J., Oct. 22, 1851. His grandfather, Archibald, came from Ireland to Pa. in 1736, removing ab. 1738 to Va. At the age of 10, he was sent to the acad. of Rev. Wm. Graham at Timber Ridge meeting-house. At the age of 17, he became tutor in the family of Gen. John Posey. He studied theology; was licensed Oct. 1, 1791; and was for seven years an itinerant missionary in his native State. Succeeding Dr. Smith in the presidency of Hampden Sidney Coll. in 1796, he resigned that, and also his pastoral charge, in 1801. In 1802, he m. Janetta, dau. of the celebrated blind preacher, Dr. Waddel, and resumed his former position at Hampden Sid. Coll., but, owing to the insubordination of the students, accepted a call from the Pine-st. Church, Phila., where he was installed pastor, May 20, 1807. From 1811 to his death, he was prof. of the theological semin'y at Princeton. Author of "Outlines of the Evidences of Christianity," 1823; "Treatise on the Canon of the Old and New Testament," 1826; "Lives of the Patriarchs," 1835; "Essays on Religious Experience," 1840; "History of African Colonization," 1846; "History of the Log College," 1846; "Advice to a Young Christian;" "Bible Dictionary;" "Counsels of the Aged to the Young," 1833; "Brief Compendium of Bible Truth;" "History of the Israelitish Nation," in 1852; "Moral Science," 1852; a Memoir of his old instructor, Mr. Graham; a "History of the Presbyterian Church in Va.;' and biographical sketches of distinguished American clergymen and alumni of the college of N.J. He also contributed to the Biblical Repertory and other periodicals, and left a number of works in manuscript. (See his life by his son, Dr. J. W. Alexander. N.Y., 1854.) — Sprague.

Alexander, Barton Stone, brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. Ky. 1819. West Point, 1842. 2d lieut. Eng. Corps Sept. 30, 1843; capt. July 1, 1856; brev. maj. July 21, 1861, for Bull Run; brev. lieut.-col. May 4, 1862, for siege of Yorktown; maj. Eng. Corps Mar. 3, 1863; lieut.-col. Mar. 7, 1867; brev. brig.-gen. Mar. 13, 1865, for merit. services in the Rebellion He has been much engaged in the construction and repairs of forts, and in the erection of Minot's Ledge Lighthouse, 1855–61; was a.d.c., rank of lieut.-col., on the staff in Va. during the Rebellion, and was consulting eng'r in Sheridan's army, Shenandoah Valley, Va., and present at the battle of Cedar Creek, Oct. 9, 1864. — Cullum.

Alexander, Caleb, D.D., clergyman and scholar, b. Northfield, Ms., 22 July, 1755; d. Onondaga, N.Y., April 12, 1828. Y. Coll. 1777. Minister of New Marlboro' 1781-2, and of Mendon from Apr. 12, 1786, to Dec. 7, 1802. Not succeeding in the attempt to establish a college at Fairfield, N.Y., he took charge of an acad. at Onondaga. He pub. Latin and English grammars; an "Essay on the Deity of Christ," 1796; "Grammar Elements;" a translation of Virgil into literal English prose, Worcester, 1796; "Columbian Dictionary," 1800; Arithmetic, 1802, and "Young Ladies' and Gentlemen's Instructor." — Sprague.

Alexander, Edmund B., col. U. S. A., b. Va. ab. 1802. West Point, 1823. Asst. Q.-M., rank of capt., 6 Dec. 1833; capt. 3d Infy. July 7, 1838; com. his regt. in Mexico in 1847; maj. 8th Infy. Nov. 10, 1851; col. 10th Infy. Mar. 3, 1855. Brev. for Cerro Gordo, Contreras, and Churubusco. In the spring of 1863, he was ordered to St. Louis as acting-asst. provo.-marshal-gen. Brev. brig.-gen. Oct. 18, 1865. Retired Feb. 22, 1869.

Alexander, James, sec. of the province of N.Y., b. Scotland; d. N.Y. Apr. 2, 1756. In 1715, he came to America in consequence of the part he had taken in favor of the Pretender, accompanied by Wm. Smith, afterward chief-justice of N.Y. He was the first recorder of Perth Amboy in 1718, but, having served as an officer of engineers in Scotland, was made surveyor-gen. of N.J. and N.Y. He devoted his leisure to the study of the law, in which he attained eminence; was many years a member of the legisl. and council; was deputy-clerk of the council in 1719, attorney-gen. in 1721–3, naval officer 1723–33; was a particular friend of Gov. Burnet, and by his industry and abilities acquired great wealth. One of the counsel for Zenger, the printer, he was arbitrarily excluded from the bar on that account in 1735, but, on a change of administration, was restored in 1737. A stanch advocate of liberal principles, he lost his life by repairing to Albany while suffering from severe illness, to oppose a ministerial project oppressive to the colony. He, with Franklin and others, founded the Amer. Philosophical Society. He was the father of Wm. Alexander, commonly known as Lord Stirling, and presumptive heir to the earldom of Stirling

Digitized by Google

Alexander, JAMES WADDELL, D.D., an eloquent Presb. clergyman and author, b. near Gordonsville, Louisa Co., Va., Mar. 13, 1804; d. at the Va. Springs, July 31, 1859. N.J. Coll. 1820. Eldest son of Dr. Archibald. Tutor in N.J. Coll. in 1824. He was a minister in Charlotte Co., Va., from 1825 to 1827; in Trenton, N.J., from 1829 to 1832, and of the Duane-st. Church, N.Y. City, from 1844 to 1851, when he was elected pastor of the Fifth-ave. Church Editor of the Presbyterian newspaper pub. in Phila. from 1830 to 1833; prof. of rhetoric and belles-lettres in N.J. Coll. in 1833–44; and from 1849 to 1851 prof. of ecclesiastical history and church government in the theological sem. at Princeton. The degree of D.D. was conferred on him by Lafayette Coll. Pa., in 1843, and by H. Coll. in 1854. He pub. a vol. of sermons entitled "Consolation;" "Thoughts on Family Worship;" "The Amer. Mechanic and Workingman;" a biography of his father, Dr. Archibald Alexander; "Discourses on Christian Faith and Practice," 1858; a vol. of "Sacramental Discourses," and "Gift to the Afflicted;" "Geography of the Bible," 1830; "Plain Words to a Young Communicant," 12mo; "Amer. Sunday School and its Adjuncts," Phila., 1856; numerous contributions to the Biblical Repertory and Princeton Review, and some of the publications of the American Tract Society. He wrote for the Literary World under the signature of "Cæsariensis." After his death, 2 vols. of his letters were pub. by Dr. Hall of Trenton.

Alexander, JOHN HENRY, chemist and physicist, b. Annapolis, Md., 1812; d. Baltimore, Mar. 2, 1867. In 1850, he pub. a "Universal Dictionary of Weights and Measures," of standard authority. In 1857, he was commissioner to England on international coinage, and, in the summer of 1866, was app. by Pres. Johnson a commissioner to the Paris Exhibition, but was taken fatally ill just before he was ab. to set sail. He had held many positions of honor and trust, and was learned on the subject of weights and measures and coins. Author of "Treatise on Mathematical Instruments," &c., 8vo, 1835; "Treatise on Levelling by F. W. Simms, with large additions," 8vo, 1838; "Contributions to the History of the Metallurgy of Iron," 1840; "Introits, or Ante-Communion Psalms," 12mo, 1844; "Reports on Standards of Weights and Measures for Md.," 8vo, 1846; "Catena Dominica," Phila. 12mo, "Reports on the new Map of Md.," 1838–40; "International Coinage," 8vo, Oxford, 1857. Various papers by him are in the scientific journals of Europe and the U.S. A memoir by Wm. Pinkney, read before the Md. Hist. Society, was pub. Baltimore, 8vo, 1867.

Alexander, JOSEPH ADDISON, D.D., a learned divine and author, b. Phila. Apr. 24, 1809; d. Princeton, N.J., Jan. 28, 1860. N.J. Coll. 1826. Son of Dr. Archibald. From 1830 to 1833, he was adjunct prof. of ancient languages and literature in his alma mater, and was prof. of biblical criticism and ecclesiastical history at Princeton Theol. Sem. from 1838 to 1852, when he was transferred to the chair of biblical and ecclesiastical history, which he held till his death. He received the degree of D.D. from Marshall Coll., Pa. His works are "A Translation of and Commentary on the Psalms," 3 vols.; "A Critical Commentary on the Prophecies of Isaiah," and an abridgment of the same; a vol. on primitive church government, and numerous essays in the Biblical Repertory and Princeton Review. He subsequently aided Dr. Hodge in preparing a commentary on the New Testament. He was an excellent linguist.—See a memoir by H. C. Alexander, 1869.

Alexander, DR. NATHANIEL, gov. of N. C. 1805–7, b. Mecklenburg, 1756; d. Salisbury, Mar. 8, 1808. Princeton Coll. 1776. He served in the Revol. army, and afterward practised medicine at the High Hills of Santee and Mecklenburg. He was several years a member of the legisl. and M.C. 1803–5.

Alexander, STEPHEN, LL.D. (Col. Coll. 1852), astronomer, b. Schenectady, N.Y., Sept. 1, 1806. Un. Coll. 1824; Princeton Theol. Sem. 1832. Tutor in N.J. Coll. in 1833, adjunct prof. of mathematics from 1834 to 1840, prof. of astronomy from 1840 to 1845, of mathematics from 1845 to 1854. He has since that period held the professorship of mechanics and astronomy. Author of many scientific papers, some of which have been translated and pub. in Europe. Among them is one on the "Physical Phenomena attendant upon Solar Eclipses," one on "The Fundamental Principles of Mathematics," one on "The Origin of the Forms and the Present Condition of some of the Clusters of Stars," on "The Form and Equatorial Diameter of the Asteroid Planet," and also on the "Harmonies in the arrangement of the Solar System." In 1860, he led an exped. to the coast of Labrador to observe the solar eclipse of July 18.

Alexander, WILLIAM, first earl of Stirling, created earl in 1633, b. 1580; d. Lond., Feb. 1640. Through the friendship of Sir Ferdinando Gorges, Sir Wm. received, Sept. 10, 1621, a patent, embracing the whole territory of Acadia, which was confirmed to him and his heirs by King James, and erected into a palatinate to be holden as a fief of the crown of Scotland. It resulted, however, only in losses and disappointments. He was knighted in 1613. Charles I. founded the order of Nova-Scotia baronets in Scotland to further the settlement. Sir Wm. was subsequently made sec. of State for Scotland, and created Viscount Canada. He was a poet of some merit. His uncle, John Alexander, was the ancestor of Lord Stirling of the Revol. army. He developed his colonization scheme in a pamphlet, "An Encouragement to Colonies," 1625; "The Map and Delineation of N. England," &c., 1630.

Alexander, WILLIAM, "Lord Stirling," maj.-gen. Revol. army, b. N.Y. City, 1726; d. Albany, 15 Jan. 1783. Son of Sec. James Alexander. He received the best education the country afforded; became the partner in business of his mother, the widow of David Provost; joined the commissariat of the British army, and, attracting the notice of Gov. Shirley, was for three years his aide-de-camp and private sec. Accompanying Shirley to Eng. in 1755, he was examined before the House of Commons in 1757, and commenced the prosecution of his claim to the earldom of Stirling, in which he was unsuccessful. Soon after his return in 1761, he m. the dau. of Philip Livingston. He succeeded his father as surveyor-gen., and, until the Revol., was a member of the prov. council. A prominent patriot, he was app. a col. in 1775, and Mar. 1776, was commis. brig.-gen. by Congress. When Gen. Lee left for the South, Stirling was left in command at N.Y. His bravery was conspicuous at the battle of Long Island, 27 Aug. 1776, and he was made prisoner, but was soon exchanged. Maj.-gen. Feb. 1777. Disting. at Brandywine and at Germantown, where he com. the reserve. At Monmouth, he com. the left wing, and so disposed his command as to aid in the success of the day. In 1781, he took command at Albany. He aided in founding a library for his native city in 1754, and in the founding of King's, now Col. Coll. His youngest dau. m. Col. Wm. Duer. He pub. "An Account of the Comet of June and July, 1770," in Am. Philos. Coll., and "The Conduct of Maj.-Gen. Shirley Briefly Stated." He was convivial in his habits, and dignified in his appearance, and displayed considerable scientific attainments. — See Life of Lord Stirling by his grandson, Wm. A. Duer, in N.J. Hist. Coll.

Digitized by Google

Alexander, WILLIAM, of the U. of Penn., author of "Poetical Works," and sketch of his life. Phila., 1847.

Alford, JOHN, founder of the professorship of natural religion, moral philosophy, and civil polity in Harvard Coll., bap. July 5, 1685; d. Charlestown, Ms., Sept. 29, 1761. He had been a member of the colonial council. His executors divided his bequest for "charitable uses" equally between Harvard Coll., Princeton Coll., and the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel among the Indians. To the latter $10,675 was paid in 1787.

Alger, CYRUS, iron-founder, b. W. Bridgewater, Ms., 1782; d. Feb. 4, 1856. He commenced early in life the business of an iron-founder at Easton, but in 1809 established himself in South Boston; made many improvements in the art of casting, and was particularly celebrated for the excellent cannon which were made at his establishment. He was prominent in various projects beneficial to South Boston. He was liberal and charitable, was a member of the city council the first year of its organization, and alderman in 1824 and 1827.

Alger, REV. HORATIO, jun., author, b. N. Chelsea, Ms, Jan. 13, 1834. H. U. 1852; Camb. Theol. School 1860. From 1852 to 1857, he was a teacher, and wrote for the Boston and N.Y. press. In 1861, he made a European tour. From 1861 to 1864, he was a private tutor at Cambridge. Dec. 8, 1864, he was ord. over a Unitarian Church at Brewster, Ms. He pub. "Bertha's Christmas Vision," 1855; "Nothing to Do, a Tilt at our Best Society," a poem, 1857; "Frank's Campaign; or, What Boys Can Do," 1864; "Paul Preston's Charge," 1865; and has contributed a number of poems to Harper's Weekly and other periodicals.

Alger, WILLIAM ROUNSEVILLE, clergyman and author, b. Freetown, Ms., Dec. 30, 1822. Camb. Theol. School, 1847. In that year he became minister of a Unitarian society at Roxbury, and in 1855 exchanged for a similar charge in Boston. He now preaches at the Music Hall, Boston. He pub. "A Symbolic History of the Cross of Christ," 1851; "The Poetry of the East," 1856. His chief work is "A Critical History of the Doctrines of a Future Life," with a Complete Bibliography of the Subject, by Ezra Abbot, 1864. He also edited with an introduction, in 1858, "Studies of Christianity by James Martineau." Contrib. to the Christian Examiner and other periodicals. — Duyckinck.

Alison, FRANCIS, D.D., Presb. divine and scholar, b. Lac, Donegal Co., Ireland, 1705; d. Phila. Nov. 28, 1779. U. of Glasgow. He came to America in 1735; was pastor of a church at New London, Pa., until 1752, when he took charge of an acad. in Phila. He had previously taught school at New London, and was the tutor of many of the eminent men of the Revol. From 1755 until his death, he was vice-provost, and prof. of moral philosophy of the College of Phila., and pastor of the First Church. In Aug. 1758, he was chaplain to Col. Byrd's exped. to Fort Cumberland. He received the degree of D.D. from the U. of Glasgow in 1758. By his will he freed all his slaves. May 24, 1758, he preached before the synods of N.Y. and Pa. a sermon, entitled "Peace and Unity recommended." — Sprague.

Allan, COL. JOHN, Revol. patriot, b. Edinburgh Castle, Scotland, Jan. 13, 1746; d. Lubec, Me., Feb. 7, 1805. Wm. his father, a retired British officer, emigrated to Nova Scotia in 1749. John engaged in agricultural and mercantile pursuits near Fort Cumberland; became a justice of the peace, clerk of the Supreme Court, and was a member of the Provincial Assembly in 1770–6. Sympathizing with the Americans in their struggle for liberty, he secured to them the friendship of the Indian tribes in his vicinity, and applied personally to Congress, who app. him superintendent of the Eastern Indians and a col. in the army in Jan. 1777. The authorities of N. S. offered a reward of £100 for his apprehension; and during the struggle, his house was burned and his wife kept for months in prison at Halifax. Col. Allan rendered great service to the patriot cause, and, with his Indian allies, protected the exposed north-eastern frontier. In 1784, he settled in Maine. He received from the govt. of Ms. 22,000 acres of wild land (now the town of Whiting) in 1792, and in 1801, in consequence of losses incurred by him in the war, a grant from Congress of 2,000 acres in Ohio, where Columbus now stands, but then of little value. — See "Military Operations in Eastern Maine and Nova Scotia," by Frederic Kidder.

Digitized by Google

Allen, Rev. Benjamin, rector of St. Paul's Church, Phila.; d. at sea on his return from Europe, Jan. 27, 1829. Author of "Hist. of the Church of Christ," 2 vols. 1833. Editor of the Christian Magazine. — See Memoir by his brother, Phila., 1832.

Allen, Charles, LL.D. (H. U. 1863), jurist and statesman, b. Worcester, Ms., Aug. 9, 1797; d. there Aug. 6, 1869. Adm. to the bar in 1818, he began practice at New Braintree, but soon removed to Worcester. Many years a member of the State legisl.; member of the North-eastern Boundary Commission in 1842; Judge C. C. P. 1842–4; chief-justice Suffolk Co. Sup. Court 1858–9, and of the Mass. Sup. Court 1859–67; M. C. 1849–53. One of the founders of the Free Soil party; editor of the Boston Whig, afterwards called the Republican. An influential member of the Const. Conv. of 1853, and a delegate to the Peace Congress in 1861. A sound lawyer, and an able and upright judge. He rec'd an hon. degree from Y. C. in 1836. State senator in 1835, 1838 and 1839.

Allen, David Oliver, D.D., missionary, b. Barre, Ms., 1804; d. Lowell, Ms., July 17, 1863. Amh. Coll. 1823. After working on a farm, and teaching, he studied at the And. Theol. Sem., and in Sept. 1827, went to Bombay. There he labored until his return in June, 1853; and in 1856 pub. a "History of India." From 1856 to 1860, he preached at Wenham and other places. Myra his wife d. Bombay, Feb. 5, 1831. He contrib. extensively to journals in India and America. Member of the "Royal Asiatic" and "American Oriental" societies.

Allen, Ebenezer, Revol. soldier, and one of the founders of Vt.; d. 1805. He was at the capture of Ticonderoga and Mount Defiance, and disting. himself in the battle of Bennington. — Rogers.

Allen, Ephraim W., printer, and 30 years editor of the Newburyport Herald, b. about 1780; d. Mar. 9, 1846.

Allen, Ethan, Revol. soldier, b. Litchfield, Ct., Jan. 10, 1737; d. Burlington, Vt., Feb. 12, 1789. His parents removed to Cornwall, and subsequently to Salisbury; where, in 1762, Ethan was one of the proprietors of the iron furnace. Of six brothers who received the bare rudiments of education, four emigrated in 1772 to the territory west of the Green Mountains, where Ethan had preceded them in 1766, and where they became renowned in the border feuds and in the Revol. struggle. This territory called "The New-Hampshire Grants," was claimed by N. Y.; but the settlers, under the lead of Allen, seconded by Seth Warner and Remember Baker, resisted their sheriffs and constables, and held them at bay, until the Revol. turned the efforts of all in another direction. During this controversy, several pamphlets were written by Allen, and in his peculiar manner, which were well suited to the state of public feeling, exhibiting the injustice of the claims. The State of N. Y. declared Allen an outlaw, and offered a reward of £150 for his capture. Immediately after the battle of Lexington, a plan for the capture of Ticonderoga was matured in Hartford; and Edward Mott and Noah Phelps with 16 men were joined by Cols. Easton and Brown at Pittsfield, and by Allen at Bennington, who was chosen to command. At Castleton, they were joined by Arnold, who had been commissioned by the Massachusetts Committee to raise 400 men for the same object, and who, it is said, accompanied the expedition as a volunteer. They arrived at the lake opposite the fortress, on the evening of May 9; and at daybreak, Allen, with 83 men, surprised the garrison, and captured the stronghold with all its valuable stores. The capture of Crown Point by Col. Warner the same day, and of a sloop-of-war soon after, gave them the mastery of Lake Champlain, and gave a brilliant éclat to the opening of the war. His success as a partisan, occasioned his being twice despatched into Canada, during the fall of 1775, to gain over the Canadians to the American cause. In the last of these expeditions, he undertook, in conjunction with Col. Brown, the capture of Montreal. Crossing the river with 110 men on the morning of Sept. 25, he was attacked by a large force, before Col. Brown could effect a junction, and made prisoner. He was put in irons, and treated with great severity by Gen. Prescott; then sent to Eng., and treated with extreme cruelty on the passage, by Brooke Watson. After three weeks' confinement in Pendennis Castle, he was, in Jan. 1776, sent to Halifax; and, five months after, was removed to N. Y. He experienced great kindness from the captain; and, while on the passage, his refusal to join in an attempt to seize the vessel, prevented the execution of the plan. May 6, 1778, he was exchanged for Col. Campbell, returned to Vt., where he was received with honors, and given the command of the militia; receiving also from Congress the commission of lieut.-col. in the Continental Army. A fruitless attempt was made by the British, through Beverley Robinson, to bribe him to lend his support to a union of Vt. with Canada, the only result of which was, that, by feigning negotiations, Allen was able to secure the neutrality of the British towards his mountaineers until the close of the war. As a member of the State legisl. and a special delegate to Congress, he succeeded in his great object, — the ultimate recognition of Vt. as an independent State. Before the end of the war, he removed to Bennington, thence to Arlington, and finally to the vicinity of Onion River, where he died. Two of his sons, graduates of West Point, became capts. of artillery. Besides a narrative of his captivity, and some pamphlets on the Controversy with N. Y., he pub. in 1784 "Allen's Theology, or the Oracles of Reason," the first publication in the U. S. openly directed against the Christian religion. He was a brave, generous, and independent man, but was eccentric and ambitious. A Life by Hugh Moore was pub. Plattsburg, 12mo, 1834; "Ethan Allen, and the Green Mountain Heroes of '76," by H. DePuy, 8vo, Buffalo, 1853. There is also a memoir in Sparks's Amer. Biog., vol. i.

Allen, Heman, LL.D., lawyer and politician of Colchester, Vt., b. Poultney, Vt., Feb. 23, 1779; d. Highgate, Vt., Apr. 9, 1852.

Digitized by Google

Dartm. Coll. 1795. Son of Maj. Heber, and nephew of Ethan Allen. He adopted the profession of the law, was sheriff of Chittenden Co. in 1808–9; chief-justice of the county court from 1811 to 1814; an active member of the State legisl. from 1812 to 1817; quartermaster of militia with the title of brigadier; and a trustee of the U. of Vt. M. C. 1817–18. U. S. marshal for the District of Vt. 1818–23. He was minister to Chili in 1823–7, and held the Presidency of the U. S. Branch Bank at Burlington, from 1830 until the expiration of its charter. — Dartm. Coll. Alumni.

Allen, Henry, a religious enthusiast, b. Newport, R.I., June 14, 1748; d. Northampton, N.H., Feb. 2, 1784. He was settled at Falmouth, N. S., where he taught that our first parents were not corporeal before the Fall, that there will be no resurrection of the body, and that men are not bound to obey the ordinances of the gospel. He pub. some treatises and sermons, and a book of lyrics.

Allen, Henry Watkins, statesman and soldier, b. Prince Edward Co., Va., Apr. 29, 1820; d. city of Mexico, Apr. 22, 1866. His father, Dr. Thomas Allen, removed to Lexington, Mo. Disliking mercantile life, the son was placed in Marion Coll., but ran away two years after; became a teacher at Grand Gulf, Mpi.; studied law, and had attained a successful practice, when, in 1842, he raised a company for the Texan war. After its close, he returned, married, and in 1846 was elected to the State legisl. He afterward settled on his estate at West Baton Rouge; and in 1853 was in the La. legisl. In 1854, he went to Cambridge U. as a law-student. He visited Europe in 1859, one result of which was a volume of "Travels of a Sugar-Planter." Re-entering the legisl., he became a prominent speaker, and, when Buchanan became Pres., left the Whig for the Democ. party. When the Rebellion broke out, he was made lieut.-col., and then col., of the 4th La., and afterward military gov. of Jackson. He was wounded at Shiloh, com. a brigade at Baton Rouge, where he was desperately wounded; was made brig.-gen. in Sept. 1864, but almost immediately after was elected gov. of La. In this position, he showed great ability, improving the finances of the State, encouraging manufactures, and enforcing the laws. At the close of the war, he took up his residence in Mexico, where he established the Mexican Times, which he edited until his death. — See "Recollections of Henry W. Allen," by Mrs. Sarah A. Dorsey. N.Y., 1867.

Allen, Ira, one of the founders of Vt., b. Cornwall, Ct., Apr. 21, 1751; d. Phila., Jan 7, 1814. A younger bro. of Ethan, he went with him to Vt., and took part with him in the controversy with N.Y. He was an active patriot; was a member of the legisl. in 1776–7; a member of the convention which framed the constitution of Vt. in 1778; was sec. of State, and subsequently surveyor-gen., and treasurer, and member of the council. Upon Burgoyne's advance, Allen, then a member of the Committee of Safety and a col. of militia, suggested the raising a regt. by the confiscation and sale of Tory property. It was soon raised, and, together with that of Col. Warner, did good service in the battle of Bennington. With Messrs. Bradley and Fox, he was a commissioner to Congress in 1780–81, in behalf of Vt., and in opposition to the claims of neighboring States. In Apr. 1781, he was app. to settle a cartel, and also to agree to an armistice with the British troops in Canada, which was accordingly done. These politic measures brought about a final settlement of the difficulties with N.Y., whose claims were extinguished upon the payment of $30,000. In 1789, he drew up a memorial in favor of the establishment of the University at Burlington. In Mar. 1792, he was a delegate to the convention which ratified the U.S. Constitution. In 1795, having become senior maj.-gen. of militia, he went to Europe to purchase arms for the supply of his State. On his way home with the muskets and cannon purchased of the French Republic, he was taken and carried to Eng., where, after a litigation of eight years in the Court of Admiralty, on the accusation of intending to supply the Irish rebels with arms, the case was decided in his favor. In 1798, he was imprisoned in France, and returned home in 1801. He was the author of a "Natural and Political History of Vermont," 8vo, London, 1798, and of "Statements Appended to the Olive Branch," 1807.

Allen, Isaac, lawyer and loyalist of Trenton, N.J.; d. Fredericton, N.B., 1806, a. 65. N.J. Coll. 1762. In 1782, he was lieut.-col. of the 2d batt. of N.J. Vols. One of the grantees of St. John, N.B., he held a seat in the council, and was a judge of the Supreme Court. — Sabine.

Allen, James, clergyman, b. Eng., 1632; d. Boston, Sept. 22, 1710. Fellow of New Coll., Oxford. Having been ejected for nonconformity, he came to N.E. in 1662, with a high reputation as a scholar and divine, and was ord. Dec. 9, 1668, as colleague with Mr. Davenport in the First Church, Boston. In 1669, 17 ministers pub. their testimony against the conduct of Allen and Davenport in regard to the settlement of the latter. This controversy between the 1st and 3d churches interested the whole Colony. The General Court having, in 1670, declared the conduct of those churches and elders who assisted in establishing the 3d church illegal and disorderly, at its next session, some of the members being changed, the censure was taken off. Mr. Allen possessed great zeal and influence, and took a deep interest in Harvard Coll., of which corporation he was several years a member. He pub. occasional sermons and essays on polemic divinity.

Allen, James, first minister of Brookline, Ms., b. Roxbury, 1692; d. Feb. 18, 1747. H. U. 1710. Ord. Nov. 5, 1718. In 1722, he pub. a "Thanksgiving Sermon," in 1727 a "Discourse on Providence;" a "Fast Sermon on the Great Earthquake in 1731."

Allen, James, poet, b. Boston, July 24, 1739; d. there Oct. 21, 1808. The son of a wealthy merchant, he studied at Harvard Coll. but left it at the end of the third year. His chief production, "Lines on the Massacre," written at the request of Dr. Warren, to accompany the oration which he delivered, was suppressed by the committee having the subject in charge, owing to suspicions of his political faith. His friends, indignant at this treatment, pub. it, with extracts from the "Retrospect," also by Allen, which they accompanied by a vindication of the author's political soundness and poetical merits: pub. Boston, 1772. He also wrote a patriotic epic, entitled "Bunker Hill," now supposed to be lost, and a few magazine pieces.—Duyckinck.

Digitized by Google

Allen, Col. John, b. Rockbridge Co., Va., Dec. 30, 1772; killed in battle of the River Raisin, Jan. 22, 1813. His father was an early settler in Ky. The son was educated at Dr. Priestley's acad. at Bardstown; settled in the practice of law at Shelbyville in 1795, and attained high rank in the profession. Early in 1812, he raised a regt. of riflemen, part of which was in the action at Brownstown, Jan. 18, 1813. It formed the left wing of the American force at the disastrous battle of the River Raisin. — Collins's Hist. of Kentucky.

Allen, Joseph, b. Boston, Sept. 2, 1749; d. Worcester, Sept. 2, 1827. H. U. 1774. His mother was a sister of Samuel Adams. He was a merchant in Leicester, Ms., and an active Whig; a member of the State Const. Conv., 1778; clerk of Worcester Co. court from 1776 to 1810; M. C. 1811–13; councillor 1815–18; a founder and patron of Leicester acad. He went to Worcester 1776.

Allen, Joseph, D.D. (H. U. 1848), b. Medfield, Ms., Aug. 15, 1790. H. U. 1811. Ord. 1814. He studied theology under Rev. Dr. Ware at Cambridge. Ord. minister of Northboro' Oct. 30, 1816, died there Feb. 23, 1873. Deleg. to the Peace Congress at Paris in 1849. Author of "Hist. Account of Northboro'" in Worcester Mag., July, 1826; "Sermon on Completing the 25th Year of his Ministry," 1841; "Centennial Discourse," 1846; "Memoir of Rev. Dr. Lathrop of Springfield," 1823; "Hist. of the Worcester Association," 1868; "Allen Genealogy," 1869.

Allen, Moses, minister of Medway, Ga., b. Northampton, Ms., Sept. 14, 1748; d. Feb. 8, 1779. N. J. Coll. 1772. Ord. at Christ's Church parish, near Charleston, S.C., Mar. 16, 1775; resigned June 8, 1777, and established himself at Medway. His emigrant ancestor, Samuel, d. Windsor, Ct., 1648. An ardent patriot, he became obnoxious to the British, who dispersed his society, and burned his meeting-house. Made prisoner at the capture of Savannah, and put on board a prison-ship, he was drowned in attempting to escape to the shore.

Allen, Paul, editor and poet, b. Providence, R.I., Feb. 15, 1775; d. Baltimore, Aug. 18, 1826. B.U. 1796. After studying law, he went to Phila., where he wrote for the Portfolio and U.S. Gazette. In 1801, he pub. a small vol. of poems, superintended the publication of "Lewis and Clarke's Travels," in 1814; and projected a "Life of Washington," and obtained a great number of subscribers, but from indolence made no effort to fulfil the obligation he had incurred. Successively editor of the Federal Republican, the Journal of the Times, and a contributor to the Portico, a magazine, he sank into poverty, and was for a time insane. He finally became editor of the Morning Chronicle, at Baltimore, which he conducted until his death. In 1819, a history of the Amer. Revol. appeared in his name, but really written by John Neal, and another friend, named Watkins. Allen contrib. a portion of the preface. His poem of "Noah," pub. in 1821, was judiciously reduced from 25 to 5 cantos, by his friend Neal. He also pub. a "Life of Alexander I.," 1818.

Allen, Philip, politician, b. Providence, R.I., Sept. 1, 1785; d. there Dec. 16, 1865. B. U. 1803. He was long and successfully engaged in the cotton manufacture in R.I.; was a member of the State legisl. in 1819–21; gov. of R.I. 1851–3; and U.S. senator, 1853–9; pres. of the U.S. Branch Bank, 1827–36. He constructed the first Watt and Boulton steam-engine in Providence.

Allen, Phineas, editor, b. Northampton, Ms., Aug. 11, 1776; d. Pittsfield, Ms., May 8, 1860. Son of Rev. Solomon. After serving an apprenticeship in the office of the Hampshire Gazette, he established, Sept. 16, 1800, the Pittsfield Sun, which he continued 60 years. He was often in the State legisl.

Allen, Richard L., agriculturist, b. Hampden Co., Ms., Oct. 1803; d. Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 22, 1869. He was a merchant in N.Y., but impaired health led him to farming on a tract on the Niagara River, in 1832. In 1842, with his bro., A. B. Allen, he founded the American Agriculturist, contributing, co-editing, and publishing 14 years; when the brothers relinquished editing to carry on the agricultural-implement business, which became very extensive. He pub. "The American Farm-Book," 8vo, 1856; a valuable treatise on "The Diseases of Domestic Animals," 1848; "American Agriculture," and "American Farmer's Muck-Book," 18mo. At the time of his death, he was making the tour of Northern Europe.

Allen, Col. Robert, soldier and politician, b. Augusta Co., Va., 1777; d. near Carthage, Tenn., Aug. 19, 1844. Bred a merchant, he settled in Carthage about 1804, and was many years clerk of the county court. He commanded a regt. in the War of 1812, serving under Jackson with honor and credit. He was a member of Congress in 1819–27.

Allen, Robert, brig.-gen. vols., b. O. West Point, 1836. Entering the 2d Art., he was made 1st lieut. July 7, 1838; assist.-quartermaster, May 11, 1846; brev. maj. for gallant and merit. conduct at Cerro Gordo, Apr. 18, 1847; quartermaster of Twiggs's division in the Valley of Mexico; capt. Oct. 19, 1847; maj. May 17, 1861; aide-de-camp, rank of col., Feb. 19, 1862; brig.-gen. May 23, 1863. He was stationed at St. Louis, where his services were of the greatest value during the Rebellion, since which he has been chief quartermaster div. of the Pacific; brev. maj.-gen. March 13, 1865 for merit. services in the Rebellion; col. and assist. quartermaster-gen. July 28, 1866.

Allen, Samuel, gov. of N.H.; d. New Castle, May 5, 1705, a. ab. 70. A merchant of London, he bought into Mason's patent in 1691; and was gov. in 1691–9. His purchase brought to him and his heirs only embarrassment and contention. His son Thomas continued to agitate his claim, which was contested by various persons. The final verdict in 1707 being against him, he appealed; but his death in 1715, before the appeal was heard, put an end to the suit.

Digitized by Google

Allen, SAMUEL CLESSON, politician, b. Bernardston, Ms., Jan. 5, 1772; d. Northfield, Ms., Feb. 8, 1842. Dartm. Coll. 1794. He was from 1795 to 1798 pastor of a Cong. church in Northfield; afterward practised law in Greenfield and Northfield; was in the legisl. in 1806–10; State senator, 1812–15 and 1831; M.C. 1817–29; and executive councillor, 1829–30. Afterward lecturer on political economy in Amh. Coll. He delivered a eulogy on Dr. Wheelock, pres. of Dartm. Coll. 1817, and an oration, July 4, 1806. — Dartm. Coll. Alumni.

Allen, REV. SOLOMON, b. Northampton, Ms., Feb. 23, 1751; d. N. Y., Jan. 20, 1821. He with four of his brothers served in the Revol. army; Moses and Thomas as chaplains. At the time of André's capture, he was a lieut. and adj., and conveyed him to Lower Salem. Lieut. Allen then proceeded to West Point to deliver to Arnold the letter from Col. Jameson, his commander, which enabled the traitor to escape, by giving him the information so essential to his safety. After the war, in which he rose to the rank of maj. he was actively employed in quelling the insurrection of Shays. At the age of 50, though his education had been scanty, he became a preacher, and was exceedingly successful. His labors were performed in the western part of Ms. and the State of N. Y., in a country newly settled, and whose inhabitants were mostly poor.

Allen, THOMAS, minister of Charlestown, Ms., b. Norwich, Eng., 1608; d. there Sept. 21, 1673. He grad. at Cambridge; was minister of St. Edmund's; was silenced by Bp. Wren in 1636, for refusing to read the "Book of Sports," as required of the clergy; and in 1638 came to Boston. He preached at Charlestown from that time till 1651, when he returned to Norwich, continuing his ministry until ejected in 1662, but continued to preach till his death. While in this country, he pub. an "Invitation to Thirsty Sinners to come unto their Saviour." He also pub. "The Scripture Chronology," 1659; "Way of the Spirit in bringing Souls to Christ;" and several sermons upon "The Necessity of Faith." — Eliot.

Allen, THOS., minister of Pittsfield, Ms., from Apr. 18, 1764, to his death, Feb. 11, 1810. H. U. 1762. Bro. of Moses and Solomon, b. Northampton, Jan. 17, 1743. A chaplain in the Revol. army at White Plains and at Ticonderoga. He was conspicuous at the battle of Bennington, and was one of the first to enter the German breastwork. He visited Eng. in 1799. He took an active part in the political discussions of his time. He pub. some sermons. — Sprague.

Allen, WILLIAM, chief-justice of Pa., 1750–74, and a distinguished friend of literature and the arts; d. Eng., Sept. 1780. Son of Wm., an eminent merchant of Phila., who d. 1725. His wife was a dau. of Andrew Hamilton, whom he succeeded as recorder of Phila. in 1741. He was a patron of West the painter, and co operated with Franklin in establishing the Coll. of Phila. Being a loyalist, he withdrew to Eng. in 1774. He pub. in Lond., 1774, "The American Crisis," suggesting a plan for restoring the dependence of America. His son ANDREW succeeded Mr. Chew as attorney-gen., and after being a member of Congress and of the Committee of Safety, together with his bros. John and William, put himself, at the close of 1776, under the protection of Gen. Howe at Trenton. This son d. in Lond., Mar. 7, 1825, a. 85. His bro. WILLIAM had been a lieut.-col. in the Continental service, but in 1778 raised a regt. of Pa. Loyalists. He was noted for wit, good humor, and for affable and gentlemanly manners. — Sabine.

Allen, WILLIAM, D.D. (D. C. 1820), clergyman and author, b. Pittsfield, Ms., Jan. 2, 1784; d. Northampton, Ms., July 16, 1868. H.U. 1802. Son of Rev. Thomas. After being licensed in 1804, he preached for some months in various places in the western part of N.Y. While a regent in Harvard Coll. he prepared the first edition of his "American Biographical and Historical Dictionary," pub. in 1809. The second edition of this work appeared in 1832; the third, in 1857. In 1807, he prepared the lives of Amer. ministers for Rev. David Bogue's "History of the Dissenters." In Oct. 1810, he was ord. pastor of the church in Pittsfield, as his father's successor. In 1812, he m. Maria M., dau. of Pres. John Wheelock. He was made pres. of Dartm. Coll. in 1817, and from 1820 to 1839 was pres. of Bowd. Coll. Among his writings are contributions of "Words not found in Dictionaries of the English Language," to Worcester and Webster; "Baccalaureate Addresses," 1823–9; "Junius Unmasked," identifying him with Lord Sackville; "Accounts of Shipwrecks;" "Psalms and Hymns," 1835; "Memoirs of Dr. Eleazer Wheelock and of Dr. John Codman," 1853; "An Historical Discourse on the Fortieth Anniversary of the Second Ch. in Dorchester," 1848; "A Discourse at the Close of the Second Century of the Settlement at Northampton, Ms.," 1854; "Wunnissoo, or the Vale of Housatonnuk," a poem, 1856; besides a "Dudleian Lecture" at Cambridge; "Christian Sonnets," 1860; "Poems of Nazareth and the Cross," 1866; "Sacred Songs," 1867, and various sermons and reports. A discourse commemorative of Dr. Allen, by Dr. W. B. Sprague, has been pub.

Allen, WM. HENRY, a distinguished naval officer, b. Providence, R.I., Oct. 21, 1784; d. Aug. 15, 1813. His father, Wm. Allen, was a maj. in the Revol. army, and in 1799 brig.-gen. of State militia. His mother was a sister of Gov. Jones. At a very early period, he discovered a surprisingly inquisitive mind, and a romantic inclination to visit foreign countries. He entered the navy as a midshipman, Apr. 28, 1800, and sailed in the frigate "George Washington," Capt. Campbell, to Algiers; subsequently sailing to the Mediterranean, under Barron, in "The Philadelphia;" under Rodgers, in "The John Adams;" and a fourth time, in 1804, as sailing-master to "The Congress." In this voyage, he narrowly escaped death, having fallen, during a gale, into the sea, luckily rising near the mizzen-chains, which he grasped. Lieut. of

Digitized by Google

"The Constitution" in 1805, he visited Ætna and Vesuvius, Herculaneum and Pompeii; and, returning in 1806, was 3d lieut. of "The Chesapeake" when she struck her colors to the British frigate "Leopard." He drew up the letter of the officers to the sec. of the navy, urging the arrest and trial of Barron for neglect of duty. In 1809, he became 1st lieut. of the frigate "United States," under Decatur, and, soon after the breaking-out of the War of 1812, highly disting. himself in the action with "The Macedonian," and brought her safely into N. Y. harbor. Promoted, July 24, 1813, to be master-commandant, he carried Mr. Crawford, the minister, in the brig "Argus," to France, and then proceeded to the Irish Channel to harass English commerce, in which he was highly successful. Aug. 14, 1813, he fell in with the British brig "Pelican," and, in the engagement which ensued, was soon mortally wounded, and his vessel, after a vigorous resistance, taken. Carried into Plymouth, the next day he died, and was buried with military honors.

Allen, William Howard, a naval officer, b. Hudson, N.Y., July 8, 1790. Killed near Matanzas, Nov. 9, 1822, while gallantly leading a boat-attack upon a piratical squadron. Midshipman Jan. 1, 1808; lieut. July 24, 1813. He was 2d lieut. of "The Argus," Capt. Allen, when she was taken by "The Pelican," on the English coast, in 1813, and commanded in the latter part of the action; both his superiors having been wounded. His native town erected a monument to his memory.

Allende (äl-yĕn'-dē), José, a Mexican revolutionist, shot at Chihuahua, July 27, 1811. A captain in the army, he lent to the revolutionists the military skill they so much needed, and a powerful influence over the natives. Nov. 29, 1810, he joined Hidalgo, and transported over the Cordilleras, with the aid of the natives, heavy guns from San Blas. Hidalgo having fought a battle against his advice, he was defeated. Allende brought off the remnant of his army, but was taken near Saltillo by the treachery of Elizondo, and was shot soon after.

Allerton, Isaac, a Plymouth Pilgrim, b. ab. 1583; d. 1659. He was one of those who left Eng. in 1608, and settled in Leyden. His name is attached to the memorable compact signed on board "The Mayflower," Nov. 11, 1620. His wife Mary d. Feb. 25, 1621. He possessed a considerable estate, and was one of the leading and enterprising men of the colony. Mar. 22, he, with Miles Standish, "went venturously" to treat with Massasoit. He was subsequently for some years an assistant. Ab. 1626, he m. Fear, dau. of Elder William Brewster, and in the autumn of that year was sent to Eng., partly to obtain supplies, and partly to negotiate with the adventurers. Having in a second trip purchased for his associates their rights for £1,600, payable in nine yearly instalments, and obtained also a patent for a trading-station for Kennebec, he returned early in 1628 to Plymouth. In a fourth trip, after much delay and difficulty, he succeeded in obtaining the enlargement and correction of the Kennebec patent, and also another for Plymouth, and facilitated the removal of the remainder of the church at Leyden. In 1631, in consequence of a difficulty with the colony, "he was dismissed as their agent." Quitting them, he, in June, 1632, hired the "White Angel," and attempted to establish a trading-house on the Kennebec River, and also at Penobscot; but the latter was destroyed by the French In 1633, he established a trading-house at Machias, which was attacked and plundered by the French and Indians in 1634, and burned soon afterwards. In 1634, his pinnace, returning from a trading-voyage with the French ab. Port Royal, was cast away; and in the same year his wife was carried off by a "pestilent fever." In Mar. 1635, he "was to be notified by the civil authorities that he had leave to depart from Marblehead;" and during this year another of his coasting-vessels was wrecked at Cape Ann, and 21 persons perished, including Rev. John Avery, his wife, and 6 children. From 1643 until his death, he resided at New Haven, though spoken of Oct. 27, 1646, as "of New Amsterdam in the province of New Netherlands, merchant." Chosen a member of the council of New Amsterdam in 1643. Point Alderton in Boston harbor is supposed to be named from him. His third wife d. 1684. His son Isaac grad. at H. U. 1650.

Allibone, Samuel Austin, b. Phila., 17 Apr. 1816, author of a "Critical Dictionary of English Literature and Authors," 3 vols. roy. 8vo, 1859–70. A work of immense labor and research, and of very great importance and utility.

Allin, John, first minister of Dedham, b. Eng., 1596; d. Dedham, Ms., Aug. 26, 1671. Driven from Eng. by the persecution of the Puritans in 1637, he was settled in Dedham, Apr. 24, 1639, and continued there till his death. Assisted by Mr. Shepherd of Cambridge, he pub. his "Defence of the Nine Propositions" of Church discipline, also a "Defence of the Synod of 1662 against Pres. Chauncey," and a few discourses. Dr. Mather calls him a diligent student and good scholar. — Eliot.

Allison, Patrick, D.D. (U. of Pa. 1782), 35 years pastor of the Presb. Church, Baltimore, b. Lancaster Co., Pa., 1740; d. Balt. Aug. 21, 1802. Phila. Coll. 1760. Ord. 1765. He ranked high as a preacher, was an active patriot in 1775, and was app. chaplain to Congress, Dec. 23, 1776. He pub. treatises on Liberty, &c. An original founder of Baltimore Coll. and Library. — Sprague.

Allouez, Claude, a Jesuit missionary, who visited Lake Superior in 1665–7, founded a mission at Green Bay in 1669, where he endured many hardships, and in 1687 was at St. Louis. While confined to his bed at that place by illness, he stole away on hearing of the approach of La Salle, whom he had injured. — See Parkman's Discovery of the Great West.

Allston, Gen. Joseph, gov. of S. C., 1812–14, b. 1778; d. Sept. 10, 1816. Son of Col. Wm. His wife Theodosia, dau. of Aaron Burr, was lost at sea in 1812. He was a planter of education and ability, and several years a disting. member of the S.C. legisl.

Allston, Robert Francis Withers, gov. of S.C., 1856–8, b. All Saints' Parish, S.C., Apr. 21, 1801; d. near Georgetown, S.C., Apr. 7, 1864. West Point, 1821. Retiring from the army in 1822, upon a rice-plantation on the Pedee, he became very successful. Survey.-gen. of the State, 1823–7; member of the lower branch of the legisl. 1828–32; of the Senate, 1832–56, and pres. of that body in 1850–6. He was a State-rights politician. In the legisl. he fostered the agricultural and educational interests of the State. Trustee of S.C. Coll. 1841–64. Author of "Memoir on Rice," 1843; "Report on Public Schools," 1847; "Essay on Sea-coast Crops," 1854.

Digitized by Google

Allston, WASHINGTON, an eminent painter, b. Waccamaco, S C., Nov. 5, 1779; d. Cambridge, Ms., July 9, 1843. H. U. 1800. Between the ages of 7 and 17, he was at school in Newport, R. I., where he made the acquaintance of Malbone, and first essayed his artistic talent. In 1801, he went to Europe, having sold his patrimonial estate to enable him to cultivate his love of the art, and became a student at the Royal Acad. During 8 years' residence abroad, he made himself familiar with the works of the great masters. Returning to Cambridge in 1809, he delivered a poem before the Phi Beta Kappa Society, and m. the sister of Dr. Wm. E. Channing. From 1811 to 1818, he was again in Eng., where, besides producing some of his best pictures, he pub. in 1813, "The Sylphs of the Seasons," and other poems. He built himself a house and studio in Cambridge, and, having lost his first wife, m. in 1830 a dau. of Judge Dana. Among his best works are "Saul and the Witch of Endor," "Elijah in the Desert," "Jacob's Dream," "The Angel Liberating Peter from Prison," "The Dead Man Restored to Life by Elijah," "The Angel Uriel in the Sun," "Anne Page and Slender," and "Belshazzar's Feast," which, though left unfinished, is no inadequate monument to the genius of this great painter. His works exhibit a powerful imagination; and his skill as a colorist earned him the title of the "American Titian." The execution of his pictures was marked by a rare combination of strength, freedom, and grace. Besides his poems, which are much esteemed, he pub. "Monaldi," a prose tale, 1841, and "Lectures on Art and Poems," 1850.

Allston, COL. WM., Revol. soldier, b. 1757; d. Charleston, S.C., June 26, 1839. He was a capt. under Marion, was afterward a successful planter and a large slaveholder, and many years a member of the S.C. Senate. He m. a dau. of Rebecca Motte.

Allyn, JOHN, D.D. (H.U. 1813), pastor of the Cong. Church, Duxbury, Ms., from Dec. 3, 1788, till his death. B. Barnstable, Mar. 21, 1767; d. Duxbury, July 19, 1833. H.U. 1785. He studied theology with Dr Samuel West. He pub. "The Christian Monitor," "Memoirs of Dr. West and of Rev. David Barnes," and occasional sermons. A memoir by his son-in-law, C. Francis, is in Ms. Hist. Coll. iii. vol. 5. His son RUFUS BRADFORD, b. Mar. 27, 1793; d. Belfast, Me., Jan. 25, 1857. H. U. 1810. Was a disting. lawyer and scholar of Belfast.

Alma-gro (äl-mä-gro), DIEGO, one of the Spanish conquerors of Peru, b. ab. 1463; d. July, 1538. His diligence and perseverance in forwarding supplies to Pizarro, in spite of formidable obstacles, were of the utmost importance to the success of his great enterprise. In 1535, he took Cuzco, the ancient capital of the Incas, by storm. His barbarity to the monarch, Atahualpa, whom he put to death with extreme cruelty, and his profligacy, have handed down his name to the execration of posterity, notwithstanding his valor. Quarrelling with his companions about the division of spoil and power, Almagro was defeated, made prisoner by Pizarro, and strangled. The friends of the father, rallying round the son, assassinated Pizarro, July 26, 1541, and were themselves executed by order of the Viceroy of Peru in 1542. Almagro's frank and winning manners made him very popular with the soldiers.

Almon, JOHN, an English political writer and publisher, b. Liverpool, 1738; d. 1805. He was apprenticed to a bookseller; went to sea in 1759; afterward settled in London. He pub. an edition of "Junius," and attempted to prove Hugh Boyd its author. A man of strong sympathies and liberal ideas, he placed his pen and press at the service of John Wilkes, whose "North Briton" he published. He also pub. "The Remembrancer," in 17 vols., a great magazine of information on the war of the Amer. Revol. In 1777, he added a vol. of "Prior Documents" to this work. He also wrote several party pamphlets during the American war. The first regular publication of parliamentary debates was begun by him in 1774. He also pub. "Anecdotes of Lord Chatham," and "Biographical Anecdotes of Eminent Persons."

Almonte (äl-mon'-tā), JUAN NEPOMUCENO, Mexican gen. and statesman, b. Valladolid, Mexico, 1804; d. Paris, Mar. 20, 1869. Reputed son of the priest and partisan chief, Morelos. Receiving a superior education in the U.S., he early disting. himself by his talents and courage. In the Texan war of 1836, he served under Santa Afia; and the records of the massacre of the Alamo were chiefly made up from his journal. Disting. at the battle of San Jacinto, and made minister of war by Pres. Bustamente. He displayed great courage in quelling the insurrection of Urrea in 1840; but was deprived of his office by the revol. of that year, and supported himself by scientific lectures in the city of Mexico. Afterward ambassador to the U. S., he demanded his passports upon the annexation of Texas, and, in the war which followed, was disting. in the battles of Buena Vista, Cerro Gordo, and Churubusco. He was re-app. minister to the U. S. in 1853 and to the court of St. James in 1856. He returned to Mexico with the allied exped. in 1862, holding, for a brief period, the supreme power there; and was afterward one of the triumvirate for the management of Mexican affairs, having charge of finances and the foreign dept.; made a marshal of the empire in 1864 by Maximilian, on whose fall he became an exile in Europe.

Almy, JOHN J., commodore, U.S.N., b. R.I., Apr. 25, 1814; midshipm. Feb. 2, 1829; lieut. Mar. 8, 1841; com. Apr. 24, 1861; capt. Mar. 3, 1865; commo. Dec. 30, 1869; attached to "The Ohio," and present at Vera

Digitized by Google

Cruz and Tuspan, Mexican war; coast survey 1851–7; com. "The Fulton" at Nicaragua in 1857, when Walker and his filibusters surrendered to her, and in the Paraguay exped. 1858–9; com. steamer "South Carolina," S.A. block. squad., 1862; com. steamer "Connecticut," 1863–4, and captured several valuable prizes; and in 1865 com. the "Juniata." S.A. block. squad. Chief signal-officer of the navy. — Humersly.

Almy, WILLIAM, philanthropist of Providence, R.I., b. Feb. 17, 1761; d. Feb. 5, 1836. He belonged to the society of Friends, and was a teacher; marrying the only dau. of Moses Brown, he engaged in business with her bro. Obadiah in manufacturing cotton goods, and became wealthy. Among his charities was the endowment of the N. E. Yearly Meeting Boarding School, at Providence, in which he paid the expenses of the education of eighty young persons placed there by him.

Alsop, GEORGE, author of "A Character of the Province of Maryland," Lond., 1666, reprinted by Wm. Gowans, N.Y., 1869. Alsop was b. 1638; was an apprentice in Lond., and resided in Maryland in 1658–62: of his subsequent career nothing is known. His tract was designed to stimulate emigration to Md.; and derives its chief value from its "Relation of the Susquehanna Indians."

Alsop, JOHN, member of the Continental Congress in 1774–6, b. Middletown, Ct.; d. Newtown, L. I., Nov. 22, 1794. An opulent merchant, his ability, patriotism, and integrity secured his election to that remarkable body. On the occupation of N. Y. by the British, he withdrew to Middletown, Ct., returning after the peace. His dau. Mary m. Rufus King.

Alsop, RICHARD, poet and wit, b. Middletown, Ct., Jan. 23, 1761; d. Flatbush, L.I., Aug. 20, 1815. He was brought up a merchant, but preferred literary pursuits; for which he was fitted both by his talents and attainments. He is best known by his principal share in the "Echo," — a series of burlesque pieces, begun in 1791, and ended in 1805, — the character of which underwent a change, from a mirth-provoking essay to a bitter political satire directed against the Democ. party. Dwight, Hopkins, and others, known as the "Hartford Wits," were joined in the authorship. This, with other poems, was repub. in 1807. In 1800, he pub. in heroic verse a "Monody on the Death of Washington," and in 1808 "The Enchanted Lake of the Fairy Morgana." Besides a number of fugitive pieces in prose and verse, he pub. in 1808 "The Natural and Civil History of Chili, from the Italian of Molina," and in 1815 a narrative of the captivity of John R. Jewett. He was fond of field-sports and natural history. His youngest bro., JOHN, also a poet, b. Feb. 5, 1776; d. Nov. 1, 1841. He practised law at New London; and was afterward a bookseller at Hartford and N.Y. — See specimens in Everet's Poets of Ct., and Duyckinck.

Alston, PHILIP WHITMEL, rector of Calvary Church, Memphis, Tenn. A vol. of his sermons, with Memoir by Bishop Otey, was pub. Phila., 8vo, 1854.

Alston, WILLIS, col. of the Halifax dist. in 1776; member of the H. of Commons, 1791–2; M. C. 1799–1803. His son WILLIS, Jun., b. Halifax Co., N.C.; d. there Apr. 10, 1837; member State legisl. in 1794 and subsequently; M. C. 1803–15 and 1825–31; chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means in the War of 1812.

Alvarado (äl-vä-rä'-do), ALONZO DE, one of the Spanish conquerors of Mexico, and afterward of Peru; held a high command under Pizarro. Sent with 500 men to re-enforce the bros. of Pizarro, he was defeated and made prisoner by Almagro in 1537. After the death of Pizarro, he took arms against Almagro the younger, and joined his force to that of De Castro (1542). He was lieut-gen. of the army which suppressed the rebellion of Gonzalo Pizarro in 1548.

Alvarado, PEDRO DE, one of the conquerors of Spanish Amer., b. at Badajos: d. 1541. In 1518, he sailed with his four bros. for Cuba, whence he accompanied Grijalva on his exploring exped. along the coast. In Feb. 1519, he accompanied Cortes in his exped., in which he took an important part: left by Cortes in charge of the city of Mexico, his cruelty and rapacity caused an insurrection, and he narrowly escaped with his life. In the famous retreat of the night of July 1, 1520, Alvarado again disting. himself by his exploits; in commemoration of which, an enormous ditch, over which he leaped to escape the enemy, is called to this day, "El Salto de Alvarado." On his return to Spain, Charles V. made him gov. of Guatemala. He m. a dau. of the illustrious Albuquerque: subsequently he had violent contests with Pizarro; but the emperor appointed him gov. of Honduras, as well as of Guatemala. He made many discoveries on the California coast, and continued to colonize and explore the Amer. Continent until 1541; when he was killed in a skirmish with the Indians.

Alvarez (äl'-vä-reth), BERNARDO DE, a Spanish adventurer, b. Seville, 1514; d. 1584. At the age of 14, he joined the Mexican army, but was expelled for misconduct, and transported to the Philippines; escaping thence, he went to Peru, and acquired a fortune, with which he established hospitals in Mexico and other cities of New Spain. These hospitals were supported by the charitable society of St. Hyppolitas, which he founded and endowed.

Alvarez, JUAN, leader of the Mexican revol. of 1855, b. 1790. His energy and courage, as well as his repub. principles, had previously made him popular in Southern Mexico. He ended the dictatorship of Santa Aña by the decisive battle at Saltillo, July 22–3, 1855. The "Plan of Ayutla," promulged by Alvarez, Mar. 1, 1854 announced the deposition of Santa Aña, and proposed repub. principles. Proclaimed pres. by the assembly at Cuernavaca, Oct. 4, 1855, Nov. 15, he entered the city of Mexico, escorted by his Indian body-guard, whose barbarian appearance excited the apprehensions of the citizens. Dissensions in the cabinet, and the opposition of the army and the clergy, caused by the abolition of their ancient privileges, induced Alvarez to resign, Dec. 8. He placed Comon fort, his minister of war in power; took $200,000 from the treasury, and such arms and munitions as he could seize, and returned with his Indians to their homes in Southern Mexico; d. in 1870.

Digitized by Google

Alvord, BENJAMIN, brev. brig.-gen. U.S. A., b. Rutland, Vt., Aug. 18, 1813. West Point, 1833. Entering the 4th Inf., he served in the Seminole war in 1835–6; was assist. prof. of mathematics at West Point in 1837; and until 1839 was assist. prof. of natural and experimental philosophy. In the Mexican war, he won the brevets of capt. and maj. for gallantry at Palo Alto, Resaca de la Palma, and other engagements. June 22, 1854, he became paym. with rank of maj., and April 15, 1862, brig.-gen., and was put in command of the dist. of Oregon. Chief paym. dist. of Omaha and Nebr. since May 25, 1867. Brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., Apr. 9, 1865; A.M. of U. of Vt. 1854. Author of numerous scientific papers, essays, and reviews. — Cullum.

Alzate y Ramirez (äl-thä'-tĕ e rä-mē'-rĕth), JOSÉ ANTONIO, Mexican scientific writer, b. Mexico; d. ab. 1795. A correspondent of the Acad. of Sciences, Paris; he pub. the Gaceta de Literatura, also an essay sur la limite des neiges perpetuelles en volcan Pococatexetl.

Ames, ADELBERT, brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. Me., 1835. W. Pt., 1861. 1st lieut. 5th Art. May 14, 1861; brev. maj. July 21, 1861, for Bull Run; brev. lieut.-col. for Malvern Hill, July 1, 1862; col. 20th Me. Vols. Aug. 29, 1862; brig.-gen. U.S. Vols. May 20, 1863, for Chancellorsville; brev. col. July 1, 1863, for Gettysburg; com. div. or brigade 18th Corps in the operations before Petersburg, and engaged at Port Walthall Junction, May 7, and Cold Harbor, June 1, 1864; capt. 5th Art. June 11, 1864; com. div. 10th Corps, Oct. 10 to Dec. 2, 1864, in actions of Darbytown, Oct. 13 and 27; com. div. 24th Corps in assault and capture of Fort Fisher, and in operations in N.C. Jan.–Apr. 1865, for which brev. maj.-gen. vols. and brig.-gen. U.S.A.; com. div. 10th Corps Apr.–May, 1865; lieut.-col. 24th Inf. July 28, 1866. U.S. senator from Mpi. 1871; prov. gov. Mpi. June, 1868-9.

Ames, EDWARD B., bishop of the M.E. Church, b. Athens, O., May 20, 1806. His grandfather was a chaplain at Valley Forge. Edward was educated in the Ohio U.; was an instructor in McKendree Coll. in 1823–9; was licensed to preach in 1830; was soon after assigned to the Ind. conference, and ord. deacon and elder. He took part in the general conference at Baltimore in 1840, when he was elected corresponding sec. of the missionary society, and travelled in its behalf through the Western States and among the Indian tribes — a distance in all of over 25,000 miles. In 1842, he officiated as chaplain to a council of Choctaws. From 1844 to 1852, when he was made a bishop, he travelled as presiding elder through various districts of Ind. A resident of Baltimore since 1861.

Ames, FISHER, LL.D. (N J. Coll. 1796), orator and statesman, b. Dedham, Ms., Apr. 9, 1758; d. there July 4, 1808. H. U. 1774. Son of Dr. Nathaniel. His precocity is indicated by his having entered college at the age of 12. The poverty of his widowed mother compelled him to teach school for a support until 1781, when he began to practise law, and soon displayed brilliant oratorical powers. His great abilities first became known by his political writings in the Boston newspapers under the signatures of "Brutus" and "Camillus." In the convention which ratified the U.S. Constitution, he was a disting. speaker, especially on the subject of biennial elections. In the legisl. of 1788, he was so conspicuous for oratory and business-talent, that he was elected to Congress for the Suffolk dist. over Samuel Adams. He continued in that body during the whole of Washington's administration (1789–97), of which he was the zealous defender. His great speech on the British treaty, Apr. 28, 1795, is considered the era of his political life. At its close, a member in opposition moved to postpone the decision of the question, that they might not vote under the influence of a sensibility which their calm judgment might condemn. He was acknowledged to be the most eloquent debater in the house, and was the author of the address of that body to Washington on his retirement from the Presidency. He was several years a member of the council of Ms., and, while in that body, delivered a eulogy upon Washington before the State legisl. Chosen pres. of H. Coll. in 1804, but declined. He wrote a number of essays on the French Revol., the character and tendencies of which inspired him with horror. The conversation of Mr. Ames was instructive and delightful, and his character one of amiable simplicity and moral purity. His writings, with a memoir by Dr. Kirkland, were pub. in 1809 in one vol. 8vo, and an enlarged edition in 2 vols. in 1854, edited by his son, Seth Ames, judge Ms. Sup. Court.

Ames, JOSEPH, b. Roxbury, N.H. Has painted many portraits in Boston and Baltimore. Among them are "Pius IX," "Gazzaniga," "President Felton," and "Death of Webster:" he has also produced "Maud Muller," and the "Old Stone Pitcher;" d. New York City, Oct. 30, 1872.

Ames, NATHANIEL, physician and mathematician, b. Bridgewater, Ms., 1708; d. Dedham, July 11, 1764. He inherited a taste for astronomy from his father, Nathaniel (1677–1736), and from 1725 till his death pub. his famous almanacs. They were continued until 1775 by his son Nathaniel. Removing to Dedham, where he kept a house of public entertainment, he m., in 1735, Mary Fisher by whom he had FISHER the celebrated orator, and Nathaniel (1741–1823), H.U. 1761, also a physician, and a surgeon in the Revol. army.

Ames, NATHANIEL, seaman and author, b. Dedham, Ms.; d. Providence, R.I., Jan. 18, 1835. He was the son of Fisher Ames, and author of "Mariner's Sketches," 1830, "Nautical Reminiscences," 1832, and "An Old Sailor's Yarns."

Ames, NATHAN P., a skilful manufacturer of cannon, swords, cutlery, &c., at Chicopee Falls and Cabotville, Ms., b. 1803; d. Cabotville, Apr. 23, 1847. He commenced the cutlery business in 1829. In 1834, the Ames manufacturing Co. was incorporated, with N. P.

Digitized by Google

Ames as agent. This company has supplied the U. S. Government with swords since 1831. In 1840, he visited Europe to inspect foreign armories, and acquire information in regard to tools, cutlery, and improvements in arms. In 1836, the bronze foundry was erected, which has become the most famous in the U. S.: since its erection, nearly all the brass guns made for the Amer. army have been cast at this establishment. Here the celebrated statues of De Witt Clinton in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, Washington in Union square, N.Y., and that of Franklin in School St., Boston, were cast. In 1854, the British Government ordered of this company a complete set of the machines for perfecting the stock of the musket. They are now in use at the government armory near Woolwich, Eng.

Amherst, JEFFREY, baron, a celebrated British gen., b. Kent, Eng., Jan. 29, 1717; d. Aug. 3, 1797. He was page to the Duke of Dorset while lord lieut. of Ireland; became an ensign in the army in 1731; was aide to Lord Ligonier at Dettingen, Fontenoy, and Roucoux, and afterward to the Duke of Cumberland at Laffeldt. Made maj.-gen. in 1756, in 1758 he was given the command of the exped. against Louisburg. Landing June 8, a lodgement was effected July 26, and the place surrendered, as did also St. John's and other French strongholds. App. commander-in-chief Sept. 30, 1758, the surrender of Quebec to Wolfe's forces, and that of Fort Niagara to Townshend and Johnson, was followed by that of Crown Point (July 26), and that of Ticonderoga (Aug. 4, 1759), to Amherst in person. Obtaining the naval supremacy on Lake Champlain, Fort Nevis and Isle Aux Noix fell into his hands; and Sept. 8, 1760, Montreal and the whole of Canada became a British possession. He was rewarded with the thanks of parliament and the insignia of the Bath; was made gov. of Virginia in 1763, and of Guernsey in 1771, created a baron in 1776, commander-in-chief of the forces from 1778 until 1795, and field-marshal in July, 1796. His bro. WILLIAM, lieut.-gen., col. 32d Foot, and gov. of St. John's, Newfoundland, d. May 13, 1781. He was aide-de-camp to his bro. in Amer., and was at the capture of Louisburg.

Amidas, PHILIP, navigator, b. Hull, 1550; d. Eng. 1618. He com. one of the two ships fitted out by Raleigh, under Arthur Barlow, and sent to North Amer. 27 Apr. 1584. Entering Ocracock Inlet, 13 July, they landed on Wocoken Island, of which they on their return gave glowing accounts. Reaching Eng. in Sept., their discoveries were made known by Raleigh to Queen Elizabeth, who called the new country Virginia. Amidas had charge of an exped. to Newfoundland some years after.

Ammen, DANIEL, Capt. U. S. N., b. O., July 7, 1819. Midshipman, July 7, 1836; lieut. Nov. 4, 1849; capt. July 25, 1866. Attached to the coast-survey, 1848–62; com. steamer "Seneca," S. A. B. squad. at the battle of Port Royal, Nov. 7, 1861; at Tybee Island; com. monitor "Patapsco," S. A. B. squad. at Fort McAllister, Mar. 1863; attack on Fort Sumter, Apr. 7, 1863; suppressed a mutiny while on board the Calif. steamer "Ocean Queen," bound to Aspinwall, in May, 1864; com. steamsloop "Mohican," N. A. B. squad. in both attacks on Fort Fisher; chief of bureau of yards and docks, 1869. — Hamersly.

Ammen, JACOB, brig.-gen. Vols. b. Botetourt Co., Va., Jan. 7, 1808. West Point, 1831. Entering the 1st Artillery, he was for some years an instructor at West Point, and resigned in Nov. 1837. He was prof. of mathematics successively in Bacon Coll., Georgetown, Ky., Jeff. Coll., Mpi., the U. of Ind., and Jeff. Coll. again. In 1861, he became col. 24th O. Vols., and July 16, 1862, brig.-gen. for services at Pittsburg Landing. From Apr. 1864, until after the battle of Nashville, he com. the 4th Div. 23d Corps at Knoxville. Resigned, Jan. 14, 1865.

Ampudia (ăm-poo′-de-ä), PEDRO DE, a Mexican gen., promoted by Santa Aña, in 1840, to that rank; in 1842, led a party under Gen. Woll to attack the Texan frontier; took a prominent part in the conflicts at Loredo and Mier with the Texans, and in Dec. 1842, com. at the siege of Campeachy in Yucatan. Compelled to retreat by Commodore Moore on the night of June 26, 1843, Ampudia proceeded to Tabasco, where, in the summer of 1844, he aroused great indignation by his cruel execution of Gen. Sentmanat, who had attacked that town. Ampudia was removed, but Apr. 11, 1846, appeared before Matamoras, as gen. in the Mexican army, under Arista. Intrusted with the command at the siege of Monterey, he was, after a spirited defence, compelled to surrender that city to Gen. Taylor, Sept. 24, 1846.

Anburey, THOMAS, author of "Travels in America," 2 vols. 8vo, Lond., 1789, was a capt. in the army of Gen. Burgoyne, whose conduct in the campaign of 1777 he attempts to vindicate, and returned to Eng. soon after the capture of Cornwallis.

Anchieta (än-she-ä′-tä), JOSÉ, a Portuguese Jesuit, surnamed "the Apostle of the New World," b. Teneriffe, 1533; d. near Espiritu Santo, June 9, 1597. He was a relative of Loyola, and was stationed at Coimbra. Sent in 1553 to Brazil, he founded there the first college for the conversion of the natives. App. gov. of the converted Indians, he contrib. with them to the foundation of St. Sebastian. Both the Portuguese and the savages ascribed to Father Anchieta the working of miracles. Of his many writings, one, on "The Natural Productions of Brazil," was pub. by the Acad. of Sciences at Madrid.

Anderson, ALEXANDER, the first wood-engraver in Amer. (1798), b. N. Y. City, 1775; d. Jersey City, Jan. 16, 1870. He was originally a physician, having grad. M. D. at Col. Coll., N. Y. In 1804, he pub. "A General History of Quadrupeds," with wood-engravings. Among his best-known works are 40 illustrations of Shakspeare, and those in Webster's Spelling-book. Mr. B. J. Lossing prepared a memorial lecture of this pioneer engraver. — See Harper's Weekly, Feb. 5, 1870.

Anderson, GEO. B., gen. C. S. A., b. Wilmington, N.C., 1831; d. Raleigh, N.C., Oct. 16, 1862. West Point, 1852. Entering the 2d Dragoons, he became 1st lieut. Dec. 13, 1855, adjt. Aug. 1857, but resigned, Apr. 25, 1861, and was made a brig.-gen. in the rebel army. He commanded the N. C. coast-defences in Nov. 1861, and led a brigade at the battle of Antietam, where he received a wound in the foot, which caused his death.

Digitized by Google

Anderson, Dr. Henry James, LL.D. (1850), b. 1798. Prof. mathematics Col. Coll., N.Y., 1825–43; Emeritus prof. 1866. Col. Coll. 1818. M.D. Coll. Phy. and S. 1824. Author of "Geology of Lieut. Lynch's Exped. to the Dead Sea," "Geological Reconnoissance of part of the Holy Land," 1848; pub. by the U. S. Government.

Anderson, Hugh J., lawyer, b. Me. 1801. Clerk Waldo Co. courts 1827–37; M. C. 1837–41; gov. of Me. 1844–7; commissioner of customs in Washington 1853–8; app. 6th auditor U. S. treas. Oct. 1866.

Anderson, Isaac, D.D., clergyman and pioneer preacher in the West; b. Rockbridge Co., Va., Mar. 26, 1780; d. Rockford, Tenn., Jan 28, 1857. At the age of 7, he had read the easier Latin authors. At 14, he entered Liberty Hall Acad., afterwards Washington Coll., and, after leaving the academy, studied theology. Removing with his father's family to Union, Tenn., he was in 1802 licensed to preach by the Union Presbytery; preached there 9 years, and in 1811 became pastor of a church in Maryville, where he established the south-west Theol. Sem.— Sprague.

Anderson, James, first Presb. minister of N. Y., b. Scotland, Nov. 17, 1678; d. Donegal, Pa., July 16, 1740. He was ord. by Irvine Presbytery, Nov. 17, 1708, with a view to his settlement in Va., where he arrived in Apr. 1709, but settled at Newcastle, Del., until, in Oct. 1717, he took charge of the church forming in N. Y. City. A division took place in 1720; and in Aug. 1727, he was installed in Donegal, Pa. His bro. John of Perth Amboy was made in 1712 one of the council of the province, and d. Mar. 1736, a. 73, pres. of the council.

Anderson, James, M. D., physician; d. at his seat near Chestertown, Md., Dec. 8, 1820, a. 68. Commencing his medical studies under his father, a physician from Scotland, he continued them at Phila. and at Edinburgh, but was obliged to return home before taking a degree. For more than 30 years he enjoyed a most extensive practice, which his infirmities compelled him, when at the age of 60, to relinquish. He was a zealous disciple of Wesley, and was exceedingly liberal and benevolent. — Thacher.

Anderson, James Patton, gen. C. S. A., b. Mpi. He was lieut.-col. commanding of batt. of Mpi. Rifle Vols. in Mexican war. He com. a brigade in the 2d corps of the rebel army at Shiloh and at Stone River; was highly commended for valor and ability.

Anderson, John, lawyer and politician, b. Cumberland, Me., 1792; d. Aug. 21, 1853. Bowd. Coll. 1813. He studied law with Stephen Longfellow, and was adm. to the bar in 1816. Member of the Me. senate in 1824; M. C. 1825–33; mayor of Portland in 1833 and 42; coll. customs at P. 1837–41 and 1843–8. Actively instrumental in securing the construction of the Atlantic and St. Lawrence R.R. U.S. dist. atty. for Me. 1833–7.

Anderson, John Wallace, M. D., physician, b. Hagerstown, Md. 1802; d. Liberia, Apr. 12, 1830. M. D. Phila. Coll. 1828. Son of Col. Richard, a Revol. officer. He practised medicine at Hagerstown, but in Jan 1830 sailed to Liberia to promote the cause of temperance there, and died of fever soon after his arrival.

Anderson, Joseph, statesman, and Revol. soldier, b. N. Jersey, Nov. 5, 1757; d. Washington, Apr. 17, 1837. He received a good education; studied law; was app. an ensign in the N. J. line in 1775; fought at Monmouth as a capt.; was in 1779 in the exped. of Sullivan against the Six Nations; in 1780 was at Valley Forge; in 1781 at the siege of York; and after the war received the brevet of maj. He practised law in Del.; was in 1791 app. by Washington judge of the territory south of the Ohio River, and remained in that position until the constitution of Tenn. was formed, and in which he assisted; and was an influential member of the U. S. Senate from Tenn. from 1797 to 1815, serving upon many important committees, and acting on two occasions as pres. pro tempore of the Senate. From 1815 to 1836, he was first comptroller of the U. S. treasury. — Lanman.

Anderson, Mrs. Ophelia Brown, actress, b. Boston, July 24, 1813; d. Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, Ms., Jan. 27, 1852. Dau. of Mrs. Pelby; made her début at the Washington Garden Theatre, Boston, in 1815, as Cora's child in "Pizarro." Afterward appeared at the Tremont Theatre, while it was under her father's management; and, after he took the National, she was for many years the chief attraction there. She was a superior actress and a great favorite. She first appeared at the Chestnut-st. Theatre, Phila., Sept. 7, 1840, as Julia in "The Duke's Bride."

Anderson, Col. Richard, Revol. officer, d. Phila., June 22, 1835, a. 84. App. capt. 4th Md. regt. Nov. 15, 1777, he fought at Germantown, and was wounded at the battle of Cowpens.

Anderson, Richard Clough, Jun., lawyer and politician, b. Louisville, Ky., Aug. 4, 1788; d. Tubaco, July 24, 1826. Wm. and M. Coll. 1804. Son of R. C., a Revol. soldier, who d. Nov. 6, 1826, by a sister of Gen. George Rogers Clarke. He studied law under Judge Tucker, and practised with distinction in Louisville. Member of the Ky. legisl.; M. C. 1817–21; again a member and speaker of the legisl. in 1822; minister to Colombia in 1823, and envoy extraordinary to the Panama Congress in 1826, but died while on the way there.

Anderson, Richard Henry, lieut.-gen. C.S.A., b. S. C. ab. 1822. West Point, 1842. He was brev. for gallantry at San Augustin, Mexico, Aug. 20, 1847, and was a capt. 2d Dragoons, when, Mar. 3, 1861, he resigned, and was made a brig.-gen. Confed. service. Maj.-gen. in Aug 1862, and com. the 5th div. of Bragg's army in Tenn. Wounded at Antietam; com. a division at Gettysburg, July 4, 1863; made lieut.-gen. May, 1864. June 23, 1864, he made a successful attack on Gen. Wright's division, in front of Petersburg; Oct. 7, he attacked and routed the U. S. cavalry near New Market; and com. the 4th corps of Lee's army, at its surrender, Apr. 9, 1865.

Digitized by Google

Anderson, ROBERT, brig.-gen. U. S. A., b. near Louisville, Ky., June 14, 1805. West Point, 1825. His father was Col. Joseph of the Revol. army, and his mother a cousin of Chief-Justice Marshall. Entering the artillery, he was an instructor at West Point; was brev. capt. for gallantry in the Florida war, Apr. 2, 1838; capt. Oct. 23, 1841; brev. maj. Sept. 8, 1847, for gallantry at Molino del Rey, where he was severely wounded; maj. 1st Artillery, Oct. 5, 1857; col. May, 1861; and brig.-gen. May 15, 1861. He was in command at Charleston harbor when the Rebellion broke out, and transferred his small force to Fort Sumter, which he held until Apr. 14, when, after a heavy bombardment of two days, he was obliged to surrender. Promoted, and assigned to the dept. of the Cumberland, ill health caused him to withdraw from active duty. He has translated from the French "Instructions for Field Artillery" and "Evolutions of Field Batteries." Brev. maj.-gen. Feb. 3, 1865; retired Oct. 27, 1863. D. Nice, Oct. 26, 1871.

Anderson, ROBERT H., brig.-gen. C.S.A., from Ga. West Point, 1857. Lieut. 9th U.S. Inf. in 1861; killed at the battle of Jonesboro', Ga., Sept. 1, 1864.

Anderson, RUFUS, Cong. minister, b. Londonderry, N.H., Mar. 5, 1765; d. Wenham, Feb. 11, 1814. Dartm. Coll. 1791. Oct. 22, 1794, he was ord. pastor in North Yarmouth, Me.; dismissed Sept. 1804; installed at Wenham, June 10, 1805, and dismissed in 1810. He pub. two discourses on the Fast, 1802, and seven letters against the close communion of the Baptists, 1805. — Sprague.

Anderson, REV. RUFUS, D.D., LL.D., son of the preceding, over 40 years sec. of the A.B.C.F.M., b. Me., 1796. Bowd. Coll. 1818; And. Theol. Sem. 1822. Ord. May 10, 1826. Lecturer on Foreign Missions at And. Sem. 1867–9. Author of Observations upon the Peloponnesus and Greek Islands, 12mo, Boston, 1830; History of the Sandwich Islands Mission, 1871; "Foreign Missions, their Relations and Claims;" "Memoir of Catharine Brown," 1825.

Anderson, SAMUEL, a N. Y. loyalist; d. near Cornwall, Can., Oct. 6, 1836, a. 101. At the commencement of the Revol., he went to Canada, was a capt. under Sir John Johnson, and after the war received half pay. He became a magistrate, judge of a district court, and associate justice of the court of King's Bench. — Sabine.

Anderson, WILLIAM, Revol. officer, b. Chester Co., Pa., ab. 1759; d. there Dec. 13, 1829. He joined the army early in the struggle, and at its close was a capt., participating in the sufferings of Valley Forge, the battle of Germantown, and the siege of Yorktown. He held many public trusts; was a Jeffersonian Democrat; M.C. from 1809 to 1815, and from 1817 to 1819; and in the latter part of his life was a judge of Delaware Co. court, and was employed in the collection of the customs. His daughter, Evelina, m. Com. Porter, U.S.N. — Smith's Del. Co.

Andrada e Sylva (ăn-drä'-dä ā sĕl'vă), BONIFACIO JOSÉ DE, a Brazilian naturalist, b. Santos, 1765; d. 1838. He studied at the U. of Coimbra, Portugal, and returned to Brazil in 1819. He possessed great courage, ability, and eloquence, and took the lead in making Brazil an independent empire in 1822. He was prime-minister of Brazil for a short time in 1822–3, and guardian of the emperor's minor children in 1831. He wrote several works on mining. His bros., Antonio Carlos (d. 1845) and Martin Francisco, were both disting. for talents and eloquence, and held high office under the Brazilian Government.

André, JOHN, maj., a British officer, who suffered as a spy in the Revol. war, b. London, 1751; d. Oct. 2, 1780. His father, a London merchant, and a native of Geneva, d. 1769. After receiving his education at Geneva, he returned to London before he was 18, and entered a counting-house. His literary taste and genius procured him the acquaintance of several of the writers of the day, among whom was Anna Seward. Between André and this lady's cousin, Honora Sneyd, a reciprocal attachment sprung up; but their marriage was prevented by the girl's father, and she became, a few years later, the wife of Richard Lovell Edgeworth. André entered the British army, Mar. 4, 1771; visited the courts of Germany in 1772–3; and, in Sept. 1774, as lieut. of the Royal Fusileers, landed at Phila. Taken prisoner by Montgomery at St. John's, Nov. 2, 1775, he was sent to Lancaster, Pa.; but was exchanged Dec. 1776, and promoted to a captaincy Jan. 18, 1777, having gained the favor of Gen. Howe by a memoir with which he presented him, on the existing war. In a letter to a friend, he said, "I have been taken prisoner by the Americans, and stripped of every thing except the picture of Honora, which I concealed in my mouth. Preserving that, I yet think myself fortunate." This picture he had himself delineated on his first acquaintance with her, at Buxton, in 1769. In the summer of 1777, he was app. aide to Gen. Grey, and was in the engagements in N.J. and Pa. in 1777. On the departure of Grey, he was app. aide to Sir Henry Clinton, by whom he was, in 1780, promoted to the rank of maj., and made adjutant-gen. Selected by his commander to arrange with Arnold the details of the treasonable surrender of West Point, he had, on his return from that post, passed safely all the American posts and guards by means of a pass from Arnold, when, on the 23d of Sept., he was stopped by 3 militiamen, whom he sought to bribe, but without success. They found in one of his boots, in Arnold's handwriting, exact returns of the state of the forces, stores, ordnance, and defences of West Point, with those of all its dependencies, with various other kinds of information necessary to the success of the plan. The board of officers composing the court-martial, at whose head was Greene, and among whom were Lafayette and Steuben, found him guilty of being a spy, and sentenced him to be hanged on his own admissions, he having thrown off all disguise, and acknowledged every thing. Every effort was made by Sir Henry Clinton to procure a remission of the verdict, but without avail. When led forth to execution, he manifested some emotion at the sight of the gibbet, and exclaimed, "Must I die in this manner?" and in a moment added, "But it will be only a momentary pang," and met his fate with dignity and composure. The sympathy of the American officers was universal for one so young, so gallant, so accomplished, and so unfortunate. He contrib. poetry to the loyal newspapers; and it is a singular fact, that the last canto of his satirical poem, "The Cow-Chase," was pub. in Rivington's Gazette, in N.Y., on the day of his capture. It ends with the following stanza: —

Digitized by Google

> "And, now I've closed my epic strain,
> I tremble as I show it,
> Lest this same warrio-drover Wayne
> Should ever catch the poet."

Wayne com. the division of the army at Tappan, where André was executed. His memory has been embalmed in verse by Miss Seward, and perpetuated by a beautiful monument near the "Poet's Corner" in Westminster Abbey. His remains were placed near this monument Nov. 28, 1821. A pension was settled upon his family, and the honor of knighthood was conferred upon his brother. Anna Marguerite, his last surviving sister, d. in London in 1848 a. 90. (Lossing). — See his Life, by Winthrop Sargent, 8vo, 1861.

Andrew, James Osgood, D.D., bishop of the M. E. Church, South, b. Augusta, Ga., May 3, 1794; d. Mobile, Mar. 2, 1871. His father was a Revol. soldier and a Methodist minister. Entering the S. C. Conference in 1813, he was ord. deacon in 1814, and bishop in 1832 at Phila. His marriage with a lady who owned slaves was one of the causes of the division of the church into two independent bodies in May 1845.

Andrew, John Albion, LL.D., statesman, b. Windham, Me., May 31, 1818; d. Boston, Oct. 30, 1867. Bowd. Coll. 1837. Robert his ancestor settled in Rowley, Ms., and d. there in 1668. Adm. to the Boston bar in 1840, he became especially conspicuous in cases arising under the Fugitive Slave Act of 1850; and in 1858, after being 10 years an anti-slavery man, was chosen to the legisl. In 1860, he was a member of the convention which nominated Mr. Lincoln to the Presidency, and was himself chosen gov. of Ms. by the largest popular vote ever cast for any candidate. Anticipating the conflict with the seceded States, he took early steps to render the State militia efficient, and within a week after the President's proclamation of April 15, 1861, despatched five regts. of inf., a battalion of riflemen, and a battery of artillery, to the assistance of government. He was re-elected by large majorities in 1861–4, evinced great executive ability, and declined a renomination in 1865, on account of impaired health and the pressure of private affairs. During the war, he was very active in raising troops, animating the people by his fervid eloquence, and in providing comforts for sick and wounded soldiers; frequently conferring with the government officers on national affairs. He took part in the conference at Altoona, Pa., in Sept. 1862, prepared the address which they presented to the President, and was one of the most urgent in impressing upon the administration the necessity of emancipating the slaves, and of accepting the services of colored troops. He declined the presidency of Ant. Coll. in 1865. In that year, he presided over the first national Unitarian convention, and was a leader of its conservative wing. He was a powerful debater and an eloquent orator. Pres. of the N. E. Hist. Geneal. Society 1866–7. A memoir of his "Official Life" by A. G. Brown, jun., was pub. 1868.

Andrews, Ethan Allen, LL.D., b. New Britain, Ct., 1787; d. there Mar. 25, 1858. Y.C. 1810. He studied law, and was some years engaged in practice. In 1822, he was prof. of ancient languages in the U. of N. C. at Chapel Hill. After this he taught at New Haven, Ct., and at Boston, a high school for young ladies; returning in 1839 to his native town. In conjunction with Prof. Solomon Stoddard, he pub. a Latin grammar, of which 65 editions have been issued. He pub. many other books of Latin instruction, the chief of which is the large Dictionary on the basis of Freund.

Andrews, Brig.-Gen. George L., b. Bridgewater, Ms., 1827. West Point (1st in class), 1851. Entering the engineer corps, he superintended, under Col. Thayer, the erection of fortifications in Boston harbor. Acting assist. prof. of engineering at West Point, 1854; resigned, Sept. 1, 1855. He was subsequently a civil engineer in the employ of the Amoskeag Manuf. Co. As lieut.-col. and then col. 2d Ms. regt., he was disting. in all its hard-fought engagements, first under Banks in the Shenandoah Valley, conducting the rearguard in his memorable retreat, at Cedar Mountain, in the campaign under Pope, and at Antietam. Made brig.-gen. Nov. 10, 1862, and com. a brigade in Banks's exped. and the Port Hudson Campaign; com. the Corps d'Afrique, July, 1863, to Feb. 13, 1865; and, for service at the capture of Mobile, brev. maj.-gen. Vols., Mar. 26, 1865. App. Apr. 8, 1867, U. S. marshal for Ms. App. prof. of French at West Point, Feb. 27, 1871.

Andrews, John, D.D., Epis. clergyman, b. near the head of Elk, Cecil Co., Md., Apr. 4, 1746; d. Phila., Mar. 29, 1813. Phila. Coll. 1765. Ord. at London, Feb. 1767. He officiated in different parts of Md., but, not sharing in the patriotic sentiments of the day, left his parish in Queen Anne Co., for school-teaching in Yorktown. Principal of the Phila. Epis. Acad. 1785–9; prof. of moral philos. U. of Pa. in 1789, vice-provost, 1789–1810; and provost from Dec. 1810 till his death. He officiated some years at St. James's, Bristol. Author of "Elements of Logic," and a sermon on the parable of the unjust steward, 1789.

Andrews, Joseph, one of the best line-engravers of this country, b. Hingham, Ms., Aug. 17, 1806; was apprenticed to Abel Bowen of Boston in 1821, and in 1836–7 received instruction in London from Goodyear, a leading English engraver. Of his best-known works are, "Annette de l'Arbre" by West, "Duke d'Urbino" by Titian, "Head of Washington" by Stuart, and "Plymouth Rock, 1620," by Rothermel; d. Hingham May 9, 1873.

Andrews, Loring, journalist, d. Charleston, S.C., Oct. 19, 1805. Bro. of Rev. John of Newburyport (1788–1845; H.U. 1786). He pub. in Boston the Herald of Freedom, afterward, at Stockbridge, the Western Star, and in 1803 established the Charleston Courier, an able political journal.

Digitized by Google

Andrews, Stephen Pearl, author, b. Ms., 1812. Pub. "Comparison of the Common Law with the Roman, French, &c.," "Phonographic Class-books," "Love, Marriage, and Divorce," 12mo, "French with or without a Master," 12mo, "True Constitution of Government," &c. Contrib. to the London Times and other journals. — Allibone.

Andrews, Col. Timothy Patrick, U. S. A., b. Ireland, 1794; d. Washington, D.C., Mar. 11, 1868. He offered his services to Com. Barney, whose flotilla was confronting the enemy during the War of 1812, and was employed as his aide. He was subsequently engaged in active service in the field, and in 1822 was app. paymaster in the army. In 1847, he resigned to take command of the regt. of Voltigeurs raised for the Mexican war. He was disting. in the battle of El Molino, and brev. a brig.-gen. for gallantry at Chapultepec. At the close of the war, he was reinstated as paymaster, and in 1851 was made dep. paymaster-gen. On the death of Gen. Larned, he succeeded him as paymaster-gen. of the army, Sept. 6, 1862. Retired Nov. 20, 1864.

Andrews, Wm. D., inventor of centrifugal pumps and oscillating engines, b. Grafton, Ms., 1818. In 1828, his father removed to Needham, where he attended the district school. Removed to N. Y. City in 1840, and turned inventor because of his connection with a wrecking-company; the pumps then in use becoming choked with sand, &c. His pump was patented in 1846, was subsequently improved by him, and manuf. by Wm. D. Andrews & Bro. in N. Y. City.

Andros, Sir Edmund, a colonial governor, b. Lond., Dec. 6, 1637; d. there Feb. 24, 1714. He was disting. in the war with the Dutch, which closed in 1667. Maj. in Prince Rupert's dragoons in 1672. In 1674, on the death of his father, he succeeded him as bailiff of Guernsey. He was gov. of N. Y., where he had previously held a command, from 1674 to 1681; gov. of New England from 1686 to 1689, and of Va. in 1692–8. Knighted by Charles II. in 1678. While in N. Y., he was principally occupied in passing grants to the subjects, and presiding in the Court of Sessions. He arrived at Boston, Dec. 21, 1686. Here he interfered with the liberty of the press, levied enormous taxes without authority, and required the proprietors of lands to obtain from him new titles at great expense. In Oct. 1687, he demanded at the head of his troops the surrender of the charter of Ct.; but it was concealed in the famous Charter Oak. In 1688, he caused an Indian war by his aggressions on the Penobscot tribes. Apr. 18, 1689, the people of Boston deposed and imprisoned him. The abdication of James II. prevented trouble with the British Government; but no judicial decision was rendered in his case. While gov. of Va., he founded Wm. and Mary Coll., encouraged manufactures and the cotton culture, and by these and other commendable acts gained the esteem of the people. Charges were, however, preferred against him by Commissary Blair, as an enemy to religion, the church, and the college, and he was removed. Gov. of Guernsey, 1704–6. His narrative of his proceedings in New England was pub. in 1691, and repub. in 1773. The "Andros Tracts," edited by W. H. Whitmore, were pub. by the Prince Soc., Boston, 1868, 2 vols. 4to. — O'Callaghan.

Andros, R. S. S., poet and author, son of Rev. Thos., d. Berkley, Ms., Aug. 1868. In early life, he was editor of several newspapers, and contrib. poems of great beauty to the Democ. Rev. Some years dep.-collector of the port of Boston, and latterly confidential agent of the treas. dept. at the South. Author of the "Customs Guide," a standard authority, and "Chocorua, and other Sketches," 1838.

Andros, Thos., minister of Berkley, Ms., from Mar. 19, 1788, to June 15, 1834, b. Norwich, Ct., May 1, 1759; d. Dec. 30, 1845. He joined the army at Cambridge in 1775, and was in the battles of Long Island and White Plains, and other engagements. In 1781, he enlisted in a N. London privateer, was captured, and placed in the Jersey prison-ship at N.Y., but escaped a few months later. He then studied theology with Dr. Benedict of Plainfield. His last sermon was preached Oct. 5, 1845, after walking 2 miles to church. He pub. some sermons, and a narrative of his imprisonment, and escape from the Jersey prison-ship.

Ange, Francis, d. 1767, a. 134. He lived between Broad Creek and the head of Wicomoco River, Pa.; remembered the death of Charles I.; was in good health at the age of 130; and his memory and other faculties of mind were perfect when he died.

Angell, Israel, col. 1st R. I. regt. in the Revol., d. Smithfield, R.I., May, 1832, a. 91. Maj. of Hitchcock's regt. at the siege of Boston; commissioned col. Jan. 18, 1777, and served through the war; disting. at Springfield, N.J., June 23, 1780.

Angell, Joseph Kinnicut, legist, b. Providence, R.I., Apr. 30, 1794; d. Boston, May 1, 1857. B.U. 1813. Adm. to the bar ab. 1816, he went in 1820 to Eng., where he prosecuted, without success, a claim to a large estate. From 1829 to 1831, he edited the Law Intelligencer and Review; was for some years reporter to the Supreme Court of R. I., and editor of the earliest vol. of R. I. Reports. In connection with Sam'l Ames, he pub. a "Treatise on Corporations." His other publications are, the "Law of Watercourses," "Law of Tidewaters," "Limitations of Actions at Law and in Equity and Admiralty," "Law of Carriers," "Law of Fire and Life Insurance," "A Practical Summary of the Law of Assignments," "Adverse Enjoyment," 8vo, 1837. His "Law of Highways" was completed after his death by Thos. Durfee.

Angers, Real, an eloquent Canadian advocate and author, b. 1823; d. Apr. 1860. Besides some poetical essays, he pub. Révélations du Crime, and a treatise on stenography. With M. Aubin, he reported and pub. the Speeches in the Lower House in 1857–60. — Morgan.

Digitized by Google

Anghiera (ăn-ge-ā'rā), PIETRO MARTIRO DE, or Peter Martyr, Italian historian and geographer, b. Arona, Lake Maggiore, 1455; d. Granada, 1526. Of noble birth, he was educated at Rome, served in 3 campaigns against the Moors, and entered the church, but, by desire of Queen Isabella, opened a school for the education of young noblemen. Sent in 1501 on a mission from the king to the Sultan of Egypt, he visited the Pyramids and other monuments of antiquity. Made prior of the church of Granada in 1505, Charles V. afterward presented him with a rich abbey. His "History of the New World" is the best of the early works extant upon that subject. Original materials were furnished for it by Columbus, also from the minutes of the Council of the Indies; and it contains a notice of newly-discovered islands.

Angus, SAMUEL, capt. U. S. navy, b. Phila., 1784; d. Geneva, N.Y., May 29, 1840. Entering the service in 1799, he was made lieut. Feb. 4, 1807; master-commandant, July 24, 1813; capt. Apr. 27, 1816. He was several times severely wounded,—in the action between "The Constellation" and the French frigate "La Vengeance," Feb. 1, 1800, and soon after in an action between the schooner "Enterprise" and a French lugger; in an attack on the English opposite Black Rock, in 1812, and afterward while commanding the flotilla in Delaware Bay. He was selected to carry to Europe Messrs. Adams and Clay, Commissioners to Ghent. Owing to wounds received in the service, his mind as well as his health became impaired; and he was dismissed from the navy June 21, 1824.

Anschutz, KARL, a German musical director and composer, b. Coblentz, Germany, Feb. 1813; d. N. Y. City, Dec. 30, 1870. Educated by his father a musical prof., he was, until 1848, Royal Musical Director at Coblentz; was afterwards a musical conductor in London; came to the U. S. in 1857; founded the German Opera of N. Y. City in 1862, and established a conservatory of music there.

Anselme, JACQUES BERNARD MODESTE D', a French gen., b. July 22, 1740; d. Sep. 1814. Son of an officer of the regt. Soissonnais, in which, according to custom, his name was enrolled at the age of 5 years. He became its lieut.-col. July 17, 1777, and made with it the campaigns of the war of Amer. Independence. Made lieut.-gen. May 22, 1792, in the following Sept. he passed the Var, at the head of his corps d'armée, took Nice and the fortress of Montalban, and also the castle of Villefranche, defended by a hundred pieces of cannon, gaining a complete victory. Defeated at Sospello, accusation and imprisonment at l'Abbaye soon followed. The revolution of the 9th Thermidor (July 27, 1794) restored him to liberty, and he d. in an obscure retreat. — Biog. Univ. Suppl.

Ansorge, CHARLES, teacher of music, and editor of the Ms. Teacher, b. Spiller, Silesia, 1817; d. Chicago, 28 Oct. 1866. He grad. at the Collegiate Institute of Breslau, was a teacher and editor, and for his liberal sentiments was expatriated by the government of Prussia; came to Boston in 1849; was 13 years organist and chorister of the First Church, Dorchester, and 4 years teacher of music in the Asylum for the Blind, So. Boston. In 1863, he removed to Chicago, where he was a successful teacher of music. He took great interest in education, and was a thorough musician.

Anspach (ăns'-pak), Rev. L. A., a magistrate of Newfoundland, pub. "Summary of the Laws of Commerce and Navigation adapted to the Island of Newfoundland," Lond., 1809. — Allibone.

Anthon, CHARLES, LL.D., a classical scholar, b. N.Y., Nov. 19, 1797; d. there July 29, 1867. (Col. Coll. 1815.) His father, Dr. George C. Anthon, a German by birth, attained the rank of surgeon-gen. in the British army, in which he served from the commencement of the French war until the final surrender of Detroit, ab. 1784. He then resigned his commission, and settled in N.Y. Charles, the fourth of his six sons, studied law in the office of his bro. John, and in 1819 was adm. to the bar. In 1820, he was app. adjunct prof. of languages in Col. Coll.; in 1830, he produced his edition of "Horace," and became rector of the grammar school attached to the college; and in 1835 succeeded prof. Moore as the head of the classical dept. of that institution. Besides his labors both in college and school, he produced some 50 vols., chiefly editions of the Latin classics, and aids to classical study. He was an accurate and thorough scholar, and an acute and ingenious critic of the ancient languages. His works have often been repub. in Eng., and are used extensively in schools. His "Classical Dictionary," pub. in 1841, entirely superseded that of Lemprière. He excelled as an instructor, and conferred on the public schools of his native city 6 free scholarships.

Anthon, HENRY, D.D. (1832), bro. of the preceding, rector of St. Mark's, N. Y. City; d. there Jan. 5, 1861, a. 69. Col. Coll. 1813. Author of Hist. Notices of St. Mark's Church, from 1795 to 1845, 8vo, N. Y., 1845. Rev. Wm. H. Anthon, D.D., is a bro.

Anthon, JOHN, LL.D., b. Detroit, 1784; d. N.Y. City, Mar. 5, 1863. Col. Coll. 1801. LL. D. 1861. Son of Dr. George C. Anthon. During the War of 1812, he com. a company at the Narrows for the defence of N.Y. He practised law with great assiduity, and is said to have tried more causes than any man that ever lived. He was instrumental in establishing the City Sup. Court and the Law Institute, of which he was pres. at the time of his death. Author of "Digested Index to the Reports of the U. S. Courts," 5 vols. 8vo, 1813; "Reports of Cases at Nisi Prius in the N. Y. Sup. Court in 1820;" "Analyt. Abridgment of Blackstone's Commentaries, with prefatory Essay;" "Anthon's Law Student;" "Amer. Precedents," 8vo, 1810.

Anthony, HENRY B., statesman, of Quaker ancestry, b. Coventry, R. I., Apr. 1, 1815. B.U. 1833. Edited the Providence Journal from 1838 to 1859; gov. of R. I. 1849–51, re-elected, but declined; U. S. senator, 1859–71. — Lanman.

Anthony, SUSAN B., reformer, b. So. Adams, Ms., Feb. 15, 1820. Daniel her father was a Quaker, and a cotton manufacturer. He moved in 1826 to Washington Co., N. Y., and in 1846 to Rochester. She was educated in a small select school in her father's house, and at a boarding-school in Phila. 15 years of teaching in N. Y., at one-third of the salary paid to men, taught her the lesson of woman's rights; and, since 1852, she has been one of the leaders in that movement, and its acting sec. and general agent. As early as 1848, she engaged in the temperance cause, forming societies, and lecturing, and in 1851 she called a State convention in Albany. With her co-worker, Mrs. E. C. Stanton, she succeeded in obtaining the admission of women to educational and other conventions, with the right to speak and vote, to be put on committees, and to make reports. Miss Anthony in 1858, at Troy, read an able report on educating the sexes together. From 1857 to 1866, she was an agent and a faithful worker in the antislavery cause. She has been untiring in her efforts to secure liberal legislation for women in N.Y., assailing each year its legisl. with petitions, appeals, and addresses. In the winter of 1854–5, she held 54 conventions in different counties of the State, to demand equal property rights and the ballot. In the autumn of 1867, she went with Mrs. Stanton and Lucy Stone to Kansas, and succeeded in obtaining 9,000 votes in that State for woman's suffrage. Her bro. Daniel R. has been mayor of Leavenworth. She has since established "The Revolution," with the aid of Geo. Francis Train, and has been one of the editors. Her style of speaking is rapid, vehement, concise, and in her best moods she is sometimes eloquent. — Women of the Time.

Digitized by Google

Anthony, Susanna, of Quaker parentage, eminent for piety, b. R.I. 1726; d. Newport, June 23, 1791. Dr. Hopkins pub. her memoirs, with many extracts from her writings. 12mo, 1799.

Anville d' (dŏn-vēl'), N. de la Rochefoucauld, duke, b. ab. 1700; d. of grief, Sept. 16, 1746, at Chibouctou, now Halifax, N.S. He early entered the French navy, and in 1745 was sent with a fleet of 14 ships of the line to recover Louisburg. A violent tempest dispersed his squadron, and ruined the exped. He had the literary taste and elegance of manners characteristic of his illustrious family.

Apes, William., an Indian preacher of the Pequot tribe, pub. "Indian Nullification," Boston, 12mo, 1835 (written by W. J. Snelling); "Eulogy on King Philip," pronounced at the Odeon, Boston, 8vo, 1836; "A Son of the Forest," 1831; "Experiences of Five Christian Indians of the Pequot Tribe," 1833.

Appleton, Daniel, founder of the extensive book-publishing house of Appleton & Co., b. Haverhill, Ms., 1785; d. N.Y., Mar. 27, 1849.

Appleton, Jesse, D.D. (H.U. 1810), divine, b. New Ipswich, Nov. 17, 1772; d. Brunswick, Me., Nov. 12, 1819. Dartm. Coll. 1792. Samuel, his ancestor, came to Amer. in 1635. He taught an acad. in Dover; was licensed to preach in 1795; and Feb. 22, 1797, was ord. pastor of the Cong. church at Hampton, N. H. From Dec. 1807, until his death, he was pres. of Bowd. Coll. Under the signature of Leighton, he contributed valuable essays to the Piscataqua Evangelical Magazine. His works, embracing lectures, course of theology, addresses, and sermons, with a memoir, were pub. in 2 vols., 1837. He was a member of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences; and was, while at Hampton, a trustee of Phillips (Exeter) Acad. His dau. Jane m. pres. Franklin Pierce.

Appleton, John, lawyer and politician, b. Beverly, Ms., February 11, 1815; d. Portland, Aug. 22, 1864. Bowd. Coll. 1834. He commenced the practice of law at Portland in 1837; was editor of a Democ. paper, the Eastern Argus, from 1839 to 1844, and part of the time was also register of probate for Cumberland Co. In 1845, he became chief clerk in the navy dept.; subsequently succeeded Mr. Trist as chief clerk of the State depart.; and in 1848, was app. chargé d'affaires to Bolivia. On his return from that mission, early in 1849, he resumed the practice of law at Portland; was elected to Congress in Sept. 1850; in 1855–6 was Mr. Buchanan's sec. of legation in Lond. In 1857, having been obliged, from ill health, to decline the editorship of the Washington Union, he was assist. sec. of State; app. minister to Russia in May, 1860.

Appleton, John, LL.D., b. 1804. Bowd. Coll. 1822. Judge of the Sup. Court of Me. 1852; chief-justice, 1862; author of "Reports of the Sup. Jud. Court of Maine," in 1841, 2 vols.

Appleton, John James, diplomat, son of John, who was U. S. consul at Calais, b. France, Sept. 22, 1792; d. Rennes, France, Mar. 4, 1864. H. U. 1813. He was sec. of legation to Portugal in 1819–22; to Spain, 1822–5; chargé d'affaires to the Two Sicilies, 1825, and to Sweden, 1826–30. He resided in France, where he owned a valuable estate. While at Stockholm, he negotiated a treaty of commerce.

Appleton, Nathan, LL.D. (H.U. 1855), merchant, and writer on political economy, b. New Ipswich, N.H., Oct. 6, 1779; d. Boston, July 14, 1861. In 1795, he left Dartm. Coll. to engage in business with his bro. Samuel, in Boston, and, on coming of age, became a partner. He was one of the first proprietors of the Waltham cotton manufactory, where, in 1814, the power-loom was first put in operation in this country; was one of the founders of Lowell; and was the projector and largest proprietor of the Hamilton Company. He was several times in the State legisl., and in Congress in 1831–3 and 1842. Author of speeches and essays on currency, banking, and the tariff, and of an account of the introduction of the power loom, and the origin of Lowell, 1858. He was a member of the Acad. of Sciences and Arts, and of the Ms. Historical Society. A memoir of his life was pub. by R. C. Winthrop.

Appleton, Nathaniel, D. D. (H. U. 1771), Cong. minister, b. Ipswich, Ms., Dec. 9, 1693; d. Cambridge, Ms., Feb. 9, 1784. H.U. 1712. John, his father, 20 years judge of probate for Essex Co., and one of the king's council, was disting. for his exertions to Christianize the Indians. The son was ord. to succeed Mr. Brattle, Oct. 9, 1717, and remained 66 years. He was a friend of civil and religious liberty, uniting useful talents with exemplary piety. He was one of the corporation of H. U. from 1717 to 1779. He pub. a number of sermons and occasional discourses. — Sprague.

Digitized by Google

Appleton, SAMUEL, philanthropist, b. N. Ipswich, N. H., June 22, 1766; d. Boston, July 12, 1853. One of twelve children. His early years were spent on a farm and in school-teaching. He next kept a store; but removed to Boston in 1794, where he engaged in the importation of English goods, with his bro. Nathan, and acquired great wealth. He subsequently engaged in the cotton manufacture at Waltham and at Lowell. From 1799 to 1820, he passed much of his time abroad. His liberality and beneficence kept pace with his means to indulge them. In 1823, on his retirement from active business, he determined to spend his entire income annually; and he gave, each year, the sum of $25,000. He also bestowed his bounty upon various philanthropic, religious, charitable and scientific associations; and, at his death, $200,000 was distributed for similar purposes. He regularly placed large sums in the hands of physicians and others, who were in the way of seeing those in destitution, to be distributed as their judgment should indicate. A memoir by I. A. Jewett, pub. 8vo. Boston, 1850.

Appleton, WM., merchant, b. Brookfield, Ms., Nov. 16, 1786; d. Longwood, near Boston, Feb. 15, 1862. Son of Rev. Joseph of Brookfield. He came to Boston in 1807. He was a successful merchant; was pres. of the U.S. Branch Bank in 1832–6; and M. C. in 1851–5 and 1861–2. He devoted his surplus means to benevolent objects; giving, at various times, $30,000 to the Ms. Gen. Hospital, of which, as also the Provident Institution for Savings, he was president.

Appling, COL. DANIEL, b. Columbia Co., Ga., Aug. 25, 1787; d. Fort Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 18, 1817. He entered the army as lieut. of Rifles, May 3, 1808; was made capt. Apr. 1812, major 1st Rifles, Apr. 1814; brev. lieut.-col. May 30, 1814, "for gallant conduct in capturing a superior force of the enemy in Sandy Creek, N.Y;" brev. col. 11 Sept. 1814, "for disting. services at Plattsburg;" resigned June 1, 1816. — Gardner.

Apthorp, EAST, Episcopal divine and author, b. Boston, 1733; d. Cambridge, Eng., Apr. 17, 1816. U. of Cambridge, Eng., 1758. Charles, his father, was a merchant of Boston. While a missionary in N. E., for the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts (1761–5), he engaged in a warm controversy with Dr. Mayhew, on the design and conduct of that body. The hostility of the people to the Episcopacy decided him to return to Eng., where he eventually filled the stall of Finsbury in St. Paul's Cathedral. Among his writings are "Letters on Christianity, in reply to Gibbon," "Discourses on Prophecy," 2 vols. 8vo. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Eliakim Hutchinson.

Arbuckle, MATTHEW, soldier, b. Greenbrier Co., near the Warm Springs, Va., 1776; d. Fort Smith, Ark., June 11, 1851. He entered the army an ensign, Mar. 3, 1799; was made capt. June, 1806; major 3d Inf. Aug. 15, 1812; lieut.-col. Mar. 9, 1814; col. 7th Inf. Mar. 10, 1820; brev. brig.-gen. Mar. 16, 1830. Stationed for many years on the frontier, he was well acquainted with the Indian character, and by his good conduct acquired their confidence. He com. a successful exped. against the Fowltown Indians, Nov. 23, 1817.

Arbuthnot, MARRIOT, a British adm., b. ab. 1711; d. Lond., Jan. 31, 1794. Nephew of Dr. Arbuthnot the poet. After commanding various ships, he was naval commissioner, resident at Halifax, in 1775–8, and returned to Eng. a rear-adm. Made vice-adm. of the blue, and com.-in-chief on the N. Amer. station, he proceeded to his destination in Mar. 1779; but was confined to port soon after his arrival, by D'Estaing's fleet. Dec. 26, 1779, he conveyed Sir Henry Clinton's troops to the siege of Charleston, in which he co-operated, and which was soon forced to surrender, and earned by this success the thanks of parliament. Mar. 16, 1781, in a distant action with the French fleet off the capes of Va., he obtained some advantage, but was prevented, by a thick haze, from following it up. Made adm. of the blue, Feb. 1, 1793.

Arce (ar'-thā), MANUEL JOSÉ, pres. of the Republic of Central Amer. in 1824–9. Having incurred the enmity of the aristocratic clerical party to which he belonged, a civil war broke out, and Arce was, in 1827, defeated at Apopa and Santa Aña. In April, 1829, Gen. Morazan, leader of the liberal party, entered Guatemala, assumed the government, and seized Arce, who, together with some of the superior clergy, were expelled the country.

Archdale, JOHN, gov. of N. C. 1695–6, author of a "History and Description of Carolina," Lond., 1707. Son of Thos. of Loaks in Chipping Wycomb, Bucks Co., Eng. Gov. Gorges of Me. m. his sister Mary; and in 1664 he came as his agent to N. E. Archdale was in N.C. in Mar. 1686, and was a commissioner for Gorges in Me. in 1687–8. Landing first in S.C., he formed a new commission of sensible and moderate men; arrived in N.C. in the summer of 1695, and had a successful and highly popular administration. He was a proprietor of the province, and was a man of great prudence and sagacity. Though a Quaker, he promoted a militia law, exempting the Friends from military service. Elected a member of parliament in 1698, he would only affirm, instead of taking the required oaths, and was not permitted to take his seat. — O'Callaghan.

Archer, DR. BRANCH T., Texan revol'ist, b. Va., 1790; d. Brazoria Co., Tex., Sept. 22, 1856. He studied medicine in Phila., practised for many years in his native State, and was often a member of its legisl. Removing to Tex. in 1831, he became a prominent actor in her revolution; presided over the "Consultation" in Nov. 1835, and was by that body elected a commissioner to the U. S. with S. F. Austin and N. H. Wharton, to solicit aid in her struggle for independence; was elected to her first Congress on his return in 1836, was speaker of the house of representatives, and sec. of war from 1839 to 1842, when, on account of ill health, he retired to private life. He was a ripe scholar and an eloquent speaker.

Archer, JOHN, physician and legislator, b. Harford Co., Md. in 1741; d. 1810. Princeton Coll. 1760. M.D. 1768. He received from the Phila. Med. Coll. the first medical diploma ever issued in the New World. At the commencement of the Revol., he had command of a military company; was a member of the State legisl.; and was M.C. from Md. from 1801 to 1807. Several of his medical discoveries have been adopted by the profession.

Digitized by Google

Archer, Col. Sam'l B.; d. Phila., Dec. 11, 1825. He was app. from Va., capt. 2d Art. March 12, 1812; brev. maj. May 27, 1813, "for gallantry and good conduct in cannonade and bombardment of Fort George, May 26 and 27 1813;" disting. at Stony Creek, June 6, 1813; insp.-gen., with rank of col., Nov. 10, 1821. — Gardner.

Archer, Stephenson, LL.D., judge of the M.I. Court of Appeals. Son of Dr. John, b. Harford Co., Md.; d. June 25, 1848. N. J. Coll. 1805. M.C. from Md., 1811–17; then app. judge of Mpi. Terr., and was again in Congress in 1819–21.

Archer, Wm. S., statesman, b. Amelia Co., Va., Mar. 5, 1789; d. there Mar. 28, 1855. W. and M. Coll. 1806. Of Welsh descent. His grandfather, Col. Wm., captured by Tarleton, d. of small-pox on board a prison-ship. His father, Maj. John, aide to Wayne at Stony Point, was brev. capt. for gallantry in that affair. Wm. S. studied law; was a member of the legisl. 1812–19; M. C. 1820–35; U. S. senator, 1841–7, and chairman of the committee on foreign relations. In Congress he took an active part in all matters of national importance, and was a member of the committee on the Missouri Compromise.

Arciszeffski (ärt-se-shĕf'-ske), Christopher, gov.-gen. of Brazil, b. ab. 1600; d. Lissa, Poland, 1668. Leaving Poland on account of religion, he entered the Dutch military service, and on the conquest of Brazil was app. its gov. He fortified the principal cities, and was an excellent mathematician as well as a skilful soldier. A medal was struck by the Dutch in commemoration of his services.

Arey, Harriet Ellen Grannis, poet, b. Cavendish, Vt., Apr. 14, 1819. John Grannis, her father, a member of the Canadian parliament at the breaking-out of the rebellion of 1837, afterward held offices of trust under the U.S. Gov. She was a school-teacher in Cleveland, O., a contributor to the Daily Herald; was in 1848 m. to Oliver Arey; has since edited the Youth's Casket and the Home Monthly in Buffalo and N.Y.; and in 1855 pub. "Household Songs and other Poems." — Poets and Poetry of the West.

Argall, Samuel, dep.-gov. of Va. in 1617, b. Bristol, Eng. 1572; d. 1639. In 1612, he carried off Pocahontas to Jamestown, the temptation to the perfidious chief in whose charge she was being a brass kettle. In 1613, he broke up the French settlement at Mt. Desert, on the coast of Me., causing a war between the French and English colonists. He also destroyed the French settlements of St. Croix and Port Royal. After a visit of 3 years to Eng., he returned to Va. as deputy gov.; his purpose being to traffic in violation of the laws he was to administer. He enacted severe sumptuary laws, and by his arbitrary conduct became odious to the colony. Recalled to answer for his misconduct, he was shielded by his trading partner, the Earl of Warwick. He was a capt. in the exped. against the Algerines in 1620; was knighted by James I. in 1623; and in 1625 was engaged in Cecil's exped. against the Spanish. An account of his voyage from Jamestown, 1610, and his letter respecting his voyage to Va. in 1618, are preserved in Purchas. After the death of Lord Delaware, Argall took charge of his estate; and letters of the countess are in existence accusing him of the most flagrant and barefaced peculation.

Argenson, d' (dăr-zhŏn'-sōn'), Pierre de Voyer, Viscount, gov. of Canada from Jan. 27, 1657, to 1661, b. 1626; d. France, ab. 1709. He was of a noble family, and disting. himself at the siege of Bordeaux and at the battle of Sens. Subsequently Reeve of Touraine. Some progress was made by him in discovery, in the country beyond Lake Superior, and on Hudson's Bay; but his government seems to have "consisted of little else than barbaric invasions and civil and religious quarrels." — Morgan.

Arias, Don Francisco Gabino, traveller, b. Salto, Buenos Ayres; d. ab. 1808. He was a col. in the army, and in 1774 undertook to penetrate the desert part of the continent, designated by the name of "grand chaco." After making an exploration of this region with Matorras, who d. ab. 1775, Arias, in 1780, continued the labors of his former companion (the pacification of the Indian inhabitants), in an exped. lasting from June 2, 1780, to Jan. 31, 1781. The next year, he explored the course of the Bermijo, establishing the facts that the navigation of the river was free, that craft of a medium size could descend it, that the nations inhabiting its borders were pacific, and also that it emptied not into the Parana, as was supposed, but into the River Paraguay. The narrative of his expedition, drawn up by himself, was pub. by his son Dr. José Antonio Arias, by order of the government. — Nouv. Biog. Univ.

Arillaga (ä-rēl-lä-gä), Rev. Basilio Manuel, D.D., superior of Jesuits in Mexico, and rector of the Coll. of St. Ildefonso; d. Aug. 1867, in the prison of St. I., though over 80 years of age. In 1865, he pub. 3 pamphlets in reply to the charge of the French Abbé Testory, that the Mexican clergy were ignorant and corrupt. He was one of the most erudite of Mexican scholars; and his reply is a masterpiece of learning, wit, and sarcasm.

Arismendi, Juan Bautista, a Venezuelan gen., b. in the Island of Margarita. He had attained the rank of capt.; and, when the revol. broke out, took command of the patriot forces, and, after a long struggle, defeated the Spanish gen. Morillo, and drove him from the island. In conjunction with Bolivar and Paez, he drove Morillo from New Granada in 1819, and from the greater part of Venezuela, of which he was made vice-pres. In Paez's insurrection against Bolivar, in 1826, he espoused the cause of the latter in his absence, and rendered great service to the nation.

Arista (ä-rēs'tä), Mariano, a Mexican gen., b. San Luis Potosi, Mex., July 16, 1802; d. Spain, Aug. 9, 1855. His father, a Spanish officer, gave him a military education; and he served in the Spanish army till June, 1821; when he joined the patriots. In Apr. 1829, he was made a lieut.-col., and, having supported Bustamente, was made a col., and brev. brig.-gen. Upon the accession of Santa Aña, Apr. 1, 1833, Arista was made gen. of brigade, and in June, 1833, was second in command of the army. Having joined Duran in his unsuccessful revolt, he was deprived of his rank, and expelled from Mexico. After passing a year and a half in the U. S., he returned in June, 1835, was restored to his rank in the army, and was judge of the supreme tribunal of war, from Aug. 1836, to Apr. 1837. Taken prisoner by the French at Vera Cruz, Dec. 5, 1838, he was 2 months after released on parole. In 1839, with but 400 men, he suppressed the revolt of Urrea at Tampico. App. commandant-gen. of Tamaulipas, at the close of 1839 he became gen.-in-chief of the northern division. For defeating the insurgents of the eastern dept., he received a special cross of honor. Made gen. of division in Sept. 1841, he caused the government of Herrera, who succeeded Santa Aña in Dec. 1844, to be recognized throughout the eastern depts. In the war with the U.S., in 1846–7, he com. at the battles of Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palma. In June, 1848, he was app. by Pres. Herrera minister of war, and displayed activity and judgment in the suppression of 17 revolts that occurred during 2 years. Elected pres. of the republic in the fall of 1850, he resigned the government, Jan. 5, 1853. Banished from the country by his enemies, he made a voyage to Europe, visited Spain, and died while on his way to France, on the day that Santa Aña, who had usurped his seat, fled from the city of Mexico. The government of Alvarez in 1857 decreed him to have "merited well of his country."

Digitized by Google

Armand (är-mŏn'), CHARLES TUFIN, MARQUIS DE LA ROUARIE, a French soldier, b. Fougéres, 14 Apr. 1751; d. Jan. 30, 1793. Entering the gardes du corps, at Paris, his passion for an actress in that city led to a duel, in consequence of which he left France. Volunteering in the cause of America, May 10, 1777, he received from Congress the commission of col. He fought at Red Bank; was with Lafayette in N.J. in the fall of that year; and in 1778 was actively engaged in Westchester Co., N.Y., opposing the corps of Simcoe, Emmerick, and Baremore the loyalist, whom he captured near Kingsbridge, Nov. 8, 1779. His corps was incorporated with that of Pulaski in Feb. 1780; and he was with Gates at the defeat of Camden, and strongly censured the conduct of that officer. In 1781, though dissatisfied with the promotions in the army, in which he saw no chance of advancement, he procured from his own means clothing and accoutrements in France, returning in season to participate in the victory at Yorktown. He was made a brig.-gen. Mar. 26, 1783. Returning home, he took part in the French Revolution; was for a time a prisoner in the Bastile; took an active part with the royalists of La Vendée, and was a leader of those of Brittany, Anjou, and Poitou. The execution of Louis XVI. gave his system such a shock, that he sunk under a nervous malady. Gen. Armand was urbane and polished in manner, an eloquent and persuasive speaker, and was greatly beloved by his friends.

Armistead, GEORGE, lieut.-col. U.S.A., b. Newmarket, Va., Apr. 10, 1780; d. Baltimore, Apr. 25, 1818. The ancestor of this family came from Hesse D'Armstadt. 5 bros. engaged in the War of 1812, — 3 in the regular army, and 2 in the militia. George was app. 2d lieut. Jan. 8, 1799; capt. Nov. 6, 1806; maj. 3d Art. Mar. 3, 1813; was disting. at the capture of Fort George, U.C., May, 1813, and was brev. lieut.-col. for the defence of Fort McHenry, Sept. 14, 1814.

Armistead, LEWIS ADDISON, gen. C.S A., b. Newbern, N.C., 18 Feb. 1817; killed at the battle of Gettysburg, July 3, 1863. West Point, 1836 Son of Gen. Walter K. Entering the 6th Inf. in 1839, he won the brevets of capt. and maj for gallantry at Contreras, Churubusco, and Molino del Rey At Chapultepec, he was one of the storming-party, was highly disting., and wounded. Capt. Mar. 3, 1855. In 1859, he com. a detachment sent against the Indians from Fort Mohave, Cal., and defeated them. He resigned in 1861; was made col. 57th Va. Inf. in Apr., and in the same month a brig.-gen. in the Confederate Army; took part in the peninsular campaign, and was in Longstreet's corps in Lee's invasion of Md., and was wounded at Antietam.

Armistead, WALTER KEITH, brev. brig.-gen., bro. of George, b. Va. ab. 1785; d. Upperville, Va., Oct. 13, 1845. Entering the engineer corps from West Point, Mar. 5, 1803, he was chief engineer of the army in Canada in 1812, and engaged at Fort Niagara, 21 Nov., and engineer for the defence of Chesapeake Bay in 1813–18; col. and chief engineer, Nov. 12, 1818; inspector Milit. Acad. Nov. 1818 to June, 1821; col. 3d Art. 1 June, 1821; brev. brig.-gen. Nov. 12, 1828. He com. in 1840–41 against the Seminoles in Florida.

Armstrong, JAMES, commodore U.S.N., b. Shelbyville Ky., 17 Jan. 1794; d. Charlestown, Ms., 27 Aug. 1868. His parents emigrated from Va. Midshipm. U. S. N. 15 Nov. 1809; lieut. 27 Apr. 1816; com. 3 Mar. 1825; capt. 8 Sept. 1841, and commo. 16 July, 1866. Captured in "The Frolic" in 1814, by the British frigate "Orpheus," and kept a prisoner until Mar. 1815. Com. the E. I. squad. in 1855–8, and in 1857 attacked and captured the Barrier forts in the Canton River. Compelled by a large rebel force to surrender the Pensacola navy-yard 12 Jan. 1861. — See Notice of Capt. A.'s Services in the N. E. II. & G. Reg., July, 1871.

Armstrong, JAMES FRANCIS, 30 years pastor of the church at Trenton, N.J., b. W. Nottingham, Md., 3 Apr. 1750; d. Trenton, Jan. 19, 1816. N. J. Coll. 1773. He studied under Rev. John Blair; was licensed to preach in 1777, and served as chaplain through the War of Independence. — Sprague.

Armstrong, JAMES F., capt. U. S. N., b. N.J., Nov. 20, 1816. Midshipm. Mar. 7, 1832; lieut. Dec. 8, 1842; com. Apr. 27, 1861; capt

Digitized by Google

July 16, 1862. He com. steamer "Sumter," 1861; steamer "State of Georgia," N.A. block. squad. 1862–4; bombardment and surrender of Fort Macon, Apr. 25, 1862; comg. steamsloop "San Jacinto," E. Gulf block. squad. 1864; com. Pensacola navy-yard, 1865–8.—Hamersly.

Armstrong, JOHN, Gen., b. Pa.; d. Carlisle, Pa., Mar. 9, 1795, at an advanced age. In 1756, he headed an exped. as col. of the provincial forces of Pa. against the Indians at Kittaning, destroyed the settlement, and took the stores sent by the French for the use of their native allies. For this service, the corporation of Phila. presented him with a vote of thanks, a medal, and a piece of plate. He enjoyed in a high degree the confidence of the proprietors of Pa., and was resorted to for advice in whatever related to Indian affairs. Mar. 1, 1776, he was app. a brig.-gen. in the Continental Army, and did good service at the defence of Fort Moultrie and at the battles of Brandywine and Germantown, in which latter engagements, he com. the militia of Pa., having left the army, Apr. 4, 1777, on account of dissatisfaction in regard to rank. He was in Congress in 1778–80 and 1787–8, and sustained many other honorable offices.

Armstrong, JOHN, soldier and writer, b. Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 25, 1758; d. Red Hook, N.Y., Apr. 1, 1843. He was the youngest son of Gen. John Armstrong of Carlisle. In 1775, while a student at Princeton, he volunteered in Potter's Pa. regt.; was soon made aide-de-camp to Gen. Mercer, and held a similar post with Gates in the campaign against Burgoyne, and until the close of the war, having the rank of maj. He was the author of the celebrated "Newburgh Letters," setting forth the services and destitution of the soldiers, and urging them to take measures for their relief. These letters, powerfully and eloquently written, were intended to arouse Congress and the States to a sense of justice to the army then about to be disbanded, and, but for the prudence of Washington, might have produced serious results. After the war, he was sec. of State, and adj.-gen. of Pa., and in 1784 conducted the vigorous operations against the settlers at Wyoming. App. by Congress in 1787 one of the judges for the western territory, he declined, and having in 1789, m. a sister of Chancellor Livingston, removed to N.Y., purchased a farm, and devoted himself to agriculture. U. S. senator in 1800–2, and 1803–4; minister to France in 1804–10; brig.-gen. July 6, 1812; sec. of war, 1813–14, and effected many salutary changes in the army; but the lack of success in the operations against Canada, and the sack of Washington City, made him unpopular, and he resigned. He pub. a brief but able "History of the War of 1812," "Memoirs of Gens. Montgomery and Wayne" (in Sparks's Amer. Biog.), valuable treatises on agriculture and gardening, and a "Review of Gen. Wilkinson's Memoirs." He had partially prepared a history of the Amer. Revol.

Armstrong, RICHARD, lieut.-gen. in the British army; d. ab. 1823. Entered the Queen's Rangers as capt., became a maj., and a most efficient partisan officer on the side of the crown during the Revol. war. In 1783, he and Capt. Saunders were deputed to write Col. Simcoe a parting address. He became col. Jan. 26, 1797; maj.-gen. Sept. 25, 1803; lieut.-gen. Oct. 25, 1809. — Sabine; Philipsi.

Armstrong, RICHARD, D.D., missionary, b. Northumberland Co., Pa., 1805; d. Honolulu, Sept. 23, 1860, from injuries by a fall from a horse. Dickinson Coll. 1827; Princeton Theol. Sem. He went to the Sandwich Islands in 1832; was 8 months a missionary at Nukahivah, Marquesas Islands; preached 5 years at Walluka, and then returned to Honolulu to take the station vacated by Mr. Bingham's return to the U. S. Dec. 6, 1847, he was made minister of instruction, and soon after pres. of the board of education. His talents were rewarded by the king's appointing him to a seat in the house of nobles and to a membership in the privy council.

Armstrong, GEN. ROBERT, b. E. Tenn., 1790; d. Washington, D.C., Feb. 23, 1854. He settled in Nashville; com. a company of Tenn. artillery under Jackson, in the Creek war of 1813–14, in which he was disting., and dangerously wounded, Jan. 24, 1814, at Talladega; disting. in command of the artillery at the battle of New Orleans; and was brig.-gen. commanding Tenn. Mounted Vols. at the battle of Wahoo Swamp in the Florida war, 1836. Postmaster of Nashville, 1829–45; U. S. consul at Liverpool, Eng., 1845–52; and subsequently editor and proprietor of the Washington Union newspaper, and confidential adviser of Pres. Polk.

Armstrong, WILLIAM JESSUP, D.D., sec. of the Amer. Board of Foreign Missions, b., Mendham, N.J., Oct. 29, 1796; d. Nov. 27, 1846, in the wreck of the steamer "Atlantic." A. M. of N.J. Coll. 1816; D.D. 1840. Son of the Rev. Dr. A. Armstrong. After three years of theological study, he was sent to Albemarle Co., Va., as a missionary; was pastor of a church in Trenton, N.J., three years, and in 1824–34 was pastor of the First Presb. Church in Richmond, Va. In 1834, he was app. sec. of the Presb. Board of Foreign Missions for Va. and N.C., and at the same time general agent of the Amer. Board of Missions for these States. In Sept. of that year, he was app. successor to Rev. Dr. Wisner, sec. of the Amer. Board. In Apr. 1838, after a residence of two years and a half at Boston, he removed to N. Y. A memoir of his life, with a collection of his sermons, edited by Rev. Hollis Read, was pub. N.Y., 1853.

Armstrong, WILLIAM MORRIS, capt. U.S.N., b. Ky., 1797; d. Norfolk, Va., June 24, 1861. Midshipman, Nov. 14, 1814; lieut. Mar. 3, 1821; commander, Sept. 8, 1841; capt. May 24, 1845.

Arnold, BENEDICT, gen. Revol. army, infamous for attempting to betray his country, b. Norwich, Ct., Jan. 3, 1741; d. Lond., June 14, 1801. In his youth he was mischievous, bold, and turbulent. Apprenticed to an apothecary, he ran away, enlisted as a soldier, but soon deserted; was a druggist and bookseller in New Haven in 1763–7; was afterward master and supercargo of a vessel trading to the W. Indies, and became a bankrupt with the reputation of dishonesty. Immediately after the battle of Lexington, he raised a volunteer company with which he marched to Cambridge, proposed to the Ms. Committee of Safety the capture of Ticonderoga, and, being commissioned a col., joined Allen's party in that affair in May, 1775. Sept. 16, with ab. 1,000 men, he began the march through the wilderness of Maine, having the capture of Quebec as its object, and displaying the qualities of an able commander. Wounded in the leg in the assault Dec. 31, in which Montgomery was killed, he was promoted, Jan. 10, 1776, to brig.-gen. Placed in command of a flotilla of small vessels on Lake Champlain, he encountered a superior force Oct. 11, 1776, and, though he exhibited great skill and bravery, was defeated. Congress, early in 1777, deeply offended him by promoting 5 of his juniors to the rank of maj.-gen. Though his appointment to the same grade was afterward dated Feb. 17, 1777, the affront still rankled in his heart. He was involved in frequent difficulties by his violent temper, and his dishonesty in pecuniary transactions. In Aug. 1777, he relieved Fort Schuyler, then invested by the British and Indians. At the battle of Bemis' Heights, Sept. 19, 1777, he com. the left wing, but resigned the post soon afterward in consequence of a quarrel with Gen. Gates, who appears to have been jealous of him. He fought with desperate courage as a volunteer without command in the decisive battle at Stillwater, Oct. 7; was in the thickest of the fight, and, being the highest officer on the field, his orders were obeyed when practicable; though all accounts state that his conduct was rash in the extreme. Again severely wounded in the leg, he was disabled for several months, during which Congress accorded him his full rank. In June, 1778, he was app. the command of Phila. He lived here extravagantly, ran deeply in debt, and endeavored to sustain himself by acts of peculation and rapacity. In 1779, he m. Margaret, dau. of Edward Shippen of Phila. Charges were preferred against him; and Jan. 26, 1780, he was sentenced by a court-martial to receive a reprimand from the commander-in-chief. This, though mildly administered, was ill received, Arnold having 6 months previously begun his treasonable overtures to the enemy. To enhance the value of his treachery, he sought and obtained the command of West Point, the "Gibraltar of America," which he proposed to betray into the hands of Sir H. Clinton, who had employed Maj. André in the negotiation. The capture of André, Sept. 23, 1780, led to the exposure and defeat of the plot; and Arnold narrowly escaped (Sept. 25) in the British sloop "Vulture." For his desertion, he is said to have received as indemnity £6,315, and the grade of brig.-gen. in the British service. App. to command an exped. against Va. in Dec. 1780, he ascended the James River, and inflicted great injury by burning and pillage. In Sept. 1781, he led another exped., which took Fort Griswold, Ct. by assault, massacred the garrison after they had surrendered, and burned New London. In 1782, he com. the "American Legion." He afterward resided chiefly in Eng., where he was "shunned and despised by everybody except the king and a few persons in authority." In 1789–2, he was at St. John's, N.B., engaged in trade and navigation, but was very unpopular, and was hung in effigy. His wife d. Lond., Aug. 24, 1804, a. 43. His son James Robertson became a gen. in the British army. — See Sparks's Life of Arnold in Amer. Biog.

Digitized by Google

Arnold, Benedict, b. Eng., Dec. 21, 1615; d. June, 1678. He resided in Providence as early as 1636. In 1657, he with Coddington, purchased of the Indians the Island of Quononoquat, afterward called Jamestown. Winthrop speaks of him as "a great friend of Massachusetts, especially in negotiations with the Indians, he having a perfect knowledge of their language. In 1653, he removed to Newport; was made assist. in 1654; pres. by the Royal Charter in 1663, and so continued for 8 years.

Arnold, George ("McArone"), editor and poet, d. Strawberry Farms, N.J., Nov. 3, 1865. Widely known as the author of the "McArone Papers," some biographical works, and by contributions to Vanity Fair, the Leader, and other journals. Some of his poems are of remarkable sweetness. He served with honor in the Union army during the civil war, doing duty a long time at one of the forts on Staten Island. His poetical pieces were collected and pub. in 1867; "Drift" and other poems, edited by Wm. Winter, in 1868.

Arnold, Isaac N., M. C. from Ill. 1861–5; author of a "Life of Abraham Lincoln," 1866; b. Hardwicke, Otsego Co., N.Y., Nov. 1815; adm. to the bar in 1835, settled in 1836 in Chicago, where he was prominent in politics, and was in 1865–6, sixth auditor U. S. treas. — Lanman.

Arnold, Sir James Robertson, a British gen., b. Phila., 1780; d. Lond., Dec. 27, 1854. His father was Benedict Arnold the traitor. Entering the royal engineers in 1798, he attained the rank of col.; was transferred from that arm in 1841, and became a lieut.-gen. in 1851. He was commanding engineer at Nova Scotia and N. Brunswick in 1816–23; displayed great courage in the attack on Surinam, where he was dangerously wounded, and became aide-de-camp successively to William IV. and Victoria. In person and features, he bore a striking resemblance to his father.

Arnold, Dr. Jonathan, statesman, b. Providence, R.I., Dec. 14, 1741; d. St. Johnsbury, Vt., Feb. 1, 1793. He was a member of the Assembly in 1776, author of the act of May, 1776, repealing the laws providing for the oath of allegiance to the mother-country, member of the Old Congress in 1782–4, and surgeon in the Revol. army. After the war, moved to St. Johnsbury, Vt., where he was judge of the Orange County Court from 1782 till his death.

Arnold, Josias Lyndon, poet, b. Providence, Apr. 22, 1768; d. St. Johnsbury, Vt., June 7, 1796. Dartm. Coll. 1788. Son of Dr. Jonathan Arnold. After graduating, he taught school in Plainfield, Ct., then studied law in Providence, and was adm. to practice, but quitted the bar for a tutorship at B. U. On his father's death, he returned to St. Johnsbury. His poems were collected after his death in a small volume (pub. 1797), with a biographical preface signed James Burrell, jun

Digitized by Google

It comprises translations and imitations of Horace, short descriptive pieces, a humorous eclogue, and a few songs. — Duyckinck.

Arnold, LEMUEL HASTINGS, statesman, son of Dr. Jonathan, b. St. Johnsbury, Vt., Jan. 29, 1792; d. Kingston, R.I., June 27, 1852. Dartm. Coll. 1811. He practised law in Providence in 1814–21; then engaged in manufactures; was a member of the council during the Dorr Rebellion in 1842–3; gov. of R. I. 1831–3; M. C. 1845–7, and represented Providence in the General Assembly in 1826–31.

Arnold, LEWIS G., brig.-gen. U. S. Vols., b. N.J. Dec. 1815. West Point, 1837. Entering the 2d Art., he won two brevets in Mexico by his gallantry at Contreras and Churubusco, where he com. his company, and at Chapultepec. He was afterward disting. in Florida, commanding a detachment in a conflict with a large force of Seminoles at Big Cypress, Apr. 7, 1856. May 15, 1861, made maj. 1st Art., and Jan. 24, 1862, brig.-gen. vols., serving with the forces at N. Orleans. Lieut.-col. 2d Art. Aug. 1, 1863. Retired Feb. 8, 1864. He served at Fort Pickens in 1861–2, was in the repulse of the rebels on Santa Rosa Island, Fla., Oct. 9, 1861, and com. the Dep't of Fla. Feb.–Oct. 1862; d. South Boston Sep. 22, 1871.

Arnold, PELEG, many years chief-justice of the Supreme Court of R. I.; d. Smithfield, R.I., Feb. 13, 1820, a. 68. He was a member of the Assembly, and a delegate to Congress in 1786–8, when he was app. judge.

Arnold, RICHARD, brev. maj.-gen., b. Providence, R.I., 12 Apr. 1828. West Point, 1850. Son of Gov. L. H. Arnold. Entering the artillery, he served in Florida; was aide to Gen. Wool in Cal.; capt. 5th Art. June, 1861; served at Bull Run, and through the peninsular campaign; app. chief of art. to Gen. Banks's exped. in Nov. 1862; brig.-gen. vols. 19 Nov. 1862; rendered important service at the siege of Port Hudson, and in the Red River campaign; was afterward also chief of cavalry dept. of the Gulf; contrib. greatly to the reduction of Ft. Morgan in Mobile Bay, in Aug. 1864; was brev. maj.-gen. vols. 22 Aug. 1865; and Aug. 1866, brev. maj.-gen. U. S. A. — Bartlett's R. I. Officers.

Arnold, SAMUEL GREENE, historian and politician, b. Providence, R.I., 12 Apr. 1821. B. U. 1841. Camb. Law School, 1845, and adm. to the R. I. bar. After travelling extensively in Europe, in the East, and in S. Amer., he became, in 1852, lieut.-gov. of R. I., being the only man elected on the Whig ticket. Was in 1861 a delegate to the peace convention; was again lieut.-gov. of the State; took the field in 1861 in command of a battery of artillery, and as aide-de-camp to Gov. Sprague; was again lieut.-gov. in 1862, and U. S. senator in 1863, for the unexpired term of J. F. Simmons, serving on the committee on naval affairs. Author of a valuable "History of R. I.," 7 vols., 1859–60; the article on "Tristam Burges" in "Appleton's Cyclop.;" "Spirit of R. I. History," a discourse before the R. I. Hist. Soc., 17 Jan. 1853; an address before the Amer. Institute, N. Y., Oct. 1850; addresses, articles in the North American and Christian Reviews, &c.

Arpin, PAUL, journalist, b. France, 1811, d. N. Y. City, 18 May, 1865. Long editor of the N. Orleans Bee, later, of the Courier des États Unis, and a contrib. to the "New Amer. Cyclopædia."

Arrington, ALFRED W., lawyer, b. Iredell Co., N.C., Sept. 1810; d. Chicago, Ill., 31 Dec. 1867. Son of Archibald (M. C. 1841–5). In 1829–34, he was a Methodist preacher in Ind. and Mo., displaying great eloquence. Adm. to the Mo. bar, he removed ab. 1835 to Ark., attained distinction; was sent to the legisl.; was judge of the 12th Dist. of Tex. in 1850–6; settled in Chicago in 1857, and had a high reputation as a constitutional lawyer. A fine scholar and writer, he contrib., under the nom de plume of "Charles Summerfield," to the Democratic Rev. and Southern Literary Messenger.

Arthur, Sir GEORGE, bart., a British statesman, b. June 21, 1784; d. Sept. 19, 1854. He early entered the army, in which he attained high rank, and, after being successively gov. of Honduras and Van Dieman's Land, Mar. 23, 1838, was app. lieut.-gov. of Upper Canada. His measures to suppress the rebellion of 1837–8 were prudent, vigorous, and successful, and, with the aid of Sir John Colborne, peace and harmony were completely restored. In 1839, on the union of the provinces, and the app. of C. Paulett Thompson as first gov.-gen. of Canada, Sir George returned home, and was immediately app. gov. of Bombay. — Morgan.

Arthur, TIMOTHY SHAY, author, b. near Newburg, Orange, Co., N.Y., 1809. He had little education; was apprenticed to a trader in Baltimore; was for several years a clerk, and, in 1833, visited the West as agent of a banking company. On his return to Baltimore, where he pub. a newspaper called the Athenæum, he began a series of short novels, chiefly of a domestic character, which have been widely circulated in newspapers and in cheap editions, and were quite popular. For several years, Mr. Arthur has been engaged in journalism, and has resided in Phila. since 1841. In connection with W. H. Carpenter, he prepared a series of school histories of several of the States. Among his later novels are, "Out in the World," "Nothing but Money," and "Our Neighbors."

Artigas (ar-tee'-gäs), José, a Montevidean gen., b. ab. 1760; d. Nov. 1825. During the insurrection of the Spanish colonies, the fate of the new republic of La Plata was for some time in his hands. In 1811, while a capt. in the royal army, he entered the service of Buenos Ayres in consequence of a quarrel with the gov. of Santo Sacramento, and, gaining a victory over the royalists at Las Piedras, the junta of Buenos Ayres speedily invested him with the command of an army with which he soon brought the Brazilian Government to terms. Having withdrawn his troops from the siege of Montevideo, the jealousy and suspicion of Posadas, the director of the junta, were aroused; and Artigas was outlawed. Placing himself at the head of the native cattle-drivers of La Plata, called Guachos, he made himself master of Santa Fé and Montevideo in 1815, and compelled the junta to recognize him as independent chief of the Banda Oriental. In 1816, the Portuguese again endeavored to extend their territory to the La Plata, but, after several engagements, were forced to leave Artigas in possession of the country. In 1820, Artigas became master of the capital, in consequence of the government having lent itself to a plot for the establishment of an hereditary government, but was defeated in a decisive battle in Oct. 1820, and was, until his death, a captive in the hands of Francia, dictator of Paraguay. He was active and brave, and possessed an indomitable will.

Digitized by Google

Asboth, Alexander Sandor, brig.-gen. U. S. Vols., b. Keszthely, Co. of Zaln, Hungary, Dec. 18, 1811; d. Buenos Ayres, Jan. 21, 1868. He studied at Oedenburg, served in the Austrian army, and afterwards devoted himself to engineering. Attaching himself to the Liberals on the outbreak of the war of 1848–9, he entered the Hungarian army, took part in several battles, and at the close of the struggle was adj.-gen. of the army. Accompanying Kossuth to Turkey, he shared his confinement at Kutaiah, and on their release, in the autumn of 1851, came in the frigate "Mississippi" to the U. S., of which he became a citizen. He was successively a farmer, engineer, and manufacturer, until, in the spring of 1861, he offered his services to government, and in July went as chief of Fremont's staff to Missouri. Sept. 26, he was made brig.-gen., and in Fremont's western campaign com. the 4th division. His division formed the rearguard on the retreat to Rolla. He took an active part in Gen. Curtis's winter campaign in Ark., and was prominent in the 3-days' battle of Pea Ridge, where he was severely wounded. In Feb. 1863, he com. at Columbus, Ky., and in Aug. was assigned to the command of W. Florida. In the fight at Mariana, Fla., Sept. 27, 1864, his left cheek bone was broken, and his left arm fractured in two places. Brev. maj.-gen. for his services in Fla., Mar. 13, 1865; resigned Aug. 1865. The wound in his face finally caused his death. App. minister to the Argentine Republic April 5, 1867.

Asbury, Francis, bishop of the M. E. Church, b. Handsworth, Staffordshire, Eng., Aug. 20, 1745; d. Spottsylvania, Va., Mar. 31, 1816. He became an itinerant under Wesley in his 23d year; came to the U. S. in 1771; in 1772 was app. by Wesley general supt. in Amer., and held the office throughout the Revolution. At the peace, the Methodists in this country organized as a body separate from the Church of Eng.; and Asbury was consecrated bishop by Dr. Coke in 1784. For 32 years, Bishop Asbury travelled yearly through the U. S., ordaining not less than 3,000 preachers, and preaching about 17,000 sermons.

Asgill, Sir Charles, bart., a British gen., b. 1762; d. July 23, 1823. Son of Sir Charles, alderman of London. Entering the 1st foot guards in Feb. 1778, he became a capt. Feb. 3, 1781, and, joining the army under Cornwallis in America, was included in the surrender at Yorktown. By order of Washington, the captured officers of his rank drew lots, that one might suffer in retaliation for the execution of the Amer. capt. Huddy. The lot fell upon Asgill; but by the intervention of the French queen, to whom his mother had made most pathetic appeals, he was, after 6 months' detention, released by act of Congress. He afterward served during the Irish rebellion, and attained the grade of gen. June 4, 1814.

Ashburton, Alexander Baring, lord, many years the head of the great mercantile house "Baring Brothers & Co.," b. 1774; d. May 13, 1848. Son of Sir Francis Baring. After a business-education in Lond., came to the U. S. to co-operate in the business of his firm. From 1812, until he was raised to the peerage in 1835, he was a member of parliament. Commencing political life as a Whig, he became, on the formation of the Peel ministry in 1834, pres. of the Board of Trade. In 1842, he was app. by Peel a special commissioner to settle the Maine boundary dispute, which then threatened to involve us in a war with Eng. In conjunction with Daniel Webster, on the part of the U. S., an amicable settlement was effected, known as the Ashburton Treaty. In 1798, Lord Ashburton m. the dau. of Wm. Bingham of Phila.

Ashby, Turner, brig.-gen. C.S.A., b. Rose Hill, Fauquier Co., Va., 1824; killed near Harrisonburg, Va., June 6, 1862, in a skirmish preceding the battle of Cross Keys. His grandfather, Jack Ashby, was a capt. in Marshall's 3d Va. regt. in the Revol. war. He engaged in the grain-business at Markham, Va., and was afterward a farmer and politician. When the civil war broke out, he raised a regt. of cavalry, and, being an accomplished horseman, soon became celebrated. He was with Gen. T. J. Jackson, covering the retreat of his army before the advance of Gen. Banks, and subsequently of Gen. Fremont up the Shenandoah, and daily skirmishing with the Union vanguard. In May, 1862, he was app. a brig.-gen. Confed provisional army.

Ashe, John, gen., b. Eng., 1721; d. Duplin Co., N.C., Oct. 24, 1781. He came to Amer. with his father, who settled on Cape Fear River, N.C., in 1727. He was some years in the Colonial legisl., and was speaker in 1762–5; warmly opposed the Stamp Act, and, at the head of an armed force, compelled the stamp-master to resign. As a col. of militia, he aided Tryon against the Regulators in 1771, but soon became a zealous republican. A member of the legisl., of the committee of correspondence and of safety, he was exceedingly active and vigilant; was one of the first projectors of a Provincial Congress; with 500 men, destroyed Fort Johnson, in 1775, and was denounced as a rebel. Member of the first Provincial Congress, he raised and equipped a regt. at his own expense; was app., Apr. 23, 1776, brig. of Wilmington district, and, at the close of 1778, joined Lincoln in S. C. After his surprise and defeat by Gen. Prevost, at Brier Creek, Mar. 4, 1779 he returned home. Wilmington became a British post in 1781; and Col. Ashe and his family suffered much at their hands. Made a prisoner, he contracted the smallpox during his confinement, of which disease he died.

Ashe, John Baptiste, soldier and statesman, b. N. C., 1748; d. Nov. 27, 1802. Son of Gov. Samuel Ashe. In 1776, he was a capt. in the Continental service, and closed his military career at Eutaw, a lieut.-col. He was a member of the State legisl., delegate to the old Congress in 1787–8, M. C., 1790–3. Elected gov. of N. C., but died before his inauguration.

Digitized by Google

Ashe, SAMUEL, jurist and statesman, bro. of Gen. John, b. N. C., 1725; d. Rocky Point, N.C., Feb. 3, 1813. He was a lawyer, and exhibited his patriotism and talents in the council of safety, in the Congress of N. C., of which he was a leading member in 1774–6, and also as a soldier in some of the emergencies of the times. Chief-justice of N. C. in 1777–96, and gov. of N. C. in 1795–8.

Ashe, COL. SAMUEL, son of the preceding, b. 1763; d. near Fayetteville, N.C., Nov. 10, 1834. He was a Revol. soldier; was made prisoner at the capture of Charleston in 1780, and, after his exchange, served to the end of the war; first under Lafayette, and finally under Gen. Greene. He subsequently represented in the State Assembly the county of New Hanover for many years. He was a man of great kindness and benevolence.

Ashe, THOMAS, clerk, on board his Majesty's ship, "The Richmond," sent out in 1680; pub., on his return in 1682, "Carolina; or, a Description of the Present State of that Country, and the Natural Excellences thereof," &c. It forms 26 8vo pages in the reprint in Carroll's Hist. Coll. of S. C. — Duyckinck.

Ashe, THOS., called Capt. Ashe, an English traveller, author of "Travels in America in 1806;" d. 1835.

Ashley, JOHN, maj.-gen., d. Sheffield, Ms., Nov. 5, 1799, a. 63. Y.C. 1758. Son of Col. John, one of the settlers, in 1732, of Housatonnuc, afterward Sheffield, who d. there Sept. 1, 1802, a. 92. Gen A. com. the militia which dispersed the insurrectionary force of Shay's at Sheffield, Feb. 26, 1787. He was a lawyer, and held many public trusts.

Ashley, JONATHAN, minister of Westfield; and subsequently of Deerfield, Ms., b. 1713; d. there June, 1787. Y. C. 1730. Ord. 1738. He was a man of strong mind; was an earnest and pungent preacher, and a warm loyalist, in consequence of which, and of the imprudent boldness with which he expressed his sentiments, difficulties occurred between him and his people. He pub. a sermon on "Church-membership;" at the ordination of John Norton, Deerfield, 1741; "The Great Duty of Charity,' 1742; "A Letter to W. Cooper," 1745.

Ashley, GEN. WILLIAM H., b. Powhatan Co., Va. ab. 1778; d. near Booneville, Mo., Mar. 26, 1838. He emigrated to Missouri, then Upper La.; in 1808 settled near the lead-mines, and became brig.-gen. of militia. In 1822, he projected the "Mountain Expedition," uniting the Indian trade in the Rocky Mountains with hunting and trapping; enlisted ab. 300 hardy men in the business, from which they realized handsome fortunes. He was the first lieut.-gov. of Mo., and M. C. from 1831 to 1837. — Lanman.

Ashmead, ISAAC, printer, inventor of composition printing-rollers, d. Phila., Mar. 1, 1870, a. 80. He was a founder of the Amer. S. S. Union, and aided in establishing the Amer. Presbyterian and the Presb. Quarterly Review.

Ashmun, ELI PORTER, lawyer, b. Bland ford, Ms., June 24, 1770; d. Northampton, May 10, 1819. Middlebury Coll. 1807. He practised law in his native town until 1807; was several years in the house and senate of Ms.; and was U. S. senator from 1816 until his resignation in May, 1818. He received an honorary degree from H. U. in 1809.

Ashmun, GEORGE, lawyer and politician, b. Blandford, Ms., Dec. 25, 1804; d. Springfield, July 17, 1870. Y. C. 1823. He settled in Springfield as a lawyer in 1828; was some years in the legisl., and was speaker in 1841. M. C. 1845–51; and pres. of the Chicago Nat. Repub. Convention in 1860. He was an able debater and a sterling patriot.

Ashmun, JEHUDI, agent of the Amer. Colonization Soc., b. Champlain, N. Y., Apr. 1794; d. Aug. 25, 1828. Burl. Coll. 1816. After preparing for the ministry, he was for a short time prof. in the Bangor Theol. Sem. Removing to the Dist. of Columbia, he edited the Theological Repository. App. to take charge of a re-enforcement to the colony at Liberia, he arrived at Cape Montserado, Aug. 8, 1822. He was legislator, soldier, and engineer, laying out fortifications, and superintending their construction, though suffering great affliction from the loss of his wife, and laboring under an attack of fever. Ab. three months after his arrival, his force of 35 men and boys was attacked by 800 armed savages, whom he repulsed, and a second time defeated them a few days later. Compelled by ill health to take a voyage to Amer., he d. a fortnight after his arrival at New Haven. He pub. "Memoirs of Rev. Samuel Bacon," 1822, and papers in the African Repository. — See Life by R. R. Gurley, 8vo, 1835.

Ashmun, JOHN HOOKER, legal scholar, b. Blandford, Ms., July 3, 1800; d. Cambridge, Ms., Apr. 1, 1833. Son of Eli P. H U. 1818. He became associated with Judge Howe and Elijah H. Mills in conducting a law school at Northampton; and, when the law-school at Cambridge was organized in 1829, he was app. prof. there. Though he d. young, he had acquired a high reputation. Judge Story, in his funeral discourse, said, "The honors of the university were never more worthily bestowed," and "he gathered about him all the honors which are usually the harvest of the ripest life."

Aspinwall, COL. THOMAS, b. Brookline, May 23, 1786. H. U. 1804. Son. of Dr. Wm. He studied law with Wm. Sullivan, and, at the commencement of the War of 1812, was a practitioner at the bar. App. maj. 9th U. S. Inf., which he aided in raising, Mar. 12, 1812, he received the brevs. of lieut.-col. for gallantry at Sackett's Harbor, May 29, 1813, and of col. for Brown's sortie from Fort Erie, in which he lost an arm, Sept. 17, 1814; and was also disting. in Gaines's victory at Fort Erie. U. S. consul at London from 1816 to 1854. Since a resident of Boston.

Aspinwall, WILLIAM, M.D., physician, b. Brookline, Ms., May 23, 1743; d. Apr. 16, 1823. H. U. 1764. He studied at Phila., and took his diploma there ab. 1768. He practised in Brookline until the Revol. war. He served as a vol. at Lexington, then as a surgeon, and afterward as deputy director of a military hospital at Jamaica Plain. He afterward engaged in inoculation for small-pox, and erected hospitals in Brookline for that purpose, and adopted vaccine inoculation as soon as it was introduced into the U. S. Many years a member of the house and senate of Ms., and of the executive council, also a justice of the peace, and was in politics a decided Republican. He was blind for several years before his death. William, his eldest son, also a physician of Brookline, d. 1818.

Digitized by Google

Astor, JOHN JACOB, a wealthy merchant, founder of the Astor Library of N. Y., b. Waldorf, Germany, July 17, 1763; d. N. Y. City, March 29, 1848. At the age of 16, he joined his elder bro., a dealer in musical instruments, in London, and at 20, with a small stock of furs, began business in N. Y. He carried on a fur-trade with the Indians, and, extending his business to the Columbia River, founded there, in 1811, Astoria. He was long engaged in the Canton trade; and, by judicious purchases of real estate in N.Y., accumulated an immense fortune, the bulk of which he left to his son, Wm. B. Astor. Besides giving $400,000 for the library, he made many liberal donations during his life-time. His will contained, among other charitable provisions, one of $50,000 for the benefit of the poor of his native village. The incidents of the establishment of Astoria are narrated by Irving in his "Astoria" and in his "Life of Capt. Bonneville."

Atahualpa (ä-tä-hwäl'-pä), or ATABALIPA, last inca of Peru, strangled by order of Pizarro, Aug. 29, 1533. Made king of Quito on his father's death in 1529, he soon after deposed his eldest brother Huescar, and sought to secure his seat by the murder of his children. The civil war which ensued enabled Pizarro to obtain a foothold in Peru. Obtaining possession of the inca's person by treachery, he was for some time kept in respectful custody to issue such orders as the conquerors dictated; but at length, to prevent contention ab. the division of his ransom between his captors and the newly-arrived troops of Almagro, he was, after a mock trial, strangled at the stake.

Atchison, DAVID R., U. S. senator from Mo., 1841–55, b. Frogtown, Fayette Co., Ky., Aug. 11, 1807. He settled in Liberty Co., Mo., in April, 1830; practised law; was a member of the Mo. legisl. in 1834 and 1838; and, in Feb. 1841, was app. judge of the Platte Co. Circuit Court; pres. pro tem. U. S. senate, 1846–9 and 1852–4. Prominent in the legisl. upon the organization of the Territories of Kansas and Nebraska, and claims to have originated the clause in the bill repealing the Missouri Compromise. He was a proslavery leader in the Kansas troubles in 1856–7. Resides in Clinton Co., Mo.

Atherton, CHARLES GORDON, senator, son of Charles H., b. Amherst, N.H., 4 July, 1804; d. Manchester, N.H., 15 Nov. 1853. H. U. 1822. Adm. to the bar in 1825, he opened an office in Nashua, and afterward in Dunstable; was many years a Democ member of the N. H. legisl., and t ree years speaker of the House. M. C. 1837–43; U. S. senator 1843–9, and again in 1853, and chairman of the finance committee. 11 Dec. 1838, he introduced resolves declaring that "Congress has no jurisdiction over the institution of slavery in the several States of the confederacy, and that all petitions relating to slavery, or to its abolition, be laid on the table without debate." These rules were in force until 1845.

Atherton, CHARLES HUMPHREY, lawyer, b. Amherst, N.H., Aug. 14, 1773; d. there Jan. 8, 1853. H. U. 1794. Son of Hon. Joshua. He descended from James, one of the founders of Lancaster, Ms.; began to practise law in Amherst in 1797; soon established a reputation for solid attainments and exact habits of investigation; and was register of probate from 1798 to 1837. M. C. 1815–17, and an ardent member of the Federal party. Member of the State legisl. in 1823 and 1838–9. He made valuable contributions to the collections of the N. H. Hist. Soc.

Atherton, HUMPHREY, maj.-gen., a distinguished Ms. soldier; d. Boston, Sept. 17, 1661, by a fall from his horse. He came from Eng. ab. 1636, at which time he signed the covenant of the church at Dorchester. Adm. a freeman in 1638; dep. to the General Court from Dorchester for that year, and in 1639, 41, and 53, from Springfield, when he was chosen speaker. Capt. of the Art. Co. 1650. In 1654, and from 1664 to his d. he was assist., and in 1656, maj.-gen. He was much employed in negotiations with the Indians. The manner of his death is commented on by Hubbard as one of the judgments of God.

Atherton, JOSHUA, lawyer and loyalist, b. Harvard, Ms., June 20, 1737; d. Amherst, N.H., Apr. 3, 1809. H. U. 1762. Son of Col. Peter of Lancaster. He studied law, began practice at Petersham, removed to Litchfield, and in 1773, with the app. of register of probate of Hillsborough Co., to Amherst, where he acquired property, and reputation in his profession. Though an open and firm loyalist, and subjected to all the insults and indignities bestowed on such, he refused to fly. Having taken the oath of allegiance to the U. S., he was in 1779 admitted to practise in the Superior Court. Gradually recovering his lost popularity, he became a member of the Convention to adopt the Federal Constitution, and led the opposition. He objected to the provisions concerning slaves and slavery. Subsequently he was elected to the house and senate of N. H, and in 1793 was made attorney-gen. of the State. His last office was that of commissioner for U. S. direct tax. He was remarkable for courtesy, urbanity, and other social qualities. — Sabine.

Atkinson, HENRY, gen.; d. June 14, 1842, at Jefferson Barracks, Mo, a. 60. He was app. from N. C. capt. 3d Inf. July 1, 1808; inspector-gen. Apr. 25, 1813; col. 45th Inf. Apr. 15, 1814; brig.-gen. May 13, 1820; adjutant-gen. June 1, 1821, and com. the Western army at the defeat of the Sac Indians under Black Hawk, near Bad Axe River, Aug. 2, 1832. His bro. Gen. RICHARD served in N.C. legisl.; was col. of a N.C. regt. in the Creek war (1813–14); d. Person Co., N.C., Dec. 3, 1821.

Digitized by Google

Atkinson, THEODORE, judge, b. Newcastle, N.H., Dec. 20, 1697; d. Sept. 22, 1779. H. U. 1718. Son of Col. Theodore. Sec. of the Colony in 1741, chief-justice in 1754, and maj.-gen. of militia in 1769. The Revol. deprived him of all these offices. A delegate to the Congress at Albany in 1754, he was one of the committee which drew up the plan of union for the defence of the Colonies. Many years in the legisl. and council; he also held the offices of clerk of the C. C. P., col. of militia, and in active service during the French and Indian wars; collector of Portsmouth, and sheriff. At his death, he left £200 to the Epis. Church of Portsmouth, the interest to be spent in bread for the poor.

Atkinson, THEODORE, Jun., his son, b. Portsmouth, Apr. 29, 1737; d. Oct. 28, 1769. H. U. 1757. Was a member of the council, and sec. of the Colony, 1760–9.

Atkinson, WILLIAM KING, lawyer, b. Portsmouth, N.H., Jan. 6, 1764; d. Sept. 29, 1820. H. U. 1783. He changed his name, which was King, from respect to his relative, Judge A. Commencing the practice of law at Dover, N.H., he acquired high repute, was many years register of probate, was attorney-gen., and afterward a justice of the Supreme Court.

Atlee, SAMUEL JOHN, col. Revol. army, b. 1738; d. Phila., Nov. 25, 1786. He com. a Pennsylvania company in the French war. Aug. 27, 1776, he com. an advanced battalion on Long Island, and was made prisoner, remaining some time in the hands of the British. He was afterward a commissioner to treat with the Indians. Member of the Continental Congress in 1778–82, and one of the committee on the mutiny of Pa. troops in 1781.

Atlee, WASHINGTON L., M.D., lecturer and medical writer, b. Lancaster, Pa., Feb. 22, 1808. Has contrib. many valuable papers to the medical journals of the U. S., and is the author of 13 pamphlets, lectures, and addresses on medicine, chemistry, botany, &c.— Allibone.

Atondo y Antillon, ISIDORO, a Spanish admiral concerned in the colonization of Lower California; d. in the latter part of the 17th century. He sailed from Chacala, May 18, 1683, with two vessels equipped at his own cost. Landing Oct. 6 in a great bay situated in latitude 26° 30′, which he called St. Bruno, he built a church, and took possession of the territory of Lower California for the crown of Spain. After a year's exploration of the interior, during which 400 Indians were baptized, discouraged by the sterility of the soil, Atondo quitted the bay, returned to Cinaloa, where he had formerly revictualled his ships, and engaged in pearl-fishing. Ordered back to St. Bruno, he declined to remain there, and, after spending three years, returned. Atondo was charged with a new expedition in 1686; but none took place until 8 years after, when Francisco de Hamarra undertook it, and the colonization was afterward completed by the fathers Kino and Salva Tierra, who accompanied Atondo.— Nouv. Biog. Gen.

Attucks, CRISPUS, a mulatto, or half-Indian, a resident of Framingham, Ms. Killed Mar. 5, 1770, in the affray known as the Boston Massacre, in which he was a ringleader. Several affrays had recently taken place between the people and the soldiery, who were mutually exasperated. Leading his party to King Street to attack the main guard, Attucks seized the bayonet of a soldier, knocked him down, and, in the fatal discharge which followed, was the first to fall. The funeral of the victims was attended with great pomp and solemnity. The shops were all closed, and all the bells of the town were tolled, as were those of the neighboring towns. The Massacre, as it was called, was commemorated yearly by an oration in Boston, and was effectively used to stimulate the Revol. sentiments of the people.

Atwater, CALEB, author, b. N. Adams, Ms., Dec. 25, 1778; d. Circleville, O., Mar. 13, 1867. Williams Coll. 1804. He practised law; removed to O. in 1811; was some years member of the legisl., and postmaster of Circleville; and was an Indian commissioner under Jackson. Author of a "Tour to Prairie du Chien in 1829," 12mo, Columbus, 1831; "Western Antiquities," 1833; "Writings of Caleb Atwater," 8vo, 1833; "History of Ohio," 8vo, 1838; and "Essay on Education," 1841.

Atwater, JEREMIAH, D.D. (Dick. Coll. 1810), first pres. of Middlebury Coll., Vt., 1800–9; pres. of Dick. Coll. Pa., 1809–15; b. N. Haven, Ct., 1774; d. there 29 July, 1858. Yale Coll. 1793. Tutor there, 1795–9.

Aubert Dubayet (ō-bair du-bär-yā), JEAN BAPT. ANNIBALE, a French soldier, b. La., Aug. 19, 1757; d. Constantinople, Dec. 17, 1797. In 1780, he was a lieut. in the regt. Bourbonnais in the army of Rochambeau, serving in America; and at the outset of the French Revol. was a capt. of cavalry in garrison at Metz. A deputy in the legislative assembly in 1791, he was in 1792 its pres., and a defender of Lafayette. Brig.-gen. in 1793, he defended Mayence, and on its surrender led the garrison against the Vendeans, who defeated him at Clisson. In 1795, he com. the army of the coast of Cherbourg, but was called to the ministry of war by the Directory, and 3 months later was sent ambassador to Constantinople, where he died.

Auberteuil, HILLARD D', see Hilliard d'A.

Aubry, capt., Knight of St. Louis; d. Feb. 24, 1770. Made prisoner by Sir Wm. Johnson at Niagara, in 1759, and was in com. of 4 companies at N. Orleans, where he succeeded to the government of La., Feb. 4, 1765. In Mar. 1766, he surrendered the colony to Gov. Ulloa, upon whose expulsion in 1768, he continued to administer the government until relieved by Gen. O'Reilly, in July, 1769. He then sailed for Bordeaux, and was wrecked in the Garrone, nearly all on board perishing. — O'Callaghan.

Aubrey, COL. THOMAS, a British officer; d. Jan. 15, 1814. Son of Sir Thomas. Ensign 9th Foot, Oct. 26, 1762; capt. 47th, 1771, and engaged at Bunker Hill, 1775; maj. 1782. He served through the Amer. war, particularly distinguishing himself in command of the troops upon Diamond Island, where he acquitted himself so as to receive the thanks of the commander in chief. M. P. for Wallingford, 1784–90.

Digitized by Google

Auchmuty, ROBERT, an eminent lawyer, d. Boston, Apr. 1750. His father, the descendant of an ancient Scotch baronial family, settled in Eng.; but Robert, after receiving his education in Dublin, and studying law at the Temple, came to this country ab. the commencement of the 18th century, and established himself at Boston, where he was in practice ab. the year 1719. In Sept. 1733, he was made judge of the Court of Admiralty; and in 1740 was one of the directors of the Land Bank. In 1741, he was sent to Eng. as agent for the Colony in the boundary dispute with R. I. While there, he advocated the exped. to Cape Breton in a pamphlet, entitled "The Importance of Cape Breton to the British Nation, and a Plan for taking the Place." His talents were extraordinary; and he was famous for his wit and shrewdness. To him, it is said, the profession in Ms. is indebted for the high character it has since maintained. He was a resident of Roxbury from 1733 till his death. He left two sons, Samuel and Robert; a dau., who became the wife of Chief-Justice Benjamin Pratt of N.Y.; and also a third son James, a talented lawyer, and a judge in Nova Scotia.

Auchmuty, ROBERT, lawyer, son of the preceding, b. Boston; d. Marylebone, Eng., Dec. 1788. His great natural talents and industry enabled him to dispense with a collegiate education. He was an eloquent and successful advocate, and, with Adams and Quincy, defended Capt. Preston and the British soldiers engaged in the Boston Massacre. He was judge of admiralty from 1769 till 1776, when, being a zealous royalist, he went to Eng. His letters to persons in Eng. were sent to Amer., with those of Gov. Hutchinson, by Franklin, in 1773, and created great excitement.

Auchmuty, SAMUEL, D.D., bro. of the preceding, an Episcopal clergyman, b. Boston, Jan. 16, 1722; d. N.Y., Mar. 6, 1777. H. U. 1742. He studied in Eng.; was ord., and app. an assist. minister of Trinity Church, N.Y., and in 1764, upon the death of the rector, was assigned the charge of all the churches in that city. Opposed, like most of his Episcopal brethren, to the Revol., he continued to read prayers in his church for the king, until Lord Stirling, while in command in N. Y., compelled him to close his church. When the British obtained possession of the city, he resolved to return, but, not being allowed to pass the Amer. lines, returned on foot by a circuitous route, after undergoing great hardships. His church and parsonage had been burnt to the ground, and his papers and the church-records all destroyed. The Sunday following, he preached in St. Paul's for the last time; an illness, brought on by his exposure and hardships, terminating his life in a few days. He received his degree of D.D. from Oxford, and from Kings Coll. in 1767. Trumbull calls him a "high-church clergyman," and makes him the subject of remark in "McFingal."

Auchmuty, SIR SAMUEL, a British gen., son of Rev. Samuel, b. N.Y., June 22, 1758; d. Dublin, Aug. 11, 1822. Kings Coll. 1775. He volunteered in the 45th Foot in Aug. 1776; was in the battles of Brooklyn and White Plains; and, after serving in three campaigns against his countrymen, procured a captaincy in the 75th, with which he served in India from 1783 to 1796, and was at the first siege of Seringapatam. He was adj.-gen. to Abercromby's exped. to Egypt in 1800; was employed as a brig.-gen. in South America in 1806; and, in Feb. 1807, took by assault, after a most determined resistance, the fort and city of Montevideo, for which he was thanked by parliament. In 1810, he com. the forces in the Carnatic; in 1811, reduced the valuable settlements of Java and Batavia, was again thanked by parliament, and, returning to Eng. in 1813, was made a lieut.-gen., and in 1822 commander in chief in Ireland.

Audubon, JOHN JAMES, ornithologist, b. N. Orleans, May 4, 1780; d. Minniesland, near N. Y., Jan. 27, 1851. His father had been an admiral in the French navy. From his earliest years, his parents trained his mind to the study of Nature. He was educated at Paris, where he attained considerable skill as a painter, under the tuition of the celebrated David. At 17, he returned home, and began a collection of drawings of the "Birds of America." His father gave him a farm in Pa., and he married. "For a period of nearly 20 years," he says in the preface to his great work, "my life was a series of vicissitudes. I tried various branches of commerce; but they all proved unprofitable." As early as 1810, he sailed down the Ohio with his wife and child in an open boat, in search of a congenial spot for his forest home. Devoting all his energies to his favorite pursuit, hardly a region in the U. S. was left unvisited. Wilson the ornithologist was his companion in some of his Western excursions. In 1811, Audubon visited Florida, gathering by his rifle and pencil the subjects of his great work. With a view to its publication, he went to Phila. and N.Y. in 1824, and in 1826 to Europe, to obtain subscribers. From Herschel, Cuvier, and Humboldt, whom he had known in Amer., he had a warm reception. "The Birds of America" appeared in numbers, beginning in 1825, and was completed in 4 vols., June 20. 1838, exceeding by its merits all expectation. In 1829, he returned to the U.S.; and, renewing his explorations, found materials for a new work, called "Ornithological Biographies." He visited Eng. in 1834, and, returning in 1839, established himself on the banks of the Hudson. There, with the aid of Dr. Bachman, he prepared "The Quadrupeds of America," pub. in 1850. He was a man of simple manners, but of marked characteristics of genius and energy. He was assisted in some of his labors by his two sons, the younger of whom, John W., d. Feb. 21, 1862, while preparing a new edition of the "Birds of America," afterward completed and pub. by his widow in 1869.

Augur, CHRISTOPHER COLON, brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. N. Y. ab. 1821. West Point, 1843. App. from Mich., he entered the 2d Inf.; was aide-de-camp during the Mexican war to Brig.-Gen. Hopping, and, after his death, to Gen. Caleb Cushing; capt. Aug. 1, 1852; and was in 1855–6 disting. in several conflicts with the Indians of Oregon. Maj. 13th Inf. May 14,

Digitized by Google

1861, he was a short time com. of cadets at West Point, and Nov. 12 became brig.-gen. of vols. He was first assigned a command in McDowell's corps; in July, 1862, took a division in the army corps of Gen. Banks, and was wounded at the battle of Cedar Mountain, Aug. 9, 1862. In Oct., he was a member of the court of inquiry to investigate the surrender of Harper's Ferry, and in Nov. was ordered to report to Gen. Banks for service in his Southern exped. He was made maj.-gen. 9 Aug. 1862; col. 12th Inf. Mar. 15, 1866; Mar. 4, 1869, brig.-gen. U. S. A. He won the brevets of brig.-gen. U. S. A. at the capture of Port Hudson, and maj.-gen. for services in the field during the Rebellion. He com. the dept. of Washington from Oct. 1863 to Aug. 1866. Assigned to the dept. of the Platte in 1867.

Augur, Hezekiah, sculptor, b. Feb. 21, 1791, N. Haven, Ct.; d. there Jan. 10, 1858. Not succeeding in trade, he turned his attention to art, and in 1827 chiselled a Washington and a Sappho. He produced several works, the best of which is his "Jephthah and his Daughter," in the Trumbull Gallery of Yale Coll. Possessing also much mechanical genius, his invention of the carving machine is now in general and successful use. A. M. of Y. C. 1833.

Augustus, John, a philanthropic shoemaker of Boston; d. there June 21, 1859, a. 74. For more than 20 years he attended the criminal courts for the purpose of endeavoring to reclaim the poor and unfortunate, to whom his purse and his house were always open.

Aulick, John H., commo. U. S. N., b. Va. Midshipman, Nov. 15, 1809; master's mate in the action between "The Enterprise" and "Boxer," Sept. 4, 1813; lieut. Dec. 9, 1814; com. Mar. 3, 1831; capt. Sept. 8, 1841; commo. retired list, July 16, 1862. He com. E. I. squad. 1852–3; d. Washington, D.C., April 27, 1873.

Aury, Luis de, was from New Grenada; became a lieut. in the navy, 9 June, 1813; and com. the naval forces of New Grenada at the siege of Carthagena. Sept. 1, 1816, he accompanied Herrera to Texas as commo. of the united fleets of the Republics of Mexico, Venezuela, La Plata, and New Grenada; was app. gov. of Texas and Galveston Island, and held the office until 1817. In July, 1817, he aided Sir Gregor McGregor in the exped. against Florida; and afterwards assisted the patriots of the South Amer. republics. He m. a lady of N. Orleans, resided there some time, and was in 1845 at Havana. Yoakum's Texas.

Austin, David, b. N. Haven, 1760. Yale Coll. 1779. Minister of Elizabethtown, N.J., from 1788 to 1797, when dismissed for his second-advent opinions, and of Bozrah, Ct., from 1815 to his death, Norwich, Feb. 5, 1831. He pub. the "American Preacher," by various ministers, 4 vols., "The Downfall of Babylon," and some sermons, and edited a commentary on the Bible.

Austin, Benjamin, political writer, b. Boston, 1752; d. there May 4, 1820. Son of Benjamin, who d. Boston, Mar. 14, 1806, a 89. His mother was a Waldo. He was a merchant and a political writer before the Revol. In 1784, he engaged in business with his bro. J. L. Austin. He engaged zealously on the Democ. or Republican side of the violent political controversy, which terminated in the triumph of Jefferson, and was app. by him commissioner of loans for Ms. He was a member of the house and senate of Ms., and was long known as a writer in the Independent Chronicle, under the signatures of Honestus and Old South. His essays under the latter title were pub. in 8vo, in 1803. His son Charles attempted, in 1806, to chastise Thos. O. Selfridge for abuse of his father, and was killed by him in State Street, Boston. Selfridge was tried and acquitted.

Austin, James Trecothic, LL.D., lawyer and author, b. Boston, Jan. 7, 1784; d. there May 8, 1870. H. U. 1802. Son of Jonathan L. Austin. He was town advocate in 1809, member of the State legisl., county attorney for Suffolk, 1812–32, and attorney-gen. of Ms. in 1832–43. He delivered an oration at Lexington, July 4, 1815; edited the Emerald, a literary periodical; was a contributor to the Christian Examiner and to various political journals; pub. several orations and other similar productions, and in 1828 a "Life of Elbridge Gerry," whose dau. he m. in 1806. He was an anti-Federalist, and a decided opponent of the antislavery movement.

Austin, Jonathan Loring, a merchant, b. Boston, Jan. 2, 1748; d. there May 10, 1826. H. U. 1766. Son of Hon. Benj. Austin. He became a merchant in Portsmouth, N.H.; was maj. in Langdon's regt.; became aide-de-camp to Gen. Sullivan, and was sec. of the board of war in Ms. until Oct. 1777. Despatched to France with the news of Burgoyne's surrender, and to obtain supplies of clothing, &c., for the army, the good Dr. Chauncy prayed, that, "whatever might befall the young man, the packet might be preserved." Arriving in Nov., Dr. Franklin transferred to the messenger of such glorious tidings the affection of a father; constituted him additional private sec., and sent him as an agent to London. Charged with the despatches of the commissioners to Congress, he arrived in Phila., May, 1779. Sent to Europe by the State of Ms., in Jan. 1780, to negotiate a loan, he was captured on the passage; was liberated in Eng. by means of his old friends, but did not succeed in his mission, and returned in the fall of 1781. He served many years in the State senate; represented Cambridge in the legisl., and was successively elected sec. and treas. of the State. He delivered the oration, July 4, 1786, in Boston. — Loring's Bost. Orators.

Austin, Col. Jonathan Williams, son of Benj., a Revol. patriot, b. Boston, Apr. 18, 1751; d. in a Southern State in the summer of 1778. H.U. 1769. He read law with John Adams; was adm. to the Suffolk bar, July 27, 1772; was a member of the Middlesex convention in 1774, and chairman of the committee that prepared resolutions adopted by the convention. Maj. in the army of the Revol., and in 1776 com. at Castle William. He wrote poetical and political essays, and delivered the oration on the Boston Massacre, March 5, 1778. — Loring's Boston Orators.

Austin, Rev. John Mather, b. N.Y., 1805. Author of "Voice to Youth," "Voice to the Married," "Sunday-School Exposition," "Life of John Quincy Adams," &c. — Allibone.

Digitized by Google

Austin, Moses, Texan pioneer, b Durham, Ct.; d. Louisiana, June 10, 1821. Emigrating West with his family in 1798, he engaged in lead-mining from 1800 to 1820, when he was at Bexar, Tex. He applied to the Mexican commandant at Monterey for permission to colonize 300 families in Tex.; and the enterprise was successfully prosecuted by his son Stephen F. On his return to the Sabine in Jan. 1821, he was robbed, and caught a severe cold, which caused his death.

Austin, Samuel, D.D. (Williams Coll. 1807), pres. of the U. of Vt. (1815–21), b. New Haven, Ct., Oct. 7, 1760; d. Glastenbury, Ct., Dec. 4, 1830. Y.C. 1783. He spent two years in teaching, and in the study of divinity; was ord. at Fairhaven, Nov. 9, 1786, but was dismissed Jan. 19, 1790; and was many years pastor of the First Cong. Church at Worcester. Here he became celebrated for his eloquence and learning, and acquired great popularity. In 1821, he took charge of a small and pecuniarily-embarrassed congregation at Newport, R.I., once under the care of the celebrated Dr. Hopkins. Increasing age and infirmities occasioned his return to Worcester in 1825. For the last three years of his life, he was partially deranged. He pub. "A View of the Church," 1807; "Letters on Baptism," 1805; "Reply to Merill's Letters," 1806; "Dissertations on Several Fundamental Articles of Christian Theology," 1806; a number of sermons, orations, and addresses, also numerous contributions to the periodicals of his time. — Sprague.

Austin, Stephen F., founder of the first Amer. col. in Tex., son of Moses; d. Dec. 27, 1836. Leaving Natchitoches, July 5, 1821, to prosecute the grant for the formation of a colony previously issued to his father, he went to the city of Mexico, where it was confirmed Feb. 18, 1823. By it he was invested with almost absolute power over the colonists of Austin, then the capital of Tex., the site of which he selected. A convention met Mar. 1, 1833, without the concurrence of the Mexican population, to form a State constitution; and Austin was one of the delegates to the central government at Mexico, to obtain its ratification. In consequence of the delays he met with, he recommended a union of all the municipalities, and the organization of a State under the Acta Constitutiva of May 7, 1824. Arrested, and taken back to Mexico, he was detained until Sept. 1835. Finding the country in a state of confusion and insecurity upon his return, he took part with the revol. party; was put in command of a small force, and undertook to drive the Mexicans out of Tex. Gen. Houston was elected to the command of the army in Nov. 1835; and Austin was made commissioner to the U.S. He returned to Tex. in July, 1836, and, at the time of his death, was engaged in negotiations to obtain the official recognition of Texan independence. A biography of him by M. B. Lamar was said to have been prepared.

Austin, William, lawyer and author, b. Charlestown, Ms., Mar. 2, 1778; d. there June 27, 1841. H.U. 1798. In 1801, he delivered an oration at Charlestown on the battle of Bunker's Hill. His "Letters from London," written in 1802 and 1803, were printed in Boston, 8vo, 1804. Ab. 1805, he was wounded in a duel with James H. Elliott, growing out of a political newspaper altercation. In 1807, he pub. a vol. of Unitarian views, entitled "An Essay on the Human Character of Jesus Christ." He contrib. to the New-England Galaxy a remarkable legendary tale, entitled "Peter Rugg, the Missing Man," and to the New-England Magazine the paper "The Late Joseph Natterstrone." He was eminent at the bar of Suffolk and Middlesex. — Duyckinck.

Autichamp d' (dō-te-shŏn'), Antoine Joseph Eulalie de Beaumont, Comte, a French gen., b. 1744; d. 1822. He served in Corsica, where he was wounded at the affair of Pontegolo. Returning to France, he became col. of the inf. regt. of Ayenais, and led it in America under Rochambeau, distinguishing himself at Yorktown and at the taking of St. Christopher's, where he had the misfortune to lose his eldest son. During the Revol., he emigrated, served in all the campaigns of the army of Condé, and returned to France during the consulate.

Avalos y Figuera (ä-vä'-lōs e fe-gä'-rä), don Diego de, author of "Miscellanea Austral," Lima, 1602; was of a noble family of Ecija, and left Spain on account of a hopeless passion. The last 15 chapters of his book, which is in prose and verse, treat of the history and antiquities of Peru.

Avaugour (dăr'vō-goor'), Pierre du Bois, Baron d', gov. of Canada, 1661–3; killed in 1664, while defending the fort of Serin in Croatia against the Turks. He had gained distinction in the wars of Hungary, and, being of resolute and unbending character, was, while gov. of New France, constantly engaged in disputes with the clergy, especially with Bishop Laval, who caused his recall. In 1662, he made a treaty with the Onondaga, Cayuga, and Seneca nations. — Morgan.

Averell, Gen. Wm. Woods, b. Cameron, Steuben Co., N.Y., Nov. 5, 1832. W. Pt. 1855. Entering the mounted rifles, he disting. himself in N. Mexico by the surprise and capture of a party of Kiowas in Dec. 1857, and was severely wounded in a night-attack by the Navajoes in the autumn of 1858. 1st lieut. 14 May, 1861; col. 3d Pa. Cav.; capt. 3d U.S. Cav. 17 July, 1862; brig.-gen. vols. 26 Sept. 1862. He took part in the battles of Williamsburg, Malvern Hill, and of Pope's campaign, July–Aug. 1862; re-enforced Pleasonton in the advance of the army after Antietam; was brev. maj. for Kelley's Ford, Va., where he com. 17 Mar. 1863; com. the 2d div. of Stoneman's caval. corps of Hooker's army; won a decisive victory over a force of 4,000 rebels at Droop Mountain, 6 Nov. 1863, for which he was brev. lieut.-col.; and brev. col. 15 Dec. 1863, for services in the Salem exped. in Va. He served in West Va. under Siegel, Hunter, and Sheridan in 1864, and was in the actions of Winchester, Moorfield, Opequan, and Fisher's Hill, and was brev maj.-gen for Moorfield, 13 Mar. 1865. U.S. consul-gen. in Canada since 1866.

Digitized by Google

Avery, Ephraim K., Meth. clergyman, b. Ct. ab. 1799; d. Pittsfield, O., Oct. 23, 1869. He was noted for eloquence and ability, and was stationed at Fall River in 1832–3, when the murder and seduction of Sarah Maria Cornell, a member of his church with whom he had been intimate, led to the suspicion that he was the murderer. He was tried and acquitted by an ecclesiastical court; and a civil court failed to make a case against him: but the community believed him guilty; and he withdrew from the ministry, and removed to O., where he was an industrious and highly-respected farmer.

Avery, Waitstill, Revol. patriot, b. Groton, Ct., May 3, 1745; d. Burke Co., N.C., Mar. 15, 1821. N. J. Coll. 1766. He studied law in Md., and, in Jan. 1769, settled in practice in Mecklenburg, N.C. He was prominent among the petitioners and remonstrants of that day against the oppressive acts of the government, and also in the famous Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence. In 1775, he was a delegate to the Congress at Hillsborough which organized the military force of the State. In the summer of 1776, he joined the army of Gen. Rutherford in the Cherokee nation, and was a commissioner at the treaty of Holston, which gave peace to the western frontier. In the fall of 1776, he was again a member of the State Congress. In 1779, he was col. of the county militia in active service during the British invasion. In 1781, he moved to Burke Co., which he represented many years in the State legisl. He was the first State attorney-gen. of N.C. in 1777, and, for some years before his death, the patriarch of the N.C. bar.

Avezac, Auguste d', lawyer, b. of French parents in the Isle of St. Domingo, 1777; d. Feb. 15, 1851. He was educated at a military acad. in France, while his family was obliged by the insurrection of the blacks to take refuge in the U.S. Studying medicine in N.C., he practised in Accomac Co., Va.; but, after the annexation of La., by advice of his relative, Edward Livingston, he studied law, and became disting., especially in criminal cases. In the War of 1812, he served as judge-advocate, and aide to Jackson at the battle of New Orleans. In 1829, Pres. Jackson app. him sec. of legation to the Netherlands, chargé d'affaires in 1831; and in 1841 and 1843, he was a representative in the N.Y. legisl.; chargé d'affaires to Holland, 1845–9. He prepared "Reminiscences of Edward Livingston," a portion of which was pub. in the Democratic Review in 1840.

Avezac, Pierre Valentin Dominique Julian d', a French scholar, b. St. Domingo, Jan. 17, 1769; d. U.S., Feb. 1, 1831. Educated in France, at the outbreak of the French Revol., he returned to his native island, vainly hoping to save some of his property there. He came to N. Orleans, and occupied himself in literary pursuits. Avezac was pres. of the first college established at N. Orleans. He is the author of the French official translation of the penal code of La. His niece, the young widow de Lasay, m. Edward Livingston, author of that code

Avezzana (ä-vĕt-zä'-nä), Joseph, an Italian patriot, and merchant in N.Y. City, b. at Chieri, Piedmont, Feb. 19, 1797. He fought under Napoleon in 1813 and 14; served in the Sardinian army until Mar. 1821; next served as capt. of inf. in the Liberal cause in Spain, but was taken prisoner, and came to America, arriving at N. Orleans at the close of 1823. In 1825, he visited Mexico, obtained a grant of land on the site of the present city of Tampico, and in a short time gained a competence. In 1832, he espoused the cause of Santa Ana; was intrusted with the defence of the city; gained a complete victory over Gen. Mora at Ciudad Victoria, and on the triumph of the Liberals, resigned his command, having been previously named gen. of Tamaulipas, Cohahuila, Texas, and Nuevo Leon. In 1834, he established himself in business in N.Y., where he married an Irish lady; but, on the revol. outbreak of 1848, returned to Italy, and was app. commanding gen. of the National Guards of Genoa. After an unsuccessful struggle, he resigned, and withdrew on board the U.S. steamer "Princeton." Landing at Civita Vecchia, he hastened to Rome, then under a republican government, and was app. minister of war and com.-in-chief of the army. For two months, this small force kept at bay 4 armies, amounting to 100,000 men; but on the night of July 2, he fled in disguise, and at the close of Aug. reached N.Y., where he has since resided. — Appleton's New Amer. Cyclop.

Axtell, Col. William, loyalist, b. on the Island of Jamaica, 1720; d. Sept. 2, 1795, at Chertsey, Eng. He resided many years in N.Y., where he m. Margaret, dau. of Abraham De Peyster, and was app. a member of the council, May 4, 1771. During the Revol., by which he lost a large estate, he was col. of a provincial corps, became entitled to half-pay, and received from parliament a considerable sum of money as a loyalist. He was descended from the celebrated Col. Daniel Axtell, who was executed by Charles II. for the part he took in the great rebellion. He went to Eng. in 1783.

Ayer, Peter, one of the founders of the society of Shakers at Canterbury, N.H., b. 1760; d. there Sept. 14, 1857. He was a powerful and athletic man, and a soldier of the Revol. before becoming a member of the sect with which he was connected 70 years.

Ayeta (ä-yä'-tä) Francisco de, a Franciscan friar, author of "Apologia del Orden de S. Francisco en la America," 1690, also "Verdad Vindicada," or "La Verdad Defendida;" the three titles, perhaps, of the same work. He was custodian of the province of Santo Evangelio, and procurador-gen. of the Indies — Duyckinck.

Ayllon (dä-ĭl-yōn), Lucas Vasquez de, a Spanish adventurer, who in 1509 was councillor of the superior tribunal of St. Domingo, and was afterward employed by Cortes on a mission to Velasquez, who was arming against him; d. 1526. In 1520, he made an exped. to Florida, landed near the mouth of the Conchahee River, S.C., treacherously made captive a large number of the natives, who nearly all perished, and named the country "Chicora." He after ward returned, wishing to found a colony, and obtained provisions of the gov. of Chicora, but was ruined by the expense. He is believed to have perished in a second exped. to Florida.

Digitized by Google

Aylmer (āl'-mer) MATTHEW WHITWORTH, fifth lord, a British gen., b. 1775; d. Lond., Feb. 23, 1850. He succeeded to the peerage on the death of his father Henry, Oct. 22, 1785, entered the army as ensign 49th Foot in 1787, served at the siege of Copenhagen, in Portugal in 1809, in the peninsular campaigns, and became a full gen. May 27, 1825. He was gov.-gen. of Canada from 1830 to Sept. 1833, and was held in high estimation by the Canadians. — Morgan.

Ayolas, DE or D'AYOLAS JUAN, a Spanish adventurer who sailed with Pedro de Mendoza in 1534, on a voyage of conquest and discovery to the La Plata. Mendoza, having been disabled by disease in 1536, gave the command to Ayolas, who ascended the Paraguay to Asuncion, where he defeated the natives, and remained six months. Leaving a garrison there, he ascended the river about 80 leagues, and then marched westward with 200 Spaniards. He never returned. An Indian reported that Ayolas and his men were decoyed into a morass, and killed by the Payngos.

Ayres, ROMEYN B., brev. maj.-gen. U. S.A., b. N.Y. West Point, 1847. He served in the 3d Art. in the Mexican war, 1847–8; became capt. 5th Art. May 14, 1861; brig.-gen. vols. Nov. 29, 1862; was engaged at Bull Run; chief of Art. of Gen. W. F. Smith's div. Oct. 1861 to Nov. 1862, and of the 6th Corps from Nov. 1862 to Apr. 1863; was in the peninsular campaign; was engaged at South Mountain, Antietam, and Fredericksburg; com. a brigade in 5th Corps at Chancellorsville; com. div., and brev. maj. for Gettysburg, July 2, 1863; served through the Richmond campaign of 1864–5, earning brevs. of lieut.-col. for battle of Wilderness, May 5, 1864; col. Aug. 18, 1864, for battle on Weldon Railroad; brig.-gen. and maj.-gen. Mar. 13, 1865, for battle of Five Forks, and for gallant and meritorious services during the Rebellion; lieut.-col. 28th Inf. July 28, 1866. — Cullum.

Azara (dē-äth-ä'rä) FELIX DE, Spanish naturalist, b. May 18, 1746; d. Aragon, 1811. He was educated in part at the military acad. at Barcelona; was wounded in the exped. against Algiers in 1775; became a lieut.-col. of engineers, and was app. a commissioner to determine the boundaries of the Spanish and Portuguese territories in S. Amer. Reaching his destination in 1781, he devoted much time to constructing correct maps of the country, and in preparing his "Natural History of the Quadrupeds of Paraguay," pub. soon after his recall in 1801. This work was pub. in French by Moreau St. Mery, in 2 vols. 8vo. While in Paris in 1803, he made the acquaintance of M. Walkenaer, who pub. Azara's travels in S. Amer. from 1781 to 1801, with notes by the celebrated Cuvier, 4 vols, 8vo, 1809.

Azevedo Coutinho (ä-zā-vā'-do kō-tēn'-yo), JOSÉ JOAQUIM DA CUNHA, a Portuguese bishop and author, b. Brazil, Sept. 8, 1742; d. Sept. 12, 1821. He pub. in 1792 "Ensais economico sobre o commercio de Portugal e suas colonias." In 1794, he was made bishop of Pernambuco. He pub. in London, 1798 a pamphlet against the abolition of the slave-trade by Great Britain. Shortly before his death, he was chosen to the Cortes as a representative of Rio de Janeiro. Chosen bishop of Elvas, he declined, and was app. inquisitor-gen. Author of a memoir on the conquest of Rio de Janeiro by Duguai Trouin in 1711.

Azevedo y Zuñiga (ä-tha-vā'do e thoon-yee'-gä) GASPARD DE, Count of Monterey, a Spaniard, who in 1603 succeeded Luis de Velasco as viceroy of Peru and Mexico; d. Mar 16, 1606. He equipped a fleet to search for the great southern continent, which, under the command of Pedro Fernandez de Quirre, discovered several islands ab. lat. 28° S.

Babbitt, ISAAC, inventor of the "Babbitt Metal" used in all railroad-car axle-boxes, b. Taunton, Ms., 26 July, 1799; d. McLean Asylum, Somerville, Ms., 26 May, 1862. He learned the trade of a goldsmith, and ab. 1831 made at Taunton the first britannia-ware manufactured in this country. Removing to Boston in 1834, he was employed in Alger's foundry, and ab. 1839 invented the anti-friction metal which bears his name. He received in 1841 a gold medal from the Ms. Char. Mech. Asso., and from Congress $20,000, for this valuable invention, for which he took out patents in Eng. in 1844, and in Russia in 1847. He was for many years engaged in the manufacture of this metal, and subsequently carried on the manufacture of soap. He became deranged a few years before his death.

Babcock, MAJ. ELISHA, pub. the American Mercury 37 years; d. Hartford, Ct., Feb. 1821, a. 68.

Babcock, COL. HENRY, b. R.I., 1736; d. 1800. Y. C. 1752. Son of Chief-Justice Babcock of R. I.; bro. of Rev. Luke (b. 1738; d. 18 Feb. 1777. Y. C. 1755). At 18, he was a capt.; at 19, he was in the force under Col. Williams, which was defeated at Lake George; maj. in 1756, lieut.-col. in 1757, and col. in 1758, of a R.I. regt., with which he took part in the attack on Ticonderoga, and was wounded in the knee. He was afterwards at its capture by Amherst. M. and settled at Stonington, Ct. Made, in Feb. 1776, com. of the forces at Newport, but was removed in May on account of insanity.

Babcock, RUFUS, D.D., clergyman and author, b. N. Colebrook, Ct., Sept. 18, 1798. B.U. 1821. He was 2 years tutor in Col. Coll., D.C.; was ord. pastor of the Baptist Church Poughkeepsie, 1823; became pastor 1st Baptist Church, Salem, 1826; was pres. of Waterville Coll., Me., in 1833–6; and for 3½ years was pastor of the Spruce-st. Church, Phila.; he then returned to his former charge in Poughkeepsie, and is now settled in Paterson, N.J. He was twice sec. of the Amer. and Foreign Bible Society, and has been sec. of the S.S. Union and the Pa. Colonization Society. He founded and for 5 years edited the Baptist Memorial; pub. "Claims of Education Societies," 1829; "Review of Beckwith's Dissuasive from Controversy on Baptism," 1829; "Making Light of Christ," 1830; "Memoirs" of Fuller, 1830

Digitized by Google

George Learned, 1832, Abraham Booth, and Isaac Backus; "History of Waterville Coll.," 1836; "Tales of Truth for the Young," 1837; "Personal Recollections of Rev. John M. Peck, D. D.," 1858; and "The Emigrant's Mother," 1859; d. Salem, Mass. May 4, 1875.

Bache (bātch), ALEXANDER DALLAS, LL. D., A.A.S., physicist, b. Phila., July 19, 1806; d. Newport, R.I., Feb. 17, 1867. West Point, 1825. He was a great-grandson of Dr. Franklin; and his mother was the dau. of A. J. Dallas. He was a lieut. of engineers until his resignation in 1829, engaged in constructing Fort Adams and other works at the entrance of Narragansett Bay. From 1827–32, he was prof. of chem. and nat. philos. in the U. of Pa, and then took charge of the organization of Girard Coll., spending some time in 1836 inspecting the great schools of Europe, publishing, upon his return, a valuable report on the subject. In 1839, he resigned his connection with this coll., and became in 1841 principal of the Phila. High School. In 1843, he was app. superintendent of the U. S. coast-survey. Its valuable contributions to geodetic and physical science are found in the annual reports of the survey, and in the proceedings of the Asso. for the Advancement of Science. He was one of the founders of the Amer. Asso. for the Promotion of Science, took a prominent part in founding the Amer. Acad. of Science, was made pres. of the Amer. Philos. Society in 1855, and was an active and efficient member of the U.S. Sanitary Commission throughout the war. The degree of LL.D. was conferred on him by the U. of N.Y. in 1836, by the U. of Pa. in 1837, and by H.U. 1851. He was made a regent of the Smithsonian Institution in Aug. 1846. In 1833, he edited Brewster's "Optics," with notes. He pub. "Observations" at the Observatory of Girard Coll. 1840–5, 3 vols. 8vo; "Report of Experiments to navigate the Chesap. and Del. Canal by Steam," 8vo, Phila., 1834, and contrib. many valuable papers to the scientific journals of the day.

Bache, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, journalist, son of Richard, b. Phila., Aug. 12, 1769; d. there Sept. 10, 1798. He accompanied his grandfather, Dr. Franklin, to Paris, was educated in France and Geneva, and gained a knowledge of printing in the celebrated publishing-house of Didot. Returning in 1785, he studied for a time in the Coll. of Phila., and in Oct. 1790 began to publish the General Advertiser, afterwards called the Aurora, the ablest and most influential, as well as the most violent, opposition journal during the administrations of Washington and Adams.

Bache, FRANKLIN, M.D., an eminent physician, great-grandson of Benjamin Franklin, son of B. F. Bache, b. Phila., Oct. 25, 1792; d. there Mar. 19, 1864. U. of Pa. 1810; M.D. 1814. He was an assist. surgeon in the army in 1813, and surgeon in 1814–16, when he resigned, and began practice in Phila. Physician to the Walnut-st. Prison, 1824–36; prof. of chemistry to the Franklin Institute, 1826–32; physician to the Eastern Penitentiary, 1829–39; prof. of chemistry in the Phila. Coll. of Pharmacy, 1831–41; and from 1841 to his death held the same chair in the Jeff. Med. Coll.; pres. Amer. Philos. Soc., 1854–5, and at his death pres. of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum Corporation. As joint author, with Dr. Wood, of the "U. S. Dispensatory," from 1833 to 1864, he is probably best known to the medical world. He also rendered much service to medical literature by his contributions to the "U. S. Pharmacopœia" upon the Materia Medica. Author of "A System of Chemistry," 8vo, 1819; "Introductory Lectures on Chemistry," 1841–52. Editor, with Dr. Hare, of "Ure's Dictionary of Chemistry," 8vo, 1821; "Cutbush's Pyrotechny," 8vo, 1825; "Dr. Hare's Chemical Compendium," 1836; "Turner's Chemistry," and one of the editors of the North Amer. Med. and Surg. Journal, 1823–32. Contrib. to a large number of medical and scientific journals. (See Memoir by Geo. B. Wood, Phila., 1865.) RICHARD (1794–1836) capt. of ordnance, U. S. A., author of "Notes on Colombia," 1822–3, Phila., 8vo, 1827, was a brother.

Bache, GEORGE MIFFLIN, hydrographer, b. Phila. ab. 1810; d. Sept. 8, 1846. Great-grandson of Franklin, bro. of A. D. Bache. Entering the navy Jan. 1, 1825, he became a lieut. Mar. 3, 1835, and ab. 1838 was placed upon the coast-survey. He was engaged upon the survey of the Gulf Stream, and perished in the hurricane of Sept. 8, 1846.

Bache, HARTMAN, brev. brig.-gen. U. S. A., b. Pa. ab. 1797. West Point, 1818. Bro. of Franklin Bache. Entering the U. S. topog. engineers, he became brev.-maj. July 24, 1828; maj. July 7, 1838; lieut.-col. Aug. 6, 1861; col. Mar. 3, 1863; brev. brig.-gen. Mar. 13, 1865; retired Mar. 7, 1867; d. Phila. Oct. 8, 1872.

Bache, RICHARD, U. S. postmaster-gen. (Nov. 1776–1782), b. Settle, Yorkshire, Eng., Sept. 12, 1737; d. Settle, Berks Co., Pa., July 29, 1811. He came while young to Amer., became a merchant, and, at the beginning of the Revol., was chairman of the republican soc. of Phila. In 1767, he m. Sarah, only dau. of Benj. Franklin, and succeeded him as postmaster-gen. His bro. THEOPHILACT, a loyalist, pres. of the N. Y. Chamber of Commerce in 1773; d. N. Y. City, 1807, a. 78. His kindness to Whig prisoners during the war merits especial notice.

Bache, MRS. SARAH, only dau. of Dr. Franklin, b. Phila., Sept. 11, 1744; d. Oct. 5, 1808. In 1767, she m. Richard Bache, and deserves special mention for her patriotic services during the Revol. war. In the severe winter of 1780, many of the soldiers were barefoot and only half clad. The ladies undertook to supply them with clothing, and made the garments with their own hands. In this noble charity, Mrs. Bache was one of the most zealous. On other occasions, her active benevolence was called into exercise. She performed hospital duties, dressing the wounds of the soldiers, and administering to them medicines and cordials to mitigate their sufferings.

Bachi (bä-kee'), PIETRO, Ph. D. of the U. of Padua, teacher of Italian and Spanish in H.U. (1826-46), b. Sicily, 1787; d. Boston, Aug. 22, 1853. He was bred to the law. Implicated in Murat's attempt to ascend the throne of Naples in 1815, he was banished, and resided in Eng. until 1825, when he came to the U.S. He was well versed in jurisprudence, and was a skilful teacher, but became intemperate in his habits, was deprived of his post in H.U., and d. soon after. Author of an "Italian Grammar," 1829.

Digitized by Google

Bachman (bak'-man), JOHN, D.D, LL.D., b. Dutchess Co., N.Y., Feb. 4, 1790; d. Charleston, Feb. 25, 1874. Pastor of the German Lutheran Church in Charleston, S.C., since 1815. He assisted Audubon in his great work on ornithology, and was the principal author of the work on the quadrupeds of N. A., illustrated by Audubon and his sons. Author of "Notice of the Types of Mankind, by Nott and Gliddon," 1854; "Examination of Prof. Agassiz' Sketch of the Natural Provinces of the Animal World," &c., 1855; "Characteristics of Genera and Species as applicable to the Doctrine of the Unity of the Human Race," 1854; "Catalogue of Phenogamous Plants and Ferns growing in the Vicinity of Charleston, S.C.;" "Two Letters on Hybridity," 8vo, 1850; "Viviparous Quadrupeds of N.A.," and a work in defence of Martin Luther, 1853. In the Med. Jour. of S.C., he has ably discussed the bearings of science upon theology.

Back, SIR GEORGE, F.R.S., an arctic explorer, b. Stockport, Eng., Nov. 6, 1796. Entering the royal navy in 1808, he accompanied Capt. David Buchan on an exped. to Spitzbergen in 1817; and in 1819 went with Sir John Franklin on his overland exped. from the western shore of Hudson Bay to the northern coast, near the Coppermine River. The exped. returned to York Factory in 1823. In 1821, he was made lieut. In 1825, he joined Franklin's second exped. in the endeavor, in conjunction with Beechey and Parry, to discover from opposite quarters the north-west passage. Lieut. Back penetrated as far as lat. 70° 24′ N.; long. 149° 37′ W., and on the return of the exped. was left in charge of the remaining officers and men at Fort Franklin, with all the stores, journals of the voyage, &c.; returning to Eng. in 1827, having in 1825 been made commander. In 1833, he took charge of the party sent in search of Sir John Ross, who had left Eng. in 1829, of which voyage he pub. an interesting history. Receiving news of Ross's safety, he returned home in 1835; obtained post rank, and in June, 1836, started on his last voyage. (See Narrative of an Exped. in H. M. ship "Terror," undertaken with a View to Geographical Discovery on the Arctic Shores in 1836–7.") He received a gold medal from the Geog. Society in 1837, was knighted in 1839, and subsequently held a lucrative treasury appointment. — Men of the Time.

Backus, AZEL, D.D. (N. J. Coll. 1810), clergyman and educator, b. Norwich, Ct., Oct. 13, 1765; d. Dec. 28, 1816. Yale Coll. 1787. Nephew of Rev. Charles Backus. After leaving college, he taught school at Wethersfield, Ct., with his classmate, John H. Lothrop. Licensed to preach in 1789; minister at Bethlehem, Ct., and successor of Dr. Bellamy from 1791 to 1812; and pres. of Ham. Coll., N. Y., from its establishment in Sept. 1812, till his death. While at Bethlehem, he instituted and conducted a school of some celebrity. In 1798, he preached the annual election sermon before the Ct. legisl. A vol. of his sermons, with a sketch of his life, has been pub. — Sprague.

Backus, CHARLES, D.D. (Williams Coll. 1801), theologian, uncle of Azel, b. Norwich, Ct., Nov. 9, 1749; d. Somers, Ct., Dec. 30, 1803. Y. C. 1769. Pastor of the Cong. Church at Somers from Aug 10, 1774, until his death. He was a fervent and eloquent preacher, and a successful teacher of theology. Besides sermons, he pub. a vol. on Regeneration, "Five Discourses on the Truth of the Bible," 1797, and an historical discourse upon the town of Somers, 1801. — Sprague.

Backus, ELECTUS, lieut.-col., mortally wounded in defence of Sackett's Harbor, May 29, and d. June 7, 1813. App. maj. light dragoons, Oct. 7, 1808; lieut.-col. Feb. 15, 1809. His son ELECTUS, col. U.S.A., b. N.Y., 1804. West Point, 1824. Aide to Gen. Brady, 1828–37; capt. Oct. 17, 1837; brev. maj. Sept. 23, 1846, "for gallant and meritorious conduct at Monterey;" maj. 3d Inf. June 10, 1850; lieut.-col. Jan. 19, 1859; col. 6th Inf. Feb. 20, 1862; d. Detroit, June 7, 1862. He saw service in the Seminole War, 1838–40, and in the Navajoe exped. 1858.

Backus, FRANKLIN THOS., a disting. lawyer of Cleveland, O.; d. there May 14, 1870; b. Lee, Ms., May 6, 1813. Y.C. 1836. He went to Cleveland in 1836; was adm. to the bar in 1839; pros. atty. for Cuyahoga Co., 1841; member of the house of rep. 1846, of the State senate in 1848, and of the peace convention of 1861. — A. T. Goodman.

Backus, ISAAC, Bapt. minister and author, b. Norwich, Ct., 1724; d. Nov. 20, 1806. He began to preach in 1746; was ord. a Congregationalist, at Middleborough, Ms., Apr. 13, 1748; and, becoming a Baptist, formed a church there in 1756. He was an advocate of religious freedom, and in 1774 was the agent to Congress of the Warren Association to advocate equality of privileges to all denominations. He vindicated his course in this affair in an article in the Boston Chronicle, Dec. 2, 1779, and argued against an article in the Bill of Rights of the State constitution then under discussion in the convention. He was the delegate of Middleborough to the convention which adopted the Federal Constitution, which he supported in a speech. The Baptist denomination is greatly indebted to him for its prosperity. He pub. a "History of the Baptists," 3 vols., 1777 and 1784 and 1796; also an abridgment brought down to 1804, and a History of Middleborough in the 3d vol. Ms. Hist. Colls. — See Life and Times of, by Alvah Hovey, D.D., 1859.

Bacon, DAVID FRANCIS, M.D., author, and physician of the Colonization Soc. at Liberia, 1836–41, b. Prospect, Ct., 30 Nov. 1813; d. N.Y. City, 23 Jan. 1866. Y. C. 1831; Med. Coll. 1836. He engaged in politics in N.Y. City, and frequently contrib. to the periodicals of the day; author of "Lives of the Apostles," 1835; "Wanderings on the Seas and Shores of Africa," 1843.

Bacon, EZEKIEL, LL.D., son of Rev. John, b. Boston, Ms., September 1, 1776; d. Utica, N.Y., Oct. 18, 1870. Y.C. 1794. He was a member of the State legisl. in 1805–6; chief-justice of Common Pleas, 1813; 1st comptroller U.S. treasury, 1813–15; and M.C. 1807–13. Removed to Utica, N.Y.; delegate to the State Const. Conv. of 1821. He pub. "Recollections of 50 Years since" a lecture, 1843.

Digitized by Google

Bacon, HENRY, author, and Universalist minister, b. Boston, 12 June, 1813; d. Phila., 19 Mar. 1856. Ord. over 2d Church, Camb., Ms., Dec. 1834, remaining 3 years; afterward successively settled at Haverhill, Marblehead, Providence, R.I., and over the Church of the Messiah, Phila. 20 years editor of the Ladies' Repository, Boston. Author of "Christian Comforter," "Sacred Flora," "Memoir of Mrs. Jerauld," and over 50 tracts and sermons. "The Pastor's Bequest," selections from his sermons by Mrs. E. A. Bacon, was pub. Boston, 1857.

Bacon, HENRY, figure-painter, b. Winchester, Ms., 1840. He studied with W. A. Gay of Boston; went to Paris in 1864, where he has since resided; studied at the Beaux Arts, and afterwards at Ecouen under E. Frere. He has a happy talent in telling a story by a picture.

Bacon, JOEL SMITH, D.D. (Wash. Coll. 1845), Bapt. minister and educator, b. Cayuga Co., N.Y., 1801; d. Richmond, Va., Nov. 9, 1869. Ham. Coll. 1826; Newton Theol. Inst. 1831. Before graduating, he was a teacher in Amelia Co., Va.; was afterward a classical teacher at Princeton, N.J.; pres. of Georgetown Coll., Ky., 1831–3; pastor of the Baptist Church at Lynn, 1833–4; prof. Ham. Inst., N.Y., 1834–7; was some time an agent for Indian missions; pres. of Col. Coll., D.C. 1843–54; then taught in female seminaries; was two years at the head of an institution at Tuscaloosa, Ala.; and in 1859–67 was a teacher at Warrenton, Va. He was finally a travelling agent in the South for the Bible Society.

Bacon, JOHN, clergyman and politician, b. Canterbury, Ct., 1737; d. Stockbridge, Ms., Oct. 25, 1820. N.J. Coll. 1765. He studied theology; preached in Somerset Co., Md., in 1768; and Sept. 25, 1771, was settled over the Old South Church, Boston. Owing to differences of opinion with his church, he was dismissed Feb. 8, 1775, and removed to Stockbridge, where he was a magistrate, a representative, associate and presiding judge of the Common Pleas, a member and pres. of the State senate (1803–4), and M. C. 1801–3. He pub. a sermon after his installation, 1772; an answer to Huntington on a case of discipline, 1781; a speech on the courts of the U.S., 1802; "Conjectures on the Prophecies," 1805.

Bacon, LEONARD, D.D., Cong. clergyman and author, b. Detroit, Mich., Feb. 19, 1802. Y. C. 1820; And. Theol. Sem. 1824. David, his father, was a missionary to the Indians, and the first settler of Tallmadge, O. In Mar. 1825, he was installed pastor over the Centre Church, New Haven, Ct. A disting. champion of N. E. Congregationalism, and a close adherent to the traditions and practices of the Puritan fathers. He has written a number of occasional addresses and sermons, and has contrib. to the Christian Spectator, the New-Englander, and the N.Y. Independent. Among his pub. are "Select Practical Writings of Richard Baxter," 2 vol. 8vo, 2d ed., 1835; "Manual for Young Church-Members," 18mo, 1833; "Slavery Discussed," 8vo, N.Y., 1846; "Thirteen Discourses on the 200th Anniversary of the First Church in New Haven," 1839, "Hist. Disc. at the Old South Meeting-house, Worcester, 22 Sept. 1863."

Bacon, NATHANIEL, an early patriot of Va., b. Suffolk, Eng. ab. 1630; d. in Jan. 1677. His father was the author of "Nathaniel Bacon's Historical and Political Observations," 1647. He was educated at the Inns of Court, Lond., settled in Gloucester Co., Va., owned a large estate at the head of James River, became in 1672 a member of the council, and acquired great popularity. An Indian war having sprung up, Gov. Berkeley built a few frontier forts; but the people, desirous of more active and energetic measures, chose Bacon as their leader. The gov. refused to commission him; but he defeated the Indians, and 29 May, 1676, was proclaimed a rebel. Tried and acquitted, he received the gov.'s pardon, June 9; was restored to the council, and was promised a gen.'s commission for the Indian war. Berkeley refused to keep his promise; and Bacon, at the head of 500 men, extorted his signature. He then turned his attention to the war, which he vigorously prosecuted. Again proclaimed a rebel, he issued a declaration against the gov., whom he drove from Williamsburg, and whom he was about to attack at Accomac, when death ended his career. At the time of his death, he was one of the burgesses for the county of Henrico. His story has been novelized by Caruthers of Va. — See Force's Tracts, 1840; Sparks's Amer. Biog. iii., New Series.

Bacon, SAMUEL, Prot.-Epis. clergyman, b. Sturbridge, Ms., 22 July, 1781; d. Kent, Cape Shilling, Africa, 3 May, 1820. H. U. 1808. He studied law; edited the Worcester Ægis, afterward the Hive, at Lancaster, Pa.; in 1812, was an officer of U.S. marines; subsequently practised law in Pa., and then took orders in the Prot.-Epis. Church. App. U.S. agent to establish a colony in Africa, he reached Sierra Leone, 9 Mar. 1820, and d. shortly after. — See Life, by J. Ashmun.

Bacon, THOMAS, Prot.-Epis. clergyman and author, b. Frederickton, Md.; d. May 24, 1768. He compiled a complete system of the revenue of Ireland, 1737, also a complete body of the laws of Md., folio, 1765.

Bacon, WILLIAM THOMPSON, poet and clergyman, b. Woodbury, Ct., Aug. 24, 1814. Y. C. 1837. After two years passed at the Epis. Acad. at Cheshire, he, at the age of 17, established himself in business at New Haven. He delivered the valedictory poem at Yale; studied at the N. Haven Divinity School, and from 1842 to 1845 was pastor of the Cong. Church at Trumbull, Ct. He became subsequently one of the editors of the New-Englander, was also for a few years editor and proprietor of the N. Haven Journal and Courier, since which he has been engaged in ministerial labors in Kent and in Derby, Ct. In 1837, Mr Bacon pub. a vol. of poems, which in 1840 passed to a third edition. In 1848, a new vol. was issued.

Digitized by Google

Badeau, ADAM, brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. N.Y. Capt. and aide-de-camp U. S. Vols, Apr. 1862; on staff of Gen. Sherman; severely wounded at Port Hudson; joined Gen. Grant, Jan. 1864, as military sec. and lieut.-col., and was made brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., for faithful and merit. services in the war. Col. and aide-de-camp to the gen. of the army, Mar. 1865 to May 1869, when retired. Sec. of legation to the court at London. Author of "History of Gen. U. S. Grant," 2 vols., 8vo, 1868.

Badger, GEORGE EDMUND, LL. D. (Y.C. 1848), statesman and jurist; b. Newbern, N.C., Apr. 13, 1795; d. Raleigh, N.C., May 11, 1866. Y. C. 1813. He practised law in Raleigh, where he soon disting. himself by solidity and strength in his profession. He became a member of the legisl. in 1816; was judge of the Supreme Court in 1820–5; sec. of the navy in 1841, but resigned on Pres. Tyler's vetoing the bill to re-charter the U. S. Bank; and U. S. senator from 1846 to 1854. Nominated to the supreme bench in 1851, but not confirmed by the senate. In the State convention of May, 1861, he spoke ably in defence of the Union. He was an excellent lawyer, and a vigorous speaker, abounding in wit and humor.

Badger, GEN. JOSEPH, b. Haverhill, Ms., Jan. 11, 1722; d. Apr. 4, 1803. Prior to his removal to Gilmanton in 1763, he held various civil and military offices in Haverhill, and became col. in 1771. During the Revol., he was an active and efficient officer, a member of the Provincial Congress, was muster-master of troops raised in his section of the State, and was employed in furnishing supplies for the army. He was app. brig.-gen. 1780, was judge of probate 1784 to 1797, member of the conv. which adopted the Constitution, and of the State council in 1784, 90–91. He did much towards founding and erecting the acad. in Gilmanton.

Badger, JOSEPH, an early missionary west of the Alleghanies, b. Wilbraham, Ms., Feb. 28, 1757; d. Perrysburg, O., May 5, 1846. Y. C. 1785. Giles his ancestor settled in Newbury, Ms., in 1635. His early education was slight; and, at the age of 18, he entered the Revol. army, in which, with the exception of a few weeks, he remained until the end of 1778. $200, which he had saved in Continental bills, were then so reduced in value as hardly to purchase him cloth for an ordinary coat. Notwithstanding his destitution, he resolved to obtain an education, and earned money to pay his coll. bills by teaching school. He studied for the ministry, was pastor at Blandford, Ms., 24 Oct. 1787–24 Oct. 1800, and was then sent by the missionary society to the unsettled parts of O. Here for 30 years his labors were only exceeded by his hardships. During the War of 1812, Mr. Badger was app. by Gen. Harrison brig. chaplain. His familiarity with the country enabled him to act the part of a temporal as well as spiritual guide, and, at the close of the war, he resumed his missionary functions. His poverty was at times extreme; and in 1826 he became a Revol. pensioner. — See Life by E. G. Holland, N. Y., 1854.

Badger, LUTHER, lawyer, b. Partridgefield, Ms., Apr. 10, 1785. Ham. Coll. 1807. Adm. to the bar of Broome Co., N.Y., in 1812; judge-advocate of the 27th brig. N Y. Militia, 1819–27; M. C. 1825–7; examiner in chancery, and commissioner U. S. loans, 1840–3; U. S. dist.-atty. for N. Y. 1846–9.

Badger, STEPHEN, minister to the Natick Indians from Mar. 27, 1752, until dism. July, 1799; d. Aug. 28, 1803; b. Charlestown, Ms., Apr. 12, 1726. H. U. 1747. He was employed by the commissioners for propagating the gospel in N. E. He pub. a letter concerning the Indians, in the Ms. Hist. Coll., dated 1797, and two discourses on drunkenness, in 1774, afterward reprinted.

Badger, WILLIAM, gov. of N. H., 1834–6, b. Gilmanton, N.H., Jan. 13, 1779; d. Sept. 21, 1852. His youth was employed in business pursuits. He was successively in the legisl. (1810–12) and senate (1814–16) of his native State; Pres. of the senate in 1816; an asso. justice of the C. C. P. 1816–21, high sheriff of Stafford Co. 1822–32. — Hist. Gilmanton.

Badlam, STEPHEN, gen., Revol. officer, b. Milton, Ms., Mar. 17, 1745; d. Dorchester, Ms., Aug. 24, 1815. Left an orphan at an early age, his education was limited. Joining the army in 1775, he was made a lieut. of artillery, soon became a capt., and was ordered to N.Y., where he made the acquaintance of Alex. Hamilton, who frequently consulted him on tactics. He had also the esteem of Washington, whose disciple in politics he continued to his death. Made a maj., he was ordered to command the artillery of the dept. of Canada. Returning thence to Crown Point, he took possession of Mt. Independence on the memorable July 4, 1776; from which circumstance it was named by Maj. Badlam. He did good service in the action at Fort Stanwix, under Willet, in Aug. 1777. In 1779, he was made brig.-gen. of militia. — See Codman's Fun. Sermon: Panoplist xi. 572.

Baena (bä-ā'-nä) ANTONIO LADISLAUS MONTEIRO, Portuguese historian and geographer in the military service of Brazil; d. ab. 1851. Author of a "Chorographic Essay on the Province of Para," 1839, and of other valuable works.

Baez, BUENAVENTURA, pres. of Hayti, a mulatto, b. Azua, Hayti, 1820. His father was active in the insurrection of 1808. The son became influential by his wealth and talents, and, having co-operated with Santana in securing the independence of the republic, was, after the expulsion of Jemines, chosen pres. At the next election, Santana was chosen; and from being friends they became bitter enemies. Oct. 6, 1856, Baez again became pres., but surrendered the government to Santana, June 11, 1858, and left the country. Returning in 1865, he was a third time elected pres., but in Mar. 1866 was again expelled by Gen. Cabral. Late in 1867, he inaugurated a new revol., and has since been in power in the eastern part of the island; the sale of which he endeavored to effect to the U. S. in 1871.

Digitized by Google

Baffin, WILLIAM, an English arctic explorer, b. 1584; d. 1622. On returning from his first West Greenland voyage in 1612, he wrote an account of it, giving for the first time a method for determining the longitude at sea by an observation of the celestial bodies. He also pub. an account of a second voyage to Greenland in 1615, and of a voyage to Spitsbergen in 1614, containing important information. In 1618, he was mate of a merchant-vessel in the Arabian Sea. In 1616, he com. a vessel in which he is said to have reached 81½ deg. N. latitude, and is supposed to have ascertained the limits of the vast inlet of the sea since known by his name. He was killed at the siege of Ormuz in the Persian Gulf, while attempting, in conjunction with a Persian force, to expel the Portuguese from that island.

Bagby, ARTHUR P., gov. of Ala., 1837–41, b. Va., 1794; d. Mobile, Ala., 21 Sept. 1858. Liberally educated, he settled in Ala., taking at once a high position as a criminal lawyer; was a member of the legisl. in 1820–2, and speaker of the house; U. S. senator in 1843–9, and minister to Russia in 1848–9. Subsequently a commissioner to codify the laws of the State.

Bagot, SIR CHARLES, a British statesman, b. Blithfield, Stafford Co., Eng., 23 Sept. 1781; d. Kingston, Canada, May 18, 1843. Second son of William Lord Bagot. Made under-sec. for foreign affairs in 1807; sent in 1814 on a special mission to Paris; from 1816 to 1819 min.-plenipo. to the U. S.; successively ambassador to St. Petersburg, the Hague, and special ambassador to Vienna in 1834. From 10 Jan. 1842, to his death, gov.-gen. of Brit. North Amer., which he governed with wisdom and prudence.

Bailey, EBENEZER, educator, and author of a treatise on algebra; d. 1839. Y. C. 1817. He pub. also a "Review of the Mayor's Report upon the High School for Girls," 1828.—See Sketch of his Life and Educ. Labors, 8vo, 1861, Hartford.

Bailey, GAMALIEL, proprietor and editor of the National Era, b. Mt. Holly, N.J., Dec. 3, 1807; d. June 5, 1859, on board steamer "Arago," while on his way to Eng. Removing to Phila. at the age of 9, he studied medicine; receiving his degree in 1828. Sailed to China as physician of a ship, and began his career as an editor on the Methodist Protestant in Balt. In 1831, he removed to Cincinnati, and was physician to the cholera hospital during the pestilence. The expulsion of some students from Lane Sem. on account of their antislavery sentiments first prompted his hostility to slavery. In 1836, with J. G. Birney, he conducted the first antislavery newspaper in the West, the Cincinnati Philanthropist. Their printing-office was twice attacked by a mob, the press thrown into the Ohio River, and the books and papers burned. In 1837, Dr. Bailey became sole editor of the Philanthropist, the organ of the Liberty party, and was a principal leader in the presidential canvass in 1840. In 1841, his press was destroyed by a mob, which was dispersed by the military. Jan. 1, 1847, he began to edit at Washington the National Era, an antislavery paper. In 1848, a mob for three days besieged his office. Addressing the multitude in a speech remarkable for its coolness and its independent spirit, the mob, that had proposed to tar and feather him, was disarmed by his eloquence. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was originally pub. in the Era.

Bailey, JACOB, soldier, b. Newbury, Ms., July 2, 1728; d. Newbury, Vt., Mar. 1, 1816. Settled in Hampstead, 1745; was a capt. in French war, 1756, and escaped from the massacre at Fort Wm. Henry in Aug. 1757; col. at the taking of Ticonderoga and Crown Point in 1759. In 1764, chartered a township in Vt., to which he removed; app. brig.-gen. of militia by the State of N.Y., and commis.-gen. Northern dept. during the Revol., in which he performed valuable service with purse, pen, and sword. — Coffin.

Bailey, JACOB, Pr.-Ep. clergyman and loyalist, b. Rowley, Ms., 16 Apr. 1731; d. Annapolis, N.S., 26 July, 1808. H. U. 1755. Ord. in Eng., he officiated many years at Pownalboro, now Wiscasset, Me.; and in 1779, during the Revol. war, went to Annapolis, where he was rector of St. Luke's. His eldest son Percy, a capt. in the British army, was killed at the battle of Chippewa, July 5, 1814. — See his Journal, with Memoir by Rev. W. S. Bartlet.

Bailey, JACOB WHITMAN, naturalist, b. Ware, Ms., Apr. 29, 1811; d. West Point, Feb. 26, 1857. Removing to Providence, R.I. in early life, he received a common school education. Grad. West Point, July, 1832, and was app. lieut. of art. In 1839, he was app. assist. and afterwards prof. of chemistry, botany, and mineralogy, at W. Point. His wife and dau. perished when the steamer "Henry Clay" took fire on the Hudson in 1852; and his exertions and exposure on that occasion caused his death. Inventor of "Bailey's Indicator," and of many improvements in the microscope. His investigations with this instrument, illustrating botany and zoölogy, gave him great distinction. His "Microscopic Sketches," together with his collection of about 4,500 specimens of algæ, he bequeathed to the Boston Soc. of Nat. History. He was pres. of the Amer. Asso. for the Advancement of Science in 1857. His pub. papers, more than 50 in number, are found in Silliman's Journal of Science, Transactions of the Asso. of Geologists and Naturalists, The Smithsonian Contributions to Knowledge, and in the various State geological surveys.—Journal of Microscopic Science.

Bailey, COL. JOHN, Revol. officer, b. Hanover, Ms., Oct. 30, 1730; d. there Oct. 27, 1810. At the outset of the war, he was lieut.-col. of the Plymouth regt., with which he marched to Cambridge, in May, 1775; succeeded Col. John Thomas in its command, and throughout the war was col. of the 2d Ms regt. of the Continental line. He was conspicuous in the campaign against Burgoyne, and had the reputation of a brave and faithful officer. Late in life he was an innkeeper in Hanover.

Digitized by Google

Bailey, JOSEPH, brig.-gen. of U.S. Vols.; murdered by bushwhackers near Nevada, Mo., Mar. 21, 1867. Gen. Bailey achieved a high reputation in the Red River exped. in May, 1864, by a skilful and original feat of engineering, by which he brought the iron-clad gunboats of the Mpi. squadron safely over the dangerous falls and rapids of the Red River above Alexandria. He joined the army in Wisconsin, where he had previously been a lumberman, and was acting chief-engineer of the 19th Army Corps, with rank of lieut.-col., when the retreating Union forces found that the water of the Red River had fallen so much, that Admiral Porter's squadron could not pass the rapids. In this perilous emergency, Col. Bailey proposed to construct dams which should raise the water sufficiently to permit the gunboats to descend safely. The most skilful engineers in the army said the proposition was absurd; but in 11 days the fleet were safely over the falls. For this brilliant achievement, he was made brig.-gen., and received the thanks of Congress. He settled after the war in Newton Co., Mo., of which he was chosen sheriff. He became formidable to bushwhackers, but after arresting two of them, brothers, named Pixley, was shot by them.

Bailey, JOSEPH ROOSEVELT, R. C. bishop of Newark since 1853, b. N.Y., 1814; studied for the Pr.-Ep. Church, embraced Catholicism, 1842; studied at St. Sulpice, Paris; was ord. priest, and returned to the U. S. in 1844.

Bailey, KIAH, Cong. minister, b. Brookfield, Ms., 11 Mar. 1770; d. Hardwick, Vt., 17 Aug. 1857. Dartm. Coll. 1793. He studied theol. under Dr. Emmons; was minister of Newcastle, Me., 7 Oct. 1797–1824; subsequently of Greensborough, Vt., and Thornton, N.H., and in 1833 settled on a farm at Hardwick. Member Ms. legisl. in 1819–20; pres. of the Me. Missionary Soc.

Bailey, RUFUS WM., D.D. (Hamp. Sid. Coll. 1859), clergyman and author, b. North Yarmouth, Me., Apr. 13, 1793; d. Huntsville, Tex., Apr. 25, 1863. D. C. 1813. He taught an acad. at Salisbury and at Blue Hill, Me.; was tutor at D. C. 1817–18; pastor of the Cong. ch. at Norwich, Vt., Nov. 29, 1819, to Nov. 12, 1835; at Pittsfield, Apr. 14, 1824, to Sept. 27, 1827; taught school in S. C., in Fayetteville, N.C., and in Staunton, Va.; went to Texas in 1854; prof. of languages at Austin Coll., Huntsville, 2 years, and its pres. from Dec. 16, 1858, to his death. He pub. "The Issue," a vol. on slavery, 1837; "The Family Preacher," 1838; a primary grammar, and a "Manual of Grammar;" "The Mother's Request;" and "The Beginnings of Evil."—Alumni D.C.

Bailey, THEODORUS, b. Duchess Co., N. Y., 1752; d. N. Y. City, Sept. 6, 1828. M. C. from N. Y., 1793–7 and 1799–1803; U. S. senator 1803–4; postmaster N. Y. City, 1804–28.

Bailey, THEODORUS, rear-adm. U. S. N., b. N. Y., 1803. Son of Judge Wm. Bailey of Plattsburg. Midshipman, Jan. 1, 1818; lieut. Mar. 3, 1827; commander, Mar. 6, 1849; capt. Dec. 15, 1855; commo. July 16, 1862; rear-adm. retired list, July 25, 1866. He com. the storeship "Lexington" during the Mexican war, and manifested enterprise and gallantry in numerous expeds. against the enemy. Com. frigate "Colorado," West Gulf block. squad. 1861–2; second in command and officially commended by Adm. Farragut for capture of N. Orleans, where he led the attack and passage of the forts; com. the Eastern Gulf block. squad. 1862, and was energetic and successful in breaking up blockade-running on the Florida coast. Com. Portsmouth navy-yard, 1865–7. Said to have taken over 150 blockade-runners; d. Washington, D.C., Feb. 10, 1877.

Baillargeon, C. F., R. C. Bishop of Quebec; d. Oct. 14, 1870, a. 72. App. administrator of that diocese in 1855.

Bailly, JOSEPH A., sculptor, b. Paris, 1825; came to Phila., 1850. Among his works are "Adam and Eve," "Eve and her Two Children," and the monument of Washington, placed (1869) in front of the State House, Phila.

Baily, JOHN, clergyman, b. near Blackburn, Lancashire, Eng., 24 Feb., 1644; d. Boston, Dec. 12, 1697. He began his ministry in Chester, Eng., in 1665, but was imprisoned for nonconformity, and preached to crowds through the bars of Lancashire jail. He preached 14 years in Limerick, and subsequently again in Eng., but was driven by persecution to Amer., and landed in Boston in 1684. Ord. minister of Watertown, Oct. 6, 1686, he became assist. minister of the First Church, Boston, July 17, 1693. He pub. an address to the people of Limerick. His funeral-sermon was preached by Cotton Mather. — Sprague; Nonconformist's Memorial; Biographia Evangelica.

Bainbridge, HENRY, lieut.-col. U. S. A., b. N.Y., 1803; d. at sea near Galveston, Tex., May 31, 1857. West Point, 1821. Capt. 15 June, 1836; brev. maj. Sept. 23, 1846, "for gallant and meritorious conduct at Monterey, Mexico," where he was wounded, Sept. 21; maj. 7th Inf. 16 Feb. 1847; brev. lieut.-col. 20 Aug. 1847, "for gallant and meritorious conduct in battles of Contreras and Churubusco;" military and civil gov. of Jalapa, Mex., June, 1848; engaged in hostilities with the Seminoles in 1849–51; lieut.-col. 1st Inf. 11 June, 1851.—Cullum.

Bainbridge, WILLIAM, commo. U. S. N., b. Princeton, N.J., May 7, 1774; d. Phila., July 28, 1833. Son of Dr. Absalom B. He went to sea at 16, and at 19 com. a ship. App. Aug. 3, 1798, to com. the U. S. schooner "Retaliation," he was captured by the French while cruising near Guadaloupe, and, after 3 months' confinement, reached home in Feb. 1799. Master com. Mar. 29, 1799; capt. May 29, 1800. In 1799, he cruised again in the W. Indies in the brig "Norfolk," 18 guns. In 1800, he sailed to Algiers in com. of the frigate "George Washington," and was compelled by the dey to convey his ambassadors, with presents, to Constantinople. On his return to Algiers, he was instrumental in saving the French residents there,—the dey having declared war with France, thus preventing their imprisonment and slavery. For this act he received the thanks of Bonaparte, then first consul, and the approval of his own government. While commanding the frigate "Philadelphia," engaged in the blockade of Tripoli, Oct. 31, 1803, she ran upon some rocks, and was, with her crew, captured. Released after 13 months' confinement, Capt. Bainbridge was acquitted of all blame by a court of inquiry held at his own request. Sept. 15, 1812, he took command of the frigate "Constitution." Cruising near the coast of Brazil, Dec. 29, he fell in with the British frigate "Java," Capt. Lambert, which, in an action of an hour and 55 minutes, was so injured, that, after her capture, she was blown up. Both commanders were wounded, Lambert mortally. He treated his prisoners with great kindness; was enthusiastically received upon his return, and was awarded a gold medal by Congress. After the peace of 1815, he superintended the building of "The Independence," 74, in which he sailed for Algiers, but was forestalled by a treaty of peace. He was afterward one of the navy commissioners, and com. the navy-yard at Charlestown. His last cruise was in "The Columbus," 80, in the Mediterranean, in 1820–21. (See Life, by Thos. Harris, M.D., pub. Phila., 8vo, 1837.) His bro. JOSEPH, capt. U. S. navy, d. Nov 18, 1824. A lieut. at the destruction of "The Philadelphia" frigate in the harbor of Tripoli, Feb. 16, 1804, and in the actions of Preble's squadron in that harbor, July–Sept. 1804.

Digitized by Google

Baine, A. C., lawyer and author, b. Raleigh, N.C., 21 Sept. 1810; d. Clifton, Nevada, 21 Dec. 1863. About 1849, he settled in Stockton, Cal., as a lawyer, and was greatly esteemed for scholarship and integrity. Author of "Divine Faith and Natural Reason," 1861; and at the time of his death had nearly completed a vol. on "Relations of Human Liberty to Natural, Moral, and Divine Law."

Baird, ABSALOM, brev. maj.-gen. U. S. A., b. Washington, Pa., Aug. 20, 1824. Washington Coll. 1841; West Point, 1849. He studied law before entering the military acad. Ent. the 2d Art.; served in Fla. in 1850–3; and between 1853 and 1859 was assist. instructor, and assist. prof. of mathematics at West Point. In Mar. 1861, he was ordered to Washington to com. Magruder's battery, and 11 May, became assist. adj.-gen., rank of capt. He was chief of staff to Gen. Tyler at the battle of Bull Run; 12 Nov. 1861, assist. insp.-gen, rank of maj.; and in Mar. 1862, chief of staff, and insp.-gen. to the 4th army corps, Gen. Keyes; and was at the siege of Yorktown and the battle of Williamsburg. Apr. 28, 1862, brig.-gen. of vols., and placed in com. of a brigade under Gen. Morgan, at Cumberland Ford, Ky. In April, 1863, he com. a div. under Gen. Granger, when attacked by Van Dorn at Franklin, Tenn., and also at Chickamauga, for which he was brev. lieut.-col. 20 Sept. 1863. Brev. col. Nov. 20, for Chattanooga; brev. brig.-gen. 13 Mar. 1865, for the capture of Atlanta; and brev. maj.-gen. vols. 1 Sept. 1864, for services in the Atlanta campaign, particularly for the battles of Resacca and Jonesborough, and op's against Savannah. He com. a div. of the 14th corps, in Sherman's "march to the sea," at the battle of Bentonville, N.C., 20 Mar. 1865, and surrender of Johnston's army, 26 Apr. 1865. — Cullum.

Baird, ROBERT, D.D., author and clergyman, b. of Scotch parents, Fayette Co., Pa., Oct. 6, 1798; d. Yonkers, N.Y., Mar. 15, 1863. Jeff. Coll. 1818; D.D. 1842. He taught school a year at Bellefonte; studied 3 years at Princeton Theol. Sem., in which he was one year a tutor; had charge of a sem. at Princeton from 1822 to 1827; was agent of the N.J. Missionary Society in 1828; of the Amer. Sunday School Union in 1829, and in 5 years increased its revenue from $5,000 to $28,000. From 1835 to 1843, he was most of the time in Europe, striving to revive the Protestant faith in the south, and to promote the cause of temperance in the north, earning the title of "The International Preacher," so widespread had been his labors. On the formation of the Foreign Evangelical Society in 1849, he became its agent and corresp. sec. On his last visit to Europe in 1862, he ably vindicated the cause of the Union against secession before London audiences. He pub. "Religion in America," 1842; "Visit to Northern Europe;" "Memoir of Anna J. Linnard," 1835; "State and Prospects of Religion in America," 1842; "View of the Valley of the Mississippi," 1832; "Transplanted Flowers," 1839; "Memoir of Rev. Joseph Sanford," 1836; "Protestantism in Italy," 1845; "Impressions and Experiences of the W. Indies and N. America in 1849," 12mo, Phila.; "The Christian Retrospect and Register," 1851; "History of the Albigenses, Waldenses, and Vaudois," "History of the Temperance Societies of the U.S.," Paris, 1836; "Union of Church and State in N. England," Paris, 1837. Editor of the Christian Union, monthly, 1847–8, and corresp. of many leading foreign and Amer. journals. His son, Rev. Charles, had charge of a Protestant chapel at Rome; and another son, Henry M., is disting. for proficiency in Greek literature, and pub. a memoir of his father, 1866.

Baird, SPENCER FULLERTON, LL.D., naturalist, b. Reading, Pa., 1823. Prof. nat. sciences, Dick. Coll. 1846; assist. sec. Smiths'n. Inst. The editor and translator of "The Iconographic Encyclop.," 4 vols. 8vo, N.Y., 1851. Author of papers on zoölogy, and of reports on natural history colls., made by Capt. Stansbury, Capt. Marcy, Lieut. Gilliss, the U.S. and Mexican Boundary Survey, and the Pacific R. R. Survey; also, with J. Cassin, "The Birds of North America," 2 vols. 4to, 1860; "Mammals of North America," 4to, 1861. He has made valuable contributions to the publications of the Jour. of Sciences, Phila., the Smithsonian Institution, &c.

Baker, DANIEL, lieut.-col. U.S.A.; d. Detroit, Mich., 10 Oct. 1836. App. from Vt., Ensign 16th Inf., 8 Jan. 1799; adj. in 1802; assist. military agent at Detroit; capt. Mar. 1812; assist. dep. quartermaster, Apr. 1812; brev. maj. Aug. 9, 1812, for disting. service in battle of Brownstown, Maguago, where he was wounded; aide-de-camp to Gen. Lewis, June, 1813; maj. 45 Inf. Apr. 15, 1814; disting. in affair at Lyon's Creek, under Gen. Bissell; maj. 7th Inf. 1 June, 1819; lieut.-col. 6th Inf. May 1, 1829; com. his regt in battle of the Bad Axe. — Gardner.

Digitized by Google

Baker, DANIEL, D.D. (Laf. Coll. 1849), pres. of Austin Coll., Texas, Presb. clergyman; d. 1857. N. J. Coll. 1815. Has pub. "Affectionate Address to Mothers," and to "Fathers," "Plain and Scriptural View of Baptism," 18mo, "Revival Sermons," 12mo, 2 series.

Baker, DAVID JEWETT, politician, b. E. Haddam Ct., Sept. 7, 1792; d. Alton, Ill., Aug. 6, 1869. Ham. Coll. 1816. He went with his parents to Ontario Co., N.Y., in 1800, worked on a farm, studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1819; settling in Kaskaskia, Ill. He had a large practice, and was probate judge of Randolph Co.; U.S. senator 1830–1, carrying through Congress the important measure of selling the public lands to actual settlers in quantities of 40 acres; U.S. attorney for Ill. in 1833–41. He opposed the introduction of slavery into Ill. in 1823, with such energy, that his opponents tried to kill him.

Baker, EDWARD DICKINSON, soldier and senator, b. Lond., Feb. 24, 1811; killed in the battle of Ball's Bluff, Oct. 21, 1861. His family came to the U.S. ab. 1815, and settled in Phila., but in 1825 removed to Ill. The son studied law, was admitted to practise in Greene Co., Ill.; removed to Springfield; in 1837 was chosen to the legisl.; was State senator from 1840 to 1844, and then M.C. until the breaking-out of the Mexican war, when he resigned, and became col. of Illinois Vols. He shared in the siege of Vera Cruz, com. with great gallantry a brigade at Cerro Gordo and all the subsequent conflicts, and after the war removed to Galena, and aided in the nomination of Gen. Taylor to the presidency. In 1848–9, he was again in Congress, but, becoming connected with the Panama Railroad Co., declined a re-election, settled in the successful practice of law in Cal. in 1852, and connected himself with the Republican party. When Senator Broderic was killed in a duel in 1859, he delivered a funeral-oration over the body of his friend in the public square of San Francisco, and soon after removed to Oregon, where in 1860, by a coalition between the Republicans and Douglas Democrats in the legisl., he was elected to the U. S. senate. On the breaking-out of the civil war in 1861, he raised the "California" regt. in N.Y. and Phila., and, declining to be app. a gen., went into the field at its head. At Ball's Bluff, he com. a brigade, and fell in advance of the line while serving a piece of artillery.

Baker, HENRY FELT, author and inventor, b. Salem, Ms., Nov. 7, 1797; d. Portsmouth, O., Feb. 20, 1857. H.U. 1815. He became a merchant and trader. In 1846, he patented the well-known "Improvement in Steam-Boiler Furnaces." Ab. 1848, he went to Cincinnati, became clerk in a bank, and in 1853 and 1854, pub. in two parts a work on "Banks and Banking in the U.S.," and contrib. frequently to the Bankers' Magazine. The name of Baker, his stepfather, was added to his original name.

Baker, LAFAYETTE C., brev. brig.-gen. vols., and chief of the detective service during the civil war, b. Stafford, N.Y., 1824; d. Phila., July 3, 1868. In 1867, he pub. a work detailing much of the secret history of the war, and charging President Johnson with being privy to the pardon-brokerage business.

Baker, OSMON CLEANDER, D.D., Bishop M. E. Church, b. Marlow, N. H., 1812 Licensed 1829. Consec. bishop in May, 1852. He was stationed in N.H., and was prof. in the Meth. Bibl. Inst. in 1847–52. Author of "Discipline of the M.E. Church," 12mo; "Last Witness." D. Concord, N.H., Dec. 20, 1871.

Baker, CAPT. REMEMBER, soldier and pioneer of Vt., b. Woodbury, Ct. ab. 1740; killed by Indians, near Isle Aux Noix, in Aug. 1775. A soldier in the French war in 1757–9, and in the bloody battle at Ticonderoga; settled at Arlington, on the "N.H. Grants," in 1764, and, in the struggles of the settlers against the claims of N.Y., was an active and efficient second to Ethan Allen. On one occasion, he was captured and cruelly maimed, but was rescued the same day. He was outlawed by the gov. of N.Y., and a price set upon his head. May 10, 1775, with Col. Warner, he participated in the capture of Crown Point. He was on a scouting exped. when killed.

Balboa, MIGUEL CAVELLO, a Spanish missionary who visited S. America ab. 1566, and collected materials for a history of Peru, which was pub. in Paris, 1840.

Balboa, VASCO NUNEZ DE, a Spanish discoverer and conqueror in America, b. Xeres de los Caballeros, 1475; d. Castilla de Oro in 1517. In 1501, he went to the West Indies, in the exped. of Bastidas. He is said to have been the first European who ascertained Cuba to be an island. From Hispaniola, he sailed in 1510 to the River Darien, and established a colony on the Isthmus of Panama, where he built Santa Maria de la Antigua, the first town on the continent of South America. In Sept. 1513, Balboa set out on an exped. across the isthmus, and discovered the Pacific Ocean, Sept. 29. Kneeling, he thanked God for this great discovery, of which he took possession in the name of the sovereigns of Castile. Returning, he sent to Spain an account of his discoveries. His merits, however, were neglected, Enciso, a rival, having traduced him to the Spanish Govt.; and Pedrarias Davila was sent out with a fleet and troops as gov. of Darien. Balboa was afterwards made lieut.-gov. with independent authority. But, disputes arising between him and Davila, the latter accused him of disloyalty, and a design to revolt; on which charge he was tried and convicted: and in spite of the entreaties of the judges themselves, and of the whole colony, he was beheaded, leaving the character of an active and enterprising adventurer, inferior to none of the Spanish leaders in America in courage or abilities, and whose object was fame, and not the accumulation of wealth. In his intercourse with the Indians, he displayed great humanity and prudence.

Balbuena de (dā-bäl-bwā'-nā), BERNARDO, a Spanish poet, and bishop of Porto Rico, in the W. Indies, from 1620 to his death, 1627, b. Val de Penos, 1568. Author of "The Age of Gold," a pastoral romance; "El Bernardo," an epic poem, and some lyrics.—See Ticknor's Hist. Span. Lit.

Digitized by Google

Balcarres, ALEXANDER LINDSAY, Earl of, a British gen., b. 1752; d. London, 27 Mar. 1825. Eldest son of the 5th Earl Balcarres, whom in 1767 he succeeded in the family honors. He became an ensign in the 53d Foot, obtained a majorate, Dec. 9, 1775, and served 3 years in N. America under Carleton and Burgoyne. He was present at the actions of Trois Rivières, June 1, 1776; com. the light infantry of the army at Ticonderoga and Hubbardton, July 7, 1777; also at Freeman's Farm, Sept. 19, on the heights of Saratoga, with the com. of the advanced corps of the army. Brig.-Gen. Fraser being killed in the action, Oct. 7, Oct. 8 Balcarres was app. lieut.-col. 24th Foot, and was included in the convention of Saratoga. At the battle of Hubbardton, where he was wounded, 13 balls passed through his clothes. Made maj.-gen. 1793, and in 1794 sent to com. the forces in Jamaica, where he was also placed at the head of the civil administration as lieut.-gov., but soon after returned to Eng. Lieut.-gen. 1798; gen. 1803. At the time of his death, he was one of the representative peers for Scotland, but took no active part in politics.

Balch, GEORGE B., capt. U.S.N., b. Tenn., Dec. 30, 1821. Midshipman, Dec. 30, 1837; lieut. Aug. 16, 1850; com. July 16, 1862; capt. July 25, 1866. Actively engaged in the war with Mexico from first attack on Alvarado, Nov. 1, 1846, to surrender of Vera Cruz, Mar. 1847. While on the sloop "Plymouth," in com. of the advance post at Shanghai, China, he was wounded in the hip in a fight between the rebels and imperialists. Com. steamer "Pocahontas," S. A. squadron; engaged rebel battery at Stono, S.C., and on the Black River in Aug. 1862; com. steamer "Pawnee," attacked by 2 rebel batteries, who at the same time attacked Gen. Terry's forces, and were repulsed July 16, 1863; engaged and captured 2 rebel guns in the Keowah River, Dec. 25, 1863; in the operations of Dahlgren and Foster in Stono River, S.C., July, 1864; and Feb. 9, 1865, with the "Sonoma" and "Daffodil," engaged 3 rebel batteries on Togoda Creek, North Edisto, S.C., driving the enemy from his works. — Hamersly.

Balch, WILLIAM, minister of the Second Church, Bradford, b. Beverly, Ms., Oct. 2, 1704; d. Bradford, Jan. 12, 1792. H. U. 1724. Ord. 7 Jan. 1727. In 1744, he pub. a pamphlet upon a dispute between himself and a few dissatisfied members of his church; and in 1746, he wrote an able reply to Messrs. Wigglesworth and Chipman, who had attacked him for propagating Arminian tenets. Besides the above-named, he pub. "A Discourse upon Self-righteousness," 1742, and "Election Sermon," 1749. — Eliot.

Baldwin, ABRAHAM, statesman, b. Guilford, Ct., Nov. 22, 1754; d. Washington, D.C., Mar. 4, 1807. Y. C. 1772. Being a good classical and mathematical scholar, he was tutor there 5 years, and from 1777, till the close of the war, was a chaplain in the army. Removing to Savannah at the request of Gen. Greene, early in 1784 he abandoned the clerical profession for that of the law, was a member of the legisl. in 1784, a delegate to Congress in 1785–8, an active and disting. member of the convention which framed the Federal Constitution in 1787, under which he was M. C. 1789–99, and a U. S. senator from 1799 till his death. During the 22 years of his legislative career, he was never absent an hour, until the week preceding his death. In the Georgia legisl. he originated the plan of the State University, drew up the charter by which it was endowed with 40,000 acres of land, and, with the aid of Gov. John Milledge, carried it through successfully. It was located at Athens, and he was several years its pres. He was the bro.-in-law of Joel Barlow; was a man of great talents, ardent patriotism, and extensive benevolence. Having never been married, he was enabled by economy to assist many young men in obtaining an education; and, on the death of his father in 1787, protected and educated 6 orphan-children, his half bros. and sisters, among them Judge Henry Baldwin.

Baldwin, ASHBEL, Pr.-Ep. clergyman, b. Litchfield, Ct., Mar. 7, 1757; d. Rochester, N.Y., Feb. 8, 1846. Y. C. 1776. He served as a quartermaster in the Revol. war, and was ord. by Bishop Seabury in 1785, — the first Epis. ordination in this country. Minister of Stratford, 1792–1824. He was a delegate to the General Convention, sec. of the Diocesan Convention for many years, and sec. of the General Convention several times. After leaving Stratford, he officiated at Wallingford, Meriden, North Haven, and Oxford, until 1832, when he became disabled by age. He had preached about 10,000 times, baptized 3,010, married 600 couples, and assisted at the burial of about 3,000 individuals. — Blake.

Baldwin, CHARLES H., Capt. U. S. N., b. N. Y. City, Apr. 24, 1822. Midshipm. Apr. 24, 1839; lieut. Nov. 1853; resigned, and re-entered navy in 1861; com. Nov. 18, 1862; capt. 1869. Served in frigate "Congress" in Mexican war; com. steamer "Clifton" at the capture of New Orleans, and at the first attack on Vicksburg, 1862. — Hamersly.

Baldwin, ELIHU WHITTLESEY, Pres. Wabash Coll., Ind., 1835–40, b. Durham, N.Y., 25 Dec. 1789; d. Crawfordville, Ind., 15 Oct. 1840. Y. C. 1812; And. Sem. 1817. S.T.D. Bloom. Coll. 1839. Minister 7th Presb. Ch., N. Y. City, 1820–35. — See Memoir, by E. F. Hatfield, N.Y. 1843.

Baldwin, HENRY, LL.D. (1830), jurist and statesman, bro. of Abraham, b. N. Haven, Ct., Jan. 14, 1780; d. Phila., 21 Apr. 1844. Y. C. 1797. He became eminent at the bar, settled at Pittsburg, Pa., was M. C. from Pa. in 1817–22, and in 1830 was made a justice of the U. S. Supreme Court. Author of "A General View of the Origin and Nature of the Constitution and Govt. of the U. S.," Phila., 1837.

Baldwin, HENRY P., gov. of Michigan, 1869–71, b. Coventry, R.I., 22 Feb. 1814. He engaged in mercantile business in his youth, emigrated to Detroit in 1838, became pres. Second Nat. Bank, and was two years a State senator.

Baldwin, JEDUTHAN, col. of engineers in the Revol. army, b. Woburn, Ms., Jan. 13, 1732; d. Brookfield, Ms., June 11, 1788. He com. a company in the exped. against Crown Point, Sept. 15 to Nov. 27, 1755. He was active in planning the works around Boston during its investment; was made assist. engineer, rank of capt., at Cambridge, Mar. 16, 1776, and ordered to N.Y.; placed on the continental establishment, with rank and pay of lieut.-col., Apr. 26, 1776, and ordered to Canada, Sept. 3, 1776; made engineer, with rank of col., and served at Ticonderoga. He was at West Point with his regt. of artificers in Oct. 1780, and resigned Apr. 26, 1782. He was a prominent member of the Ms. Provincial Congress, 1774–5, and a friend of literature. He left a bequest of £100 to Leicester Acad.

Digitized by Google

Baldwin, JOHN DENISON, author, editor, and M.C. (1863–9), b. N. Stonington, Ct., 28 Sept. 1810. A. M. of Y. C. 1839. He studied law and theology; connected himself with the press, first in Hartford, next in Boston, and afterward became proprietor of the Worcester Spy. Deleg. to the Chicago Conv. of 1860. Author of "Raymond Hill and other Poems," 1847, and "Prehistoric Nations."

Baldwin, JOSEPH G., judge Sup. Ct. of Cal. 1857–63, chief-justice, 1863; d. San Francisco, 30 Sept. 1864. Author of "Flush Times of Alabama and Mississippi," 8vo, 1853, and "Party Leaders," 8vo, 1855. His son ALEX. W., U.S. dist. judge for Nevada, was killed at Alameda, Cal., by a railroad accident, 15 Nov. 1869, a. 34.

Baldwin, COL. LOAMMI, engineer, b. Woburn, Ms., Jan. 21, 1745; d. there Oct. 20, 1807. A descendant of Deacon Henry, one of the first settlers of Woburn. Having a good common school education, he devoted his leisure to the study of mathematics; attended the lectures of Prof. Winthrop at Harvard Coll. with Benj. Thompson, afterward Count Rumford, and became a practical surveyor and engineer. A leading and active Whig of the Revol., he was a member of the county convention in Middlesex, held in Aug. 1774; entered the army as a major; was chosen lieut.-col. of Gerrish's regt. June 16, 1775; was col. of the 26th regt. in Nov. 1775; served at Lexington, at New York, and in the surprise of the Hessians at Trenton, but left the army early in 1777, in poor health. Sheriff of Middlesex Co. 1780 to 1794. Member of Ms. legisl. 1778–9 and in 1800. A principal proprietor of the Middlesex Canal, of which he was superintendent, 1794–1804. Member of the American Acad. His son LOAMMI, engineer, b. Woburn, May 16, 1780; d. June 30, 1838. H.U. 1800. Was often employed in public works by the govt.; and his skill is well attested by the dry docks at Charlestown and Newport.

Baldwin, MATTHIAS W., a pioneer inventor, and builder of locomotive-engines, b. Elizabethtown, N.J., 10 Dec. 1795; d. Phila., 7 Dec. 1866. He was originally a jeweller, and, while thus employed, invented a new process of gold-plating. He afterward manufactured bookbinders' tools, and calico-printers' rolls, at which time he built his first steam-engine. In 1832, he constructed his first locomotive for the Phila. and Germantown Railway, called the "Ironsides." He made many important improvements in locomotive-engines, and, in Aug. 1842, patented the flexible truck locomotive. He was a member of the Const. Conv. of 1837, and of the State legisl. in 1858 Many years pres. of the Phila. Hortic. Soc.

Baldwin, ROGER SHERMAN, LL. D. (Y C. 1845), lawyer and senator, b. N. Haven, Jan. 4, 1793; d. there Feb. 19, 1863. Y.C 1811. Son of Judge Simeon by a dau. of Roger Sherman. He studied at the Litchfield Law School; began practice at N. Haven in 1814; soon became eminent in the profession; was State senator in 1837, and pres. pro tem. in 1838; representative in 1840–1; gov. of Ct. 1844–6; U.S. senator, 1847–51; and a member of the Peace Congress in Feb. 1861, opposing the projected amendments to the Constitution. His plea in the "Amistead" case, in which he was asso. with John Quincy Adams, was one of the ablest forensic efforts ever made in the U.S. Supreme Court. In the U.S. senate, he advocated the exclusion of slavery from the territory acquired by the Mexican war, and opposed the compromises of 1850, especially the Fugitive Slave Bill. — See Biog. Disc. by Rev. Dr. Dutton in N. Englander, Apr. 1863.

Baldwin, SIMEON, jurist, father of the preceding, b. Norwich, Ct., 14 Dec. 1761; d. New Haven, 26 May, 1851. Y.C. 1781. Tutor at Yale in 1783–6; admitted to the N. Haven bar, acquired an extensive practice; was clerk of the District and Circuit Courts in 1790–1803; M.C. 1803–5; judge of the State Supreme Court, 1806–17, and of the Court of Errors; pres. of the Board of Coms. to locate the Farmington Canal in 1822–30, and mayor of the city of New Haven in 1826.

Baldwin, THOMAS, D.D. (Un. Coll. 1803), Baptist clergyman, b. Norwich, Ct., 23 Dec. 1753; d. Waterville, Me., 29 Aug. 1825. With little early education, he became, by diligent effort, an eminent preacher, and the head of his sect in N. E. Ord. 11 June, 1783, at Canaan, N.H., and in Nov. 1790, over the Second Church, Boston. Prominent in the establishment of Waterville Coll., Me., 1820, and Columb. Coll., D.C., 1821. He began the Amer. Bapt. Mag. in 1803; was sole editor until 1817, and senior editor till his d. Several times a member of the legisl., and member of the State Const. Conv. of 1820. Author of "Baptism of Believers only," 1806, and a number of sermons.

Balfour, NISBET, a British gen., b. Edinburgh, 1743; d. Denbigh, Co. Fife, Oct. 10, 1823. Son of an auctioneer and bookseller of Edinburgh. Entering the service as an ensign in the 4th Foot in 1761, he obtained a company in 1770; was wounded at the battle of Bunker's Hill in 1775, and again in the action at the landing on Long Island; was at the capture of Brooklyn, and at the taking of New York in 1776, on which occasion he was sent home by the com.-in-chief with despatches, and received, in consequence, the brev. of maj. Nov. 19, 1776. He was present in the action near Elizabethtown, N.J., in the spring of 1777; in the engagements of Brandywine and Germantown; at the siege of Charleston, and served, under Lord Cornwallis, part of the campaign after the surrender of the latter place. He was com. at Charleston in 1781, and caused

Digitized by Google

Col. Isaac Hayne's execution, an act of unjustifiable cruelty. He was app. lieut.-col 23d Foot in 1778, col. and aide-de-camp to the king in 1782; attained the rank of maj.-gen. in 1793; served in Flanders and Holland in 1794; became lieut.-gen. in 1798, and gen. in 1803. — Gent's Mag. 1823.

Balfour, WALTER, Universalist clergyman, b. St. Miniaus, Scotland, 1777; d. Charlestown, Ms., where he had long been settled, 3 Jan. 1852. Educated a Presbyterian, he came to the U. S. at the age of 20; acquired popularity as an extempore speaker; became a Baptist at 30, and a Universalist 10 years later, by reading Prof. Stuart's letters to Dr. Channing. He pub. "Inquiries Concerning the Devil," and "Scriptural Import of the Words translated Hell," 1824; "The State of the Dead," 1833; "Reply," and "Letters to Prof. Stuart," "Letters to Hudson," and other controversial works.

Ball, DYER, M.D., clergyman and missionary, b. W. Boylston, Ms., June 3, 1796; d. Canton, China, March 27, 1866. Un. Coll. 1826. He studied at Phillips Acad., and at Yale, but was obliged to go South for his health. After a theological course at N. Haven and Andover, he was licensed to preach in 1828, and ord. in 1831. He taught school in St. Augustine, Fla., and was a missionary and teacher in the South until 1837; having also the degree of M. D. from the medical institution in Charleston. He sailed for Singapore, May 25, 1838; labored there two years; went to Macao in June, 1841; removed to Hong Kong in April, 1843, where he lost his first wife; and in 1845 removed to Canton, where he again m., and passed the remainder of his life in missionary, medical, and educational labor. For many years he printed a Chinese Almanac. He visited the U. S. in 1854–7.

Ball, EPHRAIM, inventor of the Ohio Reaper and Mower, b. Stark Co., O., 1812. Passed his youth without the advantages of even a common-school education. In 1840, he began to make ploughs; and "Ball's Blue Ploughs" became a success. He subsequently associated with himself, in this business, Cornelius Aultman and Lewis Miller, whose large establishment at Canton, O., became widely known. "The Ohio Mower" appeared in 1854, and was patented in 1856; and in 1858 the "Buckeye" machine was brought out, which attained a large popularity.

Ball, THOMAS, sculptor, b. Charlestown, Ms., June 3, 1819. Possessing a fine bass voice, he sang solo parts in oratorios in Boston. His first art attempts were at portraits. Among his best pictures are those of Mrs. Barrett the actress, and a full length of Webster. He has executed, in marble, busts of Webster, Choate, Jonas Chickering; statuettes of Lincoln, Webster, and Clay; full-length statues of Webster and Everett, and an equestrian statue of Washington in the Boston Public Garden. He has also produced ideal statues of Eve, Pandora, Truth, and the Shipwrecked Sailor-Boy. In Feb. 1871, his statue of John A. Andrew was placed in the State House, Boston. — Tuckerman.

Ballard, MAJ. BLAND, b. Fredericksburg, Va., Oct. 16, 1761; d. Shelby Co., Ky., Sept. 5, 1853. He went to Ky. in 1779, and took part in many of the Indian conflicts of those days. As maj. of Ky. Vols., he led the advance against the British and Indians at the River Raisin, and was wounded, and taken prisoner. He was often chosen to the Ky. legisl.

Ballard, EDWARD, D.D. (Trin. Coll. 1865), Pr.-Ep. clergyman, sec. N.H. Hist. Soc., b. Hopkinton, N.H., 1805; d. Brunswick, Me., Nov. 14, 1870. Formerly a school-teacher, latterly rector of St. Paul's church, Brunswick. Dr. B. was well versed in the Indian languages, and early history of Maine, and was a contrib. to the pub. collections of the Me. Hist. Soc. — Brunsw. Teleg. Nov. 18.

Ballard, HENRY E., com. U.S. Navy, b. Md., 1785; d. Annapolis, Md., May 23, 1855. Son of Maj. Ballard of the Rev. army. Midshipman, Nov. 2, 1804; lieut. April 26, 1810; master, April 27, 1816; Capt. March 3, 1825. Lieut. in the frigate "Constitution" in the action with the "Cyane" and "Levant," Feb. 20, 1815.

Ballou, HOSEA, a prominent Univ. minister, b. Richmond, N.H., Apr. 30, 1771; d. Boston, June 7, 1852. He was one of six sons of Rev. Maturin Ballou, a Baptist minister, of whom Benj. and David, as well as the subject of this memoir, afterwards became Univ. preachers. His father, who had a large family, received no salary for preaching, and was extremely poor. As there were no schools in his native town, nor pen, ink, nor writing-paper in his father's house, he was obliged to be his own teacher, to substitute birch-bark for paper, and to use charcoal in place of pen and ink. By perseverance, he enabled himself to read and write at the age of 16. He began to preach when ab. 21, and labored principally in R. I., but subsequently in various portions of N.E. In 1794, he settled at Dana, Ms. At the age of 30, he removed to Vt. to officiate in Woodstock, Hartland, Bethel, and Barnard. He there wrote his popular "Notes on the Parables," 1804, and "Treatise on the Atonement." In 1807, he became pastor of the Univ. society in Portsmouth, N.H., where he disting. himself by his controversial writings; and in 1815 removed to Salem, Ms. He was installed pastor of the 2d Univ. society in Boston, Dec. 17, 1817, where he labored over 35 years. He commenced the Universalist Magazine in 1819, conducted for a few years solely by himself, and afterwards by Rev. Thos. Whittemore. Besides the works already named are a series of 26 lecture sermons, and 20 select sermons; "An Examination of the Doctrine of Future Retribution," 1846. His essays, fugitive sermons, and other pub. works, it is estimated would make 100 12mo vols. In 1831, he commenced with his nephew, Rev. Hosea Ballou, 2d, a quarterly publication, entitled the Universalist Expositor, which he edited two years, and continued a contributor to till his death. A vol. of his fugitive verses consists mostly of hymns, many of which are included in the "Universalist Collection," by Adams and Chapin. A Life by his son, M. M. Ballou, has been pub., also by Thos. Whittemore, 2 vols. 8vo, 1854.

Digitized by Google

Ballou, Hosea, 2d, D.D. (H. U. 1844), Univ. clergyman and author, b. Halifax, Vt., Oct. 18, 1796; d. Somerville, Ms., May 27, 1861. Grandson of Benj., elder bro. of Rev. Hosea Ballou of Boston. He received his early education at Halifax, Vt. About 1815, he was settled as pastor of Stafford, Ct., where he continued 4 or 5 years. July 29, 1821, he was installed pastor of the church at Roxbury, where he remained until June, 1838, when he was installed at Medford, Ms. In May, 1853, he was chosen first pres. of Tufts Coll., Somerville, Ms., which he had been active in establishing, and after visiting Europe, and examining the colleges there, on his return, Aug. 22, 1855, entered upon his duties. In May, 1822, he became one of the editors of the Universalist Magazine (now the Trumpet), and in July, 1830, in connection with Rev. Hosea Ballou, sen., he commenced the publication of the Universalist Expositor, which he edited many years under that title and the title of the Universalist Quarterly. In 1829, he pub. "The Ancient History of Universalism," and a collection of psalms and hymns for the use of Univ. societies and families, 1837. He edited Sismondi's "History of the Crusades" 12mo, Bost., 1833.

Ballou, Maturin M., b. Boston, 1822, son of Rev. Hosea, editor and proprietor of Ballou's Pictorial and the Flag of our Union. Author of "History of Cuba," 1854, "Biography of Rev. Hosea Ballou," and "Life-Story of Hosea Ballou," a juvenile work.

Baltimore, Lord, see Calvert, George.

Bancroft, Aaron, D.D., a Unitarian minister, b. Reading, Ms., Nov. 10, 1755; d. Worcester, Ms., Aug. 19, 1839. H. U. 1778. D.D. 1810. Though his studies were much interrupted by the Revol., he became one of the most accomplished scholars of the country. He shouldered a musket as a volunteer at Lexington and Bunker's Hill. After spending some time in teaching, he studied theology, was licensed to preach, and spent three years as a missionary in Yarmouth, N.S. Feb. 1, 1786, he was settled in Worcester, where he spent the residue of his life. He was a pioneer in liberal Christianity, and took an active part in associations, conventions, and ecclesiastical councils. He pub. a "Eulogy on Washington" in 1800, "Life of Washington" in 1807, and in 1822 a vol. of controversial sermons. He delivered, Jan. 1, 1836, a discourse on the 50 years of his ministry at Worcester, which has been printed with historical notes. He was in straitened pecuniary circumstances in the early part of his career, and, in the last years of his life, he was oppressed by severe domestic afflictions. Member of the Amer. Acad. of Arts and Sciences. Father of Hon. George Bancroft, LL. D.

Bancroft, Dr. Edward, political and scientific writer, b. Westfield, Ms., Jan. 9, 1744; d. Eng. 8 Sept. 1820. Pres. Adams, in his autobiography, says that Bancroft had been a pupil of Silas Deane when the latter was a school-teacher; after some education, he was apprenticed to a trade, from which he ran away, and went to sea in debt to his master; returned successful, and compensated his employer; went again to sea; practised medicine in Guiana in 1763, and, taking up his residence in Eng., pub. in London, in 1769, his "Natural History of Guiana," a work of merit. He next wrote "Sir Charles Wentworth," a novel in which Christianity was vilified. He was a member of the Roy. Coll. of Physicians Lond., and Fellow of the Roy. Society. Gaining the intimacy of Dr. Franklin, the latter recommended him to the editors and proprietors of the Monthly Review, for whom he was to review all publications relative to America. In this labor, Franklin also participated. He was also a "meddler in the stocks." In the summer of 1777, being suspected by the British Govt. of participation in the attempt to burn Portsmouth dockyard, he fled to Passy. He then went to Paris to meet Silas Deane, and render assistance to the Amer. cause. He had previously pub. a vol. in support of Amer. colonial rights, entitled "Remarks on the Review of the Controversy between Great Britain and her Colonies," Lond., 1769, written by Wm. Knox. He had "a clear head and a good pen, and wrote some pieces relative to the connection between France and Amer., which were translated, and printed in a work, entitled Affaires de l'Angleterre et de l'Amérique." Bancroft the historian accuses him of being a spy in the pay of the British Government, and of making a dupe of Deane, who showed him all his instructions and correspondence. After the peace, he obtained a patent in France for the exclusive importation of the bark of the yellow oak, for the dyers, and afterward procured a similar patent in Eng., by which he is said to have realized £800 a year. In 1794, he pub. the first vol. of "Experimental Researches concerning the Philosophy of Permanent Colors," &c., followed by a second in 1813. He never returned to America.

Bancroft, George, LL. D., historian and politician, b. Worcester, Ms., Oct. 3, 1800. H. U. 1817. Son of Rev. Aaron Bancroft. He studied at the German universities, and received at Göttingen, in 1820, the degree of Ph. D. Returning to Amer. in 1822, he officiated one year at Harvard as tutor of Greek. In 1823, in conjunction with Dr. J. G. Cogswell, he established the Round Hill School at Northampton, as a preparatory school for collegiate instruction. He began at this time collecting materials for a history of the U. S., the first vol. of which appeared in 1834, and the 9th 1866. In 1826, in an oration at Northampton, he declared himself for universal suffrage and uncompromising democracy. In 1835, he drafted an address to the people of Ms., at the request of the young men's Democ. Convention, and was active as a public speaker, and in drawing up political resolutions and addresses. In 1838–41, he was collector of Boston, and was a frequent orator in political assemblies. In 1844, he was the Democ. candidate for gov. of Ms., but was not elected. In 1845, he entered Mr. Polk's cabinet as sec. of the navy, signalizing his administration by the establishment of the naval school at Annapolis. In 1846–9, he was minister-plenipo. to Great Britain, and occupied himself in perfecting his collections on Amer. history. He also brought ab. changes in the British navigation laws favorable to Amer. commerce. App. minister to Prussia in 1867, and has negotiated a treaty with the N. Germ. Confed., by which German naturalized citizens of the U. S. are released from allegiance to the government of their native country. In 1823, he pub. a translation of Heeren's "Politics of Ancient Greece." Besides many public addresses, he has collected a vol. of "Miscellanies," chiefly upon historical and philosophical topics. In 1849, the Univ. of Oxford made him a doctor of civil law; and in that year he returned to the U. S. A small vol. of poems pub. at Boston in 1823 witnesses to the poetical enthusiasm with which he traversed the ruins of Italy and the sublime scenery of Switzerland. He was a contrib. to the N. A. Review. He has filled the office of pres. of the Amer. Geographical Society, and is a disting. member of the Ethnological and N. Y. Historical Societies. Mr. Bancroft has also pub. an abridgment of his history. In Oct. 1855, he delivered an address on the site of the battle of King's Mountain, S.C.; another, Sept. 10, 1860, at the inauguration of the statue of Com. Perry at Cleveland, O.; a eulogium on Prescott the historian, in 1859, before the N.Y. Hist. Society, and in Mar. 1866, delivered a eulogy on Pres. Lincoln, before both houses of Congress.

Digitized by Google

Bangs, Nathan, D.D., Methodist minister, and scholar, b. Stratford, Ct., May 2, 1778; d. N. Y. City, May 3, 1862. He commenced business-life as a schoolmaster and land-surveyor, making a tour in Upper Canada, and continued these occupations until, in 1801, he entered the itinerant ministry of the Methodist Church. In the discharge of this function he travelled in Canada 7 years, and, returning to the U. S. in 1808, had charge of several circuits, stations, and districts, until 1820, when he was elected agent and editor of the Methodist Book Concern. He was in 1828–32 editor of the Christian Advocate and Journal, the Quarterly Review, and also of the books issued from the establishment in 1832–36. He was cor. sec. of the missionary society of the M. E. Church in 1836–41; pres. of the Wesleyan Univ. at Middletown, Ct., 1841–3; then took charge of different churches in N. Y. and Brooklyn, for 10 years. Author of "The Errors of Hopkinsianism," "Predestination Examined," "Reformer Reformed," "Life of Garretson," "History of the Methodist-Episcopal Church," "History of Missions," 1832, "An Original Church of Christ," "Emancipation," "Letters on Sanctification," "State Prospects and Responsibilities of the M. E. Church," "Life of Arminius," "Scriptural Vindication of the M. E. Church," 1820.

Banister, John, naturalist, b. Eng.; d. Va., 1693. He came from the W. Indies to Va., and settled near Jamestown. Formerly a clergyman, he devoted himself here to botanical pursuits, in which he was long and successfully engaged. He fell a victim to his favorite pursuit, being killed by a fall while climbing some rocks in one of his botanical excursions. He was at the time engaged upon a work on the natural history of Va. In 1680, he sent a catalogue of plants to the naturalist Ray, who pub. them in the 2d vol. of his work. Among his pubs. were "Observations on the Natural Productions of Jamaica," "The Insects of Virginia," 1700, "Curiosities in Virginia," "Observations on the Unseen Lupus," "On Several Sorts of Snails," "A Description of the Pistolochia or Serpentaria Virginiana, the Snakeroot."

Banister, Col. John, b. Va.; d. near Hatcher's Run, Dinwiddie Co., Va., 1787. Educated in Eng., and studied law at the Temple. Member of all the patriotic conventions of the Revol. period; col. in the Va. line; member of the Assembly, and of the Continental Congress in 1778–9, and one of the framers of the Articles of Confederation. In 1781, he was lieut.-col. of cav. under Gen. Lawson, and, during the invasion of Va., was active in repelling the enemy, and lost much property. For specimens of his literary abilities, see the Bland Papers, and also Sparks's Revol. Corresp. — Grigsby, and Campbell's Va.

Bankhead, James, brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. Va., 1783; d. Baltimore, Md., Nov. 11, 1856. Son of James Bankhead of Port Royal, planter and Revol. off., who d. Aug. 1840. App. capt. 5th Inf. 18 June, 1808; brigade maj. to Gen. Smyth, 1812; assist. adj.-gen. 5 Mar. 1813; maj. 4th Inf. 15 Aug. 1813; adj.-gen. Sept. 9, 1813; lieut.-col. 3d Art. Apr. 26, 1832; brev. col. "for meritorious conduct in campaigns in Florida," July 7, 1838; col. 2d Art. Sept. 16, 1838; brev. brig.-gen. "for gallant and meritorious conduct at the siege of Vera Cruz," Mar. 29, 1847; com. dept. of Orizaba, Mex., Jan. 1848, and at the time of his death com. the military depart. of the east. His son John P. Bankhead, capt. U. S. N., b. S.C.; d. Aden, at the mouth of the Red Sea, Apr. 27, 1867. He com. the famous "Monitor," which foundered in a gale off Cape Hatteras on the night of Dec. 30, 1862; com. "The Pembina" at the capture of Port Royal, and "The Florida" at the capture of Fernandina. He entered the navy 10 Aug. 1838.

Banks, John, lawyer, b. Juniata Co., Pa., 1793; d. Reading, Pa., Apr. 3, 1864. Received a classical education. Adm. to the bar in 1819, and practised in the western part of the State; M. C. 1831–6; pres. judge 3d judicial dist. 1836–47; State treasurer in 1847.

Banks, Nathaniel Prentiss, statesman, b. Waltham, Ms., 30 Jan. 1816. His parents were operatives in a factory. With only a common school education, he applied himself earnestly to study; edited a newspaper in Waltham, and afterward in Lowell; studied law; became a popular Democ. speaker, and, during Polk's administration, held an office in the Boston custom house. Member of Ms. legisl. 1849; speaker in 1851–2, and a prominent advocate of the coalition between the Democrats and Freesoilers, by which the Whig ascendency in Ms. was terminated; pres. of the State Const. Conv. of 1853; M. C. 1853–7, separating from his party on the question of slavery, and, after a protracted contest, chosen speaker of the house in 1855; gov. of Ms. in 1858–61; pres. of the Illinois Central Railroad when the Rebellion began, and, offering his services to Pres. Lincoln, was made maj.-

Digitized by Google

gen. 16 May, 1861, and app. to com. the Annapolis military district, and subsequently that of the Shenandoah. 24 May, 1862, he was attacked by Stonewall Jackson, and compelled to make a rapid retreat. He com. a corps under Gen. Pope in the battle of Cedar Mountain, Va., 9 Aug., 1862, and in Dec. succeeded Gen. Butler in com. of the dept. of La. He took Opelousas in Apr. 1863, after defeating the enemy, and capturing 2,000 prisoners, and Alexandria in May, 1863. His capture of Port Hudson, 8 July, 1863, opened the navigation of the Mississippi, and had important results. In Mar. 1864, he made a fruitless exped. to the Red River, being defeated by Dick Taylor at Sabine Cross Roads, 8 Apr., and, in turn, repulsing him 9 Apr. at Pleasant Hill. He was relieved from com. in May, 1864. M. C. since 1865, and chairman of the com. of foreign relations. He is less eminent in debate than as a presiding officer.

Banneker, Benjamin, a negro astronomer, b. Md., Nov. 9, 1731; d. Baltimore, Oct. 1806. Of African descent, he learned to read and write of his maternal grandmother, a white woman, who liberated and married one of her slaves. While employed in daily agricultural labor, he taught himself mathematics and astronomy, and made the necessary calculations for, and from 1792, for many years, pub., almanacs for Md. and the adjoining States. In 1792, he pub. a letter addressed to Jefferson, the sec. of State. He assisted Ellicott in laying out the city of Washington, and in running the boundary-lines of the District of Columbia, and was complimented for his scientific acquirements by Condorcet, sec. of the French Acad. of Sciences, to whom Thomas Jefferson had sent one of Banneker's Almanacs. — See Memoir by J. H. B. Latrobe, 1845, and by J. S. Norris, 1854, pub. by the Md. Hist. Soc.

Baraga, Frederic, D.D., R.C. bishop of Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie, b. Dobernich, Austria, 1797; d. Marquette, Jan. 19, 1868. He settled at Sault Ste. M. before 1838. Consecrated bishop Nov. 1, 1853. Made bishop of Sault Ste. M., Jan. 9, 1857, and of Marquette and S. S. M., Oct. 15, 1865. Author of "Grammar of the Otchipwe Language," Detroit, 12mo, 1851; "Dictionary of the Otchipwe Language," Cincin., 1853.

Baranov (bä-rä'nof), Alexandre Andre Vith, gov. of Russian Amer., d. at sea n. Java, Apr. 28, 1819. At first a Siberian merchant, he embarked, in Aug. 1790, for the Island of Kodiak, and, immediately upon his arrival, opened a trade with the natives. In 1796, he established a mercantile colony at Behring's Strait, and, in 1799, he took possession of the large Island of Sitka. He had many natural obstacles to overcome; but his efforts were assisted by the Russian company; and he obtained from the Emperor Alexander a title of nobility. After having lost, and again recovering in Oct. 1804, the fortress of the Isle of Sitka, he established there an important factory, and transacted business with Canton, Manilla, Boston, N.Y., and Cal.; and he even founded a small colony in the vicinity of San Francisco. He withdrew from the field of his labors in 1818, but did not revisit his country; for, touching at Batavia, the climate proved fatal to him. — Nouv. Biog. Gen.

Barbé, Marbois, see Marbois.

Barber, Col. Francis, Revol. officer, b. Princeton, N.J., 1751; d. Feb. 11, 1783. N.J. Coll. 1767. He became in 1769 rector of the acad., and pastor of the Presb. Church, at Elizabethtown, N.J., and had among his pupils Alexander Hamilton. Resigning these posts, he was, in Feb. 1776, commissioned by Congress major of the 3d N.J. batt.; lieut.-col. in Nov., and subsequently assist. insp.-gen. under Baron Steuben. He served at Trenton, Princeton, Brandywine, Germantown, and Monmouth, where he was severely wounded; in 1779, he was adj.-gen. in Sullivan's Indian exped., and was wounded in the battle of Newtown. He was engaged in the battle of Springfield, and in 1781 was intrusted with the delicate and important duty of suppressing the revolt of the Pa. and N.J. troops, in which he was successful. He was with the army at Newburgh in 1783; and, on the same day that Washington announced to the army the conclusion of the treaty of peace, Col. Barber was killed by the falling of a tree while riding along the skirt of a wood. Two younger bros., John and William, were officers in the N.J. line.

Barber, John Warner, historian, b. Windsor, Ct., 1798. Has pub. "History and Antiquities of New Haven," 12mo, 1831; "Religious Events," 12mo, 1832; "Historical Colls." of Connecticut, 8vo, 1836, Massachusetts, 8vo, 1839, and New Jersey, 1844, Virginia, 1844, Ohio, 1847, and New York, in connection with H. Howe. He has also pub. "Incidents in Amer. Hist." 12mo, 1847; "Elements of Gen. Hist." 16mo, 1844; "Religious Emblems and Allegories," 12mo, 1848; "European Hist. Colls." 8vo, 1855; "History and Antiquities of N.E., N.Y., and N.J.," 8vo, 1841; "Our whole Country, Historical and Descriptive," 8vo, Cincin., 1861; "Hist. Scenes in the U. S." 1827, and, in connection with Eliz. G. Barber, "Historical, Poetical, and Pictorial American Scenes," 12mo, 1850.

Barber, Jonathan, M.D., elocutionist, b. Eng., 1784; d. near Montreal, May 11, 1864. He practised medicine at Scarborough, and afterward at London successfully; came to the U.S. ab. 1820; devoted himself to teaching elocution at Yale and Harvard Colleges; then lectured on phrenology extensively; went to Canada in 1842; resumed medical practice there as a homœopathist in 1845, and was afterward prof. of oratory in the McGill U., Montreal. He pub. several works on elocution.

Barbour, James, statesman, b. Orange Co., Va., June 10, 1775; d. there June 8, 1842. Son of Col. Thomas. He obtained a limited education while serving as a dep. sheriff; began to practise law at 19, and first disting. himself as a member, and then as speaker, of the Va. House of Delegates. Participating in every important debate, he ably vindicated the resolutions of Mr. Madison in 1798, and was the proposer of the anti-duelling law, — one of the most stringent and effective legisl. acts ever passed. Gov. of Va. 1812-14; U. S. senator, 1815-25, sec. of war, 1825-8; and minister to Eng. in 1828–9; pres. of the Harrisburg convention in 1839. In the senate, he took an important part in the discussion of the Mo. question, was chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, and ultimately pres. pro tem.

Digitized by Google

Barbour, JOHN S., politician, b. Culpepper Co., Va., Aug. 8, 1790; d. there Jan. 12, 1855. Son of Mordecai, a Revol. officer. He was at William and Mary Coll. in 1808–9; then studied law with his relative Gov. B.; and, in the War of 1812, was aide to Gen. Madison. He was a member of the State legisl.; M.C. 1823–33; again in the Va. legisl. in 1833–4, and was prominent and influential in the public affairs of Va. and of the U.S. He was of the State Rights school, and was an able debater. One of his best speeches in Congress was delivered in defence of McDuffie's proposition to break up the system of voting for President by States, and establish a uniform system of voting by districts. Member of the Const. Conv. of 1829–30.

Barbour, PHILIP PENDLETON, jurist and politician. Son of Col. Thomas, a Revol. patriot, b. Orange Co., Va., May 25, 1783; d. Washington, D.C., Feb. 24, 1841. He was a lawyer of talent, represented his county in the Va. legisl. in 1812–14, and was an acknowledged leader of the "war party." M.C., 1814–25 and 1827–33; an opponent of public improvements being made by Congress, and of a tariff, and sustained the Southern side of the Mo. question. Speaker of the house in 1821; judge of one of the Va. courts in 1825–7; pres. of the Va. Const. Conv. in 1829; pres. of the Free Trade Conv. in Phila. in 1831; judge of the U.S. Circuit Court for the eastern district of Va. in 1829–36; and asso. judge of the U.S. Supreme Court in 1836–41.

Barcena (bar-thā'-nă), ALFONSO, a Spanish missionary to S. America, b. Cordova; d. 1598. He wrote for the use of the natives, and in their language, some religious and educational works.

Barcia de (bar-thee'-ă), ANDREA GONZALEZ, who lived about 1700, was author of "A General History of Florida," and "First Historians of the West Indies."

Barclay, HENRY, D.D. (Oxf. U. 1761), Pr.-Ep. rector of Trinity Church, N.Y. City, from Oct. 1746 to his death, 20 Aug. 1764; b. Albany. Y. C. 1734. He took orders in Eng. 30 Jan. 1738, and was some years a missionary to the Mohawk Indians. The translation of the church Liturgy into the Mohawk, under his direction and that of Revs. N. Andrews and J. Ogilvie, was pub. in 1769.

Barclay, J. T., M.D., b. Hanover C. H., Va., 1807. Three and a half years a missionary to Jerusalem, and since 1858 a permanent resident there. Has pub. "The City of the Great King; or, Jerusalem as it was, as it is, and is to be," Phila., 8vo, 457; "Map of Jerusalem and Environs," N.Y., 1856.

Barclay, R. H. capt. R. N., com. of the British fleet in the battle on Lake Erie, b. Scotland; d. Edinburgh, May 8, 1837. He had served with Nelson, lost an arm at Trafalgar, and assumed the com. on the lake in May, 1813. He fitted out the naval armament which he afterward com., and displayed great energy and activity. His fleet, however, owing to the scarcity of sailors, was poorly manned, and in the obstinate battle of the 10th of Sept. this deficiency, together with the superior weight of metal in the Amer. fleet, compelled the surrender of Barclay and his entire force. He was dangerously wounded, and his remaining arm rendered useless. A trial by court-marshal resulted in his honorable acquittal. — Morgan.

Bard, JOHN, physician, b. Burlington. N.J., Feb. 1, 1716; d. Hyde Park, N.Y., Mar. 30, 1799. He was of a family which the edict of Nantes had driven from France. Peter, his father, came to Md., a merchant, in 1703, but soon moved to N. J., where he was many years a privy-councillor and second judge of the Supreme Court. He received the rudiments of a classical education at Phila.; was seven years a surgeon's apprentice there, and began a lasting friendship with Dr. Franklin. He established himself in New York in 1746, and soon ranked among the most skilful in his profession. In 1750, he assisted Dr. Middleton in the first recorded dissection in America. In 1759, he was app. to take measures to prevent the spread of ship-fever, and selected Bedloe's Island for a hospital, of which he took charge. In 1778, he withdrew from the city; but, after the Revol., he resumed practice there, and in 1788 became first pres. of the N.Y. Medical Society. In 1795, when the yellow-fever raged in New York, Dr. Bard, though near 80, remained at his post, but gave up practice in May, 1798. He left an essay on malignant pleurisy, and several papers on the yellow-fever, pub. in the American Medical Register.

Bard, SAMUEL, M.D. (U. of Edinb. 1765), LL.D. (N. J. Coll. 1815), physician, son of Dr. John, b. Phila., 1 Apr. 1742; d. 24 May, 1821. On his passage to Edinburgh, where he studied medicine, he was captured by the French (Sept. 1761), and owed his release, five months later, to Dr. Franklin, then living in London. After a tour through Scotland and Eng., he returned home in 1767, having gained the annual medal given by Prof. Hope for the best collection of plants. He began practice in New York with his father; organized a medical school, which was united to King's Coll., in which he took the chair of physic in 1769, subsequently becoming dean of the faculty. He m. his cousin Mary Bard in 1770, purchased his father's establishment and business in 1772, and in 1795 took Dr. Hosack into partnership. In 1774, he gave a course of clinical lectures; caused the establishment of a public hospital in 1791, of which he was app. visiting physician; and in 1813 was app. pres. of the Coll. of Phys. and Surgeons. While the seat of govt. was in N.Y. City, he was Washington's family physician. In 1798, he retired to his country-seat in N.J., but, on the approach of the yellow-fever, returned to his post. He took the disease, but, nursed by his faithful wife, soon recovered. He was a skilful horticulturist, as well as an eminent physician. Besides addresses and discourses, he pub. "The Shepherd's Guide;" de Viri

Digitized by Google

Sus Opii, 1765; on Augina Suffocativa, in vol. I. Amer. Phil. Trans., and "Compendium of Midwifery," 1807.— See Life, by John Mc Vicar, 1822.

Barker, JACOB, financier, b. Swan Island, Kennebec Co., Me., 7 Dec. 1779. He was of a Quaker family, connected, on his mother's side, with the mother of Dr. Franklin. At 16 he went to New York, soon began to trade on his own account, and at 21 was the owner of four ships and a brig, and engaged in large transactions. He became a State senator, and, when sitting in the Court of Errors, delivered an opinion in an insurance case in opposition to that of Judge Kent, and was sustained by the court. His ships were all captured during the War of 1812. He established the Union newspaper to advocate the election of Gov. Clinton; started the Exchange Bank in 1815; became largely concerned in stocks, and, on the failure of the "Life and Fire Insurance Co.," was indicted with others for conspiracy to defraud. He defended himself ably, and the trial was quashed; but public confidence was shaken, and he removed to New Orleans in 1834. He was adm. to the bar, and became a political and business leader there; but the Rebellion brought ruin again upon him, and in Dec. 1867, at the age of 88, he was again in bankruptcy. — See incidents of his Life, 1806–55, N.Y., 1855. D. Phila. Dec. 27, 1871.

Barker, JAMES NELSON, soldier, author, politician, b. Phila., June 17, 1784; d. Washington, D.C., Mar. 9, 1858. Son of Gen. John. He was a brave officer in the War of 1812, in which he gained the rank of major; was alderman in 1817, and mayor of Phila. in 1820; collector of that port in 1829–38; comptroller of the U.S. treas. 1838 to 1858. In 1814, he was severely wounded in a duel, and was assist. adj.-gen. 4th milit. district, from 1814 to 1817. He wrote two dramas, "Marmion," and the "Indian Princess;" "Superstition," a tragedy; the comedy of "Smiles and Tears," and a poem called "The Sisters." He was a contrib. to the public journals of Phila. and Washington. His poem "Little Red Riding Hood" is in "Griswold's Poets and Poetry of America." "Sketch of the Primitive Settlements on the River Delaware," 8vo, Phil., 1827.

Barker, JOHN, D.D., pres. of Alleghany Coll., Meadville, Pa.; d. there Feb. 26, 1860.

Barksdale, WILLIAM, brig.-gen. C.S.A., b. Rutherford Co., Tenn., Aug. 21, 1821; killed at Gettysburg, Pa., July 2, 1863. He studied at the Nashville U.; removed to Columbus, Mpi.; was adm. to the bar, where he practised successfully, and, while editing the Democrat sustained the principle of State Rights. During the Mexican war, he served in the 2d Mpi. Vols. In 1851, he was a member of the State convention to discuss the compromises of 1850. From 1853 he was a leading State Rights member of Congress of the Democ. party, until the war broke out; when he left his seat, and joined the Confed. army. He assisted Brooks in his assault upon Senator Sumner. At the head of the 13th Mpi. Regt., he took part in the various campaigns of Va., attained the rank of brig.-gen., and com. the 3d brigade of Early's division, Ewell's corps.

Barlow, FRANCIS CHANNING, maj.-gen vols., b. Brooklyn, N.Y., Oct. 19, 1834. H. U. 1855. First in his class. He studied law, began practice in N.Y. City, was for a time connected with the Tribune, and, in Apr. 1861, became a private in the 12th N.Y. Regt., in which he served three months, rising to 1st lieut. He then became lieut.-col. 61st N.Y. Vols., and, during the siege of Yorktown, col., distinguishing himself at Fair Oaks. In the retreat from the Chickahominy to James River, his regt. rendered important services. At Antietam, Sept. 17, 1862, he captured two stands of colors and 300 prisoners, received two severe wounds, and was carried off the field for dead. Sept. 19, he was app. brig.-gen. for disting. conduct at the battle of Fair Oaks, June 1, 1862. He com. a brigade of Howard's div. at the battle of Chancellorsville, May 2, 1863. At Gettysburg, he was again severely wounded. In Grant's campaign of 1864, he captured the whole division of Gen. Johnston; com. a division at the battles of the Wilderness, Spottsylvania, and the assault on Petersburg. In the final struggle and pursuit of Lee's routed army, he rendered essential service. Secretary of State of N.Y. 1866–8; U.S. marshal for the Southern district of N.Y., 1868.

Barlow, JOEL, poet, b. Reading, Ct., 24 Mar. 1755; d. Zarnowicke, near Cracow, Poland, 22 Dec. 1812. Y. C. 1778. He served as a volunteer in the Revol. army, studied theology, was licensed as a Cong. minister, and in 1778–83 was a chaplain in the army, varying his clerical duties with the composition of patriotic songs and addresses to keep up the spirit of the soldiers. About 1781, he m. a sister of Hon. Abraham Baldwin, and delivered at New Haven a poem, entitled "The Prospect of Peace." Settling at Hartford, he tried bookselling, established the American Mercury, a weekly paper, and in 1785 was adm. to the bar. In 1786, he pub. a revision of Dr. Watts's version of the Psalms, containing some pieces of his own. He was also one of the authors of the "Anarchiad," and in 1787 pub. his "Vision of Columbus." Visiting Europe in 1788, as agent of the Ohio Land Co., he pub., in aid of the French revol., "Advice to the Privileged Orders," "Letter to the National Convention," 1791, and the "Conspiracy of Kings," a poem. Towards the end of 1792, as a dep. of the London Constitutional Society, he presented an address to the French Convention, by whom he was invested with the rights of a French citizen, and given employment in Savoy, where he wrote his mock-heroic poem, "Hasty Pudding." U. S. consul at Algiers in 1795–7, and negotiated treaties with Algiers and Tripoli. In 1799, he pub. his "Letter to the People of the U. S.," and endeavored to bring about an adjustment of our difficulties with France, and, in a memoir to the French Govt., denounced privateering as mere sea-robbery. Having enriched himself by commercial speculations in France, he returned to the U. S. in 1805, and built himself an elegant residence on the Potomac, near Washington. In 1807, he pub. "The Columbiad," an epic poem, — the most magnificent work which had yet been issued in America, and superbly illustrated; but it proved a failure. App. ambassador to France in 1811, in Oct. 1812, he was invited by the French minister to a conference with Napoleon at Wilna, but died before his arrival there. A eulogy was delivered in Paris by Dupont de Nemours, before the Society for the Encouragement of National Industry; and an account of his life and writings, in quarto, was pub., with extracts from "The Columbiad." He was one of the foremost American authors of his time, and for his patriotism, public services, and purity of life, deserves a high place in our history. An edition of his political writings was pub. 1796.

Digitized by Google

Barnard, DANIEL DEWEY, LL.D., lawyer and politician, b. Sheffield, Ms., 1797; d. Albany, Apr. 24, 1861. Wms. Coll. 1818. His father, a native of Hartford, was a commissary in the Revol. Daniel passed his youth on his father's farm, Ontario Co., N.Y., but, inclining to literary pursuits, was, at 14, dep. in the county clerk's office. After leaving coll., he studied law at Rochester, N.Y.; was adm. to the bar in 1821; was county attorney in 1826; M. C. 1828–30 and 1839–45. Travelled in Europe in 1830–1, corresp. with one of the Rochester journals, removed to Albany in 1832, and became a prominent member of the Whig party, serving in the N. Y. Assembly. U. S. minister to Prussia, 1849–53. Many of his addresses, discourses, and speeches, have been pub. In 1839, he read before the Albany Institute "An Historical Sketch of the Colony of Rensselaerwick," which was pub. He was a constant contrib. to the Whig Review. The colleges of Geneva and New York conferred on him the degree of LL.D.

Barnard, FRED. AUG. PORTER, D.D., LL.D. (Jeff. Coll. Mpi.), scholar and educator, b. Sheffield, Ms., 1809. Y. C. 1828. Tutor at Yale in 1829; teacher in the Hartford Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb in 1831–3, and in a similar institution in N.Y. in 1833–8; prof. of math. and nat. philos. in Ala. U. 1838–48; of chemistry, 1848–54; of math. and astron. from 1854; and pres. of the Mpi. U. 1856–61; and, in 1864, became pres. of Col. Coll. N.Y. In 1856, he took orders in the Pr.-Ep.Church. Author of a treatise on arithmetic, 1830; a grammar, 1834; "Report on Collegiate Education," 1854; and "Lectures on College Government," 1855. A contrib. to the Amer. Jour. of Education from its origin.

Barnard, HENRY, LL.D. (H.U. 1852), educator, b. Hartford, Ct., Jan. 24, 1811. Y. C. 1830. He was adm. to the bar in 1835; travelled extensively in Europe until 1837, when he was a representative in the State legisl., and was twice re-elected. In that body, he effected a re-organization of the State common-school system. He was for four years sec. of the Board of School Commissioners. His first annual report in 1839 was pronounced by Chancellor Kent "a bold and startling document, founded on the most painstaking and critical inquiry." During this period, he issued 4 vols. of the Connecticut Common School Journal, and subsequently continued it from 1850 to 1855. From 1843 to 1849, he had charge of the public schools of R. I., where he established a model system of popular education. He next interested himself in school architecture, and, from 1850 to 1854, was State superintendent. In the summer of 1855, he began the American Journal of Education. He became pres. of the Amer. Asso. for the Advancement of Education, in 1855, and was offered the presidency of two State universities. Commissioner of the new department of education at Washington, 1867–70. His principal works are "School Architecture," 1854; "Normal Schools in the U. S. and Europe," 1851; "Tribute to Gallaudet," 1852; "National Education in Europe," 1854; "Journal of R. I. Institute of Instruction," 3 vols. 1845–8; "Educational Biography;" "History of Education in Ct., 1638–1854;" "Report on Public Schools in R. I.," 1845 and 1848; "Hints and Methods for the Use of Teachers," 1857; "Life of Ezekiel Cheever, and Notes on the Free Schools of N. E.," 1856; "Education in Factories," 1842; "School Libraries," 1854; "Educational Tracts," 1842–6.

Barnard, ISAAC D., soldier and senator, b. Aston, Pa., 1791; d. Westchester, Pa., Feb. 28, 1834. Receiving an ordinary education, he began to study law in Chester in 1811; was app. capt. 14th Inf. Mar. 12, 1812; maj. June 26, 1813; was disting. at Lyons Creek, under Gen. Bissell, and at the capture of Fort George, in May, 1813; and left the army in 1815. Resuming his legal studies, he was adm. to the bar in 1816, in Westchester; was soon made dep. atty.-gen.; chosen State senator in 1820; sec. of State in 1826; and was U. S. senator in 1827–31.

Barnard, JOHN, minister of Marblehead, b. Boston, Nov. 6, 1681; d. Jan. 24, 1770. H. U. 1700. He was for some time assist. to Dr. Colman; but his fondness for active life induced him to accompany as chaplain the exped. to Port Royal in 1707, of which he left a MS. account. In London, where he became acquainted with some of the famous dissenting ministers, he was offered a chaplaincy by Lord Wharton, but refused to conform to the articles of the National Church. Ord. minister of Marblehead, July 18, 1716, as colleague of Mr. Cheever. He received Mr. Whitwell as his assist. in 1762, and preached his last sermon, Jan. 8, 1769. Eminent for his learning and piety, Mr. Barnard was famous among the divines of America. He taught his people to improve the advantages of their situation, and took great pains to learn the "mystery of the fish-trade," which was introduced there by his efforts; and he also successfully encouraged them to undertake commercial voyages, and transport their fish to the West Indies and Europe. He generally supported at school two boys, whose parents were unable to meet the expense, and gave by his will £200 to Harvard Coll. The pubs. of Mr. Barnard were mostly sermons. His was the first Dudleian lecture ever pub., and, at the age of 70, he pub. a version of the Psalms. There is in the Mass. Hist. Colls. a letter from him to Pres. Stiles, giving a sketch of the eminent ministers of N. E. One of the first N.E clergymen who deviated from Calvinism.

Digitized by Google

Barnard, John Gross LL.D. (Y. C. 1854. Brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. Essex Co., Ms., 19 May, 1815. West Point, 1833. Entering the engineer corps, he became capt. 7 July, 1838; maj. 13 Dec. 1856; lieut.-col. 3 Mar. 1863; col. 28 Dec. 1865; brig.-gen. vols. 23 Sept. 1861. He was long employed upon Forts Jackson and St. Philip, La.; upon the defences of Tampico, Mex., 1846–7; chief-engineer to survey the projected Tehuantepec Railroad, Mex., 1850–1; employed on the Delaware Breakwater, 1852–3, in the fortification of San Francisco harbor, 1854; superint. and instructor, U.S. Milit. Acad., 1855–6; employed on Forts Gaines and Morgan, Mobile, 1857–8, and on the defences of N.Y. harbor, 1859–61. Chief engineer in Manassas campaign of July, 1861; of Army of the Potomac, 1861–2, and brev. col. for services in the Peninsular campaign; chief engr. defences of Washington, Sept. 1862 to May, 1864; chief-engr. "of the armies in the field" on staff of Gen. Grant, 1864–5; and brev. brig.-gen. and maj.-gen. U.S.A., 13 Mar. 1865, for gallant and meritorious services in the campaign ending with Lee's surrender, and during the Rebellion. Author of "Survey of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec," 1852; "Phenomena of the Gyroscope," 1858; "Dangers and Defences of New York," 1859; "Notes on Seacoast Defence," 1862; "The C.S.A. and the Battle of Bull Run," 1862; "The Peninsular Campaign," 1864 (jointly with Gen. W. F. Barry); "Reports of the Engineer and Artillery Operations of the Army of the Potomac," 1863; "Eulogy on Gen. Totten," 1866; and various scientific and military memoirs and reports. Corporator of Nat. Acad. of Sciences, 3 Mar. 1863. — Cullum.

Barnes, Rev. Albert, Presb. clergyman, b. Rome, N.Y., Dec. 1, 1798; d. Phila., 24 Dec. 1870. Ham. Coll. 1820. Employed in his father's tannery until 17 years of age. He studied theology at Princeton, and was pastor of the Presb. Church of Morristown, N.J., from Feb. 1825 to 1830, after which he had charge of the First Presb. Church of Phila. He held a prominent position in the new school of his denomination, and took an early and decided stand both in his sermons and writings against slavery. His Bible commentaries are well known, and are in general use. The "Notes on the New Testament" (11 vols.) had reached in 1870 a circulation of a million vols. He also pub. able works on the Episcopacy, on the "Scriptural Views of Slavery," numerous contribs. to periodicals, occasional essays and discourses, and an elaborate "Introductory Essay to Bishop Butler's Analogy." He was an impressive pulpit orator, and ranked high as a divine. Also author of commentaries on Job, Isaiah, the Psalms, and Daniel, "Manual of Prayers," 1854; "Sermons on Revivals," "The Way of Salvation," 1855; "Practical Sermons," 1855; "The Church and Slavery," 1857; "Prayers for Family Worship," 1858; "Miscellaneous Essays and Reviews," 2 vols. 1855; "The Atonement," 1859; "Claims of Episcopacy," 1856; "Church Manual," 8vo, 1841; "Defence" on his trial for heresy by the Phila. Synod," and "Life of St. Paul."

Barnes, Daniel H., conchologist, b. 1785; d. Oct. 27, 1818, by being thrown from a carriage. In conjunction with Dr. Griscom, he originated and conducted with reputation the High school of New York. He was also a Baptist preacher. Besides his great attainments as a classical scholar and philologist, he was probably the most eminent conchologist in the U. S.; and his learned communications on that science were pub. in Silliman's Journal with explanatory plates. His writings in that journal are "Geological Section of the Canaan Mountain," "Memoir on the Geneva Unio and Alasmodonta, with numerous figures," "Five Species of Chiton, with Figures," "Memoir on Batrachian Animals and Doubtful Reptiles," "On Magnetic Polarity and Reclamation of Unios."

Barnes, James, brev. maj.-gen. vols., b. Boston; d. Springfield, Ms., Feb. 12, 1869. West Point, 1829. After seven years' army-service, he resigned, and became a railroad engineer and superintendent on the Western R. R. of Ms., 1836–48, and chief engineer of the Seaboard and Roanoke R.R., 1848–52. He aided in constructing several other railroads between 1848 and 1857. Col. 18th Ms. regt. from July 26, 1861, to Nov. 29, 1862, when he was made brig.-gen.; brev. maj.-gen. Mar. 13, 1865; mustered out, Jan. 15, 1866. He participated in most of the battles of the Army of the Potomac, was at Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, the skirmishes of Aldie and Upperville, and at the battle of Gettysburg com. a division, and was severely wounded.

Barney, Joshua, commodore U. S. Navy, b. Baltimore, 6 July, 1759; d. Pittsburg, Pa., 1 Dec. 1818. His parents resided on a farm near Baltimore, where he was sent to school until 10 years of age. Inclined to a seafaring life, he made several foreign voyages, in the last of which, when but 16 years of age, the care of the ship devolved, by accident, upon him. In Oct. 1775, he became master's mate of the sloop of war "Hornet," and joined the fleet of Com. Hopkins in the capture of New Providence. Before he was 17, he was made a lieut. for good conduct in the action between the schooner "Wasp" and the British brig "Tender," in Del. Bay. Lieut. of "The Sachem," Capt. Isaiah Robinson, and, after a severe action with an English brig, brought her into port; soon afterward he was taken prisoner, but was almost immediately exchanged, and in "The Andrea Doria," aided, in the spring of 1777, in the defence of "The Delaware." Again captured in the frigate "Virginia," he was exchanged in Aug. 1778; was a third time a prisoner in the following year, and, after his exchange, was for the fourth time captured in "The Saratoga," of 16 guns; was sent to Plymouth, and confined in the Mill Prison, whence he escaped in May, 1781. After being retaken, and again escaping, he arrived in Phila. in Mar. 1782; took command of "The Hyder Ally" of 16 guns, in which he captured, after a gallant fight, the ship "General Monk" of superior force, for which the legisl. of Pa. voted him a sword. After the war, he engaged in business; travelled in the West in 1786–8, and took part in the adoption of the U. S. Constitution. In 1792, while returning from Cape François with a large number of women and children, whom he had rescued from the blacks, his vessel was captured by an English privateer; but he recaptured her from her prize-crew. Again captured in 1793 by an English brig, he was imprisoned as a pirate, and his ship and cargo condemned. In 1794, he accompanied Monroe to France, and was the bearer of the Amer. flag to the National Convention. Made a capt. in the French navy, he com. a squadron, but resigned in 1799. In the War of 1812, he engaged successfully in privateering; was made a capt. in the U. S. Navy, 25 Apr. 1814, and com. the flotilla for the defence of the Chesapeake. Ordered to the defence of Washington in July, he was severely wounded and made prisoner, while gallantly resisting the British invaders at the battle of Bladensburg, 24 Aug. 1814. A sword was voted him by the city of Washington, and a vote of thanks by the legisl. of Ga. He was sent on a mission to Europe in May, 1815, but returned in Oct., suffering from his wound; the ball never having been extracted. His death took place just as he was about emigrating with his family to Ky., where he had purchased land. He was in 26 engagements. In 1780, he m. the dau. of Alderman Bedford. His son John, M.C. from Baltimore, 1825–7; d. Washington, D.C., 26 Jan. 1857, a. 72. — See Memoirs of Com. Barney, by Mary Barney, 8vo, 1832.

Digitized by Google

Barnum, Phineas Taylor, showman, b. Bethel, Ct., 5 July, 1810. He was a trader, afterward pub. the Herald of Freedom in Danbury, Ct., and suffered 60 days' imprisonment for a libel. Removing to N. Y. in 1834, he began his career of showman in 1835, with Joice Heth, a colored woman, the reputed nurse of Washington. In Dec. 1841, without owning a dollar, he bought Scudder's Amer. Museum, and, at the end of one year, had paid for it in full. In 1842, he began to exhibit Gen. Tom Thumb, with whom he visited Europe in 1844–7. In 1849, he engaged Jenny Lind to come to America, paying her $1,000 per night for 150 nights. In 1855, he retired to Bridgeport, Ct., and pub. an account of his career. He soon lost all he had made, and was obliged to compound with his creditors in 1857. 13 July, 1865, his museum was burnt. He opened another, which was also destroyed by fire, and has since been interested in Wood's Museum on Broadway. An unsuccessful candidate for Congress in 1857. He has pub. a "History of Humbugs," and has written and lectured on agriculture and temperance.

Barnwell, Robert Woodward, statesman, b. Beaufort, S.C., Aug. 10, 1801. H. U. 1821. He studied law; was M.C. in 1829–33; pres. of S. C. Coll. 1835-41; U.S. senator, 1850. In Dec. 1860, he was a commissioner to visit Washington in behalf of S.C., and was a member of the Confed. Congress. Pres. of the U. of S.C.

Barras de (deh-bä-rä'), Louis Count, a French naval officer, b. Provence; d. ab. 1800. During the War of Amer. Independence, he exhibited qualities much more rare than experience or courage. The superior of De Grasse, and free to act as chief in the northern waters of the U.S., he did not hesitate to place himself under the orders of that admiral when he thought a junction necessary to the good of the service. Barras had at first followed D'Estaing, and disting. himself at the naval combat of Grenada. He fought under De Grasse in Chesapeake Bay, and at the Antilles, also, on the 25th and 26th Jan. 1782, against Hood, whose fleet was moored under the guns of St. Christopher, which was taken by Bouille. Barras was detached to possess himself of Nevis and Montserrat, soon after which he returned to Europe, and retired from the service.

Barre de la (deh lä bär), Antoine Lefevre, a French naval officer; d. May 4, 1688. He was app. gov. of Guiana in 1663, and retook Cayenne from the Dutch, 1667. Lieut.-gen. in 1667, he defeated the English in the Antilles, forcing them to raise the blockade of St. Christopher. In 1682, he was app. gov. of Canada, succeeding Frontenac. He was, however, recalled in 1685, for having, by his irresolution, caused the failure of the exped. to treat with the savages. He was the enemy of La Salle, and is said to have enriched himself by his corrupt practices.

Barré, Col. Isaac, a British orator and soldier, b. Dublin, 1726; d. London, July 20, 1802. His parents, who were French, kept a small grocery-store in Dublin. Isaac entered the army in 1747; became a lieut. Oct. 1, 1755; accompanied the exped. against Louisburg; was app. by Wolfe, "his early protector and friend," major of brigade, May 12, 1758; and May 4, 1759, adj.-gen. of the army before Quebec. In the battle on the Plains of Abraham, he was so severely wounded as to lose the sight of an eye. In West's picture of the "Death of Wolfe," Barré's figure is conspicuous. He served under Amherst in 1760, and bore to England the news of the surrender of Montreal; promoted to lieut.-col. Jan. 19, 1761. Placed in parliament through the interest of Lord Shelburne in 1761, Barré soon found himself in the opposition, and, in consequence, was deprived of the offices given for his services in America. His speech upon the Stamp Act in 1765 deserves a place in the memory of every American. Throughout the administration of Lord North, Col. Barré continued the warm friend of the American Colonies; disting. himself greatly by the boldness of his sentiments, and his inflexible opposition to the American war. He was blind during the last 20 years of his life. For 15 years, he held a lucrative office. He was one of the supposed authors of Junius's Letters. A town in Ms. perpetuates his memory. His oratory was powerful, but coarse, his manners rugged, his countenance stern, and his stature athletic.

Barringer, Daniel Moreau, statesman, b. Cabarrus Co., N.C., ab. 1807. U. of N.C 1826. He established himself in the practice of law in 1829, became distinguished in his profession; was several years in the State legisl.; member of the State Const. Conv. in 1835; M.C. 1843–9; minister to Spain in 1849–53; afterward travelled in Europe, and, on his return, served in the State legisl. until 1855, when he devoted himself to literary pursuits

Digitized by Google

He was a delegate to the Peace Congress of 1861; d. White Sulph. Springs, Va., Sep. 1, 1873.

Barritt, Frances Fuller, poet, b. Rome, N.Y., May, 1826. In 1830, her parents removed to Northern Pa., and, in 1839, to Worster, O. She early became a contrib. to the leading belle-lettres journals of the country. In 1851 appeared a vol. of her poems edited by Rufus W. Griswold, of great merit, containing, among other pieces, "Azlea, a Tragedy." In 1853, she m. Jackson Barritt of Pontiac, Mich. After a few years' residence west of the Missouri, she took up her residence in N.Y. City. A younger sister, Metta Victoria (see Victor), is also a poetess. — Poets and Poetry of the West.

Barron, James, commodore U. S. N., b. in Va., 1768; d. Norfolk, Apr. 21, 1851. He commenced his naval career under his father, James, who d. in 1787, and who held the rank of commodore of the Va. navy during the Revol. war, and was also a member of the Va. Board of War. His bro. Richard was a capt. during the whole war. The vessels com. by the Barrons were "The Liberty" and "The Patriot." The former was engaged in 20 actions, and was very successful. On the formation of the U S. navy, Mar. 9, 1798, he was made lieut., and served under Commo. Barry in the brief war with France. Made capt. May 22, 1799, and ordered to the Mediterranean under the command of his elder brother, Commo. Samuel Barron, and was esteemed one of the most accomplished and efficient officers, and one of the best disciplinarians, in the service. He served actively afloat until 1807, in which year he com. the frigate "Chesapeake" at the time of her unfortunate encounter with the British frigate "Leopard." Barron was tried by a court-martial, and suspended for five years. In 1820, a corresp., which grew out of this affair, led to a duel with Decatur, Mar. 22. 1820, in which the latter was killed, while Barron was severely wounded.

Barron, Samuel, commo. U. S. N., bro. of James, b. Hampton, Va., Sept. 25, 1765; d. there Oct. 29, 1810. He was disting. for gallantry in the Revol. navy of Va., in which his father, his uncle, and his brother, also participated. In 1798, he com. the brig "Augusta," fitted out by the citizens of Norfolk against the French. Made capt. U. S. navy, Sept. 13, 1798, he left the merchant-service; was conspicuous in the Tripolitan war; and in 1805 com. a squadron of 10 vessels. He co-operated with Gen. Eaton in the capture of the town of Derne, on the Tripolitan coast, Apr. 27, 1805, but, in consequence of extreme ill health, soon after returned to the U. S.

Barron, Samuel, admiral in the Confederate navy, b. Va. Midshipm. U. S. N. 1 Jan. 1812; lieut. 3 Mar. 1827; com. 15 July, 1847; capt. 1855. He com. "The Wabash," the flagship of Commo. Lavalette in the Mediterranean, in 1859. Made com. in the Confed. navy in 1861, and put in charge of the naval defences of N. C. and Va., with the rank of flag-officer; took charge of the defence of Forts Clark and Hatteras during the attack by Flag-officer Stringham and Gen. Butler, 27 Aug. 1861, and, after their surrender, was a prisoner in New York until exchanged in 1862.

Barrow, Gen. Washington, minister to Lisbon, 1841–3; M. C. 1847–9; b. Tenn. ab. 1817; d. St. Louis, 19 Oct. 1866. He was a lawyer; some years editor of the Nashville Banner, and a leader of the old Whig party; State senator in 1861, and for a time imprisoned by the federal authorities during the civil war.

Barrundia, José Francisco, statesman of Honduras, b. 1779; d. N. Y. City, Aug. 4, 1854. He was the first to raise the standard of revol. against the Spanish Govt. Member of the first republican assembly, Apr. 10, 1824, he introduced and carried a decree for the abolition of slavery, and devoted himself to the cause of social and civil reform. Pres. of the republic in 1829, he served with wisdom and moderation, and organized a general system of public instruction. Minister to the U. S. in 1854, he purposed the annexation of Honduras to the U. S., but died soon after his arrival.

Barry, John, first commodore in the U. S. navy, b. Tacumshane, Wexford Co., Ireland, 1745; d. Phila., Sept. 13, 1803. He went to sea very young; came to Phila. at the age of 15; soon rose to the com. of a ship, and accumulated wealth. When the war commenced, he offered his services to Congress, "abandoning," to use his own language, "the finest ship and the first employ in America." In Feb. 1776, he was app. to com. "The Lexington," 14, in which, after a sharp action, he took "The Edward," tender, the first war-vessel captured by a regular Amer. cruiser in action. He was then transferred to "The Effingham," frigate, which being useless during the suspension of navigation the following winter, he obtained the com. of a company of vols., and with some heavy cannon assisted in the operations at Trenton, continuing with the army, and performing important services, during the winter campaign. At the head of 4 boats, he carried an enemy's man-of-war schooner in gallant style, without the loss of a man; for which he was publicly thanked by Washington. He was for a short time aide-de-camp to Gen. Cadwalader. When the British obtained possession of Phila., he took "The Effingham" up the Delaware, with the hope of saving her; but she was subsequently burned by the enemy. An offer was made him, by Gen. Howe, of 15,000 guineas if he would bring in the ship. It was rejected with scorn. In Sept. 1778, he took com. of "The Raleigh," 32, which a British squadron compelled him to run on shore at Fox's Island in Penobscot Bay. In Feb. 1781, he sailed in "The Alliance" with Col. Laurens, ambassador to France, and cruised successfully until autumn. May 29, he captured, after a severe contest, two British vessels, "The Atlanta" and "Trepasa." Returning in Oct. 1781, "The Alliance" was refitted, and after carrying Lafayette and Noailles to France, cruised in the West Indies, with success, until Mar. 1782. After the foundation of the present navy, June 6, 1794, Barry was named as the senior officer, in which station he died. He superintended the building of the frigate "United States," and was assigned to her command. He was a man of deep religious feeling, and strict honor.

Digitized by Google

Barry, JOHN, D.D., R. C. bishop of Savannah, consecrated Aug. 2, 1857; d. Nov. 21, 1859.

Barry, JOHN S., gov. Michigan, 1842–6 and 1850–2, b. Vt. 1802; d. Constantine, Mich., Jan. 15, 1870. Educated at the public schools of Vt.; studied law, but in 1832 went to Constantine, and engaged in mercantile business. Member of the first Const. Conv. of Mich., in which he took a leading part, and was chosen State senator in 1836, and again in 1840. Member of the Chicago Democ. Conv. of 1864.

Barry, WILLIAM FARQUHAR, brev. maj.-gen. U. S. A., b. N.Y. City, Aug. 18, 1818. West Point, 1838. Entering the 4th Artillery, and stationed on the northern frontier during the troubles in Canada, he served part of the time on an armed schooner on the Lakes, and also as capt. of a guard at Lewiston. In 1838, he assisted Maj. Ringgold in organizing the first battery of light artillery introduced into the U.S. army; was ordered to R.I., during the Dorr rebellion; became 1st lieut. 1842; served throughout the Mexican war; was assist. adj.-gen. of Patterson's division, 1847; aide-de-camp to Gen. Worth, 1848; capt. in 1852, and served 2 years against the Seminole Indians. In 1857, he served against the Sioux and Chippewas in Minnesota. In April, 1861, he re-enforced Fort Pickens with a company of flying artillery. Maj. 5th Artillery, May 14, 1861. Ordered to Washington in July, he joined Gen. McDowell, participated in the battle of Bull Run, and, July 23, was ordered to re-organize the field artillery of the army. Brig.-gen. vols., Aug. 20, 1861, and assigned to the staff of Gen. McClellan, as chief of artillery of the Army of the Potomac, taking part in the peninsular campaign. Lieut.-col. 1st Art., Aug. 1, 1863; col. 2d Art., Dec. 11, 1865; chief of Art. on staff of Gen. Sherman, 1864–6; brev.-col. U.S.A., and maj.-gen. vols. for campaign of Atlanta, 1 Sept. 1864; brev. brig.-gen. U. S. A., 13 Mar. 1865, for services in the campaign ending in the surrender of Johnston's army; and brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., for merit. services during the Rebellion. Author (with Gen. Barnard) of "Reports of Engr. and Art. Operations of the Army of Potomac to the Close of the Peninsular Campaign," 1863. — Cullum.

Barry, WILLIAM TAYLOR, statesman, b. Lunenburg, Va., Feb. 5, 1784; d. Liverpool, Eng., Aug. 30, 1835. William and Mary Coll. 1803. He moved to Ky. at the age of 11; and, being adm. to the bar, his gift of popular eloquence soon established his fame. He served in both branches of the Ky. legisl.; was M.C. in 1810–11; U.S. senator, 1814–16; judge of the Supreme Court of Ky.; successively lieut.-gov., sec. of State, and chief-justice of Ky. Postmaster-gen. 1828–35; minister to Spain in 1835; died on his way to Madrid. He acted as sec. and aide to Gov. Shelby in the battle of the Thames, and was the first U. S. postmaster-gen. admitted to the cabinet.

Barry, WILLIAM TAYLOR SULLIVAN, lawyer, b. Columbus, Mpi., Dec. 12, 1821; d. there Jan. 29, 1868. Y. C. 1841. He took a plantation in Oktibbeha Co.; practised law in Columbus 2 or 3 years; was a member of the legisl. in 1849 and 1851; afterward removed to Sunflower Co.; M.C. 1853–5; again practised law in Columbus; was speaker of the legisl. in 1855; seceded from the Charleston Convention in 1860; and in 1861 was pres. of the secession convention of Mpi., and member of the Provisional Congress. He entered the military service of the Confederacy in June, raised and com. the 35th Mpi. Regt. in the spring of 1862, and until captured at Mobile, in Apr. 1865; afterward practised law in Columbus. — Y. C. Obit. Record, p. 320.

Barstow, COL. WILLIAM A., gov. Wis., 1854–6; d. Leavenworth, Kan., 14 Oct. 1865, a. 54. He raised the 3d Wis. Cavalry in 1861, with which he served in the south-west with credit until his health gave way.

Barthe, J. G., Canadian journalist. Left the College of Nicolet in 1832. Studied medicine, and, after a short imprisonment on suspicion of having written an ode to Papineau and the exiles, established himself in 1838 as an advocate in Montreal. He was 5 years editor of L'Avenir des Canadas. M. P. for the county of Yamaska, 1841–4; clerk of appeals of Lower Canada, 4 years, and resided in Paris in 1853–6, where he pub. "Canada Reconquis par la France." — Morgan.

Bartholomew, EDWARD SHEFFIELD, sculptor, b. Colchester, Ct., 1822; d. Naples, May 2, 1858. Becoming a resident of Hartford, he learned dentistry, then pursued painting, and afterward sculpture, in which he became disting. From 1845 to 1848, he had charge of the Wadsworth Gallery in Hartford, then came to New York, and about 1850 went to Italy. Among his most celebrated finished works, are Paradise Lost, Shepherd Boy, Sappho, Youth and Old Age, Monument to Charles Carroll (greatly admired), Belisarius at the Porta Pincinia, a group representing Ganymede and the Eagle of Jupiter, and Eve after the Fall.

Bartlett, ELISHA, M.D. (B. U. 1826), physician and writer, b. Smithfield, R.I., Oct. 6, 1804; d. Providence, July 19, 1855. After passing a year in Europe, on his return in 1827, he commenced practice at Lowell, and, in 1836, became first mayor of the new city. He delivered courses of lectures at Pittsfield in 1832, and at Dartm. Coll. in 1839; took charge of the medical department of the Transyl. U., Lexington, Ky. in 1841, and again, in the autumn of 1846, after a second visit to Europe; that of the U. of Maryland in 1844; that of the Med. Institute of Louisville in 1849; and in 1850, that of the U. of N.Y., which position he relinquished in 1852 to occupy that of Materia of Medica and Medical Jurisprudence in the Coll. of Physicians and Surgeons of that city, in which he continued until his death. During the spring and summer months from 1843 to 1850 inclusive, he occupied himself in lecturing in the Vt. Med. Coll. at Woodstock. His principal works are, "The Fevers in the U. S.," 1842; "An Essay on the Philosophy of Medical Science," 1844; "An Inquiry into the Dignity and Certainty in Medicine," 1848; "A Discourse on the Life and Labors of Dr. Wells, the Discoverer of the Philosophy of Dew," 1849; "A Discourse on the Times, Character, and Works of Hippocrates," 1852; and poems, entitled "Simple Settings in Verse for Portraits and Pictures from Mr. Dickens's Gallery," 1855. He edited a while the Monthly Journal of Med. Lit., at Lowell, afterward merged into the Med. Magazine. — See Memoir, by S. H. Dickson, in Gross's Med. Biog.

Digitized by Google

Bartlett, Ichabod, lawyer, b. Salisbury, N. H., July 24, 1786; d. Portsmouth, Oct. 19, 1853. Dartm. Coll. 1808. Adm. to the bar in 1812. After practising a short time at Durham, he removed to Portsmouth, where he resided till his death. He held high rank among his disting. competitors at the N.H. bar, including Webster and Mason. He was 7 years in the State legisl.; was clerk of the State senate in 1817–18; solicitor for the county of Rockingham in 1819; speaker of the house in 1821; and M. C. in 1823–29; member of the State Const. Conv. of 1850.

Bartlett, John Russell, author, b. Providence, R.I., Oct. 23, 1805; was early placed in a banking-house, and was for six years cashier of the Globe Bank, Providence. While there, he was one of the projectors of the Athenæum, and an active member of the Franklin Society for the Cultivation of Science, before which he occasionally lectured. In 1837, he engaged in business in N. Y., but was unsuccessful. He then established a foreign bookstore; was an active manager of the N. Y. Hist. Society, and a projector of the Ethnological Society. In 1850, he was app. by Pres. Taylor commissioner to fix the boundary-line between the U. S. and Mexico, under the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, which occupied him until Jan. 7, 1853. He pub. in 1854 a personal narrative of explorations and incidents in the countries which he had visited; having previously published, in 1847, a small work on the Progress of Ethnology, and, in 1848, a Dictionary of Americanisms. He became sec. of State of R. I., May 1, 1855, and still holds that office, having arranged, edited, and pub. the records of the colony (10 vols 1636–1790); acting gov. 1861–2. Mr. B. has also pub. "Bibliography of R. I." 1864; "A History of the Destruction of H. B. M. Schooner, Gaspee" 1862; "Index to the Acts and Resolves of the General Assembly of R.I.," 1758–1862; "Bibliotheca Americana," 1493–1800, 4 vols., 8vo, 1865–70; "Literature of the Rebellion," N.Y., 8vo, 1866; "Reminiscences of Albert Gallatin," N. Y., 1849; "Memoirs of R. I. Officers in Service during the Rebellion," 4to, 1867; "Primeval Man," 1868; "Naval Hist. of R.I.," contrib. to the Hist. Mag. He has two sons in the U. S. service, John R., lieut. com. U. S. N., and Henry A., capt. U. S. marine corps.

Bartlett, John Sherren, M.D., journalist, b. Dorsetshire, Eng., 1790; d. N. J., Aug. 24, 1863. He was educated a physician in London; app., on recommendation of Sir Astley Cooper, surgeon in the royal navy in 1812; was taken in the packet "Swallow," by an Amer. frigate, and remained a prisoner in Boston until 1813. He m. at Boston, and established himself there as a physician. The Albion was commenced by him in New York, June 22, 1822, as an English conservative organ; and it gained a large and profitable circulation. He afterwards established two other papers, also the European at Liverpool. He withdrew from the Albion in 1848. In 1855, he issued the Anglo-Saxon, a weekly paper at Boston. In 1857, he was British consul at Baltimore.

Bartlett, Joseph, wit, poet, and adventurer, b. Plymouth, Ms., 10 June, 1762; d. Boston, 20 Oct., 1827. H. U. 1782. Visiting Eng., he pursued a checkered and adventurous career, gambled, got into prison, wrote a play for his release, and went upon the stage himself. Procuring a large stock of goods on credit, he was shipwrecked on Cape Cod, and, failing in business in Boston, studied law. Capt. of vols. in Shays' insurrection, then opened a law-office in Woburn, painting it black, and calling it "the coffin" to attract notice. Removing to Cambridge, he busied himself with the affairs of the town and of the college. Afterwards a lawyer and politician in Me., and member of the legisl. While in Saco, in 1805, he edited the Freeman's Friend, and, July 4, delivered an oration at Biddeford. He finally closed his improvident life in Boston. In 1799, he delivered a satirical poem on Physiognomy, before the Phi Beta Kappa Society. The edition of 1823, included aphorisms on men, principles, and things. His poem, "The Vicar of Bray," was quite celebrated. He delivered the 4th of July oration at Boston, in 1799.

Bartlett, Josiah, M. D., signer of the Declaration of Independence, b. Amesbury, Ms., Nov. 21, 1729; d. May 19, 1795. With a common-school education, and such knowledge of medical science as he could acquire from study with a practitioner of his native town, he commenced practice at Kingston, N.H., in 1750, and soon became eminent. During the prevalence of a fatal throat-disease among children, in 1754, he introduced the use of Peruvian bark with success. In 1765, and annually until the Revol., Dr. Bartlett was chosen to the legisl.; in 1770 was app. lieut.-col. 7th regt. of militia, but was deprived of his commission in Feb. 1775, on account of the active part he took in the controversy with Great Britain; he was a member of the committee of safety, upon whom devolved, for a time, the whole executive govt. of the State, and on the organization of govt. by a provincial congress, of which he was a member, he was app. a justice of the peace, and col. of the 7th regt. Sept. 1775. A delegate to Congress in 1775 and 1776, he was the first to give his vote for the Declaration of Independence, and its first signer after the President. In 1777, he accompanied Gen. Stark to Bennington, as agent of the State, to provide medicine and other necessaries to the N.H. troops. From April to Nov. 1778, he was again a delegate to Congress; was app. chief-justice of the Common Pleas in 1779, judge of the Supreme Court, 1782, and chief-justice in 1788. He was an active member of the convention called to adopt the Federal Constitution, in 1788. From 1790 to 1793, he was pres. of the State, and, under the new constitution, gov. in 1793; retiring from public business in 1794 on account of infirm health. He was pres. of the N. H. med. soc., which he was chiefly instrumental in founding, and received an honorary degree of M.D., from Dartm. Coll. He was always a patron of learning, and a friend to learned men. His son JOSIAH, M.D., M. C. 1811–18, a physician of extensive practice, d. Stratham, N.H., Apr. 14, 1838, a. 70.

Digitized by Google

Bartlett, WILLIAM, a benevolent merchant, b. Newburyport, Jan. 31, 1748; d. there Feb. 8, 1841. Descended from one of the first settlers of that ancient town. Acquiring great wealth by mercantile enterprises, he employed it in assisting the needy, and especially to advance the cause of religion and morals. The temperance reformation, foreign missions, and the gratuitous education of young men for the ministry, were especial objects of his munificence. He gave $90,000 to found the Theol. Sem. at Andover; then liberally endowed a professorship, and erected an expensive dwelling-house for the use of the incumbent. His benefactions to this institution were estimated, by those familiar with his affairs, to have reached the munificent sum of a quarter of a million dollars. He gave a large amount in the aggregate to other worthy objects.

Bartlett, WILLIAM H. C., LL.D. (Geneva Coll.), prof. of natural and experimental philosophy at West Point, b. Lancaster Co., Pa., 1804. West Point, 1826. Assist. Prof. Eng'rg. Mil. Acad., Aug. 1826 to Aug. 1829. Acting prof. mat. and exper. philos. Nov. 1834, and Prof. since Apr. 20, 1836. Author of "Elem. Treatise on Optics," 1839; "Elements of Mechanics," of "Nat. Philos.," 1850, "Acoustics and Optics," N. Y., 1852; "Analytical Mechanics," 1854; "Spherical Astronomy," 1855. Member of Philos. Soc. of Phila., and of Acad. Arts and Sciences, Boston.

Bartlet, REV. WILLIAM STOODLEY, Prot.-Epis. clergyman, b. Newburyport, Ms., Apr. 8, 1809. Gen. Theol. Sem. 1839. A.M. of Trin. Coll., Hartford. Formerly rector of Immanuel Church, Little Falls, N.Y.; of St. Andrew's, Providence, R.I.; and of St. Luke's, Chelsea, Ms. Member of the Ms. Hist. Soc., and of the N.E. Hist. and Geneal. Soc. He pub. "The Frontier Missionary," a memoir of Rev. Jacob Bailey, 8vo, 1853; contrib. to the National Quarterly an article on vocal culture, in Mar. 1863; and in 1864 delivered at Lowell an oration at the tercentenary celeb. of the birth of Shakspeare, which was pub. Contrib. hist. papers to various periodicals, and to the "Memorial of Bishop Burgess."

Bartley, MORDECAI, gov. of O., 1844–6, b. Fayette Co., Pa., Dec. 16, 1783; d. Oct. 10, 1870. His grandparents emigrated in June, 1724, and settled in Loudon Co., Va. He attended school during intervals of labor on his father's farm, removed to Ohio in 1809, and engaged in agriculture in Mansfield, Richland Co. Capt. and adj. under Harrison in the War of 1812. Was a State senator 1817–18; register of the land office, 1818–23; M. C. 1823–31. T. W. Bartley, was acting gov. in 1844. — Memoir, by A. T. Goodman.

Bartol, CYRUS AUGUSTUS, author and Cong. clergyman, b. Freeport, Me., Apr. 30, 1813. Bowd. Coll. 1832; Camb. Div. School, 1835. Settled as colleague pastor with Rev Charles Lowell, D.D., of the West Church, Boston, Mar. 1, 1837. His principal writings are "Pictures of Europe," 1855; "Discourses on the Christian Spirit and Life," 1850; "Discourses on the Christian Body and Form," 1854; and a history of the "West Church and its Ministers." His latest work is on ecclesiastical polity. He has also pub. many occasional and miscellaneous discourses and essays, besides numerous contribs. to the leading periodicals of the day, and several poetical compositions.

Barton, BENJAMIN SMITH, M.D., naturalist, b. Lancaster, Pa., 10 Feb. 1766; d. 19 Dec. 1815. Son of Rev. Thos. Barton by a sister of Rittenhouse the mathematician. While a student in Pa. Coll., he accompanied Rittenhouse and the other U. S. commissioners to settle the boundary line west of Pa. From 1786 to 1789, he was studying medicine at Edinburgh, London, and at Göttingen, where he took his degree of M.D. He then settled in Phila., where he soon acquired an extensive practice; was in 1789 app. prof. of nat. hist. and botany in the Coll. of Phila., and Apr. 1813, was appointed prof. of materia medica. Besides papers contrib. to the Amer. Philos. Trans. and to the Medical and Physical Journal, begun by him in 1804, he pub. "Observations on some parts of Natural History," Lond., 1787; "New Views of the Origin of the Tribes of America," 1797; "Elements of Botany," 1804, and in 2 vols. 1812; an edition of Cullen's Materia Medica; "Eulogy on Dr. Priestley; "Discourse on the Principal Desiderata of Nat. Hist.," Phila., 1807; "Collections towards a Materia Medica of the U. S.," 3d ed., 1810 — See Biog. Sketch, by his nephew, W. P. C. Barton, M.D., and Thacher's Med. Biog.

Barton, WILLIAM P. C., M.D. (U. of Pa. 1808), prof. of botany in the U. of Pa., nephew of B. S. Barton; d. 1855. N.J. Coll. 1805. He pub. "Floræ Philadelphicæ," 4to, 1815–25; "Compendium" of the same, 2 vols., 1818; "Flora of North America," 3 vols., 4to, 1821–3; "Materia Medica and Botany," 2 vols. "Medical Botany," 2 vols., 8vo; "Hints to Naval Officers cruising in the W. I.," 1830; "Plan for Marine Hospitals in the U. S." 1817; "Memoirs of B. S. Barton," "Dissertation on Nitrous-Oxide Gas," &c. 1808. — Allibone.

Barton, GEN. WILLIAM, Revol. officer, b. Providence, R.I., 1747; d. there Oct. 22, 1831. He held the rank of lieut.-col in the R.I. militia, when on the night of July 10, 1777, with a small party, he crossed Narragansett Bay, passed unobserved 3 British frigates, landed about half-way from Newport to Bristol Ferry, and captured the British Gen. Prescott. For this service, Congress honored him by the presentation of a sword, a commission of col., and a grant of land in Vt. By the transfer of some of this land, he became entangled in the toils of the law, and was imprisoned for debt in Vt. many years, until liberated by Lafayette, who paid the claim against him in 1825. Col. Barton was wounded in the action at Bristol Ferry in Aug. 1778, and was disabled from further service during the war. Member of the convention which adopted the U. S. Constitution. — See Life of, by Mrs. C. M. Williams, 1839.

Digitized by Google

Bartow, Francis S., brig.-gen. C.S.A., b. Ga.; killed in battle of Bull Run, Va., July 21, 1861.

Bartram, John, botanist, b. Derby, Chester Co., Pa., 23 Mar. 1699; d. 22 Sept. 1777. Left an orphan at the age of 13, he was self-taught, and became proficient in botany, medicine, and surgery. In the intervals of agricultural labor, by which he supported a large family, he made excursions to Fla. and to Canada, and at the age of 70 made a journey to East Fla. to explore its natural productions. He was also a skilful mechanic, and built the house in which he lived. In 1728, he founded on the banks of the Schuylkill, near Phila., the first botanic garden in America, and which still bears his name. The gardens of Europe are indebted to his contributions; and some foreign scientific bodies bestowed their honors upon him, and pub. communications from him in their transactions. Until 1758, he was a member of the Society of Friends. He pub. in 1751 "Observations" on his travels to Lake Ontario, and "Description of East Florida, with a Journal," 1766. — See Memorials of Bartram and Marshall, edited by Darlington, 1849.

Bartram, William, naturalist, son of the preceding, b. Kingsissing, Pa., 9 Feb. 1739; d. 22 July, 1823. He established himself in business in N.C. in 1761; studied natural history, and accompanied his father in his botanical explorations in E. Fla.; resided some time on the River St. John, and returned home in 1771. In 1773–8, he explored the Floridas, Carolina, and Georgia, and transmitted to his employer, Dr. Fothergill, at London his valuable collections. Elected in 1782 prof. of botany in the U. of Phila., he declined, on account of ill health. In 1786, he became a member of the Amer. Philos. Soc., and was admitted into other scientific bodies at home and abroad. In 1791, he pub. an account of his travels, including notices of the Creeks, Cherokees, and Choctaws. In 1789, he wrote a reply to a series of questions proposed to him on the condition of those Indians, lately printed in the Trans. of the Ethnological Society. He was the author of the most complete and accurate table of American ornithology which had appeared previously to the work of Wilson; and science owes to him its knowledge of many curious and beautiful plants peculiar to this continent. He also pub. "Memoirs of J. Bartram," "Anecdotes of a Crow," "Description of Certhia," and a work on the site of Bristol.

Bascom, Henry Bidleman, D.D., LL.D., bishop of the M. E. Church South, b. Hancock, Delaware Co., N.Y., May 27, 1796; d. Louisville, Ky., Sept. 8, 1850. Entering the ministry in 1813, after filling various appointments in the Ohio, Tenn., and Ky. conferences, he was elected chaplain to Congress. Pres. of Madison Coll., Pa., in 1827; he then became agent of the Colonization Society. From 1832 to 1842, he was prof. of moral science and belles-lettres in Augusta Coll., Ky., and was subsequently pres. of Transylvania U., Ky. He declined the presidency of La Coll. and of the Mo. U. tendered him in 1839 In the general conference in 1844, when the separation between the Methodist churches North and South took place, he drew up the protest of the Southern members against the action of the conference upon slaveholding, and in 1845 was member of the convention at Louisville which organized the Church South, and author of its report. In 1846, he became editor of the Southern Methodist Quarterly Review. He was chairman of the commissioners of the Church South to settle the controversy between the two divisions of the Church. In 1849, he was elected bishop, ord. May, 1850. He pub. a vol. of "Sermons," 1850, "Lectures on Infidelity," "Lectures and Essays on Moral Science," and sermons and sketches. His life was written by Rev. Dr. Henkle; and his "Posthumous Works," edited by Rev. T. N. Ralston, appeared in Nashville, 2 vols., 8vo, in 1855. D.D. of Wesl. U. 1838. LL.D. of La Grange Coll. 1845.

Basilio de Gama (bä-see'-le-o dä gä'-mä), José, b. San José, Brazil, 1740; d. ab. 1795. One of the founders of the Brazilian Acad. Author of "Uruguay," a popular poem, and some lyrics.

Bass, Edward, D.D. (U. of Pa. 1789.) first Prot.-Epis. bishop of Ms., b. Dorchester, Nov. 23, 1726; d. Sept. 10, 1803. H. U. 1744. He taught school for several years, and was ord. in Eng., May 24, 1752, by Bp. Sherlock at the request of the society of St. Paul's Church, Newburyport. In 1796, he was elected bishop of the Prot.-Epis Church of Ms., and was consecrated May 7, 1797. He was afterwards elected bishop of the R.I. churches, and in 1803 of those in N.H.

Bassett, Richard, gov. of Delaware in 1798–1801; d. Sept. 1815. A member of the old Congress in 1787, and of the convention which framed the Constitution. He was U.S. senator in 1789–93, and was U.S. district judge in 1801–2. He was a lawyer of repute. His dau. Ann. m. James A. Bayard.

Bassini, Carlo, music-teacher and writer, b. Cuneo, Piedmont, 1812; d. Irvington, N.J., 26 Nov. 1870. Obtaining distinction as a violinist, he went with an operatic company to South America, became director, and afterward settled as a teacher of music in N. Y. City. Among his best known works are "Art of Singing," 1857; "Method for the Barytone," 1868; "Method for the Tenor," 1866; "Melodic Exercises," 1865; "New Method," 1869. He composed some exquisite pieces.

Batchelder, Samuel, inventor, b. Jaffrey, N.H., 8 June, 1784. In 1808, he began the manufacture of cotton at New Ipswich; superintended the erection of the Hamilton Mills at Lowell in 1825, and of a mill for the York Manuf. Co. at Saco, Me., in 1831. He now resides in Cambridge, Ms. Among his inventions, that of the dynamometer, for ascertaining the power for driving machinery, first used in the York Mills in 1837, is perhaps the greatest. In early life, he contrib. to the Portfolio, and has pub. a "History of the Cotton Manuf. of the U. S."

Bateman, Dr. Ephraim, b. Cumberland

Digitized by Google

N J. 1770; d. there, Jan. 29, 1829. While a mechanic's apprentice, he studied medicine, became noted in the profession; was many years in the State legisl.; was an M. C. 1815–23, and U. S. senator, 1826–9.

Bateman, KATE JOSEPHINE (Mrs. George Crowe), actress, b. Baltimore, Md., Oct. 7, 1842. Her father, H. L. Bateman, was a well-known theatrical manager; her mother, Frances, an actress and dramatist. The children, Kate and Ellen, were on the stage almost from infancy. Ellen retired from the stage, and is now Mrs. Claude Greppo. Kate re-appeared, Mar. 19, 1860, after 4 years' absence, as Evangeline, in a drama by her mother, at the Winter Garden, and performed in a variety of parts until, in Dec. 1862, she made, at Boston, her first appearance as Leah, — a character with which her name is now identified, and in which she has appeared in all the large cities of the U. S. and Great Britain. In London, where she appeared first in Oct. 1863, the part was repeated 211 nights in succession. Oct. 13, 1866, she became the wife of George Crowe, some time editor of the London Daily News, who resides near Bristol, Eng.

Bates, BARNABAS, advocate of cheap postage, b. Edmonton, Eng., 1785; d. Boston, Oct. 11, 1853. He was brought to this country by his parents when a child, and became a Baptist preacher in R. I., but was afterwards a Unitarian. For a short time, he was collector of the port of Bristol, but in 1825 removed to N. Y., where he pub. a weekly paper, The Christian Inquirer. While holding an office in the N. Y. post-office, he turned his attention to cheap postage, publishing pamphlets, writing in the newspapers and magazines, and lecturing on the subject in various parts of the U. S. He succeeded in the reduction of the land postage to a reasonable rate, but died before effecting a corresponding decrease in the rate of ocean postage.

Bates, EDWARD, LL.D. (H. U. 1858), statesman and jurist, b. Belmont, Goochland Co., Va., Sept 4, 1793; d. St. Louis, Mar. 25, 1869. Educated under the care of Benjamin Bates, a relative, he in 1814 emigrated to Mo. with his elder brother Frederick, who was sec. of the territory, and its gov. 1824–6. Commencing the practice of law in 1816, he became eminent at the bar; was app. pros. atty. for the St. Louis Circuit in 1818; atty.-gen. of the new State in 1820–22; U. S. dist. atty. 1824–6; was many years a leading member of the Mo. legisl., member of the convention which framed the constitution of the State in 1820, and was a member of the 24th Congress. The delivery of his celebrated speech at the Chicago Internal Improvement Convention in 1847 brought him into general notice. He, however, refused to be a candidate for office in Mo., and declined a seat in Pres. Fillmore's cabinet. He was the friend of Henry Clay in 1824; supported the administration of Mr. Adams; in 1854 was an opponent of the repeal of the Mo. Compromise; co-operated with the Free Labor party in Mo., and opposed the admission of Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution. Judge of the St. Louis Land Court in 1858-6, and pres. of the Balt Whig convention in 1856. On the election of Pres. Lincoln, he accepted the post of U. S. atty.-gen., resigning in Sept. 1864.

Bates, ISAAC C., lawyer and statesman, b. Granville, Ms., 1780; d. Washington, D.C., Mar. 16, 1845. Y. C. 1802. He settled as a lawyer in Northampton, rose to eminence at the bar, and was for many years in both branches of the State legisl. and in the exec. council. M. C. 1827–35, and in 1842 was elected U. S. senator, making an able speech against the annexation of Texas only a few days before his death.

Bates, JOSHUA, D.D. (Y. C. 1818), scholar and divine, b. Cohasset, Ms., Mar. 20, 1776; d. Dudley, Ms., Jan. 14, 1854. H. U. 1800. Descended from Clement, b. Eng., 1592, came to America ab. 1636, settled at Hingham, and d. 1671. The son of a farmer of limited means, he toiled on a farm until he was 17. On leaving Harvard, he became an assist. in Phillips Acad., pursuing a course of theol. studies at the same time. Ord. pastor of the Cong. Church in Dedham, Mar. 16, 1803, where he labored successfully until Mar. 1818. Pres. of Middlb. Coll. 1818–39. He was subsequently chaplain during one session of the U. S. senate; and was installed pastor of a church in Dudley, Mar. 22, 1843. Member of the Amer. Acad. of Arts and Sciences. He pub. "Reminiscences of Rev. John Codman;" two sermons on Intemperance, 1813; a volume of Sermons; Inaugural Address, 1818; Anniversary Discourse at Dudley, 1853, and Sermons and Discourses. — Sprague.

Bates, JOSHUA, financier, b. Weymouth, Ms., 1788; d. London, Sept. 24, 1864; son of Col. Joshua, who d. 1804. He received his early education from Rev. Jacob Norton, and, at the age of 15, entered the counting-house of William R. Gray in Boston. Entering the employ of Mr. Gray's father, long a leading merchant of N.E., he was sent by him to the north of Europe, to look after his interests there. In 1826, he formed a connection in London with John Baring, under the firm of Bates & Baring. On the death of Mr. Holland, they were both made partners in the house of Baring Bros. & Co. In 1854, he was umpire between the commissioners of the English and U.S. govts. for settling claims growing out of the War of 1812. In 1852, he contributed $50,000 to the Public Library of the city of Boston, then being established, on condition that the income of his fund should annually be spent in the purchase of books of permanent value and authority, and that the city should provide comfortable accommodations for their use, both day and evening, by at least 100 readers. Up to Jan. 1858, when the building was dedicated, he had given to it some 30,000 vols., besides the sum above named. The large hall of the library is designated as Bates Hall. His only surviving child is the wife of Van de Weyer, an eminent Belgian statesman. During the Rebellion, his sympathies were actively enlisted in behalf of his country, and he did much by prudent counsel and judicious suggestions to avert a war between England and the U S. — See Memorial of Joshua Bates, from the City of Boston, 1865.

Digitized by Google

Battle, Lorenzo, Uruguayan statesman, b. 1812. Minister of war under Gen. Flores; provisional pres. of Uruguay, 1866–8; elected pres. after the assassination of Flores, 28 Feb. 1868.

Baugher, Henry L., D.D., Lutheran clergyman, and educator, b. Abbotstown, Pa., ab. 1803; d. Gettysburg, Pa., April 14, 1868. Dick. Coll. 1825. He studied theology at Princeton and Gettysburg; was licensed to preach by the Md. synod; elected pastor at Boonsboro' in 1829; took charge of the classical school at Gettysburg in 1830; and in 1832, when it became a coll., filled the chair of the Greek language, and belles-lettres, until 1850, when he became pres., continuing in that office until his death. He was a frequent contrib. to the Evangelical Review.

Baume, Frederick, lieut.-col. of the Brunswick Dragoons in Burgoyne's exped., mortally wounded at the battle of Bennington, Vt., 16 Aug., and d. 18 Aug. 1777. He arrived in Canada in 1776; 13 Aug. 1777, he was sent on an exped. to obtain supplies, and was defeated by the militia under Gen. Stark.

Baxter, George Addison, D.D. (U. of N.C. 1812), Presb. clergyman, b. Rockingham Co., Va., 22 July; 1771; d. April 24, 1841. Liberty Hall, 1796. Licensed by the Lexington Presbytery, 1 Apr. 1797. Prof. mathematics at Liberty Hall (afterward Wash. Coll.), 19 Oct. 1798–1827, and was at the same time pastor of New Monmouth and Lexington. In 1827, he became the second pres. of Wash. Coll., Lexington, Va., resigning in 1829. In Apr. 1832, he accepted the office of prof. in the Union Theol. Sem., Prince Edward Co. — Sprague.

Bay, Elihu Hall, jurist, b. York, Pa., 1754; d. Charleston, S.C., 19 Nov. 1838 Andrew, his father, a native of Ireland, long a Presb. minister in Pa., d. Newtown, L.I., 1776. The son was attorney-gen. of S.C., under the colonial régime, and, from 1791 to his d., asso. justice of the General Sessions and C. C. P. Author of "Reports of Superior Courts of S. C. since the Revol.," 2d ed., 2 vols., 1809–11.

Bayard, George Dashiell, gen., b. Seneca Falls, N.Y., Dec. 18, 1835; killed at Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 14, 1862. W. Pt. 1856. Entering the 1st Cavalry, he became capt. 4th Cavalry, Aug. 20, 1861. He com. the 1st Pa. Cavalry, and was made brig.-gen. April 28, 1862. Attached to Gen. McCall's reserves, he participated in the various battles of that fighting corps. Nov. 20, 1861, he made a most brilliant and successful dash at the head of his regt. upon Dranesville. He subsequently served in the army-corps of Gen. McDowell, and in the army of Va., under Gen. Pope. After the battle of Antietam, he com. a cavalry-brigade in the advance of the army, with which he did excellent service, making frequent dashes into the enemy's lines, and driving them from the gaps of the Blue Ridge; chief of cav. 3d army-corps; engaged in the battles of Cedar Mountain, 9 Aug. 1862, Manassas, Aug. 27–31, and in the defences of Washington, D.C., Sept.–Oct. 1862. He was attached to Gen. Franklin's com. at the attack on Fredericksburg.

Bayard, James Asheton, statesman, b. Phila., 28 July, 1767; d. Wilmington, Del., 6 Aug. 1815. N.J. Coll. 1784. Of Huguenot descent. On the death of his father, Dr. J. A. Bayard (8 June, 1770), he was received into the family of his uncle, Col. John. He studied law under Gen. Joseph Reed; was adm. to the bar in 1787; settled in Del., and acquired reputation and practice. M.C. 1797–1803, and a leader of the Federal party; U.S. senator, 1804–13. He disting. himself in conducting the impeachment of Senator Blount; contrib. powerfully to the election of Jefferson over Burr in their memorable contest for the Presidency; and in the debate which preceded the repeal, in Mar. 1802, of the judiciary bill, displayed consummate ability in defence of the system, which was, however, overthrown. He declined the post of envoy to the French republic, tendered him by Mr. Adams. In the senate, he opposed the declaration of war with Great Britain in 1812. Sent as a commissioner to treat for peace under Russian mediation, he left Phila., 8 May, 1813, arrived at St. Petersburg in July, and in Jan. 1814, proceeded to Holland. He afterward visited Eng., and with his colleagues, Messrs. Adams, Clay, Gallatin, and Russell, negotiated in Dec. 1814, at Ghent, the treaty that bears the name of that place. Included in the commission to make a commercial treaty with Great Britain, he was preparing to go there, when an alarming illness caused him to return home, which he reached only to die. As a lawyer and political orator, he took high rank. His son James A. was U.S. senator from Del., 1851–69. Another son, Richard B., U.S. senator, 1836–9 and 1841–5; charge to Belgium, 1850; b. Wilmington, Del., 1796; d. Phila., 4 Mar. 1868. Ann, his wife, dau. of Gov. Richard Bassett, d. 10 Dec. 1854, a. 76.

Bayard, Col. John, merchant, and Revol. patriot, b. Cecil Co., Md., 11 Aug. 1738; d. N. Brunswick, N.J., 7 Jan. 1807. Member of the Revol. Committee of Safety; maj. 2d Phila. batt., which he led at the battle of Trenton; many years speaker of the Pa. Assembly; member Old Congress in 1785; removed in 1788 to N. Brunswick, of which he was mayor, and judge of C.C.P.

Bayard, Samuel, jurist (1765–1840), pub. "A Digest of Cases on the Law of Evidence," 1810, and an "Abstract of the Laws of the U.S."

Bayfield, Henry Wolsey, an English hydrographer, entered the navy in 1806; com. a gunboat on the Amer. Lakes in 1814; made surveys of Lake Ontario in 1815, Lakes Erie and Huron in 1817–23, Lake Superior in 1823–5, and of the River and Gulf of St. Lawrence in 1827, being the first to make known the wonders of the Saguenay; made capt. in 1834, and rear-admiral in 1856. His series of charts of the above surveys are leading authorities.

Bayley, Matthias, remarkable for longevity; d. ab. 1789, at Jones's Creek, a branch of the Pedee in North Carolina, a. 136. He was baptized at the age of 134. His eyesight remained good, and he retained his strength, in a great degree, up to the time of his death. — Blake.

Digitized by Google

Bayley, RICHARD, M.D., physician and medical writer, b. Fairfield, Ct., 1745; d. Staten Island, Aug. 17, 1801. Having finished his professional education in London, he settled in N.Y. in 1772. The prevalence of the croup in that city afforded him an opportunity for the display of his skill and judgment, treating it in a new manner, as an inflammatory disease; and, in 1781, his publication, entitled "A View of the Croup," led to the adoption of his plan. In the autumn of 1775, he revisited London, where he engaged in study and practice with the aid of Dr. Hunter; and, in the following spring, he returned to N.Y. as a surgeon in the English army, under Sir W. Howe. This post he resigned in 1777, and passed the remainder of his life in practice in that city. In 1787, he gave lectures on surgery; in 1792, he was app. the first prof. of anatomy in Col. Coll.; and, in 1793, prof. of surgery, his favorite subject. In 1796, he pub. a treatise on yellow-fever, in which he is said to have proved its local origin, repudiating the theory of contagion. He had previously been app. health physician of N.Y., and, in 1798, pub. his "Letters from the Health Office." He died of ship-fever. In 1788, his house was broken into by the "Doctor's Mob," who destroyed his cabinet containing his valuable colls. in morbid anatomy, besides some valuable preparations. To him the State of N.Y. is indebted for its quarantine laws. In 1781, he pub. "Angina Tracheatis," with the mode of cure, 8vo, N.Y. — Thacher.

Baylies, FRANCIS, lawyer and politician, b. Taunton, Ms., Oct. 16, 1783; d. there Oct. 28, 1852. After receiving an academical education, he practised law in Taunton. M. C. 1821–7; member of the State legisl. 1827–32 and in 1835; register of probate, 1812–20; chargé d'affaires to Brazil in 1832. Author of a valuable history of Plym. Col., 2 vols. 8vo, 1828, repub., with notes and additions by S. G. Drake, in 1866.

Baylies, NICHOLAS, judge, b. Uxbridge, Ms., 1772; d. Lyndon, Vt., Aug. 17, 1847. Dartm. Coll. 1794. He practised law at Woodstock and Montpelier, and was a judge of the Supreme Court of Vt. in 1831–4. Author of "A Digested Index to the Modern Reports of the Courts of Common Law in Eng. and the U.S." 3 vols., 1814; and an "Essay on Free Agency."

Baylies, WILLIAM, M.D., physician, b. Uxbridge, Ms., Dec. 5, 1743; d. Dighton, Ms., June 17, 1826. H. U. 1760. He established himself as a physician in Dighton, where he remained through life an exceedingly successful and popular practitioner. He zealously engaged in the political controversies of the times, was a representative of the town of Dighton; a member of the 3 Prov. Congresses of Ms. in 1775, serving on several important committees; was also a member of the State convention that adopted the Federal Constitution; and State senator, 1783. He was for several years a judge of the C. C. P. for the county of Bristol, and for a long time register of probate for that county. M. C. 1805–9. Member of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences; of the Ms. Hist. Soc., and also of the Ms. Medical Soc., of which he was one of the founders. His two sons, William and Francis, were both distinguished lawyers and statesmen.

Baylor, COL. GEORGE, Revol. officer, b. Hanover Co., Va.; d. 1784, at Barbadoes, whither he had gone for his health. App. aide to Washington, Aug. 15, 1775; served at Trenton, and carried the news of that success to Congress, by whom he was presented with a horse caparisoned for service, and recommended for promotion. Made col. of dragoons, Jan. 8, 1777; surprised and dangerously wounded on the night of Sept. 27, 1778, at Tappan, N.Y., by Gen. Grey. 67 of his men were butchered in cold blood, and the remainder, with himself, captured. He served to the close of the war, and was esteemed an officer of bravery and merit.

Bayly, THOMAS HENRY, M. C. from Va., b. Accomac Co., Va., 1810; d. there June 22, 1856. U. of Va. Son of Thos. M. (1775–7. Jan. 1834. M. C. 1813–15. N. J. Coll. 1794.) He came to the bar in 1830. At the age of 25, he was chosen a member of the Assembly, and was re-elected for five years in succession. He was elected by that body a brig.-gen. of militia; was judge of the Circuit Superior Court until 1844, and M. C. 1845–56. He was for a time chairman of the house Committee of Ways and Means. He lived and died on the spot where his English ancestors landed in 1666, and where they established the family home.

Beach, ABRAHAM, D.D. (Col. Coll. 1789.) Prot.-Epis. clergyman, b. Cheshire, Ct., Sept. 9, 1740; d. Sept. 11, 1828. Y. C. 1757. He was ord. by the bishop of London in June, 1767. Rector of N. Brunswick, N.J., until 1783; assist. minister of Trinity Church, N.Y., 1783–1813. He pub. "Hearing the Word," and a "Funeral Sermon on Dr. Chandler," 1790.

Beach, MOSES YALE, invent. and pub., b. Wallingford, Ct., Jan. 7, 1800; d. there July 19, 1868. Exhibiting in his boyhood some mechanical skill, he was apprenticed to a cabinet-maker at Hartford, subsequently went into business for himself at Northampton and Springfield; manufactured a gunpowder engine for propelling balloons, and endeavored to introduce steam-navigation on the Connecticut, between Hartford and Springfield. His plan was executed by others, his inventive skill enabling them to take a steamer over what had before been deemed the insurmountable Enfield Falls. He next devised a rag-cutting machine, now in general use in paper-mills; then engaged in the manufacture of paper in Ulster Co., N.Y., but lost during the 7th year all he had before made. In 1835, he removed to New York, became interested in the Sun newspaper, the pioneer of the penny press, of which he soon made himself sole proprietor. During the Mexican war, he was sent to Mexico by Pres. Polk, as an agent, to arrange a treaty of peace. The negotiations, however, when nearly concluded, were broken off by a false report that Santa Anna had annihilated the army of Gen. Taylor. Mr. Beach retired from business in 1857, and returned to his native town.

Beall, BENJAMIN LLOYD, col. U.S.A., b. D.C.; d. Balt., Aug. 16, 1863. Son of Maj. Beall of Md.; app. cadet, Jan. 1814; capt. Wash. City Vols. for the Florida war, June 1, 1836; capt. 2d Dragoons, June 8, 1836; brev. major, March 15, 1837, "for gallantry in war against Florida Indians;" maj. 1st Dragoons, Feb. 16, 1847; brev. lieut.-col., "for gallant conduct in battle of Santa Cruz de Rosales, Mex.," Mar. 16, 1848; lieut.-col. Mar. 3, 1855; col. 1st Cavalry, May 13, 1861; retired Feb. 15, 1862. — Gardner.

Digitized by Google

Beall, Gen. Reazin, d. Wooster, Ohio, Feb. 20, 1843, a. 73. App. from Pa. ensign, March 7, 1792; batt.-adj. and q'master, 1793; served under Wayne; and was brig.-gen. of Ohio Vols. in Sept. 1812. He occupied various public stations in Ohio, and was M.C., 1813–15.

Beall, William Dent, col. U.S.A., b. Md., 1755; d. Prince George Co., Md., Sept. 24, 1829; a maj. in the Revol. army; disting. at Long Island and at Camden, S.C.; he was app. maj. 9th Inf. Jan. 8, 1799; dep.-adj.-gen. and dept.-insp.-gen. April, 1800; disbanded June 15, 1800; lieut.-col. 5th Inf. Dec. 12, 1808; col. 3d Inf. Nov. 30, 1810; transferred, April, 1812, to 5th Inf.; resigned Aug. 15, 1812; he com. a regt. of militia in the battle of Bladensburg; sheriff of Prince George County. — Gardner.

Beard, James H., artist, b. Buffalo, 1815. James, his father, removed to Painesville, O.; d. there ab. 1827, leaving a wife and 5 small children penniless. With little teaching, he made himself a portrait-painter, settled in Cincinnati, and was many years a leading artist in the West. He painted Harrison, Clay, Taylor, and J. Q. Adams. Among his compositions are "The Long Bill," "The Land Speculator," and the "North Carolina Emigrants." — Tuckerman.

Beard, Wm. H., artist, bro. of James H., b. Painesville, O., ab. 1824. At the age of 21, he became a peripatetic portrait-painter; settled in Buffalo in 1850; visited Europe in 1858–60, and after the loss of his wife, to whom he had been recently united, in the latter year settled in N.Y. City. He brought with him a few humorous pictures, "The Astronomer," "The Owl," "Bears on a Bender," and "Grimalkin's Dream." His other pictures are "The Guardian of the Flag," "In and out," "Little Red Riding Hood," "Christmas Eve," "Raining Cats and Dogs," "A Bird in the Hand," and "Dance of Silenus." — Tuckerman.

Beardsley, Samuel, LL.D. (Ham. Col. 1849) a N.Y. politician, lawyer, and judge, b. Otsego Co., N.Y.; d. Utica, N.Y., May 6, 1860. He studied law in Rome, Oneida Co., where he practised until his removal to Utica in 1825; dist. atty. of Oneida Co., 1821–5; was State senator in 1823; U.S. dist. atty. for the northern district of N.Y. in 1827–31; M.C. from Oneida Co., N.Y., in 1831–6 and 1843–5; and chairman of the judiciary committee; atty.-gen. of N.Y., 1837; app. judge of the Sup. Court of N.Y., 1844, and chief-justice in 1847.

Beasley, Frederick, D.D., Pr.-Ep. clergyman and writer, b. near Edenton, N.C., in 1777; d. Elizabethtown, N.J., Nov. 2, 1845. N.J. Coll. 1797. He was a tutor in that institution in 1798–1800, and, in 1801, was ord. deacon, and took charge of a parish in Elizabethtown, N.J. After being rector of St. Peter's Church, Albany, N.Y., and co-rector of Christ Church, Baltimore, he was, in 1813, app. provost of the U. of Pa., filling also the chair of Mental Philosophy. Here he pub., in 1822, "A Search of Truth in the Science of the Human Mind," a work in defence of the philosophy of Locke. After 15 years' connection with this university, he took charge of the Ep. Church in Trenton, N.J., and, while there, pub. an examination of Channing's arguments against the Trinity. In 1836, he returned to Elizabethtown. He also pub. "An Examination of the Oxford Divinity; or, the Tractarian Controversy." — Blake.

Beasley, Gen. Nathaniel, pioneer of Ohio; d. Knox Co., O., Mar. 27, 1835, a. 84. He was a noted Indian fighter and scout, being a large and powerful man; was in St. Clair's and Wayne's campaigns; afterwards settled in Chillicothe, O.; was a member of the legisl., and a canal commissioner, and many years a maj.-gen. of militia. — A. T. Goodman.

Beatty, Rev. Charles, Presb. minister, b. Co. Antrim, Ireland, ab. 1715; d. Aug. 13, 1772, at Bridgeton, Barbadoes. He came while young to Amer., engaged in trade, studied theology under Wm. Tennent, was licensed Oct. 13, 1742, ord. Dec. 14, 1743, and succeeded Mr. Tennent at Neshaminy, 26 May, 1743. In 1760, he visited Eng. to obtain aid for the Presb. clergy, their widows and orphans. Sent to Va. and N. C. in 1754, he accomp. Franklin in an exped. against the frontier Indians, as chaplain, in 1755. He was often engaged in missionary labors among the Indians in Western Pa., and was esteemed for his piety and charity. His journal of a two-months' tour to promote religion among the frontier inhabitants of Pa. was pub. in London, 8vo, 1768. — Sprague.

Beatty, John, M.D., physician and soldier, son of Rev. Charles, b. Bucks Co., Pa., Dec. 10, 1749; d. Trenton, N.J., April 30, 1826. N. J. Coll. 1769. He studied medicine with Dr. Rush, but joined the army early in the Revol. contest, and, in Sept. 1776, had attained the rank of lieut.-col. in the Pa. line. At the capture of Fort Washington, he was taken prisoner. Severe treatment greatly impaired his health; but, having been exchanged, he was app., May 28, 1778, to succeed Dr. Burdinot as commissary-gen. of prisoners, with rank of col., which post he resigned Mar. 31, 1780. He then settled as a physician in Princeton; was a delegate to the Old Congress in 1783–5; was frequently a member of both branches of the State legisl., and speaker of the house; was a member of the convention that adopted the Federal Constitution; and was a member of Congress in 1793–5. From 1795 to 1805, he was sec. of State for N.J. He superintended the erection of the bridge across the Delaware at Bloomsbury, and, in 1815–26, was pres. of the Trenton Bank.

Beauharnais (bō'-ăr'-nā), Alex., Viscount, a French gen., b. Martinique, 1760, guillotined at Paris, 23 July, 1794. He served as a maj. under Rochambeau in the Amer. Revol. war. Dep. from Blois to the states-gen., he was one of the first to join the tiers état; be-same pres. of the National Assembly; gen. of division in the army of the Rhine in 1792; minister of war in 1793; falsely accused of having promoted the surrender of Mentz, he was condemned by the revol. tribunal. Josephine, his widow, became Empress of France. Eugene, his son, made by Napoleon viceroy of Italy, d. 1824.

Digitized by Google

Beauharnais, CHARLES, MARQUIS DE, natural son of Louis XIV., gov. of New France, 1726–46, was an able and efficient officer. He had been disting., and held the rank of commodore in the navy. On the breaking-out of war with Eng., he fortified and strengthened the country, and built the fortress of Crown Point. — Morgan.

Beaujeu (bō'-zhoo') HYACINTHE MARIE L. DE, a French officer, who com. and was killed at Braddock's defeat, at the battle of Monongahela, 9 July, 1755; b. Montreal, 9 Aug. 1711. He had attained the rank of capt. and the Cross of St. Louis, for service in the navy. In 1733, he obtained the seigniory of La Colle, on the Chambly; succeeded Contrecœur at Ft. Du Quesne, in 1755, and planned the ambuscade which destroyed the army of Braddock.

Beaujour (bō'-zhoor'), LOUIS FELIX, DE, author and diplomatist, b. Provence, 1765; d. July 1, 1836. He entered the diplomatic career in 1788, and was successively sec. of legation at Munich and Dresden, and consul-gen. in Sweden and Greece. Afterwards sec. and pres. of the tribunate, he wrote two remarkable tracts on the treaties of Luneville and Amiens. In 1804, he was app. consul-gen. and chargé d'affaires to the U.S. While here, he composed a work, which, on his return in 1814, he pub. with an admirable map, under the title of "A Sketch of the U.S. at the Commencement of the 19th Century." He was made consul-gen. of Smyrna in 1816, insp.-gen. of the French establishments in the Levant in 1817, and, returning to France in 1819, was rewarded with the title of baron.

Beaumarchais (bō'-mär-shā'), PIERRE AUGUSTIN CARON, DE, b. Paris, Jan. 24, 1732; d. May 19, 1799. He gave striking proof, while young, of the possession of mechanical and musical talents; assisted his father in watchmaking, and afterwards became teacher of the harp to the daughters of Louis XV. He laid the foundation of his immense wealth by a rich marriage. In his celebrated lawsuit against Goesman, he exhibited all his talent; and his "Memoirs," pub. at Paris in 1774, entertained all France. "The Barber of Seville" and "The Marriage of Figaro" have given him a permanent reputation. In his memoir, "Mes Six Époques," he relates the dangers to which he was exposed in a revol., where a celebrated name, talent, and riches were sufficient causes of proscription. As early as Sept. 1775, he had submitted to the king a memorial, in which he insisted upon the necessity for the French Govt. to come secretly to the assistance of the Colonies against Eng. As an agent of the French ministry, he passed part of 1775 in Eng., where he had interviews with Arthur Lee. By letters, representations, and adroit flattery, he brought over Maurepas, and obtained secretly from the French Govt. 1,000,000 livres, an equal sum from Spain, and arms and ammunition from the public arsenals, on condition that he would pay for or replace the same. Under the firm of Roderique Hortalez & Co., early in 1777 he forwarded 3 ships with 200 pieces of ordnance, 25,000 muskets, 200,000 lbs. of gunpowder, and other ammunition. He had also engaged more than 50 officers, among them Pulaski and Steuben. He continued his shipments, until, in the beginning of 1779, the U.S. were indebted to him in more than 4,000,000 francs. The final balance of this claim, ab. 800,000 francs, was not paid until 1835. The transaction, far from having been profitable to him, resulted in losses, which he was enabled to withstand, through govt. aid, and successful speculations of various kinds. The aid furnished by Beaumarchais was of incalculable advantage to the Amer. cause. The recent biography of this remarkable man, by M. de Lomenie, discloses the falsity of Arthur Lee's statement to Congress, that this aid to Amer. was a gift: it was not so. The shipments of Roderique Hortalez & Co. were to be re-imbursed by return-cargoes of rice, tobacco, and indigo; and the falsehood of Lee placed Silas Deane in the position of a man trying fraudulently to obtain payment for a gift, and prevented Beaumarchais from furnishing further aid, by cutting off his means of doing so; since he had already far exceeded the capital loaned him by France and Spain. — See De Lomenie, "Beaumarchais and his Times."

Beaumont DE (deh-bō'-mōn'), de la Bonniere, GUSTAVE AUGUSTE, a French advocate and writer, b. depart. of Sarthe, Feb. 6, 1802; d. Paris, Feb. 22, 1866. In 1831, he was commissioned, with DeTocqueville, to visit the U.S., and examine its penitentiary system. Their report, "Du Système Penitentiaire aux États Unis et de son Application en France," has become a standard work on the subject. Beaumont also wrote "Marie, ou de l'Esclavage aux États Unis," which has been translated and reprinted in the U. S. He was a member of the chamber of deputies in 1840, of the constituent assembly, 1848, and was app. ambassador to Eng. by Gen. Cavaignac. He was a grandson of Lafayette, and, in 1836, he m. a grand-dau. of the marquis. He was imprisoned for opposition to the coup d'état of Dec. 2, 1851. He wrote in 1839 "L'Irlande, Sociale, Politique, et Religieuse" (2 vols., 1839).

Beaumont, WILLIAM, M. D., a celebrated physician, b. Lebanon, Ct., in 1785; d. St. Louis, Apr. 25, 1853. After completing his medical education at St. Alban's, Vt., in 1812, he was app. assist. surgeon in the U. S. army, in which he served until 1837. In 1825, while stationed at Michilimacinac, he became acquainted with the Canadian St. Martin; and it is to his experiments with this man, that Dr. Beaumont is indebted for his wide-spread fame. A gunshot wound in the side of St. Martin, healed without closing up, so that the stomach was exposed to observation; and Dr. Beaumont made careful experiments for several years upon the processes of digestion. The result of his observations, pub. in 1838, shed new light upon this most interesting and important subject, and is the only authority, based on actual observation, in that branch of science. After leaving the army, Dr. Beaumont practised his profession at St. Louis.

Digitized by Google

Beauregard, Peter Gustavus Toutant, gen. C.S.A., b. on his father's plantation, near N. Orleans, 1817. West Point, 1838. Entering the 1st Art., he was transferred to the engineer corps; became 1st lieut. in 1839, and in the Mexican war won the brevets of capt. at Contreras and Churubusco, and maj. at Chapultepec, where he was twice wounded. He was present at the capture of the city of Mexico, and received another wound at the Belen Gate. Capt. Mar. 3, 1853. After the war, he had charge of the construction of the N. Orleans mint and custom-house, and of the fortifications near the mouths of the Mpi. Resigning his commission Feb. 20, 1861, he joined the rebel army; was made brig.-gen., conducted the attack on Fort Sumter, and, in June, took com. of the army at Manassas. July 21, he gained the battle of Bull Run, and was the same day promoted to be gen. C.S.A. Mar. 5, 1862, he took com. of the army of the Miss., under Gen. A. S. Johnston, who joined him at Corinth, ab. Apr. 1, and directed the battle of Shiloh until he was killed, Apr. 6; after which, Beauregard held the chief com. Fortifying himself at Corinth, he held the army of Gen. Halleck in check for nearly 2 months, and, when forced to retire, did so with slight loss. He was soon after relieved, at his own request, on account of ill health. In Aug., he received the com. of the military dept. composed of S. C. and Ga. Jan. 31, 1863, he issued a proclamation, as gen. com'g in S. C., that the blockade of Charleston harbor had been raised. This canard was soon disproved; but he successfully defended Charleston against Dahlgren and Gillmore. In May, 1864, he joined Lee at Richmond; com. at Petersburg in June; took com. of the military division of the West, Oct. 17, and com. at Charleston, S.C., in the following spring; but, on Gen. Sherman's approach, retired to N. C., and united his forces with those of Gen. J. E. Johnston, who surrendered soon after to Sherman.

Beck, Charles, Ph. D., LL.D. (H. U. 1865), scholar, b. Heidelberg, Germany, Aug. 19, 1798; d. Cambridge, Ms., Mar. 19, 1866. Educated at the U. of Berlin, he studied theology also; was ord. July, 1822, and, in 1823, received his degree at Tübingen. He was some time tutor at the U. of Basle; but his republican sentiments endangered his liberty, and, in 1824, he came to New York. He soon connected himself with the Round Hill School, Northampton, but in 1830 established a school at Philipstown, on the Hudson, opposite West Point. From 1832 to 1850, he was prof. of Latin language and literature at Cambridge U. He pub. in 1863 "The Manuscripts of the Satyricon of Petronius Arbiter, described and collated." He was a member of the Oriental Society, and of the Acad. of Sciences; was 2 years in the State legisl., was a man of enlarged views and great public spirit; and was specially interested in the soldiers' fund, the sanitary commission, and the organizations for the care and education of the freedmen.

Beck, George, painter and poet, b. Eng., 1749; d. Lexington, Ky., Dec. 24, 1812. He was app. prof. of mathematics in the Royal Acad. at Woolwich in 1776, but lost the office for neglecting its duties. After coming to Amer. in 1795, he was employed in painting by Mr. Hamilton of the Woodlands, near Phila. Besides original poetic pieces, he translated Anacreon, and large portions of Homer, Virgil, and Horace. He pub. "Observations on the Comet," 1812.

Beck, John Brodhead, M.D., b. Schenectady, Sept. 18, 1794; d. Rhinebeck, N.Y., Apr. 9, 1851. Columb. Coll. 1813. Bro. of T. R., Nicholas, Lewis, and Abraham Beck. Educated by his uncle, Rev. John B. Romeyn of Rhinebeck. He commenced practice on the completion of his medical studies, in 1817, and became disting. In 1822, with Drs. Dyckman and Francis, he established the N. Y. Med. and Phys. Journal, of which he was 7 years chief editor. In 1826, he was app. prof. of materia medica and botany in the Coll. of Physicians and Surgeons, but subsequently exchanged the chair of botany for that of medical jurisprudence, which, together with that of materia medica, he continued to hold until his death. Physician of the N. Y. Hospital, 1835–45. He pub. "Medical Essays," 1843, and, with his bro. T. Romeyn Beck, produced the great work on "Medical Jurisprudence," 1823. Also author of "Infant Therapeutics," 12mo, N. Y., 1849; "Hist. Sketch of the State of Medicine in the Colonies," 1850. — See Memoir, by C. R. Gilman, in Gross's Med. Biog.

Beck, Lewis C., M.D., chemist, b. Schenectady, N.Y., Oct. 4, 1798; d. Albany, April 21, 1853. Un. Coll. 1817. Bro. of John B. and Theod. Romeyn Beck. Adm. to practise medicine in Schenectady in 1818, he resided in St. Louis in 1820–21, and afterward settled in Albany. Prof. of botany in the Rensselaer School, 1824–9; prof. of botany and chemistry in the Vt. Acad of Med., 1826–32; gave a course of chemical lectures at Middleb. Coll. in Apr. 1827; mineralogist of the survey of N. Y. in 1837. In 1830, he was app. prof of chemistry and natural history in Rutgers's Coll., and, at the time of his death, was prof. of chemistry in the Albany Med. Coll. He pub. "Account of the Salt Springs at Salina," 1826; "On Adulterations," 12mo, N. Y., 1846; "Botany of the U. S.," and of the "U. S. North of Virginia," 12mo, 1848; "Mineralogy of N. Y.," 4to, 1842; "Illinois and Missouri Gazetteer," 8vo, 1823; "Chemistry," 1831. For a complete list of Dr. Beck's writings, see Memoir, by Alden March in Gross's Med. Biog.

Beck, Paul, a philanthropic merchant, b. Phila. ab. 1760; d. there Dec. 22, 1844. His father emigrated from Nuremberg in 1752. The son was apprenticed to a wine-merchant, served in the militia during the Revol., and, at its close, began a highly-successful business-career, accumulating a very large fortune. He was long port-warden of Phila., one of the founders of the Pa. Acad. of Fine Arts, pres. and a liberal benefactor of the Deaf and Dumb Institution, one of the originators, and subsequently the pres., of the Amer. S. S. Union, and was a liberal contrib. to literary, religious, and charitable objects.

Digitized by Google

Beck, THEODORIC ROMEYN, M.D., LL.D., medical prof. and author, b. Schenectady, N.Y., 11 Aug. 1791; d. Utica, N.Y., 19 Nov. 1855. Un. Coll. 1807. He studied medicine under Dr. Hosack, obtained his degree in 1811, began practice in Albany, and in 1813 addressed the Albany Society of Arts upon the mineral resources of the U. S., believed to be the first pub. systematic account of Amer. minerals. App. in 1815 prof. of the institutes of medicine, and lecturer on med. jurisprudence, in the Coll. of Phys. and Surgeons in Western N. Y.; prof. of med. jurisp. at Fairfield Med. Coll. in 1826–36, and, from 1836 to 1840, prof. of materia medica; prof of materia medica in the Albany Med. Coll. 1840–54; principal of the Albany Acad. 1817–48; made pres. of the State Med. Society in 1829; a manager of the N. Y. State Lunatic Asylum, and in 1854 elected pres; a founder and active supporter of the Albany Institute, and some years its pres; member of many learned societies, and an earnest promoter of all philanthropic enterprises. His statistics of the deaf and dumb influenced the State legisl. to take measures for their education. He edited for many years the American Journal of Insanity, and in 1823 pub. his famous work on "Medical Jurisprudence," — a standard work in Europe as well as in America. He also pub. many addresses, reports, and contribs. to scientific journals. — See Memoirs, by F. H. Hamilton, in Gross's Med. Biog.

Beckwith, SIR GEORGE, an English gen., b. 1753; d. 20 Mar. 1823. He served as adj. of grenadiers in the unsuccessful attack on Fort Moultrie; was at the battles of Brooklyn, White Plains, Brandywine, Monmouth, and the capture of Fort Griswold; became a capt. in May, 1777, and aide to Knyphausen, and in June, 1782, became aide to Carleton, whom he accomp. to Canada in 1786. Adj.-gen. in N. Amer. in 1793; col. 1795; gov. of Bermuda, 1798–1803, and afterwards of St. Vincent's and Barbadoes; and, in 1809–10, captured all the French W. Indies. Made full gen. 4 June, 1814, and com.-in-chief in Ireland in 1816–20.

Beckwith, GEORGE C., D.D., Cong. clergyman, d. Boston, 12 May, 1870, a. 70. A founder of the Amer. Peace Society; 33 years its corresp. sec.; editor of its magazine, The Advocate of Peace, and devoted his whole time and mind to the cause.

Bedard, PIERRE, Canadian jurist and politician, b. Quebec, 1763; d. 1827. One of the first native Canadians adm. to the bar, leader of the opposition to Gov. Craig in the Assembly, and one of the founders of Le Canadien, newspaper. He was imprisoned for some violent attacks upon the executive in this journal, and, after his release was long a district judge. — Morgan.

Bedel, COL. TIMOTHY, Revol. officer, d. Haverhill, N.H., Feb. 1787. Originally from Salem, N.H., he settled in Haverhill, was a lieut. in Goffe's regt. in 1760, and served in Canada. App. capt. of rangers, July 6, 1775. Col. 1st N. H. regt. Jan. 20, 1776, he joined the Northern army under Schuyler. While absent at Montreal on duty, his subordinate, Capt. Butterfield, surrendered in a most cowardly manner at the Cedars. July 30, 1776, he was ordered by Congress to be tried by court-martial for neglect of duty. He was afterward maj.-gen. 2d div. N. H. militia.

Bedell, GREGORY TOWNSEND, D.D., an eloquent clergyman, b. Staten Island, Oct. 28, 1793; d. Baltimore, Aug. 30, 1834. Col. Coll. 1811. His mother was a sister of Bishop Moore of Va. Ord. deacon, Nov. 4, 1814. In 1815, he became rector of the church in Hudson, and, in 1818, of that in Fayetteville, N.C., when, after 3 years of successful labor, ill health induced him to come north. The Church of St Andrew's, in Phila., was built for him, and was consecrated May 21, 1823. Here Dr. Bedell officiated till his death. His sermons were remarkable for simplicity and point; and none could have heard him preach without remembering and appreciating the peculiarities of his oratory. He pub. "Cause of the Greeks," 1827; "Ezekiel's Vision;" "Is it Well?" "It is well;" "Onward, or Christian Progression;" "Pay thy Vows;" "Renunciation;" "Way Marks;" "Basket of Flowers;" "Bible Studies," 2 vols., 1829; "Religious Souvenir," 1834. Thirty of his sermons were pub., with a Memoir by Rev. Dr. Tyng, 1836, 8vo, 2 vols.

Bedford, GUNNING, Revol. patriot, member Old Congress in 1783–5; gov. of Del. 1796–7; d. Newcastle, Del., 30 Sept. 1797, while in office. B. Phila. Lieut. in the French war in 1755; maj. 20 Mar. 1775; lieut.-col. in Haslet's regt., 19 Jan. 1776, and wounded at White Plains; muster-m.-gen. 18 June, 1776. — See Life Geo. Read, by Wm. T. Reed, 1870.

Bedford, GUNNING, jun., cousin of the preceding, also a Revol. patriot, b. Phila., 1747; d. Wilmington, Del., 30 Mar. 1812. N. J. Coll. 1771. Practised law at Dover, and afterwards at Wilmington, Del. Member of the legisl., and atty.-gen. of the State; member Cont. Congress, 1785–6, and of the convention that formed the U. S. Constitution; U. S. district judge from 1789 to his death. — Life of Geo. Read.

Bedford, GUNNING S., M.D. (Rutg. Coll. 1829), b. Baltimore, 1806; d. N.Y. City, 5 Sept. 1870. Mt. St. Mary Coll. 1825. Grandnephew of the preceding. Prof. at Charleston, S.C., and afterwards in the Albany Med. Coll., but in 1836 went to N.Y., and obtained a lucrative practice. Prof. of midwifery in the U. of N.Y., 1840–62. Author of "Lectures on the Diseases of Women and Children," "Midwifery," 1859, and has translated from the French, and edited, "Chailly's Midwifery," "Magrier's Anatomy," "Baudelocque on Puerperal Fever," "Boisseau on Cholera, &c."

Bedinger, MAJ. GEORGE M., Revol. officer, b. Va.; d. Lower Blue Licks, Ky., ab. 1830. One of the earliest emigrants to Ky., he served as adj. in the exped. against Chillicothe in 1779, as maj. at the battle of Blue Licks in 1782, and did good service throughout the war as an Indian spy. He led a batt. from Winchester, Va., under St. Clair, in his exped. in 1791; was maj. of U.S. Inf. from Apr. 1792, to Feb. 1793; was a member of the Ky. legisl. in 1792, and M. C. from 1803 to 1807.

Digitized by Google

Bedinger, HENRY, politician, b. near Shepherdstown, Va., 1810; d. there Nov. 26, 1858. Daniel his father, a Revol. soldier and a Democ. leader, d. ab. 1820. He began to practise law at Shepherdstown at 22; was afterwards a partner of his bro.-in-law, Gen. George Rust, at Charlestown; succeeded him as M. C. in 1845–9, and, in 1853–8, was minister to Denmark, settling by a treaty the vexed question of the Sound dues. He was a popular and effective speaker.

Bee, BARNARD E., brig.-gen. C.S.A., b. Charleston, S.C., ab. 1825; killed at the battle of Bull Run, July 21, 1861. West Point, 1845. Entering the 3d Inf., he was brev. for gallantry at Cerro Gordo, where he was wounded, and for Chapultepec, where he was one of the storming-party. 1st lieut. 1851; capt. 10th Inf. Mar. 3, 1855, and, being ordered to Utah, was acting lieut.-col. of a batt. of vols. from Dec. 1857, to Sept. 1858. He resigned Mar. 3, 1861, and was app. brig.-gen. in the rebel army.

Bee, JUDGE THOMAS of S.C., a Revol. patriot; member of the Assembly, speaker of the house of reps., member of the privy council; judge of the State courts; member of the council of safety; lieut.-gov.; member of Continental Congress, 1780–2, and finally judge of the district. Suffered greatly in property by the war. He pub. "Reports of the Dist. Court of S.C." 1810.

Beebe, BEZALEEL, COL., a Revol. officer, b. Litchfield, Ct., Apr. 28, 1741; d. there May 29, 1824. In 1758, he joined Rogers's Rangers, and was engaged in the sanguinary fight in which Putnam was captured, and shared in the reduction of Montreal. Capt. in Jan. 1776, he was app. to Hinman's regt., and was made prisoner at the capture of Fort Washington. Maj. in Aug. 1777, having just been exchanged; lieut.-col. 1780; col. early in 1781; and was soon after app. to the command of the Ct. troops raised for the defence of the sea-coast. From Oct. 1781 to 1795, he was frequently a member of the State legisl. His son Ebenezer, maj. U.S. A., d. in the service during the War of 1812.

Beecher, CATHARINE ESTHER, eldest dau. of Rev. Lyman, b. East Hampton, L.I., Sept. 6, 1800, received her early education at Litchfield. The death of Prof. Fisher of Yale Coll., to whom she was betrothed, was a severe blow, from which she sought consolation in a life of activity. In 1822–32, she conducted a female sem. at Hartford, and prepared for the press a manual of arithmetic, 1830, and elementary books of instruction in theology and moral philosophy. In 1832, she accomp. her father to Cincinnati, where, for 2 years, she was at the head of an institution for female instruction. She has for many years employed herself in developing a plan for female Christian education, to be promoted through a national board, with high schools and normal schools to provide a sufficient supply of well-instructed teachers. Among her writings in this cause are "Domestic Service," "The Duty of Amer. Women to their Country," "The True Remedy for the Wrongs of Woman," 1851; "Treatise on Domestic Economy," a work on "Physiology, and the Condition and Habits of American women," 1856, and the first vol. of a course on theology and moral philosophy. She has also pub. "Housekeeper's Receipt Book," "Suggestions on Education," 1829; "Letters on Difficulties in Religion," 1836; "The Moral Instructor," 1838; Memoir of her brother, Rev. George Beecher, 1844; "Truth Stranger than Fiction," 1850; Physiology and Calisthenics," "Letters on Health and Happiness," 1855; d. Elmira, May 12, 1878.

Beecher, CHARLES, son of Dr. Lyman, b. 1815. Ord. 1844 pastor of a church at Newark, N.J.; settled at Georgetown, Ms., since 1857. He has pub. a popular vol., "The Incarnation, or Pictures of the Virgin and her Son;" "Review of the Spiritual Manifestations," 12mo, N.Y., 1853; "Pen Pictures of the Bible," 1855. With his brother Henry Ward, he prepared the "Plymouth Coll. of Hymns and Tunes," 1856.

Beecher, EDWARD, D.D. (Marietta Coll. 1841), eldest son of Rev. Lyman, clergyman, b. 1804. Y. C. 1822. He studied divinity at Andover and New Haven; was tutor at Y.C. in 1825, pastor of Park-st. Church, Boston, 1826–31; pres. Ill. Coll., Jacksonville, 1831–44; pastor of Salem-st. Church, Boston, 1846–56; now pastor of a church in Galesburg, Ill. He has pub. "Conflict of Ages," 1854, "Papal Conspiracy," 1855, a work on "Baptism," 12mo, 1850, and "Riots at Alton," 1838.

Beecher, HENRY WARD, a popular orator, and minister of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, N.Y., son of Rev. Lyman Beecher, b. Litchfield, Ct., June 24, 1813. Amh. Coll. 1834. He studied theology under his father at the Lane Sem., Cincinnati, and was first settled in 1837 as Presb. minister at Lawrenceburg, Ind. In 1839, he removed to Indianapolis. In 1847, he became pastor of the Plymouth Church. He visited Eng. in the summer of 1863, and rendered important service to his country by his eloquent vindication of its policy in the war for the Union. In Apr. 1865, at the request of the govt., he delivered an oration at Fort Sumter, on the anniversary of its fall. Besides occasional addresses, he is the author of "Lectures to Young Men," editor of "The Plymouth Collection of Hymns," also one of the founders of the Independent, a weekly religious newspaper of N.Y. Two vols. of these contributions have been collected under the name of the "Star Papers." Fragments from his discourses, entitled "Life-Thoughts," and "Notes from Plymouth Pulpit," have had a wide circulation. He has also pub. "Eyes and Ears," 1862; "Freedom and War," 1863; "Norwood," a novel of New-England life, 1866; and "Sermons," 2 vols. 8vo. He is a popular lecturer; and, as a preacher, he addresses himself with vigor and effect to the hearts and understandings of his hearers. He opposed the institution of slavery, and, in the presidential contest of 1856, took an active part in favor of the Republicans, not only with his pen, but by addressing mass meetings throughout the Northern States. — See Men of our Time, by H. B. Stowe.

Beecher, LYMAN, D.D., an eminent Presb.

Digitized by Google

clergyman, b. N. Haven, Ct., Oct. 12, 1775; d. Brooklyn, N.Y., Jan. 10, 1863. Y.C. 1797. He studied theology under Pres. Dwight; was pastor of the church in E. Hampton, L.I., from Dec. 1798 to 1810; of the First Church, Litchfield, Ct., from 1810 to 1826; of the Hanover-st. Church, Boston, from 1826 to 1832, and of the Second Church, Cincinnati, O., in connection with the presidency of the Lane Theol. Sem. there, from 1832 to 1851. Returning to Boston, he preached occasionally, but removed to Brooklyn in 1855, where he ended his days. In Litchfield, he aided in organizing the Missionary, the Education, and the Amer. Bible Societies. In the theological controversies which led to a division of the Presb. Church in 1837–8, he took an active part, though free from bitterness. His forcible preaching, his strong views in regard to evangelical truth, and his boldness in denouncing laxity in regard to the standard of Christian orthodoxy, made a deep impression on the public mind. He was the most widely known, and the most influential, preacher in the country, from 1815 to 1851. He was conspicuous in the temperance movement, and pub. a famous series of sermons on intemperance, which greatly aided the cause. His numerous publications, mostly sermons, include a vol. on "Political Atheism." His Autobiography, and a selection of his works, edited by his son Charles, were pub. in 1865, in 2 vols., 12mo. His works, 3 vols., 8vo, were pub. Boston, 1852. All his sons became Cong. clergymen; viz., William, Edward, D. D., George (d. 1843), Henry Ward, Charles, Thos. K., and James. The daughters are Catharine E. and Harriet (well-known authors), Mary, and Isabella.

Beechey, Frederic William, British navigator, b. London, Feb. 1796; d. there Nov. 29, 1856. Son of the painter, Sir Wm. He entered the navy at the age of 10, and saw service at New Orleans; a lieut. in 1815; in 1818, he sailed under Sir John Franklin on his first voyage of arctic discovery, acting as artist to the exped. In 1819, he accomp. Sir Edward Parry in "The Hecla," in his first arctic voyage. In 1821, he was commissioned, with his brother, H. W. Beechey, to survey the north coast of Africa from Tripoli to Derne. Made a com., he sailed in 1825, in "The Blossom," on another arctic exped., viâ Cape Horn, to act in concert with Franklin and Parry, and, having passed Behring's Straits, arrived in Aug. 1826, at a point north of Icy Cape, reaching in boats 71° 23′ 31″ N. lat., and 156° 21′ 30′ W. long. He pub. a narrative of this voyage in 1831. Beechey subsequently discovered, in 1827, two secure harbors south-east of Cape Prince of Wales, and near Behring's Straits, which he named Port Clarence and Grantly Harbor. In 1829–39, he was employed in making surveys of the coasts of S. America and Ireland. In 1854, he was app. rear-adm. of the blue, and in 1855 was chosen pres. of the Roy. Geog. Society.

Behem, Martin, geographer and navigator, b. Nuremberg, ab. 1430; d. Lisbon, July, 1506. He studied astronomy and mathematics; went in 1477 to Flanders, and in 1480 to Lisbon, where he is said, by Herrera, to have sustained Columbus's view of a western passage to India. In 1483, he was app. a commis. for calculating an astrolabe and tables of declension. Next year, he was cosmographer to the exped. to the W. coast of Africa. In 1486, he established a Flemish colony at Fayal, and in 1490 returned to Nuremberg, where he constructed a terrestrial globe, on which historical notices were written, and which is a valuable memorial of the discoveries and geog. knowledge of the time. The discovery of Fayal is claimed for Behem in 1459, and of Brazil in 1484 (8 years before the voyage of Columbus).

Behring, Vitus, a Danish navigator, well known for his shipwreck and death on an island still disting. by his name, b. Horsens, Jutland, 1680; d. Dec. 8, 1741. In his youth, he made several voyages to the East and West Indies. He made, in 1725, an exped. to the Northern Seas, to discover an overland passage to America. He served in the Russian navy, and, in 1728, was intrusted by Peter the Great with an exped. to ascertain how far the coast of Amer. extended towards the east, but made no discoveries of consequence, either in this or the two subsequent voyages for the same govt. in 1730 and 1741. In the last of these attempts, he was shipwrecked and lost in the straits, and on the island which retain his name. He became a commodore in 1732. Though Behring's exped. terminated so unfortunately, the finding of this island led to the discovery of others abounding with valuable furs, and finally to that of the Aleutian Isles: it is also the foundation of the claim of Russia to that part of America.

Belcher, Sir Edward, arctic explorer, grandson of Judge Jonathan, b. 1799. Entered the English navy, 1812; present at the battle of Algiers; com. "The Ætna," 1830; "The Terror," and "The Erebus," for arctic service, in 1833, and "The Sulphur" in 1836–42; knighted in 1843; capt. of "The Samarang" in the E. Indies, 1843–9; com. the exped. in search of Sir John Franklin, 1852–4; admiral, 1861. Author of several narratives of his voyages, and other works; d. London, Mch. 18, 1877.

Belcher, Jonathan, a colonial governor, b. Cambridge, Ms., Jan. 8, 1682; d. Elizabethtown, N.J., Aug. 31, 1757. H.U. 1699. Son of Andrew, one of the council of the province, who d. in 1717; and grandson of Andrew, who lived in Cambridge in 1646. His education was carefully superintended by his father. Visiting Europe, he formed an acquaintance with the Princess Sophia and her son, afterwards King George I., which laid the foundation of his future honors. After his return from a six-years' sojourn, he was a merchant of Boston, a member of the Prov. Assembly, then a member of the council, and in 1729 was sent as agent of the province to England. This position, according to Hutchinson, was not attained by him in a very creditable manner. Nov. 29, 1729, he was app. gov. of Ms. and N.H. He was superseded in 1741, in consequence of the violent clamor against him. He succeeded in vindicating himself at the British court, and took the govt. of N.J., where he arrived in 1747, and where he passed the remainder of his life. He extended the charter of N.J. Coll., was its chief patron and benefactor, and rendered eminent service to the State.

Digitized by Google

Belcher, JONATHAN, jurist, b. Boston, July 28, 1710; d. Halifax, March 29, 1776. H.U. 1728. Son of Gov. Jonathan. He studied law at the Temple, London, and attained some eminence at the English bar. He was one of the first settlers of Chebucto, afterwards called Halifax, and being, in 1760, senior councillor, was, on the death of Gov. Lawrence, app. lieut.-gov., in which office he was succeeded by Col. Wilmot in 1763; app. chief-justice in 1761, and in the same year, as com.-in-chief, made a treaty with the Miramichi, Micmac, and other tribes of Indians. ANDREW, his son, a disting. citizen of Halifax, was member of the council, 1801.

Belcher, JOSEPH, D.D., clergyman and author, b. Birmingham, Eng., April 5, 1794; d. Phila., July 10, 1859. He came to this country in 1844. His publications number nearly 200. Among them are lives of Whitefield and Robert Hall, "History of Religious Denominations of U.S.," 1855; "Baptist Manual," "Sketches from Life," "Poetical Sketches of Biblical Subjects," "The Clergy of America," 1855; "The Baptist Pulpit of the U.S.," 1850. He furnished many of the biographies for the Amer. Portrait Gallery. His last book was "A History of Hymns and their Authors."

Belgrano, MANUEL, a South-American patriot, b. Buenos Ayres; d. 1820. His parents, who emigrated from Italy, were wealthy; and their son, after completing his education at the U. of Salmanca, was app. sec. of the consulate at Buenos Ayres, and became popular. He entered zealously into the measure of deposing the Viceroy Cisneros, in May, 1810. Raised to the rank of gen., he com. an unsuccessful exped. against Paraguay. Sept. 4, 1812, Belgrano gained a victory over the royalist gen. Pio Tristan at Tucuman, and on the 13th Feb. following obtained another victory over him at Salta, but imprudently released Tristan and his troops upon their parole, which the Spaniards dishonorably violated. In consequence of this, Gen. Pezuela, with the very same troops, added to others collected in Peru, attacked and defeated him at Vileapuzio, Oct. 1, 1813, and again at Ayoma in the same year; and San Martin succeeded him in the com.

Belknap, JEREMY, D.D. (H. U. 1792), clergyman and historian, b. Boston, June 4, 1744; d. there June 20, 1798. H. U. 1762. He studied theology, taught school 4 years, was pastor of a church in Dover, N.H., from Feb. 18, 1767, to 1786, and of the Federal-st. Church, Boston, from April 4, 1787, until his death. He founded the Ms. Hist. Society in 1791; was an overseer of Harvard U., and was a useful member of many literary and humane societies. He was a warm friend of the Revol. and of the Federal Constitution, an opponent of African slavery, and a promoter of literature and science. Besides numerous sermons, he pub. a "History of New Hampshire," 3 vols., 8vo, 1784–92; a collection of Psalms and Hymns, 1795; "American Biography," 2 vols., 8vo, 1794–8; "The Foresters," a work of wit and humor, descriptive of American manners; a century discourse on the Discovery of America, 1792; "Dissertations upon the Character and Resurrection of Christ," 1795, 12mo; and contribs. to the Columbian and Boston magazines, the Hist. Colls., and the newspapers of the day. His historical writings are characterized by extensive information and research. He was highly esteemed as a preacher. A Memoir, with selections from his corresp., was pub. by his grand-dau. in N. Y., in 1847.

Belknap, WILLIAM GOLDSMITH, brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. Newburgh, N.Y., Sept. 14, 1794; d. Fort Wachita, Tex., Nov. 10. 1851. Made a lieut. 23d Inf. Apr. 5, 1813; disting. and wounded in the sortie from Fort Erie, 17 Sept. 1814; capt. 1 Feb. 1822; brev. maj. 1 Feb, 1832; maj. 8th Inf. 31 Jan. 1842; and Mar. 15, 1842, brev. lieut.-col. for good conduct in the Florida war. He was with Gen. Taylor on the Rio Grande; was brev. col. for services in the battles of May 8 and 9, 1846, and was presented with a sword by his fellow-townsmen of Newburgh. Acting insp.-gen. at the capture of Monterey; lieut.-col 5th Inf. Sept. 26, 1847; brev. brig.-gen. 23 Feb. 1847, for Buena Vista. From Dec. 1848 to May, 1851, he was in com. of Fort Gibson. In 1828–9, Capt. Belknap established Fort Leavenworth near the site of the thriving city of that name.

Belknap, WILLIAM WORTH, sec. of war, 1869, b. Io., 1831. N.J. Coll. 1848; Princeton Mil. Coll, N.J. Served through the Rebellion, and, in the campaigns of Tenn. and Ga., com. a division. Coll. of revenue in Iowa, 1866–9.

Bell, CHARLES H., rear-adm., b. New York, Aug. 15, 1798. Midshipm. June 18, 1812; lieut. Mar. 28, 1820; com. Sept. 20, 1840; capt. Aug. 12, 1854; commo. July 16, 1862; rear-adm. July 25, 1866. He was in Decatur's squadron in 1813–14, in that of Chauncy on Lake Ontario, in 1814, and in Decatur's, in the Mediterranean, in 1815; in 1824, com. schooner "Ferret" in the W. Indies; was capsized at sea, and remained 21 hours on the wreck; attached to "The Erie" in 1829; assisted in cutting out the pirate schooner "Federal" from the forts at Guadaloupe, W. I.; com. Norfolk navy-yard, 1860; com. Pacific squad. 1862–4; N. Y. navy-yard, 1865–8; d. New Brunswick, N. J. Feb. 14, 1875.

Bell, HENRY H., rear-adm. U.S.N., b. N.C. ab. 1808; drowned at the mouth of Osaka River, Japan, Jan. 11, 1868. Midshipm. Aug. 4 1823; lieut. Mar. 3, 1831; com. Aug. 12, 1854, capt. 1861; commo. July 16, 1862; rear-adm. July 25, 1866. His first service was in "The Grampus," in clearing the coast of Cuba of pirates. He com. one of the vessels of the E. I. squadron, which, in Nov. 1856, captured and destroyed the four barrier forts near Canton, China. Assigned to the Gulf squadron in 1861, he took an active part, as fleet-captain, in the capture of New Orleans and the siege of Vicksburg, and did essential service in the coast blockade. He was for a time, in 1863, in com. of the West Gulf squadron; and, when Adm. Thatcher was ordered to other duty, its com. again devolved on him. In July, 1865, he was ordered to com. the E. I. squadron, and was very active in putting down the pirates that infested the Chinese seas. In 1867, he was retired, but had not been relieved when he was drowned.

Digitized by Google

Bell, JAMES, lawyer and statesman, b. Francestown, N.H., Nov. 13, 1804; d. Gilford, N.H., May 26, 1857. Bowd. Coll. 1822. Son of Gov. Samuel. He studied law with his bro. Samuel D. Bell, and at the law school at Litchfield, Ct.; in 1825, was adm. to practise in Gilmanton, N.H., and ab. 1831 removed to Exeter, where he practised till 1846, when he removed to Gilford. In 1846, he was elected to the N. H. legisl. from Exeter; in 1850, a member of the State-Const. Conv. from Gilford; and in 1853, he was elected by the legisl. to the U. S. senate.

Bell, JOHN, gov. N. H., 1829–30; d. Chester, N.H., 22 Mar. 1836, a. 70. Bro. of Gov. Sam'l Bell. Many years a merchant in Chester; councillor of the State; and sheriff of Rockingham Co., 1823–8.

Bell, JOHN, statesman, b. near Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 15, 1797; d. there Sept. 10, 1869. U. of Nashv. 1814. He studied law; was adm. to the bar in 1816, and settled at Franklin, Williamson Co. In 1817, he was elected to the State senate; was M. C. in 1827–41, officiating during one term as speaker; was sec. of war in 1841; was in 1847 a member of the Tenn. legisl., but, before the close of the year, was elected to the U. S. senate, and was re-elected in 1852, serving from time to time as chairman of important committees. He was the Union candidate for Pres. in 1860, Mr. Everett being on the ticket for vice-pres. In Congress, he was an earnest advocate of the policy of protecting American industry, and of improving the great rivers and lake harbors. He opposed nullification, favored the reception of petitions for the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia, opposed the policy of annexation, favored the compromise measures of 1850, and protested against the passage of the Nebraska Bill in 1854. He took decided ground against the so-called Lecompton Constitution, and in an elaborate speech charged that that measure tended directly to the overthrow of the Union. Mr. Bell was one of the very few Southern men whose course was wholly national in character.

Bell, LUTHER V, M.D., LL.D., physician, son of Gov. Saml. Bell of N.H., b. Chester, N.H., Dec. 20, 1806; d. in camp near Budd's Ferry, Md., Feb. 11, 1862. Bowd. Coll. 1823. He studied medicine in N.Y. City with an elder bro., received his degree from the Hanover Med. School, and began practice in N.Y. Afterwards, removing to his native town, he became eminent as a surgeon and as a medical writer, gaining 2 Boylston prizes before he was 30. The establishment of the State Lunatic Hospital at Worcester, Ms., caused him to advocate a similar institution for N. H.; and he was superintendent of the McLean Asylum, at Somerville, Ms., from Jan. 1837 to 1856. In 1845, he visited Europe for the trustees of the Butler Hospital for the Insane, at Providence, R.I. Dr. Bell was in 1850 one of the exec. council of Ms., and was a member of the Const. Conv. of 1853. Pres. Ms. Med. Asso. 1857. He went to the seat of war as surgeon of the 11th Ms. regt., but was soon after made brigade-surgeon in Hooker's division. Dr. Bell was the author of several able professional works, and some political essays, also of an investigation of alleged spiritual manifestations.

Bell, PETER HANSBROUGH, col., b. Va. Capt. Texas Rangers, 1845–6, on frontier service. Lieut.-col. of Hays's regt. mounted vols. in Mexican war, 1847–8; col. of regt. for frontier defence, from July 1848, to Feb. 1849; gov. of Texas, 1849 to 1853; M.C. 1853–7, afterward judge of the Supreme Court of the State — Gardner.

Bell, SAMUEL, LL.D., statesman and jurist, b. Londonderry, N.H., Feb. 9, 1770; d. Chester, N.H., Dec. 23, 1850. Dartm. Coll. 1793. His ancestors were originally from Scotland, but settled near Londonderry, Ireland, where his grandfather John was b., who, in 1722, emigrated to Amer. with his family, and settled in that part of N. H. known as the town of Londonderry, where he d. in 1742. He worked on his father's farm until 18, when he prepared himself for coll. After graduating, he studied law, and was adm. to practise in 1796; member of the legisl. in 1804–8, occupying the position of speaker; in 1807 and 1808 was a member of the senate; in 1809, a member of the exec. council; in 1816–19, judge of the Sup. Court of the State; and in 1819–23, gov. Declining a re-election, he was a member of the U.S. senate from 1823 to 1835. He received the degree of LL.D. from Bowd. Coll. 1821. Among his sons were James, a celebrated lawyer, Saml. Dana, LL.D, and Luther V, M.D., LL.D. His youngest son, COL. LEWIS BELL, b. 1836, d. of wounds at Fort Fisher, Jan. 16, 1865. Brown U. 1853. He began the practice of law, entered the army in April, 1861, as capt. 1st N.H. vols., and, at the time of his death, was col. 4th N.H. vols., and acting brig.-gen.

Bell, SAMUEL DANA, LL.D. (D.C. 1854), jurist, b. Francestown, N.H., Oct. 9, 1798; d. Manchester, N.H., July 31, 1868. H.U. 1816. Son of Gov. Saml. Bell. He began to practise law in Meredith, removed to Chester in 1820, to Concord in 1830, and from 1839 to his death lived in Manchester. He was a member of the legisl. in 1825; solicitor for Rockingham Co. in 1823–8; several years clerk of the legisl.; commissioner to revise the statutes of N.H. in 1830, 1842, and 1867; judge of the Police Court, Manchester, 1846–9; justice of the Superior Court, 1849–55; justice of the Supreme Court, 1855–9; chief-justice, 1859, to Aug. 1, 1861. He was one of the most eminent and profound jurists of N.E., and an early and valuable member of the N.H. Hist. Society. Vice-pres. of the N.E. Hist. Gen. Society, from 1859 till his death.

Bellamy, JOSEPH, D.D. (U. of Aberdeen, 1768). Cong. minister of Bethlehem, Ct., from 1740 to his d., 6 Mar., 1790; b. N. Cheshire, Ct., Feb. 20, 1719. Y.C. 1735. He was one of the most learned divines of the country, was a superior preacher, and instructed many young men in divinity. His system of theology is similar to that of Jona. Edwards. His appearance was commanding; and he possessed great wit and humor. During the great revival of 1742, he preached in many places in N.E. and N.Y. Author of "True Religion Delineated," 1750, "Theron, Paulinus, and Aspasio," 1759, and "Nature and Glory of the Gospel," 1762. His works were pub. in 3 vols., 1811, and in 2 vols., 1850, with a Memoir by Dr. T. Edwards.

Digitized by Google

Bellingham, Richard, gov. of Ms., of which he was an original patentee, b. in Eng. in 1592; d. Dec. 7, 1672. He was bred a lawyer; came to Amer. in 1634, and the next year was chosen dep.-gov. In 1641, he was chosen gov. in opp. to Winthrop; was re-chosen in 1654, and again in 1666, after the death of Endicott, continuing in office for the remainder of his life. He was long a prominent public man, was dep.-gov. 13 years, and gov. 10. In 1664, he was made maj.-gen.; and in that year the king sent four commissioners to regulate the affairs of the province, ordering Bellingham and others, who were obnoxious, to proceed to Eng., and answer the accusations against them in person; but the Gen. Court, by the advice of the ministers, refused compliance, and maintained the charter rights. His Majesty, however, was appeased by the present of a shipload of masts. He was violently opposed to innovation in religious matters, and was exceedingly severe towards the Quakers, who affirm that he died distracted. This is rendered probable from the fact, that he suffered at times from temporary aberration of intellect. His sister Anne, widow of Wm. Hibbens, an assist., was executed as a witch in June, 1656. His will provided, that after the decease of his wife, and of his son by a former wife, and his granddaughter, the bulk of his estate should be spent for the yearly maintenance "of goodly ministers and preachers" of the true church, which he considered to be that of the Congregationalists.

Bellomont, Richard Coote, Earl, a popular colonial gov., b. 1636; d. N.Y., Mar. 5, 1701. His father, Richard, was raised to the peerage for services in restoring Charles II. Richard was the first of his three sons; was in parliament in 1688, and in several succeeding ones; but in that held by James II. at Dublin, in 1689, he was attainted, having been one of the first who went over to the Prince of Orange. He received his appointment early in May, 1695, but did not arrive in N.Y., a place then remarkably infected with the two dangerous diseases of an unlawful trade and practice of piracy, until April, 1698. He reached Boston, May 26, 1699. He succeeded, by affability and condescension, in ingratiating himself with the people; wisely avoided all controversies with the legisl., and thus obtained a larger sum as a salary and as a gratuity than any of his predecessors or successors. He did much to suppress piracy, and sent the notorious Capt. Kidd to England for trial, the law here being insufficient to execute criminals guilty of piracy. Soon after the May session of the General Court in 1700, he returned to N.Y., where he died.

Bellows, Henry Whitney, D.D. (H.U. 1854), pastor of All Souls' Church, N.Y., b. Boston, Mass., June 11, 1814. H.U. 1832; Camb. Divinity School, 1837. Ord. pastor of the First Cong. Church (All Souls'), New York, Jan. 2, 1838. He was the principal originator of the Christian Inquirer, a Unitarian newspaper of N.Y. in 1846, and its chief contrib. until the summer of 1850. He is a ready extempore speaker, and a popular lecturer, and has spoken and pub. much upon the prominent topics of the day, especially those of a social and philanthropic character. He was a contrib. to the Christian Examiner. In 1857, he delivered a course of lectures on "The Treatment of Social Diseases," before the Lowell Institute, Boston, and before the Dramatic Fund Society of N.Y. an address since pub., entitled "The Relation of Public Amusements to Public Morality, especially of the Theatre to the Highest Interests of Humanity," N.Y., 1857. In 1860, Dr. B. pub. in N.Y. "Re-statements of Christian Doctrine in 25 Sermons," and has since pub. "The Old World in its New Face" During the war for the Union, Dr. Bellows held the important post of head of the U.S. sanitary commission. In 1864, he supplied for a time the pulpit of his deceased friend Starr King, in San Francisco. — Duyckinck.

Belmont, Rev. Francis Vachon de; d. Montreal, 1732. Of a disting. family in Burgundy, and highly educated, he abandoned brilliant prospects at home to become a missionary in Canada. In 1680, he took charge of the school connected with the Iroquois Mission at Montreal, and at his own cost built a church there, of which he became pastor in 1681. From 1701 to his d., he was superior of the Seminary of Montreal. Author of a "Histoire du Canada," printed in the Colls. of the Quebec Lit. and Hist. Soc. — O'Callaghan.

Belton, Francis S., col. U.S.A., b. Md.; d. Brooklyn, N.Y., Sept. 10, 1861. App. 2d lieut. light dragoons, March 27, 1812; paymaster, June 22, 1813; aide-de-camp to Gen. Gaines, and disting. in defence of Fort Erie; assist.-adj.-gen. Oct. 18, 1814; assist.-insp.-gen. May, 1816; capt. 4th Inf. July, 1817; major 4th Art. Sept. 16, 1838; lieut.-col. 3d Art. Oct. 13, 1845; com. his regt. in the Valley of Mexico; brev. col. for gallant conduct in battles of Contreras and Churubusco, Aug. 20, 1847, and disting. in the capture of the city of Mexico; col. 4th Art. June 10, 1857; retired in Aug. 1861. — Army Dict.

Benavides (bā-nä-vee'-dēs), Alonso de, Franciscan friar, author of a memoir addressed to the King of Spain in 1630, concerning the temporal and spiritual affairs of New Mexico, the character of the country, and the nations inhabiting it, pub. Madrid, 4to, 53 leaves. When, in 1621, the religious establishment was erected by the provincial chapter into a Custodia, Benavides was elected custodian. So successful was his administration, that, in 1627, the viceroy ordered him to report thereon in person to the king. The result was the above memoir. — Duyckinck.

Benedict, David, D.D., b. Oct. 16, 1778. Settled in the ministry in early life; pub., in 1813, "Gen. Hist. of the Baptist Denom. in America and Other Parts of the World," 2 vols., 8vo, new and enlarged ed., N.Y. 1838; "History of All Religions," 12mo, 1824; "Poem de livered in Taunton," 6 Sept. 1807; "Fifty Years among the Baptists," 1860. He preached, Oct. 16, 1870, at the age of 92, at Pawtucket, R. I. where he died, Dec. 5, 1874.

Digitized by Google

Benedict, ERASTUS CORNELIUS, LL.D. (Rutg. Coll. 1865), author, b. Branford, Ct., Mar. 19, 1800. Wms. Coll. 1821. Son of Rev. Joel. T. He taught school; was adm. to the bar in 1824; became a trustee of schools in New York in 1842; a member of the Board of Education in 1850, and pres. for several years, resigning in 1863. Since 1855, a regent of the U. of N.Y. Member of the city council in 1840, and of the legisl. in 1848 and 1864. Author of "American Admiralty," 1850; "A Run through Europe," 1860; "The Hymn of Hildebert, and other Mediæval Hymns," 1868, and many pamphlets, reviews, and addresses, including "The Beginning of America," an anniversary discourse before the N.Y. Hist. Soc. in 1863. Member N. Y. senate 1872–3.

Benedict, LEWIS, brev. brig.-gen. U. S. vols., b. Albany, N.Y., Sept. 2, 1817; killed at the battle of Pleasant Hill, La., Apr. 9, 1864. Wms. Coll. 1837 Adm. to the Albany bar in 1841; was city atty. in 1845–6; judge advocate, 1847; surrogate of Albany, 1848–52; member N.Y. assembly, 1860. Made lieut.-col. 73d N.Y. vols. June, 1861; served in the peninsular campaign, and was captured at Williamsburg, Va. After several months' confinement in Libby and Salisbury Prisons, he was exchanged; col. 162d N.Y. in Sept. 1862, and ordered to the Gulf, where he became acting brig.-gen. His bravery was conspicuous in the assault on Port Hudson, June 14, 1863, where he gained his brevet, and in the Red River campaign at Pleasant Grove, Apr. 8, and at Pleasant Hill, Apr. 9, where he com. the 3d brig., 1st div., 19th corps, and where he fell, while bravely leading a charge on the enemy.

Benet, STEPHEN V., maj. U.S.A., b. Fla. West Point, 1849. Entering the ordnance dept., he was instructor in ordnance and gunnery at West Point, 1861–4; brev. maj. and lieut.-col. 13 Mar. 1865, and maj. ordnance 22 Dec. 1866. Translator from the French of Jomini of "Campaign of Waterloo," 1853; author of "Military Law and Courts-Martial," 1862. — Cullum.

Benezet, ANTHONY, philanthropist, b. St. Quentin, France, Jan. 31, 1713; d. Phila., May 3, 1784. His parents, who were Huguenots, were driven from France; spent some years in London, where they became Quakers, and came to Phila. in Nov. 1731. Apprenticed to a merchant, he found that trade excited too worldly a spirit, and articled himself to a cooper, but in 1742 began to teach in the Trinity School, continuing to teach nearly all his life. His simplicity and benevolence made him the idol of the poor. During the Revol., and the occupation of Phila. by the British troops, he was indefatigable in alleviating the sufferings of prisoners. His writings were composed chiefly with the view of inculcating the peaceful doctrines of the gospel in opposition to the spirit of war, to expose the flagrant injustice of slavery, and to fix the stamp of infamy on the traffic in human blood. He was the author of "A Caution to Great Britain and her Colonies, in a Short Representation of the Calamitous State of the Enslaved Negroes in the British Dominions," 8vo, 1767; "Some Historical Account of Guinea, with an Inquiry into the Rise and Progress of the Slave Trade," 1772; "Observations on the Indian Natives of this Continent," 1784; "A Short Account of the Society of Friends," 1780; "Dissertation on the Christian Religion," 1782, and tracts against the use of ardent spirits. In 1783, he addressed a letter to the Queen of England, on the subject of the slave-trade, soliciting her influence on the side of humanity. By his will, he left his estate, after the decease of his wife, to the African school, in which he taught the last two years of his life. There is a full and interesting memoir by Roberts Vaux, 12mo, N.Y., 1817.

Benham, HENRY W., brev. maj.-gen. U.S. A., b. Cheshire, Ct., ab. 1816. West Point, 1837, first in his class. App. 1st lieut. engineers in July, 1838; wounded at Buena Vista, Mexico, and brev. capt. 24 May, 1848; assist. U.S. coast survey, Mar. 1853, and superintended the construction of fortifications around N.Y. City; brev. col. 13 July, 1861, for Carricks Ford; brig.-gen. vols. 13 Aug. 1861, and disting. at Rich Mountain and Cheat Mountain Pass; at capture of Fort Pulaski, 11 Apr. 1862; com. in attack on Secessionville, S.C., 16 June, 1862; com. engineer brigade, Army of the Potomac in 1863–4; maj. of engineers, 6 Aug. 1861; lieut.-col. 3 Mar. 1863; col. 7 Mar. 1867; brev. brig.-gen. 13 Mar. 1865, for the campaign ending in Lee's surrender, and brev. maj.-gen. for gallant services in the Rebellion. Engaged in the construction of harbor and coast defences of Boston, 1865–7. — Cullum.

Benjamin, JUDAH PETER, lawyer and politician, b. in St. Domingo, of Jewish parents, in 1812. In 1816, the family emigrated to Savannah, Ga. The son entered Y. C., but left, without graduating, in 1827. He began to study law in N. Orleans in 1831, was clerk to a notary, taught school, and afterward m. Miss St. Martin, one of his pupils. Adm. to the bar in 1834, he was soon its leader in N. Orleans. A Whig in politics, he was in 1845 a member of the State Const. Conv. U.S. senator in 1853–61, he attained pre-eminence in the southern wing of the Democ. party. He had a sharp controversy with Jefferson Davis; but a duel was prevented by an apology from the latter. He advocated the Kansas-Nebraska Bill in 1854, but subsequently insisted that the principle of popular sovereignty was set aside by the Dred Scott decision. Withdrawing from the senate Feb. 4, 1861, he was immediately app. atty.-gen. in the southern confederacy. In Aug. 1861, he became acting sec. of war, and was sec. from Nov. 10 till after the capture of Roanoke Island, Feb. 7, 1862, which caused his resignation; and he was app. sec. of State, to succeed R. M. T. Hunter. Mr. Benjamin was largely interested in the Tehuantepec Railroad speculation, and a participant in the so-called Houmas land-grant. He is at present (1871) a member of the London bar.

Benjamin, PARK, poet and journalist, b

Digitized by Google

Demerara, Aug. 14, 1809; d. N. Y. City, 12 Sept. 1864. Trin. Coll., Hartford, 1829. His father, a N. Englander of Welsh descent, resided as a merchant at Demerara. An illness in his youth, improperly treated, caused him a permanent lameness; and he was sent to his father's home in N. E., for medical advice, and to be educated. He studied two years at H.U., began to practise law in Boston in 1832, and was one of the original editors of the New-England Mag. In 1836, he removed to N. Y.; edited, in connection with C. F. Hoffman, the American Monthly Mag., and subsequently the New-Yorker, with Horace Greeley. He was engaged Jan. 1840, in connection with Epes Sargent and R. W. Griswold, as editor of the New World, a cheap weekly periodical. 5 years after, he sold his interest in this journal, and was afterward a lecturer both in prose and verse. His poems have never been collected.

Benner, PHILIP, pioneer iron manufacturer of the West, b. Chester Co., Pa., 1763; d. 29 July, 1832. He served in the Revol. army under his relative, Gen. Wayne. In 1792, he erected a forge in Spring township, Centre Co., and by so doing assisted in developing the mineral wealth of that district. The borough of Bellefonte was greatly indebted to his enterprise and liberality. He was a maj.-gen. of militia.

Bennett, CALEB P., gov. of Del., and last surviving officer of the Del. regt. in the Revol. army; d. Wilmington, Del., May 7, 1836, a. 78. He held the rank of maj., and was engaged in the battles of Brandywine, Germantown, and Monmouth. Gov. from 1833 to his death.

Bennet, DAVID, physician, b. Eng., Dec. 1, 1615; d. Rowley, Ms., Feb. 4, 1719. He possessed his teeth and his senses to the age of 103. His wife was Rebecca, dau. of Roger Spencer, and sister of the wife of Sir Wm. Phips; and his son Spencer took that name, and was lieut.-gov. of Ms.

Bennett, JAMES GORDON, founder and proprietor of the N. Y. Herald, b. Sep. 1, 1795 at New Mill Keith, in Banffshire, Scotland. He went to a Roman-Catholic sem. at Aberdeen, intending to take orders in that church; but, acting under a sudden impulse, he embarked for Amer. in Apr. 1819, and, arriving in Halifax, kept school for a living. Coming to Boston in the autumn of 1819, he became proof-reader in the pub.-house of Wells and Lilly, and wrote several poetical pieces. In 1822, he went to New York, connected himself with various papers, and became a warm partisan of the Democ. party in the columns of the New-York Courier, the National Advocate, the Inquirer, Courier and Inquirer, New-York Globe, Pennsylvanian, at Phila., and in May, 1835, issued the first number of the New-York Herald, with which journal his name has since been identified. — See Memoirs of J. G. Bennett and his Times, N. Y., 1855; d. June 1, 1872.

Bennett, MILO LYMAN, LL. D. (D. C. 1851), jurist, b. Sharon, Ct., 1790; d. Taunton, Ms., 7 July, 1868. Yale, 1811. Litchf. Law School. Practised law in Burlington, Vt.; Judge Vt. Sup. Court, 1839–59. Author of "Vermont Justice," and other legal text-books.

Benson, EGBERT, LL.D., statesman and jurist, b. N. Y. City, 21 June, 1746; d. Jamaica, L.I., Aug. 24, 1833. Col. Coll. 1765. He was a member of the Revol. committee of safety; was a proficient in the science of pleading; held a high rank in jurisprudence; was in 1777 app. first att.-gen. of the State; was also a member of the first State legisl. of 1777; one of the three commissioners to superintend the embarkation of the Tories for Nova Scotia in June, 1783; delegate to the Old Congress in 1784–8; M. C. 1789–93 and 1813–15; regent of the N. Y. U. in 1789–1802; judge of the Supreme Court of N. Y. 1794–1801, and of the U. S. Circuit Court. He received literary honors from H. U. in 1808, and from Dartm. Coll. in 1811. First pres. of the N.Y. Hist. Society; author of a "Vindication of the Captors of Maj. André," pub. 8vo, N. Y., 1817, "Memoir on Dutch Names of Places," 1835.

Bentley, GIDEON, a Revol. soldier of remarkable longevity, b. 1751; d. Constantia, Oswego Co., N. Y., Jan. 1858.

Bentley, WILLIAM, D.D., minister, politician, and scholar, b. Boston, June 22, 1759; d. Salem, Dec. 29, 1819. H. U. 1777, and afterwards tutor there. Ord. over the Second Church in Salem, Sept. 24, 1783. For ab. 20 years, he edited the Essex Register, a Democ. print. His knowledge was uncommonly extensive and various. His theological discourses were marked by a good deal of freedom and oirginality, indicating Unitarian sentiments. His valuable library and cabinet he bequeathed to the coll. at Meadville, Pa., and to the Amer. Antiquarian Society at Worcester. Besides sermons, he pub. a collection of psalms and hymns, three Masonic addresses, and a Masonic charge, and a hist. of Salem, in Hist. Colls., vol. vi.

Benton, THOMAS HART, statesman, b. near Hillsborough, N.C., March 14, 1782; d. Washington, April 10, 1858. He studied some time at a grammar school, and afterwards at Chapel Hill U., but, before finishing his studies, removed to Tenn. He studied law, soon attained eminence in the profession, and served one term in the legisl., where he procured the passage of laws reforming the judicial system, and giving to slaves the benefit of a jury trial. He became aide-de-camp to Gen. Jackson, with whom he contracted a close intimacy, which was suddenly terminated by an affray with pistols and daggers, in which severe wounds were given and received, and which estranged them many years. He was col. of a Tenn. regt. from Dec. 1812 to April, 1813, and lieut.-col. 39th Inf. from 1813 to 1815. Removing in 1813 to St. Louis, he established the Missouri Inquirer, also practising law, and took a vigorous part in favor of the admission of Mo., notwithstanding her slavery constitution. He was rewarded by a seat in the U. S. senate, which he held for 30 years. In this body, his energy, iron will, industry, and self-reliance placed him in the front rank. He opposed the administration of Mr. Adams, but strongly supported those of Jackson and Van Buren. Upon the U. S. Bank question, he made several elaborate speeches; and his opinions in favor of a specie currency procured for him the sobriquet of "Old Bullion." He was peculiarly the exponent and guardian of the interests of the West, and, by persistent effort, succeeded in liberalizing the policy of government in relation to the sale of public lands. The price was reduced to $1.25 per acre; and in time other important changes, including a homestead law, were secured. He also procured the repeal of the tax on salt, and succeeded in throwing open for sale and occupation the saline and mineral lands in the hands of the General Govt., hitherto withheld. He was the early and untiring advocate of a railroad to the Pacific, did much to open up and protect the trade with New Mexico, to establish military stations on the Missouri, to cultivate amicable relations with the Indians, and promote the commerce of our inland seas. He moved the expunging of the resolution of censure upon Gen. Jackson, and successfully carried his point. He opposed the boundary line of 54° 40′, and caused the adoption of that of 49°. He supported the Mexican war, opposed the Compromise Measures of 1850, thinking the fugitive-slave law clause defective and ill-judged; warmly opposed nullification, and, in 1850, was defeated for the senate by the ultra slavery men of his party. To break up the ascendency of this party, Col. Benton, in 1852, announced himself a candidate for Congress, and was elected. Against the repeal of the Mo. Compromise, he exerted all his strength, delivering a memorable speech in the house, that did much to excite the country against the act. He was defeated in 1854 by a combination of his old opponents with the new Amer. party, and stumped the State for gov. in 1856, but failed of an election. In the presidential election of that year, he supported Buchanan in opposition to his son-in-law Fremont. He then devoted himself to literary pursuits. His "Thirty Years' View" was finished in 1854. He also pub. an abridgment of the debates of Congress from the foundation of the government to 1856, and a review of the Dred Scott case. Col. B. was m. to Elizabeth, dau. of Col. James McDowell of Rockbridge Co., Va.

Digitized by Google

Berckel, PETER I. VAN, of Rotterdam, minister from Holland to the U. S.; d. Newark, N.J., Dec. 17, 1800, a. 76.

Berkeley, GEORGE, Bishop of Cloyne, b. Kilerin, Ireland, 12 Mar. 1684; d. Oxford, Eng., 14 Jan. 1753. Trin. Coll., Dublin, Fellow, in 1707. He had disting. himself by his "Theory of Vision" (1709) and other philosophical writings, when, in 1724, he was made Dean of Derry. In 1725, he pub. "A Proposal for Converting the Aborigines of America," received from George I. a charter for a coll., and, embarking for America, arrived at Newport, R.I., 23 Jan. 1729. Finding at length that his scheme was impracticable, he reluctantly took his departure in Sept. 1731, and, in 1733, was made Bishop of Cloyne. He gave his house, and a farm of 100 acres, as a benefaction to Yale and Harvard Colleges, and gave to one of those colleges, and to several missionaries, books to the value of £500. In his "Minute Philosopher," Berkeley attacks free-thinkers with great ingenuity and effect.

Berkeley, SIR WILLIAM, royal gov. of Va., 1641–77, b. near London, ab. 1610; d. Twickenham, July 13, 1677. Son of Sir Maurice, and bro. of Lord John Berkeley of Stratton. He grad. M. A. at Oxford in 1629, travelled extensively in Europe in 1630, and returned an accomplished cavalier and courtier. In 1641, he was app. gov. of Va., arrived in Feb. 1642, and by some salutary measures, as well as by his prepossessing manners, soon rendered himself acceptable to the people. During the civil war in England, Berkeley took the royal side; and Va. was the last of the possessions of England which acknowledged the authority of Cromwell. He manifested shrewdness as well as courage when the fleet of parliament appeared in the James River in 1751, and made terms satisfactory to both parties. Upon the death of "worthy Samuel Mathews," in 1659, Berkeley was elected to succeed him by the people. He remained for a long time at the head of affairs, and only lost popularity by his extreme severity toward the followers of Nathaniel Bacon, to whose rebellion his own faithlessness and obstinacy had given occasion. Many were put to death, and he was only restrained by the remonstrance of the Assembly. Charles II. is reported to have said, "The old fool has taken more lives in his naked country than I have taken for my father's murder." Through the influence of the planters, he was recalled, and d. before he could have an interview with the king. In his reply to commissioners sent to inquire into the condition of the colony, Berkeley said, "Thank God! there are no free schools nor printing-presses; and I hope there will be none for a hundred years; for learning has brought disobedience and heresy and sects into the world, and printing has divulged these and other libels." He wrote two plays, and is the author of "A Description of Virginia," folio, 1663.

Berkenhout, JOHN, naturalist, b. Leeds, 1730; d. April 3, 1791, at Beffelsleigh, near Oxford. M. D. of the U. of Leyden, 1765. In 1778, he was sent by the British Govt. with the commissioners to America, and was for some time imprisoned at Phila., on suspicion of having been sent as a spy by Lord North, and of improper intrigues with the members of Congress at Phila. He was rewarded, on his arrival in England, with a pension. He wrote some botanical and other works.

Bernard, SIR FRANCIS, gov. of Ms., and benefactor of Harvard Coll., b. Nettleham Lincoln Co., Eng., 1714; d. June 16, 1779. Educated at Oxford, where he took his degree in 1736. He was a solicitor at Doctor's Commons when made gov. of N.J. in 1758. He succeeded Pownall as gov., arriving Aug. 3, 1760. The Stamp Act and other arbitrary measures aroused the hostility of the Colonies, not only to the crown, but to its local representatives. Bernard had no talent for conciliation, and attempted to crush the spirit of freedom by causing troops to be sent to Boston. The attempt to obtain an alteration in the charter, transferring the right of electing the council from the general court to the crown, though it brought upon him the indignation of the people, was so pleasing to the ministry, that, on his recall in 1769, he was created a baronet. One of his last public measures was the proroguing of the general court in consequence of its refusal to make provision for the support of the British troops in Boston. He was a friend of literature, and gave a part of his library to Harv. Coll. The collection printed at Cambridge in 1761, "Pietas et Gratulatis," contains several elegiac pieces by him in Greek and Latin. In 1752, he pub. the Latin Odes of Anthony Alsop. His select letters on the trade and govt. of America, written in Boston in 1763–8, were pub. Lond., 1774. His other letters, written home in confidence, were pub. in 1768–9.

Digitized by Google

Bernard, JOHN, actor, b. Portsmouth, Eng., 1756; d. London, Nov. 29, 1829. His first appearance was at Bristol in 1774. He was a popular comedian at the Covent Garden Theatre, where he first app. as Archer in the "Beaux' Stratagem" in 1787, and succeeded Edwin in many of his parts. After being actor and manager in various theatres, he embarked for America, where he made his début as Goldfinch in "Road to Ruin" at the Greenwich-st. Theatre, N.Y., June 4, 1797; was manager and lessee of the Boston Theatre in 1806, and remained in the U. S., as actor, and manager of various theatres, about 20 years. He took final leave of the stage at Boston in 1820, in his favorite character "Lord Ogleby," returned to Eng. with his family, and died there in poverty. In his later years, he prepared his "Retrospections of the Stage," an amusing production pub. in 1830, in which he was aided by his son William Bayle Bernard, a disting. dramatist, b. Boston, Jan. 1, 1808.

Bernard, GEN. SIMON, engineer, b. Dole, France, Apr. 28, 1779; d. Paris, Nov. 5, 1839. Educated at the Polytechnic School under La Place, Hauy, and others, he became one of the most disting. engineers and aides-de-camp of Napoleon. When a col., he was employed in fortifying Antwerp, and had his leg shattered in the retreat of the grand army from Leipsic. Lieut.-gen. of engineers under Napoleon, and was assist. eng., rank of brig.-gen. U.S.A., from Nov. 16, 1816, until he resigned, Aug. 10, 1831. In 1824, he was made chief eng. of the army. Among the many admirable works executed by him in this country is Fortress Monroe at the mouth of James River, Va. Returning to France, he became aide to Louis Philippe, lieut.-gen. of engineers, and was minister of war in 1834, and 1836–7.

Berrian, WILLIAM, D.D. (Col. Coll. 1828), rector of Trinity Church, N.Y. City, 1830–62; d. 7 Nov. 1862. Col. Coll. 1808. Ord. deacon, 1810; became assist. min. of Trinity Parish in 1811. He pub. "Travels in France and Italy in 1817–18," 8vo, 1820; "Devotions for the Sick-Room," "Enter thy Closet," "Family and Private Prayers," "On the Communion," "Sailor's Manual," "Historical Sketch of Trinity Church, N.Y.," 8vo, 1847; "Recollections of Departed Friends," 12mo, 1853. Edited, with memoir, "Works of Bishop Hobart," 3 vols., 8vo, 1833.

Berrien, JOHN MACPHERSON, LL.D. statesman, b. N.J., Aug. 23, 1781; d. Savannah, Ga., Jan. 1, 1856. N. J. Coll. 1796. Son of Maj. John Berrien by a dau. of Capt. John Macpherson of the provincial navy. Adm. to practise at the Ga. bar at the age of 18, he attained a high reputation as a lawyer. He was solicitor of the eastern district of Ga. in 1809; judge from 1810 to 1821; State senator in 1822–3; U. S. senator, 1825–9 and 1840–52; attorney-gen. of the U. S. 1829–31; judge of the Supreme Court of Ga. 1845. He was one of the most gifted orators and able statesmen in the U. S. senate. Few contemporary statesmen left a fame so free from reproach. During the War of 1812, he com. a regt. of vol. cav. He was one of the board of regents of the Smithsonian Inst.

Berry, HIRAM GEORGE, maj.-gen. vols., b. Thomaston, Me., Aug. 27, 1824; killed in the battle of Chancellorsville, Va., May 3, 1863. He worked some years as a carpenter, was afterward successfully engaged in navigation, served in the State legisl., and was mayor of Rockland. Col. 4th Me. vols. June 4, 1861, he was in the battle of Bull Run, and took part in the siege of Yorktown. Made brig.-gen. Mar. 17, 1862, he took charge of the 3d brigade, 3 div., of Heintzelman's (3d) army corps, taking part in the battles of Williamsburg, Fair Oaks, and the peninsular campaign, June 25 to July 1, 1862. Under Kearney, he participated in the second Bull Run battle, and in that of Chantilly, where Kearney was killed Sept. 1. At the battle of Fredericksburg, Dec. 13, 1862, Berry's brigade especially disting. itself, and was complimented by Gen. Birney. Made maj.-gen. Mar. 9, 1863, dating from Nov. 29, 1862, he was placed in com. of the 2d division of the 3d (Sickles's) army corps, at the head of which he fell in the gallant repulse of the army of Gen. Lee near Chancellorsville.

Berthier (bĕr'-tē'-ā'), LOUIS ALEXANDER, prince of Neufchâtel, and one of Napoleon's marshals, b. Versailles, Nov. 20, 1753; killed June 1, 1815, at Bamberg, Bavaria. He entered the army in 1766; was a capt. of dragoons in 1777, and, with his brother Cæsar, served in America on Rochambeau's staff in 1780–83. He became gen. of division in 1795, was chief of Bonaparte's staff in Italy and in Egypt; became minister of war in 1799, marshal in 1804, prince of Neufchâtel in 1806, and of Wagram in 1809, maj.-gen. of the grand army in the Russian campaign in 1812, of Saxony in 1813, and of France in 1814. At the restoration of Louis 18th, he was made a peer of France, but, on the return of Napoleon, withdrew to Bamberg, where he was killed by 6 men in masks who threw him out of one of the windows of his father-in-law's palace.

Bethisy (bā'-té-zé), JULES JACQUES ELEONORE, VICOMTE DE, a French gen., b. 1747; d. Paris, in consequence of his wounds, at the close of 1816. He entered the navy in 1764; passed into the regt. of Royal Auvergne, in which he became 2d col., and served with this corps through the American campaigns of 1779–82. He was under D'Estaing at Savannah, where he received 5 severe wounds, and, while returning home, received 2 more in a sea-fight. He emigrated during the French Revol.; made all the campaigns of the army of Condé, and was created lieut.-gen. Jan. 1, 1814.

Digitized by Google

Bethune, GEORGE WASHINGTON, D.D., clergyman and author, son of Divie, b. N.Y. City, Mar. 1805; d. Florence, Italy, April 28, 1862. Dick. Coll. 1822; Princeton Theol. Sem. 1825. Entering the Presb. ministry in 1826, in 1827 he passed to that of the Dutch Ref. He settled first at Rhinebeck on the Hudson, then in Utica, in Phila. in 1834, and, in 1849–59, over a large and influential congregation in Brooklyn, N.Y. In 1859–60, he preached a while in the Amer. Chapel at Rome, then became asso. pastor of a church in N.Y., but was forced by ill health to return to Italy. He is the author of "Fruit of the Spirit," "Early Lost," "Early Saved," "History of a Penitent," a vol. of "Lays of Love and Faith, and other Poems," 1847; "The British Female Poets," 8vo, 1848; "Commentary on the 130th Psalm," 12mo, 1847; "A Word to the Afflicted;" "Expository Lectures on the Heidelberg Catechism," 1864, and of a collection of orations, discourses, and sermons, 8vo, 1846. He was a wit, as well as a scholar, and edited, in 1847, "Walton's Complete Angler," being himself an enthusiastic fisherman. He was a sound and learned divine, an eloquent preacher, and an orator of excellent fancy and pleasant humor. A Memoir, by A. R. Van Nest, D.D., was pub. 1867.

Betts, SAMUEL ROSSITER, LL.D., jurist, b. Richmond, Ms., June 8, 1787; d. N. Haven, Ct., Nov. 2, 1868. Williams Coll. 1806. He studied law, and began practice in Sullivan Co., N.Y.; was judge-advocate in the army during the War of 1812; M.C. in 1815–17; some years dist.-atty. of Orange Co., and from 1823 to 1867 was judge of the U.S. Dist. Court. To him belongs the high honor of having shaped and settled in a great degree the maritime laws of the U.S. He ranks among the ablest of Amer. jurists. Author of "Admiralty Practice in the Courts of the U.S. for the Southern Dist. of N.Y.," 8vo, 1838.

Betts, THADDEUS, a disting. lawyer, at one time lieut.-gov. of Ct., and a U.S. senator at the time of his d. at Washington, D.C., 7 Apr. 1840, b. Norwalk, Ct. Y. C. 1807.

Beveridge, JOHN, poet, b. Scotland. He had been a schoolmaster in Edinburgh, having among his pupils the blind poet Blacklock. In 1752, he came to N.E., where he remained 5 years, and became intimate with Dr. Mayhew and other leading men. In 1758, he was app. prof. of languages in the coll. and acad. of Phila. Alex. Graydon, one of his scholars, notices him in his memoirs, and shows him to have been a poor disciplinarian. In 1765, he pub. a collection of Latin poems, "Epistolæ Familiares et Alia Quædam Miscellanea." — Duyckinck.

Beverley, ROBERT, historian, b. Va.; d. there 1716. His father, Maj. Robert, clerk of the council of Va., d. 1687. Beverley's "Hist. of Virginia" was first pub. in 1705; another edition, with Gribelin's cuts, in 1722, and one with an Introduction by C. Campbell, in '855.

Biard (bē'-är'), PETER, b. Grenoble, France, 1565; d. France, 1622. He was a Jesuit missionary, was for a time at Port Royal, and subsequently at Mt. Desert, Me., where his projected missionary colony was crushed by Argal, and wrote a "Relation de la Nouvelle France," &c. (Lyons, 1616), an account of his labors, and of the English outrage which left one of his co-workers dead on the island, and bore himself and another off as prisoners. This is the first of the valuable series of "Jesuit Relations," of which there are 41 vols. (pub. annually 1632–72). He came to Port Royal in June, 1611. In 1612, he ascended the Kennebec, and was well received by the Indians, from whom the name of the river was derived. In 1613, he visited the settlement of St. Sauveur, on the Penobscot. — Duyckinck.

Bibaud (bē'-bō'), MICHEL, a Canadian author, b. at the Côté des Neiges, near Montreal, Jan. 20, 1782; d. there Aug. 3, 1857. He studied at the Coll. of St. Raphael, and, entering upon the career of literature, labored hard in defence of Canadian nationality and for the conservation of the French language. Besides contributing in turn to the "Aurore des Canadas," the "Bibliothèque Canadienne," the "Magasin du Bas Canada," "Observateur Canadien," and the "Encyclopédie Canadienne," he has written verses of much merit, the first French Hist. of Canada since the conquest, on "Arithmétique Élémentaire," and edited the "Voyage de Franchère," and many other valuable little works. A few months before his death, he was engaged in translating the reports of the geol. commission. His son, F. M. U. M. BIBAUD, LL.D., also an author, b Montreal, Nov. 1824; law prof. at the Jesuits' Coll., Montreal. Among his many publications relating to Canada are, "Discours Historique sur les Races Sauvages de l'Amérique Septentrionale" 1846, "Les Sagamos Illustres de l'Amérique Sept." 1848, "Dictionnaire Historique des Hommes Illustres du Canada et de l'Amérique," 1857, "Tableau Historique des Progrès Matériels et Intellectuels du Canada," 1858, "Panthéon Canadien," 1858, &c. — Morgan.

Bibb, GEORGE M., jurist and senator, b. Va., 1772; d. Georgetown, D.C., Apr. 14, 1859. N.J. Coll. 1792. He studied law, and settled in Ky.; served in the State legisl.; was three times elected chief-justice of the State; was in the State senate two years; chancellor of the Chancery Court of Louisville, and sec. of the U. S. treasury under Pres. Tyler in 1844; U. S. senator, 1811–14 and 1829–35. After leaving the treasury dept., he practised law at Washington, and was an assist. in the atty.-general's office. Author of "Reports of Cases at Common Law and in Chancery in the Ky. Court of Appeals, in 1808–17;" 4 vols., 8vo, Frankfort, Ky., 1815–17.

Bibb, WILLIAM WYATT, terr. gov. of Ala., 1817–19, first gov. of the State, 1819–20, b. Va., 1 Oct. 1780; d. near Ft. Jackson, 9 July, 1820. M.D. of U. of Pa. 1801. Son of Capt. Wm. Bibb. He served in both branches of the Ga. legisl., was M.C. from that State in 1806–13, and U.S. senator, 1813–14. Thos. Bibb succeeded him as gov. in 1820–21.

Biddle, CHARLES JOHN, b. Phila., 1819. N. J. Coll. 1837. Son of Nicholas. Adm. to the bar in 1840; disting. as a capt. of voltigeurs at El Molino and Chapultepec, Mexico, where he won the brev. of maj.; wrote "The Case of Maj. André" in "Memoirs of the Pa. Hist. Soc.," vol. vi. Col. in the Pa. reserve corps, 1861, and M. C. 1862.

Digitized by Google

Biddle, CLEMENT, col. in the Revol. army, b. Phila., May 10, 1740; d. there July 14, 1814. Descended from one of the Quaker settlers and proprietors of Western N. J., he continued in their society until the commencement of the Revol., when he was instrumental in forming the "Quaker" company of vols. raised in Phila. in 1775, of which he was made an officer. In early life, he was engaged in commercial pursuits. He took an active part, as did his bro. Owen, in the early political movements of the patriots of the State; Owen having been one of the framers of the State Constitution in 1776. July 8, 1776, he was app. by Congress deputy quartermaster-gen. of the militia of Pa. and N.J., and participated in the battles of Trenton, Princeton, Brandywine, Germantown, and Monmouth. As commissary-gen. of forage under Gen. Greene, he rendered important services to the army at several critical periods, particularly at Valley Forge, and was actively engaged until Sept. 1780. App. 11 Sept. 1781, quartermaster-gen. of the State. After the Federal Govt. was organized in 1787, Col. Biddle was app. U. S. marshal of Pa. by Washington, his friend and correspondent. — Life of Pres. Reed, vol. ii., p. 465.

Biddle, EDWARD, son of Wm., and bro. of Com. Nicholas, b. 1739; d. Baltimore, 5 Sept. 1779. He was an officer in the French war of 1756–63; became eminent as a lawyer in Reading, Pa.; was a member and speaker of the Assembly, and was a delegate to the first Congress in 1774–5. He was one of the foremost advocates of Independence.

Biddle, HORACE P., lawyer and poet, b. Fairfield Co., O., ab. 1818. The son of an early Ohio pioneer, he studied law, was adm. to the bar at Cincinnati in Apr. 1839, and settled at Logansport, Ind. Pres. judge 8th Judicial Circ. 1846–52; member Ind. Const. Conv. 1850. Elected sup. judge in 1857, but not commissioned. He has made some excellent translations from French and German poets; became a contrib. to the South. Lit. Messenger in 1842, and has since contrib. to the Ladies' Repos., and other periodicals. Collections of his poems have been pub. in 1850, '52, and '58, at Cincinnati. — Poets and Poetry of the West.

Biddle, JAMES, capt. U. S. navy, b. Phila., Feb. 18, 1783; d. there Oct. 1, 1848. Son of Charles, and nephew of Com. Nicholas, he was educated at the U. of Pa.; entered the navy as a midshipman, Feb. 12, 1800. Of 7 bros., John and Thomas served in the regular army in the War of 1812, Richard and Wm. L. served actively in the militia, and Nicholas in the State legisl. James was wrecked in the frigate "Philadelphia" off Tripoli in Oct. 1803, and was a prisoner 19 months; lieut. Feb. 11, 1807. As 1st lieut. of "The Wasp," he led the boarders in the brilliant action with "The Frolic," Oct. 18, 1812. Captured by "The Poictiers," 74, and taken to Bermuda, he was exchanged, Mar. 5, 1813; made master com., and given a flotilla of gunboats on the Delaware. While in com. of "The Hornet," he was blockaded in N. London, but escaped, and March 23, off the island of Tristan d'Acunha, captured the British brig "Penguin," after a sharp action, in which he received a wound in the neck. April 27, he displayed his seamanship in escaping from "The Cornwallis," 74, after a chase of 4 days, during which he threw overboard his guns and equipments to lighten his ship. For his action with "The Penguin," Congress voted Capt. Biddle a gold medal; Phila. presented him a service of plate; and other honors were bestowed upon him. Capt. Feb. 28, 1815. He afterward held special and important commands at various times, in the Pacific, upon the coast of S. America, and in the W. Indies, and the Mediterranean squadron from 1830 to 1832, during which period he was a commissioner to negotiate a treaty with the Ottoman Govt. In 1845, he ratified a treaty with China as a U. S. commissioner; visited Japan in "The Columbus," 74; and subsequently com. the squadron cruising on the W. coast of Mexico during the war. From 1838 to 1842, he had charge of the naval asylum on the Schuylkill.

Biddle, NICHOLAS, a gallant naval officer, bro. of Judge Charles Biddle, b. Phila., Sept. 10, 1750; killed Mar. 7, 1778. Manifesting a partiality for the sea, he had, before the age of 14, made a voyage to Quebec. In a voyage to the West Indies in 1765, he was cast away, and for two months lived on an uninhabited island. In 1770, he went to London, and entered the British navy. While a midshipman, he absconded from his own vessel, and entered on board "The Carcass," before the mast, in the exploring exped. of Capt. Phipps, in which Horatio Nelson also served. Returning to Phila. after the commencement of the Revol., he was app. to com. the brig "Andrea Doria," and sailed under Com. Hopkins in the successful exped. against New Providence. After refitting at New London, he cruised off Newfoundland, and in 1776 captured, among other prizes, two ships from Scotland, with 400 Highland troops. App. to com. the frigate "Randolph," of 32 guns, he sailed from Phila. in Feb. 1777, and soon carried into Charleston 4 valuable prizes. A small fleet was now fitted out under his com., with which he cruised in the West Indies. Mar. 7, 1778, in an action with the British ship "Yarmouth" of 64 guns, Biddle was wounded; and a few minutes afterwards, while he was under the hands of the surgeon, "The Randolph" blew up, and of the entire crew, consisting of 315 men, but 4 escaped.

Biddle, NICHOLAS, LL.D., financier, b. Phila., Jan. 8, 1786; d. there Feb 27, 1844. N. J. Coll. 1801. His ancestors came over with Wm. Penn. His father, Charles, vice-pres of Pa., d. Apr. 4, 1821, a. 76. He was named for his uncle the commodore. In 1804, he went to Paris as sec to Armstrong the American minister, and afterward filled a similar post with Monroe in London. After travelling in Europe, he returned to Phila. in 1807, and practised law. He edited the Portfolio, compiled a commercial digest, and prepared the narrative of Lewis and Clarke's exped. to the Pacific. He was in the State legisl. in 1810–11, disting.

Digitized by Google

himself by his efforts to establish a general system of education, and was a senator in 1814, and an ardent supporter of the war with Eng. His report of a committee of the senate respecting the Hartford Convention was an able State paper. A director of the U. S. Bank in 1819, and pres. from 1823 to 1836, his administration of its affairs demonstrated high ability. In 1836–9, he was pres. of the U. S. Bank of Pa. He was a zealous promoter of public improvements and beneficent institutions. During the suspension of the payment of interest on the debt of Pa., he pub. a series of essays with suggestions for its liquidation, some of which were adopted by the legisl. He was pres. of the Agric. and Hort. Societies, and of the trustees of the U. of Pa. and of Girard Coll. The Bank of the U. S. and Girard Coll., Phila., evince his taste in architecture. A polished and effective speaker, he delivered an eulogium on Jefferson before the Philos. Society, and an address on the Duties of the American, before the alumni of Princeton Coll. He was a model man of business, a vigorous writer, and an accomplished scholar. — See Memoir, by R. T. Conrad, in Amer. Port. Gallery.

Biddle, RICHARD, lawyer and author, bro. of Nicholas, b. Phila., 25 Mar. 1796; d. Pittsburg, Pa., 6 July, 1847. During the War of 1812, he served for the protection of Phila. He became a leader of the Pittsburg bar; visited Eng. in 1827–30; occupied in historical investigations; resumed practice on his return, and was M. C. in 1837–41. While in Eng., he pub. an exposé of Capt. Basil Hall's "Travels in America." His "Life of Sebastian Cabot" (1831) brought to light new and important facts in the discovery of America.

Biddle, MAJ. THOMAS, U. S. A., son of Charles, b. Phila., Nov. 21, 1790; d. St. Louis, Aug. 29, 1831. App. capt. of art. July 6, 1812; disting. at Fort George and at Stony Creek; com. the art. at the reduction of Fort Erie; was severely wounded in the subsequent defence of that place, and brev. maj. Aug. 15, 1814; com. a light battery at the battle of Niagara, July 25, 1814, particularly disting. himself by bringing off the field the only piece of the enemy's artillery retained by the Americans as a trophy of that hard-fought battle, and again wounded. Aide-de-camp to Gen. Izard, Dec. 1814, and paymaster, 1820. He was killed in a duel with Spencer Pettis, the distance, in consequence of the defective eyesight of Maj. Biddle, being 5 feet; and both were mortally wounded at the first fire.

Bidwell, DANIEL D., brig.-gen. U.S. vols., b. Buffalo, N.Y., ab. 1816; killed at Cedar Creek, Va., Oct. 19, 1864. He resigned the office of police justice in Buffalo to enter the 65th regt. as a private, and, in Sept. 1861, became col. 49th regt. and, during the Seven-Days' battles, com. a brigade, but, after the battle of Antietam, resumed com. of his regt. He was at Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville; com. a brigade at Gettysburg; and in all the battles near Petersburg and in the Shenandoah Valley, and was made brig.-gen. in July, 1864.

Biedma (bē-ād'-mä), LUIS HERNANDEZ DE, a Spanish officer in the army of Hernando de Soto in the exped. for the conquest of Fla. in 1538; wrote a "Relacion de la Isla de la Florida," printed, in 1857, in the Colleccion de Varios Documentos para la Historia de la Florida." London, folio, pp. 208, with notes by Juan Baptista Munoz. — Duyckinck.

Bienville (beän'-vēl), JEAN BAPTISTE LEMOINE, SIEUR DE, colonial gov. of La., b. Montreal, Feb. 23, 1680; d. France, 1768. Son of Charles, he entered the French naval service, with his bro. Iberville, serving under him in 7 voyages. He was severely wounded in a conflict off the coast of N. E., between the French ship "Pelican," 42, Capt. Iberville, and three English men-of-war, in which "The Pelican" was victorious. When Iberville in 1698 founded a colony at the mouth of the Mpi., he took with him his two brothers, Sanvolle and Bienville. The latter explored the country around the first settlement at Biloxi, Dec. 7, 1699. Sanvolle was made gov. of La.; and Jan. 17, 1700, Bienville assisted in constructing a fort 54 miles above the mouth of the river, where he afterwards com. On Sanvolle's death, July 22, 1701, Bienville took the direction of the colony, whose principal seat was now transferred to Mobile. May 17, 1713, Bienville was superseded by Lamotte Cadillac; and Bienville was made lieut.-gov. De l'Epinay superseded Cadillac, Mar. 9, 1717; and Bienville received the Cross of St. Louis. He succeeded De l'Epinay as gov. March 9, 1718, planted the city of N. Orleans, and, May 14, took Pensacola from the Spaniards, placing his brother Chateauguay in command. In 1723, he transferred the seat of government to N. O. Jan. 16, 1724, he was ordered to France to answer charges that had been brought against him, and was removed from office, 9 Aug. 1726. Before leaving the colony, in March, he pub. his Black Code, relating chiefly to slaves, which remained in force till after the transfer of La. to the U. S. In 1733, Bienville was re-app. gov., and raised to the rank of lieut.-gen. In 1736, and again in 1739, he led expeds. against the Chickasaws. Bienville was soon after superseded, and May 10, 1743, departed for France, where he passed the rest of his life.

Bierstadt, ALBERT, landscape-painter, b. Dusseldorf, 1829. In 1831, his parents brought him to New Bedford, where he received his school education, and first developed his artistic powers by clever sketches in crayon. In 1853–7, he visited Europe, where he painted his "Sunshine and Shadow," which brought him into notice. Accompanying Gen. Lander's exploring exped. in 1858, he produced his great pictures, "The Rocky Mountains, Lander's Peak," "Storm in the Rocky Mountains," "The Domes of the Yosemite," "Laramie Peak," "Valley of the Yosemite," "Emigrants crossing the Plains," &c. He visited Europe again in June, 1867, to make studies for a picture of the discovery of the North River, on whose banks, near the Tappan Zee and the Palisades, he has a spacious studio. — Tuckerman.

Bigelow, ERASTUS BRIGHAM, LL.D. (Amh. 1867), inventor, b. W. Boylston, Ms., Apr. 1814. His father was a cotton manufacturer. The son, before he was 18, had invented a hand-loom for weaving suspender-webbing.

Digitized by Google

a machine for making piping-cord, and had pub. a book on stenography. He obtained a patent for an automatic loom in 1838 for weaving counterpanes, which he improved in 1840. He also invented a loom for weaving coach-lace, and soon after turned his attention to carpet-weaving. In 1839, he produced his first power-loom for weaving 2-ply ingrain carpets. This he subsequently improved, and it is extensively used. In the spring of 1862, Mr. Bigelow proposed a scheme of uniform taxation throughout the U. S. by means of stamps, and the same year pub. "The Tariff Question considered in Regard to the Policy of Eng. and the Interests of the U.S." He is the founder of the manufacturing town of Clinton, Ms.

Bigelow, GEORGE TYLER, LL.D., jurist, b. Watertown, Ms., Oct. 6, 1810. H. U. 1829. App. a judge of the Ms. Supreme Court, Nov. 21, 1850; chief-justice, Sept. 7, 1861; resigned, 1868; State senator, 1847–8.

Bigelow, JACOB, M.D., LL.D., physician and writer, b. Sudbury, Ms., Feb. 27, 1787. H. U. 1806, and commenced practice in Boston in 1810. A skilful botanist, he pub. in 1814 the "Florula Bostoniensis," enlarged in 1840; also, in 1820, "American Medical Botany," 3 vols., 8vo, plates. He was many years a disting. practitioner in Boston; 20 years physician of the Ms. General Hospital, and held (1815–55) the office of prof. of materia medica and of clinical medicine in H. U. In 1816–27, he delivered lectures on the application of science to the useful arts at Cambridge, as Rumford Prof., and pub., in 1829, "Elements of Technology." One of the committee, in 1820, to form the "American Pharmacopœia," the nomenclature of the materia medica afterwards adopted by the British colleges is due to him. He has pub. numerous medical essays and discourses; some of them in a vol., entitled "Nature in Disease," 1854; "A Discourse on Self-limited Diseases," delivered before the Ms. Med. Society in 1835; in 1858, a "Brief Exposition of Rational Medicine, to which is prefixed the Paradise of Doctors, a Fable;" "The Useful Arts," 2 vols., 1840; "Treatise on Materia Medica," 1822; "History of Mt. Auburn," 1860. He was the founder of Mt. Auburn Cemetery, the first of the kind in the U. S. He has occasionally contrib. to the literary periodicals and reviews. A vol. of poems, entitled "Eolopoesis," has been attributed to him. He was many years pres. of the Ms. Med. Society and of the Amer. Acad. of Arts and Sciences.—Duyckinck.

Bigelow, JOHN, editor and author, b. Malden, N. Y., Nov. 25, 1817. Un. Coll. 1835. He practised law in N. Y. City about 10 years. In 1840, he was literary editor of the Plebeian, in 1843–5 was a frequent contrib. to the Democratic Review, for which he wrote "Constitutional Reform," "Executive Patronage," "The Reciprocal Influences of Civil Liberty and the Physical Sciences," "Pascal," &c. He also edited Gregg's "Commerce of the Prairies," and other popular books of travel. An inspector of Sing-Sing Prison in 1845–8, he originated useful reforms in its discipline. In Nov. 1850, he became a partner of Bryant in the Evening Post. His "Jamaica in 1850" gave an accurate picture of the social and political condition of that island. He again visited the West Indies in 1854, collecting materials for a work on Hayti. He pub. a "Life of Fremont" in 1856; Corresp. from Abroad with the Post in 1854–60; became consul at Paris in 1861, and succeeded Mr. Dayton as minister in 1864–6. He pub. in Paris "Les États Unis d'Amérique en 1863," giving to the French valuable information of the statistics and resources of this country, and edited "Autobiography of Franklin," 1868. Ed. N. Y. Times since 1869.

Bigelow, LEWIS, lawyer, b. Worcester, Ms., ab. 1785; d. Peoria, Ill., Oct. 3, 1838. Wms. Coll. 1803. He studied and practised law in Ms.; was M. C. in 1821–3; and was the author of the Digest of the first 17 vols. of the Ms. Reports; also of a Digest of Pickering's Reports, vols. 2–7, 2d ed., 8vo, Boston, 1825. He subsequently removed to Ill., where he pursued his profession, and at the time of his death was clerk of the court of Peoria Co.

Bigelow, COL. TIMOTHY, b. Worcester, Aug. 12, 1739; d. there March 31, 1790. He was a blacksmith and a leading patriot; member of the Prov. Congress, 1774–5; marched at the head of a company of minute-men to Cambridge on hearing of the battle of Lexington; was a maj. in Ward's Worcester regt. May 23, 1775, and in Arnold's exped., and was captured in the attack on Quebec, remaining a prisoner until the summer of 1776. Made col. Feb. 8, 1777; at the head of the 15th Ms. regt., he assisted in the capture of Burgoyne; was at R. I., Valley Forge, and West Point. After the war, he had charge of the arsenal at Springfield. He was an original grantor of Montpelier, and a benefactor of Leicester Acad. His son TIMOTHY, lawyer (H. U. 1786), many years in the Ms. legis., b. 30 Apr. 1767; d. 18 May, 1821. His dau. Katharine m. Hon. Abbott Lawrence.

Bigger, SAMUEL, Whig gov. of Indiana in 1840–3, b. Warren Co., Ohio, ab. 1800; d. Fort Wayne, 1845. Athens U. He studied law at Lebanon, and commenced practice in Ind., attaining eminence in the profession. He was a representative in 1834 and 1835, and afterwards judge of the Circuit Court. By his recommendation, the Indiana Hospital for the Insane was established.

Bigler, WILLIAM, Democ. politician, b. Shermansburg, Cumberland Co., Pa., Dec. 1814. Receiving a moderate school education, and becoming a printer, he established, and for several years carried on, the Clearfield Democrat. In 1841, he was elected to the State convention, and was a member of the State senate, part of the time speaker, up to 1847; in 1852–5, he was gov. of Pa.; subsequently became pres. of the Phila. and Erie Railroad Co, and in 1855–61 was U. S. senator. Delegate to the Chicago convention in 1864, and to the Phila. convention of 1866.

Biglow, WILLIAM, poet and schoolmaster, b. Natick, Ms., Sept. 22, 1773; d. Boston, Jan. 12, 1844. H. U. 1794. He taught school in Salem, and then took charge of the Latin School in Boston, preaching occasionally, and writing for periodicals. Becoming intemperate, he was obliged to retire to his home in Natick

Digitized by Google

He afterwards taught a village school in Maine, and was ultimately proof-reader in the University printing-office, Cambridge. His "Cheerful Parson," and others of his songs, were very popular. In 1830, he pub. a history of Natick, and one of Sherburne, Ms.; "The Youth's Library," 1808; "Introd. to the Making of Latin," 1809; "Education, a Poem," delivered at Cambridge, 18 July, 1799. His best writings were in the Village Messenger of Amherst, N.H., which he edited in 1796, the Federal Orrery, and Ms. Magazine.

Billings, ELKANAH, F.R.G.S., Canadian geologist, b. Gloucester, Canada, May 5, 1820. His father, a native of Ms., settled, after the Revol., near Brockville. He was adm. to the bar in 1845, and practised in Ottawa, but, since 1856, has been paleontologist of the geological survey of Canada. Besides contributions to papers and scientific journals, he has pub. valuable memoirs of the third and fourth decades of the geol. survey of Canada, and in 1856 edited the Canadian Naturalist, to which he has since contrib. — Morgan.

Billings, JOSEPH, an English navigator in the Russian service. He accompanied Cook in his last voyage, and took charge of the astronomical department. In 1785, he entered the service of Catharine II., who sent him on a voyage of discovery "to complete the knowledge of the seas situated between Siberia and the continent of Amer." He set out overland in Oct. 1785, put to sea from Kolyma in 1787, visited and examined many islands of the N.W. coast; in July, 1790, penetrated Prince Wm.'s Sound, where Cook had been in 1778; and returned to Kamtschatka in 1791. An account of his voyage was pub. in London in 1802.

Billings, WILLIAM, the first Amer. musical composer, b. Boston, Oct. 7, 1746; d. there Sept. 26, 1800. By trade a tanner. A love of music led him, while still young, to become a teacher of singing and a composer of psalm-tunes, which became highly popular; among them that called "Jordan" is well known. He pub. 6 collections, which, with a few exceptions, were of his own composition. They were founded upon the new style of church-music, and caused a revolution in musical taste in N.E. Billings's patriotic songs were in vogue among the N.E. troops of the Revol. army. He was the first teacher of singing in this country, introduced the first musical concerts, the first instrument — the bass-viol — as an accompaniment, formed the first choirs to unite in singing in churches, and kept the first music-store in Boston. His "Psalm-singers' Amusements" became very popular.

Bingham, CALEB, teacher and bookseller, b Salisbury, Ct., 1757; d. Boston, Apr. 27, 1817. D. C. 1782. He was preceptor of Moore's Acad., and was many years a teacher in Boston. He next kept a large book-shop in Cornhill, Boston, and was for several years a director of the State Prison, in which capacity he exerted himself for the mental improvement of the younger criminals. He pub. "The Hunters," "Young Lady's Accidence," 1789, "Epistolary Correspondence," "Historical Grammar," 1802, "The Columbian Orator," "Amer. Preceptor," "Child's Companion," and the "Geographical Catechism." Of the Amer. Preceptor, 64 editions, or 640,000, were sold.

Bingham, JOHN A., lawyer and politician, b. Pa., 1815; spent two years in Franklin Coll., O.; adm. to the Ohio bar in 1840; State atty. for Tuscarawas Co., 1845–9; M.C. 1855–63 and 1865–71; judge-advocate of the army, 1864; solicitor Court of Claims, Aug. 1864; assist. judge-advocate in the trial of the conspirators for the murder of Pres. Lincoln in May, 1865; delegate to the Phila. convention of 1866, and one of the managers of the impeachment-trial of Pres. Johnson in 1868.

Bingham, KINSLEY S., statesman, b. Camillus, Onondago Co., N.Y., Dec. 16, 1808; d. Green Oak, Livingston Co., Mich., Oct. 5, 1861. He received an academic education, became a clerk in a lawyer's office, emigrated to Mich. in 1833, and settled upon a farm; was a member of the legisl. in 1835–42; three years its speaker; M.C. from 1849 to 1851; was gov. of Mich. from 1855 to 1859, and U.S. senator from 1859 till his decease. He had also held the offices of postmaster, supervisor, prosec.-atty., judge of probate, and brig.-gen. of militia.

Bingham, WILLIAM., statesman, b. Phila., 1751; d. Bath, Eng., Feb. 7, 1804. Phila. Coll. 1768. In 1771, he was consul at St. Pierre, W.I. During the Revol., he was Amer. agent at Martinique; was delegate to Congress in 1787–8, and U.S. senator from 1795 to 1801. In 1780, he m. Anne Willing of Phila., a lady of great beauty and accomplishments, and the centre of fashionable society in Phila. She d. May 11, 1801, a. 37. A dau. m. a son of Sir Francis Baring. Bingham was a man of great wealth and aristocratic hauteur. He pub., in 1784, "A Letter from an American on the Subject of the Restraining Proclamation," "Description of Certain Tracts of Land in the Dist. of Maine," 1793.

Binney, AMOS, naturalist, b. Boston, 18 Oct. 1803; d. Rome, Italy, 18 Feb. 1847. Brown U. 1821. M.D. 1826. He was a successful merchant, but, devoting his leisure to natural science, was a founder of the Boston Society of Natural History, and its pres. in 1843–7, and was active in establishing the Amer. Asso. of Geologists and Naturalists. As a member of the legisl. of Ms., he was instrumental in procuring zoölogical and botanical commissions, which resulted in the important volumes of Harris, Emerson, Storer, and Gould. He gave many years' study to the mollusks of the U.S., and fitted out several expeds. to Florida, Texas, and other places, to collect materials. His "Terrestrial Mollusks of the U.S." was pub. 1851–7, in 3 vols., 8vo. Many of his papers are pub. in the "Proceedings" of the Soc. of Nat. Hist.

Binney, RT. REV. HIBBERT, Prot.-Epis. bishop of Nova Scotia, consec. 4th bishop, 1851, b. Nova Scotia, 1819; educated at King's Coll., London, and at Oxford, where he grad. 1842.

Binney, HORACE, LL.D. (H. U. 1827), lawyer of Phila., b. 4 Jan. 1780. H. U. 1797. Son of Dr. Barnabas, surgeon Revol. army. Adm. to the bar in 1800, he attained high distinction in the profession. Member of the Pa. legisl. in 1806–7; an opponent of the administration of Jackson, and a leading member of Congress in 1833–5, and an early and active antislavery man. Many years a director in the U.S. Bank, and one of the trustees in winding up its affairs. One of his most successful efforts at the bar was his defence of the city of Phila. against the heirs of Stephen Girard. Author of "Reports of Sup. Ct. of Pa., 1799–1814," 6 vols., 1809–15; Eulogiums on Chief-Justices Tilghman and Marshall, 1827 and 1836; d. Phila. Aug. 12, 1875.

Digitized by Google

Binns, JOHN, journalist, b. Dublin, Ireland, Dec. 22, 1772; d. Phila., June 16, 1860. He received a good education, but, becoming involved in the revol. movements in Ireland, was arrested, and for two years imprisoned, for his alleged political offences. Soon after his release in 1801, he came to Baltimore with his brother Benjamin, and commenced at Northumberland, Pa., in March, 1802, the Republican Argus, which gave him great influence with the Democ. party. From 1807 until Nov. 1829, he conducted, at Phila., the Democratic Press, the leading paper in the State, until, in 1824, it opposed the election of Jackson. He was for 20 years an alderman of Phila. In 1854, he pub. an Autobiography, entitled "Recollections of the Life of John Binns; 29 Years in Europe, and 53 in the U.S.," "Binns's Magistrate's Manual," 8vo, 1850.

Birch, THOMAS, artist, b. London ab. 1779; d. Phila., Jan. 14, 1851. He emigrated to the U.S. in 1793, established himself in Phila. about 1800, and commenced the painting of profiles. A visit to the capes of Del. in 1807 turned his attention to marine views, in the delineation of which he acquired a high reputation. During the War of 1812, he executed a series of historical paintings, representing the naval victories of the U.S. He also painted many landscapes, which are highly prized, particularly those representing snow-scenes. — Blake.

Bird, ROBERT MONTGOMERY, M.D., novelist, b. Newcastle, Del., 1803; d. Phila., Jan. 22, 1854. He was educated in Phila. for the medical profession, but early turned his attention to literature; contrib. to the Monthly Magazine of Phila., and wrote three tragedies, — "The Gladiator," "Oraloosa," and "The Broker of Bogota;" all of which have been popular on the stage, especially the former, the principal character of which is one of the favorite personations of Edwin Forrest. His first novel, "Calavar," appeared in 1834, and was succeeded by "The Infidel," 1835; "The Hawks of Hawk Hollow;" "Nick of the Woods," 1837 (scene in Ky. ab. the close of the Revol.); 'Peter Pilgrim," 1838; and "Robin Day," 1839. They are marked by picturesqueness of description, and an animated narration. In 1839, Dr. Bird retired to his native village, but, for a few years previous to his death, edited the North-Amer. Gazette at Phila., of which he became a proprietor.

Birdseye, NATHAN, remarkable for longevity, b. Stratford, Ct., 19 Aug. 1714; d. June 28, 1818. Y.C. 1736. He was settled pastor at West Haven from 1742 to 1758, and preached occasionally in his latter years, — once at Stratford, when he was more than 100 years old. At his death, he left 206 descendants. — Sprague.

Birkbeck, MORRIS, traveller and author, b. Eng.; drowned in returning from a visit to Robert Owen at Harmony in 1825. Having purchased 16,000 acres of land in Ill., he founded the town of New Albion, and resided there. When the State was organized in 1818, he oppposed the introduction of slavery into it. Author of "Notes on a Journey through France," 8vo, 1815, and "Notes on a Journey in America," 8vo, 1818 (in which he gave flattering accounts of Illinois), and "Letters from Illinois," 1818.

Birney, DAVID BELL, maj.-gen. vols., b. Huntsville, Ala., May 29, 1825; d. Phila., Oct. 18, 1864. In youth, he removed to Cincinnati with his father, J. G. Birney, and studied law, but, before beginning practice, was engaged in business in Michigan. In 1848, he removed to Phila., where he practised law. He raised the 23d Pa. Vols. in May, 1861; was made brig.-gen. Feb. 3, 1862; was disting. at Yorktown, Williamsburg, and the battles before Richmond, and especially in the second battle of Bull Run, Aug. 29, 1862, also at Fredericksburg and at Chancellorsville, and aided in checking the advance of Jackson's troops after the panic in the 11th corps. After the death of Berry, he took com. of his division (maj.-gen. May 23, 1863), led it at Gettysburg; and com. the corps after Gen. Sickles was wounded. In all the operations of Gen. Grant in Va. in 1864, his bravery and skill were conspicuous. July 23, 1864, he received com. of the 10th corps. He died of malarious fever, contracted in the service.

Birney, JAMES G. antislavery politician, b. Danville, Ky., 4 Feb. 1792; d. Eagleswood, N.J., 24 Nov. 1857. N. J. Coll. 1812. He studied law in the office of A. J. Dallas, Phila.; began practice in Ky. in 1814, and at 22 was a member of the legisl. In 1825, he became a planter in Ala., served in the legisl., and practised law at Huntsville. Removing to Ky., he, in 1834, emancipated his slaves, and, being unable to find there a printer for an antislavery paper, established one in Ohio at great personal risk. About 1836, he went to New York as secretary of the Amer. Antislavery Society, and labored to build a political party upon that sole issue. In 1840, he took part in the antislavery movements in Eng. In 1844, he was the candidate of the Liberty party, for Pres., one result of which was the defeat of Henry Clay, the candidate of the Whig party. Father of Gen. D. B. Birney.

Biscaccianti, ELIZA (OSTINELLI), b. Boston, 1825, a distinguished vocalist. Louis Ostinelli, her father, leader of the orchestra in the principal cities, and a talented musician, m. in Apr. 1822, the dau. of Mr. Hewett, a celebrated musical composer of Boston. Eliza went to Italy in 1843, studied under the best masters, was m. to Signor Biscaccianti, also a musician, and in May, 1847, made her first appearance at Milan, with complete success. She made her debut in America at the Astor Place Opera House, in Feb. 1848, and in Phila., Mar. 1, 1848, at the Chestnut-st. theatre, as "Lucia." Sung in the principal cities with great applause, and became an especial favorite in California.

Digitized by Google

Bishop, ABRAHAM, a political writer, b. New Haven, 1763; d. there Apr. 28, 1844. Y. C. 1778. He was an active politician, and for more than 20 years was collector of the port of New Haven. He pub. orations, and "Proofs of a Conspiracy," 1802.

Bishop, MADAME ANNA, née Revière, a celebrated singer, b. London, 1816; educated at the Royal Acad. of Music, London; made her début at a concert given by M. Bochsa, July 5, 1839, and won a triumphant success. She sang in most of the principal cities of Europe and the U. S., where she made her début at the Walnut-st. theatre, Phila., Nov. 22, 1847, as "Norma." Author of "Travels in Mexico in 1849," Phila., 1855. Her husband, H. Bishop, d. Apr. 30, 1855. Apr. 30, 1858, she m. Martin Shultz.

Bishop, GEORGE, a Quaker writer, joined the sect in 1654, and, between 1660 and 1668, pub. several works on their doctrines. He pub., in 1661, "New England judged, being a Brief Relation of the Sufferings of the Quakers in that part of Amer. from the Beginning of the 5th Month, 1656, to the End of the 10th Month, 1660," &c. A second part appeared in 1667; and both were reprinted in 1703, with "An Answer to Cotton Mather's Abuses," by John Whiting, with an Appendix.

Bishop, JOEL PRENTISS, b. Volney, Oswego Co., N. Y., 1814, author of "Commentaries on the Law of Marriage and Divorce," 2 vols., 8vo, 1856; "Criminal Law," 2 vols., 8vo, Boston, 1858; "Thoughts for the Times," 1863; "Secession and Slavery," 1864; "Commentaries on Criminal Procedure," 2 vols., 1866; "First Book of the Law," 1868.

Bishop, ROBERT HAMILTON, D.D. (N. J. Coll. 1825), Presb. divine and scholar, b. near Edinburgh, Scotland, 26 July, 1777; d. College Hill, O., 29 Apr. 1855. U. of Edinb. 1797. He came in 1801, at the solicitation of Dr. Mason, to N.Y.; preached there a while; was ord. a missionary to the north-west territory, and arrived at Chillicothe in 1802. Prof. in Transylv. Univ. 1804–24; pres. of Miami Coll. 1825–41; prof. hist. and polit. science until 1844, and subsequently prof. of hist. and polit. economy in the Farmer's Coll. near Cincinnati, O. He was a warm friend of Henry Clay. Author of "Sermons," 1808; "Memoirs of David Rice," 1824; "Elements of Logic," 1833; "Philosophy of the Bible," 1833; "Science of Government," 1839; "Western Peacemaker," 1839, besides sermons, addresses, &c. — Sprague.

Bissell, CLARK, LL.D. (Y. C. 1847), jurist and statesman, b. Lebanon, Ct., 1782; d. Norwalk, Ct., Sept. 15, 1857. Yale Coll. 1806. He was a lawyer, and, during most of his life, resided at Norwalk. Judge of the Supreme Court of Ct. in 1829–39, gov. of Ct. in 1847–9, and was Kent Prof. of law in Y.C. in 1847–55.

Bissell, GEN. DANIEL, U. S. A., d. St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 14, 1833. App. cadet from Ct., Sept. 1791; ensign 1st Inf. Apr. 11, 1792; lieut. Jan. 1794; capt. Jan. 1799; lieut.-col. Aug. 18, 1808; col. 5th Inf. Aug. 15, 1812; brig.-gen. Mar. 9, 1814; com. in successful affair at Lyons Creek, U.C., Oct. 19, 1814; May, 1815, col. 1st Inf. with brev. of brig.-gen.; col. 2d Art. Jan. 16, 1826. — Gardner.

Bissell, SIMON B., commo. U.S.N., b. Vt., Oct. 28, 1808. Midshipm. Nov. 6, 1824; lieut. Dec. 9, 1837; commander, Sept. 14, 1855; capt. July 16, 1862; commodore, Oct. 19, 1866. Attached to the sloop "Albany," during the war with Mexico; present at the siege of Vera Cruz, and stationed at the naval battery; com. sloop "Cyane," Pacific squad., 1861–2; navy-yard, Man Island, Cal., 1863–4; sloop of war "Monongahela," N. A. squad., 1866–7. — Hamersly.

Bissell, WILLIAM H., statesman, b. Cooperstown, N.Y., Apr. 25, 1811; d. Mar. 18, 1860. Phila. Med. Coll. 1835. He was self-educated, attending school in summer, and teaching in the winter; practised medicine 2 years in Steuben Co., N. Y., and 3 years in Monroe Co., Ill. Chosen to the Ill. legisl. in 1840, he disting. himself as a forcible and ready debater; studied law, and practised successfully in Belleville, St. Clair Co.; became prosec.-atty. in 1844; col. of the 2d Ill. Vols. in the Mexican war, and disting. at Buena Vista; M. C. in 1849–55, and gov. of Ill. in 1857–60. He separated from the Democ. party upon the passage of the Kansas-Nebraska Bill, and was chosen gov. as a Republican.

Black, JEREMIAH S., lawyer, b. in the Glades, Somerset Co., Pa., June 10, 1810. Adm. to the bar in 1830, he was, in Apr. 1842, app. pres. judge of the judicial district in which he lived; was in 1851 elected to the bench of the Supreme Court, and made chief-justice; was re-elected in 1854, and, Mar. 5, 1857, received from Pres. Buchanan the app. of atty.-gen. Appearing in behalf of government in a disputed land-claim from California, he achieved a great success, at once establishing his reputation as a jurist. U. S. sec. of State from Dec. 1860, to Mar. 1861.

Blackburn, GIDEON, D. D. (Gen. Coll. 1818), an eloquent Presb. clergyman, b. Augusta Co., Va., 27 Aug. 1772; d. Carlinville, Ill., Aug. 23, 1838. Educated at Martin Acad., Washington Co., Tenn. Licensed to preach by Abingdon presbytery, 1795, and settled many years at Marysville, Tenn. Minister of Franklin, Tenn., 1811–23, and of Louisville, Ky., 1823–7. He passed the last 40 years of his life in the Western States, laboring zealously in preaching, organizing churches, and during a part of each year, from 1803 to 1809, in his mission to the Cherokees, establishing a school at Hywassee. He set up a school in Tenn. in 1806. Pres. of Centre Coll., Ky., 1827–30. — Sprague.

Blackford, ISAAC NEWTON, jurist, b. Bound Brook, N J., Nov. 6, 1786; d. Washington, D.C., Dec. 31, 1859. N. J. Coll. 1806. Completing his legal studies under Gabriel Ford of Morristown, N. J., he in 1812 removed to Ind., and settled in Vincennes; became clerk of the territorial legisl., in 1813; judge of the first judicial circuit, 1814–15; speaker of the first State legisl. 1816; judge of the Supreme Court of Ind., 1819–35; and a

Digitized by Google

Judge of the U.S. Court of Claims, from Mar. 1855 until his death. His reports, of which there are 8 vols., gave great credit to the State abroad. — N. E. H. & G. Reg. xvii. 174.

Black Hawk (Ma-ka-tae-mish-kia-kiak), a noted chief of the Sac and Fox tribes of Indians, though by birth a Potawatomie, b. Kaskaskia, Ill., 1767; d. at his camp on the River Des Moines, Oct. 3, 1838. At 15, he was ranked with the braves, and became a successful leader in expeditions against the Osage and Cherokee tribes. About 1788, he succeeded as head chief of the Sacs, his father, who had been killed by a Cherokee. Moved by the exhortations of the Shawnee Prophet (brother of Tecumseh) and by the presents of British agents, Black Hawk, with the title of gen., joined the British, with 500 warriors, during the War of 1812. A repulse in a battle near Detroit, and an unsuccessful attack on a fort, surprised and disgusted the red men, who soon tired of the service. By a treaty made at Prairie du Chien, July 15, 1830, and signed by chiefs of various tribes, — among them Keokuk, chief of a party of Sacs, — their lands east of the Mississippi became the property of the whites. Their removal west was opposed by Black Hawk, but, June 25, 1831, a force under Gen. Gaines compelled them to depart; and, after a brief conflict in the following spring, the Indians were completely defeated at the River Bad Axe, Aug. 2, by Gen. Atkinson, and the surrender of Black Hawk took place on the 27th. Black Hawk, with his two sons and seven other head warriors, were detained as hostages; were taken through the principal eastern cities; and were confined in Fortress Monroe until June 5, 1833, when they were released, and returned to their tribe. An account of his life, taken from his own lips, was pub. by J. B. Patterson, 1834.

Blackhoof, a chief of the Shawanese tribe of Indians; d. Wapagh Konnetta, Oct. 1, 1831, aged 114 years. He was at St. Clair's, Harmar's, and Crawford's defeats, and was, perhaps, the last survivor of those who were concerned in Braddock's defeat.

Blackstone, William, the first white settler of Boston; d. Rehoboth, May 26, 1675. He is supposed to have been a graduate of Emanuel Coll., Cambridge, in 1617, A.M., 1621, and to have been a clergyman of the Church of Eng. He settled at Shawmut, the Indian name of Boston, ab. 1623; not liking his Puritan neighbors, he sold out to them in April, 1633, and removed to Rehoboth, R.I. A small round eminence west of his house there is called Study Hill, from its being his place of retirement for study. In 1659, he m. Mary, widow of John Stevenson of Boston. — See Mass. Hist. Coll. 2d. ser., vol. x.

Blackwell, Elizabeth, the first woman who received the degree of M.D. in the U.S., b. Bristol, Eng., 1821; came to N.Y. with her father in 1831; emigrated to Cincinnati in 1837, and taught school there several years. She studied medicine at Charleston, S.C., while teaching music; at Phila.; and finally took the degree of M.D. at the Medical School of Geneva, N.Y., in Jan. 1849, after making application unsuccessfully at the schools of Phila., N. Y., and Boston. She also pursued a course of clinical study in Blockley Hospital, Phila. After 6 mos. study and practice of midwifery in the Maternité at Paris, she was adm. as a physician, to walk the Hospital of St. Bartholomew in London, where she could not have been a student. After passing a year there, she returned to N.Y. City, where she has since practised her profession with success. In 1859, she again visited Europe, and gave a course of medical lectures in London. In 1854, with her sister Emily, she opened the New-York Infirmary for Women and Children. She pub. "The Laws of Life," 12mo, 1852. Her sister Anna is a poetess of merit; and Emily, another sister, has also obtained a medical diploma.

Blaine, James Gillespie, speaker 41st and 42d Congresses, b. Washington Co., Pa., 31 Jan. 1830. Wash. Coll. 1847. His grandfather, Col. Eph. Blaine, commis.-gen of the middle dept. in the Revol. War; d. Carlisle, Pa., in Mar. 1804, a. 63. He was a teacher in the South; settled in Maine about 1851; engaged in journalism; edited the Kennebec Journal in 1852–8, and the Portland Daily Advertiser in 1858–61. Member Me. legisl. 1857–62; two years speaker of the house, and M.C. since 1863.

Blair, Austin, gov. of Mich., 1861–5, b. Caroline, Tompkins Co., N.Y., 8 Feb. 1818. Union Coll. 1839. Studied law; removed to Mich.; was county clerk of Eaton Co.; prosec.-atty. of Jackson Co.; member of the legisl. and of the State senate, and, as gov. of the State, took an active part in putting down the Rebellion. M.C. 1866–72. Resides at Jackson.

Blair, Francis Preston, journalist and politician, b. Abingdon, Va., Apr. 12, 1791. James Blair, his father, removed to Ky. about 1800, and became atty.-gen. The son grad. at Transyl. U.; studied law, but, from ill health and lack of voice, never engaged in practice. Early a politician, he supported his friend, Mr. Clay, for the Presidency in 1824, but became politically estranged from him during the administration of J. Q. Adams. An article in a Ky. newspaper, against the nullification movement, procured him an invitation from Gen. Jackson to remove to Washington, and edit a Democ. journal to be established there. The Globe was commenced in 1830, powerfully sustaining the policy of the administration, especially in relation to the U. S. Bank and nullification; and the intimate relations which then sprung up between Mr. Blair and the pres. subsisted till the latter's death. Mr. Blair retained the control of the Globe until the accession of Polk in 1845. He afterward successfully engaged in agricultural pursuits at Silver Spring, Montgomery Co., Md. He withdrew from the Democ. party in 1848; took a prominent part in the organization of the Republican party after the repeal of the Mo. Compromise, and in the attempt, in 1856, to elect Col. Fremont to the Presidency. Was master of an easy and vigorous style; d. Silver Springs, Md., Oct. 18, 1876.

Blair, Francis Preston, jun., soldier and politician, son of the preceding, b. Lexington, Ky., 19 Feb. 1821. N. J. Coll. 1841. Settled as a lawyer in St. Louis. In 1845, he made a journey to the Rocky Mountains for his health; served as a private in the Mexican war, and, in 1847, resumed practice at St. Louis. He supported the Freesoil party in 1848; was elected to the legisl. in 1852, and was a member of Congress in 1856–60, proposing in a speech in 1857 to colonize the blacks of the U.S. in Central America. He was at one time editor of the Missouri Democrat. Col. of vols. in 1861, brig.-gen. 7 Aug. 1862, and maj.-gen. 29 Nov. 1862. He com. a division in the Vicksburg campaign, and the 17th corps in the army of the Tennessee in Sherman's campaigns from Chattanooga to Atlanta in 1864, and in S. and N. Carolina in Mar. 1865; elected to the 38th Congress, he resigned to take his position in the army; app. collector of customs in St. Louis in 1866, and commissioner for the Pacific Railroad. U.S. senator from Missouri, 1870–73; d. St. Louis, July 9, 1875.

Digitized by Google

Blair, JAMES, divine and scholar, b. Scotland, about 1660; d. Williamsburg, Va., Aug. 1, 1743. Not succeeding as a Pr.-Ep. clergyman in Scotland, he went to London, and, in 1685, was sent as a missionary to Va. His zeal and ability procured him, in 1689, the high office of commissary. Having raised by subscription £2,500, and procured a patent for the erection of William and Mary Coll. in 1693, he was its first pres., and held the office 50 years. He was rector of Williamsburg from 1711. He was also pres. of the council of Va. In 1727, he assisted in compiling "The State of His Majesty's Colony in Va.," by Hartwell, Blair, and Chilton; "Sermons and Discourses," 4 vols., 8vo., Lond., 1742. He left his library and £500 to the coll.

Blair, JOHN, statesman and judge, b. Williamsburg, Va., 1689; d. there Nov. 5, 1771. Nephew of Pres. Blair. Member of the house of burgesses as early as 1736. By his efficient services, he qualified himself for the position of pres. of the council of Va., and of acting gov. of Va. in 1757–8 and 1768. In a letter to the atty. of Spottsylvania, while acting gov., he manifested a spirit of toleration as rare at that day as it was creditable.

Blair, JOHN, jurist, b. Williamsburg, 1732; d. there Aug. 31, 1800. Wm. and Mary Coll. He studied law at the Temple, London; soon rose to the first rank as a lawyer; was a member of the legisl. as early as 1765, and, on the dissolution of the house in 1769, he, with Washington and other patriots, met at the Raleigh Tavern, and drafted the non-importation agreement. He was one of the committee, which in June, 1776, drew up the plan for the govt. of the State; was elected to the council, and, on the establishment of the judiciary in 1777, was elected a judge of the Court of Appeals; then chief-justice, and, in 1780, a judge of the High Court of Chancery. A delegate to the Phila. convention to revise the articles of confederation, he supported the "Virginia Plan," and with Washington and Madison alone, of all the Va. delegates, voted for the adoption of the Federal Constitution, and also for its ratification in the State convention. In Sept. 1789, Washington app. him a judge of the U.S. Supreme Court. He was disting. for his private virtues no less than for his public services. He resigned his seat on the supreme bench in 1796.

Blair, MONTGOMERY, statesman, b. Franklin Co., Ky., May 10, 1813. West Point, 1835. Son of Francis P. Entering the 2d Art., he served in the Florida war; resigned May 20, 1836; studied law, and began practice in St. Louis in 1837. He was U.S. dist.-atty. for Mo in 1839–43, and was judge of the C.C.P. in 1843–49. In 1842, he was also mayor of St. Louis. In 1852, he removed to Md., and, from Mar. 1861 to 23 Sept. 1864, was U.S. postmaster-gen. Before the repeal of the Mo. Compromise, he had been a Democ., but afterward attached himself to the Repub. party, and was removed by Pres. Buchanan from the office of solicitor to the Court of Claims, to which he had been app. by Pres. Pierce, and in 1860 he presided over the Repub. State convention of Md. In the famous Dred Scott case, he was counsel for the plaintiff. Brother of F. P. Blair, jun. Counsellor at law, Montgom. Co. Md., since 1863.

Blair, SAMUEL, Presb. minister and educator, b. Ulster, Ireland, June 14, 1712; d. July 5, 1751. He came to Pa. while young; was educated at Tennent's Acad. at Neshaminy; settled as a preacher in Shrewsbury, N.J., in May, 1734, and, in 1740, established an acad. at Fogg's Manor, Chester Co., Pa., and took pastoral charge of the church at that place. He pub., in 1744, "A Narrative of a Revival of Religion in Several Parts of Pa." A vol. of his writings, pub. in Phila., 1754, contains an elegy by Samuel Davies, one of his scholars. JOHN, his bro., prof. of divinity at N. J. Coll. 1767–9, d. Dec. 8, 1771. He pub. a few sermons.

Blair, SAMUEL, D.D. (U. of Pa. 1790), son of the preceding, b. Fogg's Manor, Pa., 1741; d. Germantown, Pa., Sept. 24, 1818. N.J. Coll. 1760. Tutor at Princeton, 1761–4; settled as colleague of Dr. Sewall over the Old South Church, Boston, Nov. 26, 1766, having been ordained as a Presb. in 1764. Chosen pres. of N J. Coll. 1767, declined. Dismissed from Old South, Oct. 10, 1769, on account of ill health and theol. differences. Returned to Phila. in consequence of loss of voice and impaired health, resulting from shipwreck between Boston and Phila. He was the principal founder of the Eng. Presb. Church, Germantown; was often a member of the Pa. Assembly; was 2 years chaplain to the Continental Congress, and m., in 1769, a dau. of Dr. Shippen of Phila. He pub. an oration on the death of George II., 1761.

Blake, GEORGE A. H., brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. Pa.; 1st lieut. 2d Dragoons, June 11, 1836; in actions with the Seminoles at Fort Mellen and Jupiter Inlet in 1841; capt. Dec. 1839; engaged at Cerro Gordo, Puebla, Contreras, Molino del Rey, Chapultepec, and City of Mexico, in the Mexican war, 1846–7; brev. maj. for gallant and meritorious conduct at St. Augustine, Mex.; maj. 1st Drags., July, 1850, and served against the Apache and Navajo Indians; lieut.-col. 1st U.S. cav. May, 1861; col. Feb. 15, 1862; slightly wounded at Gaines's Mill, Jan. 1862; present at the actions at Aldie, Middletown, Upperville, and at Gettysburg, for which brev. brig.-gen.

Blake, GEORGE SMITH, commo. U S.N.,

Digitized by Google

b. Worcester, Ms., 1803; d. Longwood, Ms., 24 June, 1871. Son of Francis Blake, a disting. lawyer of Worcester. Midshipm. Jan. 1, 1818; lieut. Mar. 31, 1827; cruised in "The Grampus" on the W. I. station for the suppression of piracy; was employed in 1832 on a special survey of Narragansett Bay; from 1835 to 1846, on the coast survey, and in 1846, when the Mexican war broke out, com. the 10-gun brig "Perry." While cruising off Cuba, he encountered the great hurricane of that year. "The Perry" was wrecked on the coast of Fla., but was got off, and taken to Phila. under jury-masts. He was made commander, Feb. 27, 1847, and attached to the bureau of construction and equipment. He was employed on special duty connected with the Stevens Battery. Sept. 14, 1855, he was made capt., and, in 1857–65, was supt. of the U. S. naval acad. Soon after the civil war broke out, the acad. was removed to Newport. On the re-organization of the navy, July 16, 1862, Capt. Blake was promoted to be commodore. Light-house inspector, 1866–9.

Blake, John Lauris, D.D., author, b. Northwood, N.H., Dec. 21, 1788; d. Orange, N.J., July 6, 1857. B. U. 1812. Manifesting a taste for mechanics, he was apprenticed to a cabinet-maker; then studied at Phillips Exeter Acad.; was some years a teacher; was ord. a Prot.-Epis. clergyman in 1815; organized the parish of St. Paul's at Pawtucket, R.I., where he continued 5 years; established a young lady's sem. at Concord, N.H., in 1820, which he removed to Boston in 1822, and continued, with high reputation, until 1830; pastor of St. Matthew's Church, Boston, from 1824 to 1832, and edited the Literary Advertiser and the Gospel Advocate. He was a prolific writer, having written or compiled nearly 50 vols., mostly text-books for schools. His first book, "Text-Book of Geography and Chronology," appeared in 1814. He is the author of a Biographical Dictionary, a new edition of which was pub. in 1856; a "Family Encyclopædia," roy. 8vo; "Farmer's Every Day Book," 8vo, 1852; "Modern Farmer," 12mo, 1853; "History of the Amer. Revol.," 18mo, N.Y.

Blake, Joseph, gov. of S.C. in 1694, and from 1696 to his death in 1700. He was a proprietary, and a nephew of the famous Admiral Blake.

Blake, William Hume, Canadian jurist; d. Toronto, Nov. 15, 1870. Chancellor from 1849 to 1862. Many years prof. of law in the U. of Toronto.

Blake, William Rufus, comedian, b. Halifax, N.S., 1805; d. Boston, 22 Apr. 1863. He was intended for the medical profession, but at 17 went on the stage at Halifax, and first appeared at the Old Chatham Theatre, N.Y., in 1825, as Frederick in "The Poor Gentleman," and in Elliston's favorite character in the "Three Singles." He visited Eng. in 1839. He had been stage-manager of the Tremont Theatre, Boston, joint manager of the Walnut-st. Theatre, Phila., and stage-manager of the Broadway Theatre, N.Y. He excelled in the delineation of old men and eccentricities, attained the head of his profession, and as "Jessie Rural" in "Old Heads and Young Hearts" was incomparable. Author of "Nero," "The Turned Head," an adaptation of "Norman Leslie," and "The Bugs," a burlesque. He m. Mrs. Waring, a sister of Henry and Tom Placide.

Blakeley, Johnston, capt. U.S.N., b. Seaford, Co. Down, Ireland, Oct. 1781; lost at sea in 1814. U. of N.C. 1800. His father emigrated to Wilmington, N.C. The members of his family dying one by one, he was left alone in the world, and had also the misfortune to lose the little remnant of their property. A friend gave him an education, and procured for him a midshipman's warrant, Feb. 5, 1800. Made lieut. Feb. 10, 1807; master com. July 24, 1813; capt. Nov. 24, 1814. In 1813, he com. the brig "Enterprise," and did good service in protecting our coasting trade. In Aug. he was app. to "The Wasp," in which, June 28, 1814, he captured, after an action of 19 minutes, in latitude 48° 36′ north, H. B. M. ship "Reindeer," which he was obliged to burn. This severe action showed the manifest superiority of Amer. gunnery. "The Reindeer" made 3 attempts to board, in the last of which her gallant com. was slain. For this exploit, Congress voted him a gold medal with suitable devices. Sept. 1, 1814, in a severe action with the brig "Avon," he compelled her to strike; but the approach of another enemy prevented his taking possession of her. "The Wasp" was afterward spoken off the Western Isles, and, on Sept. 21, captured the brig "Atalanta," which arrived safely in Savannah, and brought the last direct intelligence ever received from "The Wasp." Being heavily armed and sparred, and very deep waisted, she probably foundered in a gale. His only child, a dau., was educated at the expense of the State of N.C.

Blanc (blŏn), Anthony, D. D., first archbishop of N. Orleans, b. Lyons, France; d. N. O., June 20, 1860. He came here quite young, was consecrated bishop, Nov. 22, 1835, and archbishop in 1851.

Blanc, Vincent le, author and traveller, b. France, 1554; d. 1640. He travelled in Asia, Africa, and America, from the age of 12 to 60, and in his "Voyages Fameux," 1648, gives an account of Canada. — Charlevoix.

Blanchard, Col. Joseph, soldier and judge, b. Dunstable, near Nashua, N.H., Feb. 11, 1704; d. Apr. 7, 1758. He was a mandamus councillor from 1740 to 1758; judge of the Sup. Court of N.H. from 1749 to 1758; com. a N.H. regt. in 1755, and was engaged at Crown Point. He was a great speculator in lands, and in conjunction with Rev. Samuel Langdon, D.D., produced a map of N.H., pub. 1761.

Blanchard, Thomas, mechanic and inventor, b. Sutton, Ms., 24 June, 1788; d. Boston, 16 Apr. 1864. While engaged with his bro. in the manufacture of tacks by hand, he invented a machine which made 500 per minute, and sold the patent for $5,000. He also invented "a lathe to turn the whole of a musket-barrel from end to end, by the combination of one single self-directing operation," the lathe for turning irregular forms, now in use in all armories, for making musket-stocks, also applied to busts, shoe-lasts, handles, spokes, &c., and a machine for bending timbers, called the "Compound Bend." He was also engaged in the construction of railroads and locomotives, and in boats so contrived as to ascend the rapids of the Connecticut and the western rivers. He had taken out 24 patents for different inventions; and, though he struggled long against discouragements and difficulties, he ultimately acquired wealth. — Bishop's American Manufacturers.

Digitized by Google

Blanchelande (blŏnsh'-lŏnd'), PHILIBERT FRANÇOIS ROUSSEL DE, French gen., b. Dijon, 1735; d. Apr. 11, 1793. Entering the army at the age of 12, his courage and good conduct obtained for him rapid promotion, and in 1779 he was sent to America with the regt. d'Auxerrois, of which he was major, and, soon after its arrival at Martinique, lieut.-col. He successfully defended the Isle of St. Vincent against the English, which service procured him the rank of brigadier; assisted at the taking of Tobago, of which he was made gov. in 1781, but which he soon exchanged for that of Dominica, which he retained until his return to France at the epoch of the Revol. He was sent to St. Domingo as gov. of the French part of the island; but evincing openly a disposition to re-establish the old order of things, in opposition to the decrees of the National Assembly, giving the blacks equal rights, he was taken to France, brought before the Revol. tribunal, condemned, and executed. His son soon after shared his fate.

Bland, RICHARD, an able political writer, b. Va., 1708; d. Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 28, 1776. Wm. and Mary Coll. and U. of Edinburgh. He was a fine classical scholar, familiar with British and Va. history, and was the oracle of his time on all questions touching the rights and privileges of the Colony. A disting. member of the house of burgesses from 1745, he opposed the Stamp Act in 1764, with great zeal, and was one of the committee to memorialize the king, lords, and commons, but opposed the famous resolutions of Patrick Henry in 1765. In 1768, he was one of the committee to remonstrate with parliament on the subject of taxation. In 1769, when the house was dissolved, and its members met at the Raleigh Tavern, he was among the first to sign the non-importation agreement there proposed. He was one of the committee of corresp. in 1773; of safety in 1775–6; was prominent in all the committees of the conventions of that period; was a delegate to Congress in 1774, and was again chosen, Aug. 12, 1775, but declined. He pub. "A Letter to the Clergy on the Twopenny Act," in 1760; "An Inquiry into the Rights of the British Colonies" in 1766, the first and ablest tract written on that subject.

Bland, COL. THEODORIC, M.D., statesman and soldier, b. Prince George Co., Va., 1742; d. New York, June 1, 1790. Through his grandmother, Jane Rolfe, he was fourth in descent from Pocahontas. John Randolph was a nephew. He received his doctor's degree at Edinburgh; returned home ab. 1764, and practised medicine, but distinguished himself as a leader of vols. in opposing Lord Dunmore, and soon after pub. a series of bitterly indignant letters against the gov. under the signature of Cassius. Made capt. of the 1st troop of Va. cavalry, he joined the main army in 1777 as lieut.-col.; became col., and signalized himself upon many occasions as a vigilant and energetic officer, particularly at Brandywine. In 1779, he com. the convention troops at Albemarle Barracks, Va.; was a member of the Old Congress, 1780–3, and, subsequently, of the State legisl. He opposed the adoption of the U.S. Constitution in the convention, but represented his State in the first Congress held under it, and spoke in favor of the assumption of the State debts, though opposed by all his colleagues. "The Bland Papers," pub. in 1840 and 1843, by Charles Campbell, contain valuable memorials of our Revol. history. Col. Bland was a poet, as well as a patriot, and was highly esteemed not only for his integrity, and devotion to principle, but also for his social accomplishments, which set off an elegant and imposing person.

Bland, THEODORIC, jurist, 22 years chancellor of Md., b. 1777; d. Annapolis, Md., Nov. 16, 1846. He began his judicial career in Baltimore, as judge of the County Court, from which station he was raised to the bench of the U. S. Dist. Court for Md. He pub. "Reports of Cases decided in the High Court of Chancery, Md.," Balt., 1836–41.

Blaquiere, PETER BOYLE DE, Canadian politician, b. Dublin, Apr. 27, 1784; d. Yorkville, near Toronto, Oct. 1860. Son of John, Lord de B. of Ardkill. He was a midshipman at the battle of Camperdown, but left the navy, and emigrated to Canada in 1837. Member of the legislative council from 1838 to 1860; some time chancellor of the U. of Toronto.

Bledsoe, ALBERT T., teacher and author, b. Ky. West Point, 1830. Lieut. 7th Inf.; resigned 31 Aug. 1832; instr. of math. and French in Kenyon Coll., 1833–4; prof. of math., Miami U., 1835–6; lawyer in Springfield, Ill.. 1840–8; prof. math. and astron., U. of Mpi., 1848–53, and in U. of Va., 1853–61, afterward taking part in the Rebellion against the U.S. Author of "Exam. of Edwards on the Will," 1845; "A Theodicy or Vindication of Divine Glory," 1856; "Essay on Liberty and Slavery," 1856. Contrib. to many literary, scient. and theol. reviews; d. Alexandria, Va. Dec. 8, 1877.

Bledsoe, JESSE, a distinguished advocate and jurist of Ky.; U.S. senator from 1813 to 1815; prof. of law in the U. of Transylv., and chief-justice of the Supreme Court of Ky.; d. Nacogdoches, Texas, June 30, 1837. Yielding to habits of intemperance, he became a miserable outcast and wanderer.

Bleecker, ANN ELIZA, poetess, b. New York, Oct. 1752; d. Tomhanick, above Albany, Nov. 23, 1783. Youngest dau. of Brandt Schuyler, she in 1769 m. John J. Bleecker, lived with him one year at Poughkeepsie; then removed to Tomhanick, whence she was driven by the news of the approach of Burgoyne's army. After much suffering, they escaped to Albany, and thence to Red Hook, returning home after Burgoyne's surrender. Her pieces are to be found in the early numbers of the New-York Magazine; and a collection of her stories and "poetics" in a vol. was pub. in 1793 by her dau., Margaretta V. Faugeres.

Digitized by Google

Bleecker, Hermanus, LL.D., M. C. 1811–13; chargé d'affaires at the Hague, 1839. B. Albany, 1779; d. there July 19, 1849. He was a lawyer by profession, and opposed, in Congress, the War of 1812. Regent of the N. Y. U. 1822.

Blenker, Lewis, brig.-gen. vols., b. Worms, Hesse Darmstadt, 1812; d. at his residence in N. J., Oct. 31, 1863. Brought up by his father, a jeweller, he at 20 enlisted in the Bavarian Legion, which was raised to accompany the newly-elected King Otho to Greece. He then studied medicine at Munich; engaged in the wine-trade at Worms; and in 1849 became a leader of the revolutionists of that city, being burgomaster, and com. of the national guard. He fought in one or two successful engagements with the Prussians; but the revol. was soon completely crushed, and he fled to Switzerland. Ordered, in Sept. 1849, to leave that country, he came to the U. S., and settled in N. Y. City, where he was engaged in business until 1861. He then raised the 8th N. Y. Vols., and, early in July, was put at the head of a brigade of the 5th division, Col. Miles. At the first battle of Bull Run, he covered the retreat with great steadiness, and for this service was made a brig.-gen. vols., Aug. 9, 1861. He com. a division of the Army of the Potomac until the commencement of the Yorktown campaign; when he was ordered to Western Va., participating in the battle of Cross Keys, June 8, 1862. Gen. Fremont, after entering the valley of Va. in July, 1862, relieved him from duty; and he was discharged from service, Mar. 31, 1863.

Blennerhassett, Harman, noted for his unfortunate connection with Aaron Burr, b. Hampshire, Eng., Oct. 8, 1765; d in the Is of Guernsey, Feb. 1, 1831. U. of Dublin. He was of Irish descent; practised law in Dublin, and, being a republican in principle, emigrated to Amer., after marrying Adeline, grand-dau. of Gen. Agnew, in 1796. He settled on an island in the Ohio, below Parkersburg, where he had an elegant residence, furnished with taste and luxury. Burr was his guest in 1805, and succeeded in involving him in his treasonable schemes, in which his credulity, as well as his embarrassed pecuniary situation, disposed him to engage. He invested largely in boats, provisions, arms, and ammunition, left his home and friends, and went to Ky. Warned of Burr's real designs, he returned to his home, greatly disheartened; but, through Burr's solicitations and the persuasions of his wife, he persisted. His property was seized and sold, and he was prosecuted as an accomplice of Burr, but was discharged, broken in mind, and bankrupt. He was subsequently a cotton-planter near Port Gibson; removed to Montreal in 1819, and practised law, but in 1822 went to the West Indies. His widow returned to N. Y., and preferred claims against the U. S., but d. in 1842, while prosecuting her suit. A memoir, by Wm. H. Safford, was pub. at Chillicothe, 12mo, 1850, and Cincin., 8vo, 1853.

Bliss, Col. William Wallace Smith, U.S.A., b. in Northern N. Y., Aug. 1815; d. E. Pascagoula, Mpi., 5 Aug. 1853. West Point, 1833. Son of Capt. John of the Revol. army. Assist. prof. of math. at W. Point in 1835–40; brev. capt. and assist. adj.-gen. in Taylor's army in Fla. in 1840; brev. maj. and lieut.-col. for Palo Alto and Buena Vista, Mexico, and also received a gold medal and a sword from his native State. He m. Pres. Taylor's youngest dau.

Blissett, Francis, comedian, b. London, ab. 1773; d. Guernsey, Eng., 1848. He was the son of an eminent comic actor of Bath; came with Wignell's company to Phila. in 1793, from which he withdrew in 1821, having, by his father's death, come into possession of a competency, and retired to the Isle of Guernsey. Though a famous comedian, he was a confirmed hypochondriac.—Wood's Recollections of the Stage.

Blodget, Samuel, remarkable for enterprise, b. Woburn, Ms., Apr. 1, 1724; d. Haverhill, Ms., Sept. 1, 1807. He was engaged in the exped. against Louisburg in 1745, and was before the Revol. a judge of C. C. P. for Hillsborough. Having in 1783, by a machine of his own invention, raised a valuable cargo from a ship sunk near Plymouth, he went to Europe to undertake similar enterprises, but met with discouragements in Spain and in England, where he proposed to raise "The Royal George." On his return in 1791, he commenced the manufacture of duck, and in 1793 removed to N. H., and began the construction of the canal, which bears his name, around Amoskeag Falls.

Blondin, M., Émile Gravelet (his true name), was b. France, ab. 1830. In 1855, he was engaged by Wm. Niblo to perform with the Ravel troupe in New York, and was subsequently part proprietor of a circus. June 30, 1859, he accomplished the wonderful feat of crossing the Niagara River on a tight-rope, and has since performed feats still more astounding.

Bloodworth, Timothy, statesman, d. near Washington, N.C., Aug. 24, 1814, a. 78. He was 30 years a member of the N. C. legisl.; member of the Continental Congress in 1786–7; M. C. 1790 and 1791; U. S. senator, 1795–1801, and afterward collector of the port of Wilmington. He was brought up in poverty; was, by turns, farmer, smith, preacher, doctor, wheelwright, and politician, and was one of the kindest and most charitable of men.

Bloomfield, Joseph, statesman and soldier, b. Woodbridge, N.J.; d. Burlington, N.J., Oct. 3, 1823. He studied law until the breaking-out of the War of Independence; was made a capt. in Dayton's regt. (3d N.J.) in 1776, and served through the war, attaining the rank of major. He was subsequently atty.-gen. of the State; was gov. in 1801–12; was brig.-gen. during the War of 1812–15; M.C. 1817–21; and was chairman of a select committee on Revol. pensions. He was a firm Repub. in politics, a brave soldier, and a sound legislator.

Blount, Thomas, soldier and statesman of N.C., b. 1760; d. Washington, D.C., Feb. 7, 1812. Son of Jacob, member of the Provincial Assemblies of 1775–6, from Newbern; brother of Wm. and Willie. He volunteered in the Revol. army at 16; became dep. paym.-gen. in 1780, and, with the rank of maj., com. a batt. of N.C. militia at the battle of Eutaw Springs. He became a maj.-gen. of militia; and was M. C. in 1793–9, 1805–9, and in 1811–12.

Digitized by Google

GENERAL LIBRARY University of MICHIGAN

Blount, WILLIAM, statesman, b. N. C., 1744; d. Knoxville, Tenn., March 21, 1800. He was a delegate from N.C. to the Old Congress in 1782, 3, 6, and 7; member of the assembly from Newbern in 1780 and 1784; a signer of the Federal Constitution in 1787, and, in 1790, was app. gov. of the Territory of Ohio. Chosen pres. of the convention to form the State of Tenn. in 1796, he was its representative in Congress, but was expelled in July, 1797, for having instigated the Creeks and Cherokees to assist the British in conquering the Spanish territory in La. The proceedings against him increased his popularity in Tenn., and he was elected to the State senate, and chosen pres. of that body.

Blount, WILLIE, Gov. of Tenn. from 1809 to 1815; d. near Clarksville, Tenn., Sept. 10, 1835, a. 68. He was sec. to his bro. William while territorial gov. of Ohio; afterwards removed to Montgomery Co., Tenn.; was soon returned to the legisl., and in 1834 was in the convention that revised the State constitution.

Blowers, SAMPSON SALTER, jurist, b. Boston, Mar. 22, 1742; d. Halifax, N.S., Oct. 25, 1842. H. U. 1763. Grandson of Rev. Thomas B., minister of Beverly (1701–29). He studied law under Gov. Hutchinson. With Adams and Quincy, he was engaged as junior council in 1770 in the defence of the British soldiers concerned in the "Boston Massacre." Being a loyalist, he went to England in 1774, but returned in the spring of 1778 to his native city, and, after a short imprisonment, went to Halifax, where he successfully pursued his profession until raised to the bench in 1795. In 1785 was app. atty.-gen., and speaker of the house of assembly; and in 1797 chief-justice of the Supreme Court, having had for some years a seat in the council. In 1801, he became presiding judge, which office he resigned in 1833. — Sabine.

Blunt, EDMUND, engineer, son of E. M., b. Newburyport, Ms., 23 Nov. 1799; d. Brooklyn, N.Y., 2 Sept. 1866. At 17, he surveyed N.Y. harbor; until 1833, he was engaged in surveys of the W. Indies, Guatemala, and the coast of the U.S., on his own account. From 1832 to his death, he was 1st assist. on the U.S. coast survey. He introduced into the U.S. the Fresnel light, and invented the dividing engine. In 1855–6, he furnished the points to determine the exterior line of N.Y. harbor.

Blunt, EDMUND MARCH, nautical writer, b. Portsmouth, N.H., 20 June, 1770; d. Sing Sing, N.Y., 2 Jan., 1862. He was a book-seller, and pub. the Newburyport Herald. In 1796, he pub. his first "Coast Pilot," which is still in use, and which has been translated into most of the languages of Europe. He also pub. "Stranger's Guide to N.Y. City," 1817, and numerous nautical books and charts.

Blunt, JAMES G., maj.-gen. vols., b. Trenton, Me., 20 July, 1826. From 14 to 19 years of age, he was a sailor. Removing to O., he grad. at the Sterling Medical Coll., Columbus, 1849; practised in Darke Co., O., until 1856; and then settled in Anderson Co., Kan., as a physician and farmer. He was a prominent leader in the free State party in 1856–7, and a member of the convention which formed the present constitution of the State. In July, 1861, he was made lieut.-col. 3d Kan. vols. He com. the cavalry of Gen. Lane's brigade, and, Apr. 8, 1862, was app. brig.-gen., and assigned to the department of Kan. Oct. 22, 1862, he engaged a Confederate force at Maysville, near the N.W. corner of Arkansas, and totally routed it. Nov. 28, 1862, he attacked and drove Marmaduke's forces at Cane Hill, Ark.; with Gen. Herron, defeated Hindman at Prairie Grove, Dec. 7, and on the 27th and 28th defeated a body of rebels, and captured Van Buren, a fort on the Ark. River. In June, 1863, he was relieved from com. of the Kan. dep't, and took the field with the army of the frontier. July 16, 1863, he defeated Gen. Cooper at Honey Springs, near the Ark. River; maj.-gen. Nov. 29, 1862. Resides in Leavenworth, Kan.

Blunt, JOSEPH, lawyer and politician, son of Edmund M., b. Newburyport, Ms., Feb. 1792; d. N.Y. City, June 16, 1860. He was first brought to notice by writing on the Mo. question in 1820. Soon after, he wrote for the N. A. Review an article on the Laybach Circular, which brought him into acquaintance with leading national men. He was long a leading Whig and protectionist, and was one of the first members of the Repub. party, and drew up the original resolutions of the Repub. State convention at Saratoga in 1854. Mr. Blunt declined the commissionership to China offered him by Pres. Fillmore. He was district atty. not long before his death. He edited the American Annual Register, 1827–35. He pub. "Historical Sketch of the Formation of the American Confederacy," N.Y., 8vo, 1825; "Speeches, Reviews, and Reports," 8vo, 1843; "Merchants' and Shipmasters' Assistant," 8vo, N. Y., 1829 and 1848.

Boardman, GEORGE DANA, Baptist missionary, b. Livermore, Me., Feb. 8, 1801; d. Burmah, Feb. 11, 1831. Water. Coll. 1822. His father was a clergyman. He studied at the And. Theol. Sem.; was ord. at West Yarmouth, Me., Feb. 16, 1825; m. Miss Sarah Hall, July 4, and on the 16th sailed for Calcutta, where he arrived Dec. 2. Acquiring the Burman language, he entered upon his labors at Maulmain in the latter part of May, 1827, and planted a mission which became the central point of all the Baptist missions in Burmah. In Apr. 1828, he established a mission at Tavoy, where he soon afterwards baptized Ko-mah-byn, a Karen convert, whose labors were very successful among his countrymen. In Feb. 1828, he made a tour among the Karen villages with such success that he determined on a systematic course of itinerary labor. His exertions occasioned the loss of his health; and he was carried off by consumption.

Boardman, HENRY AUG., D.D., clergyman and author, b. Troy, N.Y., 9 Jan. 1808. Y. C. 1829. Since 1833, pastor 10th Presb. Church, Phila. Chosen in 1853 to fill the chair of pastoral theology at Princeton, he declined it. He has pub. "The Scriptural Doctrine of Original Sin," 1839; "Letters to Bishop Doane on the Oxford Tracts," 1841; "The Prelatical Doctrine of the Apostolical Succession Examined," 1844; "The Bible in the Family," 1851; "The Bible in the Counting-House," 1853; some sermons, and a eulogium on Daniel Webster. — Duyckinck.

Digitized by Google

Boernstein, HENRY, journalist, b. Hamburg, Germany, 4 Nov. 1805. His parents removed in 1813 to Lemberg, where he received at the U. a medical education. After serving in the Austrian army, he was some years connected with the stage in Vienna; became manager of the German Opera at Paris in 1842, and a playwright, and came to the U. S. in Dec. 1848. In Mar. 1850, he became pub. editor and proprietor of the Anzeiger des Westens at St. Louis, one of the most influential German papers of the west. — Edward's Great West.

Bogardus, JAMES, inventor, b. Catskill, N.Y., 14 Mar. 1800; apprenticed to a watchmaker, 1814; invented the Ring Flyer for cotton-spinning, 1828; a dry gas-meter, 1832; an engraving machine, 1836; a machine for pressing glass ab. 1840, and many other mechanical improvements. His factory in N.Y., constructed, in 1847, entirely of iron, was the first erected in the U. S. of that material. Another remarkable invention of his is the pyrometer; d. N. Y. City Apr. 13, 1874.

Bogardus, GEN. ROBERT, near 50 years a practitioner at the N.Y. bar; d. N.Y. City, Sept. 12, 1841, a. 70. Col. 41st Inf. from July 29, 1813, to June, 1815.

Bogart, ELIZABETH, poetess, b. N.Y. City; contrib. to the N.Y. Mirror under the nom de plume "Estelle." — See Specimens in "Griswold's Female Poets of America."

Boggs, CHARLES STUART, rear-admiral U.S.N., b. Brunswick, N. J., Jan. 28, 1810. Nephew of Capt. James Lawrence, he entered the navy, Nov. 1, 1826; lieut. Sept. 6, 1837; was in "The Princeton" of Com. Conner's squadron during the Mexican war; was present at the siege of Vera Cruz; com. boat exped. which destroyed "The Truxton" after her surrender to the Mexicans; commander, Sept. 14, 1855, and assigned by the sec. of the navy to the U.S. mail-steamer "Illinois," which he com. 3 years. He then became light-house insp. for California, Oregon, and Washington Territory. In 1861, he was ordered to the gunboat "Varuna" of Farragut's Gulf squadron. In the attack on the Mpi. forts, Apr. 18–24, he destroyed 6 of the Confederate gunboats, but finally lost his own vessel after driving his antagonist ashore in flames. He returned to Washington as bearer of despatches; was ordered to the command of the new sloop-of-war "Juniata;" was promoted to the rank of capt. July 16, 1862; commodore, July 25, 1866; com. steamer "De Soto," N. Atl. squad. 1867–8; rear-adm. July, 1870.

Bohlen, GEN. HENRY, b. Bremen, Oct. 22, 1810; killed in Va., Aug. 22, 1862. He came to Amer. young, and settled as a liquor-merchant in Phila. In 1861, he became col. 75th Pa. (German) vols., and was attached to Gen. Blenker's com. Made brig.-gen. of vols. Apr. 28, 1862, he served under Fremont in Western Va., disting. himself at the battle of Cross Keys, June 8, and was specially commended for his services in the Shenandoah Valley under Gen. Sigel. He covered the retreat of the army of Va. across the Rappahannock, and fell while directing the movements of his brigade in a skirmish near that river. His son, who was on a visit to his native land, d. in Baden-Baden on the same day with his father.

Boker, GEORGE HENRY, dramatist and poet, b. Phila., 1823. N. J. Coll. 1842. He studied, but never practised law. After a tour in Europe, he returned to Phila., and, in 1847, pub. "The Lesson of Life and other Poems." He has also written "Calaynos," a tragedy, 1848, successfully performed in London; "Anne Boleyn," "Leonor de Guzman," "Francesca da Rimini," "The Betrothal," "The Widow's Marriage," a comedy, and some minor poems, "War Lyrics," "All the World a Mask," "Konigsmark and other Poems," and "Plays and Poems," 2 vols.

Bolivar y Ponte (bo-lee'-vär e pon'-tā), SIMON, the "liberator" of Colombia, b. Caracas, July 24, 1783; d. San Pedro, near Santa Martha, Dec. 17, 1830. Of a wealthy Creole family, he was educated at Madrid and Paris. He returned from a second visit to Europe in 1809, and, in 1810, was sent by the Revolutionists on a mission to purchase arms, and solicit the protection of the British Govt. In Sept. 1811, Miranda, the insurgent chief, gave him the rank of lieut.-col. and the com. of Puerto Cabello, the strongest fortress of Venezuela. In Jan. 1813, he headed an exped. at Carthagena against Venezuela, which in a short time left to the Spaniards only the fortress of Puerto Cabello. The victories of Boves, however, soon changed the aspect of affairs. Bolivar, who had been made dictator, was defeated by Boves, Aug. 8, 1814; distrust and dissension ensued among the republicans; and Bolivar returned to New Granada, where he was made com.-in-chief; but his military operations were unsuccessful, and on the arrival of Morillo with Spanish re-enforcements, March 25, 1815, Bolivar fled to Jamaica. In concert with Louis Brion, he undertook an exped. April 16, 1816, against Venezuela, and by July 20, 1817, the Spaniards had evacuated the whole of the provinces. Nevertheless, by the end of May, 1818, he had lost a number of battles, and all the provinces lying north of the Orinoco. The convening of a national Congress, and the aid of foreigners, again turned the scale. He was made pres. of Venezuela in Feb. 1819, and in Aug. entered Bogota in triumph. In June, 1821, he gained the victory of Carabobo. The Republics of Venezuela and New Granada having united, under the name of the Republic of Colombia, in 1821, Bolivar was elected pres. In 1823, he went to the assistance of the Peruvians, aided them in establishing their independence, and was rewarded with supreme authority, which he resigned in Jan. 1825. In 1825, he was declared perpetual protector of Bolivia; for which State he framed a constitution, giving to the pres. for life irresponsible powers. The purity of his motives was called in question; and he was charged with aiming at a perpetual dictatorship. Paez, the Vice-Pres. of Venezuela, revolted, secretly instigated, it is said, by Bolivar, who led his body-guard and 1,800 Peruvians against the rebels. When they met, he confirmed Paez in his com., rebuked the friends of the constitution, and assumed dictatorial powers, Nov. 23, 1826. In Dec. 1826, he was declared pres. for life of Peru, which had adopted the Bolivian code. His aim was the erection of the whole of S. America into one republic, with himself as its dictator. The Colombian troops in Peru having revolted, Gen. Lamar was made pres. of Peru, and, driving out the Colombians, waged a successful war against Colombia; and the Congress of Ocaña, convoked by Bolivar with a view to modify the constitution in favor of his arbitrary power, in March, 1828, came to naught. Paez having been placed at the head of Venezuela, and insurrections having broken out in several places, Bolivar resigned for the 5th time in Jan. 1830, but again accepted the presidency, and, with 8,000 men, entered Maracaibo; but, being confronted by Paez with a strong force, he finally resigned, April 27, 1830. Bolivar is represented as a coward and an unskilful general; but his services in securing the independence, and in ably organizing three great republics, entitle him to distinction among the founders of States.

Digitized by Google

Bollan, William, agent of Ms. in Eng.; d. there in 1776. He was bred to the legal profession; came to Boston, ab. 1740, with Gov. Shirley, whose dau. he m. in 1743. He was conspicuous for talent and integrity. In 1745, when he had just received the app. of collector of customs for Salem and Marblehead, he was sent to Eng. as agent to solicit a re-imbursement of the expenses incurred in the exped. against Cape Breton. After 3 years' labor, he at last succeeded in obtaining a full repayment of the expenditure, £183,649. He was again sent to Eng. as agent, but was dismissed in 1762. In 1769, he obtained from Alderman Beckford copies of 33 letters, from Govs. Bernard and Gage, calumniating the inhabitants of Boston, which he sent to Ms., being then in the employ of the council; and this act, for which he was denounced in parliament by Lord North, restored his popularity here. In 1775, he exerted himself in recommending conciliatory measures to the mother-country; and John Hancock declared in the house of representatives, that there was no man to whom the Colonies were more indebted. He pub. "Importance and Advantage of Cape Breton truly stated," Lond., 1746; "Coloniæ Anglicanæ Illustratæ," Lond., 1762; "Ancient Rights to the Amer. Fishery examined and stated," Lond., 1764; "Freedom of Speech and Writing upon Public Affairs considered," Lond., 1770; "A Petition to the King in Council, Jan. 26, 1774, intended to promote the Harmony of Great Britain and her Colonies." This petition he offered as agent for Ms.

Bollman, Eric, M.D, memorable for his efforts for the escape of Lafayette from the Austrian prison of Olmutz, b. Hoya, Hanover, 1769; d. Jamaica, Dec. 9, 1821. After studying medicine at Göttingen, he practised at Carlsruhe and in Paris, where he became an actor in the Revol., aiding Count Narbonne to escape to London. In 1794, aided by Col. Francis Huger, of S. C., he attempted the liberation of Lafayette. They rescued him from the guard, Nov. 8, but, losing their way, were captured. For this attempt, he was imprisoned one year, and then banished. Emigrating to Amer., he applied himself to mercantile and scientific pursuits, especially chemistry and political economy; was implicated in Aaron Burr's conspiracy in 1806; returned to Europe in 1814, and attended the Congress of Vienna. He afterwards visited S. America. He wrote "Paragraphs on Banks," 1810; "Improved System of the Money Concerns of the Union," 1816; "Strictures on the Theories of M. Ricardo."

Bolton, William Compton, capt. U.S.N., b. Eng.; d. Genoa, 22 Feb. 1849. Midshipman, 20 June, 1806; lieut. 4 Jan. 1813; master com. 28 Mar. 1820; capt. 21 Feb. 1831. His original name, Wm. Bolton Finch, was changed by act of Congress, 14 Jan. 1833. He com. "The Vincennes" in 1829–30, and the Medit. squad. in 1848–9.

Bomford, George, col. of ordnance, U. S.A., b. N. Y., 1780; d. Boston, Mar. 25, 1848. West Point. Lieut. of engineers, 1805; was made capt. 23 Feb. 1808; maj. July 6, 1812; inventor of bomb cannon, called "Columbiads," used in the War of 1812, afterward introduced with slight modification, in the French service, by Gen. Paixhan, and called "Paixhan Guns;" brev. lieut.-col. Dec. 22, 1814, and col. of ordnance, May 30, 1832. He won distinction in the War of 1812, his skill and inventive talent being of great use; he being almost the only one well informed in the manuf. of ordnance in the U.S. — Cullum.

Bomford, James V., son of Col. George, b. N. Y. West Point, 1832. Capt. 4 Mar. 1845; brev. maj. for gallantry in battles of Contreras and Churubusco, Aug. 20, 1847, in the storming-party, and brev. lieut.-col. for Molino del Rey, 8 Sept. 1847, and disting. at Chapultepec; maj. 6th Inf. Oct. 17, 1860, lieut.-col. 16th, Jan. 10, 1862; col. 8th Inf. May 18, 1864. Chief of staff to Gen. McCook, at the battle of Perryville, for which brev. col. 8 Oct. 1862. — Cullum.

Bonaparte, Charles Lucien Jules Laurence, prince of Canino and Musignano, an eminent ornithologist, eldest son of Lucien, bro. of Napoleon Bonaparte, b. Paris, May 24, 1803; d. there July 30, 1857. A.M. of N.J. Coll. 1825. During the revol. of 1848, he was one of the leaders of the repub. party at Rome, and in 1849 was vice-pres. of the constituent assembly. During his residence in the U.S., he pub. a continuation, in 4 vols., of Wilson's Ornithology, "Observations on the Nomenclature of Wilson's Ornithology" in the Journal of the Acad. of Phila., "A Synopsis of the Birds of the U.S." for the "Annals of the Lyceum of N.Y.," and "A Catalogue of Birds of the U.S.," in the Contributions of the Maclurian Lyceum of Phila., besides numerous articles on ornithology in the same journals. His principal work is "Iconografia della Fauna Ital soa," 3 vols., fol., Rome, 1835–45. He has also contrib. to various scientific journals. — See Memoirs of, written by himself, N.Y., 1836.

Digitized by Google

Bonaparte, JEROME NAPOLEON, son of Jerome (Napoleon's bro.) and Elizabeth, dau. of Wm. Patterson, merchant of Baltimore. B. Eng., July 7, 1805; d. Baltimore, June 17, 1870. H.U. 1826. His mother, who had m. Jerome on his visit to Amer. as capt. of a frigate, in Dec. 1803, and who was abandoned by him on account of Napoleon's displeasure at the match, returned to the U.S. during his boyhood, and he was reared in Baltimore. He studied, but never practised, law. Early in life, he m. Susan May, dau. of Benjamin Williams of Roxbury, Ms. He resembled Napoleon, more than either of his own brothers did, in the shape of the head, regularity of features, and the dark eyes of peculiar tint which characterized the emperor. He had two sons, Jerome and Charles Joseph.

Bond, GEORGE PHILLIPS, director of the Cambridge Observatory, and Phillips Prof. of astronomy, H.U., from 1859 to his d. Feb. 17, 1865, b. Dorchester, Ms., May 20, 1825. H.U. 1845. Son of Wm. Cranch Bond. Member of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences, and an astronomer of the highest rank. He received from the Royal Astron. Soc., London, a gold medal for his great work on the Donati Comet. Author of papers on the Rings of Saturn, on the Orbits of Hyperion, on the Nebula of Andromeda, on Stellar Photography, &c.

Bond, HENRY, M.D., physician and genealogist, b. Watertown, Ms., March 21, 1790; d. Phila., May 4, 1859. Dartm. Coll. 1813. Grandson of Col. Wm. Bond of the Revol. army, who d. near Ticonderoga, 31 Aug. 1776. He studied medicine, settled first in Concord, N.H., and in Nov. 1819, in Phila., where he resided till his death. He was the author of many valuable papers on professional subjects, and contrib. largely to medical and other journals; was a member of numerous historical and other societies, and of religious and charitable associations, and was several years pres. of the Phila. Board of Health. Besides his high reputation as a physician, he obtained that, also, of being a successful and thorough genealogist. In 1855, he pub. his "Genealogies and History of Watertown, Ms.," unrivalled among works of its kind. — See N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Reg. xiii, 174.

Bond, SHADRACH, gov. of Ill. 1818–22, b. Md.; d. Kaskaskia, Ill., 13 Apr. 1832. An early emig. to Ill.; many years a disting. member of the territ. legisl; deleg. to Congress, 1811–15, and, in 1815, app. receiver of public moneys.

Bond, THOMAS EMERSON, M.D., D.D., Meth.-Ep. clergyman, b. Baltimore, Feb. 1782; d. N.Y., March 14, 1856. Engaged in practice in Baltimore, he rapidly rose in the profession, and was called to a chair in the Med. Coll. of Md., which he filled until declining health obliged him to resign. He united himself early with the M. E. Church, and filled, for many years, the office of a local preacher. During what was termed the "Radical Controversy," he edited the Itinerant, defending with much ability the polity of his sect. For 12 years, he conducted the Christian Advocate and Journal, its leading official organ, earning the title of "Defender of the Church."

Bond, WILLIAM CRANCH, astronomer, b. Portland, Me., Sept. 9, 1789; d. Cambridge, Ms., Jan. 29, 1859. While an apprentice to his father, a watchmaker, he showed a love for astronomy, and at an early age established a private observatory at Dorchester. In 1815, he went to Europe, and executed a commission from H.U. for a contemplated observatory. In 1838, he was app. by the U.S. Govt. to conduct a series of astronomical and meteorological observations in connection with the exploring exped. then fitting out. In 1839, he was app. superintendent of the erection of the observatory of H.U., of which he became director. He ranked among the greatest astronomers of his time. He pub. "Result of Astron. Observ. in 1852–3," 4to, Camb., 1855. In 1842, the honorary degree of A.M. was conferred upon him by H.U.; and he was a member of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences, of the Philos. Soc., and of the Royal Astronomical Soc. of London.

Bonham, MILLEDGE L., gen. C.S.A., b. S.C., ab. 1815. S.C. Coll. 1834. He studied law; was adm. to the bar at Columbia in 1837, and settled at Edgefield, C.H. Served in Mexico at the head of a batt. of S.C. troops; was solicitor for the Southern Circuit, from 1848 to 1850; and was M.C. from 1856 until the withdrawal of the members from S.C., — Dec. 24, 1860, after the secession of that State. App. maj.-gen. of the S.C. troops, and afterward brig.-gen in the Confed. army, and took part in the battles of Blackburn's Ford and Bull Run. Being elected to the Confederate Congress, he withdrew from the army; gov. of S.C. 1862–4, and then resumed his military position, which he held at the time of Lee's surrender.

Bonner, ROBERT, proprietor of the N.Y. Ledger, b. Londonderry, Ireland, Apr. 28, 1824, of Scotch Presb. ancest. While a lad in the printing-office of the Hartford Courant, he could set up more type in a day than any man in the State. He went to N.Y. City in 1844; purchasing the Ledger, an obscure sheet, he brought it to the high position it now occupies, by engaging Fanny Fern, Edw. Everett, H. W. Beecher, and other eminent writers, as contributors. By industry and sagacity, he has acquired a large fortune, and has made the Ledger the foremost weekly paper in the world.

Bonneville (bon'-vēl'), C. DE, a French engineer, b. Lyons, ab. 1710; d. ab. 1780. He was a capt. of engineers, and after serving in Prussia, and being imprisoned some time in the Fortress of Spandau, was employed in the war against the English, terminated by the peace of 1763. While in America, he turned his attention to the study of the productions of this part of the world, as well as the manners of its inhabitants, and pub., in 1771, "De l'Amérique et des Américains," &c. Bonneville was the author of several other works — Nouv. Biog. Univ. Suppt.

Bonneville, BENJAMIN L. E., brev. brig.-gen. U S.A., b. France, ab. 1795. West Point, 1815. Lieut. of artillery, Dec. 11, 1815; assist. commissary of subsist. Oct. 1813; capt. 14 Oct. 1825; maj. 6th Inf. July 15, 1845; com.

Digitized by Google

that regt. in the Valley of Mexico; brev. lieut.-col. for Contreras and Churubusco, Aug. 20, 1847, in which he was wounded; lieut.-col. 4th Inf. May 7, 1849; col. 3d Inf. Feb. 3, 1855; com. in the Gila exped. in June, 1857; retired Sept. 9, 1861; made brev. brig.-gen. March 13, 1865. Author of a Journal of an Exped. to the Rocky Mountains, edited by Washington Irving.

Bonnycastle, CHARLES, mathematician, b. Woolwich, Eng., 1792; d. at the U. of Va., Oct. 1840. John, his father, was prof. of mathematics at the Military Acad. of Woolwich, and was assisted by his son in the preparation of several elementary books on mathematical subjects, occasionally writing articles for the encyclopædias and for periodicals. App. first prof. of natural philosophy in the U. of Va., he arrived in the U.S. in Feb. 1825, and, in 1827, he was, at his own request, transferred to the chair of mathematics. Author of a treatise on Inductive Geometry, and several memoirs on scientific subjects.

Bonnycastle, SIR RICHARD HENRY, bro. of the preceding, b. 1791; d. 1848. He served at Flushing in 1809, in Canada in 1812–15; became capt. of royal engineers in 1825; was com. engineer in Canada West, from 1837 to 1839; was knighted for services in the defence of Kingston, Canada, in 1837; was com. engineer in Newfoundland, and in 1848 was made lieut.-col. He is the author of "The Canadas in 1841," "Canada as it Was, Is, and May Be," &c., and "Spanish America," Lond., 2 vols., 1818. — Morgan.

Bonpland (bŏn'-plŏn'), AIMÉ, a French traveller and naturalist, b. La Rochelle, Aug. 22, 1773; d. Santa Aña in Uruguay, 11 May, 1858. While a medical student, he was, for a short time, a surgeon in a man-of-war. At Paris, he became the pupil of Corvisart, and the friend and fellow-student of Humboldt, whom he accomp. in the scientific journey described in Humboldt's "Voyage to the Equinoctial Regions of the New World." After 5 years' absence, Bonpland presented his collections to the govt., and was rewarded with a pension. Made intendant of Malmaison, he devoted himself to the publication of his travels, but, on the death of the Empress Josephine, returned to Amer., reaching Buenos Ayres in 1816. Having set out on his travels to the Andes, he visited the old missions of the Jesuits in Paraguay, where he was arrested by the agents of the dictator Francia, in 1821, who detained him in the country, and forced him to support himself by the practice of medicine in an Indian village. He was released in Feb. 1831, afterward m. an Indian woman, and retired to a plantation near Borja in Uruguay. His "Nova Genera et Species Plantarum," 12 vols., folio (Paris, 1815–29), with 700 colored plates, is one of the finest works ever printed. Author, also, of "Equinoctial Plants of Mexico, Cuba," &c., 2 vols., fol., 140 plates.

Boomer, GEORGE BOARDMAN, brig.-gen. vols., b. Sutton, Ms., July 26, 1832; killed at Vicksburg, Mpi., May 22, 1863. Son of Rev. Job Borden Boomer. Settled at an early age at St. Louis, as a bridge-builder. He laid out and partly built the town of Castle Rock on the Osage River. As col. 22d Mo. Vols., he was present at the surrender of Island No. 10, and, at the battle of Iuka, was disting., and severely wounded. At the battle of Champion Hills, near Vicksburg, he com. the 2d brigade of Quinby's div., McPherson's corps, with such conspicuous gallantry, that he was highly recommended for promotion. Killed in a charge on the fortifications of Vicksburg.

Boone, DANIEL, pioneer settler of Ky., b. Bucks Co., Pa., 11 Feb. 1735; d. Charette, Mo., 26 Sept. 1820. His parents, who were English, removed to the Yadkin River, N. C., where Boone became a skilful hunter and woodsman From May, 1769 to Mar. 1771, he was exploring the wilds of Ky., whither, in Sept. 1773, he led a party of settlers. In June, 1774, he conducted a party of surveyors to the falls of Ohio, and, in the campaign against the Shawnees, defended against their attacks 3 frontier forts. In April, 1775, he built the fort where Boonesborough now stands, and repulsed several attacks made at various times by hostile Indians. 7 Feb. 1778, while making salt at the Licking River, he was captured, and taken to Detroit. Adopted into an Indian family at Chillicothe, he escaped, June 16, on learning of an intended attack on Boonesborough, reaching the fort, 160 miles distant, in 4 days. In 1780, he took part in the disastrous battle of the Blue Licks, where he lost his second son, and accomp. Gen. Clarke's exped. against Vincennes immediately afterward. In 1795, having been deprived of the lands he had settled, in consequence of an imperfect legal title, he indignantly shouldered his rifle, and plunged into the forests of Missouri. Here a valuable tract of land in the Femme Osage district was given him for his services, which he also lost, because he would not go to New Orleans to complete his title. He had left Ky. in debt, but eventually obtained a valuable lot of peltry, turned it into cash, went on foot to Ky., paid every one whatever was demanded, and, returning home with half a dollar, said he was ready to die content. Notwithstanding his many Indian encounters, Boone was a lover of peace, and was moral, temperate, and chaste. In 1810, he went to live with his son-in-law, Flanders Calloway. His portrait, by Chester Harding, is in the State House of Ky. An account of his adventures, by himself, was pub. in Filson's Supplement to Imlay's Description of the Western Terr., 1793. His son Nathan L., col. U.S.A., served in the War of 1812; d. Springfield, Mo., Jan. 1857, a 75.

Boone, WILLIAM JONES, D.D., Prot.-Ep. missionary, bishop to Shanghai, China, b. S.C., July 1, 1813; d. Shanghai, July 17, 1864. He studied law, then theology, at the sem. at Alexandria, Va., and, in Jan. 1837, went as a missionary to China. Consecrated bishop, 26 Oct. 1844. Having a thorough knowledge of Chinese language and literature, he translated the prayer-book in 1846, and was selected to review the translation of the Bible, in which he displayed great ability and learning.

Booth, EDWIN F., actor, son of the celebrated J. B. Booth, b. on his father's farm near Baltimore, Md., in Nov. 1833. He was ed acted for the stage, travelling with his father on his starring engagements, occasionally playing small parts, and making his first regular appearance at the Boston Museum, Sept. 10, 1849, as Tressell in "Richard III." In 1851, on occasion of his father's illness, he took his place, playing Richard at the Chatham Theatre, N.Y. In 1852, he went to Cal., and engaged for "utility" business, and in 1854 visited Australia, stopping on the way at many of the Pacific islands. He returned to Cal. after playing a successful engagement in the Sandwich Islands, and in 1857 appeared as Richard at Burton's Theatre, N.Y. In Nov. 1860, when he played at this theatre, under its new name of the "Winter Garden," he achieved that high position on the stage which he now holds. He made a professional visit to Eng. in the summer of 1861, played at the Haymarket, studied his art one year on the Continent, and returned to its practice in N.Y. in Sept. 1862. He has won high distinction in the character of Hamlet. In 1869, he erected on 23d St., N.Y., a magnificent theatre. His first wife, Mary Devlin, a danseuse, d. Dorchester, Ms., Feb. 21, 1863. June 7, 1869, he m. Mary McVicker, née Runnion.

Digitized by Google

Booth, James C., chemist, b. 1810. Prof. of applied chemistry in Franklin Institute; melter and refiner in U.S. Mint., Phila. Has pub. "Encyclopædia of Chemistry," &c., 1850; "Recent Improvements in the Chemical Arts," 1851, in the Smithsonian Reports. In both works, he was assisted by Campbell Morfit.

Booth, John Wilkes, the assassin of President Lincoln, b. Harford Co., Md., 1839; d. April 26, 1865. Third son of the celebrated actor. His early education was irregular, and deficient in moral training. In 1856, he went on the stage, where he was noticeable for beauty, grace, and physical strength, but became dissipated in his habits. From the outbreak of the Rebellion, he was a violent secessionist, so much so, that his brother Edwin, the tragedian, forbade him his house. He withdrew from the stage early in 1864, for the purpose, as is supposed, of plotting the crime he afterward perpetrated; failed in an attempt to abduct Mr. Lincoln early in 1865, and failed again in the attempt to murder him on the day of his inauguration. Enlarging his scheme to include the principal members of the cabinet, the vice-pres., and the lieut.-gen., he trained several accomplices, who all failed; though Mr. Seward and his son were saved from death almost by miracle. On the evening of April 14, after firing the fatal shot at Mr. Lincoln, at Ford's Theatre, Booth leaped from the box to the stage; and, his spur catching upon the flag which draped the front of the President's box, he fell upon the stage, and fractured one of the bones of the leg, but, springing up, he flourished a knife, and shouting, "Sic semper tyrannis," fled by a private entrance, where one of his accomplices was holding a horse for him. With Harold, another accomplice, he rode near 30 miles, to the house of Dr. Mudd in Va., where his broken limb was set. Mudd aided his escape southward; and he crossed the Rappahannock at Swan Point, making his way with great dificulty to Garrett's Farm, ab. 20 miles below Fredericksburg. Here Col. Baker, with a squad of detectives, found him on the night of April 25; and, refusing to surrender, he was shot.

Booth, Junius Brutus, the greatest of American tragedians, b. London, May 1, 1796; d. on the passage from N. Orleans to Cincinnati, Dec. 1, 1852. His father was an atty., his mother a lineal descendant of John Wilkes. After trying various avocations, he joined a strolling company, and appeared at Peckham, Sept. 13, 1813, as Campillo, in "The Honeymoon." After performing at Deptford, near London, and at Brussels, in 1814 he made his début at Covent Garden Theatre, London, as Richard III. His personification of the character was so striking, that he competed successfully with the famous Edmund Kean. The managers of Drury Lane induced him to act there in the same plays with Kean; but when, after a few nights, he was again announced at Covent Garden, his appearance was the signal for a serious theatrical riot, which resulted in driving him, for a time, from the London stage. July 13, 1821, he made his first appearance in the U.S., at Petersburg, Va., and, Oct. 5, at the Park Theatre, N.Y., in his favorite character of Richard. From that time until the close of his life, he acted in nearly every theatre in the U.S., and in spite of his irregular habits, which sometimes interfered with the performance of his engagements, enjoyed an extraordinary popularity. In 1824, he bought a farm in Bel Air, 30 miles from Baltimore, where he lived in a retired and frugal manner, selling his eggs and butter in that city. In 1825, he visited Eng., opened at Drury Lane as Brutus, and revisited it in 1836. His last appearance was at the St. Charles, N. Orleans, Nov. 19, 1852, as Mortimer and John Lump. He had just returned from a lucrative tour to Cal. when he died. His range of characters was confined almost exclusively to those which he had studied in the beginning of his career. In that of Richard, after the death of Kean, he had no rival. Among his other most popular personations were Iago, Sir Giles Overreach, Pescara, Lear, Shylock, Hamlet, and Sir Edmund Mortimer. In his peculiar sphere, — the sudden and nervous expression of concentrated passion, — as also in the more quiet and subtile passages of his delineations, he exercised a wonderful sway over his audience. His voice was singularly flexible and melodious, and susceptible of the most exquisite pathos. He was, unquestionably, one of the greatest actors that ever lived. No animal food was permitted in his family, and all animal life was sacred to him. He reverenced all forms of religion and all temples of devotion; never passing them without baring his head. Several of his children inherited a portion of his dramatic talent, and one of them, Edwin, has attained an enviable position on the American boards. — See Life, by his daughter, N.Y., 1866.

Booth, Mrs. Mary H. C., poet, b. Ct., 1831; d. N.Y. City, 11 Apr., 1865. She m. an editor, with whom she went to Milwaukee, Wis., ab. 1850. She resided a few years in Zurich for the benefit of her impaired health, corresponding with some American papers and journals, and, in 1864, pub. a vol. of poems, "Wayside Blossoms." She returned to N.Y. in that year.

Digitized by Google

Booth, MARY L., author and translator, b. Yaphank, L.I., April 19, 1831. In 1845–6, she taught in her father's school at Williamsburg, L.I., but relinquished the pursuit on account of ill health. She then became a contrib. to various journals and magazines. She has translated many works from the French. In 1859, she pub. "A Hist. of the City of New York." She is at present engaged in translating Henri Martin's "History of France." — Duyckinck.

Borda, JEAN CHARLES, a scientific French navigator, b. Dax, 4 May, 1733; d. Paris, 20 Feb. 1799. He was a teacher of mathematics; became a capt. in the French navy, and by his scientific knowledge was of great service to the Count D'Estaing during the Amer. war, in which he com. the "Solitaire" with distinction. Made a member of the Acad. of Sciences in 1756. In 1771, he made a voyage to Amer. for scientific purposes, and again in 1774, and at a later period, of which he pub. an account in 1778. He founded the School of Naval Architecture in France, invented nautical instruments, was one of the scientific men who framed the French metric system, and pub. some treatises on hydraulics. Member of the French Institute.

Borden, SIMEON, civil engineer, b. Fall River, Ms., Jan. 29, 1798; d. there Oct. 28, 1856. Brought up at Tiverton, R.I., he studied mathematics and geometry, as applied to mechanical combinations, and made himself one of the ablest practical mechanics of his day. Becoming a surveyor, he made his own surveying compass, took charge of a machine-shop in Fall River in 1828, and in 1830 devised and constructed for the State of Ms. an apparatus for measuring the base line of the trigonometrical survey of that State, of which he took charge in 1834–41. An account of it may be found in "The Amer. Phil. Transactions," vol. ix., p. 34. He traced and marked the boundary lines between Ms. and R.I.; also constructed several railroads, and pub. in 1851 "Formula for Constructing Railroads." In 1851, he suspended a telegraph-wire across the Hudson, from the Palisades to Fort Washington, upon masts 220 feet high. Member of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences, the Philos. Society, and other learned bodies.

Bordley, JOHN BEALE, judge and agric. writer, b. Annapolis, Md., Feb. 11, 1727; d. Phila., Jan. 26, 1804. A lawyer by profession, he was prothonotary of Baltimore Co. in 1753–66; judge of the Prov. Court in 1766, and of the Admiralty Court in 1767–76, and a commissioner to fix the boundary line between Md. and Del. in 1768. He was one of the few who held seats in the Prov. councils of the time, who acquiesced in the Revol., and rejoiced in its accomplishment. Removing to Phila. in 1793, he established there the first agric. society in the U. S. Fond of husbandry, by his experiments upon his estate in Wye Island, in Chesapeake Bay, and by his writings, he was instrumental in diffusing a knowledge of the art. He pub. "Forsyth on Fruit-Trees, with Notes;" "On Rotation of Crops," 1792, "Essays and Notes on Husbandry and Rural Affairs, with plates," 1799–1801; and "A View of the Courses of Crops in Eng. and Md.," 1784.

Borland, SOLON, soldier and statesman, b. Va.; d. in Texas, Jan. 31, 1864. Educated in N.C. Settled as a physician in Little Rock, Ark. Served in the Mexican war as maj. in Yell's caval.; made prisoner with Maj. Gaines in Jan. 1847, and aide-de-camp to Gen. Worth in the battle of El Molino, and up to the capture of the city of Mexico, Sept. 14, 1847. U. S. senator from Ark. from 1849 to 1853, and was app. by Pres. Pierce minister to Central Amer. He also received from him the app. of gov. of the Territory of New Mexico, but declined. An insult offered him in May, 1854, at San Juan de Nicaragua, was the principal cause for the bombardment of the town by Commander Hollins of the sloop-of-war "Cyane," July 13, 1854. He resumed practice at Little Rock, until the spring of 1861, when, long before the secession of the State, he raised a body of troops, and, Apr. 24, took possession of Fort Smith. He held the rank of brig.-gen. in the rebel army.

Boscawen, EDWARD, a Brit. admiral, b. Aug. 19, 1711; d. Jan. 10, 1761. Capt. R. N. 12 Mar. 1737. Having particularly disting. himself at Portobello and at Carthagena, he was in 1744 promoted to "The Dreadnought" of 60 guns, in which he took "The Media." At the battle off Cape Finisterre in 1747, he signalized himself under Anson, and, being made a rear-admiral, was despatched in 1748, with a squadron, to the East Indies. Failing in an attempt on Pondicherry, he succeeded in making himself master of Madras, and, upon returning to Eng., took his seat at the admiralty board in 1751. In 1755, he sailed for N. Amer., and, in an action with a French squadron, captured two ships of the line. In 1758, he succeeded in reducing Louisburg and Cape Breton in conjunction with Gen. Amherst, who com. the land forces; and in 1759, having then the com. in the Mediterranean, pursued the Toulon fleet under De la Clue through the Straits of Gibraltar, and, coming up with it in Lagos Bay, completely defeated it, burning two ships, and taking three. The thanks of parliament, and £3,000 a year, with the rank of gen. of marines, was the reward of these services. M. P. 1743–61.

Bostwick, DAVID, Presb. divine, b. New Milford, Ct., Jan. 8, 1721; d. N.Y. City, Nov. 12, 1763. A. M. of N. J. Coll. 1756. John, his grandfather, came from Cheshire, Eng., to Stratford, Ct., ab. 1668. After teaching in an acad. at Newark, N. J., he was pastor of the church at Jamaica, L. I., from Oct. 9, 1745, to May, 1756, and of the Presb. church in N.Y., from 1756 till his death. He was a man of great eloquence. He pub. a sermon, "Self disclaimed, and Christ exalted," 1758; a "Life of President Davies," prefixed to his sermon on the "Death of George II." 1761; and a "Vindication of Infant Baptism," repub. Lond., 1765. — Sprague.

Bostwick, HELEN LOUISE (BARROW), poet, b. Charlestown, N.H., 1826. Dau. of Dr.

Digitized by Google

Putnam Barrow; removed to O. in 1838; m. there in 1844; resides at Ravenna, O. Long a contrib. to literary journals. A vol. of her poems has been pub. in N.Y., entitled "Buds, Blossoms, and Berries." — Poets and Poetry of the West.

Bossu, F., a French traveller, b. Baigneux-les-juifs, ab. 1725. Capt. in the navy, he was one of the first travellers who explored La. He made three journeys in this country by order of his government, and pub. an account of his discoveries, in two works, entitled "Nouveaux Voyages aux Indies Occidentales," etc. Paris, 1768, translated into English by J. B. Forster, with the title of "Travels through that Part of North America formerly called Louisiana, Lond., 1771; and "Nouveaux Voyages dans l'Amérique Septentrionale," Amsterdam, 1777, 8vo.

Botetourt, Norbonne Berkeley, Baron de, one of the last and best of the royal governors of Va., b. ab. 1734; d. Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 15, 1770. Son of John Symes Berkeley; was col. of the N. Gloucestershire militia in 1761; represented that shire in parliament, and in 1764 was raised to the peerage. Having ruined himself by gaming, he became, says Junius, "a cringing, bowing, fawning, sword-bearing courtier." In July, 1768, he was made gov. of Va. Instructed to assume more dignity than was usual with colonial governors, he paraded the streets of Williamsburg with guards, a coach, and other insignia of vice-regal pomp. The Va. Assembly, having in 1769 passed resolutions against parliamentary taxation, and the sending accused persons to Eng. for trial, was dissolved by him. He was deeply mortified by the widening of the breach between Eng. and the Colonies, and soon after d. of disease aggravated by mental suffering. In 1774, a statue was erected to his memory by the Assembly. He was a warm friend to William and Mary Coll. and was extremely partial to literary men.

Botta, Anne Charlotte (Lynch), poetess, b. Bennington, Vt. Her father, one of the United Irishmen of '98, was banished for life, and came to Amer. Miss Lynch, who was educated at Albany, began early to contrib. to literary journals; pub. at Providence, in 1841, "The R.I. Book," and soon after removed to N. Y. City. A coll. of her poems, illustrated by Durand, Darley, Huntington, Brown, and other artists, has been pub. Her prose contribs. to periodicals, consisting of essays, tales, and criticisms, are numerous. She was m. in 1855 to Vincenzo Botta, nephew of the historian of America, formerly doctor of philosophy and divinity in the U. of Turin, member of the Sardinian parliament of 1849, and author of a work on public education, pub. under the patronage of that government; author, also, of "Hand-book of Universal Literature."

Botta, Carlo Giuseppe Guglielmo, an Italian historian, b. San Giorgio Canavese, Piedmont, Nov. 6, 1766; d. Paris, Aug. 10, 1837. He received a medical education at Turin, and occupied his leisure in studying botany, music, and literature. In 1792, he was imprisoned, and put to the torture, on a political accusation, but, after 17 months' incarceration, established his innocence, and was released. He then went to France, served as a surgeon in the Army of the Alps, then in that of Italy, and produced his first work, — a plan of govt. for Lombardy. While stationed in 1796, in the Venetian Islands of the Adriatic, he wrote his "Historical and Medical Description of the Island of Corfu." In 1798, he was app. a member of the provisional govt. of Piedmont, which the Austro-Russian invasion soon terminated. He went to France, and was restored to his rank in the medical staff of the Army of Italy. After the battle of Marengo, he was one of the executive commission for the govt. of Piedmont, and in that capacity procured the release from prison of the man who had caused his own imprisonment and torture. He also aided in the establishment of a permanent fund for public instruction. When, in 1802, Piedmont was re-annexed to France, he became a member of the administrative council, and in 1803 was the representative of the dept. in the deputation to Bonaparte. He then pub. his "Précis Historique de la Maison de Savoie et du Piemont." In 1804, he represented the dept. of the Dora in the legisl. body, and thenceforth resided in Paris. In 1808 and '9, he was vice-pres. of the legisl. assembly. On the fall of Napoleon, he retired to private life. In 1815, he pub. "Il Camillo o vejo conquistata," an epic poem in 12 cantos. From 1817 to 1822, he was rector of the acad. of Rouen. His "History of Italy, from 1789 to 1814," appeared in 1824. In 1830, he pub. his "History of Italy, from 1532 to 1789." His "History of the American Revol." was pub. in Paris in 1809, and was translated by G. W. Otis of Boston. It was long the best work on that subject.

Botsford, William, jurist, b. N. Haven, Ct., Apr. 1773; d. Sackville, N.B., 8 May, 1864. Y.C. 1792. Amos, his father, a loyalist, b. Newtown, Ct., 31 Jan. 1744; d. St. John, 14 Mar. 1812 (Y. C. 1763). He was a lawyer, and was two years speaker of the N. S. assembly. The son was adm. to the bar in 1795; was judge of Vice-Admiralty of N. B., 1802–7; member of the assembly, 1812–17; speaker, 1817–23; solicitor-gen. 1817–1823, and was judge of the Supreme Court in 1823–46.

Botts, John Minor, Whig politician, b. Dumfries, Prince Wm. Co., Va., 16 Sept. 1802; d. Richmond, Va., 8 Jan. 1869. He lost his parents at the burning of the Richmond Theatre in 1811. Adm. to the bar in 1820, he practised 6 years, and then retired to a farm in Henrico Co. Prominent in the legisl. in 1833–9; M. C. 1839–43 and 1847–9; a supporter of Mr. Clay for the Presidency in 1844; afterwards attached himself to the Amer. party; opposed the repeal of the Mo. Compromise, and did his best to prevent the secession of Va., after which he retired to his farm, an object of hatred to his fellow-citizens. In Mar. 1862, he was taken at night, and kept in prison 8 weeks in solitary confinement. In 1866, he was prominent in the Southern Loyalists' Convention, and labored earnestly for the early restoration of his State to the Union. After the war, he pub. "The Great Rebellion, its Secret History, &c."

Boucher, Jonathan, Pr.-Ep. clergyman, b. Blencogo, Cumb. Co., Eng., March 12, 1738;

Digitized by Google

d. Epsom, 27 Apr. 1804. He came to Amer. in 1754; was a private tutor some time; afterward an Epis. clergyman at Hanover and St. Mary's Parish, Va., until 1775, when, being a loyalist, his estates were confiscated, and he went to Eng., where he was, until his d., vicar of Epsom. He pub. in 1797 "A View of the Causes and Consequences of the Amer. Revol.," in 13 discourses preached in N. A., 1763–75. He subsequently prepared a "Glossary of Provincial and Archæological Words," purchased of his family in 1831 for the proprietors of Webster's Dictionary.

Boucher (boo'-shā'), PIERRE, gov. of Trois Rivières, Canada, pub. in 1664 an account of Canada, entitled "Histoire Véritable et Naturelle des Mœurs et Productions." He was sent to France to represent the temporal and spiritual wants of the colony, and lived nearly a century.

Bouchette (boo-shĕt'), JOSEPH, topographer, b. Canada, 1774; d. Montreal, Apr. 9, 1841. Son of Commo. B., who was disting. in the early operations of the war of the Revol. on the northern frontier. The son, in 1790, entered the office of his uncle, Maj. Holland, surveyor-gen. of British N. A., to which office he succeeded in 1804. He served meanwhile in the prov. navy on the Lakes, and in the Roy. Canadian Vols., until 1802. He was actively employed in the campaigns of 1813 and 1814. In Aug. 1814, he went to Eng. to pub. his topog. and geog. description of Canada, which appeared in 1816. While there, he was app. surveyor-gen., under the treaty of Ghent, for establishing the boundary between the British possessions and the U. S. This labor occupied him during the years 1817 and 1818. During a second visit to Eng., he pub. "The British Dominions in N. A.," 1831, the result of 15 years' labor on the geography, topography, and statistics of the country; and "Topog. Dict. of Lower Canada," 4to, 1832.

Bouck, WILLIAM C., statesman, b. Schoharie Co., N.Y., 1786; d. there Apr. 19, 1859. He was early elected to town offices; was app. sheriff of the county, 1812; member of the State Assembly, 1813, '15, and '17; State senator, 1820; canal commissioner, 1821–40; gov. of the State, 1843–5; member of the Const. Conv. in 1846; and from 1846 to 1849 was assist. treasurer in N. Y. City. The last ten years of his life were devoted to agriculture.

Boudinot, ELIAS, LL.D. (Y. C. 1790), philanthropist, b. Phila., May 2, 1740; d. Burlington, N. J., Oct. 24, 1821. Of Huguenot descent. He received a classical education, and studied law under Richard Stockton, whose sister he m., and became eminent in his profession. In 1777–8, he was commissary-gen. of prisoners, and in 1778–9, and 1781–3, was a delegate to Congress, of which body he was chosen pres. in 1782, and in that capacity signed the treaty of peace. Resuming the practice of law, he was M. C. 1789–95, and in 1795 succeeded Rittenhouse as director of the U. S. mint, which office he resigned in 1805. He devoted himself earnestly to the study of biblical literature, and, being possessed of an ample fortune, made liberal donations to various charitable and theol. institutions. He was the first pres. of the Bible Society, which he assisted in creating in 1816, and to which he gave $10,000; was a member of the Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, to whom he gave £100 sterling; and was a trustee of Princeton Coll., in which he founded in 1805 the cabinet of natural history, which cost $3,000. He was deeply interested in the efforts to meliorate the condition of the Indians, to instruct the deaf and dumb, to educate youth for the ministry, and to relieve the wants and miseries of the sick or suffering poor; and his home was the seat of hospitality and benevolence. By his last will, he bequeathed his large estate principally to charitable uses. Dr. Boudinot pub. "The Age of Revelation," 1790; an Oration before the Society of the Cincinnati, 1793; "Second Advent of the Messiah," 1815; "Star in the West, or An Attempt to discover the Long-lost Tribes of Israel," 8vo, 1816, in which he concurs with Adair in the opinion that the Indians are the lost tribes.

Bougainville (boo'-găn'-vēl'), LOUIS ANTOINE, a French navigator, b. Paris, 11 Nov. 1729; d. August 31, 1811. He studied for the bar, and was adm. a counsellor of the Parliament of Paris. He paid particular attention to mathematics, and pub. in 1752 a work on the Integral Calculus. In 1753, he became aide-de-camp to Gen. Chevert. He then went to London as sec. of embassy, and was made fellow of the Royal Society. He afterwards served as aide-de-camp under the Marquis de Montcalm, in Canada, was sent to France in 1758 to demand re-enforcements, and returned to Canada in 1759 a col. and a Knight of St. Louis. It was principally owing to his exertions in 1758, that 5,000 French withstood successfully an English army of 16,000 men. On the capture of Quebec, where he distinguished himself greatly, he returned home, and in 1760 was aide-de-camp of Choiseul Stainville in Germany. Peace ensuing, he engaged in the naval service. In his voyage round the world in 1766–9, pub. in 1771, he enriched geography with a great number of discoveries. He com. with distinction ships of the line in the American war, disting. himself in all the engagements between the fleets of France and Eng. He was made commodore in 1779, and in 1780 obtained further promotion. In the memorable defeat of De Grasse, "The Auguste," com. by Bougainville, suffered most severely, but maintained its station in the line to the last extremity, and by a judicious movement succeeded in rescuing 8 sail of his own division, which he conducted safely to St. Eustace. He endeavored, ineffectually, to allay the disturbances at Brest in 1790, but at length retired from professional employment, after having served in the army and navy with great reputation for more than 40 years. In 796, he was elected a member of the geog. section of the institute, and afterwards of the Bureau des Longitudes. He was made a senator on the creation of that body, and afterwards a count of the empire. Commersan, who accompanied him in his voyage round the world, as botanist, gave his name to a new genus of plants of the family of Nyctagineæ, or night-blooming flowers.

Digitized by Google

Bouillé (boo'-yā'), FRANCIS CLAUDE AMOUR, Marquis de, a French gen., b. Auvergne, Nov. 19, 1739; d. London, Nov. 14, 1800. He entered early upon a military career, disting. himself in the seven-years' war; was app. gov. of Guadaloupe in 1768; and, during the Amer. war, conquered Dominica, St. Eustatia, Tobago, St. Christopher, Nevis, and Montserrat, disting. himself no less by his magnanimity than by his prowess. Returning to Paris after the peace of 1783, he was app. a lieut.-gen., and after travelling in England, where he received tokens of admiration from the merchants, through Holland, and a great part of Germany and the Cont., he was made chief of the province Trois-Évêchés. In the assembly of notables, he supported the proposed reforms of Calenne, and displayed bravery and ability in repressing the outbreak of the garrisons of Metz and Nancy, but was distrusted by the revolutionists. He concerted the plan for the escape of Louis XVI., which doubtless would have succeeded, but for the prohibition of bloodshed by the king, and which, even then, came so near succeeding, as to turn upon the slightest accidents. After enlisting under the banners of Condé, and sharing the dangers and fatigues of the emigrant nobility, he went to Eng. in 1796. There he wrote his interesting and impartial "Memoirs of the Revol.," London, 1797.

Boulbon (or RAOUSSET-BOULBON), GASTON RAOULX, Comte de, a French adventurer, b. Avignon, 1817; d. near Guaymas, Aug. 12, 1854. After having squandered his estate in Paris and Algiers, he went, in 1852, to Cal., induced a number of adventurers to join him in an exped. to Sonora, and took possession of the Mexican gold-mines at the point of the bayonet. He then raised 500 men, seized Arispe, the capital of Sonora, and proclaimed a republic. Defeated by the Mexicans Jan. 4, 1853, he returned to Cal., from whence he planned a new invasion in April, 1854, but, again repulsed by the Mexicans July 13, he was captured, and put to death. An account of him was pub. in Paris in 1855.

Bouquet, GEN. HENRY, a British officer, b. Rolle, Switzerland, 1719; d. Pensacola, Fla., Feb. 1766. Entering the Dutch service, he was afterward in that of Sardinia, and in 1748 was a lieut.-col. in the Swiss Guards, in the service of Holland. He entered the English army as lieut.-col. in 1756; Feb. 19, 1762, col. 60th Foot; brig.-gen. 1765. He co-operated actively with Gen. Forbes, and Oct. 12, 1758, repulsed an attack by a large body of French and Indians at Loyal Hanna, which was followed by the capture of Fort Duquesne. Sent from Canada by Gen. Amherst for the relief of Fort Pitt, he was attacked Aug. 5 and 6, 1763, by a large Indian force, but by skill and bravery defeated them, and reached the fort with supplies four days later. In an exped. against the Ohio Indians, in Oct. 1764, he compelled the Shawanese, Delawares, and others, to make peace at Tuscarawas. An account of this exped., by Wm. Smith, D.D., was pub. in Phila., 1765, with map and plates.

Bourlamarque (boor'-lä-mark), M. DE, a French gen.; d. 1764, gov. of the Island of Guadaloupe. Col. of engineers; arrived with Montcalm in Canada, May, 1756; directed the operations at the capture of Forts Oswego and George, 14 Aug. 1756, in which he was wounded; at the capture of Fort Wm. Henry, com. the left column, and directing the siege, and risked his life to save the English from massacre after the capitulation; 9 July, 1757, he commanded the left of the defences of Ticonderoga against the assault of Gen. Abercrombie, and was dangerously wounded; promoted brig.-gen. 19 Feb. 1759; com. at Ticonderoga, which he blew up and abandoned in July, 1759; retired to the Isle Aux Noix; disting. and again wounded at the battle of Sillery, 28 Apr. 1760; returned to France after the conquest of Canada; 1 Aug. 1762, he addressed a memoir on Canada to the French Government, which see in O'Callaghan's Paris Docs. x. p. 1139.

Bourne, BENJAMIN, LL.D., jurist, b. Bristol, R.I., Sept. 9, 1755; d. Sept. 17, 1808. H.U. 1775. Grandson of Ezra (chief-justice C. C. P. Barnstable Co.), who was grandson of Benj. Was an able lawyer, often a member of the State legisl.; M. C. 1790–6; and in 1801 was app. judge of the Circuit Court of the U.S.

Bourne, RICHARD, missionary to the Marshpee Indians, b. Eng.; d. Sandwich, Ms., in 1682. Acquiring the Indian language, he began as early as 1658 to devote himself to their instruction and welfare, and was ord. pastor of the Indian Church at Marshpee, Aug. 17, 1670.

Bouton, JOHN BELL, author, b. Concord, N.H., Mar. 15, 1830. Dartm. Coll. 1849. He read law; became in 1851 associate editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; removed to N.Y. City in 1857, and was one of the editors of the Journal of Commerce, 1857–64; and is engaged in commercial business in that city. He pub. "Loved and Lost," a series of essays, 1857; "Round the Block," a novel, 1864; "Treasury of Travel and Adventure," 1865; and contrib. most of the scientific articles to the New Am. Cyclop. for 1866. — Alumni D. C.

Bouton, REV. NATHANIEL, D.D. (Dartm. Coll. 1851), b. Norwalk, Ct., settled over a Cong. church in Concord, N.H., 23 Mar. 1825. Y.C. 1821; And. Sem. 1824. Author of "Memoir of Mrs. Eliz. McFarland," 1839; "Hist. Discourse on the 200th Anniv. of the Settlement of Norwalk, Ct., 9 July, 1851;" "The Fathers of the N.H. Ministry," a discourse, 22 Aug. 1848; "Hist. of Education in N.H." a discourse, 12 June, 1833; "History of Concord, N.H." 1856; "Discourse Commem. of a 40 years' Ministry, Concord, 23 Mar. 1865."

Boutwell, GEORGE SEWALL, LL.D. (H. U. 1851), statesman, b. Brookline, Ms., Jan. 28, 1818. He worked on a farm when a boy; was engaged in mercantile business 20 years; then studied law, and was adm. to the bar; was 7 years in the Ms. legisl. between 1842 and '50; member of the Const. Conv. of Ms. in 1853; bank commissioner, 1849–50; gov. of Ms., 1851–3; 5 years sec. of the Ms. Board of Education; 6 years member of the Board of Overseers of Harvard Coll.; first commissioner of interval revenue, from July, 1862, to Mar. 1863; M. C. 1863–9; sec. of the U. S. treasury Mar. 1869 to Mar. 1873. One of the managers of the impeachment trial of Andrew Johnson in 1868. A vol. of his "Speeches and Papers" was pub. in 1867. Author of "Manual of U. S. Direct and Excise Tax System," 1863. Resides in Groton, Mass.

Digitized by Google

Bouvier, JOHN, jurist, b. Codognan, France, 1787; d. Phila., Nov 18, 1851. Of a Quaker family, which emigrated to this country in 1802. He was employed in a bookstore some years, pub. a newspaper, The American Telegraph, at Brownsville in Western Pa., 1814; studied law, and was adm. to the bar at Uniontown, Fayette Co., in 1818. At this place, he pub. The Genius of Liberty and American Telegraph, from Apr. 1818, to July, 1820. He began practice in Phila. in 1823; was recorder of Phila., Jan. 1836; asso. judge of the Court of Criminal Sessions from Mar. 1838, and was learned in the law, as well as in the literature of several languages. He pub. a "Law Dictionary," 1839; an edition of "Bacon's Abridgment of the Law," in 1841, and "Institutes of American Law," 1851.

Bovadilla (bō-vä-dēl'-yä), DON FRANÇOIS DE, an arrogant and incompetent Spanish gov.; d. June 29, 1502. He was commander of the order of Calatrava, and in 1500 was sent to Saint Domingo by Ferdinand and Isabella, charged to examine the conduct of Columbus, and, if he found him guilty, to deprive him of command, and seize his person. He performed the latter part of his instructions regardless of the former, seized upon the authority on his arrival, put Columbus in irons, and sent him home to Spain, with an act of accusation filled with contemptible charges. Bovadilla was soon succeeded by Nicolas Ovando; and Columbus was restored to liberty. The persecutor of this great man embarked in the Spanish fleet, to render an account to his country of his conduct, and perished in a tempest with the greater part of the vessels which accompanied him.

Boves (bo'-vēs), JOSEPH THOMAS, a Spanish-American partisan; d. Dec. 5, 1814. He was a Castilian of low origin, a sergeant of marines; afterwards served in the coast-guard, but was punished by imprisonment for allowing himself to be bribed, and, on leaving prison, became a peddler. Becoming a capt. of militia in 1810, the defeat of the royalist Cagigal, to whose corps he was attached, decided him to make war on his own account. He established himself at Calabozo, and with about 500 men, mostly slaves, defeated Marino, dictator of the eastern provinces. Thenceforward with his little army, swollen with vagabonds, escaped convicts (black and white), he commenced a devastating partisan warfare. His atrocities gave his horde the well-merited name of the "Infernal Division;" and the butchery of 1,200 prisoners was the commencement of a long series of similar barbarities on both sides. Feb. 19, 1814, he defeated Bolivar at Saint Mateo, and again, June 14; Boves then advanced upon Valencia, raised the siege of Porto Cabello, driving back the independents: the city capitulated. To give to the articles of capitulation a more solemn sanction, mass was celebrated between the two armies; and, at the moment of the elevation, the royalist gen. promised a faithful and strict observance of the treaty. Entering the city, Boves had the repub. officers and a number of soldiers shot. Again a conqueror at Antimano, Bolivar withdrew to Barcelona; and the Spaniards entered Caracas. Aug. 8, he gained a new success, killing or wounding 1,500 of the independents, and taking four pieces of cannon. Dec. 5, he saw at Urica his last triumph, being killed by the thrust of a lance. — Nouv. Biog. Univ.

Bowden, JOHN, D.D., a Pr.-Ep. divine, b. Ireland, Jan. 1751; d. Ballston, N.Y., July 31, 1817. Col. Coll. 1772. The son of a British officer who served during the French war, he followed his father to Amer., and, after studying 2 years at N. J. Coll., returned with him to Ireland. He came to Amer. again in 1770, studied divinity, and returned to Eng., where he was ord. in 1774. In the summer of that year, he returned to N.Y., where he became assistant minister of Trinity Church. He took charge of the church at Norwalk, Ct., from Dec. 1784, until Oct. 1785, when weakness of the lungs induced him to take charge of the church at St. Croix in the West Indies. Compelled, after two years' residence, to give up preaching, he settled at Stratford, Ct. From 1796 to 1805, he had charge of the Ep. acad. in Cheshire, Ct., and from 1801 to 1817 was prof. of moral philos. and belles-lettres in Col. Coll. He pub. a number of controversial letters, an address to the members of the Ep. church in Stratford, some remarks, &c.; A Full-length Portrait of Calvinism; The Essentials of Ordination, and Observations on the Catholic Controversy. S. T. D. (Col. Coll. 1797.)

Bowditch, NATHANIEL, LL.D. (H. U. 1816), F.R.S., mathematician and astronomer, b. Salem, Mar. 26, 1773; d. Boston, Mar. 16, 1838. The poverty of his parents occasioned his withdrawal from school at the age of 10, and, after an apprenticeship in a ship-chandler's shop until he was 21, he spent nine years in a seafaring life, attaining the rank of master. He was pres. of a Marine-Ins. Co. in Salem, from 1804 to 1823, when he became actuary of the Ms. Hospital Life-Ins. Co. in Boston. By his extraordinary genius and industry, he made great acquisitions in knowledge, mastered many languages, and did more for the reputation of his country among men of science abroad, than has been done by any other man, except, perhaps, Dr. Franklin. He pub. in 1800, while engaged as a supercargo, his well-known "Practical Navigator," still a standard work of great utility and value. Among his scientific labors were numerous and important communications to the memoirs of the Amer. Acad., of which he was pres.; but his fame as a man of science will principally rest on his Commentary on the Mécanique Céleste of La Place, of which he made the first entire translation, and which he has elucidated in a manner that commands the admiration of scientific men. The elucidations and commentaries of Bowditch formed more than half the work. They record subsequent discoveries, and show the sources whence La Place derived assistance. He contrib. many valuable papers to "The Memoirs of the Amer. Acad.," and an article on Modern Astronomy to vol. 20 "North Am. Review." At his death, he was a member of the principal scientific societies of Europe. He twice had a seat in the executive council of Ms. —See Memoir, by his son N. I. Bowditch, 1840.

Digitized by Google

Bowditch, NATHANIEL INGERSOLL, conveyancer, and historical writer, b. Salem, Jan. 17, 1805; d. Brookline, Ms., Apr. 16, 1861. H.U. 1822. Eldest son of the eminent mathematician. He was adm. to the Suffolk bar in 1825, but a few years afterward relinquished practice, and devoted himself to business as a conveyancer. He was noted for accuracy and thoroughness; and a proof of his industry is found in the 55 folio vols. of land-titles he had written, containing nearly 30,000 pages, and also plans and maps. In Apr. 1835, he m. a dau. of the wealthy Ebenezer Francis, and, having a large income, devoted much of it to charitable objects. Under the signature of "Gleaner," he contrib. many articles of historical interest and value to the Boston Transcript. Author of "A History of the Ms. General Hospital," 1851, 3 editions of "Suffolk Surnames," and "Memoir of N. Bowditch," 1840.

Bowdoin, JAMES, LL.D. (U. of Edinb. 1785), statesman, b. Boston, Aug. 7, 1726; d. Nov. 6, 1790. H. U. 1745. He was of a Huguenot family who landed at Falmouth, Me., in 1687, and in 1690 removed to Boston. On the day succeeding their removal, the inhabitants of Casco Bay were all cut off, and the settlement burnt, by the Indians. The death of his father, Sept. 8, 1747, put him in possession of an ample fortune. At 24, he had formed an acquaintance with Franklin, who communicated to him his papers on electricity, and with whom he frequently corresp. He became a member of the Gen. Court in 1753, and senator and councillor in 1756. Prominent in opposing the royal gov. before the Revol., his writings and other services were eminently useful. Such was his prominence, that Gov. Bernard negatived him as a councillor in 1769, upon which he was at once elected a representative. Chosen delegate to Congress in 1774, he was prevented by illness from attending. Member of the committee of corresp., pres. of the council of govt., pres. in 1779 of the convention for forming a Constitution, and in 1785 and 1786 was gov. of Ms.; member of the convention which adopted the Federal Constitution in 1788. During his administration, the "Shays' Rebellion" in the western counties occurred; but it was quickly suppressed by his vigorous and decisive measures. His health was precarious, and his life a long consumptive disease; but he was always vigorous in public affairs. One of the founders, and first pres., of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences, from 1780 till his death, and bequeathed to it his valuable library. He aided in founding the Ms. Humane Society, and was a benefactor of Har. Coll., to which he left a handsome legacy. He contrib. 3 pieces to the Pietas et Gratulatio, on the accession of George III., and was the author of a vol. of verses, pub. anonymously in Boston in 1759.

Bowdoin, JAMES, diplomatist, only son of the preceding, b. Sept. 22, 1752; d. Naushon Island, Ms., Oct. 11, 1811. H. U. 1771. He spent several years travelling in Europe, and one year in the study of law at the U. of Oxford. Returning to Amer. in 1775, he successively filled the offices of representative, member of the Const. Conv. of 1789, senator and councillor, and in May, 1805, proceeded to the court of Madrid as minister-plenipo., returning home in Apr. 1808. He was a munificent patron of Bowd. Coll., to which he made a donation of 6,000 acres of land, and more than £1,100. He pub. a translation of Daubenton's "Advice to Shepherds," and, anonymously, "Opinions Respecting the Commercial Intercourse between the U.S. and Great Britain." He brought home with him from Paris an extensive library, philosophical apparatus, and a collection of paintings; all of which he left at his death to Bowd. Coll., together with the reversion of the Island of Naushon, which had been his favorite residence.

Bowen, FRANCIS, author, b. Charlestown, Ms., Sept. 8, 1811. H.U. (with the highest honors) 1833. From 1835 to 1839, he was instructor there in intellectual philos. and political economy. Returning from a visit to Europe in 1841, he established himself in Cambridge, pub. "Virgil," with English notes, and a vol. of critical essays on speculative philosophy, in 1842. He edited the N. A. Review from 1843 to 1854, and delivered two courses of Lowell Lectures in 1848–9, on the application of metaphysical and ethical science to the evidences of religion, pub. in 1849 and in 1855. In the winter of 1850, he delivered a course of lectures on political economy before the Lowell Institute, and another, in 1842, on the origin and development of the Eng. and Amer. Constitutions. In 1853, he succeeded Dr. Walker as Alford Prof. of natural religion, moral philos., and civil polity. In 1854, he pub. an abridgment of Stuart's Philos., with notes, and in the same year compiled and edited "Documents of the Constitution of Eng. and Amer., from Magna Charta to the Federal Constitution of 1789." To Sparks's Biog., he contrib. lives of Phipps, Steuben, Otis, and Gen. Lincoln. He has written much in defence of the doctrines of Locke and Berkeley, and against those of Kant, Fichte, and Cousin. Since the commencement of 1858, he has delivered a course of lectures bef. Lowell Inst., on the English metaphysicans and philosophers.

Bowen, JOHN S., maj.-gen. C. S. A., b. Ga., 1829; d. Raymond, Mpi., July 13, 1863. West Point, 1853. Entering the mounted rifles, he resigned, May 1, 1856, and settled in St. Louis as an architect. He was adj. to Gen. Frost at the time of the exped. to the border in search of Montgomery, and, when the Rebellion broke out, took com. of the 2d regt. of Frost's brigade. He was acting chief of the staff to Gen. Frost at the Camp Jackson affair. Disregarding his parole, he raised at Memphis the 1st Mo. Inf., which was unsurpassed in gallantry, discipline, or drill. He comd. a brigade in Breckenridge's corps at Shiloh, April 6, 1862, and was severely wounded. He com. at the battle near Port Gibson, in May, 1863, stubbornly resisting Gen. Grant's advance. He was in all the subsequent battles around Vicksburg; was prominent in the negotiations for its surrender, and is said to have died of mortification at that event.

Digitized by Google

Bowen, NATHANIEL, D.D. (H.U. 1803), Pr.-Ep. bishop of S.C., b. Boston, 1779; d. Aug. 25, 1839. S.C. Coll. 1796. He became a tutor in that institution, and, having completed his theol. studies at Boston, was in 1800 adm. to orders, and became, in Oct. 1802, assist. minister of St. Michael's Church, Charleston, S.C. He was rector of this church in 1808, and of Grace Church, N.Y., from 1809 to 1818, when he was elected bishop (consecrated, Oct. 8, 1818), and was a second time rector of the parish of St. Michael's in Charleston. Two vols. of his sermons have been pub.

Bowen, OLIVER, commodore, a Revol. patriot of Augusta, Ga.; d. Providence, R.I., Aug. 1800, a. 59. July 10, 1775, he seized a large quantity of powder at Tybee Island, near Savannah. In June, 1778, he was in the unsuccessful exped. against Wilmington. Member Provincial Congress of 1775, and of the Council of Safety.

Bowie, ROBERT, gov. of Md. in 1803–5 and 1811–12; d. Nottingham, Jan. 8, 1818, a. 67. He was a captain in the 2d batt. of the Md. flying camp in 1776.

Bow-lee ("BILLY BOWLEGS"), a Seminole chief; d. in the Seminole country, 11 Mar. 1859. He was a terror to the settlers of Florida, and one of the greatest Indian warriors of this century, and had been in all the principal battles with the whites for over 30 years.

Bowles, SAMUEL, journalist, b. Springfield, Ms., Feb. 9, 1826. Samuel, his father, established there the Republican, of which, since 1844, the son has been the sole conductor, and, by perseverance and industry, has placed it in the first rank of Amer. journals. From 1849 to 1860, Dr. J. G. Holland (Timo. Titcomb) was assoc. editor. He spent the summer of 1862 in Europe, and in 1865 joined Speaker Colfax in a tour to the Pacific coast. His letters to the Republican, describing this journey, were pub. as "Across the Continent," 1865. "The Switzerland of America" was pub. 1869.

Bowles, WILLIAM AUGUSTUS, self-styled "General" and "Indian agent," b. Frederick Co., Md., 1763; d. Havana, Dec. 23, 1805. The son of an English schoolmaster. At the age of 13, he stole from home, and, joining the British army at Phila., soon obtained a commission, but at Pensacola was, for some neglect, dismissed the service. Afterward entered the service of the Creek Indians, and m. an Indian woman. He instigated many of their excesses, for which he was rewarded by the British. May 9, 1781, when Pensacola surrendered to the Spaniards, Bowles com. the Creek Indians, whom he had brought there to assist the English. For this service, he was reinstated in the British army. After the war, he joined a company of players at N. Y.; played at the Bahamas, where he also painted portraits, thus exhibiting the versatility of his talents. Gov. Dunmore app. him trading-agent for the Creeks; and he established a house upon the Chattahoochie, but was driven thence by McGillivray. He then went to England: on his return, his influence with the Indians, who had chosen him com.-in-chief, was so disastrous to the Spaniards, that they offered $6,000 for his apprehension. Bowles had assumed to act among the Indians under authority of the British Govt.; but, on inquiry by the pres., the ministry promptly and explicitly denied that they had afforded him countenance, assistance, or protection. For a long time, Bowles did all in his power to annoy Georgia, and prevent the settlement of her difficulties with the Indians. He was entrapped in Feb. 1792, sent a prisoner to Madrid, and thence to Manilla, in 1795. Obtaining leave to go to Europe, he repaired to the Creeks, and commenced his depredations anew, but, being again betrayed into the hands of the Spaniards in 1804, he was confined in the Moro Castle, where he died. A memoir of him was pub. in London in 1791, in which he is called "Ambassador of the United Nations of Creeks and Cherokees."

Bowman, SAMUEL, D.D., assist. Pr.-Ep. bishop of Pa., consec. at Phila., 25 Aug. 1858; d. 3 Aug. 1861.

Boyd, JOHN PARKER, brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. Newburyport, Ms., Dec. 21, 1764; d. Boston, Oct. 4, 1830. He entered the military service of the U.S., Oct. 20, 1786. We next find him in India, at the head of 3 battalions, of 500 men each, armed and equipped at his own expense, at the service of the highest bidder, and he at one time com. 10,000 cavalry. He was in the pay of Holkar, in the Peishwa's service, and afterward in that of Niham Ali Khan. Arriving in Madras in July, 1789, he was given by the Nizam the command of 1,000 men. Having sold out for want of employment, he went to Paris in 1808, and soon returned to the U.S. App. col. 4th Inf. Oct. 7, 1808, com. a brigade, and was disting. at the battle of Tippecanoe, Nov. 7, 1811. He com. the detachment of 1,500 men, of Wilkinson's army, which fought the battle of Williamsburg, Nov. 11, 1813, and led his brigade at the capture of Fort George, U. C.; app. brig.-gen., Aug. 26, 1812; app. naval officer of the port of Boston, March 4, 1830. He pub. "Documents and Facts relative to Military Events during the Late War," 1816.

Boyd, LINN, a statesman of Tenn., b. Nashville, Nov. 22, 1800; d. Ky, Dec. 18, 1859. His educational advantages were limited. In 1827, he was elected to the legisl. of Tenn., serving 3 sessions, and in 1831 was re-elected. M.C. from 1835 to 1837, from 1839 to 1847, and from 1847 to 1855; and was chairman of the committee on territories in the 31st Congress, during his last term occupying the chair of speaker. He served one term as lieut.-gov. of Ky.

Boyden, SETH, inventor, b. Foxborough, Ms., 17 Nov. 1788; d. Middleville, N.J., 31 Mar. 1870. He engaged in the leather manuf. in Newark in 1813, invented a machine for splitting leather, began the manuf. of patent leather in 1819, made the first malleable iron in 1826, perfected the first locomotive with the driving-rod outside the wheel, produced the first daguerrotype in America, invented the process of making spelter, discovered the art of making Russian sheet-iron, and patented a hat-body doming-machine used in all the hat manufs. in the U.S.

Digitized by Google

Boyer, JEAN PIERRE, pres. of Hayti, b. Port au Prince, Feb. 2, 1776; d. Paris, July 9, 1850. His father was a shopkeeper and tailor in Port au Prince, and his mother was a negress, who had been a slave. In 1792, he joined the revolted blacks, then struggling against the French for their independence. Joining the French commissioners Santhonax and Polverel, he withdrew with them, after the arrival of the English, to Jacquemel, having previously disting. himself in the defence of the fort of Biroton and in other dangerous enterprises. Attaching himself while here to Rigaud, he set out with him for France. He took part, like many other persons of color, in the exped. of Le Clerc against St. Domingo. On the death of Le Clerc, he joined Petion's party, in whose service he became private sec., gen. of the arrondissement of Port au Prince, and was finally named by him his successor. Upon the death of Petion, March 29, 1818, Boyer was immediately installed in his office, and assumed the functions of govt. On the breaking-out of the revolution in the north part of the island in 1820, he placed himself at the head of the insurgents; and, upon Christophe's death, the north and south parts of the island were united into one govt., under his administration, by the name of the "Republic of Hayti." He was vain and weak, and destitute of ability; and by an absurd arrangement with France, to whom he foolishly agreed to pay an indemnity of 150,000,000 francs in five equal annual instalments, — in consideration of which France merely recognized the actual govt. of Hayti, — the agriculture, commerce, and wealth of Hayti, which under his govt. had gradually declined, became totally prostrated. Finally, in 1842, an insurrection took place; Boyer was overthrown, and took refuge in Jamaica until Feb. 1848, when, with his family, he settled in Paris.

Boyle, JOHN, jurist, b. Botetourt Co., Va., Oct. 28, 1774; d. Jan. 28, 1834. His father emigrated to Ky. in 1779. John received a good education; practised law at Lancaster from 1797 to 1803; was M.C. 1803–9; app. gov. of Illinois territory in 1809; judge of the Court of Appeals, April, 1809, to April, 1810; chief-justice, April, 1810, to Nov. 1826; U.S. district judge for Ky., Nov. 8, 1826, to his death. — Collins's Hist. Ky.

Boylston, NICHOLAS, a benefactor of Harv. Coll.; d. Boston, Aug. 18, 1771, a. 55. He was a merchant of singular probity, and at his decease bequeathed to H. U. £1,500 to found a professorship of rhetoric and oratory, in which John Quincy Adams was installed as first prof., June 12, 1806.

Boylston, ZABDIEL, F.R.S., a physician, eminent as the first to inoculate for the smallpox in America, b. Brookline, 1680; d. Boston, March 1, 1766. After receiving a good education, he studied medicine under his father and Dr. John Cutler, and in a few years acquired a reputation and a fortune. He also acquired distinction as a naturalist, sparing no labor nor expense in obtaining rare plants, animals, and insects, many of which, then unknown in Europe, he at different times transmitted to Eng. Upon the re-appearance of the smallpox in Boston in 1721, Cotton Mather called the attention of the physicians to an account of the practice of inoculation at the East, in a vol. of the Trans. of the Philos. Society. Boylston was so impressed with its utility, that he immediately inoculated his own son and two servants, with complete success. He enlarged his practice, but met with great opposition from the physicians, who were unanimous in their opinion against it, from his fellow-citizens, and the selectmen of the town, who passed an ordinance prohibiting it. He persevered in the practice, however, encouraged and justified by the clergy; and, of 286 persons inoculated in 1721 and '22, only 6 died. He enjoyed the satisfaction of seeing inoculation in general use in N.E. for some time before it became common in Eng. In 1725, he visited Eng., and was elected Fellow of the Royal Society. In addition to his communications to that body, he pub. a paper on inoculation, Boston, 1721, and an hist. account of the smallpox inoculation in N. Eng. and London, 1726.

Boynton, EDWARD C., brev. maj. U.S.A., b. Vt. West Point, 1846. Entering the 2d Art. he served in the Mexican war, and was brev. capt. 20 Aug. 1847, for Contreras and for Churubusco, where he was severely wounded. Assist. prof. of chem., mineral., and geol. at West Point, 1848–55; served against the Seminole Indians in 1855–6, and resigned 16 Feb 1856. Prof. of chem., min., and geol., U. of Mpi., 1856–61; capt. 11th U. S. Inf. 23 Sept. 1861; adj. and quarterm. at West Point to 30 Sept. 1865; brev. maj. 13 Mar. 1865; transf. to 29th Inf. 21 Sept. 1866. Author of "History of West Point and the U. S Milit. Acad.," 1863; "Hist. U. S. Navy." — Cullum.

Bozman, JOHN LEEDS, lawyer, poet, and historian, b. Talbot Co., Md., Aug. 25, 1757; d. there Apr. 23, 1823. U. of Pa. 1783. His family was among the earliest settlers in that place. He completed his legal studies at the Middle Temple in London. After considerable practice, having for several years acted as dep. atty.-gen. of the State, he abandoned the law for literature. His chief work is "The History of Maryland to the Restoration in 1660," pub. in 1836 under the auspices of the General Assembly of that State. He was a contributor to the Portfolio, and pub. an "Essay upon Colonization in Africa," in 1822. He wrote an "Historical and Philos. Sketch of the Prime Causes of the Revol. War," in which he praised Washington, and condemned Franklin; but it was suppressed.

Brace, CHARLES LORING, clergyman and author, b. Litchfield, Ct., 1826. Y. C. 1846. After a few months of school-teaching, he studied theology, completing his preparation for the ministry at the Union Theol. Sem. of N.Y., and has since been a preacher without any settled charge. In 1850, he made a pedestrian journey in Great Britain and Ireland, also visiting the Rhine, Belgium, and Paris, an account of which, entitled "Walks and Talks of an American Farmer in England," was afterward pub. In 1851, he was tried as a spy in Hungary, but was soon set at liberty through the efforts of C. J. McCurdy, chargé d'affaires. Returning to the U. S., he became interested in the benevolent labors of Rev. Mr. Pease among the most degraded class in N. Y., and was subsequently chiefly instrumental in the formation of the Children's Aid Society, of which he is sec. and principal agent. In 1852, he pub. "Hungary in 1851," "Home Life in Germany, 1853;" in 1857, "Norsefolk," a description of the religious, social, and political condition of Sweden and Norway; "Races of the Old World," 1863; "The New West," 1869, and "Short Sermons for Newsboys."

Digitized by Google

Bracken, Rev. John, minister, and prof. of humanities (1773–1818), and pres. of Wm. and Mary Coll. in 1813; d. Williamsburg, Va., 15 July, 1818.

Brackenridge, Henry M., jurist and diplomatist, son of Hugh Henry, b. Pittsburg, Pa., May 11, 1786; d. there 20 Jan. 1871. At the age of 20, being adm. to the bar, he began practice in Somerset, Pa. He descended the Mpi. in 1811, and soon received the app. of dep. atty.-gen. for the Territory of Orleans, afterwards Louisiana. Made dist. judge at 28. During the War of 1812, he furnished important information to the govt., and afterwards wrote a history of the war, which was translated into French and Italian. He joined with Clay in advocating the acknowledgment of the independence of the South Amer. republics. Besides other productions, his pamphlet, under the signature of an "American," addressed to Pres. Monroe, was repub. in Eng. and France, and, being supposed to express the views of the Amer. Govt., was replied to by the Duke of San Carlos, the Spanish minister. He was one of the commissioners to the South Amer. republics in 1817–19, and, on his return, pub. his "Voyage to South Amer." In 1821, he went to Fla. with Gen. Jackson, aided him in forming his government; was made alcalde of Pensacola, and in May was app. judge of the western district, in which office he remained 10 years. Removing to Pittsburg in 1833, he became an active politician, and in 1841 was named a commissioner under the treaty with Mexico. His political writings were numerous. He pub. an account of Louisiana in 1812, and, in 1834, the first vol. of his "Recollections of Persons and Places in the West." In 1847, he pub. a series of letters in favor of the Mexican war. His eulogy on Jefferson and Adams, delivered at Pensacola in Aug. 1826, was highly praised by Wirt. In 1859, he pub. a "History of the Western Insurrection," in vindication of his father. Author also of a "Journal of a Voyage up the Missouri River," Pittsburg, 1814. — Duyckinck.

Brackenridge, Hugh Henry, author and judge, b. near Campbelton, Scotland, 1748; d. Carlisle, Pa., June 25, 1816. N. J. Coll. 1771. At the age of 5, he came with his father to Pa., and supported himself, while acquiring his education, by farming and teaching. He became a tutor at Princeton; was master of an acad. in Md., when the Revol. war broke out; removed to Phila., where he was a conspicuous writer and speaker, and, having studied divinity, preached sometime in that city. Relinquishing the pulpit for the bar, he edited for a time the U. S. Magazine at Phila. In 1784, he settled at Pittsburg, soon rose to the head of the bar of that section; was sent in 1786 to the legisl. to obtain the establishment of the county of Alleghany; was made a judge in 1789; and, from 1799 till his death, was judge of the State Supreme Court. The part he took in the "Whiskey Insurrection" made him prominent. He appeared to side with the insurgents in order to keep them within the limits of reason and law, and eventually to reconcile them, without bloodshed, to the govt. He vindicated his course in his "Incidents of the Insurrection in Western Pa in 1794," 8vo, Phila., 1795. Brackenridge deserves to be better known through his writings. He had wit, humor, and sound judgment. His judicial decisions were celebrated for their integrity and independence. In politics, he was a supporter of Jefferson. He pub. a poem on the "Rising Glory of America," 1774; "Eulogium of the Brave who fell in the Contest with Great Britain, delivered at Phila., 4 July, 1779;" "Modern Chivalry, or the Adventures of Capt. Farrago," 1796, an admirable satire; "Oration, July 4, 1793;" "Gazette Publications Collected," 1806.

Brackett, Albert G., brev. col. U.S.A., b. N.Y. 1st lieut. 4th Indiana Vols., June, 1847, and at the battle of Huamatlan, siege of Puebla and Atlixco, in Mexico; capt. 2d U.S. cav., Mar. 1855; disting. in actions with Camanche Indians; com. cavalry at Bull Run, Va.; col. 9th Ill. cav., Aug. 1861; engaged at Waddell's Farm and Caché Bayou, and wounded at Stewart's Plantation; maj. 1st U.S. cav., July, 1862; com. cav. brigade W. Tenn.; engaged in the attack on Memphis and Charleston R.R.; asst. insp.-gen. of cav., dept. of Cumberland, 1864; engaged at the siege of and battles in front of Atlanta, Ga., and battle of Nashville, Tenn.; lieut.-col. 2d U.S. cav., June, 1868; brev. maj. for Arkansas campaign; brev. lieut.-col. for Atlanta campaign; brev. col. for gallant and merit. services in the war. Author of "Gen. Lane's Brigade in Central Mexico," 1848; "Hist. U.S. Cavalry," 1865. — Henry.

Brackett, Anthony, a soldier, and early settler at Casco, now Portland, Me.; killed by Indians, Sept. 21, 1689. Son of Anthony of Greenland, N.H. He was at Casco as early as 1662, and had a farm of 400 acres. Captured by the Indians, Aug. 11, 1676, he escaped in Nov., returned to Casco after the peace, April 12, 1678; received the com. of Fort Loyall in 1682, and in 1688 held the com. of the three forts erected by Andros. His second wife, m. in 1679, was Susannah Drake of Hampton.

Brackett, Edwin E., sculptor, b. Vassalborough, Me., Oct. 1, 1819. Began modelling in 1838, and has made many portrait busts, among them Harrison, Allston, R. H. Dana, sen., W. C. Bryant, Longfellow, Choate, Sumner, John Brown, Garrison, Wendell Phillips, and Gen. Butler. His group of "The Shipwrecked Mother," is at Mount Auburn. His brother, Walter M., b. Unity, Me., 14 June, 1823, has made the painting of game-fish a specialty, and has achieved a high reputation. — Tuckerman.

Digitized by Google

Brackett, JOSHUA, M.D., physician, b. Greenland, N.H., 5 May, 1733; d. July 17, 1802. H.U. 1752. He studied theology, and became a preacher, but afterwards studied medicine, and established himself at Portsmouth, N.H. He bequeathed $1,500 towards the professorship of natural history in Harv. Coll. He was also a founder and benefactor of the N.H. Medical Society, of which he was pres. from 1793 to 1799. His wife, Hannah Whipple of Kittery, d. Apr. 23, 1805, a. 70, bequeathing also to that society $500. Dr. Brackett was a zealous patriot, a member of the committee of safety, and, during the Revol., was app. judge of the Maritime Court of N.H. — Thacher.

Bradbury, THEOPHILUS, jurist, b. Newbury, Ms., Nov. 13, 1739; d. there Sept. 6, 1803. H.U. 1757. A descendant of Thomas of Salisbury. After keeping the grammar school at Falmouth, Me., he practised law there from May, 1761, until 1779, and afterward in his native town, with success; filled several local offices; was a representative and senator in the Ms. legisl.; M. C. 1795–7, and was (1797–1803) a judge of the Supreme Court of Ms. Member of the Amer. Acad. of Arts and Sciences.

Bradbury, THOMAS of Salisbury, d. there Mar. 16, 1695; b. pr. Wicken, Eng., 1610. He was in N.E. in 1634; was made freeman, May 13, 1640; became first clerk of the writs at Salisbury, Dec. 10, 1641; was clerk of Norfolk Co. from Apr. 24, 1649, to Feb. 4, 1680; several years dep. to the Gen. Court; was frequently a commissioner to settle boundary disputes; was capt. of a military co., and an asso. judge for Norfolk Co., 1659 and 1675–7.

Bradbury, WILLIAM B., music-teacher and composer, b. York, Me., 1816; d. Montclair, N.J., Jan. 7, 1868. From his parents, both of whom were excellent singers, he inherited his musical taste, and, before he was 14, had mastered every instrument that came in his way. In 1830, he moved to Boston, where he was an organist, and in 1836 began teaching in New York, where he attained notoriety and popularity by his concerts. In 1847, he went to Leipsic, where he received instruction from the best masters. In 1854, he began in New York the manufacture of pianos, in which he was very successful. He was the author of "The Golden Chain," "Golden Shower," "Golden Censer," and "Fresh Laurels." He did much to elevate the standard of musical taste in the U.S. With the aid of the composer Hastings, he produced "The Shawm," "The Jubilee," "The Key Note," and "The Temple Choir," all of which were deservedly popular.

Braddock, EDWARD, a British gen., d. July 13, 1755. Son of Maj.-Gen. B. He entered the army as ensign in the Coldstream Guards, Oct. 11, 1710; fought a duel with Col. Waller, with sword and pistol, May 26, 1718; became a capt. Feb. 10, 1736, served in Flanders; became second major of his regt. in 1743; was present at Fontenoy, May 11, 1745; was made lieut.-col. Nov. 21, 1745, brig.-gen. Apr. 23, 1746; served again in Flanders in 1747–8; col. 14th Foot, 1753; maj.-gen. March, 1754, and, Sept. 24, com.-in-chief of his Majesty's forces in America. He sailed from Eng. Dec. 21, 1754. He arrived in Va. in Feb. 1755, and conducted in person an exped. against Fort Duquesne, now Pittsburg. The delays occasioned by the necessity of opening new roads determined him to advance with 1,200 men, leaving the heavy baggage in the rear. He reached the Monongahela, July 8, and on the following morning, expecting to invest the fort that day, made the necessary dispositions. Despising his foes, with whose wily tactics he was wholly unacquainted, he disregarded the counsel of Washington, his aide upon that occasion, to place the provincial companies in front for the purpose of scouring the woods, and discovering any ambuscade which might be found for him. His van, led by Lieut.-Col. (afterwards Gen.) Gage, was suddenly attacked when ab. 7 miles from the fort, by an invisible enemy concealed in the high grass. The whole army was thrown into confusion; and Braddock, who exerted himself bravely to re-form his troops, who were constantly falling under the close and murderous fire to which they were exposed, after having 3 horses shot under him, received a mortal wound. All his mounted officers except Washington, upon whom the duty of bringing off the shattered remnant of the army devolved, were either killed or wounded; and the troops fled precipitately to the camp of Col. Dunbar, near 50 miles distant, where Braddock, who was brought off the ground in a tumbrel, expired of his wounds. His private character was that of a heartless, broken-down gambler and spendthrift.

Bradford, ALDEN, LL. D. (Bowd. Coll. 1803), author, b. Duxbury, Ms., Nov. 19, 1765; d. Boston, Oct. 26, 1843. H.U. 1786. Son of Col. Gamaliel, and a lineal descendant of Gov. Wm. Bradford. He was a tutor at Harvard in 1791–3; pastor of the Cong. Church at Wiscasset, Me., 1793–1801; was for a time clerk of the Supreme Court of Ms., and a bookseller in Boston, and was sec. of State in 1812–24. Edited the Boston Gazette, 1826. He pub. a "History of Ms. from 1764 to 1820," 3 vols.; "Eulogy on Washington," "Oration," 1804; "on the Death of Gen. Knox," 1806; "Life of C. Strong," 1820, of "Jonathan Mayhew," 1838; a vol. of "N.E. Biography," 1842; an account of Wiscasset and Duxbury in Hist. Colls.; "N. E. Chronology, 1497–1800," Bost., 1843; a number of sermons; "History of the Federal Government," 1843, and a vol. of Ms. State papers.

Bradford, ALEX. WARFIELD, LL.D., jurist, b. Albany, 1815; d. N.Y. City, 5 Nov. 1867. Columb. Coll. Son of J.M. Bradford, D.D. Acquired high reputation for knowledge of civil law. Surrogate of N.Y. City and Co., 1848–51. He pub. 4 vols. of "Reports of Surrogate's Cases;" six of "Bradford's Reports;" edited a work on "American Antiquities," 1841, and, with Dr. Anthon, edited The Protestant Churchman. Latterly one of the commissioners to codify the laws of the State. He pub. in 1863 a semi-centennial address to the Albany Acad., and, in 1846, a discourse before the N.Y. Hist. Soc. in 1845.

Digitized by Google

Bradford, ANDREW SOWLES, printer, b. Phila., 1686; d. Nov. 23, 1742. Son of Wm. Bradford, first printer of Phila., from whom he learned the art in N.Y. He was the only printer in Pa. from 1712 to 1723. He pub. the American Weekly Mercury, the first newspaper in Phila., Dec. 22, 1719; was Franklin's first employer on his arrival there in 1723; in 1732 was postmaster; in 1735 kept a bookstore at the sign of the Bible, in Second st., and in 1738 removed to No. 8, South Front St., occupied as a printing-house in 1810, by his descendant, Thomas Bradford, pub. of the True American. In 1741, he pub. a periodical, the American Magazine.

Bradford, GAMALIEL, col. in the Revol. army, b. Duxbury, Ms., Sept. 2, 1731; d. there Jan. 9, 1807. He was a descendant of Gov. B. Gamaliel, his father, judge of the C.C.P. of Plymouth, and a councillor under Govs. Bernard and Hutchinson, d. Apr. 24, 1778, a. 73. He served in the French war as a captain of militia; rose to the rank of major, and, during the Revol., com. the 14th Mass. Continental Regt. After the war, he was a representative and a judge.

Bradford, THOMAS, son of Col. Wm., printer, editor, and publisher, b. Phila., May 4, 1745; d. there May 7, 1838. Leaving the Coll. of Phila. in 1762, he entered his father's printing-house, and was his partner, and associate editor of the Pennsylvania Journal, which, in 1801, became the True American. An active opponent of the Stamp Act, and other arbitrary measures of the British Government, he became, in 1775, capt. of a military company in Phila., and subsequently he was commissary gen. to the Pa. division, and printer to Congress. One of the founders of the Philos. Soc. His son THOMAS, LL.D., lawyer and philanthropist, b. Phila., Sept. 11, 1781; d. there Oct. 25, 1851.

Bradford, WILLIAM, 2d gov. of Plymouth Colony, and one of "The Mayflower" Pilgrims, b. Austerfield, Yorkshire, Eng., in Mar. 1588; d. May 9, 1657. Possessed of a good patrimony, he yet early in life, connected himself with the Dissenters, and, at the age of 17, was one of a company which made an attempt to seek in Holland that toleration due to its enlightened commercial policy; but, being betrayed by the master of the vessel, they were thrown into prison at Boston, Lincolnshire. After another unsuccessful attempt, he at length joined his brethren at Amsterdam, learned the art of silk-dyeing, and, coming into possession of his property at the age of 21, engaged unsuccessfully in commerce. He entered zealously into the plan of removing to America the congregation of Mr. Robinson's church at Leyden; sailed in the first ship, and, on its arrival in the harbor of Cape Cod, was one of the foremost in selecting a site for the colony. Before this was accomplished, his wife fell into the sea, and was drowned. Upon the death of Gov. Carver, April 5, 1621, Mr. Bradford was elected to fill the place. Among the first of his acts was the cultivation of friendly relations with the Indian sachem Massasoit, who, in return for his good offices, disclosed a dangerous conspiracy then forming among the Indians for the purpose of totally extirpating the English. He was annually rechosen gov. as long as he lived, excepting in the years 1633, 1634, '6, '8, and 1644, when he declined an election. He wrote a history of Plymouth Colony from 1602 to 1647. On the retreat of the British army in 1775, the MS. was carried away from the library of the Old South Church, Boston, and, after having been lost 80 years, was recovered, and was pub. by the Ms. Hist. Soc. in 1856. A fragment of his Letter Book, found in a grocer's shop at Halifax, has also been printed by the same society, accompanied by a descriptive and historical account of N.E. in verse.

Bradford, MAJOR WILLIAM, second son of Gov. B., b. June 17, 1624; d. Feb. 20, 1704. He resided in what is now Kingston, Ms. He com. the Plymouth troops in King Philip's War, and was wounded in the Narragansett Fort fight, Dec. 19, 1675, at East Kingston, R. I.

Bradford, WILLIAM, the first printer in Pa., b. Leicester, Eng., May 20, 1660; d. N.Y., May 23, 1752. Being a Quaker, he emigrated in 1682, and landed on the spot where Phila. was afterwards built. He learned his trade in London. In 1686, he printed an almanac. In 1692, he was imprisoned for libel; the writings of George Keith, which he printed, having caused a quarrel among the Quakers. On his trial, Bradford maintained, that "the jury are judges in law, as well as the matter of fact." He was not convicted, but, having incurred the displeasure of the dominant party in Phila., removed to New York in 1693. In that year, he printed the laws of the Colony. Oct. 16, 1725, he began the first newspaper in New York, the N.Y. Gazette. In 1728, he established a paper-mill at Elizabethtown, N.J. For more than 50 years, he was printer to the govt. of N. Y., and, for 30 years, the only one in the province. His son ANDREW was a printer in Phila.

Bradford, WILLIAM, physician, lawyer, and legislator, b. Plympton, Ms., Nov. 4, 1729; d. Bristol, R.I., July 6, 1808. He was a descendant of Gov. Bradford, received a good education, and studied medicine under Dr. Ezekiel Hersey of Hingham. After a few years' practice at Warren, R.I., he removed to Bristol, where he erected an elegant seat on Mount Hope. He afterward studied and practised law, attaining high rank in his profession. He was a leading member of the committee of corresp., and took a decided part in the controversy with Great Britain. During the cannonade of Bristol, Oct. 7, 1775, Gov. Bradford went on board "The Rose," in behalf of the inhabitants, and treated with Capt. Wallace for the cessation of the bombardment. He was a U. S. senator from 1793 to 1797, and was dep. gov., and speaker of the house of assembly. His eldest son, Maj. WM. BRADFORD, aide to Gen. Charles Lee, of the Revol. army, b. Bristol, Sept. 17, 1752; d. Nov. 1811. H. U. 1773.

Bradford, COL. WILLIAM, printer and Revol. soldier, b. N.Y., 1719; d. Phila., Sept. 25, 1791. Grandson of the first printer of Phila., and became a partner of his uncle Andrew, who had adopted him; but the connection was dissolved on account of a love-affair. In

Digitized by Google

1741, he visited Eng., returning the next year with books and printing-material, and in Dec. 1742, he pub. the first number of the Pennsylvania Journal, which was continued until the close of the century; when his son Thomas, who was his business-partner, changed its name to the True American. Besides his business of printing, he opened in 1754 the London Coffee House, and in 1762, in connection with Mr. Kydd, a marine-insurance office. He opposed the Stamp Act, and, having long held a commission in the Pa. militia, when the Revol. war began, served as a maj. and col. at Trenton, at Princeton where he was wounded, and at Fort Mifflin. He left the army with shattered health, and ruined fortune. Franklin said of him, "His writing was spirited, his press correct, and his sword active."

Bradford, WILLIAM, lawyer, b. Phila., Sept. 14, 1755; d. Aug. 23, 1795. N. J. Coll. 1772. Son of Col. Wm. Studied law under Edward Shippen; adm. to the bar of the Supreme Court in 1779; app. atty.-gen. of Pa. in Aug. 1780; made a judge of the Supreme Court of Pa., Aug. 22, 1791, and atty.-gen. of the U. S., Jan. 28, 1794. In Aug. 1794, he was one of the commissioners to confer with the insurgents of Western Pa. He was a maj. of brigade under Gen. Roberdeau in 1776, was a capt. in Hampton's regt., and from Apr. 1777, to Apr. 1779, was dep. muster-master-gen., with the rank of lieut.-col. He was materially assisted in obtaining a valuable practice at the bar, and in various other ways, by his elder brother Thomas. In 1793, he pub. "An Inquiry how far the Punishment of Death is Necessary in Pa.," and succeeded in effecting beneficent modifications in the penal code of that day. Some of his early poetical efforts, in imitation of the Pastorals of Shenstone, were pub. in the Philadelphia Magazine.

Bradford, WILLIAM, b. N. Bedford, Ms., of Quaker parentage, has painted truthfully many of the coast-scenes of N.E. Unsuccessful as a merchant in Fairhaven, Ms., he studied the coast of N. E., Nova Scotia, and Labrador. Among his best pictures are "The Coast of Labrador," "The Island of Grand Menan," "Fishing-Boats Getting under Way," "Sudden Squall in the Bay of Fundy," "Shipwreck off Nantucket," "Boarding the Sloop," &c. — Tuckerman.

Bradish, LUTHER, LL.D. (Wms. Coll.), statesman, b. Cummington, Ms., Sept. 15, 1783; d Newport, R.I., Aug. 30, 1863. Wms. Coll. 1804. He studied law, made a tour in Europe, and in 1820 was engaged in procuring information for the govt. respecting the commerce of the Levant prior to establishing diplomatic relations with the Porte. He returned to N.Y. in 1826, settled in Franklin Co., where he was a large land-owner; was a member of the assembly in 1827–30 and 1835–8; lieut.-gov. 1829–43; and assist. U.S. treas. at N.Y., during Fillmore's administration. He latterly occupied himself with educational, charitable, and reformatory projects, and at his death was pres. of the N. Y. Hist. Society and the Amer. Bible Society.

Bradlee, CALEB DAVIS, pastor of the Allen-st., Church, Cambridge (Dec. 11, 1854–Dec. 11, 1857), and of the Church of the Redeemer at Boston, since Apr. 6, 1864, b. Boston, 24 Feb. 1831. H. U. 1852. He has pub. several occasional sermons, — one on the death of Pres. Lincoln; has contrib. to the N. E. Hist. and Geneal. Register, and to various periodicals and newspapers; and has been recording and corresponding sec. of the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Soc., and is a member of many other historical and literary societies.

Bradley, STEPHEN ROW, LL.D. (Dartm. Coll. 1805), statesman, b. Wallingford, Ct., Oct. 20, 1754; d. Walpole, N. H., Dec. 16, 1830. Y. C. 1775 He studied law under Judge Reeve, and was adm. to practise in May, 1779. He com. a company called the Cheshire Vols. early in the Revol. war, and was the aide of Gen. Wooster when that officer fell at Danbury. Removing to Vt. in 1779, he was a friend of Ethan Allen; pub. "Vermont's Appeal," 1779; was active in organizing the State, and was its senator in Congress in 1791–5 and 1801–13. He was a man of eminent ability, but of eccentric habits.

Bradley, WILLIAM CZAR, LL.D. (Vt. U. 1851), lawyer, son of S. R., b. Westminster, Vt., Mar. 23, 1782; d. there Mar. 3, 1867. Y. C. 1817. Adm. to the bar in 1802; State atty. for Windham Co., 1804–11; member of the legisl. 1806–7 and 1850, and of the council, 1812; M. C. 1813–15, 1817–22, 1823–7; agent of the U.S. under the treaty of Ghent, and member of the State Const. Conv. in 1857.

Bradley, WILLIAM H., M. D., poet, b. Hartford, Ct., July 24, 1802; d. Cuba, 1825. Educated a physician. He pub. "Giuseppino," 1822, and many fugitive pieces. Son of Dr. Wm. Bradley, afterward a resident of Phila.

Bradstreet, ANNE, poet, b. Northampton, Eng., 1612; d. Sept. 16, 1672. She was the dau. of Gov. Thomas Dudley, and m. Simon Bradstreet, afterwards gov. of Ms., with whom she came to N. E. in 1630. Her poems, dedicated in verse to her father, and entitled "The Tenth Muse lately sprung up in Amer., or Several Poems compiled with Great Variety of Wit and Learning, full of Delight," were pub. at London, 1650. A more complete edition, pub. at Boston in 1678 (after her death), contains her best piece, entitled "Contemplations." A reprint of this appeared in 1758. Her works, including poetry and prose, were pub. at Charlestown in 1867, edited by John Harvard Ellis.

Bradstreet, JOHN, maj.-gen., b. 1711; d. N.Y. City, 25 Sept. 1774. In the exped. against Louisburg in 1745, he was lieut.-col. of Pepperell's (York, Me.) regt., and contrib. largely to its success by his zeal, activity, and judgment, and by "his particular knowledge in the circumstances of this place." Made a capt. in a regular regt., called Pepperell's, 5 Sept. 1745, and app., 16 Sept. 1746, to the sinecure place of lieut.-gov. of St. John's, Newfoundland. Ordered by Braddock to Oswego in 1755, and made adj.-gen. to Gov. Shirley. In 1756, he was again ordered to conduct supplies to Oswego, and on his return, July 3, was attacked by a strong party of the enemy, which he defeated; app. to a company in the 60th (Roy. Amer.) regt. in Mar. 1757, and, 27 Dec., was made lieut.-col. and dep. Q.M. gen. In 1758, he took part in the unsuccessful attack on Ticonderoga; was made Q.M. gen., rank of col., in Amer., 20 Aug., and, 27 Aug., captured Ft. Frontenac. An account of this exped. was pub. in London in 1759. He accomp. Amherst in his exped. against Ticonderoga and Crown Point; was made col. in Feb. 1762, maj.-gen. 25 May, 1772. In 1764, he com. an exped. against the Western Indians, with whom he negotiated a peace at Detroit, Sept. 7 He had two daughters, Martha and Agatha, by his wife Mary, who had by her first husb. (Maj. John Bradstreet), Elizabeth, who became the wife of Peter Livius, and Samuel, maj. 40th Foot.

Digitized by Google

Bradstreet, Simon, gov. of Ms., b. Horbling, Lincolnshire, Eng., March, 1603; d. Salem, Ms., March 27, 1697. His father, Rev. Simon Bradstreet, was a nonconformist minister. Bred in the religious family of the Earl of Lincoln, after studying one year at Emanuel Coll., Cambridge, he became steward to the Countess of Warwick. Having m. Anne, dau. of Thomas Dudley, he was persuaded to engage in the settlement of Ms., was chosen assist.-judge of a court about to be established there, and arrived in Salem in the summer of 1630. He took part in the proceedings of the first court held in Charlestown, Aug. 23; became agent and sec. of Ms., and commissioner of the United Colonies. In 1631, he was among the founders of Cambridge. He was among the first settlers of Andover, and resided also at Ipswich, Salem, and Boston. In 1653, he, with his colleagues, vigorously and successfully opposed making war on the Dutch in N.Y., and on the Indians; though it was strongly urged by all the commissioners of the other Colonies. In 1662, he was sent to Eng. to congratulate Charles II. on his restoration, and to act as agent for the Colony. He was assistant from 1630 to 1679.; gov. from 1679 to 1686, when the charter was annulled. He strenuously opposed the arbitrary measures of Andros, and after his overthrow in May, 1689, was again gov. until May, 1692, when, at the a. of 89, he became first councillor. He was in service in the govt. 62 years, except during the brief administrations of Dudley and Andros. He was a popular magistrate; a man of great integrity, piety, and prudence; was opposed to the witch delusion in 1692, and lived to be the Nestor of N.E. He advised the surrender of the charter of Ms. to Charles II., warily distrusting the ability of the Colonists to resist.

Bradstreet, Simon, minister of Charlestown, Ms., from 26 Oct. 1698 to his d., 31 Dec. 1741; b. New London, Ct., 7 Mar. 1671. H.U. 1693. Son of Rev. Simon of N. L., (1640–83), and grandson of Gov. Simon. He ranked high as a preacher and a scholar. His son Simon, minister of the second Cong. Church, Marblehead, and a disting. linguist, d. Marblehead, 5 Oct. 1771, a. 62. Ord. 4 Jan. 1738. H.U. 1728.

Brady, Hugh, maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. Northumberland Co., Pa., in July, 1768; d. Detroit, April 15, 1851. He was a bro. or nephew of Capt. Samuel Brady, a celebrated Indian scout and fighter, b. Shippensburg, 1758. Ensign, March 7, 1792, and served in Wayne's Indian campaign. He left the service, but re-entered it in 1808; July 6, 1812, was app. col. 22d regt.; col. 2d Inf., 1816; brevet brig.-gen. July 6, 1822; maj.-gen. May 30, 1848. He disting. himself at Lundy's Lane, at Chippewa, and at Niagara, and was wounded in the two latter engagements. Stationed at Detroit during the patriot disturbances in Canada, he contrib. greatly to the preservation of peace on the frontier.

Brady, James Topham, an eminent lawyer of New York, b. there April 9, 1815; d. Feb. 9, 1869. His father, Thos. S. Brady, a lawyer and politician, trained him to the bar, to which he was adm. in 1835, and where he early attained reputation. His forte was criminal cases, in nearly all of which for 30 years he was engaged; and he won especial distinction in the celebrated Forrest divorce case, and by his defence of Daniel E. Sickles in 1859. A State-rights man and a Democ. before the Rebellion, when that crisis came, he was a zealous supporter of Mr. Lincoln's administration, but would never take any political office, though often urged to do so. During the civil war, he made many speeches on national questions. Near the close of the war, he was one of a commission to inquire into the administration of the Dept. of the Gulf, under Gens. Butler and Banks. He was an amiable and social man, of much literary culture and taste, and had been a contrib. to the old Knickerbocker Magazine. One of the best of his pieces, "A Christmas Dream," was put in a vol. as an illustrated holiday present.

Bragg, Braxton, gen. C.S.A., b. Warren Co., N.C., ab. 1815. West Point, 1837. Entering the 3d Art., he served against the Seminole Indians, 1839–43; brev. capt. for gal. conduct in defence of Fort Brown, May 9, 1846; capt. 8 June, 1846; brev. major for gallantry at Monterey, Mex., Sept. 23, 1846; brev. lieut.-col. for Buena Vista, Feb. 23, 1847; maj. 1st cav., March 3, 1855; resigned Jan. 3, 1856, and lived on his extensive plantation at Thibodeaux, La., until the civil war. Made a brig.-gen. in the Southern army in March, 1861, and took com. of the forces at Pensacola destined to reduce Fort Pickens. In Feb. 1862, he was made maj.-gen., and ordered to join the army of the Mpi. He bore an important part in the battle of Shiloh, where he com. the 2d corps.; was promoted to gen. in place of Gen. A. S. Johnston, killed in that battle, and in May succeeded Beauregard in com. of that dept. In Aug., he left Chattanooga, successfully turned Buell's left flank, and, passing through East Tenn., entered Ky. at the head of a large army. Buell leaving his posts in Ala., marching on a much shorter line, reached Louisville before him, and compelled Bragg to retire after the battle of Perryville, Oct. 9, with the force under Gen. McCook. He carried away a vast amount of supplies and a large number of recruits from Ky. He was removed from his com., and placed under arrest in Richmond, but was soon restored, and took com. of the army opposed to Rosecrans, Nov. 1862. At the battle of Murfreesboro', Dec. 31, 1862, after a partial success, he was forced to retire

Digitized by Google

Sept. 19, 1863, he defeated Rosecrans at Chickamauga; Nov. 25, 1863, he was decisively defeated by Gen. Grant at Mission. Ridge. Relieved from com. ab. 2 Dec. 1863. He led a small force from N.C. to Ga. in the autumn of 1864; d. Galveston, Texas, Sept. 1876.

Bragg, THOMAS, politician, b. Warrenton, N.C., Nov. 9, 1810. Chiefly educated at the Middletown, Ct., Milit. Acad.; began to practise law in 1831; member of the N.C. Assembly, 1842; gov. of N.C. 1855–9; U.S. senator 1859 to July, 1861, when he was expelled, having previously taken part in the Rebellion. — Bro. of Braxton; d. Raleigh, N. C. Jan. 21, 1872.

Brainerd, DAVID, missionary to the Indians, b. Haddam, Ct., April 20, 1718; d. Northampton, Oct. 9, 1747. He was remarkable at an early age for a serious turn of mind. He entered Y. Coll. in 1739, and was disting. for application and general correctness of conduct, but was expelled in 1742 for some trivial offence. Licensed to preach in July, 1742. His strong desire to preach the gospel among the heathens was at length gratified by an app. from the Society for Propagating Christian Knowledge, as missionary to the Indians. In 1743, he commenced his labors at Kaunamuk, an Indian village situated between Stockbridge and Albany. On the removal of the Kaunamuks the next year to Stockbridge, he turned his attention to the Delaware Indians. Ord. in June, 1744, by the presbytery at Newark, N.J., he took up his habitation near the forks of the Delaware, in Pa., where he resided for a year, and made two visits to the Indians on the Susquehanna River. His exertions, however, were unattended with much success, until he went to the Indians at Crosweeksung in N.J. A complete reformation in the lives of the savages took place within a year, and nearly 100 were baptized. In 1747, he went to Northampton, Ms., and passed there, in the family of the celebrated Jonathan Edwards, the residue of his days. Brainerd was a man of vigorous intellect and quick discernment. Gifted with a powerful eloquence, a strong memory, and with an intimate knowledge of human nature, he was eminently qualified for the business of instruction. His biography was written by Pres. Edwards. A new edition, together with his journals, "Mirabilia Dei apud Indicos," and "Grace Displayed," was pub. in 1822. JOHN, his brother, also a missionary, b. Haddam, Ct., 28 Feb. 1720; d. Deerfield, Ms., March 21, 1781. Y.C. 1746. He succeeded to his brother's mission in 1748; resided in Newark, N.J., in 1755; was some time at Mt. Holly, and officiated to churches around Egg Harbor, in 1760–77, but went to Deerfield in 1777. — See Life of, by Rev. Thomas Brainerd, 1865.

Brainerd, JOHN GARDINER CALKINS, poet, b. New London, Ct., Oct. 21, 1796; d. there Sept. 26, 1828. Y.C. 1815. He was the son of Judge Jeremiah G., who d. Jan. 7, 1830, a. 69. Educated for the bar, inadequate success in that vocation led him to assume in 1822 the editorial charge of the Ct. Mirror at Hartford; but the ravages of consumption obliged him, about a year before his death, to return to New London. A vol. of his poems was pub. in N.Y., 1825; an enlarged ed. in 1832, entitled "Literary Remains," and a 3d ed. (Hartford, 1842) edited by J. G. Whittier.

Brainerd, THOMAS, D.D., Presb. clergyman, b. Central N.Y., June 17, 1804; d. Scranton, Pa., Aug. 22, 1866. Ord. Oct. 7, 1831. Descended from Daniel Brainerd the Puritan. He at first studied law, but soon entered the And. Theol. Sem., studied afterward under Dr. Patterson of Phila., and removed to Cincinnati, where he assisted Dr. Lyman Beecher; edited the Christian Herald, Cincinnati Journal, and Youths' Magazine, 1833–6, and assisted on the Presbyterian Quarterly Review. From 1837 to his death, he had charge of the Old Pine-street Church, Phila. Author of "The Life of John Brainerd." — See Memoir, by M. Brainerd, 8vo, Phila.

Branch, JOHN, sec. of the U. S. N., b. Halifax, N.C., Nov. 4, 1782; d. Edgefield, N.C., Jan. 4, 1863. U. of N.C. 1801. He studied and practised law; became a judge of the Superior Court; was a member of the State senate from 1811 to 1817; gov. of the State in 1817–20; again a State senator in 1822; a U.S. senator from 1823 to 1829; sec. of the navy under Pres. Jackson from 1829 to 1831; M.C. 1831-3; again a State senator in 1834; in 1835, a member of the State Const. Conv.; and, in 1854–5, gov. of Fla. Terr. — Lanman.

Branch, LAWRENCE O'BRIEN, gen. C.S.A., b. Halifax Co., N.C., in 1820; killed in battle at Antietam, Sept. 17, 1862. N.J. Coll. 1838. Son of the preceding. He studied law, settled at Raleigh, and was M C. from 1855 to 1861, supporting the measures of the Democ. party. After the secession of N.C., May 21, he entered its military service, and was made brig.-gen. in Nov. 1861. He com. at Newbern when it was captured by Gen. Burnside, and subsequently took part in several of the battles in that State and on the peninsula.

Brandt, JOSEPH (THAYANDANEGA), a Mohawk chief, b. ab. 1742; d. at his seat at the head of Lake Ontario, U.C., 24 Nov. 1807. He is said to have taken an active part in the Niagara campaign of 1759, under Sir Wm. Johnson, who, in 1761, sent him to Dr. Wheelock's Indian school at Hanover, where he translated portions of the New Testament into the Mohawk language. In 1763, he was in the war against Pontiac. He was, at the breaking-out of the Revol. war, sec. to Guy Johnson, superintendent of the Indians, whom he excited to take arms against the Colonists. Returning from a visit to Eng. in 1775–6, he was employed by the British in predatory excursions against the Colonists in connection with the savage Tory refugee, Col. John Butler; served under St. Leger at the investment of Fort Stanwix; was a leader in the severe battle of Oriskany, 6 Aug. 1777, and, though not present at the Wyoming Massacre, was in that at Cherry Valley, and in July, 1779, led the band that destroyed Minisink, and defeated the party of Col. Tusten. He held a col's. commission from the king, and, after the war, prevailed on the various tribes to make a permanent treaty of peace. In 1786, he again visited Eng., where he was received with distinction, and collected funds for the erection of the first church built in Upper Canada, and was afterward employed by Gov. Carleton in the public service. He opposed the confederation of the Indians, which led to the exped. of Wayne in 1793, and did his utmost to preserve peace between the Indians and the U.S. He translated the Gospel of St. Mark into the Mohawk language, and did much for the welfare of his people. His son JOHN, an officer in the British service in the War of 1812, d. Brantford in Sept. 1832, a. 36. A dau. m. W. J. Kerr of Niagara in 1824. — See Life of Brandt, by W. L. Stone.

Digitized by Google

Brannan, JOHN MILTON, brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. D.C., ab. 1820. West Point, 1841. Entering the 1st Art., he became 1st lieut. Mar. 3, 1847; disting. himself at Cerro Gordo; won the brev. of capt. for gallantry at Contreras and Churubusco; was severely wounded at the Belen Gate of Mexico, Sept. 13, 1847; capt. 1st. Art. Nov. 4, 1854; and brig.-gen. Vols. Sept. 28, 1861, and served in the dep. of the South, having for a time com. of Southern Florida. Transferred to S.C., he com., Oct. 22, 1862, a reconnoissance from Hilton Head to the Broad River and its tributaries, and had an engagement with a Confed. force, which he drove across the Pocotaligo River, with severe loss on both sides. He com. a division in McCook's corps at Chickamauga, 20 Sept. 1863; was chief of art. dept., Cumberland, 1863–5; brev. col. for Chickamauga; maj. 1st Art. Aug. 1, 1863; in the battle of Missionary Ridge, Nov. 23–25, 1863; in the battles and operations ending in the capture of Atlanta, 2 Sept. 1864, for which brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., 13 Mar. 1865; and brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A. for merit. services in the field during the Rebellion. — Cullum.

Brannan, WILLIAM PENN, artist and poet of Cincinnati, b. 22 Mar. 1825; d. there 9 Aug. 1866. Author of the "Harp of a Thousand Strings;" wrote under the pseudonyme of "Vandyke Brown," and produced some paintings of decided merit. — See Poets and Poetry of the West.

Brattle, WILLIAM, F.R.S., lawyer, preacher, physician, soldier, and legislator, b. Cambridge, Ms., ab. 1702; d. Halifax, N.S., Oct. 1776. H.U. 1722. Son of Wm., minister of Cambridge (b. 22 Nov. 1662; d. 15 Feb. 1717. H.U. 1680. Ord. 25 Mar. 1696). Author of a compendium of logic. The son was long a member of the legisl. and of the council; practised physic extensively; was capt. of the Art. Co., 1733, and a maj.-gen. of militia; a benefactor of H. U.; member of the Stamp Act Congress in 1765; and, being a loyalist, left Boston with the British troops in Mar. 1776.

Bravo (brä'vo), NICOLAS, a Mexican gen., b. Chilpanzingo, ab. 1792; d. there Apr. 22, 1854. Leonardo his father, a patriot, b. near San Luis Potosi, 1766; d. of prison-fever, in the hands of the Spaniards in the city of Mexico in 1812. Attached to the party of independence from the outset, he placed himself, after the death of Hidalgo in 1812, under Morelos, and contrib. powerfully to the success of the Republican cause by his victory over the Spanish gen. Musitu. In 1817, he was taken by the viceroy Apodaca, who spared his life only at the urgent solicitation of many prominent royalists. He was released at the general amnesty, March, 1820. He opposed Iturbide in 1822; and the provisional govt. which succeeded was confided in 1823 to Bravo, Vittoria, and Negrette. Feb. 2, 1824, Vittoria obtained the presidency, and Bravo the vice-presidency; Dec. 23, 1827, he put himself at the head of a Revol. movement, but was easily defeated by Gen. Guerrero; Bravo and other officers who were taken, after passing 5 months in prison, being banished to Guatemala. Recalled in 1829 by the overthrow of Guerrero, he was sent against him, and obtained his revenge on that chieftain, whom he took with arms in his hands, and who was shot Feb. 14, 1831. At the close of 1833, Bravo was again at the head of a small body of insurgents, and was beaten in the year following by Vittoria. In July, 1839, as pres. of the council, he was charged with the supreme administration of the govt. during an interim of a week, and again, from Oct. 26, 1842, till March, 1843, during Santa Aña's absence as dictator at the head of the army, and for the last time from July 29 to Aug. 4, 1846, when he was deposed by a Revol. During the war with the U.S., he took part in the battle of Cerro Gordo. Bravo was one of the most upright, honorable, and disting. men Mexico has produced. — N. B. G.

Braxton, CARTER, signer of the Declaration of Independence, b. Newington, Va., Sept. 10, 1736; d. Oct. 10, 1797. Wm. and Mary Coll. 1756. His father was a wealthy planter, and his mother the dau. of Robert Carter, at one time pres. of the council. In 1760, he returned from a residence of some years in Eng., and in 1765 disting. himself in the Va. H. of burgesses, in support of Patrick Henry's celebrated Stamp Act resolutions, and in the subsequent assemblies which were dissolved by the gov. He was a member of the Va. convention of 1769, and of that of Williamsburg in 1774; was an active member of the last house of burgesses convened under royal authority in Va., and was a member of the committee to whom was referred the difficulty between it and Gov. Dunmore. In 1775, he was a member of the convention which met at Richmond to devise measures for the public good, and was, Dec. 15, app. successor to Peyton Randolph in Congress. He did not remain long in that body, but served in the Va. legisl. till 1783; from 1786 to 1791 was a member of the State council, and also from 1794 to 1797. He inherited several plantations; but the close of his life was imbittered by pecuniary embarrassment, and the entire wreck of his fortune. He was a man of talent, of sound judgment, and remarkable prudence and forethought. In 1776, he pub. at Phila. "An Address to the Convention of Va. on the Subject of Govt."

Brearly, DAVID, jurist; d. Trenton, N.J., 16 Aug. 1790, a. 44. Lieut.-col. in the Revol. army, and a cool and brave officer. Member of the State and Federal Const. Convs., and 9 years chief-justice of N.J., app. in July 1779.

Breathitt, JOHN, gov. Ky., 1832–4, b. near

Digitized by Google

New London, Va., Sept. 9, 1786; d. Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 21, 1834. His father settled in Logan Co. in 1800. John was a surveyor and school-teacher, and, acquiring some property, studied law; adm. to the bar in Feb. 1810; was several years thereafter in the legisl.; was lieut.-gov. in 1828–32. He was a warm supporter of Jackson for the Presidency. — Collins's Hist. of Ky.

Brebeuf, JEAN DE (1593–1649), was one of the earliest missionaries sent to Canada, whither, in 1625, he accompanied Champlain, and established himself among the Hurons. During a residence among them of 3 years, he acquired their language, gained their confidence, and exercised a paternal influence over them. He fell a victim to the implacable hatred which existed between the Hurons and Iroquois. In 1649, in a combat where the Hurons, unexpectedly attacked, had the disadvantage, Brebeuf fell into the hands of the Iroquois, who put him to death with the frightful torments which they usually inflict on their prisoners of war. At the end of his "Voyages," Champlain has printed the "Catechisme traduit dans la Langue des Hurons," by father Brebeuf. This is the first known specimen of the idiom of the savages of Canada, Paris, 1652.

Breck, DANIEL, LL.D., jurist, son of Rev. Daniel (1748–1845), b. Topsfield, Ms., Feb. 12, 1788. D.C. 1812. He studied law, and removing to Richmond, Ky., in 1814, commenced practice there. Judge of a county court; from 1824 to 1829, he was a member of the State legisl.; from 1835 to 1843, he was pres. of the branch bank of Ky. at Richmond; in 1843, he was app. judge of the Supreme Court of Ky., and was M.C. from 1849 to 1851. LL. D. of Transyl. U. in 1843. — Lanman.

Breck, ROBERT, minister of Springfield, Ms., from July 26, 1736, to his d., Apr. 23, 1784, b. July 25, 1713. H.U. 1730. Son of Robert, minister of Marlborough, 1704–31. His settlement gave rise to much controversy as to his religious views. He was a man of great learning, and a close reasoner. He pub. a century sermon on the burning of the town by the Indians, Oct. 16, 1675. — Sprague.

Breck, SAMUEL, son of Rev. Daniel, b. Boston, 17 July, 1771; d. Phila., 1 Sept. 1862. At the Roy. Milit. Coll. of Loreze in 1783–7. His family moved to Pa. in 1792. He was many years in the Pa. legisl. and in the Phila. city govt.; M.C. 1823–5; member of the Pa. Hist. Soc. He pub. historical sketch of Continental paper-money, 1843, and some historical addresses.

Breckinridge, GEN. JAMES, lawyer and politician, b. near Fincastle, Botetourt Co., Va., March 7, 1763; d. there Aug. 1846. W. and M. Coll. 1785. He was a Revol. soldier, serving in Col. Preston's rifle regt., under Greene, in 1781; was adm. to the bar in 1787, and became a successful lawyer; a prominent leader of the old Federal party in the gen. assembly of the State, and M.C. 1809–17. He was an active and efficient friend of that great improvement by which Va. proposed to connect the waters of the Chesapeake with those of the Ohio, and a zealous co-laborer with Mr. Jefferson in founding the U. of Va.

Breckinridge, JOHN, U.S. atty.-gen. in 1805, author and advocate of the celebrated "Resolutions of 1798–9" in the Va. legisl., b. Va. 1760; d. Lexington, Ky., Dec. 14, 1806. Emigrating to Ky., he was chosen U.S. senator in 1801, and introduced, in 1802, a resolution for the repeal of the Judiciary Act of 1801, establishing several new tribunals. In the debate which followed, Mr. Breckenridge disting. himself by his eloquent speeches. He also took an active part in the discussion relative to the free navigation of the Mpi. A vol. of his speeches was pub.

Breckinridge, JOHN, D.D. (Un. Coll. 1835), b. Cabell's Dale, Ky., 4 July, 1797; d. near Lexington, Ky., 4 Aug. 1841. N.J. Coll. 1818. Son of the preceding. Licensed to preach in 1822; chaplain to Congress in 1822–3; pastor of a Presb. church at Lexington, 10 Sept. 1823–1826, during which time he established the Western Luminary, a religious newspaper. In 1826–31, he was colleague with Dr. Glendy at Baltimore; sec. and gen.-agent of the Presb. Board of Education at Phila. in 1831–6; prof. of theology at the Princeton Sem. in 1836–8; sec. and gen.-agent of the Board of Foreign Missions, 1838–40, and at the time of his d. pres. elect of Oglethorpe U., Ga. In 1836–8, he was settled at N. Orleans. He was an able controversialist; and his discussion with Bishop Hughes of N.Y. was pub. with the title, "Roman-Catholic Controversy." He was an eloquent preacher and an able polemic writer. Pres. of the African Colonization Soc. — Sprague.

Breckinridge, JOHN CABELL, vice.-pres. of the U.S., b. near Lexington, Ky., Jan. 21, 1821. Grandson of Senator John B. Centre Coll., Ky. He studied law at the Transyl. Institute, and was adm. to the bar at Lexington. After residing at Burlington, Io., for a time, he returned to Lexington, where he practised his profession with success. He served as a major during the Mex. war, and disting. himself as the counsel of Gen. Pillow during the famous court-martial. On his return, he was elected to the State legisl, and was M.C. from 1851 to 1855. The mission to Spain was tendered him by Pres. Pierce, but was declined. He became V.P. in March, 1857. One of his first public performances was the delivery of a eulogy on Henry Clay. He entered the senate in 1861 as successor of J. J. Crittenden. Candidate of the Southern Democ. for Pres. in 1860, and defeated; expelled from the senate, Dec. 4, 1861; made a maj.-gen. C.S.A., 5 Aug. 1862; he com. the reserve at Shiloh, Apr. 6, 1862; com. the force which attacked Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 5, 1862, and was repulsed; com. a division in Polk's corps at Murfreesboro', Dec. 31, 1862; at Chickamauga, Nov. 25, 1863; defeated Sigel near Newmarket, Va., May 13, 1864; then joined Lee's army, and was at the battle of Cold Harbor, June 3, 1864; com. a corps under Early in the Shenandoah Valley, when defeated by Gen. Sheridan, Sept. 1864; defeated Gen. Gillem in E. Tenn., Nov. 12; was in the battle near Nashville, Dec. 15, and in Jan.–Apr. 1865, was sec. of war at Richmond; was in Europe after Lee's surrender, 1865–8; d. Lexington, Ky., May 17, 1875.

Digitized by Google

Breckinridge, ROBERT JEFFERSON, D.D., LL. D., Presb. divine, b. at Cabell's Dale, Ky., Mar. 8, 1800. Un. Coll. 1819. He practised law from 1823 to 1831, and was, meanwhile, several times in the Ky. legisl. From 1832 to 1845, he was pastor of the First Presb. Church, Baltimore, and noted for his eloquence. Pres. of Jeff. Coll., Pa., from 1845 to 1847, when he returned to Ky.; assumed the pastorate of the First Presb. Church in Lexington, and became superintendent of public instruction for the State. He resigned these stations in 1853, having been elected prof of theology in the newly-established sem. at Danville, Ky., an office which he held till his death. While in Baltimore, he edited the Literary and Religious Magazine and the Spirit of the 19th Century; and his discussions with the Catholics evinced great knowledge of church-history and theology. He is the principal author of the common-school system of Ky. In the antislavery discussions of the day, he opposed the extremists of either side, and earnestly supported the Union cause during the civil war. He pub. 2 vols. of "Travels in Europe" in 1838, and besides a great number of tracts, essays, and letters, in 1857 pub. an important work on "Theology objectively considered." LL.D. of Jeff. Coll. 1847; H.U. 1862; D.D. of Un. Coll. 1839. D. Danville, Ky. Dec. 27, '71.

Breese, SAMUEL L., rear-adm. U.S.N., b. N.Y., 1794; d. Mt. Airey, Penn., Dec. 17, 1870. Midshipm. Sept. 10, 1810; lieut. Apr. 27, 1816; commander, Dec. 22, 1835; capt. Sept. 8, 1841; rear-adm. July 16, 1862. He was present at the battle of Lake Champlain, Sept. 11, 1814; com. frigate "Cumberland," Medit. squad., 1845; was present at the capture of Tuspan and Tabasco, Mexico, and at the capture of Vera Cruz, 1847; com. Mediterranean fleet, 1856–8; com. N.Y. navy-yard, 1859–61.

Breese, SIDNEY, senator and jurist, b. Whitesboro', Oneida Co., N.Y., July 15, 1800. Un. Coll. 1818. He removed to Ill., and in 1821 was adm. to the bar; became assist. sec. of State, and was State atty. from 1822 to 1827, when he was app. U. S. atty. for Ill. In 1829, he pub. a vol. of Decisions of the Supreme Court, the first octavo vol. pub. in the State; served as a lieut.-col. of vols. in the Black Hawk War; in 1835 was elected a circuit judge; was U. S. senator in 1843–9, and was chairman of the com. on public lands, and a regent of the Smithsonian Inst., during Polk's administration. In 1850, he was speaker of the Ill. legisl.; was one of the originators of the Ill. Central R.R.; in 1855, he was again placed upon the Circuit Court bench of which he was made chief judge. — Lanman.

Bremer, FREDRIKA, a Swedish novelist, b. near Abo, Finland, 17 Aug. 1801; d. Arsta, near Stockholm, 31 Dec. 1865. She was carefully educated by her parents, who were wealthy, and taught an acad. at Stockholm. "The Neighbors," her first work, app. in 1824. Her visit to the U. S. in 1849–51 is recorded in her "Homes in the New World." She afterward pub. an account of her travels in Switzerland, Italy, and the Holy Land. — See her Life, Letters, and Posthumous Works, by her Sister Charlotte, 1868.

Brenton, JAHLEEL, post-capt. British navy, b. Oct. 22, 1729; d. Edinburgh, Jan. 1802. Wm., the first Pilgrim, was gov. of R. I. His son JAHLEEL, 2d, coll. of the customs in N.E. under Wm. III., d. 1732; and his son JAHLEEL, 3d, who seems to have been a great landholder (b. Aug. 15, 1691), m. the dau. of Saml. Cranston, gov. of R. I. By this lady he had 7 daughters and 8 sons, one of whom, JAHLEEL, 4th, m. Henrietta Cowley (of the Cowleys of Worcestershire), who bore him a large family. In his youth, he entered the navy, but had attained only the rank of lieut., and was living quietly on the patrimonial estate in R. I., when the Revol. began. He was a man of high character and respectable talents: efforts were made to enlist him on the patriot side. He was offered high rank in their navy, but refused, and at last escaped to a British cruiser off the coast, sacrificing all but a small fragment of a liberal fortune. He served with reputation, rose to be a post capt., and brought up three sons to the same prof. His son Sir JAHLEEL, rear-adm. of the Blue, b. R. I., 1770, d. Elford, Eng., Apr. 3, 1844. He first served in 1781, in "The Queen," commanded by his father. His second son, EDWARD PELHAM, author of "The Naval History of Great Britain," d. a post capt. in London, 1839.

Brenton, WILLIAM, gov. of R. I., d. Newport, 1674. The family, who were persons of wealth and consideration in Hammersmith, Eng., emig. to Amer. in the reign of Charles I. He was a representative of Boston for several years, dating from 1635; lieut.-gov. of R. I. before 1660, and in 1663; pres. of R. I. between 1660 and 1661, and gov. under the charter, from 1666 to 1669.

Brevard, DR. EPHRAIM, a Revol. patriot of N.C., author of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence; d. at Charlotte, N.C., near the close of the war. N. J. Coll. 1768. He was one of the "seven sons" of his widowed mother, who were in the army. Studied medicine, and settled as a physician in Charlotte, N.C. In May, 1775, he was clerk of the convention held in Charlotte, Mecklenburg Co., and, as one of the committee to prepare resolutions, produced the famous document by which they anticipated by more than a year the Declaration by Congress. When the British invaded the Southern States, Dr. Brevard entered the Continental army as a surgeon, and was taken prisoner at Charleston, in May, 1780. Broken by disease, when set at liberty he returned to Charlotte, where he soon after died. — Lossing.

Brewer, COL. JONATHAN, Revol. officer of Waltham, Ms., b. Framingham, 3 Feb. 1726; d. there 6 Jan. 1784. He had been an officer in the French war, and, at Bunker's Hill, com. a regt., behaved with spirit, and was wounded. In May, 1775, he proposed to the Prov. Congress an exped. to Quebec by way of the Kennebec and Chaudiere; thanked by the Prov. Cong. for giving up his regt. to Col. Whitcomb, and app. barrack-master, 16 Nov. 1776.

Brewer, COL. SAMUEL, b. Framingham, Ms.; d. after 1781. Bro. of Col. Jonathan Brewer; adj.-gen. of the troops at Roxbury, under Gen. Thomas, in the spring of 1775; wounded at Bunker's Hill; authorized to raise a regt. for service at Ticonderoga in Aug. 1776; col. 12th Ms. Continental regt. 1777–8; cashiered 1778.

Digitized by Google

Brewerton, HENRY, LL.D. (Dick Coll. 1847), brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. N.Y. West Point, 1819. Entering the engineer corps, he became col. 22 Apr. 1864; brev. brig.-gen. 13 Mar. 1865, retired 7 Mar. 1867; supt. engr. of the defences of Baltimore harbor, and of Del. River and Bay, 1861–5, and of N.Y. harbor defences, 1865–7. — Cullum.

Brewster, CHARLES WARREN, editor and author, b. Portsmouth, N.H., 13 Sept. 1802; d. there 3 Aug. 1868. He received a common school education, was an apprentice in the office of the Portsmouth Journal, with which he was connected over half a century, and was 43 years its proprietor. He was in 1846–7 a member of the State legisl. and in 1850 a member of the last Const. Conv. Author of "Fifty Years in a Printing-Office," "Rambles about Portsmouth," 2 series, 1859–1870.

Brewster, WILLIAM, a Pilgrim of Plymouth, elder and only teacher for some years, b. Scrooby, Eng., in 1566; d. Plymouth, Ms., April 16, 1644. After an education at Cambridge U., he entered the service of William Davison, ambassador of Queen Elizabeth, in Holland, between whom and himself a strong attachment subsisted. Through Davison's influence, he was made postmaster of Scrooby. Turning his attention to religious subjects, he withdrew from the Established Church, and established with others a separate society. This new church met on the Lord's Day, at Mr. Brewster's house, as long as they could assemble without interruption. Endeavoring by flight to avoid their persecutors, Mr. Brewster, and Mr. Bradford and others, were seized in 1607, just as they were going to Holland, and imprisoned at Boston in Lincolnshire. Mr. Brewster, having most property, was the greatest sufferer, and, obtaining with much difficulty and expense his liberty, he first assisted the poor of the society to emigrate, and then followed them to Holland. His means being exhausted, he opened a school at Leyden for teaching the English language. By the assistance of some friends, he also procured a printing-press, and pub. several books against the hierarchy, but could not obtain a license for their pub. in Eng. Such was his reputation in the church at Leyden, that he was chosen a ruling elder, and accomp. its members who emig. to N. E. in 1620. The church at Plymouth being for several years destitute of a minister, Mr. Brewster, who was respected for his character and venerable age, frequently officiated as a preacher, though he could never be persuaded to administer the sacraments. — See Life and Times of Wm. Brewster, by A. Steele, 1857.

Brickett, JAMES, physician and Revol. patriot, b. 1737; d. Haverhill, Ms., 9 Dec. 1818. He practised physic successfully many years in Haverhill; was a surgeon in the army at Ticonderoga in 1759–60; became lieut.-col. of Frye's Essex regt. 20 May, 1775, and was engaged and wounded at Bunker's Hill, 17 June; was app. brig.-gen. of the forces to be sent to Canada, 11 July, 1776; com. the escort of Burgoyne's captive soldiers from Saratoga to Cambridge, Ms., in Oct. 1777. — Chase's Hist., Haverhill.

Bridge, HORATIO, b. Augusta, Me., Apr. 8, 1806. Bowd. Coll. 1825. Son of Judge James. Studied law, and opened an office at Augusta; entered the navy as paymaster in 1838; chief of the bureau of clothing and provision, 1845–68. Author of "Journal of an African Cruiser."

Bridgman, LAURA, a blind deaf-mute, b. Hanover, N.H., Dec. 21, 1829. At the age of 2 years, a severe illness deprived her of sight and hearing, and consequently of speech; while the sense of smell was also destroyed, and that of taste much impaired. She gradually recovered her health; but none of her senses were restored. At the age of 8, she became an inmate of the Perkins Inst. for the Blind, in Boston, under the care of Dr. S. G. Howe, where she was taught the names and qualities of objects, and how to write. Subsequently acquired the rudiments of arithmetic; took lessons on the piano, in which she became quite skilful; and acquired a practical knowledge of needlework and of some household duties. She manifests in a remarkable degree that maidenly coyness and reserve which have been so often regarded as the result of education. She is still an inmate of the Perkins Asylum. — Appleton's New Amer. Cycl.

Briggs, CHARLES FREDERICK, author and journalist, b. Nantucket. Removing to N.Y. City early in life, he has since resided there. In 1845, in conjunction with Edgar A. Poe, he edited the Broadway Journal, a weekly; also edited Putnam's Magazine from 1853 to 1856, in connection with G. W. Curtis and Parke Godwin, and has since been one of the editors of the New-York Times. He was also connected with the Evening Mirror. He pub. in 1839 "The Adventures of Harry Franco," a novel; "Story of the Telegraph," 1858; in 1844, "The Haunted Merchant," and in 1847, "The Trippings of Tom Pepper." He is a vigorous and caustic writer. Some of his poetical pieces have appeared in Putnam's Monthly, and others in a choice vol. of selections, — "Seaweeds from the Shores of Nantucket." d. Brooklyn, N. Y. June 20, 1877, a. 67

Briggs, GEORGE NIXON, LL.D. (Wms. Coll. 1844), gov. of Ms., b. Adams, Ms., April 13, 1796; d. Pittsfield, Sept. 12, 1861. A.M. of H.U. 1828. His father served under Stark at Bennington. He learned the trade of a hatter; studied law; was adm. to the bar in Oct. 1818; practised successively in Adams, Lanesborough, and Pittsfield, and in 1827, in the defence of a Stockbridge Indian tried at Lenox for murder, established his reputation as one of the ablest criminal lawyers of the State. Register of deeds from 1824 to 1831; M.C. 1831–43; gov. of Ms. 1844–51; judge of C. C. P. in 1851–6. He was a member of the State Const. Conv. of 1853. In 1861, he was one of a committee to adjust the differences between the U.S. and New Grenada; but his death, from the accidental discharge of a gun, prevented his entering upon that duty. A strenuous advocate of temperance; pres. of the Temperance Union, of the Ms. S. S. Union, the Baptist Missionary Union, and the Tract Society at Boston. A biography by Rev. Wm. C. Richards appeared in 1866. His son, Col. Henry Shaw Briggs, com. 10th Ms. Vols.; made brig.-gen. 17 July, 1862; wounded at Fair Oaks; b. 1 Aug. 1824. Wms. Coll. 1844. A lawyer by profession.

Digitized by Google

Brigham, Amariah, M.D., physician, and superintendent of asylums for the insane, b. New Marlboro', Ms., Dec. 26, 1798; d. Sept. 8, 1849. Left an orphan at 11, and at 17 he commenced the study of medicine, supporting himself by teaching school during winters. Commencing practice in 1821, he resided successively in Enfield and Greenfield, Ms., and in Hartford, Ct., and spent a year (1828–9) in European travel and study. In 1837, he delivered a course of lectures before the Coll. of Physicians and Surgeons, N.Y. He was superintendent of the Insane Asylum at Hartford, 1840–2, and at the State Lunatic Asylum, Utica, N.Y., from 1843 till his death. He delivered lectures on the treatment of the insane, prepared reports, and established, in 1844, a Journal of Insanity. He pub. in 1832 a small work on "Asiatic Cholera," soon after, a treatise on "Mental Cultivation and Excitement;" in 1836, "The Influence of Religion upon the Health and Physical Welfare of Mankind;" in 1840, "The Anatomy, Physiology, and Pathology of the Brain;" in 1849, a small vol. of aphorisms and maxims for the use of those who had been under his care, with the title of "The Asylum Souvenir." — See Memoir, by E. K. Hunt, in Gross's Med. Biog.

Brigham, Paul, d. Norwich, Vt., June 16, 1824, a. 79. Four years a capt. in the Revol. army; high sheriff of Windsor Co., Vt., 5 years; maj.-gen. of militia; 5 years chief-justice County Court; and 22 years lieut.-gov. of Vt.

Bright, Jesse D., U. S. senator (1845–62), b. Norwich, Chenango Co., N.Y., Dec. 18, 1812. Removing to Ind., he received an academic education, and studied and practised law. He was circuit judge of Ind.; State senator, U. S. marshal, lieut.-gov. of the State, and pres. of the U. S. senate during several sessions. In 1857, the Democ. members of the State legisl. re-elected him to the senate in a manner which was denounced as fraudulent and unconstitutional by his Republican opponents; and his seat was contested. He continued a senator until Feb. 1862, when, on a charge of disloyalty, — the principal proof of which was, that in March, 1861, he wrote a letter to Hon. Jefferson Davis, pres. of the Confed. States, "recommending to him a person desirous of furnishing arms," — he was expelled by a vote of 32 to 14; d. Baltimore, May 20, 1875.

Bright, Jonathan Brown, merchant of N. Y. City, b. Waltham, Ms., Apr. 23, 1800; pub. in 1858 "The Brights of Suffolk, Eng., represented in America by the Descendants of Henry Bright, jun., who settled at Watertown, Ms., ab. 1630." — Duyckinck.

Brignoli, Sig. Pasqualino, long an established and favorite tenor on the Amer. operatic stage, b. Milan, 1832. At 15, he produced an opera in his native city. Disgusted with the rendering of its finest aria by Cartalani, he rushed on the stage in his street-dress, and sang the rôle to the delight of all. — Brown's Amer. Stage.

Brinley, Francis, b. Boston, Nov. 10, 1800. H. U. 1818. Adm. to the Suffolk bar in 1821. Member of the council of Boston some years, and its pres. in 1850, '51; member of the Ms. legisl. 1832, '50, '54; of the senate in 1852, '53, '63, and of the State Const. Conv. in 1853. He was an early advocate of railway and other internal improvements, of the abolition of imprisonment for debt, and of a well-regulated militia system, and was thrice chosen capt. of the Ancient and Hon. Art. Co. Author of a life of his bro.-in-law, William T. Porter, 1860, and contrib. to Hunt's Merch. Mag. and the American Jurist. His articles on Dower are cited by Chancellor Kent in his Commentaries. Also a frequent contrib. to the press, and a successful lecturer. He pub. in 1830 an Address before the Franklin Debating Society of Boston. — Duyckinck.

Brion (bre-ōn), Peter Louis, adm. of Colombia, b. Caracas, July 6, 1782; d. Sept. 20, 1821. He studied navigation in the U. S. After the death of his father, who bequeathed him a large fortune, he returned to his country, bought a vessel, and made several voyages, and settled at Caracas in 1804, where he established a mercantile house. He took an active part in the events of 1809 and 1810; volunteered his services in 1811 to the Republic of Caracas, and was app. capt. of a frigate. At his own expense, he fitted out a fleet, and attacked the Spanish forces at the Island of Marguerite, where he gained a signal victory. Brion disting. himself at the conquest of Guiana, and also at Santa Marta and Carthagena, and was in 1816 the active coadjutor of Bolivar. He is reproached for his partiality, if not barbarity, in the affair of Gen. Piar. It is, however, the only stain on his character.

Brisbane, Abbott H., engineer, b. S. C. West Point, 1825. In 3d Art. 1825–8. Col. S. C. Vols. against the Seminole Indians, 1835–6, and in the skirmish of Tomoka, 10 Mar. 1836. Railroad engineer in S. C. and Ga., 1836–48; prof. of belles-lettres and ethics, S. C. Milit. Acad., 1848–53; planter near Charleston, S. C., since 1853. Author of "Ralphton, or the Young Carolinian of 1776," a political romance. — Cullum.

Brissot (bre'-so') de Ouarville, Jean Pierre, French author and revolutionist, b. Ouarville, 14 Jan., 1754; guillotined, Paris, 30 Oct. 1793. Abandoning the law for literature, he in 1780 pub. his "Theory of Criminal Laws," and was in 1784 thrown into the Bastile for his writings. He afterwards visited Geneva and Eng., and, on his return to France, established at Paris a society for the abolition of negro slavery. In 1788, he travelled in America, and pub. an account of his journey in 1791. He then established at Paris the French Patriot, a revol. journal; became in July, 1789, a member of the Paris municipality, and was a member of the National Assembly, and a leader of the Girondists. Accused by Robespierre, and brought before the revol. tribunal, he was speedily put out of the way. He was a great admirer of the Americans, assumed the habits of the Quakers, and introduced the fashion of wearing the hair without powder. Among his many writings are an "Examination of the Travels of Chastellux in America," "The Commerce of America with Europe," 8vo, Lond., 1793, and "Letters on the History of England."

Digitized by Google

Bristed, CHARLES ASTOR, author, b. N.Y., 1820. Y. C. 1839. Son of Rev. John Bristed. He spent 5 years at Cambridge, Eng., and took his degree at Trinity Coll. in 1845. At both universities, he gained frequent prizes for classical attainments. Returning home, he m., in 1847, the dau. of Henry Brevoort. He has latterly resided in Paris and in Baden-Baden. His corresp. with the N. Y. Spirit of the Times records the matters of art, literature, the drama, and the social aspect of the times passing under his eye; and an article in Fraser, of July, 1855, treats of the relation of the English press to the U. S. Author of many lively papers in Fraser's and other magazines, of editions of some of the classics, and of "Five Years in an English University," pub. in 1852. One of the original trustees of the Astor Library. — Died Washington City, Jan. 15, 1874.

Bristed, JOHN, Pr.-Ep. clergyman and author, b. Dorsetshire, Eng., in 1778; d. Bristol, R.I., Feb. 23, 1855. After studying the classics at Winchester Coll., and medicine at Edinburgh, he turned his attention to the study of the law, and, arriving at New York in 1806, practised law there many years with distinction. Ord. in 1828, when he became assist. to Bishop Griswold, then rector of St. Michael's at Bristol, R.I. In 1829, the bishop removed to Ms., and was succeeded by Mr. Bristed in the rectorship of St. Michael's, which he resigned in 1843. He m., in 1820, a dau. of John Jacob Astor. Author of "Resources of the U. S.," 1818; "The Adviser, or the Moral and Literary Tribunal," 4 vols., 1802; "A Pedestrian Tour through Part of the Highlands of Scotland in 1801;" a coll. of "Critical and Philos. Essays," 1804; "The Society of Friends Examined," 1805; and, in 1806, "Edward and Anna." In 1807, he conducted the Monthly Register; in 1809, he pub. in N. Y. "Hints on the National Bankruptcy of Britain;" in 1811, "The Resources of the British Empire." In 1814, he delivered an oration on "The Utility of Literary Establishments."

Bristol, JOHN BUNYAN, landscape-painter, b. Hillsdale, N.Y., Mar. 14, 1824. His early life was a struggle without aid, instruction, or sympathy. In 1859, he visited Fla., and in 1862 settled in N. Y. City. Among his pictures are, "Afternoon on the St. John's," "Autumn Afternoon near Bolton, Lake George," "Mansfield Mountain at Sunrise," and "An Afternoon in Haying Time." — Tuckerman.

Brock, SIR ISAAC, a British maj.-gen., b. Guernsey, Oct. 6, 1769; killed at the battle of Queenston, Canada, Oct. 13, 1812. Entering the army as ensign in 1783, he had seen service in Holland, and in the attack on Copenhagen in 1801, when, Oct. 9, 1811, with the rank of maj.-gen., he was app. pres. and administrator of the govt. of Upper Canada. He took prompt measures to place the province in a condition to meet the impending conflict with the U. S.; captured the army of Gen. Hull at Detroit, Aug. 16, 1812, and, while rallying his troops on the field of Queenston, fell pierced by 3 balls. A monument marks the spot where he fell.

Brockenborough, WILLIAM, judge, b. July 10, 1778; d. Richmond, Va., Dec. 10, 1838. Representative of Essex Co. in legisl., afterward councillor; judge Gen. Court, 1809–1834; judge of the Court of Appeals, 1834–8.

Broderick, DAVID COLBRETH, politician, b. Washington, D.C., Dec. 1818; killed in a duel with Judge Terry in Cal., Sept. 21, 1859. His father, a native of Ireland, and a stonecutter, removed to N.Y. during his early youth, and ab. 1837, with his mother and only bro. d. there. Acquiring great political influence in N.Y. City, while engineer in the fire dept., he was a candidate for Congress in 1846. In 1849, he was in Cal.; was in the senate of that State in 1850; pres. of that body in 1851; again State senator in 1852, and in 1856 was sent to the U. S. senate. He was eminent as a debater, opposed the admission of Kansas as a slave State under the Lecompton Constitution, and separated from the Democ. party on the question of slavery in 1858.

Brodhead, GEN. DANIEL, b. Va., 1736; d. Milford, Pa., Nov. 15, 1809. He raised a company of riflemen in 1775, who served in the battle of Long Island; app. col. 8th Pa. regt. In Apr. 1778, he led an exped. against the Indians. In the spring of 1781, he led another exped. against the Muskingum Indians, which was successful. He made two important treaties with the Indians, — one of them, July 22, 1779, with the Cherokees. He received the thanks of Congress, and was many years surveyor-gen. of Pa. — DeHass.

Brodhead, JACOB, D.D., b. Ulster Co., N.Y., May 14, 1782; d. Springfield, Ms., June 6, 1855. Un. Coll. 1801. His ancestor, Capt. Daniel of Yorkshire, was an officer in the exped. under Col. Nicolls against New Netherland in 1664, and settled in Esopus or Kingston, N.Y., in 1665. Tutor in Un. Coll. in 1802; pastor of the Ref. Dutch Church at Rhinebeck from 1804 till 1809, when he settled in N.Y. as one of the pastors of the Collegiate Church. He established the First Dutch Church in Phila., whither he went in 1813; returned to N.Y. in 1826, and took charge of the church in Broome St. until 1837, when he removed to Saugerties, and became pastor of the church at Flatbush. He removed to Brooklyn, 1841, and was the minister of the Central Ref.-Prot. Dutch Church, until he relinquished his pastoral service there in 1847.

Brodhead, JOHN C., 44 years minister of the M. E. Church, and M. C. from N.H., 1829–33; d. Newmarket, N.H., Apr. 7, 1838, a. 67.

Brodhead, JOHN ROMEYN, son of Rev. Jacob, politician and historian, b. Phila., Jan. 2, 1814. Rutg. Coll. 1831. Adm. to the bar in 1835; practised 2 years in N.Y., then devoted himself to the study of American history. Attached to the U. S. legation at the Hague in 1839, he was app. by the legisl. of N.Y. its agent to procure and transcribe original documents concerning the history of the State. He spent 3 years in the archives of Holland, Eng., and France, obtained more than 5,000 separate papers, 16 vols. from Holland, 47 from Eng., 17 from France, comprising the reports of home and colonial authorities, and returned to N.Y. with this rich freight in the summer of 1844. All these documents were pub. by act of the legisl. They make 11 quarto vols., and were edited by E. B. O'Callaghan. From 1846 to 1849, he was sec. of legation to Mr. Bancroft at London, and from 1853 to 1857 was naval officer of N.Y. He is at work upon a history of the State, the first vol. of which was pub. in 1853, the second in 1871. In the spring of 1855, he was app. consul-gen. to Japan, but did not accept. He delivered an address before the N.Y. Hist. Soc., 1844, and on the commercial history of N.Y., before the Mercantile Library Assoc. at the opening of Clinton Hall, June 8, 1854; d. N.Y. City, May 6, 1873.

Digitized by Google

Broglie (brōg'le'), CLAUDE VICTOR MARIE DE, son of the Marshal de Broglie, b. Paris in 1757; guillotined, June 27, 1794. 2d col. of the regt. d'annis at the age of 23. He volunteered his services in the cause of Amer. Independence; was transferred to the regt. Saintonge under Custine, and served until the capture of Yorktown. On his return to France he became col. of the regt. Bourbonnais. Elected dep. to the States-gen., he espoused the popular cause, voting for the admissibility of all citizens to office. As sec. of the assembly in 1790, he labored to organize the military force. Pres. of the National Assembly, Aug. 14, he, on the 31st, requested a com. in the army, and was made marshal de camp in the Army of the Rhine. His conduct was praised until Aug. 10, 1792, when, not wishing to recognize the decree suspending the king from his rights, he resigned; was soon afterwards arrested, brought before the Revol. tribunal, and was condemned to death. — Nouv. Biog. Gen.

Broke, SIR PHILIP BOWES VERE, an English adm., b. Sept. 9, 1776; d. Jan. 2, 1841. He entered the navy in 1792, and became a post captain in 1801. He is chiefly known by his capture in "The Shannon" of the Amer. frigate "Chesapeake" in June, 1813, — a victory that was exceedingly agreeable to his countrymen, who had begun to be seriously alarmed at the repeated successes of the little Amer. navy. He was raised at once to the dignity of a baronet. In this action, he received so severe a wound as to incapacitate him from service; and he retired on half-pay.

Bromfield, JOHN, merchant, b. Newburyport, April 11, 1779; d. Boston, Dec. 8, 1849. He was the last representative in Amer. of the male line of a family disting. for more than a century, among the citizens of Boston, for integrity and benevolence. EDWARD, his ancestor, came to Boston in 1675. He acquired a fortune as European agent for Amer. mercantile houses, then by the Canton trade, and afterwards by investments of his capital in Boston, where he resided during the latter part of his life. In 1845, he gave to the Boston Athenæum $25,000, and at his death he left munificent bequests to several charitable institutions. — See Reminiscences of J. B., Salem, 1852.

Bronson, GREENE CARRIER, LL.D., (Un. Coll. 1848), lawyer and politician, b. Oneida Co., N.Y., 1789; d. Saratoga, Sept. 3, 1863. He acquired high repute as a lawyer in Utica; became surrogate of the Co. in April, 1819; member of the assembly, 1822; atty.-gen. 1829 to Jan. 1836; then a puisne judge of the Superior Court, chief-justice Supreme Court, 1845, and a judge of the Court of Appeals, 1847. He afterward practised law in N.Y. City, lost most of his property by speculation, was collector of that port in 1853–4, and corp. counsel from Dec. 1859 to Jan. 1863. He stood high as a lawyer, and was a leader of the "Hard Shell" Democ.

Bronson, ISAAC H., jurist, b. Rutland, N.Y., 16 Oct. 1802; d. Pilatka, Fla, 13 Aug. 1855. Adm. to the bar in 1822, and became disting.; sent to Congress in 1837, but resigned on account of ill health; U. S. Terr. judge of Fla., 1838–45, and, from that time to his d., U.S. Dist. judge for the State.

Brooke, FRANCIS J., jurist, b. Smithfield, Va., Aug. 27, 1763; d. March 3, 1851. In 1780, he was app. a lieut. in Harrison's regt., his twin bro. John obtaining a like commission in the same regt., and served under Lafayette and Greene. On returning to Va., he studied medicine one year with his elder bro. Lawrence, then studied law, and in 1788 was adm. to the bar. He practised in the Counties of Monongahela and Harrison; was app. Commonwealth's atty. in the Dist. Court, and afterward practised in Essex Co., and in the Northern Neck. In 1794–5, he represented Essex Co. in the H. of Delegates. In 1796, removed to Fredericksburg; in 1800, was elected to the senate, and in 1804, while its speaker, was elected a judge of the General Court. In 1811, he was elected judge of the Court of Appeals, of which he was pres. 8 years. In 1831, he was re-elected a judge of the same court, of which he was a member at the period of his death. FRANCIS J., son of the preceding, joined the army in 1822, was made adj. Apr. 1833; 1st lieut. May, 1835; fell, Dec. 25, 1837, in the battle of Okeechobee, Fla.

Brooke, GEORGE MERCER, brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., bro. of F. J., b. Va.; d. San Antonio, Texas, Mar. 9, 1851. He entered the army, May 3, 1808, as 1st lieut. 5th Inf.; was made capt. May 1, 1810; maj. 23d Inf. in 1814; lieut.-col. 4th Inf., Mar. 1, 1819, and in July, 1831, col. 5th Inf. His first brev., that of lieut.-col., Aug. 15, 1814, was for "gallant conduct in the defence of Fort Erie;" his second, that of col. Sept. 17, 1814, was for "disting. services in the sortie from Fort Erie." He was made a brev. brig.-gen. Sept. 17, 1824, and was brev. maj.-gen. May 30, 1848.

Brooks, CHARLES, Unitarian clergyman and author, b. Medford, Ms., 30 Oct. 1795. H.U. 1816. Descended from Thos. of Watertown, 1631. He officiated for a short time as a reader in the Pr.-Ep. Church; was pastor of the 3d Cong. Church, Hingham, 17 Jan. 1821–1839; chosen prof. of nat. hist. in the U. of N.Y. in 1838; sailed in Nov. 1839 for Europe, where he passed 4 years in the study of the animal kingdom, and on his return pub. a large vol. on ornithology. Failure of eyesight compelled him shortly after to resign his professorship. He strongly advocated the Prussian system of education, and the establishment of normal schools, and has labored in behalf of peace, temperance, and African colonization. Besides contribs. to periodicals, pamphlets, sermons, &c., he has pub. "History of Medford," 1855, "Family Prayer-Book," "Daily Monitor," 10 vols. of biography, a paper on the sanitary survey of the State, and a report on the tornado in Middlesex Co. in Aug. 1851; d. July 7, 1872.

Digitized by Google

Brooks, CHARLES TIMOTHY, Unitarian clergyman and author, b. Salem, Ms., June 20, 1813. H.U. 1832. He commenced preaching at Nahant in the summer of 1835, and settled, June 4, 1837, in Newport, R.I. In 1851, he pub. at Newport a pamphlet, "The Controversy touching the Old Stone Mill." In 1853, he made a voyage to India for his health. Besides his translations from the minor German poets, he is the author of numerous occasional verses, a series of Festival, New Year, and Anniversary Addresses. He is an accomplished German scholar, and has pub. a translation of Schiller's "William Tell," 1838; a vol. of miscellaneous poems from the German in the series of "Specimens of Foreign Standard Literature;" a translation of Schiller's "Homage to the Arts," 1847, &c.; "German Lyrics," 1853, "Songs of the Field and Flood," and an admirable translation of Goethe's "Faust," 1857. In 1863, he pub. a transl. from the German, of "The Life, Opinions, Actions, and Fate of Hieronimus Jobs;" "Titan," by Jean Paul Richter, in 1865, "Hesperus," a companion romance; "Aquidnec," and other poems, 1848. — Duyckinck.

Brooks, COL. DAVID, a Revol. soldier, b. 1756; d. at his house in Duchess Co., N.Y., Aug. 30, 1838. Lieut. in the Pa. line in 1776; captured at Fort Washington, Nov. 16, 1776; exchanged 1778, and promoted to assist. clothier-gen., in which responsible post he secured the friendship of Washington. After the war, he settled in Duchess Co., N.Y.; was 6 years a member of the assembly; representative in Congress from May to July, 1797; a commissioner for making the first treaty with the Seneca Indians, and subsequently, for 16 years, first judge of Duchess Co. He was an officer of the customs at the time of his death.

Brooks, ELEAZER, Revol. soldier, b. Concord, Ms., 1727; d. Lincoln, Ms., 9 Nov. 1806. Without any schooling, he acquired by reading and observation a fund of information, and even a knowledge of civil and political law. He rose from a capt. of militia, in 1773, to the rank of brig.-gen.; disting. himself greatly at White Plains, where he com. a regt.; chosen to the Gen. Court in 1774; he was afterwards a member of the senate and of the council, withdrawing from public life in 1801.

Brooks, ERASTUS, journalist, b. Portland, Me., Jan. 31, 1815. At 8 years of age, he was sent to Boston; was employed in a grocery-store, and attended an evening school. He subsequently became a printer, and pub. the Yankee, at Wiscasset, Me. He studied at Brown U., then taught a grammar school at Haverhill, Ms., and edited the Haverhill Gazette. In 1836, he became the Washington corresp. of the N. Y. Daily Advertiser, and several N. England papers. Acquiring an interest in the N.Y. Express, just established by his brother James, in 1836, he continued from that time one of its editors and proprietors. He travelled extensively in Europe in 1843, was in the N.Y. Senate in 1853 and in 1855, and in the summer of 1856 was the candidate for the Amer. party for gov. of the State, and afterward joined the Democ. party. While a member of the senate, he had a controversy with Archbishop Hughes of N.Y., in relation to the title to church-property in real estate.

Brooks, HORACE, brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. Boston. West Point, 1835. Son of Maria Brooks, poetess. Entering the 2d Art., he was brev. 1st lieut. for gallantry in the war against Florida Indians, Dec. 31, 1835; assist. prof. mathematics at West Point, Nov. 1836 to Aug. 1839; capt. 18 June, 1846; brev. major for Contreras and Churubusco, Aug. 20, 1847; brev. lieut.-col. for Molino del Rey, Sept. 8, 1847; com. 2d artillery, and disting. at Chapultepec and San Cosme Gate; maj. 2d Art. Apr. 28, 1861; lieut.-col. Oct. 26, 1861; col. 4th Art., Aug. 1, 1863; brev. brig.-gen. 13 Mar. 1865, for merit. services during the Rebellion, in which he served in defence of Washington, Fort Pickens, Fla., Apr.–Oct. 1861, and Ft. Jefferson, Fla., 1861–2. — Cullum.

Brooks, JAMES, journalist, b. Cape Elizabeth, Me., Nov. 10, 1807. Waterville Coll. 1831. Losing his father in 1814, he had to struggle with poverty. At 16, he taught school, was afterwards at the head of the Latin school in Portland, then travelled through the Southern States, and among the Creek and Cherokee Indians, and corresp. with various journals. He afterwards became the corresp. at Washington of several papers, and originated the system of regular Washington correspondences. A member of the Me. legisl. in 1835, he introduced the first proposition for a railroad from Portland to Montreal and Quebec. The same year he visited Europe, travelling on foot over a great part of the Continent and the British Isles, and wrote a series of interesting letters to the Portland Advertiser. In 1836, he established the N.Y. Express, which has attained a large circulation. He was a member of the Assembly in 1847, and of Congress from 1849 to 1853 and from 1865 to 1871, taking an active part, particularly in matters relating to trade and commerce. He took part in favor of the "compromise measures" in 1850, became a prominent advocate of and identified with the fortunes of the American party, and, since the Rebellion, a prominent Democrat. Delegate to the State Const. Conv. of 1867; d. Apr. 30, 1873.

Brooks, JAMES GORDON, poet, b. Claverack, N.Y., Sept. 3, 1801; d. Albany, Feb. 20, 1841. Un. Coll. 1819. Son of David Brooks, a Revol. officer. He studied law, and removed in 1823 to New York, where he edited the Minerva, a literary journal, and afterward the Literary Gazette, the Athenæum, the Morning Courier, and contrib. to the Commercial Advertiser under the signature of "Florio." In 1828, he m. Mary Elizabeth Aiken of Poughkeepsie, who had written under the signature of "Norma," and in 1829 pub. "The Rivals of Este, and other Poems," by James G. and Mary E. Brooks. They removed to Winchester, Va., in 1830, and in 1838 to Albany.

Digitized by Google

Brooks, JOHN, M.D., LL.D., soldier and statesman, b. Medford, Ms., May 31, 1752; d. March 1, 1825. Brought up on the farm of his father, Capt. Caleb Brooks, he received a common school education, and at the age of 14 was indented as an apprentice to Dr. Simon Tufts for 7 years. The celebrated Count Rumford was a fellow-student; and their intimacy was continued by corresp. until the death of the count. He commenced the practice of physic at Reading, where he com. a company of minute-men, with whom, April 19, 1775, he did good service at the battle of Lexington. App. maj. in Bridges's regt, and active in intrenching Breed's Hill on the night of June 16, but was not in the battle of the 17th. On the re-organization of the army in Feb. 1776, he was made major of Col. Charles Webb's (19th) regt., which assisted in fortifying Dorchester Heights, and accompanied it to Long Island. Being a good tactician and disciplinarian, his command was disting. throughout the war for gallant conduct in battle, and regularity in retreat. In the battle of White Plains, his regt. was the last to quit the field, which it did with the steadiness of veterans, and received the disting. acknowledgments of Washington. Early in 1777, he was promoted to lieut.-col. of the 8th Ms. regt., principally recruited by himself. On the death of Col. Alden, in Nov. 1778, Brooks was made col. of his regt. (7th Ms.). In Aug. 1777, he accompanied Arnold's com. against St. Leger, who, with a body of Canadians, Indians, and Tories, besieged Fort Stanwix. To Brooks belongs the credit of the successful stratagem of sending one Cuyler to spread exaggerated reports of Arnold's forces to alarm and put them to flight. At the battle of Saratoga, Oct. 7, 1777, he led on his regt. with fearless intrepidity, turning the right of the enemy; stormed their intrenchments, entering them, sword in hand, at the head of his men, and put to rout the veteran German troops that defended them. After the app. of Steuben as insp.-gen. early in 1778, Brooks was associated with him in the arduous duty of introducing a uniform system of exercise and manœuvres. In the battle of Monmouth, he was acting adj.-gen. After the war, he resumed the practice of medicine in Medford. He was for many years maj.-gen. of the militia of his county, and, as a member of the legisl., actively supported the measures for suppressing Shays' Rebellion. He was a delegate to the State convention for the adoption of the Federal Constitution, which he zealously advocated. App. by Washington marshal of his district, and inspector of the revenue in Dec. 1795; successively a State senator and councillor; during the War of 1812–15, adj.-gen. of the State; and its gov. from 1816 to 1823, when he retired to private life. He received from H. U. in 1816 the degrees of M.D. and LL.D. He was pres. of the Ms. Med. Society from 1817 to his death; of the Cincinnati from 1787, and of the Ms. Bible Society. He had two sons, Col. ALEXANDER SCAMMELL, an officer of the U.S. army, and Lieut. JOHN of the navy, who was killed in the battle on Lake Erie, Sept. 10, 1813.

Brooks, MARIA (GOWEN), poetess, named by Southey "Maria del Occidente," b. Medford, Ms., ab. 1795; d. Matanzas, Nov. 11, 1845. Her father, whom she lost while young, was an educated man, and had possessed considerable property, but lost it just before his death. Mr. Brooks, a Boston merchant, provided for her education, and on its completion m. her. At this period, she first evinced poetic talent, but pub. nothing until 1820; when "Judith, Esther, and other Poems," appeared. On the death of her husband in 1823, she removed to Cuba, where she finished her principal work, "Zophiel, or the Bride of Seven," the first canto of which was pub. at Boston in 1825. In 1830, she visited Paris and London, where her work was pub. in 1833. In a passage in "The Doctor," Mr. Southey terms Mrs. Brooks "the most impassioned and most imaginative of all poetesses." In 1843, she pub. privately "Idomen, or the vale of Yumuri." Her "Ode to the Departed" was written in 1843. Her son, HORACE BROOKS, is a col. in the army.

Brooks, NATHAN COVINGTON, LL.D. (Em. Coll., Ga., 1859). Poet and teacher, b. Cecil Co., Md., Aug. 12, 1819. St. John's Coll. He became a teacher at the age of 18; was elected principal of the Baltimore High School in 1839, and in 1848 organized the Balt. Female Coll., of which he is pres. Mr. Brooks ranks high as a writer of occasional poetry: among the best of his pieces are "Shelley's Obsequies," and "The Fall of Superstition." He has also produced one of the best histories of the Mexican war that has yet appeared. Author of a series of Latin and Greek textbooks, of which the Virgil has received high praise. He has contrib. to different European periodicals, and won the prize offered by the Southern Churchman for the best poem, over such competitors as Mrs. Sigourney, George W. Bethune, and N. P. Willis.

Brooks, PETER CHARDON, merchant, b. N. Yarmouth, Me., 6 Jan. 1767; d. Boston, 1 Jan. 1849. Rev. Edward, his father, returned to Medford, where he d. 1781. The son worked on a farm, received a common school education; and, establishing himself in Boston, his talent and integrity soon insured success. Engaging in the business of marine insurance, he acquired great wealth and was some years pres. of the N. E. Ins. Co. Member of both branches of the State legisl., of the exec. council, and of the first city council of Boston, and a delegate to the Const. Conv. in 1820. He m. the dau. of Judge Nathl. Gorham, and had, for sons-in-law, Edward Everett, Rev. N. L. Frothingham, and Charles Francis Adams.

Brooks, REV. PHILLIPS, an eloquent Prot.-Epis. clergyman, b. Boston, 13 Dec. 1835. H. U. 1855. Studied at the Theol. Sem. at Alexandria, Va.; was ord. 1859, and became pastor of the Church of the Advent, Phila.; in 1862, of the Holy Trinity; and, in 1870, of Trinity Church, Boston.

Brooks, PRESTON S., lawyer and M. C.

Digitized by Google

in 1853–7, b. Edgefield District, S.C., Aug. 4, 1819; d. Washington, D.C., Jan. 27, 1857. S.C. Coll. 1839. Adm. to the bar in 1843, and was a State representative in 1844. He was a capt. in the Palmetto Regt. during most of the Mex. war. May 22, 1856, he made a most violent personal assault upon Charles Sumner in the U. S. senate-chamber, which event caused great excitement throughout the country. The attack was caused by words uttered in debate by Senator Sumner against Senator Butler, who was Mr. Brooks's relative. A committee of the house reported, June 2, in favor of his expulsion: this was lost, 121 to 95, not two-thirds. After this occurrence, he resigned his seat in the house, and was re-elected by his constituents. — Lanman.

Brooks, William T. H., brig.-gen. vols., b. O., ab. 1815; d. Huntsville, Ala., 19 July, 1870. West Point, 1841. Entering the 3d Inf., he became 1st lieut. in Sept. 1846; brev. capt. for gallantry at Monterey; assist. adj.-gen. to Gen. Twiggs in the Valley of Mexico; brev. maj. for Contreras and Churubusco; capt. Nov. 10, 1851; disting. in battle with Indians in New Mex., Oct. 10, 1858; maj. 18th Inf., Mar. 12, 1862, and brig.-gen. U.S. vols., Sept. 28, 1861. He served in the Army of the Potomac, in the corps of Gen. Franklin; took part in the battles before Richmond; and at Antietam led his brigade in the division of Gen. W. F. Smith, and was wounded; com. a division in Sedgwick's corps at Chancellorsville, and in July, 1864, was temporarily in com. of the 10th army corps, in operations before Richmond; in actions of Swift's Creek, May 9–10, 1864; Drury's Bluff, May 16–29; Cold Harbor, June 2–12; siege of Petersburg, and resigned 14 July, 1864. — Cullum.

Broom, Jacob, statesman, delegate to the convention which framed the Federal Constitution; d. Phila., Apr. 1810, a. 58. He filled many offices of honor and trust in Del. James M., Princeton Coll. 1794; M. C. 1805–7, from Del.; d. 1850.

Broome, John, merchant, member of the N.Y. Const. Conv. of 1777; lieut.-gov. of N.Y., 1804; d. Aug. 8, 1810, a. 72. He was many years at the head of various commercial, charitable, and religious institutions.

Brough, John, gov. of Ohio, 1864–5, b. Marietta, O., Sept. 17, 1811; d. Cleveland, Aug. 29, 1865. He began life as a printer, and entered the O. University. In 1831, he pub. at Marietta the Washington County Republican, a Democ. paper. In 1833, with his bro. Charles H., he bought the Lancaster Eagle, which took high rank as a Democ. journal. Clerk of the O. senate in 1835–8; then a member of the legisl.; auditor, 1839–45. In 1846, he opened a law-office in Cincinnati, and with his bro. managed the Inquirer, and took high rank as a political orator. Retiring from active political life in 1848, he became pres. of the Madison and Indianapolis Railway, and, in 1853, of the Bellefontaine and Indianapolis Road. Having, in 1863, made a speech declaring slavery destroyed by the act of rebellion, and earnestly appealing to all patriots, of whatever previous predilections, to unite in support of the govt., he was nominated for gov. and elected by the heaviest majority ever given in the State.

Brougham, John, an Irish actor and playwright, b. Dublin, May 9, 1814. He was intended for the medical profession; but, disappointed in the hope of a govt. clerkship in London, he gave lessons in drawing for a time, and in July, 1830, became an actor in the Olympic Theatre. He appeared with great success at the Haymarket in June, 1832, as Looney McTwolter in "The Review;" became a favorite in light comedy, and Irishmen, occasionally writing farces and minor dramas. In 1842, he came to Amer., appeared at the Park in "The Irish Lion," and has since performed in almost every principal theatre in the Union. He built the Lyceum (Wallack's) in N.Y. in 1850, but relinquished it in 1852. He managed the Bowery in 1856–7, and visited Eng. in 1860–5. He is a very popular actor; author of various comedies, dramas, and extravaganzas; and has also successfully adapted pieces from the novels of Dickens and Bulwer. He has pub. "A Basket of Chips," 2 vols., and "The Bunsby Papers."

Broughton, Capt. William Robert, an English circumnavigator, b. Gloucestershire, 1762; d. Mar. 12, 1821. He went to sea in Dec. 1774, and, in the sloop "Falcon," arrived at Boston 3 days before the Lexington battle, and participated in the attack on Bunker's Hill. He was soon after made prisoner in an attempt to bring off a schooner which had been driven ashore at Cape Ann; was exchanged, Dec. 1776, and served on the station until 1778. He was actively engaged under Sir Ed. Hughes in the E. Indies; in 1790, accompanied Vancouver in his voyage of discovery; app. commander, Oct. 1793; made a second voyage in 1796 of 4 years' duration, and assisted in the capture of Java in 1811. Vancouver gave the name of Broughton's Archipelago to some islands in the Pacific in about 50 degrees N. latitude. He pub. "Voyage of Discovery to the N. Pacific Ocean," 1894. — See Ann. Obituary, 1821.

Broughton, Col. Thomas, gov. of S.C. from 1735 to his d., 1738; was a councillor and collector of the customs in 1708; afterward lieut.-gov.; succeeded Gov. R. Johnson, May 3, 1735. — Oldmixon's Carolina.

Brown, Aaron Vail, postmaster-gen. of the U. S., b. Brunswick Co., Va., Aug. 15, 1795; d. Washington, D. C., Mar. 8, 1859. Chapel Hill U. 1814. In 1815, he removed to Tenn., where he was for many years a law-partner with James K. Polk. Member of the Tenn. legisl. 1821–32; M. C. from 1839 to 1845; gov. of Tenn. in 1845, and was made in 1857, by Pres. Buchanan, postmaster-gen. A delegate to the Southern convention at Nashville, in 1850, and wrote the report known as the "Tennessee Platform." He was also a member of the convention of the Democ. party at Baltimore, in 1852, to which he reported the platform adopted by them. Among the measures of his administration was the establishment of a new and shorter communication to California by Tehuantepec, and another across the continent by the way of Salt Lake. His speeches were pub. at Nashville in 1854.

Digitized by Google

Brown, ALBERT G., statesman, b. Chester District, S.C., May 31, 1813. Removing with his parents to Mpi. while a child, he was app. a brig.-gen in the State militia when only 19. He adopted the law as a profession; was a member of the State legisl. from 1835 to 1839, and was M.C. from Mpi. in 1840–1. He was also a judge of the Circuit Superior Court in 1841–3; gov. of Mpi. from 1843 to 1848; again M. C. from 1848 to 1854; and a U. S. senator from 1854 to 1858; re-elected for six years, commencing Mar. 4, 1859, but resigned in 1861 to join the Rebellion. He was an unflinching champion of the views of the Democracy of the South. A vol. of his speeches was pub. in 1859.

Brown, ANDREW, editor, b. in the north of Ireland, ab. 1744; d. Phila., Feb. 4, 1797. Educated at Trin. Coll., Dublin, he came to Amer. in 1773 as an officer in the British service, and settled in Ms. He fought on the patriot side at Lexington and Bunker's Hill; was made muster-master-gen. in 1777, and served under Gates and Greene, with the rank of maj. After the peace, he established an acad. for young ladies, first at Lancaster, Pa., and afterward at Phila. He relinquished this occupation, for which his irritable temper unfitted him, and, in 1788, established the Federal Gazette, the title of which was, in 1793, changed to the Philadelphia Gazette. This was the channel through which many of the friends of the Federal Constitution addressed the public. He was the first who regularly reported the debates in Congress. His death was caused by injuries received while fruitlessly endeavoring to save his wife and 3 children from the fire which destroyed his establishment on the night of Jan. 27, 1797. His son ANDREW, until 1802, carried on the Gazette, but, taking the English side in politics, became unpopular, and left for Eng., where he d. 7 Dec. 1847, a. 73.

Brown (BLACKWELL), ANTOINETTE L., Cong. minister, b. Henrietta, Monroe Co., N.Y., May 20, 1825. After attending an acad., she continued her studies at Oberlin, until 1849. Her coll. vacations were spent in teaching, or in extra study of Hebrew and Greek. It was customary for the students at Oberlin to receive a license to preach; and, before the completion of their studies, they would begin the practice of speaking in the neighboring pulpits; and she frequently preached at Henrietta, O., and in other places, during the remainder of her term of study. She subsequently preached, and occasionally lectured on literary topics, temperance, and the abolition of slavery. At the Woman's Rights Convention at Worcester, 1850, Miss Brown was one of the speakers, and has been a prominent advocate of the cause. From 1853 to the summer of 1854, she was settled over a Cong. church in South Butler, Wayne Co., N.Y., when ill health and doctrinal doubts interrupted the connection. She subsequently lectured on reformatory subjects, and investigated the character and causes of vice in N.Y. City, with special reference to its bearing upon woman. In 1855, she pub. in a N.Y. journal a number of sketches from life, under the general title of "Shadows of our Social System." In Jan. 1856, she m. Saml. C. Blackwell, whose bro. had m. her friend Lucy Stone.

Brown, B. GRATZ, statesman, b. Lexington, Ky., May 28, 1826. Transylv. U. 1845; Y.C. 1847. Grandson of Senator John Brown of Ky. Settled as a lawyer in St. Louis, Mo.; member of the State legisl. in 1852–8; assisted in establishing the Missouri Democrat, and edited it in 1854–9; a speech delivered by him in the legisl. in 1857 was the initial movement in behalf of freedom in that State. Early in 1861, he raised a regt., which assisted in the capture of Camp Jackson. He subsequently com. a brigade of militia during an invasion of the State. He was foremost in organizing the movements which resulted in the ordinance of freedom in Mo. in 1864. U.S. senator 1863–7; gov. Mo. 1871.

Brown, BARTHOLOMEW, musical composer, b. Sterling, Ms., Sept. 8, 1772; d. Boston, Apr. 14, 1854. H.U. 1799. He was a lawyer at Sterling and E. Bridgewater, and, with Judge Mitchell, edited about 20 years "The Bridgewater Coll. of Church Music," which contains many pieces of his composition. He wrote the calendars in "The Farmer's Almanac" for 59 years.

Brown, CHAD, minister of Providence, R.I., ancestor of many disting. citizens of R.I.; d. 1665. He fled thither, from persecution in Ms., in 1636; became a member of the Baptist Church founded by Roger Williams in 1639, and in 1642 was associated with Wm. Wickenden in the pastoral care. In 1792, the town of Providence voted a monument to his memory.

Brown, CHARLES BROCKDEN, novelist, b. Phila., Jan. 17, 1771; d. Feb. 22, 1810. He was of Quaker lineage, his ancestors having emigrated with Wm. Penn. His middle name was derived from his uncle, the "skilful conveyancer" and "great scrivener," of whom Franklin writes in his Autobiography. His attachment to books while a child was remarkable, and after receiving a liberal education, under Proud the historian, he had, at the age of 16, already formed plans of extensive literary works. He was apprenticed to Alexander Wilcox, an eminent lawyer, but occupied himself with literary, instead of legal studies. He became intimate with a literary club in N.Y., — to which city he removed in Sept. 1796, — which increased his devotion to letters, and his eagerness to be conspicuous as a writer. In 1798 appeared his first novel, "Wieland," a powerful and original romance, and in 1799, "Osmond; or, The Secret Witness." At this time, he had begun no less than five novels, two of which, "Arthur Mervyn" and "Edgar Huntly," were soon pub. In "Arthur Mervyn," the ravages of the yellow-fever, which the author had witnessed in N.Y. and Phila., are painted with terrific truth. In Apr. 1799, he pub. the first number of the Monthly Mag. and American Review, continued until the end of the year 1800. In 1800, he pub. the 2d part of "Arthur Mervyn;" in 1801, "Clara Howard," and "Jane Talbot" in 1804. In Nov. 1804 he m. Elizabeth, dau. of Dr W. Linn of N Y.

Digitized by Google

In 1803, having returned to Phila., he began the Literary Magazine and American Register, in which he persevered 5 years. In 1806, he commenced a semi-annual American Register, 5 vols. of which he lived to complete. In 1809, discovering that his lungs were seriously affected, he consented to travel for the recovery of his health. The remedy, however, was applied too late. In Nov., after an excursion into N. J. and N.Y., he betook himself to his chamber, as he thought, for a few days; but his confinement terminated only with his life. Mr. Brown was a man of romantic temper, benevolent heart, pregnant invention, extensive attainments, and great industry. His novels abound both with excellences and faults, and bear a character of originality. He is said to have been the first in Amer., who ventured to pursue literature as a profession. He also pub. "An Address to the Govt. of the U. S. on the Cession of Louisiana to the French, and the Late Breach of Treaty by the Spaniards" (1803), "The British Treaty," and "An Address to the Congress of the U.S. on the Utility and Justice of Restrictions on Foreign Commerce," &c., 1809.

Browne, CHARLES F. (ARTEMUS WARD), humorist, b. Waterford, Me., Apr. 26, 1834; d. Southampton, Eng., Mar. 6, 1867. He began the printer's trade, as a compositor on the Skowhegan Clarion, and afterward worked on the Carpet Bag, a comic weekly in Boston, which contained his first literary efforts. Connecting himself with the Cleveland Plaindealer, he began his series of "Artemus Ward's Sayings," which gained for him the reputation of being a clever and original humorous writer. While editing Vanity Fair, in N.Y., he commenced his humorous lectures, "The Babes in the Wood," "Sixty Minutes in Africa," &c. These were also very successful. After a visit to Cal. and Utah in 1862, he gave comic lectures on Mormonism, with panoramic accomp., which were the best of their kind ever attempted, and constantly drew crowded houses. In 1866, he visited Eng., and was exceedingly popular, but broke down completely in health, and was about to return home when overtaken by death. His papers were coll. and pub., entitled "Artemus Ward, his Book," "Artemus Ward, his Travels," "Artemus Ward in London."

Brown, CLARK, Pr.-Ep. minister of William and Mary Parish, Md.; d. there Jan. 12, 1817. He had been a Cong. minister in Machias, Me., in 1795–7, and at Brimfield in 1798–1803. A vol. of his sermons was pub. after his death.

Brown, DAVID, a converted Cherokee; d. Creek Path, Mpi., Sept. 14, 1829. He was educated, with his sister Catharine, at the school of Rev. Cyrus Kingsbury in the Cherokee territory, and at Cornwall, Ct., and engaged with her in educating and Christianizing their native tribe. He was a preacher and interpreter, and also acted as sec. of the Indian Govt. His letters and reports show cultivation and intelligence. CATHARINE, who was first among all her tribe in wealth, rank, and personal beauty, baptized in Jan. 1818; d. July 18, 1823, a. 23.

Brown, DAVID PAUL, lawyer, b. Phila., 1795, gained distinction as a pleader in criminal cases. Author of "The Forum; or, Forty Years' Full Practice at the Phila. Bar," 2 vols., 1856.

Brown, ETHAN ALLEN, jurist and statesman, b. Darien, Ct., July 4, 1776; d. Indianapolis, Feb. 24, 1852. Roger, his father, d. 1816, a. 82. He was educated by an Irish scholar, and acquired a critical knowledge of languages. He read law in the office of Alex. Hamilton; was adm. to the bar in 1802; emigrated to the West, with his cousin, Capt. John Brown, and in 1804 settled at Cincinnati, acquiring an extensive practice. He was a judge of the Supreme Court of O. from Feb. 10, 1810, to 1818; gov. 1818–22; U. S. senator, 1822–5; canal commissioner, 1825–30; U. S. minister to Brazil, from May 26, 1830, to Apr. 11, 1834; commissioner of the gen. land office, from July 24, 1835, to Oct. 31, 1836; and member of the Ind. legisl. in 1842, having removed to Rising Sun, Ind., Nov. 1, 1836. — A. T. Goodman's Memoir.

Brown, GEORGE L., landscape-painter, b. Boston, 1814. His tastes led him to study wood-engraving; but his desire to be a painter occasioned a visit to Antwerp; and, during a residence at Florence (1840–6), he painted many excellent pictures, among others a moonlight view of Venice, of rare merit. His special merit is a susceptibility to the language of atmosphere and skies. In 1860, after a 12-years' res. at Rome, he returned to the U. S., and resides in Boston. His "Crown of New England," the highest of the White Mountains, was purchased by the Prince of Wales. He has executed several American landscapes, views of Niagara, the White Mountains, and the N. E. and Southern coasts. Among his best pictures are "The Bay of New York," "Monte Pellegrino," "Capri, and Italian Sea-coast," "Rome," "Lake of Lucerne," "View of Naples," "Florence by Sunset," "The Campagna of Rome," and "Lake of Como." — Tuckerman.

Brown, GOOLD, grammarian, b. Providence, R.I., Mar. 7, 1791; d. Lynn, Ms., Mar. 31, 1857. Of Quaker parentage. He was educated in the schools and academies of his native State, and at 19 began his vocation of teacher. He first taught a district school in R. I.; then a Friends' boarding-school in Duchess Co., N.Y., in 1811; removed to New York in 1813, where, for over 20 years, he conducted an acad. He pub. "Institutes of English Grammar," 1823; "First Lines of English Grammar," 1823; and "A Grammar of English Grammars," 1851. He had, at the time of his death, just concluded the revision of the latter work. — Duyckinck.

Brown, HARVEY, brev. maj.-gen. U. S. A., b. Roxbury, N.J., 1795. West Point, 1818. Entering the art., he became 1st lieut. 4th Art., 23 Aug. 1821; capt. 10 Apr. 1835; maj. 2d Art., 9 Jan. 1851; lieut.-col. 4th, 28 Apr. 1861; col. 5th, May 14, 1861; brig.-gen. vols., 28 Sept. 1861; declined; retired 1 Aug. 1863. He won the brevets of maj., 21 Nov. 1836, for "gallantry" and "general efficiency" in the Florida war; lieut.-col. for Contreras, 20 Aug., and col. for the Gate of Belen, City of Mexico,

Digitized by Google

13 Sept. 1847; being also engaged at Monterey, Vera Cruz, and Cerro Gordo; was engaged in repulse of rebel attack on Santa Rosa Island, Fla., 9 Oct. 1861; and brev brig.-gen. U.S.A., 23 Nov. 1861, for gallantry in the engagement between Fort Pickens and the rebel batteries, Nov. 22–23; and 2 Aug. 1866, brev. maj.-gen. U. S. A. for services in suppressing riots of July 12–16, 1863, in N. Y. City. — d. Clifton, Staten Island, Mar. 31, 1874.

Brown, Henry Kirke, sculptor, b. Leyden, Ms., 1814. At 18, he went to Boston to study portrait-painting, but turned his attention to sculpture; and, to obtain means to visit Italy, he became a railroad-engineer in Ill. In 1842, he succeeded in getting to Italy, where he passed 4 years in study. Returning, he fixed his residence in Brooklyn, N.Y., applied himself to the casting of bronze, and is said to have produced the first bronze statue ever cast in this country. He has produced in marble, "Hope," "The Angel of Retribution," "The Indian and Panther," "The Pleiades," "The Four Seasons;" and in bronze, a statue of De Witt Clinton, the colossal statue of Washington in Union Square, New York.

Brown, Jacob, maj.-gen. U. S. A., b. Bucks Co., Pa., May 9, 1775; d. Washington, Feb. 24, 1828. Of Quaker ancestry. He taught school at Crosswicks, N.J., from the age of 18 to 21, and passed the next two years in surveying public lands in Ohio. In 1798, he opened a school in N. Y. City, studied law, and wrote political articles for the press; but his active temperament led him to purchase land on the borders of Ontario and the River St. Lawrence, where he established himself, and erected the first building within 30 miles of the lake. A flourishing settlement soon sprang up; he became county judge, col. of militia in 1809, brig.-gen. 1810, and in 1812 was app. to com. the frontier from Oswego to Lake St. Francis, 200 miles. Oct. 4, he repulsed the attack of a superior British force upon Ogdensburg, his headquarters. He was offered the com. of a U. S. regt., but declined. At the request of Col. Backus, he took com. at Sackett's Harbor in season to defeat an attack by superior numbers, May 29, 1813. App. brig.-gen. U. S. A., July 19, 1813, maj.-gen. Jan. 24, 1814, and placed in com. of the northern division of the army at French Mills. From this period, success attended our operations in Canada. He took possession of Fort Erie; gained a victory over Gen. Riall on the plains of Chippewa, July 5, 1814; over a superior force under Lieut.-Gen. Drummond in the battle of Niagara Falls, July 25, 1814, where he received two severe wounds; and in the sortie from Fort Erie over the same officer, Sept. 17, 1814, thus raising the siege. He received the thanks of Congress, Nov. 3, 1814, and a gold medal emblematical of those triumphs. At the close of the war, he was retained in command of the northern division of the army, and was made gen. in chief Mar. 10, 1821. — Nat. Port. Gallery; Gardiner.

Brown, James, lawyer and statesman, b. near Staunton, Va., Sept. 11, 1766; d. Phila., April 7, 1835. Wm. and Mary Coll. He studied law, and, emigrating to Ky., rose to distinction at the bar. In 1791, he com. a company in an exped. against the Indians, and in 1792 became sec. to Gov. Shelby. Soon after the cession of La., he emigrated thither; aided Livingston in compiling the Louisiana code, and became sec. of the territory; U. S. atty. for La.; U. S. senator in 1812–17 and 1819–24; and was U. S. minister to France in 1824–9. His bro. John was U. S. senator from Ky.

Brown, John, statesman of Ky., brother of James, b. Staunton, Va., Sept. 12, 1757; d. Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 29, 1837. His father, John, 44 years pastor of a Presb. church in Rockbridge, d. 1803, a. 75. John left N. J. Coll. to join the Revol. army; subsequently completed his education at Wm. and Mary Coll.; went to Ky. in 1782; practised law; was a member of the Va. legisl. from Ky. dist.; member of the Old Congress, 1787–8; M. C. 1789–93; and U. S. senator, 1793 to 1805. He was active in the Indian warfare of his day, in the admission of Ky. into the Union, and the securing for the West the navigation of the Mississippi. — Collins's Hist. Ky.

Brown, John, a philanthropic merchant, b. Providence, R.I., Jan. 27, 1736; d. there Sept. 20, 1803. One of 4 brothers, — Obadiah, Nicholas, John, and Moses, — partners in a mercantile firm disting. for enterprise and public spirit. He led the party, which, on the night of June 17, 1772, destroyed the British sloop-of-war "Gaspé" in Narragansett Bay, and was sent in irons to Boston on suspicion of having been concerned in that affair, but was released through the efforts of his brother Moses. Anticipating the war, he instructed his captains to freight their vessels on their return-voyages with powder, and furnished the army at Cambridge with a supply, when it had not 4 rounds to a man. He was a member of Congress in 1799–1801, a great projector of works of public utility, and a munificent patron of Brown U., of which he was for 20 years treasurer. Chosen delegate to the Continental Congress in 1784, but did not take his seat.

Brown, John, Revol. patriot, b. Sandisfield, Ms., Oct. 19, 1744; killed by the Indians, Oct. 19, 1780, while marching to relieve Schuyler, in the Mohawk-Valley campaign. Y.C. 1761. He was king's atty. at Caughnawaga, N.Y., afterwards practised law in Pittsfield, Ms., and was an active patriot. In 1774, and again in 1775, he entered Canada in disguise, and endeavored to secure the co-operation of the inhabitants with the other Colonies in the Revol. He was a delegate to the Prov. Congress in 1775; aided Allen in the capture of Ticonderoga, and, Sept. 24, took Fort Chambly. In the attack on Quebec, Dec. 31, 1775, maj. Brown co-operated, by making a false attack upon the walls to the south of St. John's Gate. He was with Montgomery when he fell, and was, on his recommendation, made lieut.-col. Aug. 1, 1776, with rank and pay from Nov. 1775; Sept. 18, 1777, early in the morning, he surprised the outposts of Ticonderoga, set free 100 Amer. prisoners, captured 4 companies of regulars, a quantity of stores and cannon, and destroyed a large quantity of boats, and an armed sloop. He left the service on account of his detestation of Arnold, whose treachery he predicted, but continued to act with the militia of Berkshire. Member of the legisl. in 1778.

Digitized by Google

Brown, Capt. John of Ossawattomie, a disting. champion of liberty, b. Torrington, Ct., 9 May, 1800; hung at Charlestown, Va., 2 Dec. 1859. In a letter to a relative, dated from his prison, 19 Nov. 1859, he says, "I suppose I am the first of our mutual kindred, since the landing of Peter Brown of 'The Mayflower,' that has either been sentenced to imprisonment or to the gallows. Our grandfather, Capt. John Brown, fell in 1776, and he, too, might have perished on the scaffold, had circumstances been but very little different. I should be 60 years old were I to live till May 9, 1860. I have enjoyed much of life as it is, and have been remarkably prosperous; having early learned to regard the welfare and prosperity of others as my own. I have not as yet been driven to the use of glasses, but can see to read and write quite comfortably, and I have generally enjoyed remarkably good health." His father removed to Ohio in 1805. In 1815–20, he worked at the trade of a tanner and currier In 1820, he m. Dianthe Lusk. He removed, in 1846, to Springfield, where he was a dealer in wool; afterward visited Europe on business; emig. in 1855 to Ks., where he took an active part in the contest with the proslavery party. A devout member of the Cong. Church, and a man of strict moral character, possessed of unflinching courage, and intense earnestness, he was specially adapted to the work he was to do. As early as 1839, he conceived the idea of becoming a liberator of the Southern slaves. In Aug. 1856, he defeated at Ossawattomie a band of Missouri invaders ten times more numerous than his own force. In May, 1859, he called a secret convention of the friends of freedom, which met at Chatham, Canada, organized an invasion of Va. to liberate the slaves, and adopted a constitution. In July, he rented a farm-house about 6 miles from Harper's Ferry, and collected there a supply of pikes, guns, &c. On the night of 16 Oct. 1859, with about 20 men, he surprised Harper's Ferry, seized the arsenal and armory, and took 40 prisoners. Attacked by the Va. militia, on the 17th, after two of his sons, and nearly all of his men, had been killed, and he himself had been wounded in several places, he was captured. "Enemies and friends," says Redpath, "were equally amazed at the carriage and sayings of the wounded warrior." He was tried in Nov., and met death with serene composure. He was twice married, and had 20 children. — See Life, by Redpath, 1860; Life and Letters, by R. D. Webb, 1861.

Brown, John Newton, D.D., Baptist clergyman and author, b. New London, Ct., June 29, 1803; d. Germantown, Pa., May 15, 1868. He grad. at what is now Madison U., Hamilton, N.Y., with the highest honors in 1823; preached one year in Buffalo, afterwards at the 1st Bapt. Church, Providence, in Malden, Ms., and in Exeter, N.H. He edited "The Encyclopædia of Religious Knowledge" (1835), repub. in Eng. From 1838 to 1845, he was prof. of theol. and eccl. history in the New Hampton Theol. Institution, N.H., but was obliged by ill health to go South. From 1845 to 1849, he was pastor of a church at Lexington, Va., and was subsequently editorial sec. of the Amer. Bapt. Pub. Society, and editor of the Christian Chronicle and the National Baptist. He edited for this society the works of Bunyan and Fuller, and "Fleetwood's Life of Christ." The Baptist articles of faith, called the "N.H. Confession," were prepared by him, and revised in 1852. He also wrote verse; one of his best efforts being a translation of the Dies Iræ, "Emily, and other Poems," he pub. 1840.

Brown, John Sullivan, author, b. Moultonborough, Sept. 5, 1825. Dartm. Coll. 1848. Solicitor of patents at Washington, D.C., since Apr. 1851. Has 7 patents of his own, and 30 or 40 improvements of other inventions; has pub. "A Catalogue of all Patents prior to 1867," "Hives, and the Managing of Bees," and the Pen and Lever, devoted to mechanism and inventions. — Alumni of D.C.

Brown, John W., author, b. Schenectady, N.Y., Aug. 21, 1814; d. Malta, Apr. 9, 1849. Un. Coll. 1832. After completing his studies at the General Theol. Sem., he settled as a Pr.-Ep. minister at Astoria, N.Y., July 3, 1836; conducted the Astoria Female Institute in 1838–45; became in 1845 editor of the Protestant Churchman; was the author of the "Christmas Bells, a Tale of Holy Tide," 1842, and other poems, and of several religious tales in prose.

Brown, Mason, LL.D. (Trans. U.), jurist and legal writer, b. Phila., 10 Nov., 1799; d. Frankfort, Ky., 27 Jan. 1867. Y.C. 1820. He studied in the office of J. J. Crittenden and in the Lexington Law School; practised at Frankfort; became the partner of Charles S. Morehead, with whom he compiled "Morehead and Brown's Digest;" was many years judge of the Circuit Court of his dist., and sec. of State, 1855–9. Father of Senator B. Gratz Brown, and of Brig.-Gen. J. M. Brown. Son of Sen. John Brown of Ky. by a sister of John M. Mason, D. D. — Y. C. Obt. Record, 237.

Brown, Matthew, D.D. (N.J.Coll. 1823), LL.D. (Ham. Coll. 1835; Jeff. Coll. 1845), educator, b. Northumb. Co., Pa., 1776; d. Pittsburg, Pa., 29 July, 1853. Dick. Coll. 1794. Licensed to preach by the Presb. of Carlisle, 3 Oct. 1799; some time pastor at Canonsburg, Pa. First pres. of Wash. Coll., Pa., 1806–16, and pres. of Jeff. Coll. Pa., 1822–45. Besides addresses and sermons, he pub. "Memoir of Rev. O. Jennings, D.D.," 1832, and "Life of Rev. John McMillan, D.D." — Sprague.

Brown, Moses, capt. U.S.N.; d. Newburyport, Jan. 1, 1804, a. 62. In the Revol. war, he com. several of the largest privateers of N.E.; was engaged in many severe battles; disting. himself particularly in one with a ship of superior force, and was a zealous, brave, and successful officer. On the establishment of the U.S. navy, the merchants of Newburyport built a ship by subscription for the govt., the com. of which was given to Capt. Brown, who was commissioned capt. Sept. 15, 1798. While he com. "The Merrimack," he was as enterprising and successful as formerly.

Brown, Nicholas, merchant, b. Providence, R.I., April 4, 1769; d. there Sept. 27, 1841. R.I. Coll. 1786. He descended from Chad Brown, one of the early colonists with Roger Williams, and was the son of Nicholas, (one of the 4 brothers), who d. May 29, 1791, a. 61. In 1791, he founded the mercantile house of Brown & Ives, one of the most successful in the country. For many years, he was a member of the R.I. legisl. He was one of the most munificent patrons of R.I. Coll. which, in 1804, changed its name to Brown Univ. In 1823, he built a second coll. edifice, entirely at his own expense, and gave, in all, nearly $100,000 to that institution. He gave nearly $10,000 to the Providence Athenæum, liberally aided in the building of churches and the endowment of colleges and academies, and bequeathed $30,000 for an insane asylum, to be established at Providence. His son, John Carter Brown, has also been a munificent patron of B. U. — See Hunt's Lives of Amer. Merchants.

Digitized by Google

Brown, Patrick, M.D., b. Mayo Co., Ireland, ab. 1720; d. 1790. Author of "Civil and Nat. Hist. of Jamaica," 1756.

Brown, Phœbe Hinsdale, poetess, b. Canaan, N.Y., 1783; d. Oct. 10, 1861, at Henry, Ill., at the house of her dau., Mrs. Elijah Smith. She m. Timothy H. Brown. One of her sons is a missionary at Japan. Some of her lyrics are in Cleveland's "Lyra Sacra Americana."

Brown, Col. Richard, a Cherokee Indian; d. Tenn., Jan. 26, 1818, a. 45. He led the Cherokees in every battle of the Creek war, under Gen. Jackson, whose personal friendship he enjoyed, and was severely wounded at the battle of the Horse Shoe. At the time of his death, he was one of the Cherokee delegation to Washington respecting a treaty.

Brown, Gen. Robert, b. Northampton Co., Pa., 1745; d. there Feb. 26, 1823. App. at the beginning of the Revol. an officer in the Pa. "Flying Camp," he was made prisoner on Long Island, and being permitted to work at his trade, that of a blacksmith, distributed the proceeds of his wages among his fellow-prisoners. He was made a brig.-gen. of the State militia, filled several civil stations, was a member of the State senate for some time; M.C. from 1798 to 1815. — Rogers.

Brown, Samuel, M.D., physician, b. Rockbridge Co., Va., Jan. 30, 1769; d. Ala., Jan. 12, 1830. Dick. Coll. 1789. He studied medicine under Dr. Rush, in Phila., and took the degree of M.D. at Aberdeen. He practised a while near what is now Washington City; settled in Lexington, Ky., in 1797; in 1806, in New Orleans; at Natchez, where he m. Miss Catharine Percy, in 1808, after whose death, he settled on a plantation near Huntsville, Ala. Prof. of medicine in Transylv. U. in 1819–25. He was extensively engaged in practice; suggested the process now in general use for clarifying ginseng, and for the application of steam to the distillation of spirits; was a member of the Philos. Society and a contrib. to its "Transactions," vol. vi., and also to the N.Y. Med. Repos. With his disting. brothers, John and James Brown of Ky., and Henry Clay, he endeavored in 1799 to carry a project for the emancipation of the slaves, but did not succeed. Author of a treatise on yellow-fever, 1800. — Memoir by La Roche, in Gross's Med. Biog.

Brown, Samuel Gilman, D.D. (Col. Coll. 1853), educator, b. N. Yarmouth, Me., Jan. 4, 1813. Dartm. Coll. 1831; And. Theol. Sem. 1837. Son of Francis (pres. of D.C., 1815–20). He was principal of a high school at Ellington, Ct.; travelled in Europe in 1838–40; was prof. of oratory and belles lettres at D.C., 1840–63, and of intell. phil. and polit. econ. in 1863–7; ord. a Cong. preacher at Woodstock, Vt., Oct. 6, 1852; pres. of Hamilton Coll., Clinton, N.Y., since 1866. He has pub. addresses, and contribs. to reviews, "Hist. Discourse before the Alumni of D.C., 21 July, 1869," being its 100th anniversary; also "The Life of Hon. Rufus Choate," "Biography of Self-Taught Men," 1847; and has written 10 courses of lectures, one on "The Earlier Eng. Literature," the other on "British Orators," delivered before the Lowell Institute, Boston, in 1859, and elsewhere.

Brown, Samuel R., author, d. at Cherry Valley, Sept. 15, 1817, a. 42. He was a vol. during the War of 1812, and afterwards edited, until 1815, a newspaper called the Patriot, at Cayuga, N.Y. He pub. "A View of the Campaigns of the North-western Army," 1814; "History of the War of 1812," in two vols.; "Western Gazetteer; or, Emigrant's Directory," 1817.

Brown, Solyman, M.D., b. Litchfield, Ct., Nov. 17, 1790. Y.C. 1812. Ord. a Cong. minister in 1814; preached and taught school until 1822; when he removed to N.Y., where he preached Swedenborgianism. Since 1832, he has practised dentistry in that city. He pub. in 1818 an essay on Amer. poetry, together with some miscellanies; "Dentologia," a poem on the diseases of the teeth, 1833; and, in 1838, "Dental Hygeia," a poem on the general laws of health. He has contrib. to the N.Y. Mirror, and been co-editor of the Journal of Dental Science. — Everest's Poets of Conn.

Brown, Thomas, capt. U.S. navy, b. Del.; d. Phila., Nov. 28, 1828. Midshipman, Apr. 27, 1801; lieut. March 21, 1807; master, March 1, 1815; capt. March 3, 1825.

Brown, William, an early naval commander of the Revol.; d. Boston, Nov. 29, 1809, a. 77.

Brown, William, adm. of Buenos Ayres, b. Ireland, ab. 1779; d. He came to Baltimore in 1793, and was employed in the mercantile marine until 1796, when he was impressed by a British man-of-war. In 1814, being at Buenos Ayres, in the com. of an Eng. merchant-ship, during the War of Independence, he was induced to enter the naval service of that country. Receiving the command of its flotilla, he engaged in April, 1814, some Spanish vessels off the island of Martin Garcia. In the ensuing May, a more decisive engagement took place off Montevideo, in which 4 of the enemy's vessels were taken or destroyed, and the rest dispersed, causing the speedy capture of Montevideo. Brown was made adm., and, his services not being required, he planned an exped. against the Spaniards in the Pacific Ocean, and was for some time successful, making many rich prizes. After having greatly annoyed the Spanish commerce in the Pacific, he was returning with a rich booty, when he was captured by a British ship-of-war, carried into Antigua, and condemned upon frivolous and unreasonable allegations. Owing to this unjust proceeding, Brown lived at Buenos Ayres in retirement, and almost in poverty, until the war with Brazil commenced. This event brought him once more into notice, and gave him an opportunity of acquiring no small share of naval reputation.

Digitized by Google

Brown, William Hill, poet; d. Murfreesborough, N.C., where he was studying law, Sept. 2, 1793, a. 27. He wrote a tragedy founded on the death of André, and a comedy. His "Ira and Isabella" was pub. in 1807.

Browne, Col. Thomas, loyalist officer of the Revol., of Augusta, Ga.; d. St. Vincent's, Aug. 3, 1825. In 1775, he fled, but was brought back by the Whigs, tried, tarred and feathered, and drawn 3 miles in a cart exposed to the populace. Removing to Fla., he made, at the head of a small force, predatory incursions to the banks of the Savannah. Joined in 1778 by about 300 Tories from the interior, he organized the "King's Rangers," uniformed, and com. them as lieut.-col. In 1779, at the head of 400 mounted men, he made a forced march to Augusta, and, after being wounded and twice defeated by Cols. Twiggs and Few, established there a military post, and was reenforced. In Sept. 1780, Col. Clarke besieged him; but the talent and skill of Browne, who was himself shot through both thighs, enabled him to hold out 4 days, and until relieved by Col. Cruger. His barbarity to Col. Clarke's wounded, whom he hung, covers him with infamy. Again besieged in April, 1781, by Pickens and Lee, he was forced to surrender in June. Such was the hatred his cruelties had inspired, that he was obliged to be specially and strongly guarded until delivered at Savannah, or he would have been torn limb from limb. After he was exchanged, he served at Savannah. In May, 1782, he marched out with a considerable force, but was completely routed by Wayne. His estates, both in Ga. and S.C., having been confiscated, he retired to the Bahamas at the peace, whence, in 1786, he wrote an elaborate and able reply to Ramsay's comments on his conduct during the war, addressed to the historian himself. In 1809, he was a petitioner in Eng. for a grant of crown-lands, and received 6,000 acres in the Island of St Vincent. It has been stated, that in 1812, he was convicted in London of forgery, which seems unlikely. For his services, he had been made col. com. of his Majesty's late regt. of S.C. or Queen's Rangers, and also superintendent of Indian affairs in the southern dist. of N. A. — Sabine.

Browne, John Ross, traveller and author, b. 1817. In his 18th year, he descended the Mississippi and Ohio, from Louisville to New Orleans. In 1846, after visiting a great part of the world, he pub. "Etchings of a Whaling-Cruise, with Notes of a Sojourn on the Island of Zanzibar." He has been in California and the Holy Land, and was app. minister to China in 1868. Author, also, of "An Amer. Family in Germany," "Adventures in the Apache Country," "Land of Thor," "Crusoe's Island, with Sketches of California and Washoe," and "Yusef, Travels in the East." d. Dec. 8, 1875.

Browne, William, loyalist of Salem, Ms., b. Feb. 27, 1737; d. Eng., Feb. 13, 1802. H.U. 1755. Grandson of Gov. Burnet. He was many years a representative of Salem; one of the 17 rescinders in 1768; a col. of the Essex Co. militia; a judge of the Superior Court, 1773–4, and was banished in 1778; and his immense landed estates were confiscated. Gov. of Bermuda in 1781–90. — Sabine.

Brownell, Thomas Church, D.D. LL.D., Prot.-Ep. bishop of Ct., b. Westport, Ms., Oct. 19, 1779; d. Hartford, Jan. 13, 1865. Un. Coll. 1804. In this institution, he held, in turn, the situations of tutor, prof. of logic and belles-lettres, lecturer on chemistry, and prof. of rhetoric and chemistry, until, in Apr. 1816, he took orders in the church; and became an assist. minister in Trin. church, N.Y., in the summer of 1818. He was consec. bishop of Ct., Oct. 27, 1819, and, removing to Hartford, was chosen first pres. of Trin. Coll., which took its rise under his auspices in 1824. He was chiefly instrumental in the liberal endowments of its professorships, and in procuring important additions to the general fund. He resigned the pres. in 1831. He became presiding bishop in 1852. He pub. "A Bible Class and Family Expositor to the Study of the New Testament," and "A Commentary on the Book of Common Prayer." In 1839–40, he prepared 5 vols., entitled "Religion of the Heart and Life." He is also the author of several important charges to his clergy, and various sermons on special occasions, and has contrib in other ways to the current literature of the day.

Browning, Orville H., lawyer and politician, b. Harrison Co., Ky., ab. 1810. While a clerk in the office of the clerk of Bracken Co., he went through a course of classical study at Augusta Coll., studied law, was adm. to the bar in 1831, and settled in Quincy, Ill. He served through the Black Hawk war in 1832; member of the Ill. senate in 1836–40; of the lower house in 1841–3, and, in conjunction with his friend Abraham Lincoln, was mainly instrumental in forming the Repub. party of Ill. at the Bloomington convention. Delegate to the Chicago convention of 1860, and a warm supporter of the govt. during the Rebellion; U.S. senator in 1861–3 to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Mr. Douglas; an active member of the Union exec. committee, June, 1866; and sec. of the interior in 1866–8; and from March, 1868 to March, 1869, also performed the duties of U.S. atty.-gen.

Brownlow, William Gannaway, clergyman and politician, b. Wythe Co., Va., Aug. 29, 1805. He was left an orphan at 11, and, by hard labor as a carpenter, obtained a fair education. Entering the Methodist ministry in 1826, he was an itinerant preacher for 10 years. While travelling in S.C., he took part in the nullification controversy, opposing the project, and pub. a pamphlet in his own vindication, on account of the strong opposition excited against him. In 1828, he advocated in Tenn. the election of J. Q. Adams to the Presidency. Ab. 1837, he became editor of the Knoxville Whig, a political newspaper of wide circulation, and obtained the sobriquet of the "fighting parson." In 1858, in a public debate at Phila., with Rev. A. Pryne, on slavery, afterward pub. in a vol. entitled "Ought American Slavery to be perpetuated?" Mr. Brownlow maintained the affirmative. From the beginning of the secession movement in 1860, he boldly maintained in his paper the principle of adherence to the Union as the best safeguard of Southern institutions. This course subjected him to much persecution after the secession of Tenn. Oct. 24, 1861, he published the last number of the Whig, and, after remaining some time concealed, was induced, by a promise of passports, to report to the com.-gen. at Knoxville, where he was arrested Dec. 6, and thrown into jail. March 3, 1862, he was released, and escorted to the Union lines at Nashville. He afterward made a tour of the Northern States, delivering speeches in the principal cities; was joined by his family, who had also been expelled from Knoxville; and pub. "Sketches of the Rise, Progress, and Decline of Secession, with a Narrative of Personal Adventures among the Rebels," 12mo, 1862. He returned to Nashville after its capture by the Union forces, and was gov. of Tenn. in 1865–9; U.S. senator since 1869. Among his other writings are "The Iron Wheel Examined, and its False Spokes Extracted" (12mo, Nashville), a reply to attacks on the Methodist Church, 1856; d. Knoxville, Tenn. Apr. 29, '77.

Digitized by Google

Brownson, NATHAN, statesman, d. Liberty Co., Ga., Nov. 1796. Y.C. 1761. He was a physician of Liberty Co., and an early supporter of the rights of his country; member of the Prov. Cong. of 1775; was some time a surgeon in the army; was speaker of the legisl. of 1781, by which body he was chosen gov. of Ga.; member of the Cont. Cong. of 1776 and 1778; speaker of the Ga. H. of representatives in 1788; pres. of the senate in 1789–91, and member of the convention that framed the State Constitution in 1789. — Ga. Hist. Colls. 213.

Brownson, ORESTES AUGUSTUS, LL.D., author, b. Stockbridge, Vt., Sept. 16, 1803. He became in 1825 a Universalist minister, and preached in various places in Vt. and N.Y., writing for and editing various religious periodicals. Making the acquaintance of Robert Owen, he was attracted by schemes of social reform, and in 1828 was prominent in the formation of a workingmen's party in N.Y. The writings of Dr. Channing led him, in 1832, to become pastor of a Unitarian church. In 1836, he organized in Boston the Society for Christian Union and Progress, of which he had charge till he ceased preaching in 1843. On removing to Boston, he pub. his "New Views of Christianity, Society, and the Church." He established the Boston Quarterly Review in 1838, and was almost its sole writer during the 5 years of its continuance, and contrib. largely to it during the first year after it was merged into the Democ. Review of N.Y. In 1840, he pub. "Charles Elwood, or the Infidel Converted," which passed through several editions in Eng. He entered the Roman communion in 1844, and has since labored strenuously for the doctrines of that church. The later pubs. of Mr. Brownson are, "The Spirit-Rapper," 1854; and "The Convert, or Leaves from my Experience," 1857. Since 1844, he has supported, almost single-handed, Brownson's Quarterly Review, devoted especially to the defence of Catholic doctrines, but also discusses questions of politics and literature. Translations of several of his works have been pub. in Europe; d. Detroit, Apr. 17, 1876.

Bruce, ANDREW, lieut.-col. 5th Foot, a British officer, who served at Lexington, Bunker's Hill, &c.; d. Eng., Feb. 5, 1792.

Bruce, ARCHIBALD, M.D. (U. of Edinb. 1800), physician, b. N. Y., Feb. 1777; d. there Feb. 22, 1818. Col. Coll. 1795. His father, William Bruce, the head of the medical dept. of the British army at N.Y., upon being ordered to the West Indies, specially directed that his son should not be brought up to the med. profession. However, from the medical lectures of Nicholas Romayne, the teachings of Dr. Hosack, and attendance on the courses of medical instruction of Col. Coll., he attained a knowledge of the science. He went to Europe in 1798, and in a tour of two years in France, Switzerland, and Italy, collected a mineralogical cabinet of great value. He m. in London, and, in the summer of 1803, returned to N.Y. City, and commenced practice. From 1807 until 1811, he was prof. of materia medica and mineralogy in the Coll. of Physicians and Surgeons. Having, in connection with Romayne and others, afterward constituted another medical faculty, he delivered lectures on his favorite studies. In 1810, he edited a vol. of a Journal of American Mineralogy, which, as well as his discovery of the hydrate of magnesia at Hoboken, contrib. materially to extend his fame. Member of many learned associations in this country and Europe. — Thacher.

Bruce, SIR FREDERICK, an English diplomatist, bro. of the Earl of Elgin, d. Boston, Ms., Sept. 1867. App. ambassador to the U.S. early in 1865.

Bruce, GEORGE, an eminent type-founder, b. Edinburgh, Scotland, June 26, 1781; d. N.Y., July 5, 1866. He came to the U.S. in June, 1795; was apprenticed to a printer in Phila.; afterward went to Albany, and thence to N.Y., where, in 1803, he was foreman, and a contributor to the Daily Advertiser. In 1806, with his bro. David, he opened a book-printing-office. In 1812, David went to Eng., and brought back with him the secret of stereotyping. In 1816, they sold out their printing-business, and began that of type-founding, into which George introduced many valuable improvements. In connection with his nephew, David Bruce, jun., he invented the only type-casting machine which has stood the test of experience, and is now in general use. He was many years pres. of the Mechanics' Institute, and an active member of several literary and benevolent associations.

Bruen, MATTHIAS, minister of the Bleecker st. Church, N. Y. (14 June, 1825–1829), b Newark, N.J., Apr. 11, 1793; d. N.Y., Sept. 6, 1829. Col. Coll. 1812. He travelled in Europe with his preceptor, Dr. Mason, in 1816; was ord. in London in 1819, and preached six months in the Amer. chapel, Paris. In 1822, he became a missionary in N.Y. He was active in missionary, religious, and educational work. Author of "Sketches of Italy." — See Life and Character of, N.Y., 1831.

Digitized by Google

Bruyas, Rev. Jacques, of Lyons, missionary, arrived at Quebec, Aug. 3, 1666; became chief of the Iroquois Missions in 1671, and was superior of his order in 1693–1700. In 1700, he was instrumental in making a peace with the Five Nations, which lasted over 50 years. In Aug. 1701, he attended the grand ratification of this treaty. He wrote several works in the Mohawk tongue. His Dictionary, Catechism, and "Racines Agnieres" are still extant. — O'Callaghan.

Bryan, George, judge, b. Dublin, Ireland, 1731; d. Phila., Jan. 27, 1791. He came to Amer. in early life; was engaged some years in commercial pursuits in Phila.; was a member of the State Assembly, and, in 1765, was a member of the Stamp-act Congress, in which, and in the subsequent struggle, he took an active part. Vice-pres. of the supreme exec. council of Pa., from the period of the Declaration of Independence, he was, in May, 1778, advanced to the presidency; and in 1779 he was elected to the legisl., when he projected and procured the passage of an act for the gradual abolition of slavery. App. a judge of the State Supreme Court in 1780, he remained in that position until his death. In 1784, he was elected one of the council of censors. He strenuously opposed the adoption of the Federal Constitution. He was an impartial and incorruptible judge.

Bryant, William Cullen, poet and journalist, b. Cummington, Ms., Nov. 3, 1794. His father Peter, a physician, superintended the education of his children. Young Bryant communicated verses to the county gazette before he was 10; and his "Embargo," a political satire, and "The Spanish Revolution," were pub. in his 14th year, and again in 1809. At 18, he wrote "Thanatopsis," first pub. in the North Amer. Review in 1817. After 2 years' study at Wms. Coll., he studied law; was adm. to the bar in 1815; commenced practice in Plainfield, and afterward removed to Great Barrington; but, though he rose to distinction in the courts, his tastes inclined him to literature. He wrote several prose articles for the North American; in 1821 delivered before the Phi Beta Kappa Society of H. U. a poem on the "Ages;" and a vol. containing several of his poems, pub. at Cambridge, at once stamped him as a genuine poet. He removed to New York in 1825; edited the N. Y. Review, soon after merged into the U. S. Review, and in 1826 connected himself with the Evening Post. This he subsequently, upon obtaining its exclusive control, changed from a Federal to a Democ. print, favoring free trade. From 1827 to 1830, with Sands and Verplanck, he edited the "Talisman," an annual, and contrib. "Medfield" and the "Skeleton Cave" to the "Tales of the Glauber Spa." In 1832, a complete edition of his poems appeared in N. Y.; and Irving, then in Eng., caused it to be reprinted there with a laudatory preface, securing him a European reputation. Having associated Wm. Leggett with himself in the management of the Post, he visited Europe in 1834, and travelled there extensively. He went again in 1845, and in a third visit, in 1849, extended his journey to Egypt and Syria. His letters written to the Post during these journeys were pub., with the title of "Letters of a Traveller," soon after his last return. Ab. 1845, he purchased an ancient mansion near the village of Roslyn, on Long Island, where he has since resided. In 1848, he delivered a funeral-oration on Thos. Cole, the great landscape-painter; and in 1852 a discourse on the life and writings of James Fenimore Cooper. He made another journey to Europe in 1857 and '8, described in a series of letters to the Evening Post, pub. in 1859 as "Letters from Spain and Other Countries." Apr. 3, 1860, he delivered at the Acad. of Music, N. Y., an address on Washington Irving. A new vol. of verses, entitled "Thirty Poems," appeared in 1864. His brother John Howard, also a poet, b. July 22, 1807, first came into notice in 1826 by the publication of "My Native Land." He went to Ill. in 1831; has been a representative in the legisl., and pub. a coll. of his poems in N. Y. in 1855.

Bryson, Andrew, capt. U. S. N., b. New York, July 25, 1822. Midshipman, Dec. 21, 1837; lieut. Aug. 30, 1851; com. July 16, 1862; capt. July 25, 1866. He com. steamer "Chippewa" on special service, 1862–3; com. iron-clad "Lehigh," S. A. B. squadron, at the reduction of Fort Macon, and in all the principal actions in which the iron-clads were engaged off Charleston, from Sept. 1863, to Apr. 5, 1864, and wounded slightly by fragment of a shell; com. iron-clad "Essex," Mississippi squadron, 1864–5. — Hamersly.

Buchanan, Franklin, an officer of the Confed. navy, b. Baltimore, Sept. 17, 1800; d. Talbot Co., Md., May 12, 1874. Midshipm. Jan. 28, 1815; he became lieut. Jan. 13, 1825; master-com. Sept. 8, 1841; first supt. of the naval acad. 1845–7; capt. Sept. 14, 1855. Apr. 19, 1861, he sent in his resignation; but, finding that Md. did not secede, he petitioned to be restored; was refused; entered the Confederate service, and superintended the fitting-out of the frigate "Merrimack." He com. her in the attack on the U. S. fleet in Hampton Roads, and was so severely wounded as to be obliged to relinquish his com. He was in com. when Gen. Wool occupied Norfolk, and blew up his ship to save her from capture. Made a rear-adm., he com. the iron-clad "Tennessee" in Mobile Bay, Aug. 1864, where he was defeated by Adm. Farragut, and taken prisoner.

Buchanan, Isaac, member of the Canadian parliament, and pres. of the board of trade of Hamilton, b. Glasgow, N.B., 1810. He was liberally educated; became a leading merchant and politician; was active in suppressing the rebellion in 1837; was elected to parliament from Toronto in 1841, and has been many years a member, and at one time pres., of the exec. council of Quebec. Author of "The Relations of the Industry of Canada with the Mother-Country and the U. S."

Buchanan, James, British consul at N.Y.;

Digitized by Google

d. at Elmwood, near Montreal, Oct. 1851, a. 80. While a resident of N. Y., he wrote and pub. "Sketches of the History, Manners, and Customs of the N. Amer. Indians," 2 vols., 12mo, 1824, repub. in Lond. the same year, a work of merit. — N. E. H. and Geneal. Reg., vi., 101.

Buchanan, James, 15th Pres. of the U. S., b. Franklin Co., Pa., 23 Apr. 1791; d. Wheatland, near Lancaster, Pa., 1 June, 1868. Dick. Coll. 1809. His father came from Ireland in 1783: his mother, Elisabeth Spear, was the dau. of a farmer. Adm. to the bar in 1812, he practised at Lancaster with such success, that, at the age of 40, he retired with a competency. Beginning as a Federalist, he was an M. C. in 1821–31, and supported Jackson for the Presidency in 1828; minister to Russia in 1832–4; U. S. senator, 1834–45; sec. of State, under Pres. Polk, in 1845–9, opposing the Wilmot Proviso and the antislavery movement; and U. S. minister to Eng. in 1853–6. In 1856, he was the Democ. candidate for Pres., and was elected, receiving 174 electoral votes to 129 for Fremont (Republican), and Fillmore (American). In Congress, he favored a tariff merely for revenue, and, as chairman of the judiciary committee of the house, conducted with ability the prosecution of Judge Peck of Me. in 1829–30. As minister to Russia, he concluded a commercial treaty, securing to us important privileges in the Baltic and Black Seas. In the senate, where he was regarded as a leader of the Democracy, he urged Congress to declare that it had no power to legislate on the subject of slavery, and advocated the annexation of Texas. As one of the 3 members of the Ostend Conference in 1854, he declared, that, if Cuba could not be purchased, we should be justified in wresting it from Spain. His cabinet was composed principally of disunionists and their friends. In the first year of his administration, great excitement was produced by an attempt to establish slavery in Kansas. In his message, Dec. 1857, he urged that Kansas be adm. with the Lecompton Constitution, which the proslavery party, aided by executive influence, had framed. In his last message, Dec. 1860, Buchanan cast on the Northern people the blame for the disruption of the Union, then imminent, and declared that the Constitution did not delegate to Congress or to the Executive power to coerce or to prevent the secession of a State. Dec. 12, 1860, Cass resigned the State secretaryship, because the Pres. declined to re-enforce Fort Sumter. Most of the slave States seceded in the winter of 1860–61; and nearly all the forts, arsenals, and custom-houses within their limits, were seized by the insurgents, the movements of the disunionists to found and fortify a Southern confederacy being facilitated by the outgoing administration. He withdrew to private life Mar. 3, 1861. Author of "Mr. Buchanan's Administration," 1866.

Buchanan, Robert Christie, brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. Md. West Point, 1830. Lieut. of inf., 1830; adj. 1835–8; served in Seminole war, 1836–7; capt. 1 Nov. 1838; brev. maj. "for gallant and disting. service in battles of R. de la Palma and Palo Alto," Aug. 1846; lieut.-col. com. batt. Md. vols. in Mex. war, Sept. 1846, to May, 1847; acting maj. and disting. in battle of Churubusco; brev. lieut.-col for El Molino del Rey, July, 1848; acting insp.-gen. to Gen. Butler in 1848; maj. 4th Inf., Feb. 3, 1855; com. and disting. in several conflicts with Indians near Rogue River, Oregon, in 1856; lieut.-col. Sept. 9, 1861; col. 1st Inf., Feb. 8, 1864; brig.-gen. U.S. vols., 29 Nov. 1862; was in the battles and sieges of the peninsular camp.; battles of Manassas, Antietam, and Fredericksburg; brev. brig.-gen. U. S.A., 13 Mar. 1865, for Malvern Hill; brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., for Manassas and Fredericksburg. — Cullum.

Buckingham, James Silk, traveller and author, b. Eng., 1784; d. London, June 30, 1855. He made tours in various parts of Europe and N. America, the published accounts of which make many vols.; 9 of them are upon Amer. He visited the U.S., and lectured on temperance and slavery in most of the cities of the Union. M. P. 1832–7.

Buckingham, Joseph Tinker, editor, b. Windham, Ct., Dec. 21, 1779; d. Cambridge, Ms., Apr. 11, 1861. His father, Nehemiah Tinker, a Revol. soldier, d. in 1783, leaving his family destitute. Joseph worked on a farm; entered a printing-office at 16; came to Boston in Feb. 1800, and in 1804 had his name changed by act of the legisl. He began to pub. the Polyanthos in 1805, the Ordeal, a weekly of 16 pages, 8vo, in Jan. 1809, the N.E. Galaxy, in conjunction with S. L. Knapp, in Oct. 1817, and in Mar. 1824, the Boston Courier, as the special and avowed advocate of the Amer. system. He retired from the Courier in June, 1848. From 1831 to 1834, in connection with his son, he pub. the N. E. Magazine. He was several times elected to the legisl., and was a member of the State senate in 1847–8, and 1850–1. He is the author of "Specimens of Newspaper Literature," &c., 2 vols., 1850; "Personal Memoirs and Recollections," 2 vols., 1852; "Annals of the Ms. Char. Mechanics' Assoc.," 1853. He was pres. of the Ms. Charitable Assoc., of the Bunker Hill Monument Assoc., and of the Middlesex Agric. Society.

Buckingham, William Alfred, LL.D. (Y.C. 1866), gov. of Ct., 1858–66, b. Lebanon, Ct., May 28, 1804. His ancestor was Rev. Thos. of Saybrook. He engaged in business in Norwich, in 1825, and became a successful merchant and carpet manuf. His patriotism and efficiency during the Rebellion were of great service to the national cause. U.S. senator since 1869. He gave $25,000 to the Theol. School of Y.C. — See H. B. Stowe's Men of our Time; d. Norwich, Ct., Feb. 4, 1875.

Buckminster, Joseph, D.D. (N. J. Coll. 1803), minister of Portsmouth, N.H., b. Rutland, Ms., Oct. 14, 1751; d. June 10, 1812. Y.C. 1770, where he was a tutor from 1774 to 1778. Thos. his ancestor came early to Boston, and d. Brookline, 1656. He became attached, while at New Haven, to a lady of reputation and celebrity, whose history is the basis of Miss Foster's story, "The Coquette." Ord. in Jan. 1779, pastor of the North Church; but after a ministry of 33 years, his health becoming greatly impaired, he left home June 2, 1812, accompanied by his wife and two friends, but

Digitized by Google

d. a few days after. He pub. some sermons, and a short sketch of Dr. Mackintosh. Eliza B. Lee, his dau., pub. "Memoirs of the Rev. Joseph Buckminster, D.D.," 1851. — Sprague.

Buckminster, Joseph Stevens, a celebrated preacher and scholar, b. Portsmouth, N.H., May 26, 1784; d. June 9, 1812. H.U. 1800. Son of Rev. Joseph. He devoted himself for 4 years to theology and general literature. An assist. in Exeter Acad. after leaving coll., he was one of the teachers of Daniel Webster. In Oct. 1804, he preached in Boston for the first time, and accepted, in 1805, an invitation from the Brattle-st. society there. A voyage to Europe was rendered necessary for the restoration of his health; and in 1806–7 he travelled extensively in Eng. and on the Continent. He was an active member of the Anthology Club, famous for the many gifted men which it included, and for having originated one of the first purely literary periodicals of this country. In 1809, he delivered before the Phi Beta Kappa Society of H. U. an address on "The Dangers and Duties of Men of Letters." He maintained by his sermons the highest rank among popular preachers, and was a contrib. to the periodicals of the day. The Greek Testament of Griesbach was edited by him in 1808. In 1811, he was app. the first lecturer on biblical criticism at H. U.; and, while busily preparing for the execution of this office, a violent fit of epilepsy at once destroyed his intellect, and gave a shock to his frame, which he survived but a few days. In 1808, he pub. a collection of hymns for the use of his society. A vol. of his sermons was pub., with a memoir of his life and character, by S. C. Thatcher in 1814. He was a member of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences, and of the Ms. Hist. Society.

Buckminster, Col. William, Revol. officer, b. Framingham, Dec. 15, 1736; d. June 22, 1786. He removed to Barre in 1757; com. the minute-men in 1774; was lieut.-col. of Brewer's regt. at Bunker's Hill, and received there a wound which crippled him for life.

Buckner, Simon Bolivar, gen. C.S.A., b. Ky., ab. 1824. West Point, 1844. Entering the 2d Inf., he was from Aug. 1845, to May, 1846, assist. prof. of ethics at West Point; brev. 1st lieut. for gallantry at Contreras and Churubusco, where he was wounded; capt. for gallantry at Molino del Rey; assist. instructor inf. tactics at West Point, Aug. 1848, and resigned Mar. 25, 1855. He then practised law, and became the most prominent of the Knights of the Golden Circle in Ky. After the civil war broke out, he was made com. of the State guard of Ky., and adj.-gen. of the State. Sept. 12, 1861, he issued from Russelville an address to the people of Ky., calling on them to take up arms against the usurpation of Abraham Lincoln; after which he removed to Bowling Green. After the capture of Fort Henry, he evacuated Bowling Green. Com. a brigade at Fort Donelson, in the battles of Feb. 13, 14, and 15, and, after the escape of Pillow and Floyd, surrendered the fort, Feb. 16, to Gen. Grant, with 16,000 prisoners and vast stores. He was imprisoned at Fort Warren, Boston, until exchanged in Aug. 1862. He subsequently com. the 1st division of Gen. Hardee's corps in Bragg's army in Tenn. Later he was made a maj.-gen., assigned to the 3d grand div., and was in the battles of Murfreesborough and Chickamauga, and surrendered with Kirby Smith's army to Gen. Canby, at N. Orleans, May 26, 1865.

Buell, Abel, an ingenious mechanic, b. Killingworth, Ct., ab. 1750; d. N. Haven, Ct., ab. 1825. In his youth, he was apprenticed to a gold and silver smith, and at the age of 20 was detected and punished for an ingenious alteration of a colony note. His next exploit was the construction of a lapidary machine, believed to be the first used in this country. Removing to N. Haven ab. 1770, he was employed by Bernard Romans, who was constructing his map of N. Amer., to survey the coast of Pensacola, and afterwards to engrave the map, which was pub. during the Revol. He next established a type-foundry, and, for his various services to the public, was restored by the legisl. to his civil rights. After the war, he was employed by the State in coining coppers; for which he made all the apparatus. He then visited Eng., where he gained some knowledge of the machinery used in the manuf. of cloth, and, on his return, erected a cotton-factory in N. Haven, — one of the first in the country.

Buell, Don Carlos, maj.-gen. vols., b. near Marietta, O., Mar. 23, 1818. West Point, 1841. Entering the 3d Inf., he became 1st lieut. June, 1846, and won the brevets of captain at Monterey, and major at Contreras and Churubusco, where he was severely wounded. Lieut.-col. May 11, 1861; brig.-gen. vols. May 17, 1861. In Nov., he superseded Gen. W. T. Sherman in the dept. of the Cumberland, which was re-organized as that of the Ohio. Maj.-gen. of vols. March 21, 1862, and on the same day his dist. was incorporated with that of the Mpi., Gen. Halleck. He arrived with a part of a division on the battle-field of Shiloh, near the close of the first day's action, Apr. 6, in time to succor the hard-pressed army of Gen. Grant; 3 of his divisions arriving the next day, the Confederates were driven to their intrenchments at Corinth. June 12, he took com. of the dist. of Ohio. In July and Aug., Bragg's army advanced into Ky., capturing a number of Buell's posts, compelling the abandonment of Lexington and Frankfort, and the removal of the State archives to Louisville, which city was threatened, as well as Cincinnati. At midnight of Sept. 24, Buell's retreating army entered Louisville amid great excitement, as it was feared that Bragg would reach there first. Sept. 30, by order from Washington, Buell turned over his com. to Gen. Thomas, but was restored the same day, and, Oct. 1, began to pursue the Confederates. On the 8th, a severe but indecisive battle was fought with them at Perryville by a portion of Buell's army. On the 24th, he was ordered to transfer his com. to Gen. Rosecrans. A court of inquiry to investigate his operations made a report, which has never been pub. Resigned 1 June, 1864. Pres. Green River, Ky., Iron Works, since 1865.

Buel, Jesse, agriculturist, b. Coventry, Ct., Jan. 4, 1778; d. Danbury, Oct. 6, 1839. Originally a printer, he removed to Albany in 1813, and established the Argus, which he edited until 1821, when he devoted himself to agricul. pursuits in that vicinity with great success. He was often a member of the State assembly; at one time a magistrate; was Whig candidate for gov. in 1836, and, at the time of his death, was a regent of the U. In 1834, he established the Cultivator, which has probably exerted a greater influence among agriculturists, and been the means of effecting more improvement in husbandry, than any other similar journal in the U. S. He delivered numerous addresses, pub. the "Farmer's Instructor," in 10 vols., and the "Farmer's Companion," 1839. Member of many Amer. and foreign horticultural and agricultural societies.

Digitized by Google

Buffum, Edward Gould, journalist and author, b. R. I.; d. Paris, France, Dec. 24, 1867. Son of Arnold Buffum, the well-known philanthropist. In early life, he became a writer for the New-York Herald, but in 1846 joined Col. Stevenson's N. Y. regt., and accomp. it to Cal. as a lieut. Being there at the time of the discovery of gold, he was actively engaged in explorations of the State, and subsequently pub. an interesting and valuable work, the first of its kind, on the gold-mines of Cal. He was a long time editor in chief of the Alta Californian; and in the State legisl., of which he was a member from San Francisco, displayed great ability as a debater. He wrote a history of Col. Stevenson's regt., graphically describing life in Cal. in its early days. At the time of his death, he had for 8 years been the Paris corresp. of the N. Y. Herald. He possessed extensive acquirements, and was a frequent contrib. to the leading magazines of Europe and America.

Buford, Col. Abraham, Revol. officer of Va.; d. Scott Co., Ky., June 29, 1833. Made col. of Morgan's 11th Va. regt., May 16, 1778. May 29, 1780, his com. was surprised and massacred by Col. Tarleton at Waxhaw Creek.

Buford, John, maj.-gen. U. S. vols., b. Ky., 1825; d. Washington, D. C., Dec. 16, 1863. West Point, 1848. Entering the 1st Dragoons, he became capt. Mar. 9, 1859; served in the Utah exped.; became insp.-gen., rank of major, Nov. 12, 1861; was attached to the staff of Gen. Pope in the Army of Va., June 26, 1862; brig.-gen. July 27, 1862; com. a brigade of cavalry under Gen. Hooker, and early in Aug. 1862, was so severely wounded near the Rappahannock River, that he was reported dead. He served on McClellan's staff at the battle of Antietam. Assigned to the com. of the reserve cavalry brigade, he was conspicuous in many engagements, and began the attack at Gettysburg before the arrival of Reynolds. He was Gen. Burnside's chief of cavalry, and was one of the best officers in that branch of the service. He had been assigned to the com. of the Army of the Cumberland just before his death. Gen. N. B. Buford was his half-bro.

Buford, Napoleon Bonaparte, brev. maj.-gen. vols., half-bro. of Gen John, b. Woodford Co., Ky., Jan. 13, 1807. West Point, 1827. Entering the 3d Art., he was employed in various surveys; obtained leave in 1831 to enter the Law School of H.U. In 1833, he was assist. prof. of nat. philos. at West Point. Resigning in 1835, he was engaged in the public improvements of Ky. until 1842. In 1843, he removed to Rock Island, Ill., where he was a merchant, an ironfounder, and banker. Col. 27th Ill. Vols., Aug. 1861, he com. the troops that accomp. the gunboat flotilla to Columbus and Island No. Ten; captured Union City, March 30, 1862, and became brig.-gen. vols., April 15, 1862; in the battle of Corinth, Oct. 3–4, 1862, and siege of Vicksburg, Feb. 1863; brev. maj.-gen. vols., 13 Mar. 1865; special U.S. com. Indian affairs in 1867.

Bulfinch, Charles, architect, b. Aug. 8, 1763; d. Boston, April 15, 1844. H.U. 1781. Son of Dr. Thos. He acquired by travel in Europe a cultivated taste, and a knowledge of architectural science. The primitive condition of this country had occasioned a total neglect of art; and, on his return from Europe in 1786, he devoted himself to architecture as a profession. He drew the plan for the State House and City Hall in Boston, and for the Capitol at Washington. He was a member of the Amer. Acad. of Arts and Sciences, and of the Mass. Hortic. Society.

Bulfinch, Stephen Greenleaf, D.D., clergyman and author, b. Boston, June 18, 1809; d. Cambridge, Oct. 12, 1870. Col. Coll. D.C. 1826. At the age of 9, he was taken by his father, Charles, architect of the Capitol, to Washington. After studying at the Camb. Div. School, he was from 1830 to 1837 a Unitarian clergyman at Augusta, Ga. He next kept school, and preached at Pittsburg, Pa., and was similarly engaged at Washington, D.C., for 6 years. In 1845, he was settled at Nashua, N.H., and in 1852 removed to Boston. He pub., "Contemplations of the Saviour," 1832; a vol of poems, Charleston, S.C., 1834; "The Holy Land," 1834; "Lays of the Gospel," 1835; a devotional vol., "Communion Thoughts," 1852; "The Harp and the Cross," 1857, with several sermons, and contributions to the magazines. He was a contrib. to the coll. of Unitarian hymns in use by that denomination. — Duyckinck.

Bulfinch, Thomas, author, b. Boston, July 15, 1796; d. there May 27, 1867. H.U. 1814. He was in mercantile business until 1837; and during the rest of his life was a clerk in the Boston Merchant's Bank. He pub. in 1855 "The Age of Fable;" "Age of Chivalry," 1858; "Legends of Charlemagne," "Poetry of the Age of Fable," "Oregon and Eldorado, or Romance of the Rivers," "Hebrew Lyrical History," 1853, and "The Boy Inventor," 1860.

Bulkley, Peter, first minister of Concord, Ms., b. Odell, Bedfordshire, Eng., Jan. 31, 1583; d. Concord, Mar. 9, 1659. He was educated at Cambridge U., and succeeded to the living of his father, Dr. Edward, retaining it 21 years. Removed by Laud for nonconformity, he came to Cambridge in 1635, and in 1636, with a few companions, founded Concord, Ms., where he afterward resided. Author of some Latin poems contained in Cotton Mather's "History of N.E.," and also of the "Gospel Covenant Opened," London, 1646; and an elegy on Rev. Thos. Hooker. He was as remarkable for benevolence and kind dealing, as for strict virtue. EDWARD his son succeeded him in the pastoral charge at Concord.

Digitized by Google

Bull, HENRY, one of the original purchasers and settlers of Aquidneck, now R.I., b. South Wales, in 1609; d. 1694. After a short residence in Ms., whither he had emigrated, he joined himself with 17 others, who purchased land and settled at Newport in 1638. He was gov. of the new colony in 1685, and again in 1689.

Bull, OLE BORNEMANN, Norwegian violinist, b. Bergen, 1810. He studied under Spohr; went to Paris, where he was so destitute as to be on the point of committing suicide, when he was relieved by a lady of rank. Brilliantly successful in the European capitals, he came in 1845 to America. He bought 120,000 acres of land in Pa., where he founded a Norwegian colony, to which he gave the name of Oleona.

Bull, WILLIAM, M.D., physician, b. 1714; d. London, July 4, 1791. Son of Wm. Bull, lieut.-gov. of S. C. (1738–43), several years speaker of the assembly, son of Stephen Bull, one of the early settlers of Carolina, and surveyor-gen., who d. in March, 1755, a. 72. A pupil of Boerhaave, he, in 1735, defended a thesis before the U. of Leyden, and was quoted by his-fellow student, Van Swieten, as the learned Dr. Bull. After his return to America, he was in 1751 a member of the council; in 1763 speaker of the house of representatives, and in 1764 lieut.-gov. of S.C., which office, with that of com.-in-chief, he held many years. Faithful to the crown in 1776, when the British troops left S.C. in 1782, he accomp. them to Eng.

Bullard, HENRY ADAMS, jurist, b. Groton, Ms., Sept. 9, 1788; d. New Orleans, Apr. 17, 1851. H.U. 1807. The son of a minister of Pepperell. He practised law, and became connected in Phila. with Gen. Toledo, who was organizing an exped. to revolutionize New Mexico. Joining him as aide and military sec., they were defeated in the spring of 1812, at San Antonio, and, after suffering severe hardships, he reached Natchitoches, and opened a law-office there. He was raised to the bench of the Dist. Court in 1822, was M.C. in 1831–4; judge of the Supreme Court of La., from 1834 to 1846, with the exception of a few months in 1839, when he acted as sec. of State. Removing to New Orleans, he was in 1847 app. prof. of civil law in the law school of La., and delivered two courses of lectures. In 1850, he was chosen to the legisl., and was M.C. in 1850–1. His most elaborate speech was on the tariff-bill, in 1832.

Bullions, PETER, D.D. (N.J. Coll. 1837), clergyman and educator, b. Moss Side, near Perth, Scotland, Dec. 1791; d. Troy, N.Y., Feb. 13, 1864. In his youth, he worked on his father's farm, and attended school; spent three years at the U. of Edinburgh; studied theology four years, sustaining himself by teaching during vacations; was licensed to preach by the presbytery of Edinburgh, in June, 1817, and then married, and came to the U.S. In March, 1818, he was ord. pastor at Argyle, N.Y., and, from Nov. 1824 until 1848, was prof. of languages at the Albany Acad From 1832 to 1852, he preached at Troy. He then visited Europe, and, after his return, resumed his pastorate over the United Presbyterians. He was an able preacher and instructor, and prepared a very complete series of classical text-books, which are extensively used; among them are, "Practical Lessons in English Grammar and Composition;" "Principles of English Grammar," 1834; "Introduction to Analytical English Grammar;" "Analytical and Practical English Grammar," 1850; "Progressive Exercises in Analysis and Parsing;" "Latin Grammar," "Latin Reader," and "Exercises;" "Cæsar," "Sallust," and "Cicero," with notes; "Latin-English Dictionary, with Synonymes;" "First Lessons in Greek," "Grammar," and "Reader;" "Memoir of Rev. Alex. Bullions."

Bullitt, ALEXANDER SCOTT, statesman of Ky., b. Prince William Co., Va., 1761; d. Jefferson Co., Ky., April 13, 1816. Nephew of Capt. Thomas, an early explorer of Ky., and dep. adj.-gen. in Va. in 1776; founder of Louisville, Ky.; served under Washington on the frontier, and was at Braddock's defeat. His father, Cuthbert, was judge of the Supreme Court of Va. at his death in 1790. The son emigrated to Ky. in 1784; m. the dau. of Col. Wm. Christian in 1785; was a delegate to the Const. Conv. of 1792; pres. of the Ky. senate until 1799, when he was pres. of the convention to amend the State Constitution; lieut.-gov. in 1800–4; again in the legisl. until 1808. — Collins.

Bullock, ALEX. HAMILTON, LL.D. (H. U. 1866), gov. of Ms. 1866–9, b. Royalston, Ms., March 2, 1816. Amh. Coll. 1836. Adm. to the bar, 1841; member Ms. legisl. 1845, '7, '8, '61-2; mayor of Worcester, 1859; State senator, 1849; com. of insolvency, 1853; judge of insolv. 1856–8. He has pub. several addresses and speeches.

Bullock, ARCHIBALD, Revol. patriot of Ga., b. Charleston, S.C.; d. Feb. 1777. He was a delegate from Ga. to the Congress at Phila. in 1775, and June 20, 1776, was chosen pres. of the Exec. Council of Ga., the first position in the State, which post he filled until the formation of the State Constitution, Feb. 5, 1777. His son WILLIAM B., lawyer, mayor of Savannah in 1809, and U.S. senator in 1813, d. Sav. 6 Mar. 1852, a. 76.

Bullock, WILLIAM, pub. "Virginia Impartially Examined," Lond., 1649.

Bumstead, FREEMAN JOSIAH, M.D. (1851), physician and author, b. Boston, Apr. 21, 1826. Wms. Coll. 1847. He studied at Paris in 1852, and then settled in practice in New-York City. He was some years surgeon to St. Luke's Hospital, and is now (1870) surgeon to the Eye and Ear Infirmary, and to the Charity Hospital, Blackwell's Island. During the session of 1866–7, he was lecturer on materia medica at the Coll. of Physicians and Surgeons, N.Y., and is now prof. of venereal diseases there. He pub. a translation of Ricord's Notes to Hunter on Venereal, 1854; "Pathology and Treatment of Venereal Diseases," 1861, and a translation of Cullerier's Iconographie des Maladies Ven., 1867.

Bunch, SAMUEL, col., b. 1786; d. Granger

Digitized by Google

Co., Tenn., Sept. 5, 1849. He com. a regt. of Tenn. mounted gunmen, in 1813, under Jackson, and was disting. in the attack on the Creek Indians at Hillibeetown, Nov. 18, 1813; M.C. 1833–7.

Buncombe, Col. Richard, Revol. officer, b. St. Kitts, W.I.; d. Phila., 1777, from wounds at the battle of Brandywine. Educated in Eng., he inherited a large estate; removed in 1776 to Tyrrell Co., N.C.; was an active patriot, and raised and com. the 5th N. C. regt. A county of N. C. perpetuates his name.

Burbank, Sidney, brev. brig.-gen. U.S. A., son of Lieut.-Col. Sullivan, b. Ms. West Point, 1829. Entering the 1st Inf., he served in the Black Hawk and Seminole Indian wars; capt. 8 Nov. 1839; maj. 2d Inf., 8 Dec. 1855; lieut.-col. 13th Inf., 14 May, 1861; col. 2d Inf., 16 Sept. 1862; com. brigade of regulars in the Rappahannock campaign, and in battles of Chancellorsville and Gettysburg, for which he was brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A. 13 Mar. 1865. — Cullum.

Burbeck, Gen. Henry, Revol. officer, b. Boston, June 8, 1754; d. New London, Oct. 2, 1848. His father was an officer at Castle William. In 1776, he was made a lieut.; capt. of art. Sept. 12, 1777, and continued in active service until the close of the war, when he received the brev. of major. He participated in the battles of Brandywine and Germantown, as well as in the terrible privations and sufferings of Valley Forge; shared the perils of the memorable retreat through N. J., and was present at the battle of Monmouth. In 1786, he again entered the service with the rank of capt., and was actively engaged for several years in the Indian war on our western border, under Gen. Wayne. Maj. com. art. Nov. 4, 1791; lieut.-col. May 7, 1798; col. art. Apr. 1, 1802; and brev. brig.-gen. Sept. 10, 1813; retired 1815. — Geneal. Reg. iii., 101.

Burden, Henry, inventor, b. Dumblane, Scotland, 20 Apr. 1791; d. Troy, N.Y., 19 Jan. 1871. Brought up on his father's farm, his inventive faculty was first tested on a threshing-machine. After a thorough course of scientific study at Edinburgh, he came, in 1819, to the U. S.; made an improved plough; in 1820 invented the first cultivator used in America; patented a machine for making wrought-iron spikes in 1825, and in 1835 a machine for making horse-shoes. In 1843, he patented his hook-headed spike, now used upon every railroad. In 1822, he became agent of the Troy Iron and Nail Factory. These works he greatly enlarged, and was finally sole proprietor. He was much interested in ocean navigation.

Burges, Tristam, LL.D., orator and jurist, b. Rochester, Ms., Feb. 26, 1770; d. Providence, R.I., Oct. 13, 1853. B. U. 1796. Like his father, he was both a farmer and a cooper, and, though his early education was limited, he sought knowledge with avidity. He taught school in Providence; was in 1799 admitted to the R.I. bar; rose to the head of the profession, and became a leader of the Federal party; in 1811 entered the State legisl.; became chief-justice of the Supreme Court of R.I. in 1815, and was soon after app. prof. of oratory and belles lettres in B. U., retiring in 1825. M. C. 1825–35. His speeches, and his famous passage-at-arms with John Randolph, showed that he was able to contend successfully with the ablest debaters in Congress. His style was ornate and peculiar, rich in classical and scriptural illustration. He was an acute logician, and unequalled in sarcasm. A Memoir, with selections from his speeches and occasional writings, by Henry L. Bowen, was pub. in 1835, and another in 1869. He pub. "Battle of Lake Erie, with Notices of Com. Elliot's Conduct," 1839

Burgess, Ebenezer, D.D., Cong. clergyman, b. Wareham, Ms., 1 Apr. 1790; d. Dedham, Ms., 5 Dec., 1870. B.U. 1809. He was tutor at B.U., and afterwards a prof. in Vt. U. One of the founders of the colony of Liberia in 1817. Studied theology at Andover and Princeton, and was ord. pastor at Dedham in Mar. 1821. Author of "The Dedham Pulpit," 1846, and "The Burgess Genealogy," 1865.

Burgess, George, D.D., Prot.-Ep. bishop of Me., b. Providence, R. I., Oct. 31, 1809; d. on the passage home from the West Indies, Apr. 23, 1866. B. U. 1826. Son of Judge Thomas Burgess. He was a tutor in B. U., afterwards travelled in Europe, and studied two years in the Universities of Göttingen, Bonn, and Berlin. He was rector of Christ Church, Hartford, from 1834 to 1847, when he was consec. bishop of Maine (Oct. 31), and became at the same time rector of Christ Church, Gardiner. His death was very sudden. He had been establishing an Episcopal mission in Hayti, and was on his way from Migroam to Port Au Prince, when he was seized with paralysis, and died instantly. He pub. two academic poems, a metrical version of some of the Psalms, 1840, "Pages from the Ecclesiastical History of New England," a curious treatise on death, entitled "The Last Enemy, Conquering and Conquered," 1851, a vol. of "Sermons on the Christian Life," and a discourse in 1854 before the Me. Hist. Society. His style is remarkable for its vigor. In the house of bishops, he occupied a prominent position as the leader of the moderate church party. — See Memoir, by his bro., Rev. Alex. Burgess.

Burgoyne, John, gen. and dramatist, b. Feb. 5, 1723; d. Lond., 4 Aug. 1792. Son of John and grandson of Sir John Burgoyne, he was liberally educated; entered the army, and m. clandestinely a dau. of the Earl of Derby, who subsequently helped him to rise in his profession. Brig.-gen. of the force sent for the defence of Portugal in 1762, and at Alcantara and at Villa Franca manifested skill and enterprise. May 25, 1775, he arrived at Boston, and, June 25, wrote a graphic account of the battle of Bunker's Hill to Lord Stanley, which was pub. in the newspapers of the day. Gen. Lee, his old comrade in Portugal, having opened a corresp. with him, vindicating the Americans, Burgoyne replied, and proposed an interview, which, however, did not take place. He returned home 11 Dec. 1776, concerted with the ministry a plan for the campaign of 1777, and was made a lieut.-gen. A large force was to proceed toward Albany from Canada by way of the Lakes; while another large body advanced up the Hudson in order to cut off communication between the northern and southern Colonies, in the expectation, that each being left to itself would be subdued with little trouble. Arriving in Canada early in 1777, he issued a proclamation in June, inviting the Indians to his standard, and captured Ticonderoga, with all its artillery and stores, July 6; but the natural difficulties of the country, the inclemency of the weather, and the scarcity of provisions, retarded his advance, and enabled the Americans, under Gen. Gates, to concentrate a superior force in his front. A battle was fought at Stillwater, 19 Sept., and another at Freeman's Farm, 7 Oct.; and 16 Oct. 1777, he was compelled to capitulate at Saratoga with his whole army. Returning to Eng. in May, 1778, he in vain solicited a court-martial, but ably vindicated himself in parliament, and, joining the opposition, was in 1779 dismissed the service. On the change of ministry in 1782, he was restored to his rank, and app. com.-in-chief in Ireland. In 1780, he pub. a narrative of his exped. and the proceedings at his trial before a committee of parliament. As a dramatist, he is best known by his comedy of "The Heiress," and "The Lord of the Manor," a comic opera. His plays and poems were coll. and pub. in two vols., 1808. Burgoyne's "Orderly Book," edited by E. B. O'Callaghan, was pub. by Munsell, Albany, 1860.

Digitized by Google

Burke, Ædanus, jurist, b. Galway, Ireland, 1743; d. Charleston, S.C., Mar. 30, 1802. Educated at St. Omer's for a priest, he visited the West Indies, came thence to S. C., and was a vol. in the struggle for independence. A lawyer by profession, he was in 1778 app. a judge of the State Supreme Court; served again in the army in 1780–82; resumed his seat on the bench; M.C. 1789–91; was many years in the State legisl., and a short time before his death became chancellor of S.C. He zealously opposed the establishment of the Society of the Cincinnati; against the aristocratic features of which he wrote a famous pamphlet, subsequently translated by Mirabeau, and used by him with great effect during the French Revol. He opposed the Federal Constitution, fearing consolidated power. Judge Burke was eminent for wit and eccentricity.

Burke, Edmund, statesman and orator, b. Dublin, 1 Jan. 1730; d. 9 July, 1797. The son of a prominent Dublin attorney. He grad. at Trinity Coll. 1748; studied law; pub. in 1756 his "Vindication of Natural Society," and the essay on "The Sublime and Beautiful;" in 1757, "An Account of the European Settlements in America," and, in 1758–9, established with Dodsley The Annual Register. In 1761–5, he was the friend and adviser of Wm. Gerard Hamilton, sec. to the lord-lieut. of Ireland, and in 1765–6 was sec. to the prime-minister, Rockingham, and entered parliament 14 Jan. 1766. He took an active part in the discussion of American questions, and proved himself an able and eloquent speaker. His thorough acquaintance with American affairs was rewarded, in Nov. 1771, by the app. of agent for the Colony of N.Y. April 19, 1774, he made a speech on American taxation, considered by many as the greatest effort of oratory ever heard in the House of Commons. His speech of Mar. 22, 1775, recommending conciliatory measures towards the Colonies, also excited general admiration. Returned from Bristol in 1774, he lost popularity in that city in 1780, by advocating the claims of the Roman Catholics, and opposing the policy of repressing the trade of Ireland, and was afterward the representative of Malton. During Rockingham's brief administration in 1782, Burke was a privy councillor and paymaster of the forces, a place he also held under the "Coalition" ministry in 1783. He took a prominent part in the affairs of India, and, in Jan. 1786, began the prosecution of Warren Hastings. His speech on the opening of Hastings's trial, 10 Feb. 1788, was worthy of the occasion and of his great reputation. Though the impeachment of Hastings was not carried, the herculean labors of Burke in behalf of India were not fruitless. In Nov. 1790, he pub. his great work in opposition to the French Revolution, entitled "Reflections on the Revolution in France." May 6, 1791, an open rupture took place between Burke and Fox, who accused him of abandoning the principles of his party. Burke vindicated himself in his "Appeal from the New to the Old Whigs." In 1796, he wrote his "Letter to a Noble Lord," one of the most successful and popular of all the productions of his pen. As a statesman, a thinker, or an orator, he was without an equal. — See Lives of Burke, by Prior, Bisset, McCormick, Croly, and P. Burke.

Burke, Edmund, lawyer, b. Westminster, Vt., Jan. 23, 1809; admitted to the bar in 1829; removed to N. H. in 1833, and established, and for many years edited, in Sullivan Co., the N. H. Argus. M.C. 1839–45; U. S. comr. of patents, 1845–50. He pub. a pamphlet, "The Protective System Considered," 1846.

Burke, John Daly, historian, b. Ireland; killed in a duel with Felix Coquebert in consequence of a political dispute, April 11, 1808. Trin. Coll., Dublin. He emigrated to America in 1796, conducted a daily paper for a short time at Boston (1796–7), and afterwards at N.Y., where he was arrested under the sedition law. He afterwards removed to Petersburg, Va., where he practised law, and wrote his history. He was made the master of ceremonies at the Boston Theatre; pub. "Bunker's Hill," a tragedy; "Bethlem Gabor," an historical drama, 1803; an oration delivered March 4, 1808; "History of the Late War in Ireland," Phila., 8vo, 1799; and a history of Virginia from its first settlement to 1804, in 3 vols., of which an additional vol. was pub. in 1816, the joint production of Messrs. Jones and Girardin. A Memoir of Burke, by C. Campbell, was pub. 1868.

Burke, Thomas, Revol. patriot, and gov. of N.C., b. Ireland, ab. 1747; d. Hillsborough, Dec. 2, 1783. Son of Ulick Burke of Galway. He left Ireland ab. 1764, and resided some years in Accomac Co., Va., engaged in the study and practice of medicine. He next studied law, and removed to Norfolk, and in 1774 to Hillsborough, N.C. Of a bold and impetuous temper, a ready writer and speaker, he became one of the leading spirits in the Revol. contest. His writings in opposition to the Stamp Act drew him into notice; and he had a large share in the formation of the constitution of N.C. Member of the Prov. Congress at Halifax in 1776, and a volunteer at the battle of Brandywine. He was an efficient and active member of Congress from Dec. 1776, until his election as gov. in the early part of 1781. In Sept. of that year, he was surprised and seized by the Tories, and retained at James Island, S.C., as a prisoner on parole. Obnoxious to the Tories from his previous course, he was in daily apprehension of assassination, to escape which, after having endeavored unsuccessfully to obtain an exchange, or a parole to some other State, he effected his escape in the night of Jan. 16, 1782, after an imprisonment of 4 months. Regularly exchanged soon after, he was at liberty to return home, and resumed his govt.; but, at the next ensuing session of the legisl., he voluntarily retired from public life.

Digitized by Google

Burke, CAPT. WILLIAM, of Boston, app., in Nov. 1775, to com. one of the first 4 vessels of the American navy; d. Western Ms., May 24, 1787, a. 40.

Burleigh, WILLIAM HENRY, poet, b. Woodstock, Ct., Feb. 2, 1812; d. Brooklyn, N.Y., 18 Mar. 1871. Rinaldo, his father, a popular and successful teacher (Y. Coll. 1803), died Plainfield, Ct., 10 Feb. 1863, a. 89. Bred on a farm, at 16 he became apprentice to a clothier, then to a village printer, afterwards labored in various places as a journeyman printer, and finally as editor. He had charge of the Literary Journal at Schenectady, the Christian Witness at Pittsburg, the Charter Oak at Hartford, and the Washington Banner, in which papers, and in others, he produced many short poems, a coll. of which was pub. in 1840. Mr. Burleigh also took an active part in various religious and social movements, and was well known as a lecturer upon anti-slavery. Celia M. Burleigh, his widow, is known as a graceful writer and an eloquent lecturer. His mother was descended from Gov. Bradford. Charles C., George S., and Lucien Burleigh, all disting. as writers or speakers, are his brothers.

Burlingame, ANSON, LL.D., statesman and diplomatist, b. New Berlin, Chenango Co., N.Y., Nov. 14, 1822; d. St. Petersburg, Feb. 23, 1870. H. U. 1846. His youth was spent on the Western frontiers, surveying and participating in the making of Indian treaties far beyond the confines of civilization. He laid the foundation of his education at the Branch U. of Michigan. Studied law, and practised in Boston; was a member of the State senate in 1852; a member of the convention for revising the State constitution in 1853; M.C. from Boston, 1856–61; minister to Austria, 1861, and subsequently to China, 1861–7. From 1867 until his death, he was in the employ of the Chinese Govt., negotiating treaties with foreign powers. He was an eloquent and effective political speaker.

Burnaby, ANDREW, an English divine, b. 1732 at Astordby, Leceistershire; d. Mar. 9, 1812. Educated at Westmin. and Camb. (M. A. 1757) and in 1776 pub. "Travels through the Middle Settlements of North America, in 1759–60." In 1786, he was preferred to the archdeaconry of Leicester. He also wrote a vol. of sermons, and a journal of a tour to Corsica in 1766, 8vo.

Burnap, GEORGE W., D.D. (1849), Unitarian clergyman and author, b. Merrimack, N.H., Nov. 30, 1802; d. Phila., Sept. 8, 1859. H.U. 1824. Son of Rev. Jacob Burnap, ord. pastor in Baltimore, Apr. 23, 1828. Forcible and impressive in the pulpit, he was characterized also by his sturdy integrity and independent frankness. Among his pubs. are "Lectures to Young Men," 1840; "On the History of Christianity," 1842; "On the Sphere and Duty of Woman," 1840; "Life of Leonard Calvert" in "Sparks's Am. Biog.," 1844; "Popular Objections to Unitarian Christianity considered and answered," 1848; "Expository Lectures on the Bible," 1845; "Lectures on the Doctrines of Controversy between Unitarians and Other Denominations of Christians," 1835; a vol. of "Miscellanies," and a "Biography of Henry A. Ingalls," 1845; in 1850, 20 discourses "On the Rectitude of Human Nature," and, in 1855, "Christianity, its Essence and Evidence," the most compendious statement of the biblical theology of the author's school of Unitarianism; and occasional addresses and discourses.

Burnet, JACOB, LL.D., jurist, son of Dr. W. B., b. Newark, N.J., Feb. 22, 1770; d. Cincinnati, April 27, 1853. N. J. Coll. 1791. He studied law in the office of Judge Boudinot, and was adm. to the bar in 1796. He then removed to Cincinnati, where he became disting. In 1799, he was app. to the legisl. council of the territory, continuing until the formation of a State govt. In 1812, he was a member of the State legisl., was a judge of the Supreme Court of Ohio in 1821–8, and in 1828–31, U.S. senator. He was soon after chosen by the legisl. of Ky. a commis. to adjust some territorial disputes with Va.; took a leading part in the establishment of the Lancastrian Acad. of Cin., and of the Cin. Coll., of which he was the first pres.; was active in re-organizing the Med. Coll. of Ohio, over which he several years presided. A delegate to the Harrisburg convention in 1839, he was mainly instrumental in securing the nomination of Harrison to the Presidency. He was the first pres. of the Colonization Soc. of Cin., also of the Astron. Society, and at the instance of Lafayette, the friend of his father and of his bro. Maj. Burnet, was elected a member of the French Acad. of Sciences. His efforts in 1821 to alleviate the distress felt by the purchasers of Western lands, on account of indebtedness to govt. which they were wholly unable to pay, resulted in an act of Congress granting relief to the entire West, raising them from a state of depression, which, had it been continued, must have produced distressing results. In 1847, he pub. a vol., entitled "Notes on the Early Settlement of the Northern Territory." — Lanman.

Burnett, DAVID G., b. Newark, N.J., April 4, 1789; d. Galveston, Texas, Dec. 5, 1870. He entered a counting-house in N.Y.; joined Gen. Miranda's exped. in 1806; in 1817, became a merchant in Natchitoches, La., afterward studied law in Cincinnati; emig. to Texas in 1826; was a member of the San Felipe Convention in 1833; app. judge of the municipality of Austin in 1834, and, when Santa Ana assumed dictatorial powers in 1836, became pres. ad interim of the incipient republic. He was afterward chosen vice-pres., and lived in retirement, near the battle-field of San Jacinto. Chosen U. S. senator from Texas after the Rebellion, Congress refused to admit him.

Digitized by Google

Burnett, WALDO IRVING, M.D. (1849), naturalist and microscopist, b. Southborough, Ms., July 12, 1828; d. Boston, July 1, 1854. He early began the study of entomology; studied medicine under his father, who was a physician; and visited Europe. During the last 5 years of his life, and while suffering from consumption, he accomplished a great share of intellectual labor, the results of which may be found in various scientific periodicals. His principal work was the Prize Essay on "The Cell, its Physiology, Pathology, and Philosophy." He was last engaged in translating from the German the "Comparative Anatomy of Siebold and Stannius."

Burnet, WILLIAM, a colonial gov., b. at the Hague, Mar. 1688; d. Boston, Sept. 7, 1729. Son of Bishop Burnett, he had for a godfather William of Orange. Involved pecuniarily by the "South Sea" speculation, he accepted the govts. of N. Y. and N. J. to retrieve his fortunes. He had previously been a comptroller of the customs. Arriving in N. Y. 19 Sept. 1720, his administration was popular until the passage of an act prohibiting the sale to the French of goods proper to the Indian trade. Some of his decrees as chancellor also gave dissatisfaction; and, on the accession of George II., he was transferred to the govts. of Ms. and N.H. He arrived in Boston in July, 1728, and at once became unpopular by insisting upon a fixed salary. He was majestic in stature, frank in manner, possessed a ready wit, and shone in conversation. He pub. astron. observations in the Trans. of the Roy. Soc., and in 1724 an essay on Scripture prophecies.

Burnet, WILLIAM, physician and patriot, b. Elizabeth, N.J., Dec. 13, 1730; d. Newark, N.J., Oct. 7, 1791. N.J. Coll. 1749. He held at different times various offices in the State govt.; was a member of Congress in 1780–81, and was chief physician and surgeon in an important section of the army during the Revol. war. He suffered much in property by the depredations of the enemy, who carried off his large and valuable library. He was a skilful and successful physician of extensive practice. Judge Jacob B. of Cincinnati was his son. — Alden.

Burnham, HIRAM, brig.-gen. vols., b. Me.; killed at Chaffin's Farm, Sept. 29, 1864. He entered the service as col. 6th Me. regt., behaved gallantly through the peninsular campaign, at Antietam, Fredericksburg, and Gettysburg; brig.-gen. April, 1864. Conspicuous in all the campaign from the Wilderness to Petersburg. He com. a brigade in Stannard's div. 18th corps.

Burns, WILLIAM W. brev. brig.-gen. U. S. A., b. O., ab. 1827. West Point, 1847. Entering the 5th Inf., he became 1st lieut. Aug 12, 1850, and in Jan. 1859, relinquished rank in the line, being made a capt. in the subsistence dept. Maj. and com. subsistence, 3 Aug. 1861; brig.-gen. vols. Sept. 28, 1861; served in the Army of the Potomac; was wounded in one of the battles before Richmond, and Nov. 2, 1862, took com. of a div. in the army corps of Gen. Wilcox; participated in the battle of Fredericksburg; maj.-gen. vols. 29 Mar. 1862; resigned March 20, 1863; brev. lieut.-col. U.S.A. 29 June, 1862, for Savage Station; brev. col. 30 June, 1862, for Glendale, and brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A. 13 Mar. 1865, for merit. services in the Rebellion. — Cullum.

Burnside, AMBROSE EVERETT, maj.-gen. vols., b. Liberty, Ind., May 23, 1824. West Point, 1847. His grandparents came from Scotland near the close of the last century, and settled in S.C. Entering the 3d Art., he marched in Patterson's column to the city of Mexico, and was in 1849 ordered to New Mex., where, in charge of a squadron of cavalry, he highly disting. himself in a conflict with the Apaches. In 1850–51, he was quartermaster to the Mexican boundary commission. Dec. 1851, became 1st lieut. He went to R.I.; resigned in 1853, and built an establishment for the manuf. of his breech-loading rifle, which he invented when on duty in Mex. This proving unprofitable, he removed to Chicago, and became cashier in the land office of the Ill. Central Railroad. He soon became treasurer, and transferred his office to N.Y. City, where he resided in 1861. Col. 1st R.I. Vols. At the battle of Bull Run, July 21, he com. a brigade in Hamilton's div., and was highly commended by Gen. McDowell for bravery and coolness. Made brig.-gen. vols., Aug. 6, 1861, he assisted Gen. McClellan in organizing the army. Intrusted with an exped. for the capture of Roanoke Island, he left Hampton Roads in Jan. 1862, with 10,000 men, convoyed by a fleet under Flag-officer Goldsborough. Feb. 8, the island was taken by a combined attack; 2,000 of the enemy being captured. For this victory, the legisl. of R.I. voted him a sword; and Mar. 18, he was made maj.-gen. of vols. Mar. 14, he captured Newbern, and Beaufort and Fort Macon soon afterward. On McClellan's retreat to the James River, July, 1862, Burnside was ordered to re-enforce him with the greater part of his army. Occupying Fredericksburg, the defeat of Gen. Pope compelled him to fall back toward Washington. When the Confederates invaded Md., his com. was largely increased, and, with Gen. McClellan, he pushed forward to meet them, defeating them at South Mountain, Sept. 14. At the battle of Antietam, Sept. 17, he com. the left wing, and was highly disting. Assigned to the 9th army corps, he occupied Leuttsville, Va, Oct. 26. Ab. the same time, he was placed in com. of one of the 3 grand armies into which the Army of the Potomac was divided. Nov. 7, he superseded McClellan in com. of the Army of the Potomac, and Dec. 13, was defeated by the Confederates under Lee at Fredericksburg. Relieved of the com., Jan. 28, 1863, assumed com. of the dept. of the Ohio, Apr. 26; repulsed Longstreet's attack on Knoxville, Nov

Digitized by Google

28, 1863, and took com. of the 9th corps in the following Apr., participating in the campaigns around Richmond and Petersburg until Lee's surrender. Gov. of R. I., 1866–71.

Burnyeat, JOHN, one of the earliest preachers of the Society of Friends, b. Crabtreebeck, Cumberland, 1631; d. Dublin, July 11, 1690. He travelled in Eng. and Ireland, and in 1672 came with George Fox to Amer. His "Memorials" describe the condition of Md., and the other Colonies through which he passed from N. Eng. to N.C. He was a zealous advocate of his creed, and suffered much persecution.

Burr, AARON, pres. of N.J. Coll., b. Fairfield, Ct., Jan. 4, 1716; d. Sept. 24, 1757. Y.C. 1735. Of German extraction. He was a descendant of John, an early settler of Springfield, Ms., and of Rev. Jonathan, minister of Dorchester, who d. Aug. 9, 1641. Ord. by the Presbytery of East Jersey, Oct. 25, 1737. In 1738, he was invited to take charge of the Presb. church at Newark, N.J. Unanimously elected in 1748 to the pres. of the coll. which he was instrumental in founding. In 1754, he accomp. Mr. Whitefield to Boston. Mr. Burr. pub. "The Supreme Deity of our Lord Jesus Christ Maintained;" also a Fast-day sermon, Jan. 1, 1755; "The Watchman's Answer to the Question, What of the Night?" a sermon, 1756, and a funeral sermon on Gov. Belcher, 1757. He prepared a Latin grammar, pub. in N.Y. in 1752, used in the college of N.J., and known as "The Newark Grammar." The eulogium on his death, by William Livingston, celebrates his virtues with animated panegyric. He was pre-eminent in force and elegance of mind, in learning, eloquence, and excellence as a preacher. In 1752, he m. a dau. of Jonathan Edwards.

Burr, AARON, vice-pres. of the U.S., b. Newark, N.J., Feb. 6, 1756; d. Staten Island, Sept. 14, 1836. N.J. Coll. 1772. Son of Pres. Burr, and grandson of Pres. Edwards. In 1775, he joined the army at Cambridge; accomp. Arnold as a private in his exped. against Quebec; acted as aide to Gen. Montgomery in the assault on that stronghold, endeavoring to bring off his body when he fell at his side; acted as brigade-major to Arnold, and on his return, in May, 1776, joined the military family of Washington with the rank of maj. Dissatisfied with this position, he quitted it in 6 weeks to become an aide to Gen. Putnam, participating in the defence of N.Y. In July, 1777, he became a lieut.-col. in Malcom's regt., and was disting. at Monmouth, where he com. a brigade in Stirling's division. During the winter of 1778–9, he was stationed in Westchester Co., N.Y., and com. for a short time at West Point, but resigned from ill health, Mar. 10, 1779. Burr belonged to the Lee and Gates faction, and always affected to despise the military talents of Washington. He began to practise law at Albany in Apr. 1782, but removed to N.Y. in 1783. He was a member of the N.Y. legisl. in 1784 and 1798; was app. atty.-gen. of the State, Sept. 27, 1789; commissioner on Revol. claims in 1791, and from 1791 to 1797 was a conspicuous Democ. leader in the U. S. senate. At the next presidential election, Jefferson and Burr had each 73 votes, and the choice was decided by Congress, on the 36th ballot, in favor of Jefferson for pres. and Burr. for vice-pres. July 12, 1804, he mortally wounded in a duel Alexander Hamilton, long his professional rival and political opponent. He soon after undertook his mad enterprise in the western territories of the U. S., for which he was apprehended and tried at Richmond, on a charge of treason, in Aug. 1807, and, after a long trial, acquitted. To escape further legal requisition, and to avoid numerous creditors, he went to London in 1808, and lived some years in extreme poverty there and in Paris, endeavoring, unsuccessfully, to procure means to carry out his Mexican project. It was supposed that he intended establishing an empire in Mexico, which should embrace some of the South-western States of the Union. He returned to N.Y. in 1812, and practised law, but lived in obscurity and poverty. By his first wife, the widow of Gen. Augustine Prevost, he had a dau., who m. Mr. Allston of S. C. At the age of 78, he m. his second wife, a Mrs. Jumel. Burr was small in stature, had a remarkably brilliant eye, and a striking appearance. He possessed disting. talents, but manifested a lamentable want of principle both in public and private life. He was charitable, and benevolent to the poor. A memoir of his life and times was pub. by James Parton, N.Y., 1857. Another, by M. L. Davis, 2 vols., 1836–7.

Burrall, JONATHAN, a Revol. officer, b. 1753; d. Goshen, N.Y., Nov. 18, 1834. In 1776, he joined the northern army under Schuyler. His talents soon procured him the app. of assist. paym., and, at the close of the war, a place in the commission for settling the accounts of the commissary and quarterm. depts. He was afterward assist. postmaster.-gen.; cashier of the U. S. Branch Bank of N.Y., and one of the managers of the N.Y. State lotteries at a time when public confidence in them had been shaken. His ability, industry, and integrity were of a high order.

Burrill, ALEXANDER M., legal writer, d. Kearney, N.J., Feb. 7, 1869, a. 62. Col. Coll. 1824, with highest honors of the class. He studied several years in the office of Chancellor Kent, and was remarkable for his scholarly precision and discrimination in the use of language. Author of "Circumstantial Evidence," "Assignments," "Practice," and a "Law Dictionary." He also aided in compiling "Worcester's Dictionary."

Burrill, JAMES, LL.D., lawyer and statesman, b. Providence, R.I., April 25, 1772; d. Washington, Dec. 25, 1820. B.U. 1788. Adm. to practise law in Sept. 1791, his superior talents soon gave him the first rank at the bar. He was atty.-gen. of R.I. from 1797 to 1813, when the decline of his health caused his retirement from the bar. Member of the legisl. in 1813, speaker in 1814, chief-justice of the Supreme Court in 1816, U.S. senator, 1817–20. He bore a disting. part in the U.S. senate, especially in the debate on the Mo. Compromise, to which he was inflexibly opposed. He was dignified in character and eminent in scholarship.

Digitized by Google

Burrington, GEORGE, gov. of N.C., 1723–4 and 1730–4: was app. because his father had been active in support of the govt. at the accession of George I. He withdrew from the Colony in 1734, to avoid prosecution, and evade justice, and was found murdered one morning in St. James's Park, Lond. — Williamson's N.C.

Burritt, ELIHU, "the learned blacksmith," reformer, b. New Britain, Ct., Dec. 8, 1811. The son of a shoemaker, he was educated at a common school, and at 16 was apprenticed to a blacksmith. Desirous of reading the Scriptures in their original languages, in the intervals of labor, by diligence and a remarkable facility, he acquired several languages. He removed to Worcester for the benefit of the library of the Antiquarian Society, and, while still plying his trade, became acquainted with the principal ancient and modern languages. In 1844, he edited at Worcester the Christian Citizen, a paper advocating a peaceful settlement of international difficulties. In this cause, he delivered many public lectures. In 1846, he went to Eng., where he formed the "League of Universal Brotherhood," whose object was "to employ all legitimate means for the abolition of war throughout the world;" and was proprietor and editor of the Peace Advocate, and pub. a periodical tract, the Bond of Brotherhood. He took a prominent part in all the European peace congresses, returning to America in 1853. The promotion of temperance, cheap ocean-postage, and the abolition of American slavery, have been objects of his exertions. He was for twenty-five years U.S. consul at Birmingham. His principal publications are, "Sparks from the Anvil," 1848, "Miscellaneous Writings," 1850, and "Thoughts and Things at Home and Abroad," Boston, 1854.

Burroughs, CHARLES, D. D., Prot.-Ep. clergyman, b. Boston, 27 Dec. 1787; d. Portsmouth, N.H., 5 Mar. 1868. H.U. 1806. Ord. priest, 1812, and rector of St. John's Church, Portsm., nearly 50 years. Nearly 30 years pres. N.H. Asylum for the Insane; of the Portsm. Athenæum nearly 40 years, and of the Gen. Theol. Library of Boston, from its origination until his death. Author of "Memoirs of Horace B. Morse," 1829, "The Poetry of Religion and other Poems," 1851.

Burroughs, GEORGE, minister of Salem; executed for witchcraft, 19 Aug. 1692. H.U. 1670. In 1676, he was settled at Falmouth (now Portland), Me.; 25 Nov. 1680, he was ord. at Salem, but, in consequence of a dispute with some of his people, resigned in 1685, and returned to Falmouth. On the destruction of this place by the Indians, in 1690, he is said to have returned to Salem. Examined for witchcraft, and imprisoned at Boston, May 8, he was brought to trial, 3 Aug., for having, by his "wicked arts, tortured, afflicted, pined, consumed, wasted, and tormented Mary Walcott, and also for having performed feats of extraordinary strength." On the strength of these charges, made by professed witches, or those who were victims of their influence, he was hung.

Burroughs, STEPHEN, adventurer, b. Hanover, N.H., 1765; d. Three Rivers, Canada, 23 Jan. 1840. Son of a Cong. clergyman, and reputed "the worst boy in town." At 14, he joined the army, but soon deserted. He left Dartm. Coll. clandestinely, became successively privateersman, ship's physician, and schoolmaster, and finally a preacher. Under the name of Davis, he was a Cong. pastor in Pelham, Ms.; was afterward imprisoned in Springfield for passing counterfeit money; set fire to his jail, and was removed to Castle Island, Boston harbor. After his release, he again connected himself with a gang of counterfeiters, in Canada, but afterward became an exemplary Catholic, and educated the sons of wealthy Canadians. He was remarkable throughout his career for charitable deeds. He pub. 2 vols. of Autobiography.

Burrows, WILLIAM, U.S.N., b. Kenderton, near Phila., Oct. 6, 1785; d. Sept. 5, 1813. Son of col. W. Ward Burrows, com. of U.S. marines; midshipm. 10 Nov. 1799, and served under Preble in the Tripolitan war; lieut. March 19, 1807; app. to the sloop-of-war "Enterprise," he sailed from Portsmouth, and on Sunday, Sept. 5, 1813, fell in with the British brig "Boxer" off Portland, and, after an action of 45 minutes, captured her, her com. Blythe being killed. Burrows was mortally wounded at the first fire. For his gallantry, Congress voted a gold medal to his nearest male relative.

Burt, WILLIAM A., surveyor, b. Worcester, Ms., 13 June, 1792; d. 18 Aug. 1858. He received a good education; was some years an engineer in Erie Co., N.Y.; settled near Detroit, Mich., in 1824; served several terms in the Terr. Council; became U.S. dep. surveyor, and in 1840–7 surveyed Northern Mich. He originated the idea of the solar compass, introduced important improvements in geol. surveying; received in 1851, from the London Industrial Exhib., a prize medal for his compass, and in 1856 patented an equatorial sextant, but d. before bringing it to perfection. He had been a judge of the Mich. Circuit Court, and member of the legisl. for several terms, and was a prime mover in the construction of the Saute Ste. Marie Canal.

Burton, ASA, D.D. (Middleb. Coll. 1804), divine, b. Preston, now Griswold, Ct., Aug. 25, 1752; d. Thetford, Vt., May 1, 1836. Dartm. Coll. 1777. Ord. at Thetford, Jan. 19, 1779, over a church of 16 members, he continued his pastorate more than half a century. He published several sermons and discourses, and "Essays on Some of the First Principles of Metaphysics, Ethics, and Theology," 8vo, 1824. A memoir has been pub. by Thomas Adams. — Sprague.

Burton, HENRY S., brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. N.Y., 1818; d. Fort Adams, R.I. April 4, 1869. West Point, 1839. He servec in the art. in the Seminole war; was an instructor at West Point in 1843–6; and, as lieut.-col. N.Y. vols., disting. himself by his defence of La Paz in Lower Cal., in Nov. 1847; maj. May 14, 1861; lieut-col. July 25, 1863; col. 5th Art. Aug. 11, 1863; brev. brig.-gen. March 13, 1865, for services at the capture of Petersburg.

Burton, HUTCHINS G., a politician of

Digitized by Google

N. C., b. Granville Co.; d. Apr. 21, 1836. After studying law, he settled in Mecklenburg, which, in 1810, he represented in the House of Commons. Atty.-gen. of the State, 1811–16; removed to Halifax Co. in 1816, again becoming a member of the House; was M. C. 1819–24, and gov. 1824–7.

Burton, NAPIER CHRISTIE, a British gen., "an American by birth;" d. Eng., Jan. 1835, a. 76. He entered the service in Aug. 1775, as ensign 22d; was made capt. Sept. 1779. During the winter of 1779–80, he served in the Jerseys; in actions of Elizabethtown and Springfield in 1780; in Aug. went to Portsmouth, Va., and thence to S. C; engaged in the affairs of the Catawba and Yadkin, in the battles of Guilford and Cross Creek, and was taken prisoner at Yorktown; lieut.-col. in 1789; served in Flanders; app. lieut.-gov. Upper Canada in 1799; lieut.-gen. Jan. 1, 1805; gen. June 4, 1814; M. P. for Beverley, 1796–1806. — Philipart.

Burton, MAJ.-GEN. RALPH; d. 1768. lieut.-col. 48th Foot, Oct. 14, 1754, and wounded at Braddock's defeat; com. the 3d brigade in the exped. against Louisburg in 1758; was wounded at the capture of Quebec; com. the reserve at the Plains of Abraham; was made lieut.-gov. of Quebec, brig.-gen. in 1760, and maj.-gen. July 10, 1762. In Gen. Murray's operations at the reduction of Montreal, he com. the 1st brigade. — O'Callaghan.

Burton, COL. ROBERT, Revol. officer, b. 1747, Mecklenburg Co., Va.; d. Granville Co., N. C., 1825. He was a planter, and moved to Granville ab. 1775. Member of the Old Congress, 1787–8. Commissioner on boundary line between N. and S. Carolina and Ga., in 1801.

Burton, WARREN, author and clergyman, b. Wilton, N. H., Nov. 13, 1800; d. Salem, Ms., June 6, 1866. H. U. 1821. His grandfather was one of the first settlers of Wilton, a soldier in the French war, and an officer of the Revol. war. He studied at the Cambridge Theol. School, was ord. 5 Mar. 1828, at East Cambridge, Ms., but, after a brief ministry, devoted himself to objects of reform, still continuing to preach occasionally. He was a minister at large in Boston, from 1844 to 1848. Chaplain of the Worcester prison in 1849, to the State senate in 1852, to the house in 1858 and 1860, and to the State convention in 1853. He labored to promote true culture, to raise the condition of schools, and especially to secure universal attention to the sphere of home education, by lectures, meetings for discussion, and through the newspaper press. His publications are, "Cheering Views of Man and Providence;" "Uncle Sam's Recommendations of Phrenology," 1842; "District School as it was;" "Helps to Education in the Homes of our Country," 1863; "Scenery Showing, or Word-Paintings of the Beautiful, Picturesque, and Grand in Nature;" "My Religious Experience at my Native Home," 1829; "Essay on the Divine Agency in the Material Universe," besides articles in annuals and periodicals.

Burton, WILLIAM EVANS, comedian and author, b. London, Sept. 1802; d. N. Y., Feb. 10, 1860. Intended for the church, he received a classical education, but, at the age of 18, took charge of his father's printing-office, and edited a monthly magazine. After acting several years on the Norwich circuit, he appeared with success at the Haymarket in 1832. He wrote several dramatic pieces, one of which, "Ellen Wareham," was played at 5 theatres in London on the same evening. He made his début at the Arch-st. Theatre, Phila., as "Dr. Ollapod," Sept. 3, 1834, appearing first in N.Y. at a complimentary benefit to Woodworth, in 1839. He was the lessee of theatres in the chief Atlantic cities, residing principally in Phila. and N.Y. In Phila., he built the "National," and started in 1837 the Gentlemen's Magazine. He was proprietor of the Opera House, N.Y., when burned in 1841. In 1847, he purchased Palmo's Opera House, in Chambers Street, where he managed dramatic performances with popular favor 10 years. In 1856, he purchased the Metropolitan Theatre on Broadway, to which his name was attached. The part of "Toodles" was one of his specialties. He was very successful as a manager and performer, and was unrivalled in a wide range of eccentric and comic parts. An excellent Shaksperian scholar, he possessed a very full Shaksperian library. He edited for several years the Literary Souvenir, and compiled in 1858 a "Cyclopædia of Wit and Humor," 2 vols. royal 8vo. He was a man of unsullied integrity and great generosity.

Bush, MAJ. GEORGE, Revol. officer of Del.; d. ab. 1794. His bro. Maj. LEWIS fell at the battle of Brandywine, Sept. 11, 1777. WILLIAM S. BUSH, lieut. of marines, nephew of George and Lewis, killed in the action between the frigates "Constitution" and "Guerriere," Aug. 19, 1812.

Bush, REV. GEORGE, an eminent Swedenborgian divine and author, b. Norwich, Vt., June 12, 1796; d. Rochester, N.Y., Sept. 19, 1859. Dartm. Coll. 1818. He studied theology at the Princeton Sem., made a brief missionary tour in Indiana, and was pastor of a Presb. church in Indianapolis, from 1824 to 1829. Elected in 1831 prof. of Hebrew and Oriental literature in the U. of N.Y., he first became known as an author by his popular "Life of Mohammed," 1832. He afterwards pub. "Scriptural Illustrations," "Treatise on the Millennium," 1833; "New Church Miscellanies," 1855; "Priesthood and Clergy unknown to Christianity," 1857; "Hebrew Grammar," 1835; in 1840 commenced a series of Bible commentaries in 7 vols.; "Anastasis," 1844, and edited the Hierophant, a monthly mag., in 1844. In his work on mesmerism, 1847, he deems it a confirmation of the truth of Swedenborg's revelations. He was a man of simple manners, genial and kind. Embracing the doctrines of Swedenborg, he became pastor of the New Jerusalem Church, N.Y., in 1845, and became editor of the New Church Repository, to develop and maintain the principles of that philosopher. He finally became a Spiritualist. A vol. of Memoirs of Bush, by W. M. Fernald, appeared in 1860.

Bushnell, DAVID, inventor, b. Saybrook, Ct., ab. 1754; d. Warrenton, Ga., 1824. Y.C. 1775. During the Revol., he turned his mind to the invention of a machine for blowing up vessels: he made one capable of conveying an operator, with 100 lbs. of powder, which was tried in vain on "The Eagle," a British 64 gun-ship lying in N.Y. harbor. An account of this machine is found in Silliman's Journal for 1820. Bushnell prepared a large number of machines in kegs to be floated by the tide upon the British vessels lying in the river at Phila., the result of which attempt occasioned the ballad of the "Battle of the Kegs," by Hopkinson. He became a capt. in the army, and after the war went to France. Returning, he was several years at the head of one of the most respectable schools of Ga., and later settled at Warrenton, as a practitioner of physic, where he was known as Dr. Bush.

Digitized by Google

Bushnell, HORACE, D.D. (Wesl. U. 1842), Cong. divine and author, b. New Preston, Ct., 1802. Y.C. 1827. At one time literary ed. of the N.Y. Journal of Commerce, then a teacher in the Norwich Acad.; tutor at Yale in 1829–31. May 1833–1857, pastor of the North Cong. Church, Hartford, Ct.; an eloquent preacher, and a disting. philos. essayist. In 1837, he delivered at N. Haven a Phi Beta Kappa oration on the "Principles of National Greatness." He also pub. "Christian Nurture," 1847; "God in Christ," 1849, and a defence of it, entitled "Christian Theology," in 1851; "Sermons for the New life," 1858; "Nature and the Supernatural," 1858; "Work and Play," 1864; "Christ and his Salvation," 1864; "The Vicarious Sacrifice," 1865, and "Woman's Suffrage, the Reform against Nature." Also a contrib. to the N. Englander and other periodicals; d. Hartford, Ct. Feb. 17, 1876.

Bushyhead, JESSE, chief-justice of the Cherokees; d. at the mission in the Cherokee nation, West, July 17, 1844. He was a self-made man, acquired great distinction among his tribe, and filled with fidelity many public trusts.

Bussey, BENJAMIN, a benefactor of H.U., b. Canton, Ms., March 1, 1757; d. Roxbury, Jan. 13, 1842. At 18, he enlisted as a soldier in the Revol. army, and was at the capture of Burgoyne. At age of 22, he m., commenced business as a silversmith in Dedham, with a capital of $10, and in 1782 removed to Boston; where, engaging in foreign commerce, he acquired a fortune. He left a widow, one grandchild, and some great grandchildren. On the death of the last survivor, the whole of this estate, estimated at $350,000, will pass to Harvard University, one half to endow a Farm School, for instruction in practical agriculture, &c., the other half to be devoted to the support of the law and divinity schools.

Bustamente (boos-tā-mān'-tā), ANASTASIO, pres. of Mexico, b. in Guadalajara, 1782; d. St. Miguel de Allende, 1851. At 21, he received the diploma of M.D., began practice in San Luis Potosi, and was family physician to Calleja, viceroy of Mexico. On the breaking-out of the revol. of 1810, he fought in behalf of the Spanish Govt.; but the cruelty of Calleja made him a patriot. When, Feb. 24, 1821, Iturbide pronounced against the Spanish Govt., Bustamente was one of the first to sustain him. Iturbide made him gen. of div., and com. of the interior provinces, which office he held till called to the vice-pres. of the republic, Dec. 31, 1829. He took part against Guerrero, and in Dec. 1830, Santa Aña having headed a Revol. called the "plan of Jalapa," he was charged with the executive power till Aug. 14, 1832. Being succeeded in the presidency by Pedraza, he took com. of the army, and was soon after overthrown by Santa Aña, who banished him. He visited France, but, on the outbreak of Texas in 1836, returned to Mexico; in 1837–41 was again pres., excepting a short interval in 1839, but was again overthrown and banished by Santa Aña. He fled to Europe, resided some time in Genoa, but, on the fall of Santa Aña in 1845, again returned to Mexico, and served his country in many offices till his death. Under his administration, the republic prospered.

Bustamente, DON CARLOS MARIA DE, Mexican archæologist, b. Mexico, ab. 1790. Author of "Statistical Memoir on the Oaxaca Country," 1821; "Tezcoco in the Last Days of its Ancient Kings," 1826; "Descripcion Hist. y Cronol. de las dos Piedras," &c., 1832. Editor of a "Complete History of Events in New Spain," 1839, 3 vols., by the Monk Sahagan, and the Mexican translation of "The Conquests of Fernando Cortes," 1826.

Butler, ANDREW PICKENS, U.S. senator from 1846 to his d., Edgefield dist., S.C., 25 May, 1857; b. there 18 Nov. 1796. S.C. Coll. 1817. Son of Gen. Wm., a gallant Revol. soldier of Va. Adm. to the bar in 1818, and soon attained high rank; became also an able debater in the State legisl.; judge of the sessions, 1833, and of the State Court in 1835-46; chairman of the senate judiciary com., he made an elaborate speech on reporting the fugitive slave law, and was conspicuous on the Kansas and other important questions; his last speech being a reply to Mr. Sumner, and a defence of S.C.

Butler, BENJAMIN F., a politician and lawyer of N.Y., b. Kinderhook, Dec. 15, 1795; d. Paris, France, Nov. 8, 1858. He was a lineal descendant of Oliver Cromwell on his mother's side. He studied law with Martin Van Buren, and, on his adm. to the bar in 1817, became his partner, and was dist.-atty. of Albany in 1821–5. He served in the State assembly, and, with John Duer and J. C. Spencer, revised the statutes of N.Y. He was U.S. atty.-gen. under Jackson (1831–4), also acting sec. of war from Oct. 1836 to March, 1837; U.S. dist.-atty. for the southern dist. of N.Y. 1838–41. He left the Democ. party on account of the Nebraska bill, joined the Repubs., and voted for Fremont. Resuming his profession, he also performed the duties of principal prof. of law in the U. of N.Y., which institution he was instrumental in establishing. — See Life and Opinions of, by W. L. Mackenzie.

Butler, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, lawyer and politician, b. Deerfield, N.H., Nov. 5, 1818. Waterville Coll., Me., 1838. Zephaniah, his grandfather, was a Revol. officer. He studied law at Lowell, Ms.; was adm. to the bar in 1841, and practised law in Ms. until April, 1861, with high reputation, especially in criminal cases. He became identified with the Democ. party, was active in politics; was a member of the Mass. legisl. in 1853, and of the State senate in 1859–60, of the Const. Conv. of 1853, and in 1860 was a delegate to the Democ. pres. convention at Charleston, and afterward at Baltimore, in which he supported the nomination of Breckinridge. As brig.-gen. of Ms. militia, April 17, 1861, he marched with the Ms. 8th regt. to Annapolis, brought out the frigate "Constitution," and was placed in com. of the dept. of Annapolis, including the city of Baltimore; made maj.-gen. of vols. May 16, and transferred to the com. of Fortress Monroe, and the dept. of Eastern Va. To some slaves who came to the fort for protection, Butler applied the famous phrase "contraband of war." Aug. 22, he proceeded with an exped. against Forts Hatteras and Clark on the coast of N.C., which fell on the 29th. He then organized an exped. for the capture of New Orleans; left Boston, Feb. 20, 1862, and on the surrender of Fort St. Philip and Fort Jackson to Flag-officer Farragut, May 1, took possession of the city, and by a vigorous administration reduced it to order and security. He was removed in Nov. 1862. In the latter part of 1863, he obtained com. of the dept. of Va. and N.C. He operated on the south side of the James River against Richmond, intrenching himself at City Point and Bermuda Hundred, 5 May, 1864. He was attacked on the 16th near Drury's Bluff, and forced back to his intrenchments, so that he could not take the offensive. He com. the land force in the unsuccessful exped. against Fort Fisher in Dec. 1864. M.C. 1866–71; one of the managers of the impeachment of Pres. Johnson, 1868. — See Parton's Butler in New Orleans; Greeley's Amer. Conflict.

Digitized by Google

Butler, Caleb, b. Pelham, N.H., Sept. 13, 1776; d. Groton, Ms., Oct. 7, 1854. Dartm. Coll. 1800. Studied law in Groton, and was the principal instructor of the Groton Acad. for 11 years. He pub. a Masonic oration, 1816; "Facts, &c., as to Affairs in Groton," 1827; "Review reviewed," 1850, "History of Groton," 1848.

Butler, Ezra, statesman, d. Waterbury, Vt., July 19, 1838, a. 76. In Sept. 1786, he came from Weathersfield, Vt., and settled in Waterbury. He was of the Jeffersonian school in politics; was 11 years a member of the assembly; 15 years of the council; first judge of Chittenden Co. Court, 1803–6; chief-justice, 1806–11; ch.-jus. of Jefferson Co., 1814–26; M.C. 1813–15; member of the Vt. Const. Conv. 1822; gov. of Vt. 1826–8. He was 53 years in the public service, beside the town offices he held at home. — Deming's Vt. Officers.

Butler, Col. John, a Tory leader of the Revol., b. Ct.; d. Niagara, 1794. Before the war, he was in official connection with the Johnsons, and com. a militia regt. in Tryon Co., N.Y. In 1776, he organized a band of marauders, who dressed and painted like Indians, but who were chiefly American traitors and vagabonds in disguise. He was active in the predatory warfare which so long disturbed Tryon Co.; was at the battle of Oriskany in Aug. 1777; com. the 1,100 men who desolated Wyoming in July, 1778; was among those who opposed Sullivan's exped. to the Indian country in 1779, and accomp. Sir John Johnson's raid on the Schoharie and Mohawk settlements in 1780. After the war, he went to Canada, and was richly rewarded by the British Govt., succeeding, in part, to the agency of Indian affairs, long held by the Johnsons; and, ab. 1794, had a salary of £500 per annum, and a military pension of £200 more. His son Walter, a major in the British service, killed in battle in 1781, was a man of ferocious and brutal character.

Butler, Mann, author of a "History of Kentucky;" d. in Nov. 1835, in consequence of a railroad accident in Mo. He emig. to Ky. in 1806, and pub. his history at Louisville in 1834.

Butler, Gen. Percival, 4th of the Butler bros., b. Pa., 1760; d. Port William, Ky., Sept. 11, 1821. The bros. Richard, William, Thomas, Percival, and Edward, all served with dist. in the Revol., and the succeeding Indian wars. Capt. in the Revol. army. He was Morgan's second in com. at Saratoga, and com. in the conflict with Col. Simcoe at Spencer's Ordinary, June 25, 1781, and served at the siege of Yorktown. After the war, he removed to Jessamine Co., Ky., and was adjutant-gen. in the War of 1812.

Butler, Pierce, senator, b. Ireland, 1744; d. Phila., Feb. 15, 1822. He was of the family of the Dukes of Ormond; was made a lieut. 46th regt. Aug. 18, 1761; capt. 29th in July, 1762; major in April, 1766, and was stationed in Boston, but resigned before the Revol., and settled in S.C. He was a member of the Old Congress in 1787 from S.C.; in 1788 of the convention which framed the Federal Constitution, and was a senator from S.C. in 1789–96 and 1802–4. Director in the U.S. Bank. His wife, dau. of Col. Middleton of Charleston, S.C., whom he m. in 1768, d. 1790.

Butler, Col. Pierce M., soldier and statesman, b. Edgefield dist., S.C., April 11, 1798; killed Aug. 20, 1847, in battle of Churubusco, Mexico. Son of Gen. Wm. Butler, and bro. of Senator A. P. Butler. Lieut. 4th Inf., Aug. 13, 1819; capt. Dec. 1825; resigned Oct. 1, 1829; became cashier and subsequently pres. of the State Bank at Columbia; lieut.-col. of Goodwin's mounted vols. in Fla. war, Feb. 17, 1836; gov. of S.C. 1836–8; U.S. agent for the Cherokees west of the Mpi.; removed by Mr. Polk, who app. him to treat with the Comanche Indians; made col. of the Palmetto regt. in the Mexican war, Dec. 22, 1846, in com. of which he was disting. and twice wounded.

Butler, Richard, major-gen., b. Ireland; killed Nov. 4, 1791. He came to Amer. before 1760; was made lieut.-col. Pa. line at the beginning of the war, in the spring of 1777 was lieut.-col. of Morgan's rifle corps, and disting. himself on many occasions. While with Lafayette's detachment near Williamsburg, Va., June 26, 1781, he attacked Col. Simcoe's rangers, gaining the advantage. He held the rank of col. 9th Pa. regt. at the close of the war; was agent for Indian affairs in O., ab. 1787, and in the exped. of St. Clair against the Indians in 1791, com. the right wing, with the rank of maj.-gen.; attacked early in the morning of Nov. 4, he vessels : he operator, w tried in vain ship lying this ma

Digitized by Google

1820. machine
the B
the re lad of son.
ter th was most thei wh
I
18
C t
t

Review, to the Art of Art and the Early Literary World, Out-of-the-
, a few pleasant sketches several humorous papers in entitled The Colonel's Club. In Barnum's Parnassus," a vol.
Rejected Addresses ;" in 1857,
"Nothing to Wear ;" a new
"Two Millions," in 1858, and Buren, Lawyer, Statesman, and
. — Duyckinck.

, GEN. WILLIAM ORLANDO, soldier
, b. Jessamine Co., Ky., 1793.
gen. Percival Butler. He was liberally , and designed for the bar ; lieut. 2d
Sept. 28, 1812 ; wounded and made pris-at the River Raisin ; afterward served with ction under Jackson, at New Orleans, and brev. major, Dec. 23, 1814 ; aide to Jackson, rank of lieut.-col., in 1816–17. He prac-law in Ky. for the next 25 years ; M.C.
43 ; Democ. candidate for gov. of Ky. in 1844, and also an unsuccessful candidate for vice-pres. in 1848. Made maj.-gen. of vols. for the Mexican war, June 29, 1846 ; disting. and wounded in the battle of Monterey, Sept.
21, 1846, for which he was presented by Congress with a sword ; succeeded Gen. Scott in
com. of the army in the Valley of Mexico, in
Feb. 1848. App. gov. of Nebr. Terr. by Pres.
Pierce, declined. Author of some fugitive poems of merit, among which "The Boatman's Horn" attained popularity. Member of the peace congress in 1861.

Butler, COL. ZEBULON, Revol. officer, b.
Lyme, Ct., 1731 ; d. Wilkesbarre, Pa., 28 July, 1795. He served in the French war and in the exped. to Havana, and rose to be a capt. in 1761. In 1769, he settled at Wyoming, Pa. ;
lieut.-col. Ct. line, serving in N.J., in 1777–8 ;
col. 13 Mar. 1778 ; and 3 July, 1778 com. the weak garrison at Wyoming at the time of the massacre, which he was unable to prevent. He accomp. Sullivan in his Indian exped. in 1779, and served with distinction throughout the war. — Miner's Wyoming.

Butterfield, DANIEL, maj.-gen. vols., b.
Oneida Co., N.Y., Oct. 1831. Un. Coll. 1849.
He was a merchant in N.Y. City, and col. 12th regt. N.Y. militia when the civil war broke out. Accompanying his regt. to Washington in July, he joined Gen. Patterson on the Upper Potomac, and com. a brigade. Lieut.-col. 12th
U.S. Inf., May 14, 1861 ; brig.-gen. vols. Sept. 7, 1861, and assigned to the army corps of Fitz-John Porter, in which he made the campaign of the peninsula. He took part in the great battles under Pope and McClellan in Aug. and Sept. 1862, and, near the close of Oct., took command of Morell's division. Maj.-gen.
Nov. 29, 1862 ; col. 5th Inf., July 1, 1863 ; com.
5th corps at battle of Fredericksburg, Va. ;
chief of staff, Army of the Potomac, at Chancellorsville and at Gettysburg, where he was wounded ; ordered to re-enforce Rosecrans's Army of the Cumberland, Oct. 1863 ; chief of staff to Hooker at Lookout Mountain, Mission Ridge, Ringgold, and Pea Vine Creek, Ga. ;
com a division of 20th corps at battles of Buzzard's Roost, Resaca, Dallas, New Hope

Digitized by Google

Church, Kenesaw, and Lost Mountain, Ga., and brev. brig. and maj. gen. for gallant and merit. conduct. Author of "Camp and Outpost Duty," 1862.

Button, Sir Thomas, an early English navigator and explorer of the N. E. coast of N. Amer. He sailed in 1612 with 2 vessels, "The Resolution" and "The Discovery;" passed through Hudson's Straits, and was the first to reach land on the western coast of the bay, in lat. 62°, and named it Carey's Swan's Nest. A river was first named by him Nelson's, after the master of his ship. He wintered there, and during the next summer explored and named several places on the coast of Hudson's Bay, and, advancing to lat. 65°, became convinced of the possibility of the north-west passage. He was knighted for his services.

Buttrick, Col. John, one of the leaders of the Concord militia on the memorable 19th of April, 1775; d. Concord, May 16, 1791, a. 60.

Byfield, Nathaniel, judge, b. Long Ditten, Surry, Eng., 1653; d. Boston, June 6, 1733. Richard his father was one of the Westminster Assembly divines; his mother, a sister of Bishop Juxon. He arrived in Boston in 1674, became an eminent merchant, and one of the 4 proprietors and principal settler of the town of Bristol, R.I. He returned to Boston in 1724; was speaker of the H. of representatives; 38 years judge of the C. C. P. for Bristol Co., of Suffolk Co., 1730–32; was many years member of the council, and judge of the vice-admiralty in 1704–15 and in 1729. He pub. an account of the late Revolution in N. England, in 1689. — Allen.

Byles, Mather, D.D., Cong. clergyman, and wit, b. Boston, March 15, 1707; d. there July 5, 1788. H. U. 1725. Ord. over the church in Hollis Street, Dec. 20, 1733. He was disting. among his contemporaries for literary taste and for solid learning. He received from the U. of Aberdeen, in 1765, the degree of D.D. The correspondent of Pope and Swift, he himself pub. a vol. of miscellaneous poems in 1736. His reputation, however, rests upon his wit, cheerful flow of spirits, and conversation. He had, however, just claims to regard as a pulpit orator; and his pub. sermons evince a fine imagination, great skill and com. of language combined with terseness of expression. He maintained his loyalty during the troubled ante-revol. period in Boston. In Aug. 1776, at the age of 70, his connection with his parish was on this account dissolved. The next year, he was denounced in town-meeting as an enemy to the country, tried, and condemned to imprisonment in a guard-ship, and to subsequent exile. This sentence was afterwards commuted. A sentinel was placed before his door, but was afterwards withdrawn, and finally replaced. Released soon after, he alluded to these changes of treatment, saying that "he had been guarded, regarded, and disregarded." His two daughters lived unmarried to a great age, and to the last were stanch loyalists. The last survivor d. Boston, 1837. His son Mather, D.D., formerly a Cong. clergyman in New London, Ct., became an Episcopalian in 1768, was several years rector of Christ Church, Boston, left that place with the Tories, and d. rector of a church in St. John's, March 12, 1814. He was a man of learning and ability, and received from Oxford the honorary degree of D.D. H.U. 1751. B. Jan. 12, 1735.

Byrd, Col. William, a disting. Virginian, b. Westover, March 28, 1674; d. Aug. 26, 1744. Born to an ample fortune, and liberally educated, having been called to the bar in the Middle Temple, Lond., he became the patron of science and literature in Va. He studied in the Low Countries, visited the court of France, and became a fellow of the Roy. Society. He was long receiver-gen. of the revenue in Va., was thrice agent of the Colony in Eng., and, being 37 years a member, finally became pres. of the council of the Colony. In 1728, he was one of the commissioners for running the boundary line between N. C. and Va., and, on his return, caused his notes of the journey to be copied. In 1841, "The Westover Manuscripts" were pub. by Edmund Ruffin. They contain sketches of old Virginia travel, a "Progress to the Mines" in 1732, and a "Journey to the Land of Eden," in 1733. In 1733, he laid out the cities of Richmond and Petersburg, Va. He wrote for the "Philos. Transactions" an account of a negro-boy dappled with white spots. His son, Col. William, com. a regt. at Fort Cumberland, in Aug. 1758, and was a member of the council in 1775, but d. soon afterwards.

Byrne, Andrew, D.D., R. C. bishop of Little Rock, Ark., consec. March 10, 1844; d. 1862.

Byron, John, navigator, b. Newstead Abbey, 8 Nov. 1723, d. 1786. Son of Wm., 4th Lord Byron, and grandfather of the poet. He entered the navy at an early age, and was a midshipman in "The Wager," in Anson's S. Sea Exped., in 1740, of which he pub. an interesting "Narrative." Made capt. 30 Dec., 1746; rear-adm. 1775; sent with a fleet to demolish the fortifications of Louisburg in 1760. Placed in com. of an exped. to the South Sea, he circumnavigated the globe, 21 June, 1764–May, 1766, an account of which is in Hawksworth's Coll. of Voyages. Com. in chief at Newfoundland, 1769. Com. in the West Indies during the Amer. war, and 6 July, 1779, fought a severe battle with D'Estaing off Granada, and was promoted to vice-adm.

Cabell, Col. Samuel Jordan, a Revol. officer; d. Nelson Co., Va., Sept. 4, 1818, a. 61. Eldest son of Wm. C. of Union Hill. He left Wm. and Mary Coll. at the beginning of the war, rose to the rank of lieut.-col. in the Cont. army, and at the fall of Charleston, May 12, 1780, he became a prisoner until the close of the war. He was many years a member of the assembly, a member of the Va. convention to ratify the Federal Constitution, and M.C. in 1795–1803.

Cabell, Col. William, statesman, of Union Hill, Va., b. March, 1730; died early in 1798. Wm., his father, formerly a surgeon in the British navy, came to Va. in 1720, and settled on James River, where he d. in 1774. The son received a good education, was long a member of the House of Burgesses; county lieut.; member of all the conventions before that of May, 1776, in which he was one of the committee to draft a declaration of rights and a plan of government. He was a member of the committee of safety; charged with the civil and military control of the colony; a member of the State senate from Amherst district, and was subsequently a member of the house of delegates and of the convention to ratify the Federal Constitution. His brothers Joseph, John, and Nicholas, were all active patriots.—Grigsby.

Digitized by Google

Cabell, WILLIAM H., son of Nicholas, and nephew of Wm., gov. of Va., 1805–8; d. Richmond, Jan. 17, 1853. He was pres. of the Court of Appeals after being gov., and 50 years in public life.

Cabeza de Vaca (kā-bā′-thā dā vä′-kä), ALVAR NUNEZ, a Spaniard, who explored the River La Plata in 1540.

Cabot, GEORGE, statesman, b. Salem, Dec. 3, 1752; d. Boston, April 18, 1823. After passing two years at H. U., he went to sea for a short time, and then engaged in the mercantile profession, in which he was very eminent and successful. Before he was 26, he opposed, in the Prov. Congress of Ms., the attempt to establish a maximum price for the sale of provisions; thus early manifesting his correct views of political economy. Member of the State Const. Conv., and also of that which ratified the Constitution of the U. S. U. S. senator in 1791–6, becoming one of the confidential friends of Washington and Hamilton, to the latter of whom he was an able coadjutor in the formation of his financial system. He received, May 3, 1798, the app. of sec. of the navy, which he declined; was in 1808 a member of the council of Ms.; in 1814 a delegate to the convention which met at Hartford, and was pres. of that body. He was a leader of the Federal party, and exercised great influence upon public opinion.

Cabot (kab′-ut), JOHN, discoverer of the North-American continent. March 28, 1476, denization was granted him in Venice, after the usual residence of 15 years. In 1495, he resided at Bristol, with his wife, a Venetian, and 3 sons, and as early as 1491 had sent from that city an exped. in search of "Brazil and the Seven Cities." Mar. 5, 1496, John and his 3 sons obtained a patent from Henry VII., authorizing them to search for islands, provinces, or regions in the eastern, western, or northern seas, and to occupy the territories that might be found, with an exclusive right to their commerce, on paying the king a fifth of all profits. Accompanied by his son Sebastian, he sailed in May, 1497, in a single vessel, 700 leagues west, and June 24, 1497, saw the land, which he reported to have been a part of a continent. A letter of that year states that he sailed 300 leagues along the coast, landed, and planted on the soil the banners of England and Venice. He reached Bristol in Aug., and was favorably received by the king, who granted him special authority to impress 6 English ships, and to enlist volunteers, Feb. 3, 1498. Of his subsequent career nothing is known. — See the Venetian Archives; the Patent granted him 1496; the License 1498; a Letter, dated Aug. 23, 1497, from Lorenzo Pasqualigo, a merchant at London, to his brothers at Venice; and the Legend on the map of Sebastian Cabot cited in Hakluyt.

Cabot, SEBASTIAN, discoverer of the coastline of the U. S. as far south as the Chesapeake, b. ab. 1472; d. ab. 1557. Son of the preceding. At the age of 17, Sebastian had acquired skill in mathematics, and had made several voyages. In May, 1497, pursuant to letters-patent obtained from Henry VII., John and Sebastian sailed to the west, discovering, in June, Newfoundland, exploring the coast as far as latitude 67°. In May, 1498, with 2 ships, and a large company of vols., from Bristol, he sailed in search of a short north-western passage to China and Japan. He reached the mainland of N. A., landed in several places, and saw natives clad in the skins of beasts, and making use of copper. The discoveries of the Cabots were so little valued, that the family suffered the patent granting them the exclusive privilege of trade to be lost. In 1512, he went to Spain by invitation of King Ferdinand, until whose death, in 1516, he enjoyed honor and emolument. In the reign of Henry VIII., he procured another ship for discovery, and in 1517 attempted a southern passage to the East Indies, in which he failed. He then visited Spain, where he was well treated, and app. pilot-major by Charles V. He soon after received from a company of merchants the command of an exped. to the Spice Islands, through the recently-discovered Straits of Magellan. In April, 1525, he accordingly sailed from Cadiz to the Canaries and Cape de Verde Islands; and failing, from the opposition of his crew, in his plan of reaching the Spice Islands, he proceeded to the River La Plata, where he discovered St. Salvador, and erected a fort. He afterwards visited the great River Paraguay, and endeavored for some time to form an establishment on the Amer. coast; but, disappointed in the expected aid from Spain, he returned home, where he met with an unfavorable reception. He returned to England near the close of 1548. A pension was settled upon him by Edward VI., as grand pilot of England, and he was thenceforward consulted on all questions of navigation; and in 1552, being gov. of the company of merchant-adventurers, he drew up instructions, and procured a license, for an exped. to discover a northern passage to the East Indies. He first noticed the variation of the compass; and, besides the ordinances preserved in Hakluyt, he pub. a large map of the world, and "Navagazione nelle parte Septentrionale." He was also gov. of the Russian company, and was very active in their affairs. The best work on Sebastian Cabot is the Memoir by Richard Biddle, 8vo, 1831.

Cabral, PEDRO ALVAREZ DE, the principal discoverer of Brazil, b Portugal; d. ab. 1526. King Emanuel having fitted out an exped. to Calicut of 13 ships, Cabral was app. com. in chief. After passing the Canaries, he took a westerly course, resulting in the discovery of Brazil, of which, Apr. 24, 1500, he took possession in the name of his king. He then sailed for India, losing half his fleet in a tempest, landed at Calicut, and succeeded, after negotiating with the Indian princes, in establishing a factory there.

Digitized by Google

Cadwalader (cad-wol'-a-der), GEORGE, maj.-gen. vols., son of Gen. Thomas, grandson of Gen. John, b. Phila. He studied and practised law in Phila., and, on the breaking-out of the Mexican war, was app. brig.-gen. March 3, 1847. Disting. at El Molino, he was brev. maj.-gen. for gallantry at Chapultepec. In 1861, he was app. by the gov. of Pa. maj.-gen. of State vols.; had com. at Baltimore in May, and was second in com. in the force which moved on Winchester, under Gen. Patterson, in June. Apr. 25, 1862, he was app. maj.-gen. of vols. One of the commission to revise the military laws and regulations, Dec. 17, 1862. His "Services in the Mexican Campaign of 1847" was pub. Phila., 8vo, 1848.

Cadwalader, JOHN, gen., son of Dr. Thomas, b. Phila., 1743; d. Shrewsbury, Md., Feb. 10, 1786. He was a member of the Pa. convention in 1775; an active member of the committee of safety, and com., in Phila., "The Silk Stocking Company," of which nearly all the members were app. to commissions in the army. He was afterward made col. of one of the city battalions; was promoted to brig.-gen., and was intrusted with the com. of the Pa. militia, and co-operated in the attack on the Hessians at Trenton. He took part in the battle of Princeton, Jan. 3, 1777. He acted with his com. as a vol. at Brandywine, Germantown, and Monmouth. In the autumn of 1777, at the request of Washington, he assisted in organizing the militia of the eastern shore of Md. After the disgrace of Gen. Conway, he was called to account by Cadwalader for some offensive remarks in reference to Washington. In the duel which followed, Conway was severely wounded. After the war, Gen. Cadwalader removed to Md., and was a member of the legisl. His dau. Fanny, in 1800, m. D. M. Erskine, afterwards Baron Erskine. His grandson, Gen. George Cadwalader, disting. himself in the Mexican war. He pub. a reply to Gen J. Reed's "Remarks," 1783.

Cadwalader, COL. LAMBERT, M. C. 1789–91 and 1793–5, b. Trenton, N.J., 1741; d. there Sept. 13, 1823. He com. a Pa. regt. in the Revol.; assisted in the defence of Fort Washington, Nov. 16, 1776; was taken prisoner at its capture, and retired to his estates, near Trenton. Member of the Old Congress, 1784–7.

Cady, ALBEMARLE, brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. N.H. West Point, 1829. Entering the 6th Inf., he became capt. 7 July, 1838; major, 27 Jan. 1853; lieut.-col. 7th Inf., 6 June, 1861; col. 8th Inf., 20 Oct. 1863; retired, 18 May, 1864; brev. brig.-gen. 13 Mar. 1865. He served in the Florida war, 1838–42; in the Mexican war, 1846–8; was at the siege of Vera Cruz, battles of Cerro Gordo, Churubusco, and Molino del Rey, where he was wounded, and brev. maj. 8 Sept. 1847; and in the Sioux exped. was engaged in action of Blue Water, Dak., 3 Sept. 1855.—Cullum.

Cahill, REV. DANIEL WILLIAM, D.D., an Irish priest, chemist, astronomer, and pulpit orator, b. Queen's Co., Ireland, 1802; d. Boston, Oct. 27, 1864. Studied at Carlow Coll., and at Maynooth, where he was ord. Prof. of nat. hist. in Carlow Coll. Author of several pamphlets, and former editor of the Dublin Telegraph.

Caines, GEORGE, reporter of the Supreme Court of N.Y.; d. Catskill, N.Y., July 10, 1825, a. 54. He pub. "Lex Mercatoria Americana," 1802; "Cases in the Court of Errors," 2 vols., 1805–7; "Forms of the N.Y. Supreme Court," 1808; "Summary of the Practice in the N.Y. Sup. Court," 1808; "Cases in the Court for the Trial of Impeachments," &c. 1805–7, 2 vols., 8vo; "N.Y. Sup. Court Reports," 1803–5, 3 vols., 8vo, 2d ed., 1852.

Caldas, FRANCISCO JOSÉ DE, naturalist, b. Popayan, N. Granada, 1770; executed by order of Morillo in 1816. By his own exertions, he acquired the rudiments of astronomy, botany, and medicine, and constructed a barometer and sextant, unaided even by books. He accompanied for a time the Spanish explorer, J. C. Mutis. Subsequently he explored the Andes, and the Magdalen River, and in 1804 measured the height of Chimborazo and Tunguragua. After having been nominated director of the observatory at Santa Fé de Bogota, he began to edit, in 1807, the "Seminario de la Nueva Granada." He was employed by the Congress of New Granada to complete the flora of Bogota, when the disturbed state of public affairs interrupted the work; and himself and colleague, Don Losano, were put to death.

Caldas, PEREIRA DE SOUZA ANTONIA, a Brazilian poet, b. Rio de Janeiro, 1762; d. 1814. He studied at Coimbra, but, on being consigned to a convent by the Inquisition, took holy orders. His writings were pub. in Paris, 1821, entitled "Poesias sagradas e profanas," with a commentary by Gen. Stockler. A new edition of his poetical works, exclusive of his translations, was brought out in 1836.

Calderon de la Barca (FRANCES INGLIS), b. Scotland; m. in 1838 to Don Calderon de la Barca, Spanish minister to the U.S., and subsequently to Mex.; pub. "Life in Mexico," with a preface by Wm. H. Prescott the historian, in 1843.

Caldicott, THOMAS FORD, D.D., Baptist clergyman and author, b. Buckby, Eng., 1803; d. Toronto, Canada, July 9, 1869. He emigrated to Canada in 1824; removed to Hamilton, N.Y., in 1831, and preached successively there, at Lockport, at Boston, and at Brooklyn, N.Y., 26 years, writing much for the periodical press during the time. From 1860 till his death, he was pastor of the Bond-st. Church, Toronto. A thorough scholar, an able writer, and an eloquent preacher.

Caldwell, CHARLES, M.D., physician and author, b. Caswell Co., N.C., May 14, 1772; d. Louisville, Ky., July 9, 1853. The son of an Irish officer. He first taught school in N.C.; went to Phila. in 1792; studied and practised medicine there; and, during the yellow-fever of 1793, particularly disting. himself. He was surgeon of a brigade during the "Whiskey Insurrection." In 1810, he filled the chair of natural history in the U. of Pa.; was prof. of materia medica in Transyl. U. in 1818–37; and in 1837–40 in the Louisville Med. School. He translated Blumenbach's "Elements of Physiology" in 1795; pub. "Malaria," 8vo,

Digitized by Google

N.Y., 1831; "Unity of the Human Race," 8vo, 1830; edited the Portfolio in 1814; edited "Cullen's Practice of Physic" in 1816, and in 1819 pub. his "Life of Gen. Greene." In 1855, his Autobiography appeared. He pub. "Memoirs of Horace Holley," 1828; and "The Royal Foundlings," a Persian tale; "Medical and Phys. Memoirs," &c., 1801; "Medical Theses," &c., 1805; and wrote over 200 pieces in various departments of literature and science. He wrote much upon phrenology. A biographical sketch was read by Dr. B. H. Coates before the Amer. Phil. Soc.

Caldwell, Charles Henry Bromedge, capt. U.S.N., b. Hingham, Ms., June 11, 1823. Midshipm. Feb. 27, 1838; lieut. Sept. 4, 1852; com. July 16, 1862; capt. Dec. 12, 1867. With a detachment from "The Vandalia," he defeated a tribe of cannibals at Wega, one of the Fejee Islands, and burned their town, Oct. 11, 1858; com. steamer "Itasca," West Gulf block. squad. at the battle of New Orleans; at Grand Gulf, Mpi. River, June 10, 1862; com. ironclad "Essex," Mpi. squadron, 1862–3; Port Hudson, from March to July, 1863, in com. of "Essex," and mortar flotilla; com. steamer "Glaucus," N. A. B. squad., 1863–4; steamer "R. R. Cuyler," N. A. B. squad., 1864–5, and present at surrender of Wilmington. — Hamersly.

Caldwell, David, D.D. (U. of N.C. 1810), b. Lancaster Co., Pa., Mar. 22, 1725; d. Aug. 25, 1824. N.J.Coll. 1761. He was a house-carpenter until his 25th year; was licensed to preach in 1763; ord. July 6, 1765, and installed pastor of Buffalo and Alamance, Hanover, N.C. He also opened a classical school, which he continued nearly 50 years, and became a skilful and successful physician. Member of the convention which met at Halifax, Nov. 12, 1776, and of the convention to ratify the Federal Constitution. He retired from the ministry in 1820. — See Life, by E. W. Caruthers, D.D., 1842.

Caldwell, Howard H., poet, b. Newbury, S.C., Sept. 20, 1831. S.C. Coll. 1851. Adm. to the bar, 1855; has since practised at Columbia. In 1853, he pub. "Oliatta and other poems." He has contrib. frequently to the periodicals of the South; and a new vol. of his poems was pub. 1858.

Caldwell, James, Presb. minister and Revol. patriot, b. of Scotch parents, Charlotte Co., Va., Apr. 1734; d. Elizabethtown Point, N.J., 24 Nov. 1781. N.J. Coll. 1759. Ord. over the 1st Church at Elizabethtown, Mar. 1762. Eloquent and energetic in arousing a Revol. spirit in the people, he served in the war as chaplain, and afterward as commissary to the N.J. troops; was the special object of the hatred of the loyalists, and was obliged to remove his family to Connecticut Farms for safety. During the frequent incursions of the enemy, the bell of his church always sounded the alarm, and raised the country. His church was burned; his wife, Hannah Ogden, whom he had m. in 1763, was deliberately shot at and killed, 8 June, 1780, then her house fired and burnt down; and he himself was shot by a sentinel who had been bribed to do the deed. A marble monument at Burlington was dedicated to their memory on the 64th anniversary of his death. His son, John E. of N.Y., was taken to France, and educated by Lafayette. He was a disting. philanthropist, edited the Christian Herald, and founded the Bible Society. — Sprague.

Caldwell, Gen. John, lieut.-gov. of Ky., 1804; b. Prince Edw. Co., Va. D. Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 9, 1804. He went to Ky. in 1781; served in the conflicts with the Indians; became a maj.-gen of militia; member of the State conventions of 1787–8, and of the State senate, 1792–3.

Caldwell, Joseph, D.D. (N. J. Coll. 1816), b. Leamington, N.J., April 21, 1773; d. Chapel Hill, N.C., Jan. 24, 1835. N.J. Coll. 1791. At school, he displayed a taste for mathematics, and that diligence and energy which characterized his subsequent career. He studied for the ministry, taught school, and in 1796 was chosen presiding prof. of the infant U. of N.C., also performing the duties of mathematical prof. Licensed to preach 22 Sept. 1796. In 1804, a presidency was created, to which he was chosen, and which he held until the period of his death. Upon his election to the presidency, he vacated the mathematical chair for that of moral philosophy. In 1824, he visited Europe in order to direct in person the construction of a philosophical apparatus, and to select books for the library. To him N.C. is indebted for various internal improvements of his suggesting, as well as to his services in the cause of education. He pub. in 1822 a treatise on geometry, and "Letters of Carlton," 1825. — Sprague.

Caldwell, Samuel, gen., maj. of Ky. "levies of 1791;" disting. in Wilkinson's exped. against the Indians on the Wabash in Aug. 1791; lieut.-col. com. Ky. Vols. 1812, and in Clay's brigade under Gen. Harrison in 1813; brig. Ky. Vols. Aug. 1813, and com. a brigade in battle of the Thames, Oct. 5, 1813. — Gardner.

Calef (or Calfe), Robert, merchant of Boston, famous for his opposition to the witchcraft persecution of 1692; d. ab. 1723. 2d son of Robert of Roxbury, who d. Apr. 13, 1719. Such was the prevalence of the belief which he so powerfully attacked, that, unable to pub. his defence in Boston, it was printed in London in 1700. Its title, "More Wonders of the Invisible World," was suggested by Cotton Mather's "Wonders of the Invisible World;" and its plain facts and commonsense arguments contrib., notwithstanding the learned and powerful were its opponents, most essentially to a change of public opinion. Dr. Increase Mather, pres. of H. C., ordered the wicked book to be burnt in the coll. yard. The members of the Old North Church pub. a defence of their pastors, the Mathers, entitled "Remarks upon a Scandalous Book," &c., with the motto, "Truth will come off Conqueror." The complete triumph of Calef turned the satire upon them; judges and jurors confessed their errors; and the people were astonished, and ashamed of their own follies. Justice was, however, withheld from him in his day; and traces of his unpopularity are discoverable in several proceedings of the town. A new edition of his work was printed at Salem in 1796.

Digitized by Google

Calhoun, JOHN CALDWELL, LL.D., statesman, b. Abbeville District, S.C., 18 Mar. 1782; d. Washington, D.C., 31 Mar. 1850. Y. C. 1804, with the first honors. Patrick, his father, a native of Ireland, com. a company for frontier defence, and was for 30 years, and until his d. in 1796, a member of the legisl. His mother, Martha Caldwell, was of Scotch-Irish descent. From his boyhood, he was grave, thoughtful, ardent, and persevering. He studied law at Litchfield, began practice in his native district in 1807, took high rank in his profession, and, with a lucrative practice, entered early upon the political arena. He was in the State legisl. in 1808–10; M.C. 1811–17, and influential in procuring the declaration of war with England in 1812; sec. of war in Monroe's cabinet, 16 Dec. 1817–Mar. 1825; vice-pres. of the U.S., 1825–31; U.S. senator, 1831 and 1845–50; sec. of State 1844–5. As presiding officer of the senate, he was punctual, methodical, and accurate. The peculiar doctrine of this eminent man, which he honestly entertained and earnestly advocated, was, that the Constitution was a mere treaty, from the conditions of which any State might separate herself if desirable to the inhabitants,—the doctrine of "State Rights," as it is called. Calhoun's influence in his own State was so great, that his ultra views of the tariff, nullification, and slavery, controlled the opinions of the majority of his constituents. His collected writings and speeches, edited by R. K. Cralle, with a biography, were pub. in 6 vols., 8vo. His son, Maj. PATRICK, U.S.A., d. Pendleton, S.C., 1 June, 1858, a. 37. Another son, Col. WILLIAM LOWNDES, a planter, d. Abbeville Dist., 19 Sept. 1858, a. 28.

Calhoun, JOHN EWING, lawyer and senator, b. 1749; d. Pendleton District, S.C., Nov. 26, 1802. N.J. Coll. 1774. While very young, he lost his father, but was taken by his Uncle Patrick, who provided him with an excellent education. He studied law, became disting. in the profession, was many years in the legisl. of S.C., and was a U.S. senator in 1801–2. He was on the committee to report a modification of the judiciary system of the U.S., and was an eloquent and independent man.

Calhoun, WILLIAM BARRON, LL.D. (Amh. Coll. 1858), b. Boston, Dec. 29, 1795; d. Springfield, Ms., Nov. 8, 1865. Y. C. 1814. He studied law with George Bliss of Springfield, and for 40 years was prominent there. Member of the Ms. legisl. 1825–35; speaker, 1834–5; M. C. 1835–43; pres. of the State senate, 1846–7; sec. of State of Ms. 1848–51; mayor of Springfield, 1859; and again member of Ms. legisl. 1861. Many years a contrib. to the Springfield Republican. JOHN, his brother, who while surv.-gen. of Kansas, gained an unenviable reputation in the attempt to force the Lecompton Constitution upon the people, d. Oct. 19, 1859.

Call, DANIEL D., an eminent lawyer; d. Richmond, Va., May 20, 1840, a. ab. 75. Bro.-in-law of Judge Marshall. He pub. 6 vols. of "Reports of the Va. Court of Appeals," 1790–1818, 2d ed., 1824–33, edited by Joseph Tate.

Call, MAJ. RICHARD of Va. Revol. officer; fought at Charleston, S.C., May 6, 1780; com. rifle corps in action with Col. Simcoe at "Spencer's Ordinary," Va., June 25, 1781, and served under Lafayette; made surv.-gen. of Ga., Jan. 1784.

Call, RICHARD K., gen., b. Ky.; d. Tallahassee, Sept. 1862. App. from Ky. lieut. 44th Inf., July 15, 1814; brev. capt. Nov. 7, 1814; vol. aide to Gen. Jackson, April, 1818, and acting insp.-gen. to the army in the field, May, 1818; capt. July, 1818; resigned May 1, 1822. Member legisl. council of Fla., Apr. 1822; brig.-gen. W. Fla. militia, Jan. 1823; delegate in Congress, 1823–5; receiver land office, W. Fla. March, 1825; gov. of Fla. and com. of the army against the Seminoles, Dec. 6, 1835, to Dec. 6, 1836; com. in 2d and 3d battles of Wahoo Swamp, Nov. 18 and 21, 1836; U.S. gov. Fla. Terr., 1836–Mar. 1844; maj.-gen. Fla. militia, July 1 to Dec. 8, 1846. — Gardner.

Calleja (kăl-lā'-hă), DON FELIX DEL REY, COUNT DE CALDERON, a Spanish gen., b. 1750; d. ab. 1821. After having been treas. of the council of the Indies in Amer., he com. in 1810 at San Luis Potosi, Mexico, when he was ordered to pursue the insurgent Hidalgo, who was advancing on the capital with a large native force. Easily defeating him, he carried Guanaxoato by assault, and Jan. 12, 1812, defeated and mortally wounded him at Guadalaxara. He gained other advantages, but through his cruelty caused the insurrection to become much more formidable; and, under Morelos, the success was balanced between the two parties. Calleja was made viceroy, 4 Mar. 1813; ordered Morelos, who had been made prisoner, to be shot, 22 Dec. 1815; was succeeded in his viceroyship in 1817, and, returning to Spain, was made a count. In 1819, he was given the com. of troops destined to act against the independents of Paraguay, but was taken prisoner by Riego, and confined in the Isle of Leon, dying soon after recovering his liberty.

Callender, JAMES THOMPSON, political writer, b. Scotland; d. Richmond, Va., July, 1803. He was exiled for pub. his "Political Progress of Britain," Edinb., 1792. Came to Phila., where he pub. the "Political Register," 3 Nov. 1794 to 3 Mar. 1795, 8vo; "Amer. Annual Register for 1796," 8vo, 1797. He was at one time the friend of Jefferson, but became his enemy and calumniator. The Richmond Recorder, which he edited some years, was noted for its virulent assaults upon the administrations of Washington and John Adams. He was drowned while bathing in the James River. Author, also, of "The Prospect before us," and "Sketches of Amer. Hist.," 1798.

Callender, JOHN, Baptist minister of Newport, R.I., b. Boston; d. Jan. 26, 1748, a. 41. H.U. 1723. He was a nephew of the Rev. Elisha, a Baptist minister of Boston; was licensed to preach in 1727; was pastor of the Baptist Church in Swansey, Ms., from Aug. 1728 to Feb. 1730, and Oct. 13, 1731 was ord. minister of the second Baptist church in Amer., formed in 1644. His centennial discourse in 1738 is very valuable, and contains much of the early history of R. I., especially in ecclesiastical affairs: this was reprinted in 1838, in the Colls. R. I. Hist. Soc., with notes by Dr. Elton. He also pub. sermons on the death of Rev. Mr. Clapp, 1745, and Rev. Mr. Condy, 1739. His collections relating to the history of the Baptists in this country were used by Mr. Backus.

Digitized by Google

Callieres (deh-kă'-leair'), Chevalier Louis Hector, de, b. Torigny, France; d. Montreal, Ca., May 26, 1703. He was a gallant military officer, and came to Canada as a member of the Montreal company. App. gov. of Montreal in 1684, he enclosed the town with palisades. In 1689, he went to France to suggest a project for the conquest of N. Y., in which, but for its failure, he would have had the chief com. Gov. of Canada from the death of Frontenac, in 1698, until his own death: his ability and valor made him popular in the Colony. He had several negotiations with the Indians, but died in the midst of his labors, and was succeeded by Vaudreuil. He endeavored to unite all the Indian tribes in a permanent peace, and to attach them to the French interest. — Charlevoix.

Calmes, Gen. Marquis, Revol. officer; d. Woodford Co., Ky., Feb. 27, 1834, a. 79. He was a capt. in the Revol., and was disting. at the battle of Monmouth. Made brig.-gen. Ky. Vols., Aug. 31, 1813. He served under Harrison, and com. a brigade at the battle of the Thames.

Calvert, Benedict, gov. of Md., 1727–32; d. June 1, 1732, on his passage to Eng. Edward Henry, bro. of Benedict, and pres. of the council, d. Annapolis, Apr. 24, 1730, a. 28. His wife was dau. of the Earl of Litchfield, and sister of the wife of Edward Young the poet. Frederick, Baron Baltimore, and last proprietor of Md., succeeded Charles, Lord B., in 1751; d. Naples, Sept. 30, 1771, leaving his property in Md. to his son Henry Harford. He pub. a "Tour in the East," &c., 1767.

Calvert, Sir George, the first baron of Baltimore. Founder of the province of Maryland, b. Kipling, in Yorkshire, in 1582; d. London, Apr. 15, 1632. He was descended from a Flemish family. Grad. at Oxford in 1597, and, after travelling abroad, entered the service of Robert Cecil, afterwards Earl of Salisbury. He was knighted by James I. in 1617, and made clerk of the privy council, and, in 1619, one of the secs. of State. This post he resigned in 1624 in consequence of having become a Roman Catholic. Notwithstanding this, he retained the confidence of the king, who in 1625 raised him to the Irish peerage of Baltimore. He had previously obtained a grant of land in the Island of Newfoundland, which he named Avalon, where he was prevented from making a settlement by the invasions of the French. Still desirous of forming a settlement in Amer., whither he might retire with his family and friends of the same religious principles, he in 1629 visited Va., whose fertility and attractions had been highly lauded. Meeting with an unwelcome reception on account of his religion, he turned his attention to the territory north of the Potomac, and, on his return to Eng., obtained a grant of it from Charles I.; but, dying before the patent was completed, it was again drawn in the name of his eldest son Cecil, who succeeded to his honors, and it passed the seals, June 20, 1632. This territory, named in honor of Henrietta Maria, queen-consort of Charles I., was colonized under the patronage of Lord Baltimore, who displayed justice and good faith in his dealings with the Indians, and liberality to religious sectaries in his legisl. arrangements, highly creditable to his principles and character. Lord Baltimore wrote some political tracts; and his speeches in parliament, and letters of State, have also been pub. — See Life of Calvert, by S. F. Streeter.

Calvert, George Henry, author, b. Baltimore, Md., Jan. 2, 1803. H. U. 1823. His father was of the family of the founder of Md.; and his mother, a lineal descendant of the painter Rubens, was a native of Antwerp. After studying at Göttingen, he edited for several years the Baltimore American. In 1832, he pub. "Illustrations of Phrenology," the first Amer. treatise on the subject; in 1833, "Life of Robert Barclay;" in 1836, a metrical version of Schiller's "Don Carlos;" in 1840, a fragment on "Arnold and André," 2 cantos of "Cabiro" a poem, and "Count Julian," a tragedy; in 1845, a portion of the correspondence of Goethe and Schiller, and, in 1846 and 1852, 2 series of "Scenes and Thoughts in Europe;" in 1856, "An Introduction to Social Science;" "The Gentlemen," 1863; two additional cantos of "Cabiro" in 1864; a new edition of his "Scenes and Thoughts in Europe," 1865; and "Comedies," Boston, 12mo, 1856; "Thoughts of Joseph Joubert, with a Biog. Notice." Since 1843, he has resided at Newport, R.I., of which city he was mayor in 1853, and was the orator at the celebration of the 40th anniversary of the battle of Lake Erie. He has contrib. to the N. A. Review, Putnam's Monthly, and other literary periodicals. — Duyckinck.

Calvert, Leonard, first gov. of Md.; d. June 9, 1647, a. 41. His bro. Cecil, the proprietor, sent him to Amer. as superintendent of the colony in 1633. After landing with his company of 200 at Point Comfort, Va., Feb. 24, 1634, he sailed up Chesapeake Bay, Mar. 3, entered the Potomac a distance of 12 leagues, and anchored at an island which he named St. Clement's, of which he took formal possession. Having convinced the natives that his designs were peaceful, he took possession of the territory, giving to the town the name of St. Mary's, and to the creek on which it was situated the name of St. George. The liberal policy of security of property and toleration, upon which its colonization was based, made a Roman-Catholic colony an asylum for those who were driven from N. E. by the persecutions there carried on among Protestants. He experienced much trouble from a settler of Kent Island, Wm. Clayborne, who denied his jurisdiction, and took up arms against him, but who was ultimately driven out of the province. Calvert superintended the affairs of the colony until the civil war in Eng., when the name of a papist became so obnoxious, that the parliament assumed the govt. of the province, and app. a new gov. At the restoration, Cecil Calvert recovered his right

Digitized by Google

Cambreling, CHURCHILL C., merchant and M.C., b. Washington, N.C., 1786; d. West Neck, L.I., Apr. 30, 1862. He received an academical education at Newbern, removed in 1802 to N.Y. City, where he subsequently resided, and, engaging at an early day in mercantile pursuits with John Jacob Astor, travelled extensively over the world. He was M.C. from N.Y. from 1821 to 1839, and chairman of the com. of commerce, of ways and means, and of foreign affairs. Of his numerous reports and political pamphlets, that on commerce and navigation passed through several editions, and was repub. in London. While travelling in Europe in 1839, he was app. minister to Russia. Member of the State Const. Conv. in 1846. — Lanman.

Cameron, SIR ALAN, a British gen.; d. Fulham, Eng., Mar. 9, 1828. He was concerned with Connolly in 1775 in the plan of arousing and combining the Indian tribes against the Colonists; was taken prisoner near Hagerstown, Md., and remained for nearly 2 years in the common jail at Phila. In attempting to escape from this confinement, Sir Alan had both his ankles shattered and broken; and he never perfectly recovered from the painful effects of those injuries. He was subsequently placed upon half-pay as a prov. officer; but in 1793 he raised the 79th, or Cameron Highlanders, at his own expense. With this regt. as major, and then col. comg., he served in the Netherlands and in the West Indies, and subsequently in the peninsula, where he disting. himself particularly at Talavera and Busaco. Sir Alan was app. maj.-gen. July 25, 1810; after the peace, K.C.B.; and, on the 12th of Aug. 1819, lieut.-gen.

Cameron, SIMON, statesman, b. Lancaster Co., Pa., 1799. Left an orphan at 9, he learned the trade of a printer; worked at Harrisburg and at Washington, D.C., employing his leisure in study. In 1820, he became editor of a newspaper at Doylestown, Pa.; in 1822 settled in Harrisburg, editing a journal advocating Gen. Jackson's election to the Presidency, and in 1832 was pres. of the Middletown bank of Pa. He became pres. of two railroad companies, and adj.-gen. of the State. U.S. senator in 1845–9 and 1857–61. In that body, he voted for Mr. Douglas's proposition to extend the Mo. Compromise line to the Pacific. After the repeal of the Mo. Compromise in 1854, and the attempt to force slavery upon the people of Kansas, he connected himself with the "People's Party" in Pa., and in 1856 voted for Fremont. Mr. Lincoln made him, 4 Mar. 1861, sec. of war, which post he filled until Jan. 14, 1862, when he resigned, and was app. minister to Russia; but he soon returned to the U.S., arriving Nov. 8, 1862. Delegate to the Balt. convention, 1864, the Phila. convention of 1866, and was again a U.S. senator for the term ending in 1873. Succeeded Mr. Sumner as chairman of the com. on foreign affairs in Feb. 1871. His brother Col. JAMES, b. Maytown, Pa., Mar. 1, 1801; killed at the battle of Bull Run, July 21, 1861, leading a charge of the 79th N.Y. regt. He began life a printer in his bro.'s office, and edited the Political Sentinel, 1827.

Cammerhof, JOHN FRED'K, a Moravian bishop; d. Bethlehem, Pa., Apr. 28, 1751. He came to the U.S. in 1746, visited the establishment at Shomokin on the Susquehanna in 1749, and in 1750 went to Onondaga to labor amongst the Iroquois. His was a character of much benevolence, and he was greatly beloved. — Loskiel.

Campbell, ALEX., D.D., founder of the sect called "Campbellites," b. Antrim Co., Ireland, June, 1786; d. Bethany, Va., 4 Mar. 1866. Educated at the U. of Glasgow. He came to the U.S. in 1809, settled in Washington, Pa., and preached at Brush Run in 1810. Originally a Presb., but in 1812 became a Baptist. With his father Thomas Campbell, he founded several congregations, which united with the Baptists, but protested against all creeds; and in 1827 was excluded from fellowship with the Baptist churches. In 1864, his followers numbered 350,000, mostly in the States of Va., Ky., and Tenn. In 1844, he founded Bethany Coll., of which he was made pres. A history of the sect is in the Christian Baptist and Millennial Harbinger, edited by him in Bethany (1823–63). Including his "Debates," he pub. 52 vols. He was a man of strong intellect, fine scholarship, and great logical powers. — See Memoir, by Robert Richardson, 2 vols., Phila., 1868.

Campbell, SIR ARCHIBALD of Inverneil, a British maj.-gen.; d. Mar. 31, 1791. App. capt. 42d regt. Oct. 1758; maj. Dec. 1760; lieut.-col. 71st in 1775, and was, with a portion of his corps, made prisoner while entering Boston harbor, just after Gen. Howe had departed. Made a subject of retaliation for the cruel treatment of captive American officers, he yet displayed gentleness and humanity towards his foes, while conducting, afterward, active operations in the South, where he proved himself a brave and skilful commander. Nov. 27, 1778, he com. an exped. against Savannah, defeated Gen. Robert Howe, and, Dec. 29, captured that city. He captured Augusta, Ga., Jan. 29, 1779; was made col. Dec. 7, 1779; M.P. for Stirling, 1774–80 and in 1789; gov. of Madras, 1785–89, and gov. of Jamaica in 1781–4.

Campbell, COL. ARTHUR, a Western pioneer, b. Augusta Co., Va., 1742; d. Yellow Creek, Knox Co., Ky., 1815. At the age of fifteen, he was taken by the Indians, and made himself master of their language. Escaping in 1759, he served as guide in an exped. to the Upper Lakes, and was rewarded by govt with 1,000 acres near Louisville, Ky. In 1769, he settled at "The Royal Oak," on Holstein River; was app. major of militia; was col. of a regt. more than 30 years; and was engaged in and com. several military expeds., especially that against the Cherokees, in Jan 1781, with whom he made an important treaty. In the spring of 1776, he was elected to the Va. assembly, and, as a member of the State Const. Conv., took a decided stand against an established church. He was for some years county lieut. of Washington Co., Va. After 35 years' residence at Holstein, he removed to Yellow Creek. He m. a sister of Gen. Wm. Campbell, and was the father of Col. John B.

Campbell, CHARLES, historian, b. Petersburg, Va., 1807. N. J. Coll. 1825. Son of

Digitized by Google

John Wilson Campbell, a bookseller of Petersb. Author of a Hist. of Va., 1813. Has pub. "The Bland Papers," 8vo, 1840; "History of Virginia," 8vo, 1859; "Memoir of John Daly Burke," 1868; "Genealogy of the Spotswood Family," 1868. Contrib. to the Southern Lit. Messenger from its commencement. Editor of "The Orderly Book" of Gen. Andrew Lewis in 1776, 4to, 1860; d. Staunton, Va. July 11, 1876.

Campbell, DAVID, gov. of Va., 1836–9; d. Abingdon, Va., March 19, 1859, a. 80. App. major 12th Inf., July 6, 1812; lieut.-col. 20th Inf., Mar. 12, 1813; resigned Jan. 28, 1814.

Campbell, DUNCAN R., D.D., Baptist clergyman, b. Scotland, ab. 1797; d. Covington, Ky., Aug. 11, 1865. Graduate of a Scottish university; soon after came to the U. S.; preached some years, and after a pastorate at Georgetown, Ky., was pres. of Georgetown Coll. from 1849 until his death.

Campbell, GEORGE WASH., statesman, b. Tenn., 1768; d. Nashville, Feb. 17, 1848. N. J. Coll. 1794. M. C. from 1803 to 1809, during the last two years of which period he was chairman of the committee of ways and means; U.S. senator, 1811–14 and 1815–18; sec. of the treasury from Feb. 9 to Oct. 6, 1814; envoy-extraor. and minister-plenipo. to Russia in 1818–21; and at one time judge of the U. S. Dist. Court of Tenn. A commissioner in 1831 to settle the claims on France.

Campbell, HUGH F., commodore U. S. N; d. Washington, Nov. 11, 1820. App. master-com. July 27, 1799; capt. Oct. 16, 1800.

Campbell, JACOB, author of "Political Essays," b. R. I. 1760; d. 1788. — Allibone.

Campbell, JAMES, jurist, b. Phila., 1813. Son of an Irish emigrant, who gave his children a thorough education. His persevering, energetic, prompt, and inquiring mind soon gave him a high rank among the proverbially acute and eloquent members of the Phila. bar; and in 1841–50 he was a judge of the C. C. P.; atty.-gen. of the State in 1850–3; U. S. postmaster-gen. in 1853–7.

Campbell, JAMES ARCHIBALD, judge U. S. Supreme Court, 1853–61, b. Washington, Ga., June 24, 1811. U. of Ga. 1826. His grandfather was an aide-de-camp to Gen. Greene. Adm. to the bar in Montgomery, Ala., in 1830, and practised with success. He opposed the secession of Ala.; did all in his power to bring the war to a close in 1864, and in 1865 resumed practice in N. Orleans.

Campbell, JOHN, bookseller, and postmaster of Boston many years, and until 1718; pub., 24 Apr. 1704, the Boston News Letter, the first perman. newsp. issued in N. Amer; b. Scotland, 1653; d. Boston, Mar. 1728. Some years justice of the peace for Suffolk Co. — Drake's Boston, 528, 538.

Campbell, JOHN, political writer, b. Edinburgh, Mar. 8, 1708; d. Dec. 28, 1775. Agent of the British Govt. for Ga. from 1755 to his d. Author of a "Concise Hist. of Span. America," 1741; "Lives of the Eng. Admirals," 1744; "New Sugar Islands in the W. Indies," 8vo; "Trade of Great Britain to America," 4to, 1772; "Political Survey of Great Britain," &c.

Campbell, JOHN, a British gen., b. Strachur, Scotland; d. early in 1806. He entered the army in June, 1745, as lieut. of Loudon's Highlanders; served through the Scotch rebellion; made the campaign in Flanders in 1747; capt. 1 Oct. 1747; April 9, 1756, he was app. to the 42d Highlanders; was wounded in the attack on Ticonderoga in 1758; major of the 17th Foot, July 11, 1759; lieut.-col. in the army, Feb. 1, 1762, and com. this regt. in the expeds. against Martinico and Havana. May 1, 1773, he became lieut.-col. of the 37th Foot; returned to Amer. in 1776 with his regt., at the outset of the Revol.; was app. maj.-gen. Feb. 19, 1779; col. of his regt. Nov. 2, 1780; and com. the British forces in West Fla., where, after a gallant defence, he was obliged to surrender Pensacola to the Spaniards, May 10, 1781; lieut.-gen. Sept. 28, 1787; gen. in the army, Jan. 26, 1797.

Campbell, JOHN B., col., b. Ky.; d. of wounds recd. in the battle of Chippewa, Aug. 28, 1814. Nephew of Col. Campbell of King's Mountain renown. Was app. lieut.-col. 19th Inf., March 12, 1812; com. detachment against the Mississinewa Indians, Dec. 1812, for which he was brev. col.; col. 11th Inf., Apr. 9, 1814; disting., and severely wounded in battle of Chippewa, July 5, 1814, where he com. the right wing of the army under Scott. — Gardner.

Campbell, JOHN N., D.D. (N.J. Coll. 1835), Presb. clergyman, b. Phila., March 4, 1798; d. Albany, March 27, 1864. He studied theology with Rev. Ezra Stiles; was for a while at the U. of Pa., and was afterward a teacher of languages in Hamp. Sid. Coll. In May, 1817, he was licensed to preach by the presbytery of Hanover, Va. In 1820, he was chaplain to Congress. After preaching in Petersburg, Newbern, and elsewhere, he, in 1823, became the assist. of Dr. Balch of Georgetown, D.C. From 1825 to 1831, he was pastor of the N.Y.-ave. Church in Washington, D.C.; and from 1831 to his death, he was pastor of the First Presb. Church at Albany. He was for more than 20 years one of the regents of the N.Y. U. He was an eloquent preacher and a vigorous writer.

Campbell, JOHN POAGE, M.D., Presb. minister of Chillicothe, O., b. Aug. Co., Va., 1767; d. near Chillicothe, 4 Nov. 1814. Hamp. Sid. Coll. 1790. Licensed to preach in May, 1792; settled in Ky. in 1795. He pub. "Doctrine of Justification Considered," "Strictures on Stone's Letters," 1805; "Vindex," in answer to "Stone's Reply," 1806. He left a MS. Hist. of the Western country. — Sprague.

Campbell, JOHN W., jurist, b. Augusta Co., Va., 23 Feb. 1782; d. Delaware, O., 24 Sept. 1833. His parents removed to Ky. in 1791, and afterward to O. He received a com. school education; was adm. to the bar in 1808; became pros. atty. Adams and Highland Counties; member of the legisl.; M.C. 1817–27, and U.S. dist. judge from 1829 to his d. — See Biog. Sketch and Lit. Remains by his widow, 8vo, 1838.

Campbell, LEWIS D., Democ. politician, b. Franklin, O., 9 Aug. 1811. He had a limited education; became asst. editor of the Cincinnati Gazette; studied and practised law; was M.C. 1849–57, and chairman of the com. on ways and means, 1853–5; app. minister to Mexico in Dec. 1865; again M.C. 1871–3.

Digitized by Google

Campbell, P., author of "Travels in N. Amer. in 1791–2," Edinb., 8vo, 1793.

Campbell, Col. Richard of Va.; killed at the battle of Eutaw Springs, S.C., Sept 8, 1781. Was commissioned capt. Feb. 19, 1776; was a lieut.-col. at the battle of Hobkirk's Hill, and at the siege of Ninety-six.

Campbell, Col. Robert, Indian fighter, b. Va., 1755; d. near Knoxville, Tenn., Feb. 1832. He displayed great bravery in many conflicts with the Cherokees, and subsequently at the battle of King's Mountain. He was nearly 40 years a magistrate of Washington Co., Va., and in 1825 emigrated to Tenn.

Campbell, Lord William, gov. of S.C.; 1774–6; d. Sept. 5, 1778. Youngest son of the 4th Duke of Argyle. Became a capt. in the navy, Aug. 20, 1762; M.P. in 1764; gov. of Nova Scotia in 1766–73. Entering upon his administration in June, 1775, he was active in fomenting insurrectionary movements favorable to the crown among the border population and the red men. Detected in this practice, and the public military stores having been secured by the people, he fled on board a frigate, and in the following year was mortally wounded on board "The Bristol," during the attack on Fort Moultrie. In May, 1763, he m. Sarah, sister of Ralph Izard, a leading patriot of the Revol.

Campbell, Gen. William, Revol. officer, b. Augusta, Va., 1745; d. Sept. 1781. He received a liberal education. Formed by Nature for a soldier, and was at the battle of Point Pleasant, 1774; was app. a capt. in the first Va. regt. in 1775, but resigned in the latter part of 1776, on account of the breaking-out of an Indian war, which called him home. He was then made lieut-col. of Washington Co. militia, and in 1778, col. With his regt., he marched 200 miles to attack Maj. Ferguson, at King's Mountain, at which battle he com. Oct. 7, 1780; and for his disting. services on this occasion, the legisl. presented him with a sword, horse, and pistols, and named a county after him. His conduct at Guilford drew from Greene and Col. Lee flattering letters, and from the Va. legisl. the rank of brig.-gen. He joined Lafayette to oppose the invasion of Cornwallis, and received the com. of the light infantry and riflemen, but died, after a short but brilliant military career, just before the siege of Yorktown. — Va. Hist. Colls.

Campbell, William B., soldier and politician, b. Sumner Co., Tenn., Feb. 1, 1807; d. Lebanon, Aug. 19, 1867. He studied law; practised at Carthage, Tenn. in 1830; was elected dist.-atty. 4th dist. in 1831, and became a member of the legisl. in 1835. He was a capt. of vols. during the Creek and Fla. wars; M.C. in 1837–43; col. 1st Tenn. Vols. in Mexican war; com. a brigade, and was disting. in the battle of Cerro Gordo, and at Monterey; was made judge 4th circuit of Tenn. soon after his return, and was in 1851–3 gov. of the State; chosen judge of the Circuit Court in 1857. In 1861, he canvassed his State in opposition to the secessionists, and June 30, 1862, was made brig.-gen. vols., but, on account of feeble health, resigned 26 Jan. 1863.

Campbell, William W., judge, grandson of Col. Samuel; b. Cherry Valley, N.Y., June 10, 1806. Un. Coll. 1827. He studied law with Judge Kent; commenced practice in N. Y. City in 1831; was M. C. in 1845–7; then spent a year in Europe; app. in 1849 a justice of the Superior Court of N. Y. City; served seven years, and was subsequently elected a judge of the State Supreme Court. Author of "Annals of Tryon County, N.Y.," 8vo, 1831; new ed., revised, entitled "Border Warfare," N.Y., 1849, 12mo; "Life and Writings of De Witt Clinton," 1849, 8vo; "Sketches of Robin Hood and Capt. Kidd," 12mo, 1853; "Life of Mrs. Grant, Missionary to Persia," 12mo, 1840.

Canby, Edward Richard Sprigg, brig.-gen. U. S. A., b. Ky., ab. 1819. West Point, 1839. Served in the Florida war, 1839–42; assist. adj.-gen. (rank of capt.) 3 Mar. 1847; disting. at Cerro Gordo; brev. major for Contreras and Churubusco, Aug. 20, 1847; brev. lieut.-col. for gallant conduct at the Belen Gate, Sept. 13, 1847; capt. 2d Inf. June, 1851; major 10th Inf. Mar. 3, 1855; col. 19th Inf. May 14, 1861, and brig.-gen. vols. March 31, 1862. He served in the Utah exped. under Gen. A. S. Johnston, and in 1859–60 com. Fort Bridger, Utah. When the civil war began in 1861, he was in New Mexico, and displayed great energy and skill in defending the territory against the confederates. He afterwards served in the war dept. at Washington; com. the troops in and around N.Y. City at the time of the riots in July, 1863, and resumed his post in the war dept. in Nov. 1863. 7 May, 1864, he was made maj.-gen. comg. the district embracing the depts. of the Mo., Ark., and the Gulf. He com. the exped. which captured Mobile, Apr. 12, 1865, and May 4, received the surrender of the rebel Taylor and his army. Brev. maj.-gen. U. S. A. Mar. 13, 1865; brig.-gen. U.S.A. July 28, 1866; brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A. for battle of Valverde, New Mex.; maj.-gen. for Mobile; Nov. 4, 1868, com. 5th military district; Assas. Apr. 11, 1873.

Canfield, Francesca Anna, poetess, b. Phila., 1803; d. 1823. Dau. of Dr. F. Pascalis, an Ital. physician. She was distinguished for her knowledge of languages, and the excellence of her verses, many of which are in Griswold's Female Poets of America, and in the periodicals of the day. — Allibone.

Canfield, Henry Judson, b. Ct., 1789; d. 1856. Y. C. 1806. Author of "Treatise on Sheep." Contrib. to Ohio Cultivator, Amer. Agriculturist, &c. — Allibone.

Cannon, Charles James, poet, dramatist, and novelist, b. N.Y., of Irish parentage, Nov. 4, 1800; d. there Nov. 9, 1860. Among his numerous works are "Facts, Feelings, and Fancies," "The Poet's Quest," "Mora Carmody," "Father Felix; poems, dramatic and miscellaneous; dramas, including the "Oath of Office" and "Tighe Lifford." He also compiled a speller and a series of readers. — See Brownson's Quarterly for Oct. 1857; Hist. Mag. v. 30.

Cannon, James Spencer, D.D., clergyman of the D. R. Church, b. 1776; d. New Brunswick, N.J., July 25, 1852. Rutg. Coll. 1811. He was for 51 years a trustee, and from 1826 until his death, prof. of metaphysics and the philosophy of the human mind in Rutg. Coll. Author of "Lectures on Chronology," "Lectures on Pastoral Theology," 8vo, 1853.

Digitized by Google

Cannon, NEWTON, soldier and statesman, b. Guilford Co., N.C., ab. 1781; d. Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 29, 1841. Member State legisl. 1811–12, and State Const. Conv. of 1834. Col. Tenn. Mounted Rifles, Sept. to Dec. 1813, and com. the left in battle of Tallahatchie, Nov. 3, 1813; was M.C. from Tenn. from 1814 to 1817 and from 1819 to 1823; was app. by Monroe one of two commissioners to treat with the Chickasaws in 1819; and was gov. of Tenn. from 1835 to 1839.

Cannon, WILLIAM, gov. of Del., 1864-5, b. Bridgeville, Del., 1809; d. Phila., Mar. 1, 1865. He was some time in the State legisl.; was State treasurer, and member of the peace congress in 1861.

Canonicus, a Narragansett chief, uncle of Miantonomoh, b. ab. 1565; d. June 4, 1647; was the firm friend of the English, especially of Roger Williams. From him, Williams obtained, March 24, 1638, the grant of land for his settlement of the future State of R.I. In 1622, two years after the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth, Canonicus sent as a challenge a bundle of arrows tied with a snake-skin. The skin was returned filled with powder and ball; but the peace was unbroken. In 1632–5, there was a war between the Pequots and Narragansetts, about the ownership of land lying between Paucatuck River and Wecapaug Brook. Canonicus, after losing his son, burned his own residence, and all his goods in it. Roger Williams calls him "A wise and peaceable prince." During his life, the Narragansetts, though engaged in wars with other Indians, remained at peace with the whites. Many years after his death, however, under the famous King Philip, they made war on the English, and were exterminated.

Capers, WILLIAM, D.D. (Aug. Coll., Ky., 1839), bishop M. E. Church, b. St. Thomas's Parish, S.C., Jan. 26, 1790; d. Anderson, S.C., Jan. 29, 1855. S.C. Coll. 1808. He became a travelling minister in 1808. In 1821, he was app. missionary to the Indians in Western Ga., and travelled extensively throughout the State. He established a mission among the Creek Indians on Flint River in 1822; preached in Charleston from 1825 to 1831, and edited the Wesleyan Journal. In 1828, he was sent to Eng. as the representative of his church at the British conference. In 1835, he was elected prof. of the evidences of Christianity in the U. of S.C., and afterwards took charge of the Southern Christian Advocate. For several years, he was one of the gen. missionary secretaries, and in May, 1846, was elected bishop of the southern division, which, at the gen. conference held at N.Y. in 1844, had separated from the northern on the slavery question. He was remarkable for urbanity, elegance of style, and the oratorical finish and force of his pulpit ministrations.

Capron, ELISHA S., counsellor at law, author of "Hist. of California, from its Discovery to 1854," b. N.Y., 1806.

Cardozo, ISAAC N., journalist and political economist, b. Savannah, Ga., June 17, 1786; drowned in James River, Va., Aug. 26, 1850. He received a plain English education in Charleston, S.C. In 1816, he became editor of the Southern Patriot, a free-trade organ in Charleston, becoming sole proprietor in 1823, in which year he was active in establishing the chamber of commerce. He opposed the tariff act of 1828, but did not adopt extreme nullification views. In 1845, he sold the Patriot, and soon after established the Evening News, another daily, of which he was commercial editor. He was a contrib. to the Southern Quarterly Review, and other periodicals, and in 1826 pub. "Notes on Political Economy.

Carew, SIR BENJAMIN HALLOWELL, adm. R.N., b. Boston, 1760; d. Beddington Park, Eng., 2 Sept. 1834. Son of Benj. Hallowell, customs commissioner at Boston. Entering the navy at an early age, he became a lieut. in Aug. 1781, capt. 1793, rear-adm. 1811, and vice-adm. 1819, K.C.B. 1819, K. G.C. 1831. He was with Rodney in the great fight with DeGrasse; com. a ship of the line under Hotham in the action off the Hieres Islands; was a vol. on board "The Victory," in the battle of Cape St. Vincent; and, in com. of "The Swiftsure," contrib. essentially to the great victory of the Nile. He was with Hood at the reduction of St Lucia and Tobago, and with Nelson in the W. Indies. He succeeded to the estates of the Carews on the death of a cousin in 1828. — Sabine.

Cary, ALICE and PHŒBE, two sisters, poets. Alice was b. Mount Healthy, near Cincin., O., Apr. 26, 1820; d. N.Y. City, 12 Feb. 1871. Walter, her emigrant ancestor, settled at Bridgewater, Ms. Her grandfather, a Revol. soldier of Ct., settled after the war in Hamilton Co., O. Robert her father, one of the first settlers of Cincin., d. 11 Feb. 1866, a. 80. Alice first became known by a series of sketches in the National Era, signed "Patty Lee." The sisters pub. jointly in 1850 a vol. of poems. She pub. a vol. of prose-sketches, "Clovernook," in 1851, a second series in 1853, and a third in 1854; "Lyra and other Poems," 1853; "Hagar, a Story of To-day," 1852; "Married, not Mated," 1856; a new collection of poems, 1855; "Pictures of Country Life," 1859; "Lyrics and Hymns," 1866; "The Bishop's Son," 1867; "The Lover's Diary," 1867; and "Snowberries." In 1852, the sisters removed to N.Y. City. PHŒBE, b. Clovernook, Sep. 4, 1824; like her sister, was a frequent contrib. to periodicals, pub. in 1854 a vol. of poems and parodies, and recently, "Poems of Faith, Hope, and Love." D. 31 July, 1871.

Carey, HENRY CHARLES, political economist, son of Matthew, b. Phila., Dec. 15, 1793; was brought up a bookseller, becoming a partner in his father's firm in 1814. In 1821, he became the leading partner in the firm of Carey & Lea, the largest publishing-house in the country, and in 1835 withdrew from business to employ his capital in industrial enterprises. Long a student of political economy, and originally a zealous partisan of free trade, he eventually became a protectionist. He has pub. "Essay on the Rate of Wages." 1835; "The Principles of Political Economy," 3 vols., 8vo, 1837–40; "The Credit System in France, Great Britain, and the U.S.," 1838; "The Past, the Present, and the Future," 1848; "The Harmony of Interests," 1850; "The Slave Trade, Domestic, and Foreign;" "Letters on International Copyright," 1863; "Letters to the President on the Foreign and Domestic Policy of the Union," 1858; "Principles of Social Science," 3 vols., 8vo, 1858–9; "A Series of Letters on Polit. Economy," addressed to W. C. Bryant, 1860, and another series addressed to Hon. Schuyler Colfax, 1865. For several years, he contrib. the leading papers in the Plough, the Loom, and the Anvil, some of which were afterwards collected in his "Harmony of Interests." He has also written much on other subjects in the newspapers. — Duyckinck.

Digitized by Google

Carey, Matthew, political writer, publisher, and philanthropist, b. Dublin, Ireland, 28 Jan. 1760; d. Phila., 16 Sept. 1839. Apprenticed to a printer, he in 1779 wrote a pamphlet on the Irish Catholic question, and was obliged to withdraw to France. Returning in 1780, he pub. the Freeman's Journal, and, 13 Oct. 1783, began the Volunteer's Journal, for which he was committed to Newgate prison. Restored to liberty, 14 May, 1784, he came to Amer., landed in Phila., 15 Nov., and by the aid of Lafayette, who sent him $400, established the Pennsylvania Herald, 25 Jan. 1785. In a duel with Col. Oswald, 21 Jan. 1786, he received a wound which confined him to his house for 16 months. He was subsequently connected with the Columbian Magazine and the American Museum, and engaged extensively in bookselling and publishing in connection with his sons. He took an active part in charitable enterprises, and every fortnight dispensed food and other necessaries of life to hundreds of poor widows. In 1793, he founded the Hibernian Society. He pub. a "History of the Yellow Fever of 1793;" "Miscellaneous Trifles," 1796; "Amer. Pocket Atlas," 1801; "Essays on Polit. Economy," 8vo, 1822; "Miscell. Essays," 1830; "The Olive Branch," an attempt to harmonize the Federal and Democ. parties, 1814; "Vindiciæ Hibernica," 1819; and "Philosophy of Common Sense;" "The New Olive Branch," 1820; A zealous champion of the "protective system" of American industry, his writings in its favor number 59. He also advocated the system of internal improvements to which Pa. is so much indebted. In 1833–4, he contrib. his Autobiography to the N. E. Magazine. In 1796–8, he had a controversy with Wm. Cobbett, which he closed with "The Porcupiniad, a Hudibrastic Poem," 1799.

Carillo (kä-rēl'-yo), Braulio, dictator of Costa Rica, b. Cartago, 1800; assassinated 1845. Member of the Federal Congress of Central Amer., he was afterward elected gov. of Costa Rica, and dictator from 1838 to 1842. His dictatorship was advantageous to the country; for, while he repressed with a strong hand all revol. tendencies, he devoted the energies of a powerful mind to the promotion of the material interests of the State. He adjusted its foreign debt, built roads and bridges, and, above all, introduced the culture of coffee, now the great staple of the country, and raised it from the poorest to the richest State of Central Amer. He transacted all public affairs with the aid of his wife only.

Carleton, Guy (Lord Dorchester), a British gen., b. Strabane, Ireland, Sep. 3, 1724; d. 10 Nov. 1808. Entering the Guards at an early age, he became in 1748 lieut.-col. 72d regt.; was aide-de-camp to Cumberland in the German campaign of 1757; served under Amherst at the siege of Louisburg in 1758; under Wolfe, at Quebec, as quartermaster-gen. in 1759; and was a brig.-gen., and was wounded at the siege of Belleisle. Made a col. in the army in Feb. 1762, he served as quarterm.-gen. in the Havana exped., and was wounded in the successful assault on the Moro Castle. In 1766, he became lieut.-gov., and in 1774, gov., of Quebec; in 1772, maj.-gen. and col. 47th Foot; and 29 Aug. 1774, gov.gen. of the Province of Quebec. In Oct. 1775, he attempted to retake Ticonderoga and Crown Point, recently captured by the Americans, but was defeated, and himself narrowly escaped capture. Reaching Quebec, he exerted himself successfully in putting it in a state of defence, and, 31 Dec. 1775, repulsed the assault of the Americans, who lost their brave leader, Montgomery. Receiving re-enforcements from Eng., he drove the Americans from the province, and in a naval battle on Lake Champlain, 13 Oct. 1776, totally defeated the flotilla under Arnold. In 1777, he was superseded by Burgoyne; in 1778, was made a lieut.-gen., and in 1781 was app. com.-in-chief in Amer., where he had the credit of having done all in his power to soften the rigors of war and to conciliate the people. He embarked for Eng., 25 Nov. 1783; was created Baron Dorchester, 21 Aug. 1786, and, from 1786 to 1796, was gov. of British N. Amer.; his administration being marked by mildness and justice. He was succeeded in his title and estate by his eldest son Thomas.

Carleton, Henry, jurist, b. Va., 1785; d. Phila., Mar. 28, 1863. Y.C. 1806. Originally named Henry Carleton Coxe. Removing to Mpi., he established himself in N. Orleans in 1814; served as a lieut. under Jackson in the campaign of that year; practised law, and, with L. Moreau, translated of "Las Siete partidas," a celebrated Spanish code, such portions as were in use La. Made atty. of the east. district of La. in 1832, he was afterward judge of the Supreme Court, resigning in 1839. He visited Europe several times, and pub. in 1857 a vol. on "Liberty and Necessity." — Ob. Record, Y.C.

Carleton, Gen. James Henry, b. Me.; d. San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 7, 1873. Capt. of a co. of Me. riflemen during the boundary dispute with Great Britain in Feb. 1839, and, on its settlement, was made 2d lieut. 1st U.S. Dragoons. 1st lieut. Mar. 1845, served on Gen. Wool's staff in Mexico; made capt. Feb. 1847, and brev. maj. for gallantry at Buena Vista; Sept. 7, 1861, made maj. 6th caval. Early in 1862, he raised the vols. known as the "Column from Cal.," and marched with them to the Rio Grande. He was made brig.-gen. vols. Apr. 28, 1862, and ordered to relieve Gen. Canby in com. of the dept. of N. Mexico; lieut.-col. 4th cav. July 31, 1866; brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A. for merit. services in the war; col. 2d U.S. cav.

Digitized by Google

June, 1868. Author of a "History of the Battle of Buena Vista," N.Y., 1848.

Carleton, OSGOOD, a teacher of mathematics and navigation; d. Litchfield, N.H., in June, 1816. A resident of Ms., he pub. valuable maps of that State and of the district of Me. "The Amer. Navigator," 1801; "The South Amer. Pilot," 1804; "A Map of the U.S.," 1806, and "Practice of Arithmetic," 1810.

Carleton, THOMAS, British gen., bro. of Sir Guy; d. Feb. 2, 1817 a. 85. App. ensign Wolfe's regt., 1755; capt. 1759; brev. maj., 1773; quartermast.-gen. to the army in Canada in Nov. 1775; lieut.-col. 19th, 1776; col. Nov. 20. 1782; maj.-gen. 1793; lieut.-gen., 1798; gen. 1803. He had seen service in Germany; was wounded in the naval contest with Arnold on Lake Champlain in 1776, and was gov. of N. Brunswick in 1783. — Philipart.

Carlin, THOMAS, gov. of Ill., 1838–42, and a pioneer to that State in 1813, b. Ky., 1791; d. 4 Feb. 1852.

Carlin, WILLIAM P., brev.-maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. Greene Co., Ill., Nov. 24, 1829. West Point, 1850. Entering the 6th Inf., he took part in the Sioux exped. in March, 1855, under Gen. Harney, and, in the summer of 1857, com. a company in the exped. of Col. Sumner against the Cheyennes, who were defeated at Solomon's Fork, Ks., Aug. 29, 1857. Early in 1858, he joined the Utah exped. under Gen. A. S. Johnston; capt. March 2, 1861; Aug. 15, 1861, he took com. of the 38th Ill. regt., and, Oct. 21, defeated Jeff. Thompson at Fredericktown, Mo. He com. the district of South-east Mo. till March, 1862, then com. a brigade under Gen. Steele in the exped. into Ark., and joined Pope's army in season to aid in the pursuit of Beauregard from Corinth. He disting. himself in the battle of Perryville, Ky., Oct. 8, 1862, and at Knob Gap, near Nolensville, where he defeated Wharton's rebel cavalry. His brigade bore a prominent part in the battle of Stone River, Dec. 31, 1862, as is shown by its losses in that memorable conflict. He was made brig.-gen. 29 Nov. 1862; was in the Tullahoma campaign, battles of Chickamauga, Lookout Mountain, and Mission. Ridge, Ringgold, Buzzard's Roost, Resacca, Kenesaw Mountain, siege and capture of Atlanta; com. 1st div. 14th corps in Sherman's march to the sea; brev. col. for the battle of Jonesboro', Ga., Sept. 1, 1864; brev. brig.-gen. 13 Mar. 1865, for Bentonville, and brev. maj.-gen. for gallant and merit. services in the field during the Rebelllion. Maj. 16th Inf., 8 Feb. 1864; transferred to 34th Inf., 21 Sept. 1866. — Cullum.

Carlisle, FREDERICK HOWARD, 5th earl of, one of the 3 commissioners sent to Amer. in 1778 to treat with the revolted colonists, b. May, 1748; d. Sept. 4, 1825. In the house of peers, he first disting. himself by his recommendation of conciliatory measures toward the American Colonies. Lord lieut. of Ireland, 1780–2. Uncle and guardian of Lord Byron, and himself a poet of some merit.

Carman, CAPT., a brave seaman; lost at sea on the coast of Spain in Dec. 1645. In Dec. 1642, he sailed from New Haven for the Canaries, and, near the Island of Palma, was attacked by a Turkish pirate-ship of 300 tons, with 200 men and 26 cannon; he having only 20 men and 7 cannon. The tiller of the Turk was disabled; and she fell off, leaving 50 men who had boarded Carman's ship. These he attacked and killed, or forced overboard. He, with others of his men, were wounded; but he lost only one man. — Savage's Winth. ii., 124, 239.

Carmichael, WILLIAM, diplomatist, b. Md.; d. early in 1795. A man of fortune, of a disting. family. He was on his way to Amer. in July, 1776, with despatches from Arthur Lee, but was detained at Paris by sickness, and assisted Mr. Deane, our minister, in his corresp. and transaction of business for more than a year. He communicated to the king of Prussia, at Berlin, intelligence concerning Amer. commerce; assisted the commissioners at Paris; was a delegate to Congress from Md. in 1778–80; was sec. of legation during Mr. Jay's mission to Spain; and when the latter left Spain, in June, 1782, he remained as chargé d'affaires, and retained that office ab. 13 years. In March, 1792, Wm. Short was joined with him in a commission to negotiate a treaty with Spain; but the attempt was unsuccessful. His letters are in vol. ix of Sparks's "Dipl. Corresp."

Carnahan, JAMES, D.D., LL.D., pres. of the Coll. of N.J. from 1823 to 1854, b. Cumberland Co., Pa., Nov. 15, 1775; d. Newark, N.J., March 2, 1859. N.J. Coll. 1800. At the time of his death, he was one of the trustees of the Coll., and pres. of the board of trustees of Princeton Theol. Sem. D.D. of Ham. Coll. 1821.

Carnes, THOMAS P., jurist, b. Md. 1762; d. Milledgeville, Ga., May 8, 1822. Removing to Ga., where he attained high rank as a lawyer, he became successively solicitor-gen., atty.-gen., and judge of the Supreme Court. M.C. 1793–5.

Carnochan, JOHN MURRAY, surgeon, b. Savannah, 1817. His father was a native of Scotland, and his mother was descended from Gen. Putnam. After graduating in the high school and U. of Edinburgh, he returned to the U.S., and studied in the office of Dr. Valentine Mott of N.Y. After taking his degree, he again visited Europe, and passed several years in attendance upon the clinical lectures of Paris, London, and Edinburgh. In 1847, he began practice in N.Y., where his skilful and original operations gained him distinction. In 1851, he was app. surgeon-in-chief of the N.Y. State Immigrant Hospital. In 1852, he performed the operation of amputating the entire lower jaw. In 1854, he exsected the entire ulna, saving the arm, with its functions unimpaired, and subsequently, in another case, successfully removed the entire radius. In 1856, he performed the startling operation of exsecting, for neuralgia, the entire trunk of the 2d branch of the 5th pair of nerves. Amputation at the hip-joint he has frequently performed. In 1851–63, he was prof. of surgery in the N.Y. Med. Coll. He has pub. his lectures on partial amputations of the foot, lithotomy and lithothrity, and also a "Treatise on Congenital Dislocations," 1850; "Contributions to Operative Surgery," and has translated Sedillot's "Treatise on Operative Medicine," and Karl Rokitansky's "Pathological Anatomy."

Digitized by Google

Carpenter, BENJAMIN, b. Rehoboth, 1726; d. Guilford, Vt., Mar. 29, 1823. He was a founder of Guilford in 1770, a field-officer of the Revol., member of the first Const. Conv. of Vt., member of the council, and lieut.-gov. in 1778, and one of the council of censors.

Carpenter, FRANCIS B., portrait-painter, b. Homer, N.Y. His portrait of David Leavitt was exhibited at the Nat. Acad. in 1852. Besides portraits of several ex-presidents and governors, he has produced "The Emancipation Proclamation," the likenesses in which are excellent. His book, "Six Months in the White House," contains valuable personal memoirs of Abraham Lincoln. — Tuckerman.

Carpenter, GEORGE W., merchant and scientist, b. Germantown, Pa., July 31, 1802; d. there June 7, 1860. He was a highly-successful merchant; was treasurer of the Acad. of Nat. Sciences from 1823; had a choice collection of minerals; ranked high as a geologist, and was a member of many European scientific societies. Author of "Essays on Materia Medica," and "Medical Chest Dispensatory," and was a contrib. to the Journal of Medical Science.

Carpenter, STEPHEN CULLEN, author, b. Eng.; d. 1820. Reporter of Hastings's trial. Came to Amer. in 1803. In 1805, he commenced in Charleston, S.C., with Bristed, the Monthly Register, Magazine, and Review of the U.S. In 1809, he pub. at N.Y. 2 vols of "Memoirs of Jefferson," a decidedly anti-Jeffersonian work. In 1810 and 11, he edited at Phila. the Mirror of Taste, and Dramatic Censor, and in 1815 pub. at Phila. 2 vols. of "Select Amer. Speeches, with Prefatory Remarks," being a sequel to Dr. Chapman's "Select Speeches." He also wrote "D. Campbell's Overland Journey to India," N.Y., 1809–10. — Duyckinck.

Carr, DABNEY, a member of the Va. house of burgesses; d. Charlottesville, Va., May 16, 1773, a. 30. He moved and eloquently supported a resolution to app. a committee of corresp. in consequence of British encroachments, which was adopted Mar. 3, 1773. He m. a sister of Jefferson, by whom he is described as a man of sound judgment and inflexible purpose, and of a powerful eloquence. DABNEY his son, b. Apr. 1773, d. Richmond, Va., Jan. 8, 1837. Commenced to practise law at Albemarle; was chancellor of Winchester dist. from 1811 to 1824, and judge of the Court of Appeals from 1824 to 1837.

Carr, DABNEY S., of Baltimore, several years naval officer of that port, and U. S. minister to Turkey in 1843–9; d. Charlottesville, Va., Mar. 24, 1854, a. 51.

Carr, EUGENE A., brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. Erie Co., N.Y., Mar. 20, 1830. West Point, 1850. Entering the mounted rifles, he was for several years engaged in Indian warfare in New Mexico, Texas, and the West. In a skirmish near Diablo Mountain, 10 Oct. 1854, he was severely wounded, and for his gallantry was promoted to 1st lieut. 1st cavalry. In 1858, he was in the Utah exped.; 11 June, 1858, he was made capt. 1st cav., and in 1861, he was made col. 3d Ill. vol. cavalry, and fought under Lyon at Wilson's Creek. At Pea Ridge, he com. a division, and was severely wounded. For his gallantry, he was made brig.-gen. vols., dating from Mar. 7, and assigned a command under Gen. Curtis, in Ark.; July 17, 1862, maj. 5th cavalry. He com. a division in the battles of Port Gibson, 1 May, 1863; Big Black, 17 May; the assaults on Vicksburg, 19 and 22 May; at the capture of Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 10, for which he was brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., 13 Mar. 1865; and com. the 3d div. of A. J. Smith's corps, and led the assault on Spanish Fort, the key of the defences of Mobile, which was captured Apr. 3, 1865. For this exploit, he was made brev. maj.-gen. 13 Mar. 1865.

Carr, JOSEPH B., brig.-gen. vols., b. Albany, N.Y., ab. 1824. Apprenticed to a tobacconist at Troy, he entered the vol. militia, rose to be col., and, in Apr. 1861, became lieut.-col. 2d N.Y. Vols. Col. in May, 1861, he was ordered to Newport News. During the campaign of the Chickahominy, he was attached to Gen. Hooker's command, and made brig.-gen. Sept. 7, 1862. He com. the 4th div. Hancock's corps in the Va. campaign of 1864, and was in the battles of the Wilderness.

Carr, SIR ROBERT, British commissioner in N. E.; d. Bristol, Eng., June 1, 1667. He was of Ithall, Northumberland Co. He was app. commis. by Charles II. in 1664, in conjunction with Nicolls, Cartwright, and Maverick. Aug. 27, 1664, Nicolls and Carr captured New Amsterdam from the Dutch, and called it New York in honor of the duke, afterwards James II. Carr forced the Swedes and Dutch on the Delaware, into a capitulation, Oct. 1, 1664; returned to Boston in Feb. 1665, and, in conjunction with his co-adjutors, assumed the principal powers of govt.

Carroll, GEORGE ALOYSIUS, D.D., R. C. Bishop of Ky., b. Phila., June 13, 1803; d. Covington, Ky., Sept. 25, 1868. Completing his theol. studies at Mount St. Mary's, Emmettsburg, he was ord. priest in 1829; spent several years in Phila. and Wilmington, Del.; became in 1837 prof in the U. of St. Louis, and pastor of the coll. church of St. Xavier; was rector of the U. in 1845–8; pres. of the Purcell Mansion Coll. and St. Xavier Church, Cincinnati, in 1849–53; and Nov. 1, 1853, was consecrated Bishop of Covington.

Carrera (kär-rā'-rä) JOSÉ MIGUEL, JUAN JOSÉ, and LOUIS, three bros., disting. in the revolutions of Chili. The first of these, b. St Jago, Chili, was a maj. of grenadiers at the beginning of the troubles, and defeated the Spaniards on many occasions. After the bros. had been some time at the head of the revol. govt., they were taken prisoners by the Spaniards in 1813, and confined at Talca, but soon regained their liberty, and also their power, which had been assumed by O'Higgins during their confinement. The defeat at Raucagua, in Oct. 1814, compelled the Carreras to quit the country. Juan and Luis were again taken at Mendoza, and, at the instigation of Gen. San Martin, were executed Apr. 8, 1818. Don José was also captured after a brave resistance, and, after a partial trial, executed Sept. 1, 1821

Digitized by Google

Carrera, MARTINEZ, ex-pres. of Mexico; d. 11 Apr. 1871.

Carrera, RAFAEL, ruler of Guatemala, b. Guatemala City, 1814, of mixed Indian and negro blood; d. Apr. 14, 1865. In 1829, when Morazan was pres., Carrera became a drummer-boy. In 1837, he placed himself at the head of a band of insurgent mountaineers, and in Feb. 1838, occupied the city of Guatemala, with 6,000 Indians, whom he restrained from their anticipated pillage and massacre; but, an accommodation having taken place, Carrera was sent in an official capacity to Meta, a neighboring district. Apr. 13, 1839, he again entered the capital, and in 1840 he completed the triumph of the disunionists and State-rights party by the defeat of Gen. Morazan. Ruling first as gen-in-chief, he was elected, Mar. 21, 1847, pres., and Oct. 19, 1851, pres. for life. In Feb. 1851, with 1,500 men, he defeated the combined forces of San Salvador and Honduras. When first elected pres., he did not know how to read and write, but afterward, in some measure, repaired the deficiencies of his education. His govt. was absolute. — Men of the Time.

Carrier, THOMAS, of remarkable longevity, b. in the west of Eng.; d. Colchester, Ct., May 16, 1735, a. 109. He settled in Andover, Ms., and in 1664 m. Martha Allen, who, Aug. 19, 1692, fell a victim to the witchcraft delusion at Salem. He passed the last 20 years of his life at Colchester, and, shortly before his death, walked 6 miles to see a sick man, and visited his neighbors the very day before he died. Notwithstanding his age, his head was not bald, nor his hair gray.

Carrigain, PHILIP, lawyer, b. Concord, N.H., Feb. 20, 1772; d. there Mar. 16, 1842. Dartm. Coll. 1794. His father Philip, b. N.Y., 1746, d. Concord, Aug. 1806, was a physician and surgeon of eminence in C. The son practised law successively at Concord, Epsom, Chichester, and again at Concord; was sec. of State of N. H. 4 years, and also clerk of the senate. He surveyed a great part of N.H., of which he pub. an excellent map in 1816.

Carrington, EDWARD, lieut.-col. Revol. army, b. Va., Feb. 11, 1749; d. Richmond, Va., Oct. 28, 1810. Commissioned lieut.-col. of Harrison's art. regt., Nov. 30, 1776. Detached with a portion of this regt. to the South, he was made prisoner at Charleston. Carrington was afterward employed by Gates and by Greene, who made him his quartermaster-gen. Aided by capt. Smith of the Md. line, he explored the River Dan, and made every preparation for Greene to cross it with his army; then joined him near the Yadkin, and was an active and efficient officer in the memorable retreat to the Dan. He com. the artillery, and did good service at the battle of Hobkirk's Hill, Apr. 24, 1781, and also at Yorktown. M. C. in 1785–6, and was foreman of the jury in Burr's trial for treason.

Carrington, COL. PAUL, statesman of the Revol., bro. of Col. Edward, b. Va., Feb. 24, 1733; d. at his seat, Charlotte Co., Va., June 22, 1818. Wm. and Mary Coll. Of English descent, his maternal grandfather and his father had emigrated to Va. by way of Barbadoes, and were both engaged in the exped. of Col. Byrd, in 1736, to fix the boundary-line between Va. and N.C. He studied law in the office of Col. Clement Read, clerk of the Co. of Lunenburg, ab. 1748; m. his dau.; commenced practice at 21, and soon rose to eminence. From 1765 to 1775, he was a member of the house of burgesses, and voted against the Stamp-act resolutions of Patrick Henry. He was a member of various conventions in 1775–6, and of the committee which reported the Declaration of Rights and the State Constitution. He then took his seat in the house of delegates, from which he passed to the bench of the General Court in May, 1779, and to the Court of Appeals in 1789, in which last he remained until 1811. Member of the committee of safety during the whole of its existence, and, in the Va. convention, voted for the adoption of the Constitution, and was a member of the committee to report amendments. Three of his sons were in the army, — GEORGE; PAUL, who was at the battle of Guilford, a graduate of Wm. and Mary Coll., member of the H. of delegates at 22, afterward in the Va. senate, and judge of the Superior Court, d. Jan. 8, 1816, a. 52; and Col. CLEMENT, who was severely wounded at Eutaw. — Grigsby.

Carroll, CHARLES, last surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence, b. Annapolis, Sept. 20, 1737; d. Baltimore, Nov. 14, 1832. Descended from a wealthy Irish Catholic family, who came to Md. during the reign of William and Mary. He was educated at St. Omer's, and at a Jesuit coll. at Rheims, and studied law in France, and at the Temple, London. Returning home in 1764, he soon became noted as an able political writer, and advocate for liberty. He inherited a vast estate, and was considered the richest man in the Colonies. In 1775, he was a member of the first committee of observation established at Annapolis, and a delegate to the prov. convention. In Feb. 1776, he was app. a commissioner with Franklin and Chase, accomp. by Rev. John Carroll, to visit Canada, and induce the Canadians to unite with the Colonies. A journal of this mission, with a memoir by B. Mayer, was pub. 1845. Returning in June, he labored assiduously in the convention to authorize the Md. delegates in Congress to join in a decl. of indep., which was done June 28. He was a delegate to Congress from July 4, 1776, until 1778, and an efficient member of the board of war. In the latter part of 1776, he was one of the committee to draft the constitution of Md.; and in Dec. 1776, also in 1781, 1786, and 1797, was elected to the State senate. He was a U. S. senator in 1789–91; and in 1799–1801 was a commissioner to settle the boundary-line between Va. and Md. July 4, 1828, when he had passed the patriarchal age of 90, attended by one of the most imposing civic processions ever seen in the U. S., he laid the corner-stone of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. In natural sagacity, in refinement of taste, and in unaffected and habitual courtesy, he had few equals. His grand-daughter, Miss Caton, afterward Marchioness of Wellesley, d. Hampton Court Palace, Dec. 17, 1853.

Digitized by Google

Carroll, DANIEL, cousin of Charles, b. Md.; d. Washington, D. C., 1849, at a great age. Delegate to the Old Congress, 1780–4. He was a delegate from Md. to the convention which framed the U. S. Constitution; M. C. in 1789–91, and was in the latter year app. commissioner for surveying the Dist. of Columbia. His farm formed the site of the present city of Washington.

Carroll, DANIEL LYNN, D.D., Presb. clergyman, b. Fayette Co., Pa., 10 May, 1797; d. Phila., Nov. 23, 1851. Jeff. Coll. 1823. Licensed to preach, 6 Oct. 1826. D.D. of the U. of N. Y. He succeeded Dr. Beecher as the minister of Litchfield (1827–9); was in 1829–35, pastor in Brooklyn; in 1835–8, pres. of Hamp. Sid. Coll.; in 1838–44, pastor in Phila.; and afterward sec. of the N. Y. Colonization Society. He pub. 2 vols. of sermons, 1846–7, some addresses, sermons, and tracts.— Sprague.

Carroll, JOHN, D.D., LL.D., cousin of Charles, R. C. bishop of the U. S., b. Upper Marlborough, Md., Jan. 8, 1735; d. Balt., Dec. 3, 1815. Educated at St. Omer's, Liege, and Bruges; ord. a priest in 1769, and became a Jesuit shortly after. In 1770, he accomp. Lord Stourton on a tour through Europe as private tutor, and in 1773, on his return to Bruges, accepted a professorship in the coll. After a brief residence in Eng., he returned to Md. in 1775, and entered upon the duties of a parish priest. Apr. 2, 1776, by desire of Congress, he accomp. Dr. Franklin, Charles Carroll, and Samuel Chase, on a mission to Canada. In 1786, at the instance of Dr. Franklin, Mr. Carroll was app. vicar-gen., and fixed his abode in Baltimore. In 1789, he was named first R. C. bishop of the U. S., and went to Eng. in the summer of 1790, where he was consecrated, Aug. 15. In the same year, he returned to Baltimore, and, as the seat of his episcopal see was established in that city, assumed the title of Bishop of Baltimore. In 1791, he founded St. Mary's Coll., and, in 1804, obtained a charter for Baltimore Coll. Devoid of intolerance, he lived in friendly communion with persons of other sects. A few years before his d., he was raised to the archiepiscopacy.

Carroll, SAMUEL SPRIGG, brev. maj.-gen. U. S. A., b. Washington, D.C. West Point, 1856. Entering the 10th Inf., he became capt. 1 Nov. 1861; col. 8th Ohio Vols., 15 Dec. 1861; brig.-gen. vols., 12 May, 1864; lieut.-col. 21st U. S. Inf., 22 Jan. 1867. He served in West Va., Dec. 1861, to May, 1862; com. a brigade in Shields's division, May–Aug. 1862; engaged at Port Republic and Cedar Mountain; was wounded at the Rapidan, 14 Aug. 1862; com. brigade 3d corps at Fredericksburg; brev. maj. 3 May, 1863, for Chancellorsville, and lieut.-col. 3 July, 1863, for Gettysburg; com. brigade 2d corps, and brev. col. 5 May, 1864, for battle of the Wilderness; wounded, and brev. brig.-gen., 13 Mar. 1865, for battle of Spottsylvania (9–13 May, 1864); and brev. maj.-gen. vols., and also of U. S. A., 13 Mar. 1865, for gallant and merit. services during the Rebellion. — Cullum.

Carroll, GEN. WILLIAM, soldier and statesman, b. Pittsburg, 1788; d. Nashville, Tenn., Mar. 22, 1844. He was engaged in the hardware business in Pittsburg, whence, in 1810, he went to Nashville. Tall, well-formed, and fond of military life, he attracted the attention of Jackson, by whom he was made capt. and brigade-insp. in his division, Feb. 20, 1813; col and insp.-gen. Sept. 1813, to May, 1814. In 1813, he fought a duel with Jesse, brother of Col. Thos. H. Benton. Disting. himself at Euotochopco; was wounded in the battle of the Horse-shoe Bend of Tallapoosa River, Mar. 27, 1813; maj.-gen. of Tenn. militia, Nov 13, 1814, to May 13, 1815; disting. in the defence of New Orleans, and especially in the battle of Jan. 8, 1815. Gov. of Tenn. in 1821–7 and 1829–35.

Carruthers, WILLIAM A., novelist, b. Va., ab. 1800; d. ab. 1850. He was a student of Wash. Coll. in 1818; and in the Knickerbocker Mag. for July, 1838, gives an account of a hazardous ascent of the Natural Bridge, Va. He pub. several works in N.Y., ab. 1834, and removed to Savannah, Ga., where he practised medicine, and wrote for the Magnolia, and other Southern magazines. He pub. "The Cavaliers of Virginia," "The Kentuckians in New York, or the Adventures of Three Southerners," "The Knights of the Horse Shoe," Wetumpka, Ala., 1845, and "Life of Dr. Caldwell." — Duyckinck.

Carson, CHRISTOPHER, popularly known as "Kit Carson," mountaineer, trapper, and guide, b. Madison Co., Ky., Dec. 24, 1809; d. Fort Lyon, Col. Terr., May 23, 1868. While yet an infant, his family emigrated to Howard Co., Mo. He became a skilful hunter. The early years of his life were passed as a trapper; and he was for 8 years hunter to Bent's fort. Fremont engaged him as guide in his explorations. In 1847, Carson was sent to Washington, bearer of despatches, and received an app. as lieut. U.S. Rifles. In 1853, he drove 6,500 sheep to Cal., a difficult undertaking, and, on his return to Taos, was app. Indian agent in New Mexico. He was subsequently largely instrumental in bringing about treaties between the U.S. and the Indians. During the late war, he rendered great service to the Union, in New Mexico, Colorado, and the Indian Territory, and was a brev. brig.-gen. At its close, he resumed his duties as Indian agent. In 1868, he visited Washington with a deputation of the Red men, and made a tour of several of the Northern and Eastern States. Unlike many of his profession, he was a man of remarkable modesty, and was an excellent judge of the Indian character. — See Life by Burdett (Phila., 1869).

Carter, JAMES GORDON, educationist, b. Leominster, Ms., Sept. 7, 1795; d. Chicago, July 22, 1849. H. U. 1820. He taught school at Leominster until 1830. In 1823, he contrib. to the Boston Patriot a series of papers subsequently pub. with the title of "Carter's Essays on Popular Education." In 1823, his "Letters to the Hon. William Prescott, on the Free Schools of N.E., with Remarks on the Principles of Instruction" first developed the idea of a normal school, or seminary for teachers. In 1824, he edited the U.S. Review, at Boston. In 1830, he assisted in organizing the Amer. Institute of Instruction, of which he was long an active member and officer. His lectures be[illegible] b. St. Malo, Dec. 31, 1494; d. ab[illegible]. The importance of having a colony [illegible] the fisheries of Newfoundland induced Francis I., after some unsuccessful attempts, to send out Cartier in 1534. He sailed from St. Malo, Apr. 20, with 2 ships of 60 tons, and 122 men. May 10, he saw Bona Vista, on the Island of Newfoundland; but, compelled by the ice to steer to the south, he entered a harbor at the distance of 5 leagues, to which he gave the name of St. Catharine. Entering the Straits of Belle Isle, he visited the greater part of the coast of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and took possession of the country in the name of the king. A bay which he discovered, was, on account of the sultry weather experienced in it, named by him de Chaleur; and he explored the great river afterwards called the St. Lawrence, returning home in Sept. A settlement having been determined upon, he received a more ample commission, was assigned 3 vessels, and sailed May 19, 1535. Ascending the St. Lawrence, he discovered an island, which he named Bacchus, but which is now called Orleans, in the vicinity of Quebec, and continued his voyage as far as Hochelaga, an Indian settlement upon an island which he called Monte Royal, now Montreal. He set sail for France in the following May, taking with him 10 of the natives, and arrived in July. In May, 1540, as pilot, with the command of 5 ships under Roberval, commissioned lieut.-gov. of Canada, he sailed on his third expedition, and built a fort which he called Charlesbourg, near the present site of Quebec. On his way to France, in the spring of 1542, he stopped at St. John's, Newfoundland, where he met Roberval, who did not accompany him in his voyage, by whom he was ordered to return to Canada; but choosing, rather, to pursue his voyage to France, he sailed out of the harbor privately in the night. After his return from his second voyage, he pub. (1545) "Memoirs of Canada." The journals of the two first journeys of Cartier are contained in the 32d vol. of Ramusio's Italian Collection (Venice, 1565), also in Lescarbot's "Histoire de la Nouvelle France;" a description of his 3d journey is in the 3d vol. of Hakluyt's "Principal Navigators," &c., 1600.

Digitized by Google

Cartwright, Col. George, was one of the commissioners to N.E. with Nicolls, Carr, and Maverick, in 1664. When, on their arrival at Boston, the commissioners informed the General Court that they should next day sit and hear a cause against the gov. and company, the court pub. "by sound of trumpet" its disapprobation of this proceeding, and prohibited all persons from abetting it. The commissioners, finding that they had to deal with men of this stamp, soon departed in displeasure. Cartwright, on his voyage to Eng. in 1665, was taken by the Dutch, and barely escaped with his life.

Cartwright, Capt. George, author of "A Journal of Transactions and Events during a Residence of nearly 16 Years in Labrador," 3 vols., 1792, Newark; b. Marnham, 1739; d. 1819. In the 7-years' war, he served in Germany, and attained the rank of capt.

Cartwright, Major John, political reformer, b. Eng., Sept. 28, 1740; d. London, Sept. 23, 1824. He had been an officer in the British navy. In 1774, he attracted notice by advocating the freedom of the Colonies, and, in 1775, pub. a tract, entitled "American Independence the Glory and Interest of Great Britain." This publication caused a rupture between him and his friend, Lord Howe, whose offer of a com. under him, against the Americans, he had rejected. It advocated a union between the Colonies and the mother-country under separate legislatures, and placed the question on the foundation of natural, inherent right. April 2, 1777, he presented to the king an address, recommending peace with Amer., and proposing the union he had before suggested in his letters on Amer. independence. In 1780, he joined with Dr. Jebb and Granville Sharpe in forming the "Society for Constitutional Information." His sentiments in favor of liberty subjected him to trial, and the payment of a fine, June 1, 1821. He pub. several political tracts, and, in his "Letters on the Slave Trade," favored the making that traffic piracy. His Life and Corresp., by his niece, Frances D. Cartwright, contains a map of his discoveries and explorations in Newfoundland, remarks on the aborigines, corresp. with Thos. Jefferson, &c.

Digitized by Google

Carvajal (kar-vä-häl'), FRANCIS DE, a Spanish captain, b. ab. 1464; d. 1548. He disting. himself at the battle of Pavia, and at the sack of Rome in 1527; then served in Amer., whither avarice had led him, and contributed to the victory of Chiapas, which Vaca de Castro, gov. of Peru, obtained over the young Almagro, and, in 1542, became a major-gen. Ranging himself on the side of Gonzales Pizarro, he became the soul of his party. Made prisoner with him in 1548, he was condemned to be hung. He was then 84 years old. Carvajal resembled the other conquerors of the New World, both in valor and cruelty. More than 20,000 Indians whom he had enslaved are said to have given way under the weight of the labor he had heaped upon them.

Carvallo (kar-väl'-yo), MANUEL, lawyer and diplomatist of Chili, b. Santiago, June, 1808. Finishing his education in the National Institute in 1830, he was at once app. chief clerk of the congress of plenipotentaries at Santiago, chief clerk of the state dept., representative in Congress, and chargé d'affaires to the U. S. He m. at Washington, returned home in 1835, and became a disting. lawyer. Minister to the U. S. in 1846. He has a profound knowledge of the law of nations; is a member of the committee to reform the Chilian Code; of the faculty of law and political science of the U. of Chili, and of some foreign societies. His printed legal opinions and arguments form a thick vol.

Carver, JOHN, first gov. of Plymouth, b. Eng.; d. Plymouth, Ms., April 5, 1621. He had a good estate in Eng., which he spent in the emigration to Holland and Amer., and was a deacon or elder in Mr. Robinson's church. He had quitted his country for the sake of religion, and had established himself at Leyden, when he was sent to effect a treaty with the Va. Company concerning territory in N. Amer. He obtained a patent in 1619, embarked in "The Mayflower," and, after a dangerous voyage, landed at Plymouth, Dec 21, 1620. Previous to their landing, on Nov. 21, the colonists agreed upon and subscribed a written instrument, by which they formed themselves into a body politic for their better order and preservation; and Carver was unanimously elected gov. He managed the affairs of the infant colony with prudence; was a man of great piety, integrity, and firmness of mind; and exhibited great address in his intercourse with the Indians, but died soon after landing.

Carver, JONATHAN, traveller, b. Stillwater, N.Y., 1732; d. London, Jan. 31, 1780. In the French war, he com. with reputation a company of provincials in the exped. against Canada. In 1763, he undertook to explore the vast territory gained by Great Britain in N. Amer. He accordingly left Boston in 1766, and having reached Michilimacinac, the remotest English post, applied to Mr. Rogers, the gov., for an assortment of goods, as presents for the Indians inhabiting the track he intended to pursue. Having received a part of the required supply, with a promise that the remainder should be sent after him at the Falls of St. Anthony, he continued his journey; but, the remainder of the goods not reaching him, he was under the necessity of returning to Prairie du Chien. Hence, in the beginning of 1767, he directed his steps northward, with a view of finding a communication from the heads of the Mississippi into Lake Superior. He reached Lake Superior, and returned, after continuing some months on its northern and eastern borders, and exploring the bays and rivers that empty themselves into this large body of water. Soon after his arrival at Boston, in Oct. 1768, up to which time he had travelled near 7,000 miles, he set out for Eng., "to communicate the discoveries he made, and render them beneficial to that kingdom." On his arrival, he presented a petition to the king, praying for a re-imbursement of the sums he had expended; and, after undergoing an examination by the board of trade, he received permission to publish his papers. His travels were pub. in 1778. The profits he derived from it were, however, insufficient to relieve his necessities; and, in the winter of 1779, he obtained a subsistence by acting as clerk in a lottery-office. Having sold his name to a historical compilation, which was pub. in 1779, in folio, entitled "The New Universal Traveller," containing an account of all the empires, kingdoms, and states in the known world, he was abandoned by those whose duty it was to support him. In the early part of 1780, he was reduced to a state of extreme destitution, and was carried off by dysentery. The circumstances of his death were made known to the public by the benevolent Dr. Lettsom, who brought out a new edition of his travels, for the benefit of his widow and children, and made such a representation of the author's sufferings, as finally led to the institution of the Literary Fund. Besides his "Travels," Carver wrote an excellent treatise on the cultivation of the tobacco-plant.

Cary, COL. ARCHIBALD, patriot and statesman, b. Va., ab. 1730; d. Ampthill, Sept. 1786.

Digitized by Google

He early became a member of the H. of burgesses. In 1764, he served on the committee which reported the address to the king, lords, and commons; in 1773, he was one of the committee of correspondence, and he served with distinction in the convention of 1776. As chairman of the committee of the whole, he reported the resolutions instructing the Va. delegates in Congress to propose independence. Upon the organization of the State govt., he was returned to the senate, where he presided with great dignity and efficiency until his death. He was descended from Henry, Lord Hunsdon, and at the time of his death was heir-apparent of the barony. He was a man of singular courage and intrepidity, short in stature, but possessed of great personal beauty.

Cary, JOHN, colored servant of Washington, whom he accomp. in the old French war, at Braddock's defeat, and through the Revol. war; b. Westmoreland County, Va., Aug. 1729; d. at Washington, June 2, 1843, in his 114th year.

Cary, LOTT, a Baptist preacher, originally a slave in Va., b. there ab. 1780; d. Monrovia, Nov. 10, 1828. In 1807, he joined a Baptist church in Richmond, Va., made rapid progress in learning, and soon, exhibiting talents of a superior order, became a preacher, and saved a sum sufficient to purchase the freedom of himself and family. He accomp. a colony of emigrants to Liberia in 1821, the existence of which was mainly preserved by his efforts, in appreciation of which, he was in 1825 elected the vice-agent. While engaged with others in making cartridges for an exped. against the natives, who had robbed a neighboring factory, a candle was overturned, occasioning an explosion, which caused the death of Cary and seven others.

Cary, COL. RICHARD, aide-de-camp to Washington in the Revol., b. Charlestown, Ms., Jan. 13, 1747; d. Dec. 13, 1806. H. U. 1763. App. A. D. C., 21 June, 1776.

Cary, COL. SIMEON, b. Bridgewater, Ms., Dec. 6, 1719; d. 1802. Capt. in the French war, col. in the Revol., and held many local offices.

Casa Irujo de (kä-sä e-roo-ho), CARLOS MARIA, MARTINEZ, MARQUIS, a Spanish statesman, b. Cartagena, 1765; d. 1824. From 1795 to 1808, he was minister to the U.S., where he m. a dau. of Gov. Thos. McKean. Plenipo. at the congress of Aix-la-Chapelle in 1818; ambassador to Paris in 1821; minister of foreign affairs, and pres. of the council, 1823–4.

Casal de (dā-kä-säl'), MANUEL AYRES, a Portuguese geographer, who emigrated to Brazil in his youth; made explorations there, residing some time in Rio Janeiro, and d. in Lisbon many years after the publication of his Historical and Geographical Description of Brazil, 1817.

Casas (dā läs kä-säs), BARTHOLOMEW DE LAS, a philanthropic Spanish missionary, b. Seville, 1474; d. Madrid in 1566. In 1493, he, with his father, accomp. Columbus to the West Indies. 5 years after, he returned to Spain, and entered the ecclesiastical order. He again accomp. Columbus in his second, third, and fourth voyages; was ordained on his arrival at St. Domingo in 1510, and, on the conquest of Cuba, settled there, and disting. himself by his humane conduct towards the oppressed natives, over whom he attained great influence. Besides setting at liberty those who had fallen to his share in the division, he interested himself so much for them, that, in 1516, he went to Spain to lay a statement of their case before King Ferdinand, whose death at that time prevented any measures for their redress. The regent, Cardinal Ximenes, however, app. a commission, whom Las Casas accomp. with the title of "Protector of the Indians." He next applied for a grant of an unoccupied tract in order to try his own plan with a new colony. Having obtained this, with 200 persons whom he had persuaded to accompany him, he landed at Porto Rico in 1521, but found an exped. advancing to ravage this very tract, and convey its inhabitants to Hispaniola as slaves. He endeavored in vain to prevent the threatened danger, and with a few adherents returned to Hispaniola to solicit succor. During his absence, the natives attacked the colonists with such success, that, in a short time, not a Spaniard remained in that part of America. In despair at the failure of his project, Las Casas retired to the Dominican Convent at St. Domingo, and assumed the habit of the order. While on a mission to Spain in 1542, he composed his celebrated treatise, "Brevissima Relacion de la Destruccion des Indes," in which he exposed the cruelties practised by the Spaniards. His unremitting perseverance at length obtained a new code of laws and regulations, by which the natives were greatly relieved. He returned in 1544, at the age of 70, and for the 8th time, to Amer. as Bishop of Chiapa, which office he resigned upon his return to Spain in 1551. He met with difficulties in the administration of his bishopric, and, having refused the sacraments to those of the colonists who reduced the Indians to slavery, drew upon himself not only the hostility of the planters, but also the disapproval of the church. The charge that he advised the importation of negro slaves as a substitute for Indians has been completely refuted by M. Gregoire, says the "Nouvelle Biographie Générale." He composed several unpublished works, among which is a "General History of the Indies," which greatly assisted Herrera in his history. All his works display profound learning, piety, and sound judgment.

Case, AUGUSTUS LUDLOW, commodore U.S.N., b. Newburgh, N.Y., Feb. 3, 1812; midshipm. Apr. 1, 1828; lieut. Feb. 25, 1841; commander, Sept. 14, 1855; capt. Jan. 2, 1863, commo. Dec. 8, 1867. He served in the Brazil squad, and in the W.I., 1828–34; in the exploring exped., 1838–42. During the Mexican war, 1846–8, he participated in the capture of Vera Cruz, Alvarado, and Tabasco; after taking possession of Laguna, he took with 25 men, and held for a fortnight, the town of the same name on the Palisada River; com. steamer "Caledonia," Brazil squadron and Paraguay exped., 1859; com. steam-frigate "Minnesota," 1861–2; engaged Forts Clark and Hatteras, Aug. 28, 29, 1861; took part in the battle of Roanoke Island, Feb. 7–8, 1862; com. Iroquois N.A. blockad. squad. 1863. He had charge of the blockade of New Inlet, N.C., and was engaged in cutting out the steamer "Kate" from under the batteries at New Inlet. Lighthouse insp. 1867–69; chief of bureau of ordnance, Aug. 10, 1869.

Digitized by Google

Casey, GEN. LEVI, Revol. officer; M.C. 1803–7, b. S.C., 1749; d. Washington, D.C., Feb. 1, 1807. He com. a company, with which he assisted in the assault on Savannah; was disting. at Rocky Mount, Hanging Rock, Musgrove's, King's Mountain, Fishing Creek, Blackstocks, and the Cowpens, where he performed services of great importance to Morgan; and represented the Newbury dist. in the State legisl. and in Congress. — Nat. Intell. Feb. 6, 1807.

Casey, SILAS, brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. East Greenwich, R.I., July 12, 1807. West Point, 1826. Entering the 2d Inf., he became capt. 1 July, 1839, disting. under Worth in Florida war in 1837–41; brev. major for Contreras and Churubusco, Aug. 20, 1847; com. and severely wounded while leading stormers at Chapultepec; and brev. lieut.-col. July, 1848; lieut.-col. 9th Inf., March 3, 1855; com. and disting. in operations against Indians on Puget's Sound, W.T., 1856; col. 4th Inf., Oct. 9, 1861; brig.-gen. vols., Aug. 31, 1861, and charged with organizing and disciplining the vols. in and near the capital. He was afterward assigned a division in Gen. Keyes's corps of the Army of the Potomac, and, occupying with it the extreme advance before Richmond, received the first attack of the enemy at Fair Oaks, May 31, 1862, for which he was brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A.; maj.-gen. May 31, 1862; brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., 13 Mar. 1865, for gallant and merit. services in the Rebellion. Retired July 8, 1868. In 1867, he received the thanks of the R.I. legisl. for his services in the Rebellion, and especially for his bravery, skill, and energy at the battle of Fair Oaks. Author of "System of Infantry Tactics," 2 vols., 1861, and of "Infantry Tactics for Colored Troops," 1863. — Cullum.

Casilear, J. W., landscape-painter of New York. Engraver and designer for the Amer. Bank Note Co. until 1854. He spent 2 years in Europe in 1840–2, visiting the great galleries of art. In 1857–8, he sketched in Switzerland and Savoy. He excels in lake scenes and in Alpine peaks. Among his best works are "Lake George," "June," "Swiss Lake," "The Four Seasons," and "Chocorua Mountain, N.H." His works evince truth, precision, and delicacy. He m. a N.H. lady in 1867.

Cass, LEWIS, statesman, b. Exeter, N.H., 9 Oct. 1782; d. Detroit, 17 June, 1866. Son of Jonathan, capt. in Revol. army, who d. Zanesville, O., 14 Aug. 1830, a. 77. At 17, with an academic education, he crossed the Alleghany Mountains on foot, studied law, and began practice in Zanesville, ab. 1802. Member O. legisl. at 25; marshal of the State in 1807–13; col. 3d O. regt., which, under Gen. Hull, invaded Canada, and surrendered at Detroit, Aug. 16, 1812; app. col. 27th Inf., Feb. 1813; brig.-gen. U.S.A., 12 Mar. 1813, and was a vol. aide to Harrison at the battle of the Thames; app. gov. of Michigan Terr., Oct. 1813, and, as superintendent of Indian affairs, negotiated 19 Indian treaties. In 1819–20, he organized a scientific exploration of the Upper Mpi. Resigning the office of gov. in 1831, he was app., in July, sec. of war by Pres. Jackson; was minister to France in 1836–42; U.S. senator, 1845–8, and, nominated by the Democ. convention at Baltimore to the presidency in May, 1848, received 137 electoral votes to 163 for Gen. Taylor, the Whig candidate. Again U.S. senator, 1851–Mar. 1857, he voted for Douglas's Kansas-Nebraska Bill in 1854. Sec. of State to Pres. Buchanan, Mar. 1857–Dec. 1860, resigning on account of the pres. declining to re-enforce the garrison of Fort Sumter. While sec. of war, the policy of removing the Indians to the west of the Mpi., which he strenuously advocated, led to the war with the Seminoles in Florida, who were finally subdued at the cost of much blood and treasure. At the close of his diplomatic career, he attacked the "quintuple treaty," for the suppression of the slave-trade. His criticisms on the Ashburton Treaty, negotiated by Mr. Webster, then sec. of State, produced a sharp controversy between the two. In his letter to Mr. Nicholson, in Dec. 1847, he opposed the Wilmot Proviso, and questioned the power of Congress to exclude slavery from the Territories. It first enunciated the doctrine of "Popular (Squatter) Sovereignty." He supported the compromise measures of 1850, and favored a compromise in the disunion movement that followed Mr. Lincoln's election. Though approving Buchanan's denial of the existence of any power in the Constitution to coerce a State, he was yet in full sympathy with the national cause during the Rebellion. Author of "France, its King, Court, and Government," 1840; articles upon Indian affairs in the N. A. Review, Nos. 50 and 55, also contrib. to the Southern Lit. Messenger. — See Schoolcraft, Life of Cass, 1848; W. L. G. Smith, Life of Cass, 1856.

Cassin, JOHN, capt. U.S.N., b. Phila., ab. 1750; d. Charleston, S.C., Mar. 24, 1822. He was app. from the merchant-service a lieut. in the navy, Nov. 13, 1799; master, Apr. 2, 1806; post capt. July 3, 1812. He com. the naval forces in the Delaware, for the protection of Phila., in the War of 1812. Father of Com. Stephen Cassin, U.S.N.

Cassin, JOHN, ornithologist, b. near Chester, Pa., Sept. 6, 1813; d. Jan. 10, 1869. He removed to Phila. in 1834, and, excepting a few years of mercantile pursuit, devoted himself to ornithology. He contrib. descriptions of new species to the Proceedings and the Journal of the Phila. Acad. of Natural Science, and pub. "Birds of California and Texas," 8vo, containing descriptions and colored engravings of 50 species not given by Audubon; a "Synopsis of the Birds of N. America," "Ornithology of the U.S. Exploring Exped.," "Ornithology of the Japan Exploring Exped.," "Ornithology of Gilliss's Astronomical Exped. to Chili," and the chapters on rapacious and wading Birds in "The Ornithology of the Pacific Railroad Explorations and Surveys." He was

Digitized by Google

was made a peer and lieut.-gen. He was Rouen when Napoleon returned from and made strenuous efforts in the cause
.

Castro de (dā käs'-tro), VACA, a Spanish
b. at Leon; d. 1558. He was a judge of Royal Court at Valladolid, when, in 1540,
Charles V. sent him as gov. to Peru, then disturbed by the rebellion of Almagro. In 1542, a battle was fought at Chupas, in which Almagro was defeated and taken, and, by order of Castro, executed on the spot. Superseded in 1544, he returned to Spain, where he was several years imprisoned. — Prescott's Conquest of Peru.

Caswell, ALEXIS, D.D. (B.U. 1841), LL.D. (1865), pres. B.U. since Feb. 1868. B.U. 1822. Prof. of languages Col. Coll., D.C.; prof. of math. and nat. philos. B.U., 1828–50, and of math. and astron., 1850–64. Author of "A Memoir of John Barstow," 1864; b. Taunton, Ma., Jan. 29, 1799; d. Prov. Jan. 8, 1877.

Caswell, RICHARD, statesman and soldier, b. Md., Aug. 3, 1729; d. Fayetteville, N.C., Nov. 20, 1789. He moved to N.C. in 1746; was for some years employed in the public offices, and afterward studied and practised law successfully. He was a member of the assembly from 1754 to 1771; speaker of the house in 1770–1, and com. the right wing of Gov. Tryon's forces at the battle of Allamance, May 16, 1771. Identifying himself with the patriots at the breaking-out of the Revol., he was a delegate to Congress in 1774–5; treasurer of the southern district of N.C., Sept. 1775; 3 years pres. of the Prov. Congress, which framed the State constitution in Nov. 1776, and was gov. of the State during the trying period of 1777–9. Feb. 27, 1776, he com. at the battle of Moore's Creek, defeating a large body of loyalists under Gen. McDonald, who was made prisoner, — a victory of great benefit to the patriot cause in N.C., and which earned for him the thanks of Congress and the app. of maj.-gen. for the district of Newbern. In 1780, he led the State troops in the disastrous battle of Camden; was chosen speaker of the senate, and controller-gen. in 1782; was again gov. in 1784–6; was a delegate to the convention which framed the Federal Constitution in 1787, and in 1789 was elected to the State senate from Dobbs Co., and also a member of the convention which in Nov. ratified the Federal Constitution. When the assembly met, he was chosen speaker, and while presiding, Nov. 5, 1789, was struck with paralysis. He was grand-master of Free Masons in N.C.; and on his death a funeral oration was delivered by Francois X. Martin. His son William served through the Revol., and was a brig.-gen. of militia in 1781.

Catesby, MARK, F.R.S., naturalist, b. Eng., 1679; d. London, Dec. 24, 1749. A taste for natural history, early imbibed, induced him in 1710, after studying the natural sciences in London, to make a voyage to Va., where he was occupied in collecting its various productions. He returned to Eng. in 1719, with a rich collection of plants, but at the suggestion of Sir Hans Sloane, and other eminent naturalists, re-embarked for Amer., with the professed purpose of describing, delineating, and collecting the most curious natural objects in that country, arriving in May, 1722. He resided chiefly in Carolina, whence he made excursions to Ga., Fla., and the Bahama Islands, and, on his return to Eng. in 1726, he prepared for publication, in two vols. folio, "The Natural History of Carolina, Florida, and the Bahama Islands," 1731–48. In this work were found the first descriptions of several plants which are now cultivated in all European gardens. The figures were etched by himself, from his own paintings; and the colored copies were executed under his own inspection. Catesby was a fellow of the Roy. Society, to whose transactions he contrib. a paper asserting the migration of birds, on his own observations. A plant of the tetrandrous class has been called, after him, Catesbea, by Gronovius. He wrote "Hortus Brittanno Americanus."

Digitized by Google

Cathcart, William Schaw, Earl, soldier and diplomatist, b. 1755; d. June 16, 1843. Educated at the U. of Glasgow, and designed for the law. Entered the army in June, 1777; came to Amer., and served with the 16th dragoons, and afterward as the aide of Gen. T. S. Wilson and Sir Henry Clinton. He served gallantly at the storming of Forts Montgomery and Clinton, and was wounded at Brandywine and at Monmouth. He raised and com. the Caledonian Vols., subsequently known as Tarleton's British Legion; maj. 38th Foot, April 13, 1779, and com. that regt. in the actions at Springfield and Elizabethtown, N.J., in June, 1780; served as quartermaster-gen. until the arrival of Gen. Dalrymple; was present at the siege of Charleston, and returned to Eng. in Oct.; brig.-gen. in 1793, under Lord Moira, and served under the Duke of York in 1794; lieut.-gen. 1801; com. in Hanover in 1805; was minister to Sweden in 1807, and joined Lord Gambier in the exped. against Copenhagen; made viscount, Nov. 3, 1807; gen. in 1813; minister to Russia, 1813–14, and created a British peer, June 18, 1814. He was the representative of England in the Congress of Vienna. In April, 1779, he m. the dau. of Andrew Elliot of N.Y.

Cathrall, Isaac, M.D., physician, b. Phila., 1764; d. Feb. 22, 1819. He studied medicine under Dr. Redman, and in London, Edinburgh, and Paris. Returned home early in 1793, and during the prevalence of yellow-fever in that year (in which he suffered severely with the disease), and in 1797–9, he remained at his post, and even dissected those who d. of the disease. He pub. "Remarks on the Yellow-Fever," 1794; "Buchan's Domestic Medicine, with Notes," 1797; "Memoir on the Analysis of the Black Vomit," 1800, in vol. 5 of the "Trans. of the Amer. Philos. Society," and a pamphlet on the yellow-fever in conjunction with Dr. Currie, in 1802. He was a surgeon of the city almshouse from 1810 to 1816. — Thacher.

Catlin, George, artist, and tourist among the Indians, b. Wyoming Valley, Pa., ab. 1796. His father was a lawyer. George studied law in Ct., practised 2 years, and subsequently, though uninstructed in the art, became a painter in Phila. In 1832–9, he visited some 48 Indian tribes, painted 200 of the chiefs and warriors. He also visited Fla. and Ark. His letters were pub. in 2 vols., 8vo, with illustrations, 1841; also "North-American Portfolio of Hunting-Scenes," fol., 25 plates, Lond., 1844; "Notes of 8 Years' Travel and Residence in Europe," Lond., 2 vols., 8vo, 1848; "Life among the Indians," "Okeepah," Lond., 1867. His gallery of aboriginal portraits was exhibited in the principal cities of America and Europe; d. Jersey City, N. J. Dec. 23, 1872.

Catron, John, jurist, b. Wilkesbarre, Va., 1778; d. Nashville, Tenn., 30 May, 1865. With only a common school education, he studied in Tenn., and was adm. to the bar in 1815. He served one campaign, under Gen. Jackson; became State atty. for his circuit, and removing in 1818 to Nashville, where he subsequently resided, attained high rank as a chancery lawyer; chosen judge of the State Supreme Court in Dec. 1824; he was chief-justice in 1830–6, and in March, 1837, was made a justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, where his great knowledge of the laws applicable to land-titles rendered him exceedingly useful. In 1860–61, he opposed secession, and was driven from the State, but returned in 1862. His State decisions are in "Yerger's Tenn. Reports," i.-viii.; his opinions as a national judge, in the later vols. of Peters, the 20 vols. of Howard, and the 2 vols. of Black.

Caulkins, Frances Manwaring, author, b. N. London, Ct., April 26, 1795; d. there Feb. 3, 1869. She taught school in Norwich and N. London, until 1834, when she adopted literature as a profession, residing in New Haven from 1836 to 1842, and afterward in N. London. She was a contrib. in prose and verse to the N. London papers, and wrote for the Amer. Tract Society; 6 vols. of "Bible Studies," 1854–9; and "Eve and Her Daughters," 1861. She was also a contrib. to their American Messenger. Author of a "History of Norwich," 1845, a new and enlarged edition, 1866, 8vo, and "History of New London," 8vo, 1852 and 1860. She was a member of several historical societies.

Cavendish, Lord John, a British statesman. Son of the 3rd Duke of Devonshire; d. Dec. 19, 1796. He was one of the lords of the treasury under the ministry of the Marquis of Rockingham, and, in the Amer. war, was a constant opponent of Lord North, whom he succeeded as chancellor of the exchequer in 1782.

Cavendish, Thomas, an eminent English navigator, b. 1564; d. 1593. He was the son of a gentleman who possessed a good estate at Trimley St. Martin, in Suffolk, which he inherited; but, having impoverished himself by living at court, he fitted out some vessels for a predatory exped. against the Spanish-American Colonies, with a view to retrieve his affairs. In 1585, he accomp. the exped. under Ralph Lane and Sir R. Grenville, to colonize Va. He sailed from Plymouth with 3 small ships, July 21, 1586, and after having ravaged the western coasts of America, and taken a Spanish vessel of 700 tons, richly laden, he sailed across the South Sea, and returned by way of the Cape of Good Hope to Eng., Sept. 9, 1588; having circumnavigated the globe in less time than any preceding adventurer. The great wealth, as well as fame, which he acquired from this undertaking, prompted him to engage in another voyage, on which he embarked Aug. 26, 1591. Tempestuous weather, sickness, and other causes, contributed to render the scheme unfortunate; and Cavendish himself died on the coast of Brazil, or on the passage home, from sickness, and grief at his ill success. Author of "Voyage to Magellanica in 1586."

Digitized by Google

Cerrachi (chă-räk'-kee), GIUSEPPE, an Italian sculptor, and an ardent Republican, guillotined for conspiring against Napoleon, 1801, b. ab. 1760. Came to Phila. in 1791, and executed a noble bust of Washington, also of Alex. Hamilton, and other eminent men. When Bonaparte invaded Italy in 1796, he made a statue of that general. In 1800, having formed with Arena and others a design to assassinate the first consul, he proposed to make another statue; but his design was detected.

Chabert (shä'-bair'), JOSEPH BERNARD, Marquis of, a distinguished navigator, astronomer, and geographer, b. Toulon, Feb. 28, 1724; d. Paris, Dec. 1, 1805. He entered the naval service in 1741; was an enthusiastic topographer, and planned and executed maps of the shores of N. America and the Mediterranean, especially of Greece; became in 1758 a member of the French Academy, and, during the Amer. war, he disting. himself so highly, that, in 1781, he was made commander of a squadron, and vice-admiral, 1792. Driven by the Revol. to England, he returned to Paris in 1802, when Bonaparte assigned him a pension, and, in 1804, app. him to the board of longitude. One of his principal works comprises his observations on the American coast, and is entitled "Voyages sur les Côtés de l'Amérique Septentrionale," Paris, 1753, 4to. — Nouv. Biog. Gen.

Chalkley, THOMAS, Quaker preacher, b. London, Mar. 3, 1675; d. Tortola, one of the Virgin Islands, Sept. 4. 1741. He was pressed on board a man-of-war at the age of 20, but was dismissed, as his principles forbade him to fight. After finishing his apprenticeship to a trade, he travelled and preached in Eng. for a few months, and engaged in the love of the gospel to visit friends in Amer. Landing in Md. in Jan. 1698, he travelled one year, visiting N. Eng. and Va., and, after "several good and open meetings in Va.," returned to Eng. After a journey to Ireland, he removed permanently to Amer. Settling his wife in Phila., 1701, he occupied himself in journeys through various parts of the country. In 1707, he again visited Barbadoes; sailed thence for Eng., and was shipwrecked on the Irish coast. Upon leaving Ireland, he journeyed through Great Britain, and, after a visit to Holland and Germany, returned to Phila. His "Journal," which he continued to within a few days of his death, was pub., with a coll. of the author's writings, in Phila. in 1749, reprinted at N.Y. in 1808. By a bequest in his will, he founded the Library of the Friends at Phila. — Duyckinck.

Chalmers, GEORGE, historical and political writer, b. Fochabers, Scotland, 1742; d. in London, May 21, 1825. He was educated at King's Coll., Aberdeen, and at Edinburgh. In 1763, he accomp. his uncle to Amer. for the purpose of giving him legal assistance in the recovery of a large tract of land in Md., and practised his profession at Baltimore, where in a few years he acquired an extensive and profitable business. On the breaking-out of the Revol. in 1775, he went to Eng., not one of the least suffering loyalists. Not receiving compensation for his losses, he applied himself to the preparation of his "Political Annals of the Present United Colonies," pub. in 1780; "An Introduction to the History of the Revolt of the Colonies;" "Estimate of the Comparative Strength of Great Britain during the Present and Four Preceding Reigns," which went through several editions, and was translated into French and German; and "Opinions on Interesting Subjects of Public Law and Commercial Policy, arising from American Independence." In Aug. 1786, he was app. chief clerk of the board of trade; and, for the next 40 years, continued to pub. a variety of works, of which the principal are "Churchyard Chips concerning Scotland," "Life of Mary, Queen of Scots," and his "Caledonia," which he did not live to complete, but by which alone he will be known to posterity. Under the nom de plume Francis Oldys of the U. of Pa., he pub. "Life of Thos. Paine," Lond. 8vo, 1791–2.

Chalmers, LIONEL, M.D., physician, b. Cambleton, in the West of Scotland, ab. 1715; d. 1777. A graduate of the U. of Edinburgh. He came to Carolina when very young, and practised, first in Christ Church Parish, and afterwards in Charleston. In 1754, he wrote "Useful Remarks on Opisthotonos and Tetanus," which were pub. in the first vol. of "The Observations and Inquiries of the Medical Society of London," and in 1767, at Charleston, "An Essay on Fevers." Besides several smaller productions, he also pub. a valuable work illustrative of the weather and diseases of S. C., 2 vols., Lond., 1776. — Thacher.

Chambers, EZEKIEL F., LL.D. (Y. C. 1833), jurist and statesman, b. Kent Co., Md., Feb. 28, 1788; d. Charlestown, Md., Jan. 30, 1867. Wash. Coll., Md., 1805. Adm. to the Md. bar in 1808. In the War of 1812, he did military duty, and subsequently became brig.-gen. of militia. In 1822, he was elected to the State senate; was a U. S. senator from 1826 to 1835, disting. himself as an able debater; was chief judge of the second judicial dist. and of the Court of Appeals, from 1834 to 1851, and was an active member of the State Const. Conv. in 1850. In 1852, ill health compelled him to decline the post of sec. of the navy offered him by Pres. Fillmore.

Chambers, GEORGE, LL.D. (Wash. Coll., Pa., 1861), jurist and author, b. Chambersburg, 1786; d. there, Mar. 25, 1866. N. J. Coll. 1804. Grandson of the founder of his native town. Was adm. to the bar in 1807, his talent, energy, and integrity placing him in the front rank of his profession. He was M.C. in 1833–7. Member of the Pa. Const. Conv., and in 1851 became a judge of the Pa. Supreme Court. He was much interested in the early history of his State, had pub. some of his researches in his "Tribute to the Scotch-Irish," and had prepared others for the Hist. Society, unfortunately destroyed when the rebels burned Chambersburg.

Digitized by Google

Chambers, JOHN, chief-justice of N.Y., member of the exec. council in 1754, and a commissioner to the Albany Congress, June 14, 1754; d. N.Y., April 10, 1765. — Allen.

Chambers, JOHN, lawyer, and gov. of Iowa (1841–5), b. N.J., 1779; d. near Paris, Ky., Sept. 21, 1852. At the age of 13, he went to Ky., and located himself in Washington, Mason Co., where he studied and practised law, soon obtaining a lucrative business. In 1813, he became a vol. aide to Gen. Harrison, whose election to the presidency in 1840 he zealously promoted. Mr. Chambers was frequently a member of the Ky. legisl., and M.C. 1827–9 and 1835–9.

Chamorro, FRUTO, a Central Amer. statesman and gen., b. Guatemala, 1806, elected supreme director or pres., 1853; d. 1855.

Champe, JOHN, a brave Revol. soldier, b. Loudoun Co., Va., 1752; d. Ky., ab. 1798. He is noted for his daring attempt to capture the traitor Arnold, for which duty he was selected by Col. Lee, of whose legion he was sergt.-major. He failed in the attempt in consequence of the removal of Arnold's quarters on the day designated for his capture.

Champlain (sham-plān'), SAMUEL DE, founder and gov. of Quebec, b. of good family, in Brouage, Saintonge, 1567; d. Dec. 25, 1635. He had acquired a high reputation as a skilful officer previous to his employment by De Chaste to make a voyage to Canada, whither he sailed, March 16, 1603, arriving at Tadoussac, May 25. In a light bateau, he ascended the St. Lawrence to the falls of St. Louis, which was the limit of Cartier's discoveries in 1535; and, after exploring much of the country along the river, he sailed for France in Aug. On his arrival there in Sept., De Monts engaged him as his pilot in another voyage to the New World. Sailing, March 7, 1604, he arrived at Acadia, May 6, and selected for settlement a small island, to which De Monts gave the name of "St. Croix." In this voyage, he explored the coast as far as Cape Cod. In 1608, he was sent on another voyage to Tadoussac, accomp. by Pontgrave. In July, 1608, he laid the foundation of Quebec, and subsequently, while engaged in a hostile exped. against the Iroquois, discovered the lake which still bears his name. He again sailed from France in April, 1610, and, in another exped. against the Iroquois, was wounded by an arrow, and soon after returned to France. App. lieut.-gov., with extensive powers, he returned to Amer. in 1612, where he made new discoveries, exploring the Ottawa River, Lakes Huron, and Ontario. He went home to get permission to fortify the settlement. He returned with his family, and the title of gov. in 1620. In July, 1629, he was obliged to capitulate to Sir David Kirk, and was carried to France in an English ship. In 1632, Canada, with Acadia and Cape Breton, being restored to France by treaty, the company of New France resumed all their rights, and app. Champlain gov. His zeal for the propagation of Christianity was very great. A coll. was established at Quebec, in which the children of the savages were trained in habits of civilization, and in the use of the French language. In 1603, he pub. an account of his first voyage, in 4to, and, in 1620, a continuation, in 8vo. In 1632, he pub. an edition of both these in one vol., entitled "Les Voyages à la Nouvelle France Occidentale, et Canada," 4to. This work comprises a history of New France from the first discoveries of Verrazani to 1631. The best edition of his works is that pub in 4to, 1640. His "Voyage to the W. Indies and Mexico," 1599–1602, ed. by N. Shaw, was pub. by the Hakluyt Soc., Lond., 1859.

Champlin, CHRISTOPHER GRANT, b. Newport, April 12, 1768; d. there March 28, 1840. H.U. 1786. His uncle GEORGE (1738-1809) was a merchant of Newport, an officer of the Revol.; memb. Cont. Congress, 1785-6, and of the convention which adopted the U.S. Constitution. He resided some years in Europe, where a part of his time was passed at the Coll of St. Omer's; M.C. 1797–1801; U.S. senator, 1809–11. Many years pres. of the Bank of R.I.

Champlin, STEPHEN, commodore U.S.N., b. S. Kingston, R.I., Nov. 17, 1789; d. Buffalo, Feb. 20, 1870. His father Stephen was a vol. in the Amer. Revol. His mother, Elizabeth Perry, was an aunt of Com. Perry. At 16, he began a seafaring life, and, at 22, com. a ship out of Norwich. May 22, 1812, he was app. sailing-master in the navy; lieut. Dec. 9, 1814; commander, June 22, 1838; capt. Aug. 4, 1850, and commo. on retired list, July 16, 1862. He first com. a gunboat under Perry at Newport; was second in com. of "The Asp," in the affairs of Little York and Fort George, U.C.; and, joining Perry at Lake Erie, took com. of "The Scorpion," in which he did good service at the battle of Sept. 10, 1813, capturing "The Little Belt." Of this battle, in which he fired the first and last guns, he was the last surviving officer. In the following spring, he com. "The Tigris," and, while blockading Mackinac, was attacked at night by an overwhelming force, severely wounded, and made prisoner. In 1816, he com. "The Porcupine," but performed little subsequent service on account of his wound. He was a resident of Buffalo from 1834. — Buffalo Comt. Adv., Feb. 21.

Champlin, STEPHEN G., brig.-gen. vols; d. Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 29, 1864. He rose from the rank of major to that of brig.-gen. Nov. 29, 1862, was disting. in the principal battles of 1862–3, including those of Antietam and Fredericksburg, and was severely wounded at Fair Oaks.

Champney, BENJAMIN, landscape-painter, b. N. Ipswich, N.H., Nov. 20, 1817. Came to Boston in 1834, worked in Pendleton's lithographic establishment in 1837–40; studied and painted at the Louvre Gallery, Paris, in 1841–5; then visited Italy with Kensett, and, revisiting Europe in 1847–8, painted a panorama of the Rhine. Since 1853, he has passed his summers at N. Conway, where he has a cottage and studio, and has painted many White Mountain views, as well as those of Switzerland, which are owned in and around Boston. In 1865–6, he again visited Italy and Switzerland.

Digitized by Google

Champney, JAMES WELLS, "Champ," painter of genre pictures, b. Boston, July 16, 1843. Apprenticed to a wood-engraver at the age of 16. Enlisted for 9 months in the 45th Ms. Vols. In '63, after return from the war, designed on wood. Teacher in drawing at Dr. Dio Lewis's Sem., at Lexington, for two years. Sailed for Paris, Oct. 16, 1866; studied abroad until June 1870. Pupil of Edouard Frère, and of the Fine Arts School in Antwerp. Settled in Boston in Oct. 1870. Has painted, among other pieces "The Roguish "Sister," "Little Boy Shelling Peas," and "Domino-Player."

Chanche, JOHN J., D.D., R.C. bishop of Natchez, consec. March 14, 1841; d. July 22, 1852.

Chandler, ABIEL, a philanthropic merchant, b. Concord, N.H., Feb. 26, 1777; d. Walpole, N.H., March 22, 1851. H.U. 1806. Occupied until the age of 21 in agricultural labors, and from 1806 to 1817 was a teacher in Salem and Newburyport. For many years, he was engaged in business in Boston, and was well known as a partner in the house of Chandler, Howard, & Co., retiring in 1845 with a fortune. He bequeathed $1,600, and also the surplus of his estate, to the N.H. Asylum for the Insane, and $50,000 to Dartm. Coll., for the establishment of a scientific school connected with that institution.

Chandler, ELIZABETH MARGARET, poet, b. Centre, near Wilmington, Del., Dec. 24, 1807; d. Nov. 22, 1834. Dau. of Thomas Chandler, a Quaker farmer; was educated at the Friends' school in Phila., and commenced writing verses at an early age. Her poem, "The Slave-Ship," written at 18, gained a prize offered by the Casket, a monthly magazine. Most of her subsequent productions appeared in the Genius of Universal Emancipation, an antislavery periodical of Phila. In 1830, she removed to Mich., and settled near the village of Tecumseh, on the River Raisin. In 1836, her poetical works, with a Memoir by Benjamin Lundy, were pub. at Phila. — Duyckinck.

Chandler, GEN. JOHN, b. Monmouth, Ms., 1760; d. Augusta, Me., Sept. 25, 1841. Originally a blacksmith, by perseverance and industry, he became wealthy. Was a counsellor and senator from 1803 to 1805; M. C. 1805–8; brig.-gen. July 8, 1812; wounded and made prisoner at Stony Creek, U.C., June 6, 1813; and from 1820 to 1829, U.S. senator from Me.; collector of Portland, 1829–37; trustee of Bowd. Coll., sheriff of Kennebec Co., and maj.-gen. of militia.

Chandler, JOSEPH R., editor, b. Kingston, Ms., 1792. He adopted the profession of the law; was M.C. from Pa., 1849–55; and in 1858–61 was minister to Naples. He edited the United-States Gazette in Phila. for many years, and subsequently the Philadelphia North American. He pub. a "Grammar of the English Language" in 1821, and subsequently a large number of essays and addresses upon literary and social topics, and congressional speeches.

Chandler, THOMAS BRADBURY, D D (Oxf. U. 1766), Prot.-Epis. clergyman and controversialist, b. Woodstock, Ct., 26 Apr. 1726 d. Elizabethtown, N.J., 17 June, 1790. Y. C. 1745. In 1747, he became lay-reader in St John's Church, Elizabethtown, and, after being ord. in Eng. in 1751, was rector there till his death, excepting in 1775–85, when, being a loyalist, he was in Eng. App. bishop of Nova Scotia, but declined. He was a zealous defender of Episcopacy, and in 1767 pub. "An Appeal in Behalf of the Church of Eng. in Amer." This was attacked by Dr. Chauncey, to whom he replied with "The Appeal Defended," and, in 1771, "The Appeal Further Defended." Also author of "A Life of Samuel Johnson," pres. of King's Coll., 12mo, 1805.

Channing, EDWARD TYRREL, LL.D. (H.U. 1847), prof. of rhetoric in H. U. (1819–51), b. Newport, R.I., 12 Dec. 1790; d. Cambridge, Ms., 8 Feb. 1856. Bro. of Rev. William E. Channing. He studied at H.U., but did not graduate, and opened a law-office in Boston. Editor of the N. Amer. Rev. 1819–21, and a contrib. until his death. His style was vigorous and pure, his taste severe and critical; and he excelled in conversation. He delivered the oration in Boston, 4 July, 1817. Author of a Memoir of William Ellery, in Sparks's "Amer. Biog." In 1856, a vol. of his lectures was pub. with a memoir, by R. H. Dana, jun.

Channing, WALTER, M.D. (U. of Pa.), physician, bro. of W. E. and E. T. Channing, b. Newport, R.I., Apr. 15, 1786. He was at H.U. in 1804–7. Studied medicine under Dr. James Jackson of Boston, and Prof. Barton of Phila. Afterward studied at the U. of Edinburgh, at Guy's and St. Thomas's Hospitals, London, and began practice in Boston in 1812. Lecturer in 1812, and prof. of obstetrics and med. jurisp. in H.U. from 1815 to 1854; assist. phys. Ms. Hospital from 1821 to 1840. Dr. C. has been a frequent contrib. to med. and literary periodicals, besides pub. a vol. of "Miscellaneous Poems," 1851; "A Physician's Vacation, or a Summer in Europe," 1856; "Etherization in Childbirth," 1848; "Address on the Prevention of Pauperism," 12mo, 1843; "Professional Reminiscences of Foreign Travel," 8vo; "New and Old," 12 mo, 1851; "Reformation of Medical Science," 1851. He has also written many fugitive pieces in prose and verse. His son, WILLIAM ELLERY, (whose wife, ELLEN K., sister of Margaret Fuller, d. Sept. 22, 1856, a. 36), has pub. "Poems," 1843, 1847, and 1849; "Youth of the Poet and Painter," in "The Dial," 1844; "Conversations in Rome," 1847.

Channing, WILLIAM ELLERY, D. D. (H.U. 1820), a Unitarian divine of great celebrity, b. Newport, R.I., April 7, 1780; d. Benningtón, Vt., Oct. 2, 1842. H.U. 1798. His father Wm., an eminent lawyer of Newport, d. Oct. 1793, a. 42: his mother was the dau. of Wm. Ellery, one of the signers of the Decl. of Indep. The influences of the climate and scenery of the island where his boyhood was passed, had no slight influence upon the social and moral attributes of his mind. At the university, he attained the highest honors.

Digitized by Google

On leaving coll., he spent one year in Richmond, Va., as a teacher in the family of David M. Randolph. Returning from the South in feeble health, in 1802, he went through a course of theol. study, and June 1, 1803, became the pastor of the Federal-st. Society in Boston, which was extremely small at the time of his ordination, but soon rose from his popularity to be one of the first parishes in the city. A feeble constitution, and liability to disease, occasioned, probably, by his residence in Va., proved great impediments to his labors throughout his professional career. He made a voyage to Europe in 1822 for this cause, remaining little more than a year; and, in the autumn of 1830, he again left the U.S., and spent the winter in St. Croix. His bodily infirmities occasioned the app. of a colleague in 1824; but he occasionally officiated in the pulpit until 1840, when he resigned, delivering his last public address 1 Aug. 1842, at Lenox, in commemoration of the abolition of slavery in the West Indies. The pub. works of Dr. Channing include a large number of religious discourses, the articles on Milton, Bonaparte, and Fénelon, which appeared in the Christian Examiner in 1826–9, and a variety of tracts on temperance, education, slavery, and the condition of the laboring classes. An edition of his works has been pub. in 6 vols., 1846. His "Sermon on War," before the conv. of Cong. ministers in 1816, was widely circulated, and contrib. powerfully to the formation of peace societies in the U.S. His lectures on "Self-Culture," 1839, and on "The Elevation of the Laboring Classes," 1840, had an extensive circulation, and were repub. in Eng. He was one of the earliest agitators of antislavery in the U.S., but did not, until he delivered his address in Faneuil Hall in 1837, become publicly identified with the political movement for abolition. In 1837, he addressed a letter to Henry Clay, against the annexation of Texas, and in 1841 pub. his work on Slavery. Among his theol. discourses, his lecture on "The Evidences of Christianity," delivered at H.U. in 1821, is, perhaps, the most remarkable. He was a man of great independence of mind. He paid no respect to men on account of their wealth or office. His sermons on "The Paternal Character of God," on "The Loveliness of the Example of Christ," on "The Evidence of Christianity," and on "Political and Moral Integrity," are admirable. He spoke out in intelligible terms on conjugal infidelity and licentiousness. In the pulpit, his gravity and solemnity exceeded that of most preachers. His elocution was peculiar. His preaching and his writings were corroborated by a life of high moral character. During the Unitarian controversy, Dr. Channing was the acknowledged head of the liberal party, and was obliged, though averse to disputation, to take an active part. "He was unrivalled in his enthusiasm for moral and progressive ideas, and in his high estimate of the moral capacities of man." Coleridge said of him, "He has the love of wisdom, and the wisdom of love." — See "Memoirs, Correspondence," &c., by his nephew, W. H. Channing, 1848.

Channing, William Francis, M.D., son of Wm. Ellery, b. Boston, 1820; has pub. "Davis's Manual of Magnetism," 12mo, 1841, "Notes on the Medical Application of Electricity," 1849; "Fire-Alarm Telegraph," 1855; contrib. to "Silliman's Jour.," &c. One of the inventors of the system of fire-alarm telegraphy now in general use. — Allibone.

Channing, William Henry, clergyman, nephew of Wm. E., b. Boston, May 25, 1810. H.U. 1829; Camb. Divinity School, 1833. Ord. Cincinnati, May 10, 1839. His father, Francis Dana Channing, died when he was very young. He has been settled in Meadville, Pa., N.Y. City, Cincinnati, Nashua, Boston, Rochester, and Liverpool, Eng., where he is pastor of the Hope-street (Unitarian) Church, as successor of Rev. James Martineau. He edited the Western Messenger one year, the Present, the Harbinger, and the Spirit of the Age, and has been a contrib. to the Dial, Christian Examiner, and N. Amer. Review. He has written and pub. "The Translation of Jouffroy's Ethics," 2 vols., 1840; "Memoirs of Dr. Wm. E. Channing," 3 vols., 1848; "Life and Writings of James H. Perkins," 2 vols.; "Memoirs of Madame Ossoli (Margaret Fuller)," sermons, reviews, and miscellanies. He has labored much in social reforms, and is a zealous and eloquent preacher.

Chapin, Alonzo Bowen, D.D., clergyman and author, b. Somers, March 10, 1808; d. Hartford, July 9, 1858. He quitted the study of theology for the law; adm. to practise in 1831, and established himself at Wallingford. He edited the Chronicle of the Church, an Episcopal paper at N. Haven, 8 years, and, resuming his theol. studies, was ord. in 1838; was rector of Christ Church, West Haven, until 1850, and of St. Luke's, Glastenbury, until 1855, when he removed to Hartford, and edited the Calendar. Besides numerous contribs. to magazines and reviews, Dr. Chapin is the author of "A View of the Organization and Order of the Primitive Church," 1850; "Views of Gospel Truth;" "Glastenbury for 200 Years," 1853; a "Classical Spelling-book;" "Puritanism not Protestantism." 1847; "Inaug. Discourse at Beloit Coll., 1850," as pres.

Chapin, Calvin, D.D., Cong. clergyman, b. Springfield, Ms., July 22, 1763; d. Wethersfield, Mar. 17, 1851. Y. C. 1788. He was a teacher in Hartford two years; from 1791 to 1794 was a tutor in Y. C., and was pastor of a church in Wethersfield, Ct., from 1794 to 1847. Dr. Chapin was an efficient member of the missionary, Bible, and temperance societies, and was for 32 years rec. sec. of the A. B. C. F. M. During his connection with the church at Wethersfield, he was offered, and declined, the presidency of 2 different colleges. He pub. an essay recommending the substitution of water for wine in the Lord's supper. — Allen.

Chapin, Edwin Hubbell, D.D. (H. U. 1856), an eloquent preacher, b. Union Village, Wash. Co., N.Y., Dec. 29, 1814. He completed his school-education at a sem. in Bennington, Vt.; commenced preaching in 1837; was first settled over a society of Unitarians and Universalists in Richmond, Va.; removed to Charlestown, Ms., in 1839; thence to Boston in 1846, and in 1848 to New York, where he is still pastor of the 4th Universalist Church. Dr.

Digitized by Google

of Baltimore in 1856
speaker. — Lanman.

GADSBY, artist, b. Alex-studied and practised his art years. Establishing himself he obtained ample employment and taste. He has furnished designs for the illustration of fancy, among them Schmidt's Whittier's "Songs of Labor," and
He also painted the "Bap-Pocahontas" for one of the panels in at Washington. Since 1848, he resided in Rome. Among his pictures
"Israelites Spoiling the Egyptians," Girl," "A Donkey's Head," "The Arrow," and "First Italian Milestone."
pub. "American Drawing-Book," N.Y., , and "The Amateur's Drawing Manual," 1858.

Chapman, NATHANIEL, M.D., physician and scholar, b. near Alexandria, Va., 28 May, 1780; d. Phila., 1 July, 1853. U. of Pa. 1801. His paternal ancestor, a capt. in the army, and a relative of Sir Walter Raleigh, came to Va. with the first colonists. Completing his studies at London and Edinburgh, where he took his degree, he began practice in Phila. in 1804. Prof. of materia medica in 1813–16, and of practice, institutes, and clinical med., in the U. of Pa., from 1816 to 1850. Founder of the Med. Institute in 1817, he lectured there during the summer for nearly 25 years. He had charge of the city hospital during the epidemic of 1820, and was many years clinical lecturer in the hospital of the city almshouse. Pres. Amer. Philos. Society, 1846–8, and for many years of the Phila. Med. Soc. Author of "Lectures on the Theory and Practice of Medicine," "Eruptive Fevers," "Thoracic Viscera," "Elements of Therapeutics and Materia Medica," 1817, "Select Speeches, with Critical and Illustrative Remarks," 5 vols., 8vo. In 1820, he began, and for many years edited, the Phila. Journal of the Medical and Physical Sciences, and contrib. to the Portfolio under the signature of "Falkland." — J. B. Biddle, in Gross's Amer. Med. Biog.

Chapman, ROBERT HETT, D.D. (Wms. Coll. 1815), pres. of the U. of N. C. at Chapel Hill, 1812–16, b. Orange, N.J., 2 Mar. 1771; d. Winchester, Va., 18 June, 1833. N.J. Coll. 1789. Son of Rev. Jedediah of Western N.Y., who d. 22 May, 1813. Licensed by the Presbytery of N. Y., 2 Oct. 1793; pastor of Rahway, N.J., 1796–1799, and of Cambridge, N.Y., in 1801–12, afterwards officiating in Va., N.C., and Tenn.

Charlevoix (shär-leh-vwä'), PETER FRANCIS XAVIER, a French historian and missionary, b. St. Quentin, Oct. 29, 1682; d. Lafleche, Feb. 1, 1761. He acquired reputation as a teacher of languages and philos. in Jesuit colleges. Was for some years a missionary in Canada, and, on his return, had a chief share in the Journal de Trevoux for 24 years. In 1720, he again visited Canada, by order of the French king, and passing up the St. Lawrence, and through the Lakes, to Michilimacinac, he descended through Lake Michigan and the Rivers Ill. and Mpi., to N. Orleans. In 1722, be returned to France by way of St. Domingo. His works are, "Journal of a Voyage from Kaskaskias to the Gulf of Mexico," 1721 (French Hist. Colls. of La., vol. ii.), "Histoire et Description Générale de Japan," "Histoire Générale de Paraquay," "Histoire de l'Isle de St. Dominique," "Vie de Mère Marie de l'Incarnation," and a "Histoire Générale de la Nouvelle France," of which the latter is most valuable, describing his own experience, and the manners and customs of the natives, for which he is often quoted as good authority, though not free from partiality and credulity.

Digitized by Google

Charlton, ROBERT M., jurist and author, b. Savannah, 19 Jan. 1807; d. there 18 Jan. 1854. Son of Judge Thos. B., a capt. of art. at the capture of Charleston, S.C., who d. Nova Scotia, 1847. Adm. to the bar, and elected to the legisl. in 1828; app. U.S. dist.-atty. by Pres. Jackson, and at the age of 27 was app. and afterward elected judge of the Sup. Court of the eastern dist. of Ga. Twice mayor of Savannah, and U.S. senator in 1852–3. He pub. in 1839 a vol. of poems, including the poetical remains of a deceased bro., 2d ed., 1842; and contrib. many pieces both in prose and verse to the Knickerbocker Mag. Esteemed for his finished oratory and for his geniality.

Chase, CARLTON, D.D. (U. of Vt. 1839), Prot.-Epis. bishop of N.H. (consec. 20 Oct. 1844), b. Hopkinton, N.H., Feb. 20, 1794; d. Claremont, N.H., Jan. 18, 1870. Dartm. Coll. 1817. Ord. deacon, 1818; priest, 1820; rector of Immanuel Church, Bellows Falls, Vt., from 1819 to 1844; and of Trinity Church, Claremont, N.H. in 1844–63. After the deposition of Bishop Onderdonck of N.Y., Bishop Chase performed for a time the episcopal duties of that diocese. At his death, he was a royal arch Mason.

Chase, DUDLEY, statesman and jurist, b. Cornish, N.H., Dec. 30, 1771; d. Randolph, Vt., Feb. 23, 1846. Dartm. Coll. 1791, where also his 4 bros. were educated, — Salmon, father of the senator; Baruch, a lawyer; Heber, who d. in 1797; and Philander, bishop of O. Adm. to the practice of law in 1793, he was State atty. for Orange Co. from 1803 to 1811; member of the Const. Conv. of 1814 and of 1822; for a number of years a member, and, from 1808 to 1812, speaker, of the house of representatives of Vt.; U.S. senator from 1813 to 1817; chief-justice of the Supreme Court of Vt., 1817–21, and again U.S. senator in 1825–31.

Chase, IRAH, D.D., theologian, b. Stratton, Vt., Oct. 5, 1793; d. Newtonville, Ms., Nov. 1, 1864. Middleb. Coll. 1814. After studying at Andover, he was ord. in 1817; labored as a Baptist missionary in Western Va.; became in 1818 prof. in the theol. school at Phila., which was soon after transferred to Washington. In 1825, he was prominent in establishing the theol. school at Newton Centre, Ms., of which he was prof. till 1845. In 1830, he was instrumental in founding the Baptist mission in France. He subsequently contrib. to reviews on questions of church history and Christian doctrine. He pub. "Life of Bunyan," "The Design of Baptism," "The Constitution of the Holy Apostles," "Infant Baptism an Invention of Man," &c.

Chase, LUCIEN B., M.C. from Tenn. 1845–9; author of a "History of President Polk's Administration." B. Vt., 1817; d. Dec. 1864.

Chase, PHILANDER, D.D., Prot.-Epis. bishop of Ill., b. Cornish, N.H., Dec. 14, 1775; d. Peoria, Ill., Sept. 20, 1852. Dartm. Coll. 1796. He was descended from Aquila Chase, who came from Cornwall, Eng., in 1640, and settled at Newbury. His grandson Dudley, father of the bishop, removed to a township above Fort No. 4 on the Ct., and founded the town of Cornish. A severe injury to one of his limbs prevented his becoming a farmer. Ord. deacon, May 10, 1798, and priest, Nov. 10, 1799, and was for several years zealously engaged in missionary labors in Western N.Y. In 1805, he went to N. Orleans, and took an active part in the organization of the Prot.-Epis. church in that city; returning to the North in 1811, and, until 1817, was rector of Christ Church, Hartford, Ct. Feb. 11, 1819, he was consec. bishop of O., and in 1823 went to Eng. to solicit aid for Kenyon Coll. and theol. sem. in his diocese, with great success. Difficulties having arisen with some of his clergy in regard to the disposal of the funds he had collected, and other matters, he resigned the jurisdiction of his diocese, Sept. 9, 1831; removed to Mich., and Mar. 8, 1835, being made bishop of Ill., he visited Eng. a second time in behalf of education in the West. In 1838, he returned, with funds sufficient to lay the foundation of Jubilee Coll. at Robin's Nest, Peoria Co., Ill. Bp. Chase, notwithstanding his size and corpulence, was an exceedingly active and laborious man, and, though not learned, had great diplomatic talents, and intuitive knowledge of human nature, great shrewdness, and accomplished an amount of good tenfold greater than many incomparably his superiors in scholastic knowledge. He pub. in two 8vo vols. "Reminiscences" of his life and labors; "Plea for the West," 1826; "Star of Kenyon Coll.," 1828; "Defence of Kenyon Coll.," 1831. A serious injury, caused by being thrown from his carriage, hastened the aged bishop's decease, and, a few days after, he sank quietly to rest.

Chase, SALMON PORTLAND, statesman, nephew of Bishop Chase, b. Cornish, N.H., 13 Jan. 1808. Dartm. Coll. 1828. Losing his father at the age of 12, he found a home with his uncle, the bishop, who superintended his studies. He taught school in Washington, D.C., in 1827–9; studied law under Wm. Wirt settled in Cincinnati ab. 1830; prepared an edition of the statutes of O., of received authority; and became eminent at the bar, where his hostility to slavery found frequent expression. He was in the city council in 1840, and supported Harrison for the presidency; took a leading part in organizing the "Liberty party" at Columbus in Dec. 1841; was active in its conventions; and in that held at Cincinnati in June, 1845, prepared an address, widely circulated, giving a history of slavery in the U.S., and arguing the necessity of political organization to denationalize it. The convention of the "Free Soil" party at Buffalo in Aug. 1848, called through his efforts, nominated Van Buren for the presidency. Chosen by the Democrats of the Ohio legisl. to the U.S. senate in Feb. 1849, he spoke against the Compromise Bill in 1850, and separated from that party on the nomination of Mr. Pierce to the presidency in 1852. In 1854, he drafted an appeal to the people against the Kansas-Nebraska Bill, and in a speech, 3 Feb., elaborately exposed its objects. He proposed to add a clause to it, that "the people of the territory, through their appropriate representatives, may, if they see fit, prohibit the existence of slavery therein:" rejected 10 to 36. He advocated the Homestead Bill, and the grant of aid toward the construction of the Pacific Railroad. Gov. of O., 1855–9. Supported J. C. Fremont for the presidency in 1857. His decided action compelled the resignation, in 1857, of the State treasurer, who was a defaulter; and his prompt and judicious arrangements protected the credit of the State, and averted a large pecuniary loss. At the peace conference in Feb. 1861, he proposed compensation to the owners of fugitive slaves. Made sec. of the treasury in Lincoln's cabinet, Mar. 4, 1861. In Jan. 1862, he recommended that the U.S. notes be made a legal tender. He raised money by the issue of "greenbacks," which bore no interest, and by loans, which were taken at moderate rates, mostly by the people of the U.S. His financial services during the Rebellion were second only in importance to those of the war dept. Resigning, 30 June, 1864, his friends endeavored to procure for him the nomination to the presidency, but without success. He succeeded Chief Justice Taney as the head of the U.S. Supreme Court, 12 Oct. 1864. He presided over the court of impeachment (Mar. 1868) for the trial of Pres. Johnson, whose acquittal he favored. Unsuccessful candidate for the Democ. nomination for pres. in July, 1868. He has contrib. to the N. A. Review, and to the Western Monthly Magazine, and is the author of some good verses; d. N. Y. City, May 7, 1873.

Digitized by Google

Chase, Samuel, jurist and statesman, b. Somerset Co., Md., 17 Apr. 1741; d. 19 June, 1811. Son of Rev. Thos. Chase, a native of Eng., by whom he was carefully educated. Adm. to the bar in 1761, and settled in Annapolis, where his talents, industry, intrepidity, imposing stature, sonorous voice, and energetic elocution raised him to distinction. In the colonial legisl., of which he was 20 years a member, he vehemently opposed the Stamp Act; was a member of the committee of corresp., and a delegate to Congress in 1774–9. He denounced Zubly of Georgia as a traitor, compelling him to flee the Congress, whose secrets he was divulging to the enemy; was in 1776, with Franklin and Carroll, a commissioner to form a plan of union between the Colonies and Canada, and, on his return, labored successfully to change the sentiment of Md., so as to authorize him to vote, as he did, for the Declaration of Independence, of which he was one of the signers. He served with unwearied industry on many of the important committees of Congress. In 1783, he was the agent of Md. in Eng., to reclaim a large sum of money intrusted to the Bank of Eng., $650,000 of which was subsequently paid over to the State. In 1788, he was a member of the convention to consider the Constitution of the U. S., which he did not regard as sufficiently democ.; chief justice of the Gen. Court of Md., 1791–6; asso.-justice U. S. Supreme Court, 27 Jan. 1796 to his d. Warmly attached to the principles and measures of the administrations of Washington and Adams; after the change of administration in 1804, he was, at the instance of John Randolph, impeached for his conduct in the trials of Fries and Callender, solely on political grounds, but was acquitted by the senate. He was a somewhat irascible man, and sometimes was overbearing as a judge, but was learned, able, and patriotic.

Chase, Thomas, dep. Q. M. gen., northern department, in Revol. war; d. Boston, May 17, 1787.

Chastellux (shă'-tă'-luks'), Francois Jean, Marquis de, author and soldier, b. Paris, 1734; d. there Oct. 28, 1788. Entering the army at 15, he was col. of the regt. Guyenne through the war in Germany, 1754–63; became Maréchal de Camp, and in 1780 was a maj.-gen. in Rochambeau's army in Amer., gaining the particular friendship of Washington. On his return to France, he was made a field-marshal, and a member of the Acad. His literary reputation was established, in 1772, by his De la Félicité Publique." His "Voyage dans l'Amérique Septentrionale dans les Années 1780–2," 2 vols., 8vo, Paris, 1786, contains notices of the natural history of the country, interesting details of the localities and events of the war, and observations on the character of the principal actors in it. This work was translated by Geo. Grieve, and pub. in London in 1787. His discourse "De la Découverte de l'Amérique," and "Discours en Vers, addressés aux Officiers et Soldats des Différentes Armies Américaines," were translated by David Humphreys. The year before he d. he m. Miss Plunket, a young lady of Irish extraction.

Chatham, William Pitt, Earl, orator and statesman, b. Westminster, 15 Nov. 1708; d. 11 May, 1778. Son of Robert Pitt, Esq., of Boconock, Cornwall. Studied at Eton and Oxford, entered parliament in 1735, and opposed Sir Robert Walpole with such effect, that the Duchess of Marlborough bequeathed Pitt a legacy of £10,000. Made joint vice-treas. of Ireland in 1746, soon afterward treas. and paymaster of the army, and privy councillor. He was dismissed from office in 1755, having connected himself with the Grenville party, through his marriage with Hester, dau. of Richard Grenville. Made in 1757 sec. of State, he infused his own spirit and energy into the public service everywhere, made Eng. triumphant in every quarter of the globe, and added Canada to her dominions. He resigned in Oct. 1761, and received a pension of £3,000 a year. He advocated a conciliatory policy toward the Amer. Colonies, and the repeal of the Stamp Act. In 1766, he formed a new ministry, in which he took the privy seal, and was made Earl of Chatham, but quitted office finally in 1768. In the house of lords, he opposed the coercive measures employed against Amer., in speeches of great ability and eloquence; but in reply to a motion by the Duke of Portland, in Apr. 1778, urging the acknowledgment of the independence of Amer., Chatham, who had just left a sick-bed, opposed it with all the ardent eloquence of his younger days. The Duke of Richmond having replied to this speech, Chatham attempted to rise again, but fainted, and was borne home in a state of exhaustion, from which he never recovered. He had a public funeral at the national expense, and a monument in Westminster Abbey.

Digitized by Google

Chaumonot (shō'-mo'-no'), or CHAUMONNOT, PIERRE MARIE JOSEPH, a French Jesuit, b. near Chatillon-sur-Seine, in 1611; d. Lorette, near Quebec, Feb. 21, 1693. After robbing an uncle, who directed his education, he went to Rome, where, under an assumed character, he became a Jesuit. Repenting of his errors, he was, after being ord. priest, sent, at his own request, as a missionary to the N. Amer. Indians. Landing at Quebec with Father Poncet, in 1639, he devoted himself to the instruction of the Hurons and Neutrals. When the Hurons were dispersed by the Iroquois, in 1650, he accomp. a small party of the fugitives to Quebec. The next year, he formed with the Hurons a Christian settlement at Isle Orleans. In 1655, he visited the Onondagas, but returned in 1658, and helped found the mission of Notre Dame de Foye, near Quebec. Soon after its removal to Lorette, in 1693, which mission he had founded ab. the year 1670, he ended his long career of labor and hardship. He left an excellent grammar of the Huron tongue, pub. by the Hist. Society of Quebec, 1835, a list of radical and derivative words, a catechism, and a series of instructions, all in the same language, and a memoir of his own life. These are unpub. —Appleton's New Amer. Cyclo.

Chauncy (chahn'-si), CHARLES, B. D., 2d pres. of H. U., and the ancestor of all who bear the name in the U.S.; b. Yardley Herts., Eng., 1592; d. Feb. 19, 1672. Educated at Westminster and Cambridge, he made the acquaintance of Archbishop Usher, and was app. prof. of Hebrew, and afterward of Greek, at Cambridge. He was a scholar at Westminster at the time of the gunpowder plot to blow up the building. In 1627, he became vicar of Ware, Hertfordshire. His stern Puritanism involved him in difficulties with the ecclesiastical authorities: he was imprisoned and fined, and recanted, but soon repented of his recantation. He therefore determined to embark for N.E., where he arrived a few days before the great earthquake, June 1, 1638. He was re-ordained, and for 3 years remained in Plymouth, as assist. pastor to Mr. Raynor, and then took pastoral charge of the church in Scituate, Ms. A change in the ecclesiastical polity of Eng. determined him to return to his vicarage in Ware; but the offer of the presidency of the university, which he accepted Nov. 27, 1654, kept him here till his death. He pub. a few theol. works, and a number of sermons. He was zealous against wearing long hair, and baptizing the children of non-communicants; a man of great industry and learning, and was eminent as a physician. He left 6 sons, who all grad. at Harvard, and became preachers.

Chauncy, CHARLES, D.D. (U. of Edinb. 1742), clergyman of Boston, great-grandson of Pres. C., b. Jan. 1, 1705; d. Feb. 10, 1787. H.U. 1721. Ord. pastor of the 1st church in Boston, Oct. 25, 1727, as the colleague of Mr Foxcroft. He was minister of one parish for 60 years. Among his numerous publications are, "A Complete View of the Episcopacy," being the substance of a discussion with Dr. Chandler of N.J.; "Seasonable Thoughts on the State of Religion in N. England;" "Discourse on Enthusiasm," 1742, directed against Whitefield; "Remarks on the Bishop of Llandaff's Sermon," 1767; "Mystery hid from Ages, or the Salvation of all Men," 1785; "The Benevolence of the Deity," 1784; "Five Dissertations on the Fall and its Consequences," 1785. He was a warm friend of his country during the Revol. struggle, was a man of great learning and piety, and was an active controversialist. — See Chauncey Memo'ls, W. C. Fowler.

Chauncey, CHARLES, LL. D. (Mid. Coll. 1811), a disting. lawyer, b. Durham, Ct., June 11, 1747; d. New Haven, April 29, 1823. Y. C. 1779. Removing to New Haven, he was adm. to the bar in Nov. 1768; app. State's atty. in 1776; and was a judge of the Superior Court in 1789–93. He was 40 years a lecturer on jurisp., and was pres. of the first agric. society of Ct., of which he was a principal founder. His son CHARLES, LL. D. (Y. C. 1827), a leading lawyer of the Phila. bar, b. N. Haven, Aug. 17, 1777; d. Wilmington, N. J., Aug. 30, 1849. Y. C. 1792. He removed ab. 1798 to Phila.

Chauncey, ISAAC, capt. U. S. N., b. Black Rock, Ct., Feb. 20, 1772; d. Washington, Jan. 27, 1840. Entering the merchant-service very young, he com. a ship at 19, and made several successful voyages to the E. Indies in the ships of J. J. Astor. On the organization of the navy, he was made a lieut. Sept. 17, 1798; was acting capt. of the frigate "Chesapeake" early in 1802; was highly praised for his conduct in several actions off Tripoli; became master, May 23, 1804; and capt. April 24, 1806. In the War of 1812, he com. the naval force on Lake Ontario, but was unable to bring the British com., Sir James Yeo, to action. April 25, 1813, he conveyed Gen. Pike's force to York, which was captured, Chauncey's gallantry being conspicuous. May 27, he again co-operated with the land-force in the capture of Fort George, which brought about the evacuation, by the British, of the whole Niagara frontier. Sept. 27, Chauncey succeeded in getting up with Yeo, in York Bay. "The Pike," his flagship, was, on this occasion, manœuvred and fought in a manner ever since a theme of admiration in the navy. Before the whole Amer. squadron could get into action, the enemy bore up, Chauncey following. A heavy gale stopped the chase, and prevented the destruction of the British fleet. After the war, he com. in the Mediterranean, and with Wm. Shaler, consul, negotiated a treaty with Algiers. Navy commiss. at Washington in 1820, and from 1833 until his death. He was a model of gallantry, energy, and skill; father of Com. J. S.

Chauncey, COM. JOHN S., U. S. N., b. New York; d. Brooklyn, N.Y., 11 Apr. 1871. Midshipman, Jan. 1, 1812; lieut. Jan. 13, 1825; com. Sept. 8, 1841; capt. Sept. 14, 1855; comm. July 16, 1862; in sloop "Peacock," W. I.

Digitized by Google

squadron, in Aug. 1822; engaged in capturing 7 pirate vessels and a heavily-armed pirate schooner off Bahia Honda, Cuba; assist. insp. of ordnance, 1838–43; insp. of do., 1847–50; com. sloop "Vandalia," W. I. squadron, 1843–5; com. steam-sloop "Susquehanna," 1861; engaged forts Hatteras and Clark, as second in com., Aug. 29–30, 1861; in com. of blockade of sounds of Va. and N.C., Sept. 1861. —Hamersly.

Chauncey, Ichabod Wolcott, capt. U. S. N.; d. Pensacola, Oct. 14, 1835. Mid. June 28, 1804; lieut. Jan. 7, 1810; master, March 5, 1817; capt. Apr. 24, 1828.

Chauveau (sho-vō′), Pierre J. O., LL. D., Canadian author and politician, b. Quebec, May 30, 1820. Son of a merchant. Was educated at the sem. of Quebec; studied law, and wrote political articles for "Le Canadien" and "Le Courier des États Unis," N. York. He was elected to parliament in 1844 and 1848; was app. solicitor-gen. in 1851; prov. sec. in 1853; and in July, 1855, superintendent of education. His best work is "Charles Guérin, Roman de Mœurs Canadiennes," 1853. He is liberal in politics. —Morgan.

Chauvenet, William, LL. D., mathematician, b. Milford, Pa., 1820; d. St. Paul, Minn., 13 Dec., 1870. Y. C. 1840. He was first employed in taking meteor. observations at Girard Coll. Obs.; became in 1841 instr. in maths. at the U. S. Naval Asylum, Phila.; prof. of astron. and maths. at the Naval Acad., Annapolis, 1845–59; prof. of astron. and maths. at Wash. U., St. Louis, 1859–62; chancellor of the U., 1862–9. Author of "Binomial Theorem and Logarithms," 1843; "Plane and Spherical Trigonometry," 1850; "New Method of Correcting Lunar Distances," 1850; "The Great Circle-Protractor," fol., 1855; "Manual of Spher. and Pract. Astron.," 2 vols., 1863; and "Elem. Geom.," 1870.

Cheetham, James, editor American Citizen, N.Y., 1798; d. there Sept. 19, 1810, a. 37. He pub. "Reply to Aristides," 1804; "Nine Letters on Burr's Defection," 1803; "Peace, or War?" 1807; "Life of Thos. Paine," 1809. Of this work, penned with "settled malignity," Cheetham left a revised copy in the library of the N. Y. Hist. Soc. He was an English radical, escaped from the Manchester riots of 1798, had a mind largely cultivated by reading, and remarkable powers of invective. —See Dr. Francis's Old New York.

Cheever, Ezekiel, an eminent N. E. schoolmaster, b. London, Jan. 25, 1616; d. Boston, Aug. 21, 1708. The son of a linen-draper. He had a superior classical training, as evinced by some Latin verses and essays still extant in MS. Came to Boston in 1637, but in 1638, with Davenport and Eaton, founded New Haven. Chosen a deacon soon after the organization of a church, he occasionally officiated as a preacher; taught a public school there from 1638 till 1650, and represented the town in the Gen. Assembly in 1646. He was master of the grammar school at Ipswich from 1650 to 1661; taught the free school in Charlestown from 1661 to 1670, and from that time until his death had charge of the Boston Latin School. While teaching at New Haven, he prepared the "Accidence, a Short Introduction to the Latin Tongue," which, in 1785, had reached 20 editions, and was for more than a century the hand-book of the Latin scholars of N. E. He also wrote a little treatise, "Scripture Prophecies Explained, in 3 short Essays." A funeral disc. by Cotton Mather, with poems from his MS., was pub., Boston, 1828. His son Samuel, first minister of Marblehead, d. there May 29, 1724, a. 85. H. U. 1659. B. New Haven, Ct., Sept. 22, 1639; ord. Aug. 13, 1684.

Cheever, George Barrell, D.D., clergyman and author, b. Hallowell, Me., Apr. 17, 1807. Bowd. Coll. 1825; And. Theol. Sem. 1830. Ord. pastor Howard-st. Cong. Church, Salem, Ms., 1832. While at Andover and Salem, he contributed in prose and verse on literary and theological topics to the North Am. Review, Biblical Repository, and other periodicals. Engaging in the Unitarian Controversy, he wrote a defence of the orthodoxy of Cudworth. Espousing the temperance cause, he pub. in a Salem newspaper, in 1835, a dream, entitled "Deacon Giles's Distillery." The friends of the deacon made a riotous attack on Mr. Cheever, who was tried for libel, and imprisoned 30 days. Resigning his pastorate, he went to Europe, contrib. letters to the N. Y. Observer, and, on his return in 1839, took charge of the Allen-st. Presb. Church, N.Y. He soon after delivered his lectures on the "Pilgrim's Progress," and on "Hierarchical Despotism." In 1843, in 3 public debates with J. L. O'Sullivan, he argued for capital punishment. He was in Europe in 1844, as corresp. editor of the N. Y. Evangelist, of which he was principal editor after his return in 1845. Since 1846, he has been pastor of the Church of the Puritans, in New York, and is disting. as a preacher. He has contrib. much to the N. Y. Independent, and the Bibliotheca Sacra. Among his publications are "Commonplace Books of Prose and Poetry," 1828 and 29; "Studies in Poetry," 1830; "Select Works of Archbishop Leighton," 1832; "Lectures on the Pilgrim's Progress," 1844; "Wanderings of a Pilgrim," 1845 and '46; "Journal of the Pilgrims at Plymouth in 1620," 1848; "Windings of the River of the Water of Life," 1849; "Lectures on the Life, Genius, and Sanctity of Cowper," 1856; "God against Slavery," 1857; "Voyage to the Celestial Country," &c.

Cheever, Henry T., brother of the preceding, a Cong. clergyman, has written several popular books of travel and biography, among them "Island World of the Pacific," "Life in the Sandwich Islands," "The Whale and his Captors," 1849; "Autobiog. and Memorials of Capt. Obadiah Congar," 1851; "Biography of Nathaniel Cheever, M.D.," 1851; "The Pulpit and the Pew," 1858. Resides at Green Point, L.I.

Cheney, Harriet V., author, dau. of Hannah Foster, b. Ms. Has pub. "The Sunday-school," written in conjunction with her sister, "A Peep at the Pilgrims," 1850; "The Rivals of Acadia," "Sketches from the Life of Christ," "Confessions of an Early Martyr," 1840. Mrs. Cushing, her sister, has pub. "Esther," a dramatic poem, and some works for the young, both reside in Montreal.

Digitized by Google

Cheney, SETH, an artist celebrated for his crayon-drawings; d. Manchester, Ct., Sept. 10, 1856, a. 55. He excelled in giving a purity and spirituality to his pieces. John Cheney, his brother, excelled as an engraver of heads. — Even. Post, Sept. 11.

Chesebro, CAROLINE, authoress, b. Canandaigua, N.Y. Her first tales and sketches appeared in 1848, in Graham's Magazine, and Holden's Dollar Magazine. In 1851, a vol. of her writings was pub., entitled "Dreamland by Daylight, a Panorama of Romance;" in 1852, "Isa, a Pilgrimage," and in 1856, "Victoria, or the World overcome," a novel. She has also pub. "The Beautiful Gate, and other Tales," and has contrib. occasionally to newspapers, and frequently to the magazines; d. Piermont, N. Y. Feb. 16, 1873.

Chester, COL. JOHN, Revol. officer, b. Wetherstield, Jan. 29, 1749; d. there Nov. 4, 1809. Y.C. 1766. Son of Col. John (H.U. 1722), whose gr.-grandfather Leonard, of Blaby, Leicestershire, Eng., came over in 1633, was an original settler of W., and d. there 11 Dec. 1648, a. 39. A representative in 1772, he was a capt., and disting. at the battle of Bunker's Hill; was afterwards made col., and continued in the army until 1777. He was subsequently some time speaker of the legisl. of Ct., and a member of the council, 1788–91 and 1803; supervisor of the dist. of Ct., 1791–1801, and he also held for some time the office of judge of the county court of probate.

Chester, JOSEPH LEMUEL, antiquary, b. Norwich, Ct., April 30, 1821. He was engaged in mercantile pursuits in Phila. until 1852, and was a frequent contrib. to the press, principally under various signatures, of which the best known is that of "Julian Cramer." He then became connected with the Phila. press, and was some time an assist. clerk in the U. S. H. of Representatives. Since 1858, he has resided in London. In 1869, he assisted in forming at London "The Harleian Society," for the pub. of inedited MSS. relating to genealogy, heraldry, &c., and was chosen a member of its council. In 1870, he was made one of the council of the Hist. Soc. of Great Britain, recently organized. He has pub. "Greenwood Cemetery and other Poems," 1843; "A Preliminary Treatise on the Law of Repulsion," 1853; "Educational Laws of Va., the Personal Narrative of Mrs. Margaret Douglas," 1854; "John Rogers," with a genealogy of the family, 1861. He is a contrib. to various historical and genealogical journals, and is an hon. member of several learned societies in Eng. and America.

Chevalier (sheh-vā leā) MICHEL, a French political economist, b. Limoges, Jan. 13, 1806; studied at the polytechnic and the mining schools, and was app. engineer in the dept. du Nord. He joined the Disciples of St. Simon, shared the penalties they incurred, and, after a short imprisonment, was sent by M. Thiers to the U.S., with the special mission of acquainting himself with the Amer. system of railroads. He arrived in N.Y. near the end of 1832, travelled 2 years over the U.S., Mexico, and Cuba, and pub. the results in the Journal des Débats, and in 1836, in book-form, entitled, "Lettres sur l'Amérique du Nord." He entered the council of state in 1840, succeeded M. Rosse as prof. of political economy at the Coll. of France, and, a few months later, was made chief eng. of mines. In his "Histoire et Description des Voies de Communication aux États Unis," 2 vols., 1840–42, he gives a full account of American railroads, with a view of their influence upon social intercourse. He is an advocate of free trade, and in 1851 was elected a member of the acad. of moral and political science. Made a senator in 1860, grand officer of the Legion of Honor, 1861. He has also pub. "L'Isthme de Suez," 1844; "La Liberté aux États Unis," 1849; "Questions Politiques et Sociales," 1852; "Mexico Ancient and Modern," 1864; "L'Expédition du Mexique," in 1862, and "Cours d'Economie Politique."

Cheverus (shĕv'e-rus) JEAN LOUIS ANNE MADELEINE LEFEVRE DE, D.D., cardinal, archbishop of Bordeaux, b. Mayenne, 28 Jan. 1768; d. Bordeaux, 19 July, 1836. Educated at the Coll. of Louis le Grand, Paris, 1786; ord. priest in 1790; was some time a curate at Mayenne; came to Boston in Oct. 1796; was consec. 1st R.C. bishop of Boston, 1 Nov. 1810; bishop of Montauban, 1823; archbishop of Bordeaux, 1826, and cardinal in 1835. He founded a church in Newcastle, Me.; spent 3 months in successful missionary labors among the Indians on the Penobscot, and, during the prevalence of yellow-fever in Boston, manifested devotion and benevolence not confined to those of his own creed. Learned, talented, amiable, and devout, he was regarded by Protestants, as well as Catholics, with sincere affection and respect.

Cheves, LANGDON, LL.D. (Col. Coll. 1824), jurist and statesman, b. Abbeville Dist., S.C., Sept. 17, 1776; d. Columbia, S.C., June 25, 1857. He was adm. to the bar in 1800; entered the legisl. in 1808, becoming its leader; was atty.-gen. of the State; M.C. 1811–16; speaker during the 2d session of the 13th Congress; judge of the C. C. P. 1816–19, and for some time pres. of the U.S. Bank. He was a zealous supporter of the War of 1812; was chairman of the naval com. in 1812, and of that of ways and means in 1813, and made several eloquent speeches, and advocated the creation of a navy. He was chief commissioner under the treaty of Ghent for settling some of its provisions. Though advocating a Southern confederacy, he refused to sanction the scheme of nullification in 1832. He was a delegate to the Nashville convention in 1850, and to the State convention in 1852. Of his literary efforts, the best known is his essay on the subject of the U.S. Bank, signed "Say."

Chew, BENJAMIN, jurist, b. W. River, Anne Arundel Co., Md., Nov. 29, 1722; d. Jan. 20, 1810. His grandfather, Col. Saml. Chew, came from Chewton, Somersetshire, in 1671, with Lord Baltimore. Samuel, his father, phys. and judge, and a Quaker, d. 16 June, 1744. His speech to the grand jury of Newcastle, on the lawfulness of defence, was pub. in 1741, and repub. in 1775. After studying law with Andrew Hamilton, and also in London, in 1743 he settled on the Delaware, and in 1754 went to Phila., where he held respectively the offices of recorder (1755–72), register of wills, atty.-gen. (resigned in 1766), and became in 1774 chief-justice of Pa. He was long speaker of the H. of delegates of the 3 lower counties in Del. Claimed by both parties when the Revol. broke out, he took, after the Decl. of Indep., a decided stand against the Whigs. Refusing in 1777 to sign a parole, he was sent a prisoner to Fredericksburg, Va. Pres. of the High Court of Errors and Appeals, 1790–1806.

Digitized by Google

Chickering, JESSE, M.D. (1833), a statistical writer, b. Dover, Aug. 31, 1797; d. West Roxbury, Ms., May 29, 1855. H.U. 1818. He studied theology, and became a Unitarian preacher; then medicine, which he practised ab. ten years in Boston, when he removed to West Roxbury. Author of "The Population of Ms. from 1765 to 1840," 1846; "Immigration into the U.S.," 1848, and "Reports on the Census of Boston," 1851, and contrib. many valuable articles to magazines and periodicals. His last publication was a "Letter addressed to the Pres. of the U.S. on Slavery considered in Relation to the Constitutional Principles of Govt. in Great Britain and in the U.S.," 1855.

Chickering, JONAS, philanthropist, and piano-forte maker, b. New Ipswich, N.H., Apr. 5, 1798; d. Boston, Dec. 8, 1853. The son of a blacksmith. After receiving a common school education, he learned the trade of a cabinet-maker. In 1818, he went to Boston, and became a workman in John Osborne's piano-forte manuf., and in 1823 began business for himself. He latterly constructed 1,500 instruments annually, and at least one grand piano, worth $1,000, or more, every week. Just a year before his death, he lost, by the burning of his establishment, more than $200,000, but at once projected and completed an extensive factory at the south part of the city, covering a space of between 60 and 70,000 square feet, 5 stories in height. He was widely known for his liberality and kindness to the poor, and those who have struggled for fame in their musical career. He had been a member of the legisl., pres. of the Handel and Haydn Society, and of the Ms. Charitable Mechanics Asso., which last office he filled at the time of his death. His son THOMAS E. CHICKERING, col. 41st Ms. regt. in the civil war, b. Boston, 22 Oct. 1824; d. there 14 Feb. 1871. Succeeded his father in the management of the large piano-forte manuf. established by him.

Child, LYDIA MARIA, philanthropist and author, b. Medford, Ms., Feb. 11, 1802. Her ancestor, Richard Francis, settled in Cambridge, Ms., in 1636. Her brother, Convers Francis, was an eminent Unitarian divine. She was educated at the public schools, and one year in a sem. at Medford. From 1825 to 1828, she kept a private school in Watertown, and in 1828 was m. to David Lee Child, a lawyer of Boston. In 1841–9, she, with her husband, edited the Antislavery Standard in N.Y., where she was a member of the family of the Quaker philanthropist, Isaac T. Hopper. While there, she wrote for the Boston Courier her 2 series of "Letters from N.Y.," afterward pub in 2 vols., 1843 and 1845. She has since resided at Wayland, Ms. She has pub. "Hobomok, a Tale of Early Times," 1821; "The Rebels, or Boston before the Revol.," 1822; "Juvenile Miscellany," 8 vols. from 1827 to 1835; "The Frugal Housewife," 1829, which had in 1855 reached 33 editions; "Mother's Book," 1831; "The Girl's Own Book," 1831; "The History of Woman," 1832; "Biographies of Good Wives," "Memoirs of Madame DeStael, Madame Roland, Madame Guyon, and Lady Russell; "The Coronal," 1833; "Appeal for that Class of Americans called Africans," 1833; the first antislavery work ever printed in Amer. in book-form; "The Oasis," an annual, 1834; "Antislavery Catechism;" "Authentic Anecdotes of American Slavery;" "The Evils of Slavery and the Cure of Slavery;" "Philothea," a novel, 1836; "Fact and Fiction," a collection of Tales, 1846; "Flowers for Children," 3 vols., collected from the Juvenile Miscellany; "Isaac T. Hopper, a True Life," 1853; "The Progress of Religious Ideas," 3 vols. 1855; "Autumnal Leaves," 1857; "The Patriarchal Institution" and "The Duty of Disobedience to the Fugitive Slave Law," 2 small tracts, 1860; "The Right Way and the Safe Way," 1860; "Looking Toward Sunset," 1864; "The Freedman's Book," 1865; and, in 1867, "A Romance of the Republic." Upon the arrest of Capt. John Brown, she wrote to him, offering her services as a nurse, enclosing it in one to Gov. Wise. He replied, declining her offer, but asking her to aid his family, which she did. With this letter came one from Gov. Wise, reproving her expressions of sympathy for the prisoner, which she answered. She was also the recipient of a singular epistle from Mrs. M. J. C. Mason, to which she replied in her best vein. This series of letters, pub. in pamphlet form in 1860, had a circulation of 300,000. Her antislavery writings contrib. in no slight degree to the formation of the public sentiment which ultimately prevailed. — See Mem. by T. W. Higginson in "Em. Women of the Age."

Childs, HENRY HALSEY, M.D., physician, b. Pittsfield, Ms., June 7, 1783; d. Boston, Mar. 22, 1868. Wms. Coll. 1802. Son of Dr. Timothy, an eminent physician. In Sept. 1823, he organized the Berkshire Med. Institute, which became a college in 1837, and of which he was prof. of the theory and practice of med., and pres. until 1863. He was a Jeffersonian Democ.; represented Pittsfield in the legisl. of 1816 and 1827; in the Const. Conv. of 1820; State senator in 1837, and was lieut.-gov. of Ms. in 1843. He was a man of strict integrity and great benevolence.

Childs, THOMAS, brig.-gen. U. S. A., b. Pittsfield, Ms., 1796; d. Tampa Bay, Fla., 8 Oct. 1853. Son of Dr. Timo., and gr.-son of Col. James Easton. West Point, 1814. Entering the art., he was disting. at Niagara and Fort Erie; became capt. 1 Oct. 1826; brev. maj. for gallantry at Fort Drane, Fla., 21 Aug. 1836; brev. lieut.-col. for gallantry in the Fla. war, 1840–2; brev. col. for Palo Alto and Resaca, 9 May, 1846; com. the storming party at Monterey; joined Gen. Scott before Vera Cruz; maj. 1st Art., 16 Feb. 1847; disting. at Cerro

Digitized by Google

Gordo; brev. brig.-gen. for defence of Puebla, 12 Oct. 1847; milit. gov. of Jalapa, Apr. 1847, and of Puebla, Aug. 1847. He joined to undaunted bravery great professional skill.

Childs, TIMOTHY, M.D. (H. U. 1811), physician and patriot, b. Deerfield, Ms., Feb. 1748; d. Feb. 25, 1821. Entering H. U. in 1764, he was obliged from poverty to leave there in 1767, and, returning to Deerfield, studied physic, and in 1771 removed to practise in Pittsfield. An ardent patriot, he was commissioned in a company of minute-men, with which he marched to Boston in Apr. 1775, and was soon after app. surgeon of Col. Patterson's regt., with which he went to N. Y., and in the exped. to Montreal. In 1777, he left the army, and resumed practice at Pittsfield, where he continued till his death. In 1792, and for several years after, he was a representative, and also a senator in the General Court, and was a member of the exec. council. He was a warm supporter of the Republican, or Democratic party. — Thacher.

Chipman, DANIEL, LL.D. (Dartm. Coll. 1848), lawyer, b. Salisbury, Ct., Oct. 22, 1765; d. Ripton, Vt., Apr. 23, 1850. Dartm. Coll. 1788. In 1775, his father removed to Tinmouth. Daniel labored on a farm until 1783. After studying law with his bro. Nathaniel, at Rutland, Vt., he commenced practice there, but in 1794 removed to Middlebury. He became disting. in his prof., and also in literature; was made a member of the Amer. Acad., 1812; prof. of law in Mid. Coll. from 1806 to 1816. He represented Rutland in the State Const. Conv. of 1793, and was often a member of the State legisl. between 1794 and 1808, when he was elected a member of the council, and from 1809 to 1815, and again in 1818 and '21; speaker in 1813–14; M. C. 1815–17; member of the Const. Convs. of 1816 and 1850. Besides these duties and distinctions, he was the first reporter of the Supreme Court of Vt.; pub. a valuable treatise on the Law of Contracts, and a vol. of Reports of the Supreme Court, 8vo, 1835; a biography of his bro. Nathaniel Chipman, and also of Col Seth Warner and Gen. Thos. Chittenden, 1849. He was the youngest of 7 bros., all highly distinguished men.

Chipman, NATHANIEL, LL.D. (Dartm. Coll.) jurist, b. Salisbury, Ct., Nov. 15, 1752; d. Tinmouth, Vt., Feb. 15, 1843. Yale Coll. 1777. Bro. of Daniel. Lieut. in the Revol. army in the spring of 1777, and participated in the battles of Monmouth and White Plains. He studied law, was adm. to the bar in March, 1779, and removed to Tinmouth, Vt. He immediately took a high stand at the bar; was a member of the State legisl. in 1784–5; a judge of the Supreme Court of Vt. in 1786, and chief-justice in 1789. In that year, he was one of the commissioners on behalf of Vt. to adjust differences with N. Y., and in 1791 to negotiate the admission of Vt. into the Union. In 1791, he was app. by Washington judge of the U. S. Dist. Court of Vt., which he resigned in 1793; in Oct. 1796 was again chosen chief-justice of the Supreme Court, and at the same time was app. one of a committee to revise the statutes, the duties of which were almost wholly performed by him. He was U. S. senator from 1797 to 1803; from 1806 to 1811 was a representative to the State legisl.; in 1813, he was one of the council of censors; in 1813–15 was once more chief-justice of the Supreme Court; and was prof. of law in Mid. Coll. from 1816 until his death. Judge Chipman enjoyed high reputation as a jurist and a lawyer, and possessed, also, considerable literary and scientific attainments. He pub. in 1793 "Sketches of the Principles of Govt.," and a small vol. of "Reports and Dissertations." In 1826, he revised the laws of Vt. His bro. Daniel pub. a memoir of his life.

Chipman, WARD, LL.D., chief-justice of N. Brunswick, b. St. John, N.B., July 10, 1787; d. St. John, 26 Dec. 1851. H.U. 1804. Son of Judge Ward Chipman, a loyalist. He held, successively, the offices of advocate-gen. and clerk of the circuits, recorder of St. John, solicitor-gen., puisne judge of the Supreme Court (Mar. 18, 1825), and Sept. 29, 1834, was app. chief-justice. He had also been a speaker of the assembly, and pres. of the legisl. council, and was a liberal benefactor of churches and schools.

Chittenden, MARTIN, gov. of Vt. (1813–15), son of Gov. Thomas, b. Salisbury, Ct., Mar. 12, 1769; d. Williston, Vt., Sept. 5, 1841. Dartm. Coll. 1789. In May, 1776, the family removed to Williston, Vt., but, during the same year, took up their abode in the south part of the State, where they remained until the close of the war. Owing to feeble health, he devoted himself to agric. pursuits, of which he was exceedingly fond, at Jericho, in Chittenden Co. Was a member of the convention that adopted the U. S. Constitution; was in 1790 elected county clerk and representative, to which station he was re-elected for 6 successive years, and also at occasional subsequent intervals. He was judge of the Co. Court in 1793–5; chief-judge in 1796–1803; and was M. C. from 1803 to 1813, and judge of probate in 1821–2. He was gov. during the war with Eng., and refused to comply with the requisition of Gen. Macomb for the State militia. This act was severely commented upon by his political opponents, and prevented his re-election. At the age of 33, he attained the rank of maj.-gen. of militia.

Chittenden, THOMAS, first gov. of Vt., b. East Guilford, Ct., Jan. 6, 1730; d. Williston, Vt., Aug. 24, 1797. With a scanty education, at the age of 20, he m., and removed to Salisbury, where he commanded a regt.; was many years representative, and justice of the peace, but in May, 1774, emig. to the N.H. grants, as Vt. was then called, and settled at Williston, on Onion River. During the controversy with N.Y., and the war of the Revol., he was assiduously engaged in the councils of his State, to which he rendered great service; was a member of the convention, which, Jan. 16, 1777, declared Vt. an independent State; and was app. one of the com. to communicate to Congress the proceedings of the inhabitants, and to solicit admission into the Confederacy. He was a leading member of the convention at Windsor, July 2, 1777, which framed the first constitution of Vt.; and pres. of the council of safety, which was vested with all the powers of govt., executive, legislative, and judicial. A memoir of him, with a history of the constitution of Vt. during his administration, was pub. in 1849, by Daniel Chipman. Under the constitution established in 1778, he was elected gov. of the State, and, with the exception of one year, filled that office until his death. In the difficult position in which Governor Chittenden was placed, contending for independence on the one hand, and unacknowledged by Congress as a State, in consequence of the claims of N.Y., upon the other, a profound policy was requisite. To prevent invasion, hopes were held out to the British, of a return to its allegiance to the king; while the possibility of her deserting the American cause operated, in Congress, to prevent her being required to submit to the claims of N.Y.

Digitized by Google

Chitwood, M. Louisa, poet, b. 29 Oct. 1832; d. Mt. Carmel, Ind., 19 Dec. 1855. She was a contrib. to the Louisville Journal, Ladies' Repos., Arthur's Home Gazette, &c., and, at the time of her death, was preparing for publication a vol. of poems, which appeared in 1857, with an introd. by Geo. D. Prentice.

Choate, Rufus, LL.D. (Y.C. 1844), an eminent lawyer and orator, b. Essex, Ms., 1 Oct. 1799; d. Halifax, N.S., 13 July, 1859. Dartm. Coll. 1819. Tutor in D.C. one year; he then studied at the Camb. Law School, and in the office of Wm. Wirt, at Washington, D.C.; began practice at Danvers in 1824, and, in 1834, removed to Boston, where he gained the highest position as an advocate. He was a State representative in 1825; State senator in 1827, and M.C. from the Essex District in 1832–4; U.S. senator, as successor to Mr. Webster, Feb. 1841–Aug. 1845. He spoke ably on the McLeod case, the Fiscal Bank Bill, Oregon, the Smithsonian Institution (of which he was a regent), and in opposition to the annexation of Texas. In 1853, he was atty.-gen. of Ms. and a member of the Const. Conv. After the death of Mr. Webster, he was the acknowledged leader of the Ms. bar. In 1858, impaired health compelled his retirement from professional labor; and he sailed for Europe, but proceeded no farther than Halifax, where he died. Tall and commanding in person, he had a face of remarkable expression, and a rich, musical, and sympathetic voice. His speech was wonderfully persuasive, exuberant, and brilliant, and his learning various and extensive. In the management of causes, he possessed consummate tact, and unerring judgment. Skilful in the examination of witnesses, never making a mistake himself nor overlooking one in an opponent, his powers as a lawyer were seen to the greatest advantage in the unpremeditated discussion of the law-points that incidentally arose. Rufus, his son, an officer in the 2d Ms. Vols., d. Dorchester, Ms., 15 Jan. 1866, a. 32. — See his Works, with Memoir by S. G. Brown, 1862; Golden Age of American Oratory, by E. G. Parker, 1857.

Choisi de (deh shwä'-ze'), a French gen. of brigade, of disting. merit. in the army of Rochambeau; com. the force which invested Gloucester, Va., Oct. 3, 1780, attacked and defeated Tarleton's Legion, and aided in the capture of Cornwallis at Yorktown, Va.

Choules, John Overton, D.D., Baptist clergyman and author, b. Bristol, Eng., Feb. 5, 1801; d. New York, Jan. 5, 1856. After completing his school education, he became in 1822 a divinity student in the Baptist Coll. at Bristol. After his arrival in America in 1824, he was 2 years principal of an acad. at Red Hook, N.J.; officiated in his clerical capacity in Newport, R.I., in New Bedford, Ms., Buffalo (1837–41), at Jamaica Plain, near Boston, 1843, and while at the latter place, and in Newport, he had charge of a select school of boys, for which he was admirably qualified. At the time of his death, he had the pastoral charge of a Baptist church at Newport. He was also a public lecturer, a contrib. to the press, and pub. "The History of Christian Missions," a narrative of a yachting excursion to Europe in company with Mr. Vanderbilt, 1854, an edition of Neal's "History of the Puritans," 1843; a continuation of Hinton's "History of the U.S.," edited an edition of Foster's "Statesmen of the Commonwealth of England," 1846; James's "Church-Member's Guide," and "Young American Abroad, or Vacation in Europe," describing an excursion-tour with several of his pupils. He delivered excellent anniversary addresses; was much interested in agricultural and political matters; and was a warm partisan and personal friend of Mr. Webster. Of low stature, in person the beau ideal of a bon vivant, his knowledge of the world, humor, and vivacity, made him a most agreeable companion, in addition to which, he was exceedingly benevolent.

Chouteau (shoo'-tō'), Auguste and Pierre, two brothers, founders of the city of St. Louis, b. N. Orleans; d. (the first) Feb. 24, 1829, a. 80, and Pierre, July 9, 1849, a. 90. They joined the exped. of Laclede in Aug. 1763, to establish the fur-trade in the region west of the Mpi. Auguste, the elder, was in com. of a boat. In the following winter, they selected a point 61 miles above St. Genevieve, on the western bank of the Mpi., for their principal post, and named this St. Louis. Auguste was in charge of the party that commenced operations here Feb. 15, 1764. The brothers became, in time, the heads of numerous families of the highest respectability; acquired affluence and a name, which, after a lapse of 70 years, is still a passport that commands safety and hospitality among the Indians of the north-west. Pierre, son of the last-named, b. 19 Jan. 1789; d. 8 Sept. 1865. Was a leading merchant in the fur-trade in St. Louis; a principal member or the head of most of the successive companies formed for conducting this business. In 1834, he, with Messrs. Pratte and Cabanne, purchased the interest of John Jacob Astor in the American Fur Company. In 1839 was formed the house of P. Chouteau, jun., & Co., which nearly monopolized the fur-trade of the west and north-west. — Edwards's Great West.

Christian, Col. William, b. Berkeley Co., Va., 1732; d. June, 1782. Emigrating with his family to Pa., he served against Pontiac; was a capt. in Forbes's exped. against Fort Duquesne in 1758, and was efficient in Dunmore's campaign against the Sciotos. He was an intimate friend of Washington.

Digitized by Google

Settled at Braddock's Ford on the Youghiogeny in 1768, and raised and com. a regt. during the Revol. In 1782, he reluctantly accepted the com. of an exped. to ravage the Wyandotte and Moravian Indian towns on the Muskingum; was taken prisoner, and put to death with excruciating tortures.

Christie, Gen. Gabriel; d. Montreal, Nov. 1798. Capt. 48th Foot, Nov. 13, 1754, and was in com. at Albany in the summer of 1757. He served at the siege of Louisburg in 1758, was app. maj. Apr. 7, 1759; d.q.-m.-gen. in Amer., Aug. 14, and entered Canada with the British army in 1760. He became brevet lieut.-col. Jan. 27, 1762; lieut.-col. 60th roy. Americans, Dec. 24, 1768. Sept. 18, 1775, he was changed to the first batt.; app. quartermast.-gen. in Canada, Apr. 2, 1776; brev. col. Apr. 29, 1777; col. com. 2d batt. May 14, 1778; m.-gen. Oct. 19, 1781; lieut.-gen. Oct. 12, 1793; gen. Jan. 1, 1798. Gen. C. was proprietor of Isle Aux Nois in the Richelieu River, a little north of Lake Champlain, which he afterwards sold to the crown; and of several seigniories in the vicinity of the island.

Christie, John, col. U.S.A., son of James, b. N.Y. City, 1786; d. Fort George, U.C., July 22, 1813. Col. Coll. 1806. He studied law; was app. lieut. of inf., May 3, 1808; capt. Feb. 1809; lieut.-col 13th Inf., Mar. 12, 1812; wounded at Queenstown, Oct. 13, 1812, where he com. the regular troops. He displayed here the courage and skill of a veteran, but was compelled, after an heroic struggle, to surrender to an overwhelming force. Insp.-gen., Mar. 18, 1813; col. 23d Inf., Mar. 12, 1813.

Christie, Robert, M.P.P., a Canadian historian, b. Nova Scotia, 1788; d. Quebec, Oct. 13, 1856. Author of "History of L. Canada," 6 vols., 12mo. He was at various times a contrib. to the Quebec Gazette and to the Quebec Mercury.

Christophe (krēs'tōf'), Henri, king of Hayti, b. Oct. 6, 1767, in the Island of Granada, or of St. Christopher; d. Oct. 8, 1820, by his own hand. One account states that he was, at the age of 12, taken to St. Domingo, sold as a slave, and employed as a cook: others relate, that after serving in the Amer. war, and receiving a wound at the siege of Savannah, he went to St. Domingo, and was employed on the plantation of Limonade, displaying as an overseer his characteristic severity. From the commencement of the troubles amongst the blacks, he took a decided part in favor of independence, and signalized himself by his energy, boldness, and activity in many bloody engagements. Toussaint made him a brig.-gen., and employed him to suppress an insurrection. This was speedily accomplished; and Christophe was made gov. of the province of the north. He com. at the cape in 1802, when Leclerc arrived with a French army destined for the subjugation of the negroes. Dessalines and Christophe were declared outlaws. Their heroic efforts, aided by the climate, left, at the close of 1805, no vestige of a French force in Hayti. Christophe was gen.-in-chief during the brief administration of Dessalines, and was app., in Feb. 1807, pres. for life. The popularity of Petion in the south, however, led to the organization, at the same time, of a republic at Port au Prince under that officer; but the civil war which ensued did not prevent Christophe from taking judicious measures for the establishment of order, and the promotion and encouragement of the industry of his people. Having abolished the republican forms, he was, Mar. 28, 1811, proclaimed king of Hayti by the name of Henri I., and was crowned at the cape, June 2, 1812. Following the example of Napoleon still further, he compiled from the "Code Napoleon" the "Code Henri," which had the merit of judicious adaptation to the situation of Hayti. A suspension of hostilities between Petion and himself took place in 1814. They broke out afresh upon the death of Petion in 1818; and an insurrection, begun by the army, soon extended itself in all directions. Christophe, whose deposition was demanded, and who was confined by illness in his fortified palace of Sans Souci, perceiving his case to be desperate, and resolved not to gratify the insurgents by becoming their prisoner, shot himself. His eldest son was massacred; but his widow and daughter were protected by Boyer, who enabled them to withdraw to Europe with a competent fortune.

Christy, William, lawyer, b. Georgetown, Ky., Dec. 6, 1791. He began practice in 1811. Served under Harrison in the War of 1812, and was afterward a merchant in N. Orleans. Resuming practice, he pub. in 1826 a "Digest of the Decisions of the Sup. Court of La." During the Harrison presidential campaign in 1840, he was a ready and frequent speaker in behalf of his old friend.

Chronicle, Maj. William, an officer of the Revol., b. S.C., 1755; killed at the battle of King's Mountain, N.C., Oct. 7, 1780. He belonged to the S.C. contingent, furnished in 1779, after the defeat at Savannah. In 1780, he became maj., and fell while gallantly leading his men in the attack on Maj. Ferguson. A monument was erected to his memory upon the battle-field.

Church, Albert E., LL.D. (Y.C. 1852), mathematician, b. Salisbury, Ct. West Point (1st in class), 1828. Son of Judge Samuel. Entering the 3d Art., he became 1st lieut. 13 Jan. 1836; assist. prof. of math., West Point, Oct. 1833; prof. since 13 Mar. 1838; A.M. of Wash. Coll., Ct., and N. J. Coll. 1837; member of several scientific asso. Author of Elements of Diff. and Integ. Calculus," 1842; improved ed., 1851; "Elements of Analyt. Geom.," 1851; "Elements of Descriptive Geom.," &c., 1865; d. W. Point, Mch. 30, 1878.

Church, Col. Benjamin, disting. in the early Indian wars of N. E., b. Plymouth, Ms., 1639; d. Little Compton, where he had settled in 1674, Jan. 17, 1718. He was engaged in several severe skirmishes in King Philip's war, one of which was in a swamp near Bridgewater; and in Aug. 1676, com. the party by which Philip was killed. Com.-in-chief of an exped. against the Eastern Indians in 1689, he ascended the Kennebec, and rescued Casco for a time. He made 4 other expeds. against the Indians in Me., doing much injury to the French and Indians on the Kennebec, Penobscot, and Passamaquoddy Rivers. Under his direction, and from his minutes, his son THOMAS wrote a "History of Philip's War," 1716, last edition, with notes by H. M. Dexter, 1865. He was equally disting. in the various walks of life by his integrity, justice, and piety. In his old age, he was corpulent; and he d. by a fall from his horse. THOMAS, his grandson, b. Little Compton, d. Dighton, Ms.; was app. col. in the R.I. army of observation in May, 1775; was a member of the State senate in 1776, and an assist. in the R. I. govt.

Digitized by Google

Church, BENJAMIN, physician, great-grandson of the preceding, b. Newport, R. I., Aug. 24, 1734; lost at sea, May, 1776. H.U. 1754. He studied medicine in London, and, after his return to Boston, became eminent as a surgeon. Ab. 1768, he built an elegant mansion at Raynham, where he is said to have led an extravagant and licentious life. The pecuniary embarrassment resulting from this is supposed to have led to his defection from the cause of his country. For several years preceding the Revol., he was a conspicuous and leading Whig. He was a representative, a member of the Prov. Congress of 1774, and physician-gen. to the patriot-army. In 1774, Church was found to have written parodies of popular songs, composed by himself in favor of liberty, for the Tory journals. In Sept. 1775, an intercepted letter in characters, to Maj. Cain in Boston, which had passed through the hands of a woman who was kept by Church, was deciphered; and the woman finally confessed that Church was its author. Oct. 3, 1775, he was convicted by a court-martial, of which Washington was pres., "of holding a criminal corresp. with the enemy," and was imprisoned at Cambridge. He was expelled from the house, notwithstanding a brilliant and ingenious defence, and by order of Congress was confined in jail at Norwich, Ct., and debarred the use of pen, ink, and paper. Released in May, 1776, on account of failing health, he sailed for the W. Indies, and was never afterward heard from. His family was pensioned by the crown. He was an elegant orator and poet, and the best of the contributors to the Pietas et Gratulatio. He wrote "The Choice," a poem; "The Times," 1765, a satire on the Stamp Act and its abettors; an elegy on Dr. Mayhew, 1766, on Whitefield, 1770; "Address to a Provincial Bashaw, by a Son of Liberty," 1769; "Oration, Mar. 5, 1773." An account of his examination and defence is in Ms. Hist. Colls. vol. i.

Church, FREDERIC EDWIN, landscape-painter, b. Hartford, Ct., May, 1826. A pupil of Thos. Cole, he was first brought into notice by his view of East Rock, near New Haven. Subsequent representations of Amer. scenery, increasing his reputation, he went in 1853 to S. Amer. His views of the great mountain-chains of New Granada were among the first seen here; and they attracted great attention at the exhibition of the N.Y. Acad. of Design. In 1857, he made a second visit, and also painted a large view of Niagara Falls, which greatly increased his reputation. It represents the Horse-Shoe Fall as seen from the Canadian shore, near Table Rock, and has been pronounced, both here and in Eng., the best representation of the Falls ever painted. Mr. Church has for some years been a resident of N.Y. His "Heart of the Andes," "Cotopaxi," "The Icebergs," and "Rainy Season in the Tropics," are among his best efforts.

Church, SAMUEL, LL.D. (Trin. Coll. 1847), jurist, b. Salisbury, Ct., Feb. 1785; d. at Newtown, Sept. 12, 1854. Y.C. 1803. He studied law, and settled in his native town, of which he was a representative and senator (1818–31); 11 years judge of probate; judge of the Superior Court in 1833, and in 1847–54 chief-justice. He removed to Litchfield in 1845. He pub. an address at the Salisbury Centennial Jubilee, 1841.

Churchill, SYLVESTER, brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. Woodstock, Vt., Aug. 2, 1783; d. Washington, Dec. 7, 1862. Educated in the schools of his native place, he pub. in Windsor, in 1808, a weekly Democ. newspaper, The Vermont Republican. App. lieut. of art. in Mar. 1812; capt. Aug. 1813, of a company raised by himself, and did good service on Burlington Heights in protecting Macdonough's fleet during an attack, while undergoing repairs. Asst. insp.-gen. Aug. 29, 1813; ordnance officer under Gen. Wade Hampton, serving as such through the war. He was in the attack on La Cole Mill; was subsequently on the staff of Gen. Izard, and was acting adj.-gen. to Gen. Macomb, at Plattsburg; maj. 3d Art., Apr. 6 1835; acting insp.-gen. in Creek Nation and in Florida, from July, 1836, to 1841; insp.-gen. June 25, 1841; brev. brig.-gen. Feb. 23, 1847, "for gallant and meritorious conduct in battle of Buena Vista." Retired Oct. 1861. His eldest son, Capt. Wm. H. Churchill, d. at Point Isabel in 1847. West Point, 1840.

Churchman, JOHN, Quaker preacher, b. Nottingham, Pa., June 4, 1705; d. there July 24, 1775. He entered on the ministry in 1733; travelled and preached in N.E. in 1742; in N.Y. in 1743, and again in 1774; in Eng., Scotland, Wales, Ireland, and Holland in 1750–4, and, in 1775, visited the Eastern shore of Md. He was an able preacher and an exemplary man. An account of his labors and experiences was pub., Lond., 1780. — Coll. of Quaker Memorials.

Churchman, JOHN, a Quaker, disting. for his researches after the cause of the variation of the magnetic needle, b. Md.; d. on the passage from Europe, July 24, 1805. He pub., besides several philos. tracts, a useful variation-chart of the globe, magnetic atlas and explanation, Phila., 1790; was a member of the Russian Imperial Acad., and was presented by it with a set of its Transactions.

Churruca y Elorza de (dā choor-roo'-kă e ā-lor'-thă), C. DAMIAN, an able Spanish naval officer, b. Guipuzcoa, 1761; killed at the battle of Trafalgar, 1805. Sent with the exped. to survey the Straits of Magellan, his valuable "Diary of the Exploration of Terra del Fuego," was pub. in 1793. He com. an exploring exped. to the Gulf of Mexico in 1791, from which resulted numerous charts of the coasts.

Cieza, or Cieca de Leon (the-ā'-thā dā lā-ōn'), PEDRO, b. Seville, ab. 1520; served under Pizarro in the W. Indies; resided many years in Peru. Author of "Cronica del Peru" (1553), commended by Prescott. — See Conquest of Peru.

Digitized by Google

Cilley, Gen. Joseph, Revol. officer, b. Nottingham, N.H., 1734; d. there Aug. 1799. His father was one of the first settlers of N. in 1727. With little education, he became a self-taught lawyer. In Dec. 1774, he, with other patriots, dismantled the fort at Portsmouth, and removed the cannon. Immediately after the battle of Lexington, he led 100 vols. to Boston; became a major in Poor's regt. in May, 1775; lieut.-col. Nov. 8, 1776, and col. 1st N.H. regt., Feb. 22, 1777. He com. his regt. at Ticonderoga in July, 1777; was conspicuous for bravery at Bemis Heights in Sept.; was at the storming of Stony Point, at the battle of Monmouth, and in Sullivan's exped. against the Indians in 1779, serving to the end of the war. Maj.-gen. of militia, June 22, 1786, and held various offices.

Cist, Charles, editor and author; d. Cincin., 6 Sept. 1868. Editor of "Cists's Advertiser," Cin., 1844–53, and of 3 vols. of Annals of Cincinnati, 1841, '51, and '59, and Cincinnati Miscellany, 8vo.

Cist, Lewis J., poet, son of Charles, b. Harmony, Pa., 20 Nov. 1818. Removed when a child to Cincinnati, and in 1852 to St. Louis, where he has long been a bank-officer. From his contribs. to the "Hesperian," his father's "Advertiser," and other papers, he collected and pub. in 1845 a vol. of "Trifles in Verse." — See Poets and Poetry of the West.

Claflin, William, LL.D. (Wesl. U. 1868), gov. of Ms., 1869–71, b. Milford, 6 Mar. 1818. Many years engaged in the shoe and leather business, Boston. Member Ms. legisl. 1849–52; senator, 1860; pres. senate, 1861, and lieut.-gov. 1866–9.

Claggett, John Thomas, D.D., first Ep. bishop of Md., b. Oct. 2, 1742, at White's Landing, Md.; d. Aug. 2, 1816. N.J. Coll. 1764; D.D. 1787. Son of a clergyman; adm. to priest's orders by the bishop of Lond., Oct. 11, 1767. He took charge of All Saints' parish, Calvert Co., Md., until the Revol., and afterwards of St. James's parish, Anne Arundel Co., preaching alternately in both. In 1791, he removed to his large paternal estate at Croom in Prince George's Co. After the organization of the church in the diocese of Md., Dr. Claggett was elected its first bishop, and was consec. Sept. 17, 1792.

Claiborne, Ferdinand Leigh, gen., b. Sussex Co., Va., 1772; d. 1815. Bro. of Wm. C.C. App. ensign of inf., Feb. 1793; capt. Oct. 1799; brig.-gen. militia Mpi. Terr., Feb. 1811; col. Mpi. vols. 1812–13; brig.-gen. vols. 1813; com. in engagement with Creek Indians at the "Holy Ground," Dec. 1813; legislative councillor Mpi. Terr., 1815. He settled in the Mississippi Territory, and presided over the deliberations of its legisl.

Claiborne, John F. H., journalist and author, b. Natchez, Mpi. Educated as a lawyer in Va.; member Mpi. legisl. 3 sessions; M.C. 1835–8; editor Natchez Fair Trader and Louisiana Courier, and afterward of an agric. paper in N. Orleans; app. U.S. timber agent for La. and Mpi. by Pres. Pierce; author of "Life of Gen. Sam. Dale," 1860; "Life of Gen. Quitman," 2 vols. 12mo. — Hist. Mag. iii. 352.

Claiborne, Nathaniel Herbert, politician, of the same family as the above, and bro. of Gov. Wm. C. C., b. Franklin Co., Va., 1777; d. on his plantation there, Aug. 15, 1859. He was the son of Wm. Claiborne and Mary Leigh; was many years a disting. member of both branches of the Va. legisl., where he was a reformer of extravagance and abuses of the govt.; was afterward a member of the exec. council, and was a M.C. from 1825 to 1837. Author of "Notes on the War in the South," Richmond, 12mo, 1819.

Claiborne, William Charles Cole, statesman, b. Va., 1773; d. N. Orleans, Nov. 23, 1817. Bred a lawyer, he settled in Tenn., where he soon received the app. of territorial judge; assisted in framing a State constitution in 1796, and was M.C. from 1797 to 1801. He was app., by Jefferson, gov. of Mpi. in 1802; was a commissioner with Gen. Wilkinson to take possession of La. on its purchase from the French, and, on the establishment of the new govt. in 1804, was app. gov., to which position he was elected by the people from 1812 to 1816. Elected to the U.S. senate in the latter year, he was prevented by sickness from taking his seat. Of the same family as the above were, 1st, Col. Thomas of Brunswick, Va., M.C. 1793–9, 1801–5; 2d, his son, Dr. John, M.C. from 1805 to his death, Oct. 9, 1808; 3d, Thomas of Nashville, Tenn., M.C. 1817–19; 4th, Nathaniel H. of Va. — Lanman.

Clap, Nathaniel, minister of Newport, R.I., b. Jan. 20, 1669; d. Newport, Oct. 30, 1745. H.C. 1690. Grandson of deacon Nicholas, a settler of Dorchester in 1636. He began to preach in Newport in 1695; was ord. Nov. 3, 1720, and preached there until his death. Whitefield and Bishop Berkeley both speak of his appearance as most venerable. He was a man of great earnestness, goodness, and charity. He pub. "Advice to Children," 1691, and a sermon on some extraordinary dispensations, 1715.

Clap, Capt. Roger, one of the first settlers of Dorchester, b. Salcomb, Devonshire, Eng., Apr. 6, 1609; d. Boston, Feb. 2, 1691. Emigrating to Ms. in 1630, with Warham, Maverick, and others, he began a plantation at Dorchester. He sustained several military and civil offices; was a representative from 1652 to 1666, and capt. of Castle William from Aug. 1665, till his removal to Boston in 1686. Being a man of remarkable piety, he officiated as chaplain at the castle. His manuscript memoirs — a most touching memorial of the New-England worthies, prepared for the benefit of his children, to whom he gives excellent advice — were first pub. by Rev. Thos. Prince in 1731, and have been 5 times reprinted, the last time by the Dorchester Hist. Soc. — Hist. of Dorchester.

Clap, Thomas, divine and scholar, b. Scituate, Ms., June 26, 1703; d. N. Haven, Jan. 7, 1767. H. U. 1722. He was educated by Dr. McSparran, the R. I. missionary; was minister of Windham, Ct., 1726–39, and pres of Y. C. 1739–66. He was one of the most learned men of his time in N. E.; constructed the first orrery in America, and was eminent as a mathematician, astronomer, and natural philosopher. The coll., under his administration, rose greatly in reputation. He was an accomplished instructor, and a man of indefatigable industry and unaffected piety. He wrote a "History of Yale Coll.," 1766; "An Abridgment of the Established Doctrines of the N. E. Churches," 1755; also sermons; a tract on meteors; "Essay on the Religious Constitution of Colleges," 1754; "Nature and Foundation of Moral Virtue and Obligation," 1765; "Letter to Mr. Edwards," 1745; and "Remarks on Graham's Vindication of B. Gale."

Digitized by Google

Clapp, Asa, merchant, b. Mansfield, Ms., March 15, 1762; d. Portland, May 17, 1848. The son of a respectable farmer. He was a vol. in Sullivan's exped. to R. I. in 1778, and served as an officer of a privateer until the close of the Revol., when he obtained the com. of a ship. He was at St. Domingo during the negro insurrection, and rendered much service to the distressed inhabitants. Quitting the sea in 1796, he established himself in business in Portland, and became one of the wealthiest and most disting. merchants of Me. He was a State councillor, a delegate to the convention for framing the constitution of Me. in Oct. 1819, and several years a representative in the State legisl. He was noted for benevolence and rectitude. A memoir, by J. A. Lowell, is in "Lives of American Merchants." — Portland Advertiser, May 18.

Clapp, Rev. Theodore, Unitarian clergyman, b. Easthampton, Ms., March 29, 1792; d. Louisville, Ky., Apr. 17, 1866. Y. C. 1814. He studied theology at Andover in 1818–19, and in 1822 became pastor of the First Presb. Church in N. Orleans. In 1834, he adopted Unitarian views, and dissolved his connection with the Presb. Church, but remained pastor of nearly the same congregation as before, organized under the name of the Church of the Messiah. He resided in N. Orleans through 20 fatal and wide-spreading epidemics, including yellow-fever and cholera, and, by his laborious devotion to all classes, earned the esteem and affection alike of his own parishioners and of the whole body of Protestant and Catholic inhabitants. In 1847, he travelled in Europe; resigned his pastorate from ill health in 1857, and in 1858 pub. a vol. of "Autobiographical Sketches and Recollections of a 35-Years' Res. in N. Orleans;" in 1859, "Theol. Views," &c. An instance of the esteem in which he was held, even by his bitterest religious foes, is found in the fact, that, for many years, the use of a large church in N. Orleans was given him by its owner, Judah Touro, a wealthy Jew, free of expense.

Clapp, William Warland, Jun., journalist, b. Boston, 11 Apr. 1826, succeeded his father, in 1847, as editor of the Boston Sat. Evening Gazette. After the death of C. O. Rogers, he became a proprietor of the Boston Journal. Author of a "History of the Boston Stage."

Clark, Abraham, signer of the Decl. of Indep., b. Elizabethtown, N.J., 15 Feb. 1726; d. Rahway, Sept. 15, 1794. Bred a farmer, he taught himself a knowledge of mathematics and of the law; held the offices of high sheriff and clerk of the assembly, and, from his habit of giving legal advice gratuitously, was called "the poor man's counsellor." Active in the Revol. movement, he was on the committee of public safety; was, with few intermissions, a delegate to Congress from June 11, 1776, until the adoption of the Federal Const., and was a member of the conventions at Annapolis in 1786, and of that which framed the U. S. Const. in 1787. Member of the State legisl., 1782–7; M. C. 1789–94. Two of his sons, officers of the army, were at one time inmates of the Jersey prison-ship; and the sufferings of one of them were such that Congress ordered a retaliation. His zeal, public spirit, and patriotism made him one of the most useful men of his time.

Clarke, Sir Alured, a British field-marshal, b. 1745; d. Sept. 16, 1832. He entered the army in 1755; became maj. Nov. 1771; lieut.-col. 7th Foot, 1777; brev. col. May, 1781; maj.-gen. 1790; lieut.-gen. 1797; gen. 1802; field-marshal, 1830. He com. the British forces in Savannah, until their withdrawal, 11 July, 1782, and gained the good will of the Americans by his courtesy and by the protection of property at the evacuation. Gov. of Jamaica; gov. of Quebec, 1792–3; com. at the capture of the Cape of Good Hope in 1795; com.-in-chief of Madras, 1795–7; gov.-gen of India, Sept. 1797–Apr. 1808; and com.-in-chief of the forces in India, May, 1798–1801.

Clark, Alvan, portrait-painter, and maker of telescopes, b. Ashfield, Ms., March 8, 1804. A farmer's boy, at 22 he became a calico-engraver at Lowell. In 1836, he became a successful portrait-painter in Boston, and still continues to practise this art. When over 40 years of age, he became interested in telescopes, and, with his sons, succeeded in producing instruments of great accuracy. No. 9 of vol xvii. of the "Proceedings of the Roy. Astron. Society of Lond.," contains a list of discoveries by Mr. Clark, with telescopes of his own manufacture. He is also the inventor of a double eye-piece, an ingenious and valuable method of measuring small celestial arcs from 3′ to 60′. Jan. 3, 1863, the French Imperial Acad. of Sciences awarded him the La Lande prize for his discovery of the new star near Sirius with the great reflecting telescope made by him. A.M. of Amh. and N. J. Colleges.

Clark, Davis Wasgatt, D.D., Methodist clergyman, b. on the Island of Mt. Desert, Me., Feb. 25, 1812; d. Cincin., 23 May, 1871. Wesl. U. 1836. He presided over Amenia Sem., N.Y., 7 years. For 9 years, he filled important stations, 4 of them in N. Y. City. In 1852, he was elected editor of books and of the Ladies' Repository, at the Western Book Concern, Cincinnati, O. He presided over 42 annual conferences. Elected pres. of Lawrence U. 1852, and in 1853 of Ind. Asbury U. Elected bishop in 1864. In 1849, he received from his alma mater the degree of D.D. He pub. an algebra in 1843; was a frequent contributor to the Methodist Quarterly Review; pub. a "Treatise on Mental Discipline," 1848; "Fireside Readings," 5 vols.; "Life and Times of Bishop Hedding," 1854; "Man Immortal," 1864; "Sermons," 1868. 27 vols. have been edited by him, and pub. by the Book Concern. He has also been actively engaged as a preacher.— Alumni Rec. Wesl. U.

Digitized by Google

Clark, DANIEL, lawyer and senator, b. Stratham, N.H., Oct. 29, 1809. Dartm. Coll. 1834. He began practice at Epping in Sept. 1837, and in Manchester in 1839; member N.H. legisl. 1842–3, '46, and 1854–5; U.S. senator, 1857–66, and pres. pro tem. 1864–5; judge U.S. District Court since 1866.

Clarke, REV. DORUS, D.D., b. Westhamp. Ms., Jan. 2, 1797. Wms. Coll. 1817. Some time pastor 4th Cong. Ch., Springfield, Ms. Author of "Lectures to Young People in Manufacturing Villages;" "Fugitives from the Escritoire of a Retired Editor," 1864. "Orthodox Congregationalism and the Sects." 1871. Editor N. E. Puritan and the Christian Times in Boston, and of the Christian Parlor Mag. in N.Y.

Clarke, GEN. ELIJAH, b. N.C.; d. Wilkes Co., Ga., Dec. 15, 1799. He removed to Ga. in 1774; became a capt. in 1776, and disting. himself in engagements both with Indians and British on the frontiers of Ga. App. a col. of militia, and subsequently a brig.-gen., he defeated the British at Musgrove's Mill and Blackstocks, and contrib. greatly to the capture of Augusta in June, 1781. At the battle of Long Cane, he was severely wounded, and, on his recovery, joined the com. of Gen. Pickens. He afterward fought many battles, and made several treaties, with the Creek Indians. He was accused, in 1794, of a design to establish an independent govt. in the Creek nation, where he had settled in violation of law.

Clarke, GEORGE, gov. of N.Y. from March, 1736 to 1743; d. Chester, Eng., 1763. Of an ancient family in Somersetshire, he was bred to the law, and assumed the administration as senior counsellor on the death of Gov. Cosby. His administration, like that of his predecessor, was agitated by contention with the assembly.

Clark, GEORGE H., poet, b. Northampton, Ms., 1809. Inn-merchant at Hartford, Ct., and, besides contributing poems to newspapers and magazines, has pub. "Now and Then," and "The News," poems of ab. 1,000 lines, and "Under Tow of a Trade Wind Surf," a coll. of sentimental and humorous pieces. — Duyckinck.

Clarke, GEORGE ROGERS, gen., b. Albemarle Co., Va., Nov. 19, 1752; d. near Louisville, Ky., Feb. 13, 1818. Originally a land-surveyor, he com. a company in Dunmore's army in 1774. In 1775, he went to Ky., and took com. of the armed settlers. In the spring of 1778, Maj. Clarke was intrusted by Gov. Henry of Va. with the com. of an exped. against the British fort at Kaskaskia, which he surprised and captured. He succeeded, also, in reducing other posts in this region, including that at Vincennes, which were organized into a county, under the jurisdiction of Va., and named Illinois. Promoted to col. by the Va. authorities, he applied himself successfully to the pacification of the Indian tribes. While thus engaged, he learned that Gov. Hamilton of Detroit had captured Vincennes, and that further blows were to be struck against Amer. posts. Anticipating the enemy, Col. Clarke commenced his march against Vincennes, Feb. 7, 1779, with 175 men, traversing a wilderness and the drowned lands of Illinois, suffering every privation from wet, cold, and hunger. The place was besieged on the morning of the 19th, and was surrendered the next day. He intercepted a convoy of goods worth $10,000, and built Fort Jefferson on the west bank of the Mpi. In retaliation for the inroads of the British and Indians into Ky., in June, 1780, he led a force against the Shawnees on the Great Miami, defeating them, with heavy loss, at Pickawa. During Arnold's invasion, Clarke took a temporary com. under Baron Steuben. He afterwards succeeded in raising a considerable force for an exped. against Detroit, and was made a brigadier; but the progress of Cornwallis, and the poverty of the country, restricted the frontiersmen to the defensive. In Sept. 1782, Gen. Clarke, at the head of more than 1,000 mounted riflemen, assembled at the mouth of the Licking, invaded the Indian towns on the Scioto, burned five of their villages, and laid waste their plantations, producing a salutary effect, and so awing the savages, that no formidable Indian war-party ever after invaded Ky. In 1786, Clarke com. an exped. of 1,000 men against the Indians on the Wabash. It was a failure. His great services to his country were passed over, and he d. in poverty and obscurity. A Sketch of his Campaign in Ill. in 1778–9, by H. Pirtle, was pub. 8vo, Cincinnati, 1869.

Clark, GEN. ISAAC, d. Castleton, Vt., Jan. 31, 1822, a. 73. Member of the Const. Conv., and many years chief-judge of the Vt. Co. Court, a soldier of the Revol., and col. 11th U.S. Inf., Mar. 12, 1812. Com. a successful exped. against Masseqnoi, L. Canada, Oct. 12, 1813.

Clark, J. HENRY, M.D., physician and author, b. Livingston, N.J., June 23, 1814; d. Montclair, N.J., March 6, 1869. U. of N.Y. 1841. He studied medicine in N.Y. and Europe, and settled in practice at Newark, ab. 1846, gaining a high reputation. He was some years pres. of the Essex Co. Med. Society. Author of "Sight and Hearing," 1856; "Med. Topography of Newark and its Vicinity," 1861.

Clark, COL. JAMES, b. July 1730; d. Lebanon, Ct., Dec. 29, 1826. Descended from Daniel, an early settler of Windsor, Ct. A capt. in Putnam's regt., and disting. at Bunker's Hill; made lieut.-col of Huntington's regt. Nov. 4, 1775, and was disting. at Harlem Heights and White Plains.

Clark, JAMES, gov. Ky., 1836–9, b. near the Peaks of Otter, Bedford Co., Va., 1779; d. Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 27, 1839. His father having moved to Clark Co., Ky., James practised law in Winchester in 1797; was several times a member of the State legisl., was judge of the Court of Appeals, 1810–12; M.C. 1813–16 and 1825–31; judge of the Circuit Court, 1817–24, and member of the State senate, and speaker, in 1832. — Collins's Hist. Ky.

Clarke, JAMES, journalist and politician, b. Westmoreland Co., Pa.; d. near Burlington, Iowa, July 28, 1850, a. 38. He went to St. Louis in 1836, then to Beloit, Wis., where he was territorial printer, and in 1837 to Burlington, Iowa, where he conducted the Territorial, now State Gazette, until the winter of 1839–40, when he was app. sec. of the Terr.; resumed the conduct of that paper from 1843 to 1845; was gov. of the Terr. in 1846, and again edited the Gazette, from the fall of 1848, till his death.

Digitized by Google

Clarke, James Freeman, D.D. (H.U. 1863), clergyman, b. Hanover, N.H., April 4, 1810. H. U. 1829; Camb. Div. School, 1833. Pastor of the Unitarian Church at Louisville, Ky., from 1833 to 1840, of the Church of the Disciples, Boston, from 1841 to 1850, and from 1853 to the present time. He edited the Western Messenger at Louisville, 1836–9; translated De Wette's "Theodore," 2 vols., 1840; pub. "Life and Military Services of Gen. Wm. Hull," 1848; "Eleven Weeks in Europe," 1851; "Christian Doctrine of Forgiveness," 1852; "Service-Book and Hymn-Book for the Church of the Disciples," 1844, 1856; "Memoirs of the Marchioness D'Ossoli," 1852; "Christian Doctrine of Prayer," 1854 and 1856; "Ten Great Religions," 1870; also occasional sermons, poems, articles in reviews, &c. In 1864, he delivered a tercentenary discourse on Shakspeare in Boston. Dr. Clarke has ever been devoted to practical reforms, to the improvement of the forms of worship and fellowship, and was long engaged in the antislavery movement. The worship of the Church of the Disciples combines the features of responses on the part of the congregation, as in the English Church, the extempore prayer of the Congregationalists, and the silent prayer of the Friends. His treatises on prayer and forgiveness have attracted much attention.

Clarke, John, a founder of R.I., b. Bedfordsh. Eng., Oct. 8, 1609; d. Newport, April 20, 1676. He was a physician in Lond., came to Ms. soon after its settlement, but espousing the cause of Anne Hutchinson, and publicly claiming, with Roger Williams, full license for religious belief, was obliged to flee from the Colony. Welcomed by Roger Williams, the fugitives formed themselves into an organization, March 7, 1637–8, and obtained from the Indians Aquidneck, which they named the Isle of Rhodes, or Rhode Island. The settlement began at Pocasset, in 1638; and Mr. Clarke, who commenced preaching, founded at Newport in 1644, and became pastor of, the second Baptist Church in Amer. In 1649, he was treas. of the Colony. Visiting his friends in Lynn, while preaching there, July 24, 1651, he was arrested, was taken before the court, and was condemned, for what were adjudged false teachings, to pay a fine of £20, or be publicly whipped. He proposed a discussion, but was obliged to pay his fine, and was ordered to leave the Colony. He was sent to Eng., with Roger Williams, in 1651, as an agent of the Colony of R.I., and there pub., in 1652, "Ill News from New England; or, a Narrative of New England's Persecution." Remaining 12 years in Eng., he succeeded in obtaining a revocation of Coddington's commission as gov., and finally procured a second charter for the Colony, which secured to every person complete freedom in matters of religious concernment. Returning in 1663, he resumed his pastorate at Newport, retaining it till his death, and was for 3 successive years dep. gov. of the Colony. In his will, he left his farm for charitable purposes, the income of it only to be expended; and it has since produced annually about $200. — Duyckinck.

Clarke, John, D.D. (U. of Edinb.), Cong. minister, b. Portsmouth, N.H., April 13, 1755; d. April 2, 1798. H.U. 1774. He became a teacher, and was ord. pastor of the First Church, as colleague with Dr. Chauncey, July 8, 1778. He pub. a tract, entitled "An Answer to the Question, Why are you a Christian?" 1797, and "A letter to a Student at Coll.," 1796. A vol. of his sermons was pub. in 1799, and "Discourses to Young Persons" in 1804.

Clarke, John, gov. of Del., 1816–17; d. Smyrna, Del., Aug. 1821.

Clarke, Gen. John, gov. of Ga., 1819–23, b. 1766; d. West Fla., Oct. 15, 1832. At 16, he was app. lieut., then capt., of militia. He fought under his father, Gen. Elijah Clarke, in the Revol. army; at the siege of Augusta; and, at the battle of Jack's Creek in 1787, greatly disting. himself, and attained the rank of maj.-gen. of the State militia. At a critical period in the War of 1812, he was app. by the gov. to the com. of the forces destined to defend the seacoast of Ga.

Clarke, John A., D.D., Pr.-Ep. clergyman and author, b. Pittsfield, Ms., May 6, 1801; d. Nov. 27, 1843. Rector of St. Andrew's Church, Phila. Un. Coll. 1823. He early became a popular preacher and writer. He pub. "Gathered Fragments," "Awake, Thou Sleeper," "The Pastor's Testimony," "The Young Disciple," "Gleanings by the Way," and "A Walk about Zion." "Glimpses of the Old World" was pub., with a memoir of the author, by the Rev. S. H. Tyng, in 2 vols., 8vo, Lond., 1847.

Clark, John B., lawyer, b. Madison Co., Ky., April 17, 1802. Removing to Mo., he was clerk of Howard Co. Court, 1824–34; com. a mounted regt. in Black Hawk war; maj.-gen. of militia, 1848; member of legisl. 1850–51; as gen. of militia, expelled the Mormons from Mo.; M.C. from 1857, until expelled in July, 1861.

Clark, Rev. Jonas, minister of Lexington, and Revol. patriot, b. Newton, Ms., Dec. 25, 1730; d. Lexington, Nov. 15, 1805. H.U. 1752. Ord. successor of Mr. Hancock at Lexington, Nov. 5, 1755, he proved an able and faithful minister. He was disting. as a patriot, and saw his people shot down at their doors on the 19th of April, 1775. During the war, himself and parishioners religiously observed the anniversary of this event. He pub. sermons, and "Narrative of the Lexington Battle," 1776. — Allen.

Clark, Laban, D D. (Wesl. U. 1853), Methodist clergyman, b. Haverhill, N.H., July 19, 1778; d. Middletown, Ct., Nov. 28, 1868. He received an academical education at Bradford, Vt.; began to preach in 1800; joined the N.Y. Conference in 1801, and for 50 years was a successful and able preacher in N.Y., N. E., and Canada. He was one of the founders of the Methodist Ep. Miss. Society in 1819, and also of the Wesleyan U. at Middletown, Ct., where he fixed his residence in 1851.

Digitized by Google

Clark, Louis Gaylord, editor, b. Otisco, N.Y. 1810. He and his twin-brother Willis were chiefly educated by their father, a Revol. soldier, and a man of reading and observation. In 1834, Louis became editor of the Knickerbocker Magazine. His contribs., called "The Editor's Table," and "Gossip with Readers and Correspondents," display humor, pathos, culture, and geniality. In 1852, "Knick-Knacks from an Editor's Table," selected from the magazine, appeared in an 8vo vol. He had previously pub. a selection of papers by Irving and others, called "The Knickerbocker Sketches." In 1855, the leading Amer. contribs. to his magazine pub. "The Knickerbocker Gallery," illustrated with their portraits, and consisting wholly of their original contribs. The design was to purchase a cottage residence for Mr. Clark at Piermont on the Hudson, where he died Nov. 3, 1873.

Clarke, McDonald, poet, b. N. London, Ct., June 18, 1798; d. N.Y., Mar. 5, 1842. He went to N.Y. City in 1819; m. an actress, and was for many years one of the features of Broadway; was always celebrating in verses the belles of the town and the topics of the day, and was familiarly known as the "mad poet." His oddities were all amiable; he had no vices; always preserved a gentility of deportment, and was a regular attendant at the fashionable Grace Church. His poems were humorous, sentimental, and indignant, and have a vein of tenderness pervading all their grotesqueness and irregularity. They contain many touches of delicate human sensibility. They are now rare, though several times pub.; some of their titles being, "A Review of the Eve of Eternity, and other Poems," 1820; "The Elixir of Moonshine," by the Mad Poet, 1822; "The Gossip," 1825; "Poetic Sketches," 1825; "The Belles of Broadway;" "Death in Disguise," a temperance poem, 1833; "Poems," 1836. His last effusion, "A Cross and a Coronet," was pub. 1841. — Appleton's Cyclop.

Clarke, Newman S., brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A.; d. San Francisco, Oct. 16, 1860. App. from Vt. ensign 11th Inf., Mar. 12, 1812; adj. 1813; brig.-maj. to Gen. Ripley, 1814; brev. capt. "for gallantry in the battle of Niagara," July 25, 1814; capt. Oct. 1814; brev. maj. July 25, 1824; maj. 2d Inf., July 21, 1834; lieut.-col. 8th Inf., July 7, 1838; col. 6th Inf., June 29, 1846; com. brig. in Mexico in 1847; brev. brig.-gen. "for siege of Vera Cruz," Mar. 29, 1847. — Gardner.

Clark, Rufus Wheelwright, D.D. (U. of N.Y. 1862), Presb. minister, b. Newburyport, Ms., 1813. Y.C. 1838. Rector of the North Church, Portsmouth, until Dec. 1851; of the Maverick Church, E. Boston, from Dec. 1851 to 1856; now of the D. R. Church, Albany. Has pub. "Heaven and its Scriptural Emblems;" "Memoir of Rev. John E. Emerson," 1851; "Lectures to Young Men," "Review of Prof. Stuart on Slavery," 1850; "Romanism in America," 1859; "Life-Scenes of the Messiah;" also pamphlets, sermons, &c., and contribs. to various journals.

Clarke, Samuel (1599–1682), pastor in Saint Bennet Fink, Lond., pub. "A True and Faithful Account of the Four Chiefest Plantations of the English in America,' Lond., folio, 1670; also a number of theol. works.; "New Description of the World," 1689, fol.

Clark, Samuel A., Epis. minister, b. Newburyport, Ms. Has pub. "Memoir of Rev. Albert W. Day," prefaced to Day's Sermons, 8vo, 1846; "History of St. John's Church, Elizabethtown, N.J." (1703–1857), Phila., 1857, 12mo.

Clark, Sheldon, benefactor of Yale Coll., b. Oxford, Ct., Jan. 31, 1785; d. there Apr. 10, 1840. He studied under the direction of Pres. Dwight, and became a farmer. He founded, in 1823, a prof. of moral philos. and metaphysics at Y.C.; afterwards established a scholarship fund; bought for the coll. a superior telescope, and bequeathed to it the residue of his property, $15,000.

Clark, Thomas, author of a "Naval Hist. of the U.S.," 2 vols., 1813–14, and "Sketches of the Naval Hist. of the U.S.," 1813; app. from Pa. lieut. of art., Apr. 1813; assist. topog. engr., rank of capt., 1 Apr. 1813; disbanded, June, 1815. — Gardner.

Clark, Thomas March, D.D. (Trin. Coll. 1851), LL.D. (Cantab. 1867), bishop of R.I., b. Newburyport, Ms., July, 1812. Y.C. 1831. Ord. 1836; consec. Providence, Dec. 16, 1854. Has pub. "Lectures on the Formation of Character," 1852; "Purity, a Source of Strength," "The Efficient S.S. Teacher," "An Efficient Ministry," "Early Discipline," 1855.

Clarke, Gen. William, explorer, and gov. of La. Terr. 1813–20, b. Va., Aug. 1, 1770; d. St. Louis, Sept. 1, 1838. In 1784, he removed to where Louisville now stands, where his bro. George Rogers had built a fort. He served in campaigns against the Indians, was adj. and quartermaster in 1793, resigned in 1796. App. lieut. of art. in 1803, and joined with Meriwether Lewis in the north-western expl. exped. which left St. Louis in Mar. 1804, returned in the fall of 1806, and kept the journal of the exped., afterwards pub. He was then made Indian agent, and afterward brig.-gen. of Upper La. App. supt. of Indian affairs in May, 1822, he made treaties with many tribes. Four of his bros. were disting. in the Revol. One fell in the struggle, another was killed by the Indians on the Wabash. Well acquainted with Indian character and habits, he was ever considerate in his treatment of them.

Clark, Willis Gaylord, miscell. writer, bro. of Louis, b. Otisco, N.Y., 1810; d. Phila., June 12, 1841. He gave early indications of literary talent; established a weekly journal at Phila. in 1830, which was soon abandoned; became co-editor with Dr. Brantley of the Columbian Star, a religious and literary weekly; and was subsequently, until his d., editor and proprietor of the Phila. Gazette. In Sept. 1833, he recited his longest poem, "The Spirit of Life" before the Franklin Soc. of B.U. In 1844, a vol. of his literary remains, including "Ollapodiana," poems, and magazine articles, was pub. A complete ed. of his poems was pub. in 1847, under the supervision of his bro. He was a frequent contrib. to the annuals and magazines, particularly the N.Y. Knickerbocker, in which appeared the original, racy, and fanciful papers, entitled "Ollapodiana."

Digitized by Google

Clarkson, Col. Mathew, a disting. Revol. officer; d. N.Y. City, April 22, 1825, a. 66. His great-grandfather, Mathew, 13 years sec. of the province, d. in the autumn of 1708, the year of the great sickness. He was aide-de-camp to Gen. Gates in the battle of Stillwater, and, while carrying an order in front of the lines, was severely wounded in the neck. He had previously been aide to Arnold, and was wounded at Fort Edward, in July, 1777. In his later years, he was vice-pres. of the Am. Bible Society.

Clary, Albert G., capt. U.S.N., b. Ms., May 8, 1815. Midshipm. May 8, 1832; lieut. Apr. 11, 1845; com. July 16, 1862; capt. Nov. 21, 1866. Attached to the sloop "Preble," present at Tuspan and Tabasco, during the Mexican war; comg. steamer "Anacostia," Potomac flotilla in engagement at Acquia Creek, May 31 and June 1, 1861; battle of Port Royal, Nov. 7, 1861; com. steamer "Mt. Vernon," N.A.B. squad., 1862; steamer "Tioga," W.I. squad., 1863; steamsloop "Dacotah," N.A.B. squad., 1864; steamsloop "Seminole," W. Gulf squad., 1864–5. — Hamersly.

Clason, Isaac Starr, author and actor, b. New York, 1789; d. Lond., 1834. The son of a wealthy merchant. He possessed brilliant natural parts. He received a good education, and inherited a fortune, which he soon dissipated; and he supported himself as a writer, teacher of elocution, and actor. He appeared at the Bowery and Park Theatres in leading parts, but with moderate success. In 1825, he pub. 2 cantos of "Don Juan," supplementary to the work of Lord Byron, which, probably, approach nearer to the brilliant original than any other of its numerous imitations. In 1826, he pub. poems, entitled "Horace in New York." He is also the author of some feeling lines to the memory of Thomas Addis Emmett. Having gone to London as a theatrical adventurer, and being reduced to poverty, he sealed up, in company with his mistress, the room in which they lodged, lighted a fire of charcoal, and died by its fumes.

Claviere (klă'-veair'), Etienne, statesman and financier, b. Geneva, 1735; d. Dec. 8, 1793. He was forced from political reasons to emigrate to France. Displaying great zeal in the revol. in France, he was app. minister of finance in Mar. 1792, but, on the fall of the Girondists, was imprisoned, and committed suicide. He accomp. Brissot in his tour in the U.S. in 1783, and pub., in conjunction with him, "De la France et des Etâts Unis," transl. and pub. in Lond., 1788.

Clavigero (klă-ve-hă'-ro), Francisco Saverio, a Mexican historian, b. Vera Cruz, Mexico, ab. 1720; d. Cesena, Italy, Oct. 1793. Educated as an ecclesiastic, and resided nearly 40 years in the provinces of New Spain, where he acquired the languages of the Mexicans and other indigenous nations, collected many of their traditions, and studied their historical paintings and other monuments of antiquity. After the suppression of the order of Jesuits, of which he was a member (1767), he retired to Cesena. The fruit of his researches was a "History of Mexico," written in Italian, an English translation of which was pub. in 2 vols., 4to, 1787. This work affords much information relative to the natural and civil history, antiquities, and religion of Mexico.

Claxton, Alexander, commodore U.S.N., b. Md., ab. 1790; d. March 7, 1841, at Talcahuana, Chili, while in com. of the squadron in the Pacific Ocean. Entering the navy in June, 1806, he was promoted to a lieut. Jan. 8, 1813, and served in the sloop-of-war "Wasp," in her action with "The Frolic," Oct. 18, 1812. Master com. March 28, 1820; capt. Feb. 22, 1831. His son, Col. F. S. Claxton, invented the mitrailleur, or canister-battery, recently introduced in France. His brother Thomas, midshipm. U.S.N., Dec. 17, 1810, mortally wounded at the battle of Lake Erie, Sept. 10, 1813; d. early in Oct.

Clay, Cassius Marcellus, politician, son of Gen. Green Clay, b. Madison Co., Ky., Oct. 19, 1810. Y.C. 1832. He practised law; was a member of the Ky. legisl. in 1835, '37, and '40, and of the nat. Whig conv. of 1840 at Harrisburg. The improved jury system, and the common school system, of Ky., are principally due to his efforts while in the legisl. He denounced the scheme for the annexation of Texas; stumped the Northern States in favor of Henry Clay, Whig candidate for the Pres. in 1844, and June 3, 1845, issued, in Lexington, Ky., the first number of the True American, a weekly antislavery paper. In Aug., his press was seized by a mob; and it was afterward printed in Cincinnati, and pub. in Lexington, whither he had removed in 1840, and afterward in Louisville. Capt. in the Mex. war, and made prisoner at Encarnacion, 23 Jan. 1847. He aided in nominating Taylor to the presidency in 1848; called a convention of emancipationists at Frankfort in 1849; separated from the Whig party in 1850, and, as an antislavery candidate for gov., received nearly 5,000 votes. App. maj.-gen. U.S. vols., 11 Apr. 1862; resigned, Mar. 11, 1863; minister to Russia, 1862–9. A vol. of his speeches, edited by Horace Greeley, was pub. in 8vo, 1848.

Clay, Clement Comer, jurist and statesman, b. Halifax Co., Va., Dec. 17, 1789; d. Huntsville, Ala., Sept. 9, 1866. U. of East Tenn. His father, Wm. Clay, a Revol. soldier, after the war settled in Granger Co., Tenn., where he d. Aug. 4, 1841. He was adm. to the bar in 1809, and in 1811 removed to Huntsville, Ala. During the Creek war (1813), he saw some service as a soldier. In 1817, he was elected to the territorial council of Ala.; in 1819, he was chosen one of the judges of the Circuit Court; in 1820 was chosen chief-justice, and resigned in 1823. In 1828, he was elected to the State legisl., and was made speaker; M.C. 1829–35; conspicuous as an advocate and defender of the leading measures of Jackson's administration; gov. of Ala. in 1836 and 1837, and U.S. senator from 1837 to 1842, and a supporter of Van Buren's administration. His son, C. C., jun., was U.S. senator from Ala.

Clay, Clement Comer, jun., son of the preceding, also U.S. senator from Ala., b. Madison Co., 1819. He grad. from the law dept. of the U. of Va. in 1839; was adm. to the bar in 1840; was elected to the legisl. in 1842 and 1844; judge of the county court, 1846–8: took his seat in the U.S. senate in Dec. 1854, and was re-elected for 6 years, from March 4, 1859. In Dec. 1857, he pronounced a brief but eloquent oration on the occasion of the death of Senator Butler of S.C. In the spring of 1858, he delivered a speech in favor of the admission of Kansas under the Lecompton constitution. He also spoke in favor of a bill repealing the bounty on vessels engaged in the Newfoundland fisheries. He left his post in Feb. 1861, to take part in the slaveholders' Rebellion, as a senator in the Confed. congress. After the surrender of Lee, he took refuge in Canada.

Digitized by Google

Clay, Edward W., caricaturist, b. Phila., 1792; d. N.Y. City, Dec. 31, 1857. He was a relative of Henry Clay; had a liberal education; served as a midshipman under Perry, then turned his attention to the law, and, though very young, was at once app. prothonotary of Phila. His artistic tastes, however, led him to Europe, and he studied the old masters for 3 years. On his return to Phila., he sketched "The Rats Leaving the Falling House," on the dissolution of Jackson's cabinet. This brought him into notice, and, for more than 20 years, he was a noted caricaturist. Failure of eyesight caused him to accept the offices of clerk of the Chancery Court, and of the Orphan's Court, Del., which he held for several years.

Clay, Green, gen., b. Powhatan Co., Va., Aug. 14, 1757; d. Oct. 31, 1826. He emigrated to Ky. before he was 20; became a dep. surveyor; afterwards a surveyor on his own account, and, by locating lands, laid the foundation of a fortune. He was a representative of the Ky. dist. in the Va. legisl.; was a member of the Va. convention which ratified the Federal Constitution in 1789, and was a leader of the convention which formed the Ky. constitution in 1799. He served for a long time in both branches of the State legisl., and was speaker of the senate. App. brig.-gen. March 29, 1813, he led 3,000 Ky. vols. to the relief of Fort Meigs, and forced the enemy to withdraw. Gen. Harrison left him in com. of Fort Meigs, which he skilfully defended from the attack of a large force of British and Indians under Gen. Proctor and Tecumseh.

Clay, Henry, orator and statesman, b. Hanover Co., Va., Apr. 12, 1777; d. Washington, D.C., June 29, 1852. His father, a Baptist minister, d. when Henry was 5 years old. He was taught the rudiments of education in a log-cabin schoolhouse; labored on a farm, and, at 15, entered the office of the clerk of the Chancery Court; adm. to the bar in Nov. 1797, he opened an office in Lexington, Ky.; soon acquired extensive practice, and gained repute in criminal cases. He was elected to the legisl. in 1803 and in 1807–8, and was speaker in 1808; U.S. senator, 1806–7 and 1809–10; M.C. and speaker, 1811–14; a commissioner to Ghent, to treat for peace, in 1814 and 1815; again M.C. 1815–21 and 1823–5, and 5 times re-elected speaker; sec. of State, 1825–9, and again senator, 1831–42. He was an unsuccessful candidate for Pres. in opposition to Jackson in 1832, and again in 1844, when defeated by Polk, the Democ. nominee. Though defeated, he was long the most popular man in the U.S. He was in the senate for the last time in 1849–52, and took a leading part in the compromise measures of 1850. Mr. Clay received from Madison the successive offers of the mission to Russia, and a place in the cabinet, and, from Monroe, a cabinet office and the mission to Eng., all of which he declined. In Congress, his eloquence roused the country for the War of 1812 with Eng.; contrib. to secure the recognition of S. Amer. Independence, to inaugurate a system of internal improvements, and the protection of Amer. industry. He advocated a thorough Amer. policy, to the exclusion of European influence on this continent. Some of his most eloquent speeches were said to have been made to Ky. juries in criminal cases, before he had passed his 25th year. He fought a duel with Humphrey Marshall in 1808, and subsequently with John Randolph, who had attacked the administration of J. Q. Adams. He was interested in the Colonization Society, and was for a time its pres. His Life and Letters were pub., and also his Speeches, by Calvin Colton, 1846–57. His widow, Lucretia Hart, d. Louisville, Apr. 6, 1864, a. 83. Thomas Hart Clay, his son, min. to Nicaragua during Lincoln's administ., and afterwards to Honduras, d. Lexington, Ky., Mar. 18, 1871, a 68.

Clay, Henry, lieut.-col., b. Ky., April 10, 1811; killed, Feb. 23, 1847, at the battle of Buena Vista. Transylv. U. 1828; West Point, 1831. Son of Hon. H. Clay. He applied himself to the study of the common and civil law; twice represented his native county of Fayette in the general assembly, 1835–7. He became lieut.-col. of McKee's regt. Ky. Vols. in the Mexican war, June 9, 1846, and extra aide-de-camp to Gen. Taylor, Oct. 5, 1846.

Clay, James B., M.C. 1857–9, son of Henry, b. Washington, D. C., Nov. 9, 1817; d. Montreal, Jan. 26, 1864. Transylv. U. At 15, he went to Boston, spent two years in a counting-house; then settled upon a farm near St. Louis; at 21, removed to Ky.; was engaged two years in manufactures. He then studied at the Lexington Law School, and practised as the partner of his father until 1849, when he was app. chargé d'affaires to Lisbon. A change in the administration soon brought him home. He resided again at Mo. from 1851 to 1853, when he became the proprietor of Ashland. He was also a member of the peace convention of 1861; but, fraternizing with the Rebellion, he died in involuntary exile, and, it is said, through his own excesses.

Clay, Col. Joseph; d. Savannah, Ga., Jan. 1805. He was a member of the Revol. committee of 1774–5; member of the Cont. Cong. 1778–80, and judge of the Dist. Court of Ga. 1796–1801. Paym.-gen. of the Southern dept. in the Revol. — Ga. Hist. Colls.

Clay, Rev. Joseph, lawyer and clergyman, son of the preceding, b. Savannah, Ga., Aug. 16, 1764; d. Boston, Jan. 11, 1811. N.J. Coll. 1784. He studied law, rose to the highest eminence in his profession; was a leading member of the State Const. Conv., and was U. S. dist. judge of Ga., 1796–1801. In 1802, he entered the Baptist ministry. Ord. Sav.

Digitized by Google

1804; installed colleague with Dr. Stillman, Boston, Aug. 19, 1807; dism. Nov. 1808; visited Savannah, but returned to Boston, 1810.

Clayborne, WILLIAM, an early Va. colonist, received in 1627, from the gov. of Va., authority to discover the head of Chesapeake Bay, or any part of Va. from lat. 34° to 41° N. In 1631, King Charles granted him a license to make discoveries, and trade. He established a trading-post on Kent Island, in Chesapeake Bay, near Annapolis. Ejected by Lord Baltimore, he took refuge in the more settled part of Va.; and his estate on Kent Island was seized by the Md. authorities as forfeited. He went to Eng. with witnesses, presented a petition to Charles I., setting forth his grievances; and, in 1638, the king severely reprimanded Lord Baltimore for having, in violation of his royal commands, ousted Clayborne from his rightful possessions on Kent Island, and slain several persons inhabiting there. Nevertheless, in 1639, the commissioners of plantations decided in favor of Lord Baltimore. In 1645, taking advantage of the civil war in Eng., at the head of a body of armed insurgents, he expelled Leonard Calvert, dep.-gov., and seized upon the govt. In 1646, Calvert was re-instated; but Clayborne escaped with impunity. In 1651, he was app. a commissioner to reduce Va. to obedience to the Commonwealth of Eng. Bennet and Clayborne, in "The Guinea," frigate, reduced Md. also to obedience; the former was made gov., and Clayborne, sec. of State. After the restoration, he was superseded in the office of sec. He was a member of the court-martial that tried the prisoners in Bacon's rebellion. He lived in New Kent Co., and d. at an advanced age. His descendants, now numerous, spell the name Claiborne.

Clayton, AUGUSTIN SMITH, jurist, b. Fredericksburg, Va., Nov. 27, 1783; d. Athens, Ga., June 21, 1839. U. of Ga. 1804, and subsequently a tutor there. He practised law with eminent success; served in the State legisl., which, in 1810, app. him to compile the statutes of Ga. from 1800; was judge of the Superior Court of the western circuit, from 1819 to 1825, and from 1828 to 1831, when he was superseded for maintaining, in opposition to the policy of the State, the right of the Cherokee Indians to dig gold on their lands; M. C. 1831–5, and a prominent opponent of the tariff and the U. S. Bank. He was a proficient in the classics, and in high esteem as an able writer. He acquired some distinction as a politician, and is said to have written the political pamphlet called "Crockett's Life of Van Buren." He pub. "Laws of Georgia, 1800–10," Augusta, 4to, 1812.

Clayton, JOHN, botanist, b. Fulham, Eng., 1686; d. Va., Dec. 15, 1773. Ab. 1706, he emigrated to Va., where his father was atty.-gen., and resided near Williamsburg. Educated a physician, he was an indefatigable botanist; passed a long life in exploring and describing the plants of his country, and is supposed to have enlarged the botanical catalogue as much as any man who ever lived. 15 years clerk of Gloucester Co. J. Clayton's letter to the Roy. Soc., May 12, 1688, giving an account of several observables in Va., is in Force's Tracts, Vol. III. His essays on the natural history of Va. were pub. in the "Phil. Transactions" of the Roy. Soc. of Lond. He also sent dried specimens of the flora of Va. to Gronovius, who, with Linnæus, pub. an account of a portion of them at Leyden, 2 parts, in 1739–43. After the death of Gronovius, the remainder were described in a 3d part by his son, in 1762, who gave Clayton's name to a genus of plants.

Clayton, JOHN MIDDLETON, LL.D. (Y.C. 1846), statesman and jurist, b. Sussex Co., Del., July 24, 1796; d. Dover, Del., Nov. 9, 1856. Y. C. 1815. He was bred to the bar, having studied at the Litchfield Law School; commenced practice in 1818, and soon attained eminence in his profession. He was in 1824 elected to the State legisl., and subsequently sec. of State; from 1829 to 1837 was U. S. senator; chief-justice from 1837 to 1839; again U. S. senator from 1845 to 1849, when he became U. S. sec. of State under Pres. Taylor, which position he occupied until the death of Taylor in July, 1850. He was a third time U. S. senator, from Mar. 1851, until his death, and vindicated with marked ability the principles of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, which he negotiated in 1850. He was an active and influential member of the convention to revise the State constitution in 1831. In the U. S. senate, he delivered a speech during the famous debate on Foote's resolution, which secured for him a place among the leading members of the body. He also made an impressive argument in favor of paying the claims for French spoliations. One of his most remarkable speeches was on Pres. Pierce's veto of the act ceding public lands for an insane asylum.

Clayton, JOSHUA, physician and statesman, d. Del., Aug. 1798. He practised medicine many years. During the scarcity of Peruvian bark in the Revol. war, he successfully substituted for it in his practice a mixture of poplar and the root of the dogwood in nearly equal parts, and half the quantity of the interior bark of the white-oak. He was pres. of Del. from 1789 to 1793; gov. 1793–6, and U.S. senator, 1798.

Clayton, POWELL, gov. Ark. 1866–71; U.S. senator for the term 1871–7. Before the war, he was a lawyer in Leavenworth, Kan. Early in 1861, made col. 1st Kan. cav.; brig.-gen. 1864; May 6, 1863, he com. an exped. from Helena, Ark., to the White River to break up a guerilla band, and destroy Confed. stores, which was successful. He also com. a successful exped. from Pine Bluff, Ark., in March, 1864, inflicting severe loss on the enemy.

Clayton, THOMAS, senator and jurist of Del., b. 1778; d. Newcastle, Del., Aug. 21, 1854. M. C. 1813 to 1817; U.S. senator, from 1823 to 1826, and from 1837 to 1847; Mr. Clayton also served at different times in the State legisl. as well as in the offices of chief-justice of C. C. P. and of the Superior Court. He was opposed to the Mexican war.

Cleaveland, COL. BENJ., Revol. soldier; d. Wilkes Co., Ga. Before the war, he moved from Culpepper Co., Va., to Wilkes Co., N.C. App., in 1775, ensign 2d N.C. regt.; fought at Guilford, also in many actions against the Tories, and was one of the leaders and heroes of King's Mountain. He was afterward surveyor of Wilkes Co. An impediment in his speech prevented his attaining political distinction. His son JOHN was capt. of dragoons at the battle of Camden.

Digitized by Google

Cleaveland, ELISHA LORD, D.D., Cong. clergyman, b. Topsfield, Ms., 25 Apr. 1806; d. N. Haven, Ct., 16 Feb. 1866. Bowd. Coll. 1829; And. Sem. 1832. Ord. 24 July, 1833, over the Third Cong. Church, N. Haven. He pub. some occas. sermons. Grandson of Rev. John of Ipswich, son of Dr. Nehemiah of Topsfield, 1760–26 Feb. 1837.

Cleaveland, JOHN, minister of Ipswich, Ms., from 1747 to his d., Apr. 22, 1799, b. Canterbury, Ct., Apr. 22, 1722. Y.C. 1745. Descended from Moses of Woburn, Ms. He first ministered to a Separatist society in School Street, Boston, but declined settlement there. Chaplain in Col. Bagley's regt. at Ticonderoga in 1758, and at Louisburg in 1759, and was in the army at Cambridge in 1775, and in Ct. and N.Y. in 1776 in the same capacity. He had a controversy with Dr. Mayhew, which brought out several ponderous pamphlets. He was an energetic and successful preacher. He pub. a "Narrative of the Work of God at Chebacco in 1763–4," an essay in defence of the atonement, and a treatise on infant baptism, 1784.

Cleaveland, PARKER, M.D., LL.D., mineralogist, b. Rowley, Ms., Jan. 15, 1780; d. Brunswick, Me., Oct. 15, 1858. H.U. 1799. Son of Rev. John and Mary, dau. of Parker Dodge. He taught school at Haverhill and York, Me.; was tutor of math. at H.U. in 1803–5; prof. of math. and nat. phil. in Bowd. Coll., Me., 1805–28, and prof. of chem., mineralogy, and nat. philos. there from 1828 to 1855. In the science of mineralogy, he had no equal in America; and his proficiency procured him the honors of Amer. and foreign literary and scientific institutions. The mineralogical collections of the coll. were made very complete by his zealous and laborious explorations of the surrounding country. He aided the med. school at Bowd. Coll. in 1820, and was connected with it as a lecturer on chemistry, dean, and librarian. He pub. "Elements of Mineralogy and Geology," 1816, an enlarged edition in 1822, and a still larger one in 1856, pronounced the most useful work on the subject in the English language. He m. Martha Bush of Cambridge, Ms.

Cleaveland, CAPT. STEPHEN of the Revol. navy, b. E. Haddam, Ct., 1740; d. Salem, 1801. He went to sea at 14; was taken by a British press-gang in Boston in 1756, and kept in service till 1763. Soon after the Decl. of Indep., he was commissioned by Congress capt. in the navy, and brought from Bordeaux valuable munitions of war. His son, RICHARD JAFFREY of Salem, has pub. his "Voyages and Commercial Enterprises," 2 vols. From 1829 to 1834, he was U.S. vice-consul at Havana. — Allen.

Cleburne, PATRICK R., gen. C. S. A., b. near Queenstown, Ireland, Mar. 17, 1828; killed at the battle of Franklin, Tenn., Nov. 30, 1864. At the age of 22, after 3 years' service as a private in the British army, he came to the U.S., settled at Helena, Ark., and studied law. He was in successful practice when the war broke out; enlisted as a private, but was soon promoted to col. In Mar. 1862, he was made a brig.-gen., and at Shiloh com. the 2d brigade of the 3d corps, being specially commended for valor and ability. He was wounded at the battle of Perryville. Maj.-gen. Dec. 1862, com. a division of the right wing at Murfreesboro' and Chickamauga; disting. himself in com. of the rear-guard at Mission. Ridge, and received the thanks of the rebel congress for his defence of Ringgold Gap. At Jonesboro', he covered the retreat of Hood's defeated army, and at Franklin he com. a corps when killed. He was very popular with both officers and men; was skilful and daring in action, and possessed a commanding presence, being over 6 feet in height.

Clemens, JEREMIAH, lawyer and politician, b. Huntsville, Ala., Dec. 28, 1814; d. there May 21, 1865. U. of Ala. 1833. He studied law at Transyl. U., Ky., and was adm. to the bar in 1834. In 1838, he was app. U.S. atty. for the northern dist. of Ala.; was elected to the State legisl. in 1839–41, and '43, '44; in 1842, he raised a company of vols., and went to Texas. Having volunteered for the Mexican war, he was app. maj. 13th Inf., Mar. 3, 1847; lieut.-col. 9th Inf., July 16, 1847; col. Apr. 1848. In 1848, he was app. gov. of the civil and military dept. of purchases in Mexico, and was U.S. senator from 1849 to 1853. In 1855, though previously a Democrat, he publicly advocated the principles of the Amer. party. Member of the Ala. convention which voted the State out of the Union, but protested against its action. He afterwards held office under the Confederacy, but, in 1864, advocated the re-election of Lincoln. He was eminent at the bar and in debate. He pub. "Bernard Lile," 1856; "Mustang Gray," 1857, — a story of the times of Aaron Burr and Alex. Hamilton; and "Tobias Wilson," 1865. — Lanman.

Clemens, SAMUEL LANGHORNE, "Mark Twain," humorist, b. Florida, Monroe Co., Mo., 30 Nov. 1835. Entered journalism in Virginia, Nevada, in 1862; continued in it 3 years there, 3 years in San Francisco, and one in Buffalo. Author of "The Jumping Frog, and other Sketches," 12mo, 1867; "The Innocents Abroad," 8vo, 1869, of which 100,000 copies have been sold in two years. Contrib. of humorous sketches to "The Galaxy," 1870–1.

Clerc, LAURENT, a deaf-mute, one of the founders and teachers of the Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb at Hartford, Ct., b. La Balme, near Lyons, France, Dec. 26, 1785; d. Hartford, July 18, 1869. His father was mayor of the commune 34 years. When ab. a year old, Laurent fell into the fire, was badly burned, and lost the sense of smell and hearing. Taken to Paris at the age of 12, to the Abbé Sicard, under whose skilful instructions he made rapid proficiency; in 1805 was app. tutor, and, in 1806, a teacher. While on a visit to Eng. in 1815, he made the acquaintance of Dr. Gallaudet, who persuaded him to come to this country to lay the foundation of deaf-mute instruction. They arrived in N.Y.,

Digitized by Google

…moir by G. S. Hillard, was printed in …ston, 1844.

Clevenger, Shobal L. Vail, sculptor, b. …dletown, O., 1812; d. at sea, Sept. 28, …43. In his youth, he was a stone-cutter in Cincinnati, and attracted attention by the figure of an angel, which he carved on a tomb. Removing to Boston, he executed busts of Webster, Everett, Allston, Clay, Van Buren, and others. He afterwards executed similar works in Italy.

Clifford, John D.; d. Lexington, Ky., May 8, 1820, a. 42. He formed a valuable cabinet of natural history, and pub. essays on the antiquities of the western country in the Western Review, 1819–20.

Clifford, John Henry, LL.D., gov. of Ms., 1853–4, b. Providence, R.I., 16 Jan. 1809. Br. U. 1827; d. Jan. 2, 1876. Lawyer in N. Bedford; memb. Ms. legisl. 1835; atty.-gen. of Ms., 1849–53 and 1854–8. Pres. Ms. senate, 1862.

Clifford, Nathan, jurist, b. Rumney, Grafton Co., N.H., Aug. 18, 1803. He studied at the Haverhill Acad. and at the Hampton Literary Inst; studied law, and, after being adm. to the bar, removed to Me. in 1827. From 1830 to 1834, he was a member, and two years speaker, of the State legisl.; was atty.-gen. of Me. from 1834 to 1838; M.C. from 1839 to 1843; U.S. atty.-gen. from 1846 to Mar. 1847, when he was app. commissioner to Mexico, and was subsequently minister to that Republic. On his return to the U.S., he settled as a lawyer in Portland, and in 1858 was app. by Pres. Buchanan an assoc.-justice of the U.S. Supreme Court. Author of U.S. Circuit Court Reports, 2 vols., 8vo., 1869. — Lanman.

Clifton, William, poet, b. Phila., 1772; d. Dec. 1799. He was the son of a wealthy Quaker mechanic, and early displayed a taste for literature; but his father brought him up strictly in the manners and principles of his sect. At the age of 19, the rupture of a blood-vessel incapacitated him for active business, and enabled him to devote himself to the literary pursuits so much to his taste. Clifton was member of an association called the Anchor Club, combining social objects with that of "producing a disposition in the public mind towards war with France." He first contrib., in prose and verse, to the newspapers and other fugitive publications, exercising his pen in satires in support of Jay's treaty and the administration of Washington, the longest of which was entitled "The Group:" another of similar tenor, "A Rhapsody on the Times," was in Hudibrastic measure. He commenced a poem, entitled "The Chimeriad," which he left unfinished, in which he personifies with much spirit and boldness the genius of false philosophy then prevalent in France, in the character of the witch Chimera. Probably the best of his productions is the epistle to Gifford, pub. anonymously in the first Amer. edition of Gifford's poems. One of his best papers was a pretended French MS. in prose and verse, describing a descent of Talleyrand into hell. He became also accomplished in music, drawing, and field-sports, and relinquished the Quaker dress. A collection of his poems was pub. in New York in 1800.

Digitized by Google

Clinch, DUNCAN L., brig.-gen. U. S. A., b N.C.; d. Macon, Ga., Nov. 27, 1849, a. 51. App. a first lieut. 3d Inf., July 1, 1808, capt. 1810, lieut.-col. in Aug. 1813, col. 1819, and in 1829 was brev. a brig.-gen. When the Seminole war broke out in Florida, in 1835, Gen. Clinch was in com. of that dist.; and in its earlier events he acted a conspicuous part. In the battle of Onithlecooche, Dec. 31, 1835, he displayed the most intrepid courage. He resigned his commission in Sept. 1836, and from 1843 to 1845 was M.C. from Ga. His dau. m. Gen. Robert Anderson.

Clingman, THOMAS L., lawyer and politician, b. Huntsville, Surrey Co., N.C. U. of N.C. 1832. He studied law, but was elected to the H. of commons just as he was ab. to commence practice. On his retirement from the legisl. in 1836, he removed to Ashville in Buncombe Co., where he still resides. He was soon after elected to the State senate, was M.C. from 1843 to 1858, with the exception of one term, and, in Nov. 1858, was app. a U.S. senator. He has made contribs. to the sciences of geology and mineralogy, and brought to light many facts connected with the mountains of N.C., one of the highest peaks of which now bears his name. While a member of Congress, he shared in almost all important debates, and acquitted himself with ability as chairman of the committee on foreign relations. Originally a Whig, he afterwards united himself with the Democ. party. Expelled from the senate in July, 1861, he took part in the Rebellion as a col. — Lanman.

Clinton, COL. CHARLES, soldier and judge, b. Longford Co., Ireland, 1690; d. Ulster, now Orange Co., N.Y., Nov. 19, 1773. His grandfather, Wm., an officer in the army of Charles I., settled in Ireland. In May, 1729, with a number of relatives and friends, he chartered a ship to convey his party to Phila.; but the captain, having formed the design of starving them to death, either with a view to acquire their property, or deter emigration, landed them at Cape Cod, after receiving a large sum of money as a commutation for their lives. Many of the passengers died, among them a son and dau. of Mr. Clinton. In the spring of 1731, he removed to the county of Ulster, N.Y., where he formed a flourishing settlement, ab. 60 miles from the city of N.Y., and 8 miles from the Hudson River. Mr. Clinton pursued the occupation of a farmer and surveyor. He was soon app. a justice of the peace, county judge, and lieut.-col. of the militia of Ulster Co. March 24, 1758, he was app. a lieut.-col. in DeLancey's regt., in which he served under Col. Bradstreet at the siege and capture of Fort Frontenac. Of four sons, ALEXANDER (N.J. Coll. 1750) was a physician, CHARLES was a surgeon in the army which took Havana (d. Apr. 1791), JAMES was maj.-gen., and GEORGE vice-pres. of the U.S. — Rogers.

Clinton, DEWITT, statesman, b. Little Britain, Orange Co., N.Y., 2 Mar. 1769; d. Albany, 11 Feb. 1828. Col. Coll. 1786. Son of Gen. James and Mary DeWitt. Adm. to the bar in 1788, but practised very little. Private sec. to his uncle, Gov. George Clinton, 1790–5, and a leading champion, through the press, of his administration, and a Repub. in politics. Member of the legisl. in 1797, and in 1798–1802 of the State senate, and a leader of the Democ. party; U.S. senator, 1802–3, and made a powerful speech on the navigation of the Mpi., and opposed a war with Spain; mayor of N.Y. City, 1803–7, 1809–10, and 1811–14, and, by his wise and efficient administration, contrib. much to the prosperity of the city. The Historical Society and the Acad. of Fine Arts were established under his auspices. Offered the embassy to Eng. by Mr. Adams, he declined; was a member of the State senate in 1805–11, and lieut.-gov. in 1811–13 Clinton was the political rival of Aaron Burr, and, after his disgrace, of Daniel D. Tompkins, who excelled him in gaining popular favor. Opposed to the War of 1812, he was the peace candidate for the presidency in 1812, receiving 89 electoral votes, but was defeated by James Madison. He was the first pres. of the Literary and Philos. Soc., founded ab. 1814; initiated the construction of the Erie Canal in 1815, and was, in 1816, canal commissioner, and pres. of the board, which post he also held in 1823–4; gov. of N.Y. in 1817–22 and in 1824–7. The opening of the Erie Canal was celebrated with great pomp in Oct. 1825, when Clinton was conveyed in a barge on a triumphal progress from Lake Erie to N.Y. City. He was pre-eminent for comprehensive views, and his liberal patronage of learning and of schools. In 1811, he delivered an elaborate discourse on the Iroquois, before the N.Y. Hist. Soc., and, in 1814, an introductory discourse before the Lit. and Philos. Soc., in whose Transactions appeared in 1822 his "Letters on the Natural History and Internal Resources of the State of N.Y." — See Renwick's Life of Clinton, 1840; W. W. Campbell's Life of Clinton, 1849; D. Hosack's Life of Clinton, 1829.

Clinton, ADMIRAL GEORGE, gov. of N.Y. Sept. 1743–Oct. 1753; d. gov. of Newfoundland, 10 July, 1761. Youngest son of Francis, sixth Earl of Lincoln. App. commodore and gov. of Newfoundland, 1732. May 21, 1741, app. gov. of N.Y., his want of skill in civil affairs peculiarly exposed him to the tumults and commotions of colonial govt. In his controversies with the assembly, Colden, afterwards lieut.-gov., was his champion with the pen; his chief opponent being Horsemanden. Clinton afterwards became gov. of Greenwich hospital; in 1745 became vice-adm. of the Red, and adm. of the fleet in 1757.

Clinton, GEORGE, soldier and statesman, son of Col. Charles, b. Ulster, N.Y., July 26, 1739; d. Washington, April 20, 1812. After returning from a cruise in a privateer, he accomp. his bro. James in the exped. against Fort Frontenac, as a lieut. He subsequently studied law under Wm. Smith; settled in his native county, where Gov. George Clinton gave him a clerkship; practised law with repute, and, as a member of the assembly, opposed the arbitrary measures of the British ministers. He took his place in Congress, May 15, 1775, and voted for independence; but the invasion of N.Y., calling him to her defence, prevented his signing the instrument. In 1776, he was a dep. to the N.Y. Prov. Congress, which framed the first State constitution. Active in defending the State as a gen. of militia, he was app. brig.-gen. by Congress, March 25, 1777. He defended the posts at the highlands, and proved his heroism by the brave defence of forts Montgomery and Clinton, when attacked by Sir H. Clinton, Oct. 6, 1777. Chosen first gov. of the State, April 20, 1777, he was re-elected until 1795, exhibiting great energy, and rendering important services throughout the war, both in his civil and military capacity. In June, 1788, he presided over the convention to ratify the Federal Constitution, the adoption of which he opposed, not deeming it sufficiently decided in favor of State sovereignty. When, in 1792, Washington was re-elected pres., Clinton received 50 electoral votes for the vice-presidency. Chosen to the legisl. in 1800, he was again gov. in 1801–4, and vice-pres. of the U.S. in 1804–12. His casting-vote negatived the renewal of the U. S. Bank charter in 1811.

Digitized by Google

Clinton, Sir Henry, an English gen., and com.-in-chief of the British forces in Amer., b. 1738; d. Dec. 23, 1795. Grandson of Francis, sixth Earl of Lincoln, and son of George, gov. of N.Y. After receiving a liberal education, he entered the army; served for some time in Hanover, and on the Continent during the 7-years' war, and in 1775 obtained the rank of major-gen., and disting. himself during the early part of the Amer. war. He participated in the battle of Bunker's Hill, leading the re-enforcement, and after having assisted at the unsuccessful attack on Charleston, S.C., entered N. York, after the defeat of the Americans on Long Island, and took the command. He attacked and carried Forts Clinton and Montgomery in Oct. 1777, and May 11, 1777, was made Knight of the Bath. In Jan. 1778, he succeeded Howe in the chief com., and arrived on the 8th of May at Phila., whence, on the approach of Washington, about the middle of June, in obedience to previous orders from Eng., he commenced his retreat to N.Y. At Monmouth Court House, he engaged and compelled the Amer. to retreat with considerable loss. In 1779, he became col. of the 7th or "King's Own" regt., and in the course of the year undertook an exped. against N.J., where his troops behaved with great barbarity. He also, in conjunction with Gen. Prevost, who com. in East Florida, concerted and carried into effect an invasion of Ga., and captured Savannah, investing Charleston, S.C., in Jan. 1780. It surrendered on the 11th of the following May. He shortly afterwards, through the medium of André, endeavored, unsuccessfully, to obtain possession of West Point, esteemed the Gibraltar of America. After having made an ineffectual attempt to succor Cornwallis, who was compelled to capitulate, he commenced preparations, in 1782, to attack the French settlements in the Antilles, but was superseded in his com. before he could carry the project into effect. On his return to Eng., June 12, 1782, a pamphlet war took place between him and Cornwallis, as to the surrender of the latter, the entire blame of which each party attributed to the other. He subsequently obtained the governorship of Limerick, and, in 1793, that of Gibraltar, in possession of which he died. He was for some time a member of parl't. Clinton is justly chargeable with the barbarities exercised by his troops in N.J., as admitted even by the British historian Stedman, himself an officer in the army in America. In 1783, he pub. "A Narrative of his Conduct in Amer.," 8vo; "Observations on Earl Cornwallis's Answer to the Narrative," 8vo, 1783; "Letter to the Commissioners," 8vo, 1784.

Clinton, James, brig.-gen. Revol. army, b. Orange Co., N.Y., Aug. 9, 1736; d. Dec. 22, 1812. He was third son of Col. Charles, who provided him with an excellent education; but his ruling inclination was for a military life. App. by Gov. Sir Charles Hardy an ensign in the 2d regt. of Ulster Co. militia, he became its lieut.-col. before the commencement of the Revol. During the war of 1756, between the English and French, he particularly disting. himself at the capture of Fort Frontenac, where he was a capt. under Bradstreet, rendering essential service by capturing a sloop-of-war on Lake Ontario, which impeded the operations of the army. The confidence reposed in his character may be estimated by his app. as capt.-commandant of four regts. levied for the protection of the western frontiers of Ulster and Orange Counties, — a position of great responsibility and danger. After the French war, he m. Mary DeWitt. At the commencement of the Revol., he was app. (June 30, 1775) col. of the 3d N.Y. regt., and in the same year accomp. Montgomery to Quebec. App. a brig.-gen. Aug. 9, 1776, he com. Fort Clinton when it was attacked, in Oct. 1777, by Sir Henry Clinton. After a gallant defence by about 600 militia against 3,000 British troops, Fort Clinton, as well as Fort Montgomery, of which his bro. George, the gov., was com.-in-chief, was carried by storm. Gen. Clinton was the last man to leave the works, escaping with a severe wound. In 1779, he joined with 1,600 men the exped. of Gen. Sullivan against the Indians, by way of the Mohawk. After an engagement, in which the Indians were defeated with great loss at Newtown, now Elmira, all resistance upon their part ceased; their settlements were destroyed; and they fled to the British fortress of Niagara. Gen. Clinton, during a great part of the war, was stationed at Albany. He was present at the siege of Yorktown. He was a commissioner to adjust the boundary-line between N.Y. and Pa.; member of the legisl. and of the convention which adopted the present Constitution of the U.S., and a senator.

Clits, Henry B., brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. N.Y. Son of Capt. John, 2d U.S. Inf. West Point, 1845. Entering the 7th Inf., he served with distinction in most of the battles of the Mex. war; brev. 1st lieut. for Cerro Gordo, 18 Apr. 1847; capt. 3d Inf., 6 Dec. 1858; served in defence of Ft. Pickens, Fla., Apr.–June, 1861; maj. 12th Inf., 14 May, 1861; wounded at siege of Yorktown, Va.; wounded, and made prisoner, at the battle of Gaines's Mill, Va., 27 June, 1862, and brev. lieut.-col.; com. cadets, and instr. tactics, 23 Oct. 1862, to 4 July, 1864; lieut.-col. 6th Inf., 4 Nov. 1863; brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A. for gallant and dist.

Digitized by Google

services in the field, 13 Mar. 1865, Col. 10th. Inf. 22 Feb. 1869. — Cullum.

Clitz, JOHN M. B., capt. U. S. N, b. N.Y., Dec. 1, 1820. Midshipman, Aug. 12, 1837; lieut. Apr. 6, 1851; com. July 16, 1862; capt. July 25, 1866. Attached to bomb brig "Hecla" at capture of Vera Cruz and Tuspan, 1847; com. steamer "Penobscot," N.A. block. squad., 1863; steam-sloop "Juniata," East Gulf squad., 1863; steamer "Osceola," N. A. block. squad., 1864–5, in both attacks on Fort Fisher; com. "Pawnee," S. A. squad., 1868–9. — Hamersly.

Clowes, REV. TIMOTHY, LL.D.; d. Hempstead, L.I., June 16, 1847, a. 60. Col. Coll. 1808. In 1821, he was principal of Erasmus Hall. In 1823, he was chosen pres. of Washington Coll., Md., and rector of the church in Chestertown and St. Paul's, Kent Co. From 1828 to the fall of 1832, he presided over the Clinton Liberal Institute, Oneida Co. He excelled as a mathematician.

Cluseret (klu'-zeh-rā'), GUSTAVE PAUL, brig.-gen. vols., b. Paris, France, June 13, 1823. He received a good education. Entering the military school of St. Cyr in 1841, in 1843 he became sub.-lieut. in a regt. com. by his father. For 4 years, he taught fortification, topography, tactics, and strategy. During the revol. of June, he com. a column in the Rue St. Jacques under Gen. Dumesne, and was wounded. In July, he was made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor. He was retired from active service in Jan. 1849, and soon after put on half-pay by Pres. Louis Napoleon on account of his republican opinions. He then opened a painter's studio, but, after 2 years, returned to the service as lieut. of chasseurs à pied in Algeria. Here he participated in several expeds., and was engaged in preparing the "Dictionnaire Historique et Géographique de l'Algérie." In 1854, he was ordered to the Crimea, where he was twice wounded, and was promoted to capt. at the Mamelon Vert. He returned to France in 1856; joined the exped. against the Kabyles in 1857; on the outbreak in Italy, joined the staff of Garibaldi, with the rank of major in the Italian army; and was soon afterward placed in com. of the French legion. Wounded at the siege of Capua, he received, two days after, the brev. of col. (Nov. 1, 1860). He arrived at Washington in Jan. 1862; was app. aide-de-camp to Gen. McClellan, with rank of col., and was soon after assigned to Gen. Fremont, who placed him in com. of his advanced guard. He was in the battles of Strasburg, Harrisonburg, and Cross Keyes, and, for his gallantry in the latter battle, was made brig.-gen. of vols. Oct. 14. Resigned, Mar. 2, 1863. A leader of the Paris Communists in the spring of 1871, and minis. of war.

Clymer, GEORGE, signer of the Declaration of Independence, b. Phila., 1739; d. Morrisville, Bucks Co., Pa., Jan. 23, 1813. His father emigrated from Bristol, Eng., to Phila., and left him an orphan at the age of 7. His maternal uncle, Wm. Coleman, educated him, took him into his counting-room, and eventually left him the bulk of his fortune. At the tea-meeting in Phila., Oct. 16, 1773, he was app. chairman of the committee to request the tea-agents to resign. He was also a member of the council of safety. July 20, 1775, he was app. joint treasurer of the State with Michael Hillegas, and converted all his specie into Continental currency, besides subscribing liberally to the loan. July 20, 1776, he was delegated to Congress. Sept. 1776, he was sent with Stockton to confer with Washington on the affairs of the army; and when, in Dec., Congress retired to Baltimore, Clymer was one of the commissioners left in Phila. to guard the public interests. Again elected to Congress in 1777. His house was plundered by the British after the battle of Brandywine. Dec. 7, 1778, he was a commissioner to treat with the Indians at Fort Pitt; in 1780 was a third time elected to Congress; in Nov. 1780 was deputed, with John Nixon, to organize the Bank of North America, and in 1782 was assoc. with Rutledge in his mission to the Southern States. Removing to Princeton at the close of the war, he was in 1784 elected to the Pa. legisl., where he aided in modifying the criminal code. He was a member of the convention that framed the Federal Constitution, and in Nov. 1788 was elected to the first U.S. Congress. In 1791, he was app. collector of the duty on spirits, which, in Pa., led to the whiskey riots. Resigning this office, he was, with Messrs. Pickens and Hawkins, app. to negotiate a treaty with the Creeks and Cherokees, consummated June 29, 1796, when he withdrew from public affairs. Besides other institutions indebted to him were the Pa. Agricultural Society, of which he was vice-pres., the Acad. of Fine Arts, and the Pa. Bank, of both which he was pres.

Cobb, DAVID, Revol. soldier and legislator, b. Attleborough, Ms., 14 Sept. 1748; d. 17 Apr. 1830. H. U. 1766. Many years a practising physician; sec. of the Bristol Co. convention of 1774, and member of the Prov. Congress in 1775. Lieut.-col. of H. Jackson's regt. in 1777–8, serving in N. J. and R. I., and several years a member of Washington's milit. family. Afterwards maj.-gen. of militia; judge of C. C. P.; M. C. 1793–5; member of the Ms. senate and house, and some time pres. and speaker; member of the exec. council, and lieut.-gov. 1809. While a resident of Me. (1796–1820), he was chief-justice of C. C. P., maj.-gen. 10th milit. div., and, during the War of 1812, was on the board of milit. defence.

Cobb, HOWELL, lawyer, and clergyman of the M. E. Church, b. Savannah, Ga., 1795. After serving an apprenticeship to a printer, he engaged in teaching in Perry, Houston Co., till, in 1827, he was adm. to the bar. In 1830, he was a State senator; soon after established the Cherokee Gazette. In 1845, he pub. a work on legal forms, and soon after compiled the penal code of the State. He has written much for the press, and is the author of a curious work on the African race.

Cobb, HOWELL, statesman, b. Cherry Hill, Jefferson Co., Ga., Sept. 7, 1815; d. N. Y. City, Oct. 9, 1868. Franklin Coll., Athens, 1834. Adm. to the bar in 1836; solicitor-gen. of the western circuit of Ga. in 1837–41, and built up an extensive and lucrative practice; M. C. 1843–51; speaker of the 31st Congress; gov. of Ga., 1851–3; again M. C. 1856–7; sec. of the treasury under Buchanan, 1857–60. Zeal ons in the secession movement, he was a delegate to the Montgomery Congress, and chosen its pres. Feb. 4, 1861. Made a brig., and then a maj.-gen., but did not disting. himself in the field. At the close of the war, he opposed all the measures for reconstruction. In Congress, he disting. himself by his familiarity with the rules of the house, his skill as a debater, his vehement professions of love for the Union, and his equally earnest advocacy of State rights. His imperiousness, and his bold championship of slavery, made him the leader of the Southern party in the house. He demanded the extension of slavery into Cal. and New Mexico, and advocated the compromise measures of 1850. — See Memorial Vol., ed. by Saml. Boykin, Phila., 1869.

Digitized by Google

Cobb, Joseph Beckham, politician and author, son of Thos. W., b. Oglethorpe Co., Ga., Apr. 11, 1819; d. Columbus Ga., Sept. 15, 1858. Educated at Wilmington, N.C., and at Franklin Coll., Ga. He removed in 1838 to Noxubee Co., Mpi. In 1851, he was elected by the Whigs to the State convention; was subsequently, for some years, a member of the State senate, and in 1853 an "American" candidate for Congress. Author of "The Creole," a novel, 1848; "Sketches," 8vo, 1851; and "Leisure Hours," 1858; and a contrib. to Peterson's National Mag. and to the Amer. Rev.

Cobb, Nathaniel R., a philanthropic merchant of Boston, b. Falmouth, Me., Nov. 3, 1793; d. Boston, 22 May, 1834.

Cobb, Sylvanus, D.D., Universalist minister, b. Norway, Me., July, 1799; d. E. Boston, Oct. 31, 1866. In 1828, he was settled at Malden and Waltham, Ms.; was the author of a "Commentary on the New Testament," "Compend of Divinity," "Discussions," and some other works, and edited the Christian Freeman more than 20 years. His son Sylvanus, b. Waterville, Me., 1823, is a popular writer of novelettes. He was editor and pub. of a paper called The Rechabite; edited the New-England Washingtonian; and was a principal contrib. to Gleason's Pictorial, Flag of our Union, and the N. Y. Ledger. He pub. "The Autobiog. of Rev. Sylvanus Cobb," with a memoir, in 1867.

Cobb, Capt. Thomas, b. Buckingham Co., Va.; d. Columbia Co., Ga., Oct. 1832, a. 110. He took a patriotic part in the Revol. struggle; was often associated in the councils of the times; held offices under the State govt. until his removal to Ga., ab. 1783, and efficiently managed his plantation for 80 or 90 years. — N. E. Mag., iii., 520.

Cobb, Thomas R. R., lawyer, b. Jefferson Co., Ga., 1820; killed at the battle of Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 13, 1862. U. of Ga. 1841. Bro. of Howell. Adm. to the bar, he was reporter of the Supreme Court of Ga. from 1849 to 1857. In 1851, he pub. a new digest of the laws of Ga., and in 1858 an "Inquiry into the Laws of Negro Slavery." He was a trustee of the university, was active in the cause of education in Ga., and had a high reputation and large practice as a lawyer. An able and eloquent member of the Confederate Congress, in which he served as chairman of military affairs; afterward a gen. in the rebel army.

Cobb, Thomas W., statesman, b. Columbia Co., Ga., 1784; d. Greenesborough, Feb. 1, 1830. After studying law in the office of Wm. H. Crawford, he settled at Lexington, Ga., and disting. himself at the bar. M. C. from 1817 to 1821 and 1823–4; U. S. senator from 1824 to 1828; judge of the Superior Court from 1828 till his d. He wrote excellent political essays, and was an eloquent and argumentative debater, prominent in the discussion in 1819 of the Mo. question.

Cobbett, Thomas, clergyman and author, b. Newbury, Eng., 1608; d. Ipswich, Ms., Nov. 5, 1685. He studied at Oxford, but left on account of the plague, and became a pupil of Dr. Twiss. Persecuted for nonconformity, he came to Ms. in 1637 with Davenport, and was colleague to his old friend, Mr. Whiting of Lynn, until, in 1656, he became pastor of the First Church in Ipswich, where he remained till his death. During his ministry, there was a powerful and extensive revival in that town. He was remarkable for the frequency of his prayers, and his assurance of their efficacy. He pub. in 1645 a work on infant baptism; "The Civil Magistrate's Power in Matters of Religion, modestly debated," &c., 1653; "A Practical Discourse of Prayer," 8vo, 1654; "On the Honor due from Children to their Parents," 1656; "Narrative of New England's Deliverances" (in N.E. H. and G. Reg., vol. vii.).

Cobbett, William, political writer, b. Farnham, Surrey, Eng., 9 Mar. 1762; d. 17 June, 1835. He was a farmer's son, and was self-educated. After a clerkship of some months to an atty. in London, he, ab. 1784, enlisted in the army, in which, by good conduct, he rose to the grade of sergt.-maj. After 5 years' service in Nova Scotia, he returned to Eng. in 1791, obtained his discharge, m., and in 1792 settled as a bookseller in Phila. There he issued Peter Porcupine's Gazette, a Federalist paper, assailing with great power, and coarseness of language, the supporters of the French Revol.; pub. his "Observations," and other political tracts, and was fined $5,000 for a libel on Dr. Rush. Returning to Eng. in 1800, he began a daily paper called The Porcupine, but in 1802 established his famous Political Register, at first a Tory paper, afterward in opposition to Pitt and the Tories, and discontinued in 1835. For his libels or satires on members of the govt., he was several times heavily fined, and in 1810 was imprisoned for two years. The passage of the famous "Six Act Bill" caused him to emig. again to the U.S.; and his Registers were dated from Long Island, from 1817 to his return in Dec. 1819, on which occasion he took to Eng. the bones of Thos. Paine. Again tried for libel in 1831, he defended himself with such ability, that he was acquitted. After two unsuccessful attempts to enter parliament for Oldham, he was returned in 1832, and again in 1834. Besides his political writings, he was the author of many useful and popular books. He was master of a vigorous Saxon-English style, unrivalled for sarcasm and common sense; and possessed great powers of observation and description. Among his works are "Advice to Young Men," "Cottage Economy," "Grammars of the English and French Languages," "A Year's Residence in America," "History of the Reformation," "Rural Rides," "Emigrant's Guide," 20 vols. of "Parliamentary Debates," "Letters on the Late War between Eng. and the U.S.," 1815, and "Pride of Brittania Humbled," 1815; "Life of Andrew Jackson," 1834; "Life of Peter Porcupine," 1796; "Porcupine's Works," 12 vols., 8vo, 1801. — See Life of Cobbett, Phila., 1831; Hazlitt's Misc. Works, vol. v.

Digitized by Google

Cobbs, Nicholas Hamner, D.D., Pr.-Ep. bishop of Ala., b. Medford Co., Va., Feb. 1796; d. Jan. 11, 1861. He taught a classical school some years; was ord. deacon in 1824; priest in 1825; then labored 14 years in his native county, and 4 years in Petersburg, Va.; then took charge of St. Paul's Church, Cincinnati, O.; and was consec. bishop, Oct. 20, 1844, at Phila.

Cochrane, Sir Alex. Forester Inglis, an Eng. adm. (1758–1832). Disting. in the wars with Amer. and France, especially for an unequal combat with five French vessels in Chesapeake Bay. Com. the British fleet on the Amer. station in the War of 1812–15, and assisted the land-forces in the attack on N. Orleans. Made adm. of the Blue in 1819.

Cochran, James, inventor of the art of making cut nails, b. 1763, Batavia, Genesee Co., N.Y.; d. Dec. 31, 1846. He was a brass-founder; and to his shop, while he lived in Phila., Franklin paid frequent visits. In addition to the above invention, he claimed to have manuf. the first cents in this country.

Cochran, John, M. D., physician and surgeon-gen. of the Revol. army, b. Chester Co., Pa., Sept. 1, 1730; d. Palatine, Montgomery Co., Apr. 6, 1807. Educated at the school of Dr. Francis Allison, and had finished his medical studies when the war with France broke out in 1755. Entering the army as surgeon's mate, he quitted the service at the close of the war, with the character of an able and experienced practitioner, and, settling in Albany, m. Gertrude, sister of Gen. Schuyler. He soon removed to New Brunswick, N.J., and, late in 1776, offered his services as a vol. in the hospital dept. At the warm recommendation of Washington, he was app. Apr. 10, 1777, physician and surgeon-gen. in the middle dept., and in Oct. 1781, Congress app. him director-gen. of the hospitals of the U.S. His experience in the British service enabled him to make great improvements in the hospitals. Soon after the peace, he removed his family to N.Y., and, on the adoption of the Federal Constitution, Washington made him commis. of loans for N.Y. — Thacher.

Cochrane, John, brig.-gen. vols., b. Palatine, Montgomery Co., N.Y., Aug. 27, 1813. Ham. Coll. 1831. Adm. to the bar, he practised law some years in the Valley of the Mohawk; removed to N.Y. City in 1846; became a leader of that branch of the Democ. party popularly called "Barnburners," and, during the administration of Pres. Pierce (1853–7), was surveyor of the port of N.Y. M.C. from 1856 to 1862. Mar. 1861, he visited Richmond to confer with the Union members of the Va. convention, and in Aug. took the field as col. 1st U.S. (vol.) Chasseurs, which he com. at Fair Oaks, Malvern Hill, and other battles of the Chickahominy campaign. Brig.-gen. of vols. 17 July, 1862, he was assigned a brigade in Couch's division of the Potomac Army. He was with the reserve at the battle of Antietam, and afterward pursued the retreating enemy. Resigned Feb. 25, 1863. Nominated in 1864 vice-pres. on the ticket with Fremont. Atty.-gen. N.Y., 1865.

Cock, Thomas, M.D., physician and medical author, b. Glen Cove, L. I., 1802; d. N.Y., June 14, 1869. He studied in the office of Dr. Seaman, with whom he was afterward partner. During the yellow-fever epidemic of 1822, he was indefatigable in his efforts to overcome the disease, as also during the cholera of 1832. He had been pres. of the Acad. of Medicine of N.Y., prof., and subsequently pres., of the Coll. of Physicians and Surgeons, and was many years attending and consulting physician of the N.Y. hospital. Long an active member, and at his death vice-pres., of the American Bible Society.

Cockburn (ko'-burn), Sir George, an English adm., b. Lond., 1771; d. Aug. 1853. He entered the navy in 1783, became a post-captain in 1795, and, after disting. himself on many occasions, became, in 1812, a rear-adm. In the early part of 1813, he com. "The Marlborough" 74, on the N. Amer. station, and successfully attacked various towns, and repositories of stores, on the banks of the rivers at the head of Chesapeake Bay. June 26, 1813, he assisted in taking the camp and fortified works at Hampton. In the following month, he obtained possession of two islands in N.C., and captured two small vessels of war. In the beginning of Aug. 1814, he accomp. the exped. which succeeded in taking the city of Washington, and which had, it is said, been suggested by himself to the commanders, Gen. Ross and Adm. Cochrane. He was employed in the unsuccessful attempt on Baltimore, in Sept. 1814. In Jan. 1815, he was made a K.B; on the 12th of Aug. 1819, a vice-adm., and on the 5th of April, 1821, maj.-gen. of marines.

Cocke, John, gen., b. Brunswick, Nottaway Co., Va., 1772; d. Granger Co., Tenn., Feb. 16, 1854. Wm. his father participated in the civil, legislative, and military service of Va.; removed to Tenn., and became a gen. of militia; State legisl. 1813; judge Circuit Court; U.S. senator, 1796–7 and 1799–1805; app. in 1814 agent for the Chickasaw Indians. In early life John emigrated to Tenn., adopted the profession of the law, became a member of the first legisl. in 1796, was speaker of the house for many years, was subsequently a member of the senate, and was M.C. from 1819 to 1827. He was maj.-gen. Tenn. vols., Sept. 25, 1813, in service against the Creeks. Col. Tenn. regt. Nov. 14, under Gen. Jackson, at New Orleans. — Gardner.

Cocke, John H., brig.-gen. War of 1812; d. at his residence, Fluvanna Co., Va., July 1, 1866, a. 85.

Cocke, Philip St. George, gen. C.S.A. b. Virginia, 1808; shot himself at his residence in Powhatan Co., Va., Dec. 26, 1861.

Digitized by Google

West Point, 1832. Entering the 2d art., he was adj. in 1833–4; resigned, April, 1834, and was made a brig.-gen. Confed. army early in 1861, and took part in the first battle of Bull Run, com. the 5th brigade. After a campaign of 8 months, he returned to his home shattered both in mind and body, and in a paroxysm of insanity put an end to his life. President Va. Agric. Soc. 1853–6. Author of "Plantation and Farm Instruction," 1852.

Codazzi (ko-dät'-see), AGOSTINO, an Italian engineer, b. near Ferrara, 1792. He made several campaigns under Napoleon, and afterwards disting. himself as an engineer in S. America. Entering the Columbian service as lieut.-col. of art., he was employed in making charts, and in preparing plans of defence. In 1831–40, he prepared charts of Venezuela, and was rewarded with the rank of col. In 1838–9, he explored the interior of Guiana, penetrated nearly to the sources of the Orinoco; and the valuable results of his labors, "Geographia de Venezuela," appeared in Paris in 1841, accomp. by an extensive chart of Venezuela. Codazzi afterwards established a German colony in Venezuela. In 1848, he was employed by the govt. of New Granada upon a topographical survey.

Codding, ICHABOD, Presb. clergyman, and an eloquent antislavery lecturer, b. Bristol, N.Y., 1811; d. Baraboo, Wis., 17 June, 1866. He studied at Middleb. Coll., lectured for the Amer. Antislavery Society in 1837–42; entered the ministry, and was successively pastor at Princeton, Lockport, Joliet, Baraboo, and Bloomington, Ill. His addresses were marked by great eloquence and fervor.

Coddington, WILLIAM, founder of R.I., b. Lincolnshire, Eng., 1601; d. Nov. 1, 1678. In 1630, he came in "The Arabella" to Salem, a magistrate of Ms., app. by the crown. For some years, he was a merchant in Boston. In 1636, when Winthrop succeeded Vane as gov., Coddington's name was dropped from the roll; but the freemen, on the following day, sent him and Vane as deputies to the court. He defended Anne Hutchinson against Winthrop and his party, and opposed, though unsuccessfully, the proceedings against Wheelwright, but finally, with 18 others, removed, Apr. 26, 1638, to the Island of Aquidneck, now R.I. Coddington was elected judge, with a council of 3 elders, who were enjoined by a vote of the freemen to be "guided by God's laws." Mar. 12, 1640, Coddington was elected gov.; continued 7 years in office, until a charter was obtained, and the island incorporated with the Providence plantations. Having made a voyage to Eng. in 1651, he returned with a commission as gov. of Aquidneck Island, but he soon resigned. He was again gov. in 1674–5. After his settlement in R.I., he adopted the tenets of the Quakers. He was earnest for liberty of conscience. Author of "A Demonstration of True Love unto you the Rulers of the Colony of Ms.," 4to, 1674.

Codman, JOHN, D.D. (H. U. 1840), minister 2d Ch., Dorchester, from Dec. 7, 1808, to his d., Dec. 23, 1847; b. Boston, Aug. 3, 1782. H.U. 1802. Son of John, a Boston merchant. He studied at Cambridge and at Edinburgh, and preached in the Swallow-st. Church, Lond., in 1808. He was a benefactor of the theol. seminaries of Princeton and Andover. A Memoir by Dr. Allen, with 6 sermons, was pub., 8vo, 1853; sermons on various occasions, 1834; narrative of a visit to Eng., 1836, and many separate sermons. — Allen.

Coffee, JOHN, gen., b. Nottaway Co., Va., 1772; d. near Florence, Ala., July 7, 1833. In 1804, he engaged in business with Andrew Jackson, near Nashville, Tenn., but in 1807 resumed his old occupation of surveying. Ever the strong personal friend of Jackson, he seconded him in his affray with the Bentons in Sept. 1813. Col. of Tenn. vols. under Jackson, Dec. 1812 to Apr. 1813; brig.-gen. Tenn. mounted gunmen, Sept. 24, 1813; com. detachment engaged with Creek Indians at Tallahatchie, Nov. 3, 1813; badly wounded in battle under Gen. Jackson, with Creek Indians at Emucfau, Jan. 22, 1814; in attack on Pensacola, Nov. 1814; disting. in defence of N. Orleans in battles of Dec. 23, 1814, and Jan. 8, 1815; in service to June, 1815. U.S. surveyor of public lands, March, 1817. His son ANDREW J. served as extra aide-de-camp to Gen. Taylor at Buena Vista, and was brev. lieut.-col. for his gallant and meritorious conduct, Feb. 23, 1847.

Coffin, CHARLES, D.D. (Wms.Coll. 1808), Presb. clergyman, b. Newburyport, Ms., Aug. 15, 1775; d. Greenville, E. Tenn., June 12, 1853. H.U. 1793. Son of Dr. Charles. Licensed to preach by the Essex Middle Assoc., May 14, 1799. Pres. of Greenville Coll., Tenn., 1810–27, and of Knoxville Coll. 1827–33. He passed the last 50 years of his life in Tenn. — Sprague.

Coffin, SIR ISAAC, a British adm., b. Boston, 16 May, 1759; d. Cheltenham, Eng., 23 July, 1839. Son of Nathaniel, collector of the customs, and a loyalist, by Elizabeth, dau. of Henry Barnes of Boston. Educated in the Boston schools; entered the British navy in 1773; became a lieut. in 1778; was actively employed on the Amer. coast; was made commander in July, 1781; acted as signal-officer to Adm. Arbuthnot in the action off Cape Henry, 16 March, 1781, and served as a vol. in the action between Rodney and DeGrasse in 1782. Post-capt. 1790; rear-adm. of the Blue, 23 Apr. 1804; baronet, 19 May, 1804; vice-adm. April, 1808; June 4, 1814, adm. of the Blue, and, on the death of George IV., adm. of the White. M. P. 1818, and again in 1826. He ever retained a strong regard for his native land, and in 1826, while visiting Nantucket, where many of his kindred resided, authorized the purchase of a building for the "Coffin School," for the support of which he afterwards invested a fund of £2,500.

Coffin, JOHN, a British gen., bro. of Sir Isaac, b. Boston, 1751; d. St. John's Co., N. Brunswick, 12 May, 1838. He accomp. the British troops in the action at Bunker's Hill; rose to the rank of capt. of the N.Y. vols.; disting. himself at the siege of Savannah, the battle of Hobkirk's Hill, the action of Cross Creek, near Charleston, S.C., and especially at the battle of Eutaw, 8 Sept. 1781, where he exacted even the admiration of Greene in his despatches to Congress, and was at once made major of the King's Amer. regt. At the close of the war, he settled in N. Brunswick; became a col. in the army in 1797; maj.-gen. 1803; lieut.-gen. 1809; gen. 1819. In 1783, he was wounded in a duel with Col. Campbell; member of the N. B. Assembly, chief magistrate of King's County, and member of the council, retiring to private life in 1828. His wife Ann, dau. of Wm. Mathews of S. C., d. Bath, in Apr. 1839, a. 76.

Digitized by Google

Coffin, JOSHUA, genealogist and antiquary, b. Newbury, Ms., Oct. 12, 1792; d. there June 24, 1864. Dartm. Coll. 1817. Many years a teacher. He pub. "The History of Ancient Newbury," 8vo, 1845, genealogies of the Woodman, Little, and Toppan families, besides many articles in periodicals. He was the schoolmaster of the poet Whittier.

Coffin, NATHANIEL, M.D., physician, b. Portland, Me., May 3, 1744; d. there Oct. 18, 1826. He studied under his father Nathaniel, who was a physician, and at Guy's and St. Thomas's Hospitals, Lond., under Hunter, Akenside, and McKenzie; and commenced practice at the age of 21. At the death of his father, in 1766, he succeeded to an extensive practice, and in 1769 m. the dau. of Isaac Foster of Charlestown. When Capt. Mowatt, in 1775, prepared to destroy the town, then called Falmouth, Dr. Coffin, with two others, went on board his ship, and endeavored fruitlessly to avert the impending storm. As an operative surgeon, he ranked high. The hon. deg. of M.D. was conferred on him by Bowd. Coll., Brunswick. He was the first pres. of the Me. Med. Society, and for many years discharged the duties of hospital surgeon for marine patients in his dist.— Thacher.

Coffin, ROBERT STEVENSON, poet, b. Brunswick, Me., July 14, 1797; d. Rowley, Ms., May 7, 1827. He was apprenticed to a printer in Newburyport, whither his father had removed; was a sailor during the War of 1812, and once a prisoner on board an English frigate, and subsequently worked on newspapers in Boston, N.Y., and Phila., publishing occasional verses. His poems were coll. in a vol. entitled "The Oriental Harp, Poems of the Boston Bard," Boston, 1826. His Life, written by himself, was pub., 12mo, 1825.

Coffin, SIR THOMAS ASTON, bart. (19 May, 1804), loyalist, b. Boston, Mar. 31, 1754; d. London, May 31, 1810. H.U. 1772. Son of Wm. of Boston, and cousin of Adm. Sir Isaac. At one period of the Revol., he was private sec. to Sir Guy Carleton. He was afterward commiss.-gen. in the British army, and in 1804, sec. and comptroller of accounts of Lower Canada. — Sabine.

Coffin, TIMOTHY GARDNER, lawyer, b. Nantucket, Ms., Nov. 1, 1788; d. New Bedford, Sept. 19, 1854. B.U. 1813. He early engaged in a seafaring life, but, receiving severe injuries from a fall, turned his attention to the law. Adm. in 1816 to practise at the Bristol bar, he obtained the foremost rank in the profession, trying his intellectual strength against such opponents as Webster and Choate. As a nisi prius lawyer, he had few equals.

Coggeshall, CAPT. GEORGE of Ct., b. 1784. Pub. "Voyages to Various Parts of the World, 1799–1841," 2 vols., 8vo, 1851–2; "History of Amer. Privateers," 8vo; "Religious and Miscellaneous Poetry." He com. two privateers in the War of 1812–15.

Cogswell, REV. JONATHAN, D.D. (U. of N.Y. 1836), b. 3 Sept. 1782; d. N. Brunswick, N.J., 1 Aug. 1864. H.U. 1806. Tutor at Bowd. Coll.; prof. of eccl. hist., Theol. Inst. of Ct. at East Windsor, 1834–44; afterward a resident of N.B. Author of a sermon delivered 24 Aug. 1819, before the York Co. Assoc., Alfred, Me.; "Farewell Discourse at Saco," 12 Oct. 1828; "Discourses," 8vo, Hartford, 1842; "Discourses," N. Brunswick, N.J., 12mo, 1845; "Hebrew Theocracy," 12mo, 1848; "Calvary and Sinai," 8vo, 1852; also discourses, &c. — Allibone.

Cogswell, JOSEPH GREEN, LL.D. (H.U. 1863), scholar, b. Ipswich, Ms., Sept. 27, 1786. H. U. 1806. Proceeding to the East Indies in a merchant-ship, on his return, he studied law with Fisher Ames, and in 1814 was a tutor at Cambridge. In 1816, he went to Europe, studied at Göttingen and other German universities, and travelled on the Continent. From 1820 to 1823, he was librarian, and prof. of mineralogy and geology, at Cambridge, when, with George Bancroft, he founded the Round Hill School at Northampton, which he carried on until 1836. He afterwards had charge of a similar establishment in Raleigh, N.C., but before 1839 settled in N.Y. City, edited the N.Y. Review, and assisted John Jacob Astor in arranging the plans for the great library which he endowed. He several times visited the principal libraries and cities of Europe, collecting books for it. He presented to it his own bibliographical coll., one of the largest and finest in the country. Many years supt. of the Astor Library. With Mr. Andrew Ritchie, he purchased in Germany, and presented to H.U., a cabinet of ab. 5,000 minerals, and gave to the Botanic Garden at Cambridge nearly 4,000 choice specimens of dried plants of Central Europe. He had been a contrib. to Blackwood's Mag., Monthly Anthology, and the N. A. Review. A resident of Cambridge until his death, 26 Nov. 1871.

Cogswell, MASON FITCH, M.D., physician, b. Canterbury, Ct., 1761; d. Hartford, Dec. 1830. Y.C. 1780. Son of Rev. James. He assisted his bro., Dr. James, a surgeon in the army; established himself in Hartford in 1789, and took high rank, especially as a surgeon. He was particularly successful in operations for the cataract, and, in Nov. 1803, was the first in this country to secure the carotid artery by a ligature. He was chiefly instrumental in founding the asylum for the deaf and dumb, and was a friend and supporter of the Retreat for the Insane at Hartford, and was 10 years pres. of the State Med. Soc. His son, of the same name, also an eminent physician, b. Hartford, Ct., 10 Nov. 1809; d. Albany, 21 Jan. 1865. M. D., Coll. of Phys. and Surg. 1832. — Williams Med. Biog.

Cogswell, NATHANIEL, son of Thomas, b. Haverhill, Ms., Jan. 19, 1773; d. Rapids of Red River, La., Aug. 1813. Dartm. Coll. 1794. He began to practise law at Gilmanton,

Digitized by Google

1805; removed to Newburyport in 1808, and afterward was a gen. in the Spanish Patriot Army.

Cogswell, THOMAS, soldier and jurist, b. Haverhill, Ms., Aug. 4, 1746; d. Gilmanton, Sept. 3, 1810. He was a capt. in Gerrish's regt. at Bunker's Hill; maj. of Vose's regt., Feb. 21, 1777; lieut.-col. 15th Ms. regt., Nov. 26, 1779, serving to the close of the war. Settling at Gilmanton, he was chief-justice C.C.P. from 1784 till his death. Two of his sons d. in the army, in the War of 1812. M., in 1774, Ruth, dau. of Gen. Joseph Badger of Gilmanton. — Hist. Gilmanton.

Cogswell, WILLIAM, D.D. (Wms. Coll. 1833), clergyman and author, b. Atkinson, N. H., June 5, 1787; d. Gilmanton, N. H., Apr. 18, 1850. Dartm. Coll. 1811. The son of a physician of Atkinson. From Apr. 26, 1815, to Dec. 15, 1829, he was pastor of the South Church in Dedham; was in 1829 app. gen. agent of the Amer. Education Society, its sec. and director in 1832; prof. of hist. in Dartm. Coll. in 1841, and in 1844 was elected pres. of the Gilmanton Theol. Sem., and prof. of theology. Dr. Cogswell pub., besides discourses, "A Manual of Theol. and Devotion," "Christian Philanthropist," "Theol. Class-Book," "Letters to Young Men preparing for the Ministry," "Occasional Sermons," "Reports of the Amer. Education Society," and "Reports of the Northern Acad. of Arts and Sciences." He edited the N. H. Repository, the N.E. H. and G. Register, for 1847, and the Amer. Quarterly Register. Member of many literary societies. — Alumni Dartm. Coll.

Coit, THOMAS WINTHROP, D.D. (Col. Coll. 1834), LL.D. (Trin. Coll. 1853), b. N. London, Ct., June 28, 1803. Y. C. 1821. Pres. Transyl. U. Prof. Trinity Coll. 1849. Has pub. "Theol. Commonplace Book," 1832–57; "Remarks on Norton's Statement of Reasons," 8vo, 1833; "Paragraph" Bible, 1834; "Townsend's Chronol. Bible," 2 vols., 8vo, 1837–8; "Puritanism," 12mo, 1844. Contrib. to Church Review, Churchman, &c. — Allibone.

Coke, THOMAS, D.D., LL.D., one of the first bishops of the M.E. Church, b. Brecon, S. Wales, Sept. 9, 1747; d. at sea, May 2, 1814. He was educated at Oxford, and at 23 became mayor of his native town, but took orders, and obtained a curacy at Petherton. Making the acquaintance of Wesley in 1776, he joined the Methodists; became in 1780 supt. of the Lond. dist., and pres. of the Irish conference in 1782. Ord. by Wesley as bishop of the church in Amer., he arrived in N.Y. in 1784, and, on Dec. 27, ord. Asbury a bishop, and joint supt. of the church in Amer. They proceeded together to visit the different conferences until June, 1785, when he returned to Eng., and visited Wales, Scotland, and Ireland. The first mission which he established was in the W. Indies, in 1786, which he again visited in 1788–9, 1790, and 1792–3. His 9th and last visit to Amer. was in 1803. After the death of Wesley, he was chosen sec. of the English Conference, and, in conjunction with Mr. Moore and Dr. Whitehead, pub. in 1792 a Life of Wesley. In a voyage to Amer. in 1797, the vessel he was in was taken by a privateer, and he was most cruelly treated, being plundered of every thing but his books. He completed his Commentary on the Bible in 1807. In 1803, he established a mission in Gibraltar. From this time until 1808, he was engaged in travelling to various parts in aid of the missionary cause. Through his influence, a mission was established in 1811, at Sierra Leone, and missionaries sent out. Determining in 1813 to establish a mission at Ceylon, such was his zeal, that, when the conference hesitated on account of the expense, he furnished the money from his own private purse. The missionaries embarked Dec. 30; and, after having been out 4 months, he was found dead in his cabin. Besides his Commentary, he wrote "A History of the W. Indies," "History of the Bible," "Six Letters in Defence of the Doctrine of Justification by Faith," "Four Discourses on the Duties of a Minister," "Preacher's Manual," 12mo. He rendered valuable assistance to Wesley in procuring what was called the deed of declaration, providing for the settlement of the Methodist Chapels in the connection, and restricted the conference to 100 of the preachers, and their successors, forever. — See Memoir by Samuel Drew, 1853.

Colborne, SIR JOHN, LORD SEATON, a British gen., b. 1779; d. 1863. He entered the army an ensign, in 1794; served in Holland, Egypt, and Italy; was in the battle of Maida in 1806; was military sec. to Sir John Moore, and fought at Corunna; served under Wellington in Spain and at Waterloo. He received several orders of knighthood for his brilliant services; became lieut.-gov. of Guernsey; maj.-gen. in 1825; lieut.-gen. 1838; gen. 1854, and in 1860 field-marshal. In 1829, he became lieut.-gov. of U. Canada. He found a strong reform party, which he firmly repressed. In 1835, he solicited and obtained a recall, but as he was ab. to embark for Europe, was app. com.-in-chief of the forces in Canada. He returned to Quebec, and took efficient and prompt measures to check the rebellion then preparing, and, on its breaking-out, took the field in person, in several engagements, and completely routed and discomfited the insurgents. He was twice temporarily gov.-gen. of British N. Amer., and rendered great services to that country. In 1839, he returned to Eng., where his great services were requited with the barony of Seaton, the post of privy-councillor, and a pension of £2,000 per annum. He was afterward com. in Ireland. — Morgan.

Colburn, WARREN, mathematician, b. Walpole, Ms., Mar. 1, 1793; d. Lowell, Sept. 15, 1833. H. U. 1820. The son of poor parents, he worked in factories, but studied mathematics, and acquired the trade of a machinist. He opened a select school in Boston in 1821, and pub. "First Lessons in Intellectual Arithmetic." It had an extraordinary sale of more than 2,000,000, and has been translated into most of the languages of Europe, and into several of the languages of Asia. In April, 1823, he was app. supt. of the Boston Manuf. Co. at Waltham, and, Aug. 1824, of the Merrimack Co. of Lowell. Many important improvements in the machinery of our manuf establishments are the fruits of his scientific researches and ingenuity. In 1825, he delivered a course of lectures on the natural history of animals, followed, in subsequent years, with lectures on light, the eye, the seasons, electricity, hydraulics, astronomy, &c. His "Sequel" was pub. in 1824; his "Algebra," 1828. Member of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences.

Digitized by Google

Colburn, ZERAH, mathematical prodigy, b. Cabot, Vt., 1 Sept. 1804; d. Norwich, Vt., 2 Mar. 1839. At 8, he began to show his precocity in computation, and was exhibited by his father in Vt., N.H., and Ms., visiting Boston in Nov. 1810, where the boy excited great interest, as well as at the South, and in Eng., where he went in May, 1812. The Earl of Bristol placed him at school; but his father took him out in 1819. He studied, unsuccessfully, for the stage; then taught school; returned to the U.S. on the death of his father in 1824; was ord. in the Meth. Church in 1825, and labored as an itinerant, until, in 1835, app. prof. of languages and literature in the infant U. at Norwich. He lost his wonderful talent some time before leaving Eng. Among his mental operations was giving the number of seconds from the commencement of the Christ. Era, the square root of 106,929 (given before the number could be written down), and the cube root of 268,336,125, given with equal facility and promptness. Through practice, he increased his powers of computation. His processes did not differ from those in ordinary use, excepting in finding the square root of large numbers, for which he had invented a method. — See Colburn's Autobiog., 1833.

Colburn, ZERAH, engineer, b. Saratoga, N.Y., 1832; d. by his own hand, 4 May, 1870, in a country town in Ms. He was named for his uncle, the celebrated arithmetician. In his boyhood, he worked on a farm. At 15, he entered the Lowell machine-shop, Boston, and afterwards became supt. of the locomotive works of Mr. Souther, and of those at Patterson, N.J. He connected himself with the Railroad Journal; pub. the Railroad Advocate in N.Y. in 1854–5; and in 1858, with Mr. Holley, visited, and made a valuable report on, the railways of Europe, which was pub. with many illustrations. For some years, he edited the London Engineer, and, from 1866 until a few weeks before his death, pub. there his scientific journal, Engineering. He received medals from the Institution of Civil Engineers for his papers on "Iron Bridges," and on "Amer. Locomotives and Rolling Stock," and was a first-rate authority on these subjects, and on general mechanical engineering. Overwork and irregularity caused him to become partially insane. He came to the U.S. in April, avoided all his old friends, and, straying away, committed suicide. He pub. "The Locomotive Engine," Boston, 1851.

Colden, CADWALLADER, physician, author, botanist, and politician, b. Ireland, Feb. 17, 1688; d. at his seat on Long Island, Sept. 21, 1776. U. of Edinburgh, 1705. Son of Rev. Alex. Colden. He devoted himself to medicine and mathematics, in which he made great proficiency. Emigrating to Pa. in 1710, he practised physic a few years, and in 1715 returned to Eng., where he acquired considerable reputation by a work on "Animal Secretions." After visiting Scotland, he came again to Amer. in 1716; settled a second time in Pa., but, in 1718, removed to N.Y. at the request of Gov Hunter. The next year, he was app. the first surveyor-gen. of the Colony, and also master in chancery. In 1720, he obtained a seat in the king's council under Gov. Burnet. Ab. 1755, he took up his residence on a tract of land about 9 miles from Newburgh, on the Hudson, for which he had received a patent, and where he was exposed to the attacks of the Indians. Succeeding to the presidency of the council, he administered the govt. in 1760 In 1761, he was app. lieut.-gov. of N.Y., which station he occupied during the remainder of his life; being repeatedly placed at the head of affairs by the absence or death of several govs. During one of these periods, the paper intended for distribution in N. Y., under the Stamp Act, arrived, and was put under his care in Fort George. The populace burned him in effigy, and destroyed his carriage in his sight. After the return of Gov. Tryon in 1775, he retired to a seat on Long Island. Besides some medical treatises, he is the author of a "History of the Five Indian Nations of Canada," 1727, 3d ed., Lond., 1755. Colden took a great interest in the study of botany, and first introduced the Linnæan system in America a few months after its publication in Europe. His description of 300 or 400 Amer. plants was printed in the Acta Upsaliensa. From 1710 to 1776, he corresp. actively with the leading scientific men of Europe and Amer. Among his MS. are "Observations on Smith's Hist. of N.Y." He was a man of great learning and superior talents.

Colden, CADWALLADER DAVID, lawyer, b. Spring Hill, Flushing, Apr. 4, 1769; d. Jersey City, Feb. 7, 1834. Son of David, who excelled in mathematics and nat. philos., and grandson of Cadwallader. His education, begun in the town of Jamaica, L.I., was completed in London. Returning to the U.S. in 1785, he studied law; commenced practice in N.Y. in 1791, and in 1793 removed to Poughkeepsie, where he became district atty., and, in a few years, stood at the head of his profession as a commercial lawyer. In 1812, he was col. of a regt. of vols. In 1818, he was elected to the assembly, and the same year was mayor of N.Y. City. M.C. 1821–3, and in 1824–7 a member of the State senate. He was, in connection with DeWitt Clinton, among the earliest and most efficient promoters of the system of internal improvements. Upon the completion of the Erie Canal, he pub. a memoir of the subject. He also wrote, in 1817, "The Life of Robert Fulton," of whom he was an early and intimate friend. Public education, and the reformation of juvenile offenders, were also subjects to which he devoted much attention. For many years, he was one of the govs. of the N.Y. Hospital.

Cole, JOSEPH FOXCROFT, landscape and figure painter of Boston, b. Jay, Me., 9 Nov. 1837. Was a pupil of Lambinet and Charles Jacque, Paris; has painted a large picture owned by the Union Club, "The Ram and Ewe," "New-England Farm," and "The Shepherdess."

Digitized by Google

Cole, SAMUEL; d. Chelsea, Ms., Dec. 3, 1851. Author of a valuable work on "Fruits and Fruit-Trees," and other agric. works, and editor of the N. E. Farmer.

Cole, THOMAS, a celebrated painter, b. Bolton-le-Moor, Lancashire, Eng., Feb. 1, 1801; d. Catskill, N.Y., Feb. 11, 1847. His parents, who had lived here previous to his birth, returned to Amer. in 1819, and settled in Phila., where Thomas applied himself to wood-engraving, amusing his leisure hours with a flute; having a passionate fondness for music. In Jan. 1820, he went to St. Eustatia to recruit his health; and, on his return in May, he joined his father in Steubenville, O., where he began portrait-painting. In Feb. 1822, he left home as an itinerant portrait-painter, but, not meeting much success, turned his attention to landscape-painting. He returned in Nov. 1823 to Phila., and met with encouragement. In the spring of 1825, he removed to N.Y., where his family were then established. The scenery of the Hudson called out all his artistic enthusiasm; and, during a visit to the Catskills in the autumn, he painted several landscapes, which were exhibited on his return to the city. This was the turning-point in his career. For the next 4 years, commissions flowed in from all quarters. In 1829, he visited Eng., remaining about 2 years; then Paris, and thence to Italy, returning to N.Y. in Oct. 1832. He finally took up his residence at Catskill, N.Y. His two great works are, "The Course of Empire" and "The Voyage of Life;" the former consisting of 5, and the latter, of 4 pictures, — "Childhood," "Youth," "Manhood," and "Old Age." A second visit to Europe in 1841, to enable him still further to perfect himself by studying the great masters, resulted in a sequel to "The Voyage of Life;" and, after an absence of less than two years, he returned. He painted, among other works, "The Cross in the Wilderness," "L'Allegro," and "Il Penseroso," "Home in the Woods," "The Hunter's Return," "The Mountain Ford," &c. In 1835, he composed a dramatic poem, "The Spirits of the Wilderness," still unpublished. In early life, he wrote for the Phila. Saturday Evening Post" a tale called "Emma Moreton;" and some of his sketches of travel have been pub. in the Literary World. A memoir of his life has been pub. by Rev. L. L. Noble, 12mo, 1855.

Coleman, JOHN, D.D., Episc. clergyman, b. Baltimore, 1803. Editor of "Faber's Difficulties of Romanism," with Introd. Essay, Phila., 1840; of "The Episc. Manual," by Dr. Wilmer, 1841. Contrib. to various religious journals. Editor of the Banner of the Cross, Phila., with Rev. F. Ogilby. — Allibone.

Coleman, LYMAN, D.D. (N.J. Coll. 1847), b. Middlefield, Ms., 14 June, 1796. Y. C. 1817. 3 years principal of the Latin School, Hartford; tutor at Yale, 1820–5; pastor of a church at Belchertown, Ms., 7 years; principal of the Burr Sem., Vt., 5 years; principal of the English depart. at Andover; studied and travelled a year in Germany; prof. of German in N. J. Coll.; prof. of Latin and Greek in Laf. Coll. Has pub. "Antiquities of the Christian Church," trans. from the German, N. Y., 1846; "The Apostolical and Primitive Church," 12mo; "Hist. Geog. of the Bible," Phila., 1850; "Ancient Christianity," 8vo, Phila., 1852; "Hist. Text-Book and Atlas of Biblical Geog.," 8vo, Phila., 1854, new ed., revised, 1859. — Allibone.

Coleman, OTHO M., inventor, b. Barnstable, Ms., Jan. 23, 1817; d. Saratoga, N.Y., Apr. 5, 1845. Of German and English parentage. At the age of 16, he lived in New Bedford; was relieved from extreme poverty by the sale of his invention of the automaton lady-minstrel and singing-bird for $800; removed to Saratoga in 1842, and invented the Æolian attachment to the piano-forte, for which he received $100,000 here, and $10,000 in Eng., whence he returned in Jan. 1845.

Coleman, WILLIAM, journalist, b. Boston, Feb. 14, 1766; d. New York, July 13, 1829. He was educated for the bar, and ab. 1794 com. practice in Greenfield, Ms., which he represented twice in the legisl. He served against the insurgents in Shays' rebellion. Removing to New York in 1797, he was for a short time a partner of Aaron Burr in the practice of law; afterwards, until 1800, he was reporter of the Supreme Court of N. Y., and was editor of the Evening Post, a leading Federal paper, from 1801 to his d., and sole editor for 20 years. He was an able, honest, fearless man, and a warm Federalist. — Appleton's Cycl.

Coles, EDWARD, statesman, b. Albemarle Co., Va., Dec. 15, 1786; d. Phila., July 7, 1868. Wm. and Mary Coll. 1807. In 1810–16, he was private sec. to Pres. Madison, who sent him to Russia on a diplomatic mission in 1817. Returning in 1818, he soon after removed to Illinois, taking with him his slaves, whom he liberated. He was gov. of Ill. from 1823 to 1826; a resident of Phila. subsequent to 1833. He read before the Pa. Hist. Society, June 9, 1856, "A History of the Ordinance of 1787," pub. 8vo, Phila.

Coles, ISAAC A., col. U. S. A., b. Albem. Co., Va., Feb. 15, 1780; d. Charlottesville, Va., July 21, 1841. Capt. light dragoons, Jan. 16, 1809; maj. 12th Inf., Mar. 20, 1812; col. Mar. 12, 1813; disb. June, 1815. He was sec. to Pres. Jefferson 4 years; member of the Va. legisl.

Coles, COL. THOMAS, b. Eng., Dec. 4, 1752; d. Providence, Oct. 13, 1844. Capt. in C. Greene's (1st) R. I. regt. in April, 1779; became aide-de-camp to Lafayette, and afterwards a naval commander. Collector of the port of Providence many years, and was removed by Pres. Jackson. — Walker Family, 159.

Colesworthy, DANIEL CLEMENT, b. Portland, Me., July 14, 1810. Descended from an old Boston family, one of whom was a member of the famous "Tea-Party." He became a printer; pub. and edited the Portland Tribune in 1840–4, and since 1850 has been a bookseller in Boston. He has pub. "Sab.-School Hymns," 1833; "Advice to an Apprentice," 1836; "Opening Buds," 1838; "Touch at the Times," 1840; "Chronicles of Casco Bay," 1850; "Group of Children, and other Poems," 1865, &c.

Digitized by Google

Colfax, SCHUYLER, vice-pres. U.S., b. N.Y. City, Mar. 23, 1823. Grandson of Gen. Wm. of the Revol., com. of Washington's Life Guard, who d. Pompton, N.J., 7 Sept. 1838. A merchant's clerk for 3 years; in 1838 removed, with his widowed mother, to Ind., where he studied law. In 1845, he established the Saint Joseph Valley Register, an able Whig paper, at South Bend, which he continued until 1855. Member of the State Const. Conv. in 1850, and opposed the clause prohibiting free colored men from settling in that State; delegate and sec. of the Whig national conventions of 1848 and 1852; M. C. 1855–69, and speaker of the house in 1863–9; became vice-pres. 4 Mar. 1869. While in Congress, he made an eloquent speech on the Kansas question, of which 500,000 were circulated. During the civil war, he was the intimate friend and adviser of Pres. Lincoln. He was the most popular presiding officer of the house since Henry Clay. — See Lives of Colfax, by Moore and Martin; Grant and Colfax, by C. A. Phelps.

Colhoun, EDMUND K., capt. U. S. N., b. Pa., May 6, 1821. Midshipm. Apr. 1, 1839; lieut. 1861; com. Nov. 17, 1862; capt. 1869. During the Mexican war, he served at the attack on Alvarado and at Tabasco, but left the navy, June 27, 1853. Com. steamer "Hunchback," N. A. B. squad., at Roanoke Island, Feb. 7–8, 1862; capture of Newbern, March 14, 1862; engagements on the Blackwater River, Oct. 1862; com. steamer "Ladona," 1863, monitor "Weehawken," S. A. B. squad., in the different actions with the Charleston forts, July to Sept. 1863; com. monitor "Sangus," N. A. squad., 1864–5; engaged Howlett's battery on James River, June 21 and Dec. 5, 1864; in both attacks on Fort Fisher; now (1870) commands iron-clad "Dictator," N. A. squad. — Hamersly.

Collamer, JACOB, LL.D. (U. of Vt. 1849; D. C. 1857), jurist and senator, b. Troy, N.Y., 1792; d. Woodstock, Vt., 9 Nov. 1865. U. of Vt. 1810. His father removed to Burlington, Vt., where Jacob pursued his studies without any other pecuniary means than his own industry supplied. He served as a subaltern in 1812, in the war with Eng.; was adm. to the bar in 1813; practised in the Counties of Orange and Windsor, with marked ability and success, until 1833; was several years a member of the legisl.; judge of the Sup. Court of Vt. in 1833–42; M. C. 1843–9; U. S. postmaster-gen. 1849–20 July, 1850; again judge Sup. Court of Vt., from 8 Nov. 1850, to Oct. 1854; and was U.S. senator from Mar. 1855, to his death. He was a logical reasoner, and a man of remarkable industry.

Colles, CHRISTOPHER, philosopher, b. Ireland, ab. 1738; d. New York, 1821. Left an orphan at an early age, he was educated by Pococke, afterward Bishop of Ossory, upon whose death, in 1765, he left Ireland, and in 1772 lectured in Phila., upon pneumatics. The next year, he delivered in New York a series of lectures on inland lock-navigation. In April, 1774, he proposed to build a reservoir for N. Y. City. In 1775, he lectured on gunnery, and was employed as instructor to the artillery dept. of the army, until the arrival of Baron Steuben in 1777. Colles was the first to suggest canals and improvements to connect Lake Ontario with the Hudson, and surveyed the Mohawk River as far as Wood Creek. The results of his labors were pub. by Samuel Loudon in 1785. In 1808, Colles pub. a pamphlet on inland navigable communications. He next made a tour through Pa. and N. Y.; and in 1789 pub. a book of roads through N.Y. In 1796, he settled in N. Y. City, and manuf. bandboxes and paper-hangings, rat and mouse traps, Prussian blue and other pigments; and, by these and various other useful avocations, he barely maintained himself. His chemical skill procured him an app. to test the specific gravity of imported liquors, and he also made proof-glasses. Finally, through his friend John Pintard, he received the app. of supt. of the Acad. of Fine Arts. He was benevolent; and his long career was highly useful to his adopted country. During the War of 1812, he was the projector and attendant of the telegraph erected on Castle Clinton. He is said to have built the first steam-engine in Amer. — Appleton's New Amer. Cycl.

Colleton, JAMES, colonial gov. of S. C. from 1686 to 1690. He was a bro. of one of the proprietors; was app. landgrave, and endowed with vast landed possessions. Assuming the govt. when disputes were rife concerning tenures of land and quit-rents, he procured alterations in the fundamental laws in 1687; declared martial law during a rebellion of the people, and was impeached by the assembly, and banished from the province.

Collier, SIR GEORGE, a British adm.; d 6 Apr. 1795. Made capt. R.N., 12 July, 1762; commo. in N. Amer., 1779; adm. 1793. He captured "The Hancock," Capt. Manly, in Apr. 1777; in May, 1779, he destroyed the principal towns in the Chesapeake; ravaged the coasts of Va. and Ct., destroying several armed vessels; assisted at the capture of Stony Point, on the Hudson, in June; July 5, took part in the plundering exped. to N. Haven, and then sailed to the Penobscot, where he captured and destroyed the fleet of Com. Saltonstall. He was knighted for his services in Amer. Collier's Journal in "The Rainbow," 1776–9, was pub. by Ithiel Town, N.Y., 1835.

Collier, HENRY WATKINS, jurist, b. Lunenburg Co., Va., Jan. 17, 1801; d. Bailey's Springs, Ala., Aug. 28, 1855. Educated in Abbeville Dist., S.C.; went to Ala. in 1818; adm. to the bar in 1821; began practice at Huntsville, and, in 1823, removed to Tuscaloosa; judge of the Circuit Court of that dist. 1827–37; chief-justice of Ala. in 1837–49; gov. 1849–53.

Collins, CHARLES, D.D. (Dick. Coll., Pa., 1851), b. N. Yarmouth, Me., Apr. 17, 1813. Wesleyan U. 1837. Pres. of the Emory and Henry Coll., Va., 1838–52, and of Dickinson Coll., Pa., from 1852 to 1860, of the State Female Coll., Tenn., 1860–6. Author of "Methodism and Calvinism Compared." Died Memphis, Tenn., July 17, 1875.

Collins, ISAAC, printer and bookseller, b. Del., Feb. 16, 1746; d. Burlington, N.J., Mar. 21, 1817. Charles, his father, was an emig. from Bristol, Eng. Isaac learned the trade of a printer, and at 21 went to Phila., and in 1770, to Burlington, N.J., having been app. printer to George III. He removed to Trenton in 1778, and pub. the first quarto Family Bible in the U.S. In 1796, he removed his family and business to N.Y., but returned to Burlington in 1809. He was some years one of the govs. of the N.Y. Hospital. Several of his sons became prominent booksellers and publishers in N.Y. — See Memoir of Isaac Collins, 1848.

Digitized by Google

Collins, JOHN, gov. of R.I., 1786–9, member of the Cont. Congress from 1778 to 1783; d. Newport, R.I., March, 1795, a. 78. M. C. 1789. He was first assist. in 1776, and in Apr. 1778, a commissioner to settle the accounts of R.I. with Congress.

Collins, JOHN, gov. of Del., 1820, to his d., Apr. 15, 1822, at Wilmington.

Collins, NAPOLEON, commo. U. S. N., b. Pa., May 4, 1814. Midshipman, Jan. 2, 1834; lieut. Nov. 6, 1846; com. July 16, 1862; capt. July 25, 1866; commo., Jan. 1871. Attached to sloop "Decatur," and present at Tuspan and Tabasco, Mexican war; comg. steamer "Anacostia," Potomac flotilla, in engagements at Acquia Creek, May 31 and June 1, 1861; comg. gunboat "Unadilla" at battle of Port Royal, Nov. 7, 1861, and in various expeds. on the coasts of S.C., Ga., and Fla., 1861–2; comg. steamer "Octarora," W.I. squad., 1863; steamer "Wachusett," special service, 1863–4. Oct. 7, 1864, he seized the rebel steamer "Florida," in the harbor of Bahia, Brazil; d. Callao, Peru, Aug. 9, 1875.

Collins, THOMAS, gov. Del., 1786–9, b. 1732; d. near Duck Creek, Kent Co., Del., 29 Mar. 1789. High sheriff of Kent Co.; 4 years a member of the council; brig.-gen. of militia, 1776–83; member of the assembly, and chief-justice of C.C.P.

Collins, ZACCHEUS, philanthropist, b. Phila., Aug. 26, 1764; d. there June 12, 1831. Member of the Society of Friends; an ardent promoter of the advancement of the natural sciences, and was an officer or member of many philosophical, humane, and religious societies.

Collot, A. G., b. France, 1796; settled in the U.S. Pub. "Complete Study of French," 6 vols; "French and English Dictionary," 8vo, Phila., 1853; d. Phila. Sept. 11, 1860.

Collot, GEN. VICTOR, pub. a map of Detroit in 1796, also "Voyage dans le Nord de l'Amérique en 1796," an English trans. of which was pub. in 1826; d. Paris, July, 1805.

Collyer, REV. ROBERT, pastor of Unity Church, Chicago, since Feb. 1859; b. Keighly, Yorkshire, Eng., 8 Dec. 1823. His youth was passed in a factory and at the forge; but all his leisure was devoted to study. In 1847, he joined the Methodists, emigrated to the U.S. in May, 1850, and was a blacksmith and preacher at Shoemakerstown, Pa.; but in Jan., having embraced Unitarian views, he was brought up for heresy, and the conference refused to renew his license to preach. He is a simple, earnest, and eloquent preacher, a worker in all needed reforms, and a successful lecturer. Author of a Life of A. H. Conant, 1868.

Colman, BENJAMIN, D.D. (U. of Glasg. 1731), clergyman, b. Boston, 19 Oct. 1673; d. there 29 Aug. 1747. H. U. 1692. Son of Wm., who came from Lond. ab. 1671. He began to preach in Medford in 1693, embarked for Eng. in July, 1695, but was captured by a privateer, and kept some time pris. in France; then visited and preached in Eng., gaining the friendship of Bates, Calamy, Howe, and other em. divines, and, returning to Boston in 1699, became pastor of the Brattle-st. Church, where he preached on the last Sunday of his life. This church was formed in opp. to the Cambridge platform; and the other Boston churches long refused to hold communion with it. Chosen pres. of H.U. in 1724, but declined. A benefactor of Harv. and Yale Colleges; was employed by the Gen. Court in important affairs; and was much esteemed as a pulpit orator. A coll. of his sermons was pub. in 3 vols., 1707–22. Author, also, of some poems, and a tract in favor of inoculation for the small-pox, 1721. His "Life" was pub. in 1749, by Rev. E. Turell, who m. his dau. — N.E. H. and G. Reg. iii. 110.

Colman, HENRY, agric. writer and clergyman, b. Boston, Sept. 12, 1785; d. Islington, Eng., Aug. 14, 1849. Dartm. Coll. 1805. From 1807 to 1820, he was a Cong. minister at Hingham, Ms., where he also taught school; was a teacher in Boston in 1820–5, and, from Feb. 1825 to Dec. 1831, had charge of a Unitarian church in Salem, when he left, in ill health. Engaging in agriculture at Deerfield, Ms., he was employed by the State, from 1836 to 1842, to investigate its agric. condition and resources. In 1842, he visited Europe, in the employ of the Ms. Agric. Soc., for a similar purpose, and pub. in 2 vols., 8vo, "European Agric. and Rural Economy," and "Agric. and Rural Economy of France, Belgium, Holland, and Switzerland," 8vo, 1848, the result of 6 years' observation. He also pub. "Report on Silk Culture," 1840, and "Reports on the Agric. of Ms.," 1838–9; "Letters on European Life and Manners," 2 vols., 1849, and 2 vols. of sermons. Visiting Eng. again for his health in 1849, he d. soon after his arrival.

Colman, SAMUEL, landscape-painter, b. Portland, Me., 1832. Son of Samuel, bookseller and publisher of N.Y., and also dealer in engravings and pictures; has painted, among other fine pictures, "Rock of Gibraltar," "Lake George," "Street Scene in Seville," "Conway Valley," "Harbor of Seville," and "Barges on the Hudson," "Hill of the Alhambra," and "Tower of the Giralda." His first picture was exhib. at the Acad. in 1850. He went abroad in 1860, studied and sketched in Andalusia and in Paris, and was made a member of the Acad. of Design in 1862. He is one of the most poetical of Amer. painters.

Colquitt, WALTER T., Democ. politician, b. Halifax Co., Va., Dec. 27, 1799; d. Macon, Ga., May 7, 1855. Adm. to the bar in 1820; brig.-gen. of militia at the age of 21; in Dec. 1826, app. a dist. judge; re-app. in 1829; a member of the State senate in 1834 and 1837; M.C. 1839–43; U.S. senator, 1843–9. He supported the Polk administration in the controversy relative to Oregon, and, throughout the Mexican war, was prominent in oppo. to the Wilmot Proviso, and was one of the most earnest speakers in the Nashville convention in 1850, in defence of the "rights" of the South. He had also been a Methodist preacher, and, even during the turmoil of a most exciting political career, was in the habit of officiating at the Methodist churches. He took an active part in public affairs, and was a ready speaker. — Bench and Bar of Ga.

Digitized by Google

Colt, SAMUEL, inventor, b. Hartford Ct., July 19, 1814; d. there Jan. 10, 1862. In July, 1829, he ran away from home, and shipped, as a boy before-the-mast, on an East-India voyage. After his return, under the assumed name of Dr. Coult, he lectured on chemistry in the U.S. and Canada. The proceeds of these earnings were devoted to the prosecution of his invention of the revolver, the first model of which, in 1829, was of wood. In 1835, when only 21, he took out his first patent for revolving fire-arms, securing patents in Eng. and France; and a company was formed at Patterson, N.J., which suspended in 1842. In 1837, during the Florida war, Colt's revolvers were first successfully used. During the Mexican war, a demand sprung up; and Mr. Colt commenced their manuf. at Hartford. The extraordinary emigration to Cal., and afterward to Australia, greatly increased the demand; and he erected an armory of Portland stone, with a capacity for the manuf. of 1,000 per day. A part of the establishment is devoted to the manuf. of machinery for making these fire-arms elsewhere, which has already supplied a large portion of the machinery for the armory at Enfield, Eng., and the whole of that for the Russian Govt. armory at Tula. Various improvements were patented after the Mexican war; and it was adopted by the U.S. Govt. as a regular weapon for the army. The Crimean and Indian campaigns suggested still further improvements in its construction, also secured by patent, rendering the arm comparatively perfect, and of superior efficiency. From almost all the govts. of Europe, he received orders of merit, medals, diplomas, and other tokens of their appreciation of his great invention. Mr. Colt also invented a submarine battery of great power and efficacy, and was one of the inventors of the submarine teleg. cable; having laid, and operated with perfect success, in 1843, such a cable from Coney Island and Fire Island to the city of N.Y., and from the Merchants' Exchange to the mouth of the harbor. He acquired an immense fortune.

Colton, CALVIN, LL.D. (Hob. Coll. 1852), clergyman and author, b. Longmeadow, Ms., 1789; d. Savannah, Ga., March 13, 1857. Y.C. 1812. Settled over the Presb. church at Batavia, N.Y., 1815; he subsequently entered the ministry of the Pr.-Ep. church, but relinquished preaching in 1826 from failure of his voice. After a long tour through the U.S., he went to Eng. in 1831, as corresp. of the N.Y. Observer. In 1848, he wrote on political economy, of which science he was choson prof. in Trin. Coll., Hartford, in 1852. From 1842 to 1844, he edited the True Whig in Washington. He pub. in Eng. "A Manual for Emigrants to Amer.," and the "History and Character of Amer. Revivals of Religion," 1832; "The Americans, by an Amer. in London," 1833; "Amer. Cottager," "A Tour of the Lakes," 1833; "Church and State in Amer.," "Protestant Jesuitism," 1836; "Abolition a Sedition," and "Abolition and Colonization Contrasted," 1838; "A Voice from Amer. to Eng.," 1839; "The Crisis of the Country," "Amer. Jacobinism," and "One Presidential Term," 1840; "Junius," a series of tracts, 1843–4; "Life and Time of Henry Clay," 1846; "Four Years in Great Britain," 1835; "Thoughts on the Religious State of the Country," "The Genius and Mission of the Ep. Church in the U.S." 1853; "The Rights of Labor," 1844;" "Public Economy of the U.S.," 8vo, 1848; "Private Corresp. of Henry Clay," 8vo, 1855; "Last Seven Years of the Life of Henry Clay," 8vo, 1856; "Speeches of Henry Clay," 2 vols., 8vo, 1857.

Colton, GEORGE HOOKER, author, b. Westford, N.Y., Oct. 27, 1818; d. N.Y. City, Dec. 1, 1847. Y.C. 1840. Son of Calvin. He immediately after grad. engaged as a teacher in Hartford, where he wrote the poem of "Tecumseh; or, The West 30 Years Since," pub. 1842. He delivered a course of lectures on the Amer. Indians in 1842–3, and a poem before the Phi Beta Kappa Society, Y. C., 1844, and in 1845 started the American Whig Review in N.Y., which he conducted till his death.—Duyckinck.

Colton, WALTER, author, bro. of Calvin, b. Rutland, Vt., May 9, 1797; d. Phila., Jan. 22, 1851. Y. C. 1822. After teaching school, and studying theology at Andover, he became, in 1825, prof. of moral philos. and belles-lettres at Middletown Acad., Ct. In 1828, he was editing a Whig paper in Washington, but, becoming a favorite with Pres. Jackson, was app. chaplain in the navy. In 1831, he sailed to the W. Indies in "The Vincennes;" in 1832–5 in "The Constellation," to the Mediterranean, and in 1838 was assigned to Phila., where, in 1841–2, he was principal editor of the North American, and pub. a pamphlet, entitled "The Bible in the Public Schools." July 28, 1846, he was made by Com. Stockton alcalde of Monterey, Cal., also officiating there as judge of admiralty during the Mexican war, and established the first newspaper in Cal. He returned to Phila. in 1849. Among his works are "Ship and Shore," 1835; "Constantinople and Athens," 1836; "Deck and Port," 1850; "Three Years in California," 1850; "Land and Sea," 1851; "The Sea and the Sailor," "Notes on France and Italy," and other literary remains, with a memoir by Rev. H. T. Cheever, 12mo, 1851.

Columbus, BARTHOLOMEW, a younger bro. to Christopher, b. Genoa, ab. 1436; d. 1514. He displayed great ingenuity in drawing spheres and sea-charts at Lisbon in 1470. Ab. 1486, he visited the Cape of Good Hope, probably with Barthelemi Diaz. Queen Isabella sent him, in com. of 3 store-ships, to the new colony of Hispaniola, where Christopher received him with joy, and app. him adelantado, or lieut.-gov. of the Indies. In this position, he showed great bravery and decision. The Spanish monarchs confirmed his title, and gave him the lordship of the small Island of Mona, near St. Domingo, with 200 Indians as his personal body-guard. Bartholomew shared the honors and dangers of his brother's discoveries; became very wealthy, and was the founder of the town of St. Domingo.

Digitized by Google

Columbus, CHRISTOPHER, discoverer of America, b. at Cogerio, 20 miles west of Genoa, ab. 1435; d. Valladolid, Spain, May 20, 1506. He was the eldest son of Domenico Colombo, a cloth-weaver; though his ancestors followed the sea. Sent at the age of 10 to the U. of Pavia, he studied cosmography, history, philosophy, and other sciences having a bearing on navigation. Entering the Genoese marine in 1449–50, he continued in it 20 years. In an action with the Venetians, his vessel took fire, and he saved himself by swimming ashore, whence he went to Lisbon, where he staid until 1484, supporting himself by drawing charts in conjunction with his brother, and making occasional voyages to Madeira, the Canaries, Azores, and the Portuguese settlements in Africa. While at Lisbon, he m. Felipa, dau. of Bartolomeo di Palestrello, a disting. Italian navigator. In 1477, he made a voyage to the N. W., 100 leagues beyond Ireland, into lat. 73°. Columbus had by this time matured his views; namely, that the earth was spherical, that Asia extended to the parallel now known as 180° E. from Greenwich, that a navigable ocean only intervened, and that not more than ⅓ of the earth's circumference separated Europe and Asia. He applied for aid in finding this western route to India, first to the republic of Genoa, and, subsequently, to either Alfonso V., or John II. of Portugal. The latter referred it to his council, who reported against it. Hopeless of success in Portugal, he set out, in 1484, with his son Diego, for Spain. Stopping at a convent near Palos to beg some bread for his boy, he acquired the friendship of the superior, Juan Perez de Marchena, with whom he remained till the spring of 1486. While awaiting the result of his application to Ferdinand and Isabella, Columbus served in the war against the Moors of Granada. Receiving an unfavorable reply in 1491, he next applied to Charles VIII. of France. Finally, with the aid of the Spanish sovereigns, 3 small ships were fitted out at Palos, and sailed, Aug. 3, 1492. At 2 o'clock, A.M., of Friday, Oct. 12, 1492, after having been 71 days at sea, "The Pinta" fired a gun, the signal for land. This land he took possession of in the name of the crown of Castile, and named the Island San Salvador. He also discovered others of the W.I. Islands, and built on the Bay of Caracola a fort with the timbers of "The Santa Maria," and, leaving in it 39 men, sailed, Jan. 4, 1493, for Spain; taking with him several of the natives. He was well received by the king and queen, confirmed in all the dignities previously bestowed, and given the command of 17 ships and 1,500 men to prosecute the discovery. With this fleet, he sailed from Cadiz, Sept. 25, 1493; discovered the Windward Islands, Jamaica, and Porto Rico, and founded a colony in Hispaniola, of which he left his brother Bartholomew lieut.-gov., and reached Cadiz June 11, 1496. He succeeded in clearing himself of the charges and clamor raised against him by the adventurers who had accomp. him in the expedition of finding gold, and May 30, 1498, sailed on his 3d voyage with 6 ships. He discovered the mouth of the Orinoco, then revisited Hispaniola to recruit his enfeebled health, and again became the victim of malice and misrepresentation. A commissioner sent from Spain to inquire into the trouble put Columbus and his bro. in chains, and sent them to Spain. The officers of the ship offering to liberate him from his fetters, he replied proudly, "I will wear them as a memento of the gratitude of princes." The indignation expressed throughout Spain at this outrage caused the king to disclaim having authorized it; but the nobles were jealous of his superior rank, and the king dissatisfied with the small profits of the enterprise. The only subsequent employment Columbus received was the command of 4 caravels, with 150 men, to search for a passage through the sea, now the Gulf of Mexico. He left Cadiz, May 9, 1502; coasted the south side of the Gulf of Mexico, and, after much suffering from hardship and famine, reached San Lucar, Nov 7, 1504, where he lay sick some months, and, upon recovery, had his claims for redress finally rejected by the king. At the age of 70, infirm in body, but in full possession of his mental faculties, having, in his own words, "No place to repair to, except an inn, and often with nothing to pay for his sustenance," the discoverer of the New World died. The tomb over his remains bears this inscription, "To Castile and Leon, a new world gave Colon." His remains, taken in 1536 to St. Domingo, were, in 1796, conveyed with great pomp to the Cathedral of Havana, where they now repose. His son DIEGO sued the king in the high council of the Indies, and, recovering the viceroyalty of Hispaniola, m. Maria, niece of the Duke of Alva. Their eldest son, LUIS, became Duke of Veragua, Marquis of Jamaica. — See Life and Voyages, by Irving.

Colver, REV. NATHANIEL, D.D., Baptist clergyman, b. Orwell, Vt., May, 1794; d. Chicago, Sept. 25, 1870. He had a limited education, was a vol. in the War of 1812, and was by trade a tanner. He began his ministry at Union Village, N.Y., in 1836, and was settled successively in Boston (1843), Detroit, Cincinnati, and Chicago (1860). He was eminent as an antimason and an abolitionist, was an able preacher, and had great power with the masses. After the war, he founded, and put in successful operation at Richmond, the "Colver Institute," for educating young men of color for the ministry. Author of three lectures on Odd Fellowship, 1844.

Colville, ALEXANDER, lord, made an adm. in 1762, and com. in N. Amer.; retook Newfoundland; d. 1779.

Colvocoresses, GEORGE M., capt U.S.N., b. Greece. App. from Vt. midshipm Feb. 21, 1832; com. July 1, 1861; capt. and retired, 1867. Attached to Wilkes's expl. exped. 1838–42; as 1st lieut., participated in capture of the barrier forts, Canton, China; com. storeship "Supply," 1861–3, and captured "The Stephen Hart," loaded with arms and ammunition for the rebels; com. "Saratoga," S.A.B. squad., 1864, and received thanks of the adm. and of the navy dept. for merit. services; com. sloop "St. Mary's," Pacific squad., 1865–6; d. Bridgeport, Ct., June 3, 1872.

Digitized by Google

Colwell, STEPHEN, author, b. Brooke Co., Va., Mar. 25, 1800. Jeff. Coll., Pa., 1819. Adm. to the bar in Va., 1821; practised some time in Pittsburg, but has been many years an iron-merchant in Phila. Author of "New Themes for the Protestant Clergy," &c., 1851; "Politics for Amer. Christians," 1852; "Religious Instruction in Public Schools," &c., 1854; "The Ways and Means of Commercial Payment," &c., 1858; and a number of pamphlets on politics, banking, and polit. economy. Died Phila. 15 Jan. 1871.—Allibone.

Combe, GEORGE, a Scottish phrenologist, b. near Edinburgh, Oct. 21, 1788; d. Moor Park, Surrey, Eng., Aug. 14, 1858. He was bred to the legal profession, but in 1816, with his bro. Andrew, devoted himself to the propagation of the science of phrenology as writer and lecturer. In 1838–40, accomp. by his wife, he visited the U.S., and delivered 158 lectures in various parts of the country. He pub. many works on phrenology and education, and also "Notes on the U.S. of America," 3 vols., 1841.

Combs, LESLIE, lawyer and politician, b. Ky., 1793. His father, a Virginian, was a Revol. officer, and a hunter of Ky. Leslie, the youngest of 12 children, joined the army in 1812; was disting. for energy and bravery; com. a company of scouts; was wounded near Fort Meigs, and narrowly escaped death. He afterward practised law, took part in politics as a personal friend and supporter of Henry Clay, and was a fluent, eloquent, and effective speaker. In 1836, he raised a regt. for the south-western frontier at the time of the revol. in Texas. A gen. of militia, and resides in Lexington, Ky.

Comegys, CORNELIUS G., M.D., b. Del. Prof. of Institutes of Medicine in Miami Coll., O. Author of "A History of Medicine," 8vo, Cincin., 1856.

Comer, THOMAS, actor and musician, b. Bath, Eng., Dec. 19, 1790; d. Boston, July 27, 1862. He played at Covent Garden and Drury Lane; came to this country in 1827, and was successively musical director at the Tremont Theatre, Museum, and Boston Theatre. He excelled in eccentric parts and in Irish personations, and was skilled in musical composition.

Comly, JOHN, a Friend, author of some popular school text-books, b. Pa.; d. Byberry, Pa., Aug. 17, 1850, a. 76. — See Journal of the Life and Religious Labors of John Comly of Byberry, pub. by his children, 8vo, Phila., 1853.

Comonfort, YGNACIO, pres. of Mexico, 1855–8, b. Puebla, March 12, 1812; murdered Nov. 13, 1863. He entered the Jesuit Coll. in 1826, became a capt. of cav. in 1832, and espoused the liberal cause. In 1834, he was made prefect and military gov. of the dist. of Tlapa; in 1842, he was elected to Congress, and re-elected in 1846. In the revol. of Aug. 1846, Comonfort took a conspicuous part. App. 3d alcalde of the capital, and afterward prefect of Western Mexico, he relinquished these positions to engage in the war with the U.S., at the close of which he was summoned to the Congress of Queretaro. He was then chosen senator of Puebla, and served until 1851. In 1852–3, he represented in Congress the newly-created State of Guerrero, and acted as custom-house director of Acapulco and other places, until Santa Aña's return, when he was dismissed from office. He now joined Alvarez, raised the standard of revol., proclaimed the plan of Ayutla, March 11, 1854, visited N.Y., and raised funds there to carry on the war, finally compelling Santa Aña, in 1855, to abdicate. Alvarez resigned the supreme power to Comonfort, Dec. 11, 1855. He soon met with strenuous opposition from the clergy, the army, and the large body of the conservative party. An insurrection broke out at the capital, resulting, after a bloody struggle, in the elevation of Juarez; and Comonfort, in Feb. 1858, came to the U.S. He soon went to France, but, on the first movement of the French for the invasion of Mexico, returned thither, and offered his services to Juarez, who made him com. in chief. He was murdered by banditti while on his way to San Luis Potosí.

Comstock, ADAM, a Revol. officer; d. Saratoga Co., N.Y., Apr. 10, 1819, a. 79. Formed by nature for a soldier, he early engaged in the Revol. conflict, and was lieut.-col. of Lippits's R.I. Regt. Enjoying the confidence of Washington, he was soon promoted to a colonelcy; was the "officer of the day" at the victory of Red Bank, and alternately com. with Col. Saml. Smith in the gallant affair of Mud Fort. After the war, he settled in Saratoga, N.Y.; filled various judicial offices, serving near 20 years in the legisl. and the council.

Comstock, ANDREW, M.D., prof. of elocution, and lecturer on oratory, b. N.Y., 1795. Author of a "New System of Phonetics," "Phonetic Speaker," "Testament," "Reader," "Historia Sacra," and "Homer's Iliad," "Elocution," 16th ed., 1854.

Comstock, JOHN LEE, physician and author, b. East Lyme, Ct., 1789; d. Hartford, Ct., Nov. 21, 1858. He was self-educated; was a surgeon in the army during the War of 1812–15, and afterwards resided in Hartford. He prepared for the use of schools, text-books on chemistry, natural history, botany, physical geography, physiology, and mineralogy; a "History of Gold and Silver;" "History of the Greek Revolution," 1829; and "Cabinet of Curiosities." His "Natural Philosophy" became a standard book; and its sale, which was not confined to this country, reached nearly a million copies. He possessed great mechanical skill, constructed most of his apparatus himself, and, being a skilful draughtsman, made the drawings for most of the illustrations of his works.

Conant, HANNAH O'BRIEN CHAPLIN, dau. of Rev. Jeremiah Chaplin, b. Danvers, Ms. 1812; d. Brooklyn, N.Y., Feb. 18, 1865; m. Dr. T. J. Conant in 1832. In 1838, she began editing the Mother's Monthly Journal, and was a constant contrib. to the periodical press. By her knowledge of Oriental languages, she rendered great service to her husband in the preparation of the new version of the Scriptures. Author of a number of works, original and translated, among them, "Lea; or, The Baptism in Jordan," by Strauss, 1844; translations of Neander's Commentaries on the Epistles of John and James, and the Epistle of Paul to the Philippians, 1850–52; the "Earnest Man," a biog. sketch of Dr. Judson, 1855; a "Popular History of English Bible Translation," 1856; and the "New-England Theocracy," 1857, a translation from the German; "The History of the English Bible," 1859.

Digitized by Google

Conant, ROGER, an early settler in Ms., b. Budleigh, Devonshire, Eng., April, 1593; d. Beverly, Ms., Nov. 19, 1679. He came to Plymouth in 1623; removed to Nantasket in 1625, and thence, in the autumn, to Cape Ann, charged by the adventurers in Eng. with the care of that settlement. He founded Salem, where, in 1626, he built the first house. He was a representative at the first court in 1634; in 1637, he was a justice of the Quarterly Court in what was afterward known as Essex Co. He organized the first Puritan church at Cape Ann. In 1640, his son Roger, "being the first-born child in Salem," received from the town a grant of 40 acres of land. — See Notice of Conant, by J. B. Felt, in Geneal. Reg., ii., 233, 329.

Conant, THOMAS J., D.D., Orientalist and biblical scholar, b. Brandon, Vt., Dec. 13, 1802. Midd. Coll. 1823. After a brief tutorship at Col. Coll., D.C., he was made prof. of languages in Wat. Coll., Me., which he resigned in 1833. In 1835, he was made prof. of biblical literature and criticism in the theol. sem. at Hamilton, N. Y., and in 1850, he assumed a similar office in Rochester Sem., which he resigned ab. 1859. While prof. at Hamilton, he visited Europe, spending 2 years at Halle and Berlin. He has been long engaged in the preparation of an improved popular version of the Scriptures. His first elaborate production, written while at Middlebury, was an essay on the laws of translation. In 1839, he translated "Gesenius's Hebrew Grammar." He pub. a version of the "Book of Job" in 1857.

Concanen, LUKE, O. P., first R. C. bishop of N. Y.; consec. Apr. 24, 1808; d. 1810.

Concha, JOSÉ, MARQUIS DE LA HABAÑA, capt.-gen. of Cuba, b. Buenos Ayres, 1800. Took part in the struggle in S. A., and against Don Carlos; was app. lieut.-gen. in 1839, and was capt.-gen. of the Basque provinces from 1843 to 1846. Placed at the head of the Spanish cavalry, he was capt.-gen. of Cuba from 1849 to 1852, when he was removed, after the attempt of Lopez, and replaced by Canedo. Joining his bro. in opposing the govt., he was banished from Spain in June, 1854. After the revol. of July, 1854, he was re-app. capt.-gen. of Cuba, and, with the exception of a short period in 1856, held the office until Dec. 1858. Minister of war, 1863; pres. Spanish senate, 1864; app. nominal prime-minister by the queen just after the revol. broke out in Spain in Sept. 1868.

Condamine, CHARLES MARIE DE LA, a French mathematician and geographer, b. Paris, Jan. 28, 1701; d. there Feb. 4, 1774. Educated at the U. of Paris, he abandoned the military career, in which he was disting., and, joining an exploring exped., visited Troas, Cyprus, Jerusalem, and Constantinople. In 1735, the Acad. of Sciences sent him to Peru to measure an arc of the meridian. He returned to France in 1743, and prepared accounts of the voyage, travels, and labors of the commission. His "Voyage up the Amazon," and "Travels in S. America," appeared in 1745, and "The Figure of the Earth," in 1749. In 1748, he was made a fellow of the Rcy. Soc. of Lond., and in 1760 a member of the Acad. of Sciences in Paris.

Condict, JOHN, senator, b. 1755; d. Orange, N.J., May 4, 1834. He was a soldier and surgeon in the Revol. army; was several years a member of the N.J. legisl.; M. C. from 1799 to 1803 and 1819–20; and U. S. senator from 1803 to 1817. — Lanman.

Condict, LEWIS, M.D. (U. of Pa. 1794), politician, b. Morristown, N.J., Mar. 1773; d there May 26, 1862. He was high-sheriff of Morris Co. before 1800; member of the State legisl. from 1805 to 1810, officiating as speaker two terms; one of the commissioners for settling the boundary between N. Y. and N. J.; and M. C. in 1811–17 and 1821–33.

Condict, SILAS, member of the State legisl., M. C. 1831–3, member of the State Const. Conv. of 1844, many years pres. of the Newark Banking Co. b. N. J., 1777; d. Newark, N.J., Nov. 29, 1861. N. J. Coll. 1795. Silas, his father, was a delegate to the Old Congress in 1781–4.

Condie, D. FRANCIS, M.D. (U. of Pa. 1818), b. Phila., May 12, 1796. Has pub. "An Abridgment of Thomas's Practice," 1817; "Course of Examination for Med. Students," 1824; "Catechism of Health," 1831; "Treatise on Epidemic Cholera," in conjunction with Dr. John Bell, 1832; "Diseases of Children," 4th ed., 8vo, 1854. Editor of Churchill's "Diseases of Women." Contrib. to "Cyclopædia of Practical Medicine," Phila., 1834, and to numerous medical journals; d. Del. Co., Pa., Mar. 31, 1875.

Condorcanqui, JOSEPH GABRIEL, an American Spaniard, who, having been ill-treated by a magistrate of Lima, attempted the redress of his own grievances, and the oppressions of the Indians, by exciting an insurrection in 1780. He was an artful and intrepid man, and, to conciliate the Indians, assumed the name of the Inca Tupac-Amaru, professing a design to restore the ancient dynasty of Peru, — a project which had been entertained by Raleigh. His plan was at first successful; and, after a contest of 3 years, he was hailed inca of Peru. Having become obnoxious to the Spanish settlers, troops were sent against him; and, the efforts of the Indians proving too feeble and desultory, he was deserted by his followers, taken, and cruelly put to death. — Humboldt.

Cone, SPENCER HOUGHTON, D.D. (B.U. 1842), a Baptist clergyman, b. Princeton, N.J., Apr. 30, 1785; d. N.Y., Aug. 29, 1855. At the age of 14, he was obliged to leave N. J. Coll., and assist, by teaching, in the support of his widowed mother and family. Becoming an actor, he played 7 years with great success, principally in Phila. Abandoning the stage in Dec. 1812, he connected himself with the Baltimore American, and afterwards with the Baltimore Whig. He was present, in com. of a company of vols. from Baltimore, at Bladensburg and Fort McHenry, and afterwards became a clerk in the treasury dept. at Washington. Ord. a Baptist minister in 1815, he became, a few weeks afterwards, chaplain to Congress; was pastor of the Baptist Church in Alexandria, D. C., from 1816 until May 1823; of the Oliver-st. Church, N.Y. City, for 18 years; and of the First Baptist Church, from 1841 until his death. In 1836–49, Dr. Cone was pres. of the Bible Society. He was one of the most popular pulpit orators in the U.S. He was a leading member of the Baptist general Convention of the U.S. till he became its pres. in 1832; was foremost in directing the measures of the Societies of Home and Foreign Missions; and was one of the authors of a tract in 1850, calling for a new translation of the Bible more definitely in accordance with Baptist views. — See Memoir, by his Sons, N.Y., 1856.

Digitized by Google

Conkling, ALFRED, jurist, b. E. Hampton, N.Y., Oct. 12, 1789. Un. Coll. 1810. Adm. to the bar in 1812; dist.-atty. for Montgomery Co., two or three years; M.C. 1821–3; settled in Albany; app. U.S. dist. judge of the northern dist. of N.Y.; minister to Mexico in 1852, and, on his return, settled at Genesee, N.Y. Author of "Conkling's Treatise," "Conkling's Admiralty," 1857; "The Powers of the Executive Departments of the U.S.," 1867; "Young Citizen's Manual." Two of his sons are members of Congress.

Conkling, ROSCOE, lawyer and senator, son of Alfred, b. Albany, 1829. Received a good education, and adopted the profession of law; settled in Utica in 1846, of which place he was mayor in 1858; app. dist.-atty. of Oneida Co. in 1849; M. C. 1859–63; U. S. senator, since 1867. Disting. as a debater.

Conner, DAVID, commo. U.S.N., b. Harrisburg, Pa., 1792; d. Phila., Mar. 20, 1856. He entered a counting-house in Phila. in 1806, and, in a voyage to the W. Indies, developed an inclination for the sea. Midshipman, Jan. 16, 1809, and, as acting lieut., took part in the action between "The Hornet" and "Peacock," Feb. 24, 1813. Charged with the duty of removing the prisoners, Lieut. Conner was among the last to leave the sinking vessel. July 24, 1813, he became a lieut., and remained in "The Hornet" under Capt. Biddle. In the action with "The Penguin," Mar. 23, 1815, he was dangerously wounded, and, for his gallantry, was presented with a medal by Congress; and the legisl. of Pa. unanimously voted him a sword. Mar. 3, 1825, he was promoted to the rank of com., and Mar. 3, 1835, to that of capt. Com. the squadron on the W. India station, just before the commencement of hostilities with Mexico, he was much commended by govt. for the manner in which he performed his duties. He established an efficient blockade of the Mexican ports on the gulf. Nov. 14, 1846, the port of Tampico was captured. Mar. 9, 1847, he directed the landing of the army of Gen. Scott, at Vera Cruz, but was soon after compelled, by the failure of his health, to return home.

Conner, SAMUEL SHEPARD, b. N.H.; d. Covington, Ky., 17 Dec. 1820. Y. C. 1806. App. maj. 21st Inf., Mar. 12, 1812; aide-de-camp to Gen. Dearborn, 1813; lieut.-col. 13th Inf., Mar. 1813 to July 1814; M. C. from Ms., 1815–17; surveyor-gen. in O., 1819. — Gardner.

Conolly, JOHN, physician and adventurer, b. Lancaster Co., Pa. He resided at Pittsburg, and was a business corresp. of Washington's, who pronounced him, "A very sensible, intelligent man." He was seized and imprisoned, while at the head of an armed party, in 1774, by the authorities of Pa., with whom he had a bitter controversy respecting land at the Falls of the Ohio, granted him by Lord Dunmore. In 1775, he was authorized by Dunmore to raise and com. a regt. of loyalists and Indians, to be called the "Loyal Foresters." While on his way to execute this design, he was taken, and held prisoner till near the end of the war. Ab. 1788, he and other disaffected persons held conferences at Detroit, with prominent citizens of the West, as to the seizure of N. Orleans, and the forcible control of the navigation of the Mpi. The attention of Washington was attracted to the subject; and measures were taken to counteract the plot. — Sabine.

Connolly, JOHN, R. C. bishop of N.Y., consec. Nov. 16, 1814; d. N.Y. Feb. 6, 1825.

Connor, HENRY W., M. C. 1821–41, b. Prince George Co., Va., Aug. 1793; d. N.C., Jan. 15, 1866. U. of S. C. 1812. Aide to Gen. Graham in the Creek war of 1814; member of the assembly in 1848.

Conover, THOMAS A., com. U. S. N., b. N.J., 1794; d. S. Amboy, N.J., Sept. 24, 1864. Midshipm. Jan. 1, 1812; lieut. Mar. 5, 1817; com. Feb. 28, 1838; capt. Oct. 2, 1848. His first cruise was in "The Essex," Com. Porter. He was in Macdonough's fleet in the victory on Lake Champlain, Sept. 11, 1814. Com. the African squadron in 1857–9, and was made commo. on the retired list, July 16, 1862.

Conrad, CHARLES M., statesman, b. Winchester, Va., ab. 1804. While an infant, he was taken by his father to Mpi., and thence to La., where he has since resided. Adm. to the N. O. bar in 1828; served some years in the State legisl.; U.S. senator in 1842–3; member of the State Const. Conv. in 1844; M.C. from 1849 to Aug. 1850; sec. of war under Pres. Fillmore from Aug. 15, 1850, to Mar. 7, 1853; served as a brig.-gen. in the rebel army; member Confed. Cong. 1862–4; d. Feb. 11, 1878.

Conrad, ROBERT T., lawyer, politician, and man of letters, b. Phila., June 10, 1810; d. there June 27, 1858. Son of John, publisher and bookseller of Phila. Educated for the bar, his tastes led him to literature. Before he was 21, he wrote a tragedy, Conradin, and in 1832 pub. the Daily Commercial Intelligencer, which was merged into the Phila. Gazette. Abandoning this occupation from ill health, in 1834, he returned to the law; became recorder of the Northern Liberties, and, in 1838, judge of the criminal sessions for the city and county of Phila. When the latter court was dissolved, he resumed the pen, edited Graham's Magazine, and became asso. editor of the North American. Upon the consolidation of the districts with the city, he was elected mayor by the Whig and American parties. In 1856, he was app. to the bench of the Quarter Sessions, serving in that capacity till the fall of 1857. In literature, he is best known by the tragedy of "Aylmere," purchased by Mr. Forrest, and in which that actor sustains the part of "Jack Cade." In 1852, Judge Conrad pub. a vol. entitled "Aylmere and Other Poems," the principal of which are "The Sons of the Wilderness," and a series of sonnets on the Lord's Prayer. Judge C. was also celebrated as a popular political speaker.

Digitized by Google

Conrad, TIMOTHY ABBOTT, naturalist, b. N.J., 1803. Member Imperial Soc. of Nat. Hist. of Moscow. Has pub. "Fossil Shells of the Tertiary Formations of the U.S.," 1832; "New Fresh Water Shells of the U.S.," 1836; "Miocene Shells of the U.S.," 1838; "Paleontology of Lynch's Palestine Exp." in Jour. Acad. Nat. Sci., Phil.; of "The Pacific R. R. Survey in Cal.," 1854; of "The Mex. Boundary Survey," 1854, and in "N.Y. State Ann. Report," 1840; "Monography of the Urionidae of the U.S." 1836; N.Y. Geological Report, 1837, and "New Fresh Water Shells and Fossils of the U.S." in Silliman's Jour.; d. Aug. 8, 1877.

Contee, BENJAMIN, D.D., Prot.-Epis. clergyman; d. Charles Co., Md., Nov. 3, 1815, a. 60. An officer in the 3d Md. batt. in 1776; a delegate to the Old Congress, 1787–8; M.C. 1789–91; chief judge of the County Testamentary Court.

Converse, CHARLES CROZAT (Karl Reden, E. C. Revons, and C. O. Nevers, noms de plume); b. Warren, Ms., 1834; grad. in music, Leipsic, 1857, and in law, 1861. Author of "Spring and Holiday," a cantata, 1855; "New Method for the Guitar," 1855; "Musical Bouquet," 1859; a cantata, the 126th Psalm, 1860; "Sweet Singer," 1863; "Church Singer," 1863; "Sayiugs of Sages," 1863. — Allibone.

Conway, THOMAS, COUNT DE, gen. in the Revol. army, b. Ireland, Feb. 27, 1733; d. ab. 1800. Taken to France when 6 years old, he was educated there, attained the rank of col. and the decoration of St. Louis; and in 1777, on the recommendation of Silas Deane, came to the U.S.; made brig.-gen. May 13, 1777, and led his brigade at Brandywine and Germantown; maj.-gen. and insp.-gen., Dec. 13, 1777; resigned, 1778. Conway was one of the most active of the secret enemies of Washington, and endeavored to elevate Gates to the supreme com., — a conspiracy known as the "Conway Cabal." His course made him unpopular; and, much to his surprise, his resignation was accepted. In a duel with Gen. Cadwallader, July 4, 1778, receiving what he supposed a fatal wound, he wrote a letter of apology to Washington, containing the expression, "You are, in my eyes, the great and good man." He recovered, returned to France, and in 1784 was marshal-de-camp, and app. gov. of Pondicherry and all the French settlements in Hindostan. He desired, in 1788, to assist the Republican party in the Dutch settlements, but was prevented by the Marquis Cornwallis. When the French revol. broke out, he was obliged to fly; and his life was saved only by the energetic efforts of the British authorities. He m. a dau. of Baron de Copley, marshal-de-camp. — See Ross's Life of Cornwallis.

Conway, WILLIAM, actor, b. London; d 1828. Educated for the bar, his first appearance on the stage was at the Haymarket. He terminated a 3-years' engagement in 1816; starred till 1821, and, after an engagement at the Haymarket, came to America in 1823. After visiting the Western and Southern cities, early in 1828 he took passage for Savannah, and, off Charleston bar, threw himself into the sea, and was drowned. He possessed a cultivated mind, and in Coriolanus was excelled by Kemble alone.

Conwell, HENRY, D.D., R.C. bishop of Phila., consec. Lond., Eng., 1820; d. Phila., Apr. 22, 1842, a. 91.

Cony, SAMUEL, gov. of Me., 1864–7, b. Augusta, Me., 27 Feb. 1811; d. there Sept. 5, 1870. B. U. 1829. Son of Gen. Samuel; grandson of Dr. Daniel. He began the practice of law in 1832; member Me. legisl. 1835 and 1862; member council, 1839; judge of probate, 1840–7; State treas. 1850–5; mayor of Augusta, 1854.

Cooke, ELISHA, father and son, eminent politicians of Ms. I. A physician, b. Boston, Sept. 16, 1637; d. Oct. 31, 1715. H.U. 1657. An assist. under the old govt., he was in 1689 the agent of Ms. in Eng. for the restoration of her charter. He opposed the acceptance of the new charter in 1691, and was in the exec. council from 1694 to 1703. He was for 40 years in places of public trust. II. An orator and politician, b. Boston, Dec. 20, 1678; d. Aug. 24, 1737. H.U. 1697. He was a representative to the Gen. Court, from 1713 to 1734; was a member of the council in 1717, and a popular opponent of Gov. Shute. Rechosen in 1718, he was negatived by the gov., as also for the speaker's chair in 1720. Agent for Ms. in Eng. in 1723; member of the council soon after his return in May, 1726; in 1730, justice of C. C. P. Suffolk Co. He was long the leader of the popular party, and pub. some political tracts.

Cooke, GEORGE FREDERICK, actor, b. Eng., 17 Apr. 1756; d. N.Y. City, 26 Sept. 1812. A printer's apprentice. His fondness for the stage led him early into that career; he became a star at the provincial theatres; was 3 years in Dublin, and, in Oct. 1800, appeared at Covent Garden as Richard III., taking his place in the first rank of actors. He was also celebrated in Macbeth, Iago, Shylock, Sir Pertinax Macsycophant, &c., and was the rival of John Kemble. Oct. 21, 1810, he app. as Richard at a N.Y. theatre. He attracted large audiences there, and in Phila., Balt., and other cities, but, by his capricious and contemptuous conduct, disgusted everybody, and finally, by his habitual intemperance and debauched habits, destroyed his constitution, and hastened his death. — See Cooke's Life, by Wm. Dunlap, 1812, and his novel, "Thirty Years Ago," pub. 1836.

Cook, HENRY F., brig.-gen. C. S. A., b Mpi.; killed at Bristow Station, Va., Oct. 14 1863. In the Mex. war he was 1st lieut. in Jeff. Davis's regt.; was disting. and wounded at

Digitized by Google

Monterey; com. company C at Buena Vista; joined the Confed. army in 1861, and rose by successive steps to brig.-gen. in 1863.

Cook, JAMES, an illustrious English navigator, b. Marton in Yorkshire, Oct. 27, 1728; d. Feb. 14, 1779. Owing to the poverty of his parents, his education was limited. He entered the merchant-service; in 1755, embarked in "The Eagle," man-of-war, obtained the notice of the capt., and was May 15, 1759, app. master of "The Murray," in which he joined the fleet engaged in the siege of Quebec. Employed to take the soundings of the St. Lawrence, between Orleans and the north shore, as well as to survey the most dangerous parts of the river below Quebec, those important services he most successfully performed in the very face of the French encampment. Having assisted at the recapture of Newfoundland, he, in 1762, returned to Eng. Early in 1763, he went out, with Capt. Greaves, to Newfoundland, as surveyor of its coasts, and in the following year accomp. Sir Hugh Pallisser to Labrador and Newfoundland, as marine surveyor. Lieut. in 1768, he was app. to the com. of "The Endeavor," in which he sailed to Otaheite, accomp. by Mr. Banks and Dr. Solander to observe the transit of Venus in 1769. This object accomplished, Cook proceeded upon his voyage of discovery, and, after encountering many difficulties, "The Endeavor" arrived in Eng. on the 11th of June, 1771; and, on the 29th of Aug., Cook was made a capt. in the navy. After another voyage, commenced the following year, in which many valuable discoveries were made, and which lasted 3 years, he was promoted to the rank of post-captain, Aug. 9, 1775. In 1776, he received the Copleian gold medal from the Roy. Soc. His third and last exped. had for its object to determine whether a maritime communication existed between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans in the arctic regions of the globe. Unhappily, while touching at Owhyhee, Cook was murdered by the natives. A medal in commemoration of him was struck by order of the Roy. Society.

Cooke, JAY, financier, b. Sandusky, O., Aug. 10, 1821. Francis Cooke, the emig. ancestor, came over in "The Mayflower." Eleutheros, his father, a prominent lawyer, and M.C. of Ohio, d. Dec. 28, 1864. Jay went in 1838 to Phila., entered the banking-house of E. W. Clark & Co., in which he became at 21 a partner; retired in 1858, and in 1861 established the firm of Jay Cooke & Co. By his energy and business-capacity, Mr. Cooke succeeded in popularizing the govt. loans, and thereby contributed materially to the success of the Union arms. Now (1871), of the banking-firm of Cooke, McCulloch, & Co., London.

Cook, JOHN, brig.-gen. vols., b. Belleville, Ill., June 12, 1825. Left an orphan with a large fortune at an early age, he entered the coll. at Jacksonville, but was not a graduate, and in 1855 was mayor of Springfield. Made col. 1st Ill. vols. April, 1861; and for gallantry at the capture of Fort Donelson, where he com. a brigade, was made brig.-gen. March 22, 1862.

Cooke, JOHN ESTEN, novelist, son of J. R. Cooke, b. Winchester, Va., Nov. 3, 1830. His family removed to Richmond in 1839, where he commenced the practice of law in 1851. He served in the Confed. army, first as a private of art., and afterward on the staff of Stewart and other generals, throughout the war. He wrote a Life of Stonewall Jackson, which appeared in New York, as the work of John M. Daniel. Since the war, he has written much for the N.Y. World. Author of "Fairfax," and "Mohun," "Hilt to Hilt," "Hammer and Rapier," "Out of the Foam," "Leather Stocking and Silk," "The Virginia Comedians," and "The Youth of Jefferson." In 1855, he pub. "Ellie, or the Human Comedy;" in 1856, "The Last of the Foresters," and in 1858, "Henry St. John, Gentleman." He has written much for the Southern Literary Messenger, Harper's Magazine, and other periodicals. He has also written poems, among them a tribute to Dr. E. K. Kane.

Cooke, JOHN H., brig.-gen. in the War of 1812; d. Richmond, Va., June, 1866, a. 86. He was a successful farmer and vigorous agricultural writer.

Cooke, JOHN P., composer and musician, b. Chester, Eng., 1820; d. N.Y. City, 4 Nov. 1865. His father was a musician and actor. After leading the orchestra of the Adelphi, the Strand, and Astley's London, he came in 1850 to N.Y. as leader at Burton's Theatre. He composed and arranged the music for the Winter's Tale, Midsummer Night's Dream, and other Shaksperian plays; also for the Sea of Ice, and furnished many other compositions of merit.

Cooke, JOSEPH PLATT, delegate to the Old Congress, 1784–8, b. Ct., 1730; d. Danbury, Ct., 1816. Y.C. 1750.

Cooke, NICHOLAS, gov. of R.I., b. Providence, Feb. 3, 1717; d. Sept. 14, 1782. Dep. gov. from May to Oct. 1775; gov. of R.I. from Oct. 1775 until May, 1778. "He merited and won the approbation of his fellow-citizens, and was honored with the friendship and confidence of Washington:" such is the inscription upon his monument in Providence burying-ground.

Cooke, PARSONS, D.D., Cong. clergyman and writer, b. Hadley, Ms., Feb. 18, 1800; d. Lynn, Ms., Feb. 12, 1864. Wms. Coll. 1822. He studied theology. June 26, 1826, he was ord. pastor of a newly-organized church in Ware, Ms.; removed to Portsmouth in 1836, and, a few months after, became pastor of the First Church at Lynn, remaining there until he died. In 1840, he edited the N. E. Puritan, and subsequently the Boston Recorder. An active controversialist, he pub. in 1829 a sermon on "The Exclusiveness of Unitarianism," and was constantly in controversy with the new-school Calvinistic Congregationalists, or other religious denominations.

Cooke, PHILLIP PENDLETON, poet, son of J. R. Cooke, b. Martinsburg, Va., Oct. 26, 1816; d. Jan. 20, 1850. N. J. Coll. 1834. Adm. to the bar in 1837. He pub. several poems in the Knickerbocker Magazine, contrib. to the Southern Lit. Messenger, and in 1847 pub. "Froissart Ballads, and Other Poems." At the time of his death, he was publishing serially "The Chevalier Merlin," an historical prose poem. His best pieces are the short lyrics, "Florence Vane," "To My Daughter Lily," and "Rosa Lee." The first of them has been translated into many languages, and taken as a theme for music by celebrated composers. — Appleton's New Amer. Cycl.

Digitized by Google

Cooke, Philip St. George, brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. Berkeley Co., Va., 1809. West Point, 1827. Adj. 6th Inf. at battle of the Bad Axe; capt. May 31, 1835; lieut.-col. com. batt. of vols. in Mex. war, 1846–7, in Cal.; maj 2d Drags., 16 Feb. 1847; brev. lieut.-col. for merit. services in Cal., 20 Feb. 1847; col. 2d Drags., 14 June, 1858; brig.-gen. 12 Nov. 1861; brev. maj.-gen. 13 Mar. 1865; com. and disting. in conflict with Apaches in New Mex., Apr. 8, 1854; defeated the Comanches at Cineguilas, New Mex., in 1855; com. in Kansas during the troubles there in 1856–7, performing that delicate duty to the satisfaction of all; took part in the Utah exped.; com. all the regular cavalry in the Potomac Army, particularly in the siege of Yorktown, and battles of Williamsburg, Gaines's Mill, and Glendale. Author of "Scenes and Adventures in the Army," Phila., 1856. — Cullum.

Cook, Russell S., Cong. clergyman, b. N. Marlboro', Ms., March 6, 1811; d. Pleasant Valley, N.Y., Sept. 4, 1864. He studied at the Auburn Theol. Sem., and was settled over the church at Lanesboro', Ms., in 1836–8. Losing his voice, he connected himself with the Tract Society, of which he was a sec. from 1839 to 1856. Devoting himself to the system of American colportage, he was instrumental in placing religious reading in almost every dwelling in the land, still further aiding the objects of the society by establishing the American Messenger in 1843. Visiting Europe in 1853 and in 1856, he succeeded in establishing the colporter enterprise in Scotland. — Appleton's Ann. Cyclop., 1864.

Cook, Thomas, R.C. bishop of Three Rivers, Canada, from 1852; d. Montreal, 30 Apr. 1870, a. 78.

Cook, W. H., M.D., b. N.Y. City, 1832. Prof. therap. in Phys. Med. Coll., O. Author of "Treatise on Dysentery," 1855; "Principles and Practice of Physio. Med. Surgery," Cincin., 8vo, 1857.

Cookman, George G., Meth. preacher, b. Kingston-upon-Hull, Eng., 1800; lost at sea March, 1841, in the steamer "President." In 1821, he came to the U.S. on business, but obtained a license to preach; went to Phila. in 1825, and, at the ensuing session of the Phila. conference, was adm. into the travelling connection. In 1833, he was transferred to the Balt. conference, and was twice chaplain to Congress. His preaching was nervous and elegant, and attracted large crowds. A vol. of his speeches was pub. 18mo, by the Meth. B.C.

Cooley, Dr. Abiel A., inventor of friction-matches; d. Hartford, Ct., Aug. 18, 1858, a. 76. He was also the inventor of one of the first power-presses in use, as well as of an ingenious shingle-machine, and was the first to apply the cam-movement to pumps.

Cooley, James Ewing, b. Ms., 1802. Pub. "The American in Egypt," &c., in 1839–40, 8vo, N.Y., 1842.

Cooley, Thomas M., jurist, b. Attica, N.Y., 6 Jan. 1824. Removed to Mich. in 1843; was adm. to the bar at Adrian in 1846, where he settled permanently in 1848. In 1857, he was app. to compile the statutes of Mich., which were pub. in 2 vols. Reporter of the Supreme Court, 1858–64, and pub. 8 vols. of reports; Jay prof. of law in Mich. U. since 1850, and, since 1864, a justice of the Supreme Court. He has also pub. a "Digest of Mich. Reports," 1866, and a "Treatise on Constitutional Limitations of the Legis. Power of the States," 1868. — Lanman.

Coolidge, Carlos, LL.D. (Mid. Coll. 1849), gov. of Vt., 1848–50, b. Windsor, Vt., 1792; d. there Aug. 15, 1866. Mid. Coll. 1811. He practised law in Windsor 52 years; was State atty. for the Co. in 1831–6; representative, 1834–7 and 1839–42; speaker in 1836 and 1839–42; and senator, 1855–7.

Coombe, Thomas, D.D. (Dub. U. 1781), Pr.-Ep. divine and loyalist, b. Phila., 1747; d. London, 15 Aug. 1822. Phila. Coll. 1766. Ord. by the bishop of London in 1769. App. chaplain to the Marquis of Rockingham in 1771; app. assist. min. of Christ Church, Phila., in 1772, but was removed for his Toryism; went to Eng. in 1779; became chaplain-in-ordinary to the king in 1794; prebendary of Canterbury in 1800, and, in 1808, rector of St. Michael's Queenhithe. Many years minister of Curzon-st. Chapel, an impressive speaker, and a disting. scholar. He pub. sermons, and "The Peasant of Auburn," a poem, 1783. — Gents' Mag., 1822.

Cooper, Benjamin, commo. U.S.N., b. N. J.; d. Brooklyn, N.Y., June 1, 1850, a. 57. He entered the service, Jan. 16, 1809, and served with distinction under Lawrence in "The Hornet," in the action with "The Peacock," Feb. 24, 1813. Lieut. Dec. 9, 1814; master, Apr. 24, 1828; capt. 28 Feb. 1838.

Cooper, George H., capt. U.S.N., b. N.Y., July 27, 1821. Midshipm. Aug. 14, 1837; lieut. May 8, 1851; com. July 16, 1862; capt. Dec. 2, 1867. He served in the Florida war in 1837, and in the Mexican war, 1846–7; present at Tabasco, Alvarado, and Tuspan; com. supply-steamer "Massachusetts," 1862; steamer "Mercedita," S.A.B. squad., 1863; was 7 weeks in com. of monitor "Sangamon," inside of Charleston Roads, on picket-duty, constantly shelling Fort Sumter and the batteries on Sullivan's Island; stationed at Stono Inlet, S.C., co-operating with the army, and frequently engaged; com. steamer "Sonoma," S.A.B. squad., 1863–4; steamer "Glaucus," E.G.B. squad., 1864–5; steamer "Winooskie," special service, 1866–7.

Cooper, James, brig.-gen. vols., b. Frederick Co., Md., May 8, 1810; d. Columbus, O., Mar. 28, 1863. Wash. Coll., Pa., 1831. He studied law with Thaddeus Stevens; was adm. to the bar in 1834; was M.C. in 1839–43, and a leading advocate of the tariff of 1842; member of the State legisl. in 1843–6 and 1847, when he was speaker, introducing and carrying through, after a violent struggle, measures to relieve the credit of the State, then on the verge of permanent repudiation; travelled in Europe in 1847; was made atty.-gen. in 1848, and U.S. senator from 1849 to 1855. In politics, he was a Whig. Authorized in 1861 to raise a brigade of loyal Marylanders, he was app. brig.-gen. May 11, 1861, and served in Va. under Fremont.

Digitized by Google

Cooper, JAMES B., commander U.S.N., b. Bucks Co., Pa., Mar. 6, 1753; d. Haddonfield, N.J., Feb. 5, 1854. He was a capt. in Lee's Legion in the Revol. War; was at Stony Point and Paulus Hook, Guilford Court House, and Eutaw Springs; was a sailing-master in the navy in the War of 1812, and served through the war; lieut. Apr. 22, 1822; commander, Sept. 8, 1841.

Cooper, JAMES FENIMORE, novelist, b. Burlington, N. J., 15 Sept. 1789; d. Cooperstown, N.Y., 14 Sept. 1851. Son of Judge Wm. He studied at Yale, but did not graduate, and in 1811, after 6 years' service in the navy, m. a Miss De Lancey, and settled at Mamaroneck, N.Y. His first work, "Precaution," pub. anonymously in 1821, was followed by "The Spy," "The Pioneer," 1823, and "The Leather-stocking Tales," which gave him great popularity. This was increased by his sea-novels, "The Pilot," "Red Rover," "Water Witch," "Two Admirals," "Wing and Wing," &c., and by "The Bravo," "Heidenmaur," and "Headsman," pub. during a visit to Europe, in 1826–33. After his return, he pub. "Letter to his Countrymen," "Homeward Bound," and "Home as Found," which somewhat lessened his popularity. Besides other works of fiction, he wrote a "History of the U.S. Navy," 2 vols., 8vo; "Battle of Lake Erie," 1843; "Lives of Amer. Naval Officers," 2 vols., 12mo; 6 vols. of "Gleanings in Europe," "Sketches of Switzerland," and a comedy performed at Burton's Theatre, N.Y., in 1850. The latter part of his life was imbittered by quarrels and lawsuits with the editorial fraternity. His later productions were unworthy the high fame which Mr. Cooper justly deserved and enjoyed.

Cooper, MYLES, LL.D. (Oxf. U. 1768), scholar and clergyman, b. Eng., 1735; d. Edinburgh, May 1, 1785. Oxford U. 1760. Afterward a Fellow of Queen's Coll. In 1761, he pub. at Oxford, by subscription, a vol. of poems. In 1762, he came to Amer., on the nomination of Archbishop Secker, as assist. of Dr. Samuel Johnson, pres. of Col. Coll., whom he succeeded in that office, May, 1763. In 1771, he visited Eng.; and on his return to N Y., on the breaking-out of the Revol., Cooper was active on the Tory side, and is said to have had a hand in the tract, "A Friendly Address to all Reasonable Americans," &c., which one of his pupils, young Alex. Hamilton, answered with signal ability. Becoming exceedingly obnoxious to the Whigs, in Apr. 1775 he and his friends received a significant hint from a pub. letter, signed "Three Millions," to fly for their lives. On the night of May 10, after destroying the guns on the battery, the mob proceeded to expel him from the coll. He escaped on board an English ship of war, in which he sailed to Eng. A poem commemorating this event was pub. by him in the Gents' Mag. for July, 1776. Dec. 13, 1776, he preached a sermon before the U. of Oxford, "On the Causes of the Present Rebellion in Amer.," which gave rise to much controversy between the Whig and Tory parties of the day. He was, until his decease, one of the ministers of the English Chapel in Edinburgh. He was a man of taste and learning; advocated, in an "Address to the Episcopalians of Va.," the app. of bishops for the Colonies. He pub. in 1774 "The Amer. Querist."—Duyckinck.

Cooper, PETER, a benevolent and enterprising manuf., b. N. Y. City, Feb. 12, 1791. His maternal grandfather, John Campbell, was mayor of N. Y., and dep. quarterm.-gen. during the Revol. war. His father, also a Revol. officer, established a hat manuf., in which Peter assisted him. He afterward learned coach-making, the manuf. of cabinet-ware, then the grocery business, and finally engaged in the manuf. of glue and isinglass, about 1828. In 1830, he erected extensive iron-works at Canton, near Baltimore. He next erected a rolling and wire mill in the city of N. Y., in which he first successfully applied anthracite to the puddling of iron. In 1845, he removed the machinery to Trenton, N.J., where he erected the largest rolling-mill then in the U. S. for the manuf. of railroad-iron, and there first rolled wrought-iron beams for fire-proof buildings. At Baltimore, he built the first locomotive-engine on this continent. Pres. of the N. Y., Newfoundland, and London Teleg. Co.; pres. of the Amer. Teleg. Co., and of the N. A. Teleg. Assoc. He has served in both branches of the N. Y. common council, and was a prominent advocate of the construction of the Croton aqueduct. In pursuance of his great object, the education and elevation of the industrial classes, the "Union for the Advancement of Science and Art." commonly called the Cooper Institute, has been established in N. Y., at the intersection of 3d and 4th Avenues, at a cost of over $500,000, devoted, with all its rents and profits, to the instruction and elevation of the working-classes of N. Y. It includes a school of design for females, evening courses of instruction for mechanics and apprentices in the application of the sciences to the business of life, a free reading-room, galleries of art, and collections of modern inventions, and a polytechnic school.

Cooper, SAMUEL, D.D. (U. of Edinburgh, 1767), an eminent divine and patriot, b. Boston, Mar. 28, 1725; d. Dec. 29, 1783. H. U. 1743. Son of the Rev. William. At the age of 20, he commenced preaching in the Brattle-st. Church, where he was ord. colleague with Dr. Colman, May 21, 1746, continuing his ministry until his death. He took an early and decided part in the politics of his time. In 1754, he wrote the "Crisis," in opposition to the "Excise Act" then in contemplation. From the time of the Stamp Act, some of the best political pieces in the Boston Gazette were from his pen. The letters of Gov. Hutchinson were sent him by Dr. Franklin, with an injunction not to allow their publication. He placed them in the hands of a friend, whose disregard of the prohibition, though a breach of private confidence involving serious consequences, was a great public benefit. Dr. Cooper was a member of several religious and literary societies, and was the first vice-pres. of the Amer. Acad. of Arts and Sciences. He was remarkable in prayer, in the taste and elegance of his sermons, and as a critic, and was the esteemed corresp. of many disting. Europeans.

Digitized by Google

Cooper, GEN. SAMUEL, jun., b. N. Y., ab. 1796. West Point, 1815. Aide-de-camp to Gen. Macomb from May, 1828, to 1836; capt. 11 June, 1836; assist. adj.-gen. July 7, 1838; chief of staff to Col. Worth in Florida war, 1841–2, and in action of Pilaklikaha, 19 Apr. 1842; brev. col. "for meritorious conduct in the war with Mexico," May 30, 1848; adj.-gen. of the army, July 15, 1852; resigned March 7, 1861, and app. adj.-gen. in the rebel army, standing first in its list of generals. Bro.-in-law of J. M. Mason of Va., formerly U. S. senator. Author of "Concise System of Instruction for the Militia and Vols. of U. S.," Phila., 1836; d. Alexandria, Va. Dec. 3, 1876.

Cooper, SUSAN FENIMORE, b. 1815, eldest dau. of the novelist, and author of "Rural Hours," 1850; "Rhyme and Reason of Country Life," 1854; an annotated edition of an English work, the "Journal of a Naturalist," 1852; and, in 1858, a beautiful little tribute to the character of Washington, given in aid of the fund for the purchase of Mt. Vernon. She has also contrib. to various popular periodicals.

Cooper, THOMAS, M.D., LL.D., natural philosopher, politician, and author, b. London, Oct. 22, 1759; d. Columbia, S.C., May 11, 1839. Educated at Oxford, he afterward studied law and medicine; was adm. to the bar, and travelled a circuit for a few years, and, with Watt the inventor, was sent by the Democ. clubs of Eng. to those of France, where he sided with the Girondists. Called to account for this by Mr. Burke in the house of commons, Cooper replied with a violent pamphlet. While in France, he had learned to make chlorine from common salt; and he became a bleacher and calico-printer in Manchester, but was unsuccessful. In 1795, he established himself as a lawyer in Pa., whither his friend Priestley had also emigrated. Uniting himself with the Democrats, he violently attacked Pres. Adams in a newspaper in 1799; was tried for libel, and sentenced to 6 months' imprisonment and a fine of $400. He became a land commissioner in 1806, and overcame the difficulties with the Ct. claimants in Luzerne Co., but, being made judge, became obnoxious to members of his own party, and was removed in 1811, on a charge of arbitrary conduct. He was an efficient supporter of the administrations of Jefferson, Madison, and Monroe. He successively occupied the chair of chemistry in Dick. Coll., in the U. of Pa., and in Col. Coll., S. C., becoming pres. of the latter in 1820, discharging also the duties of prof. of chemistry and political economy. On his retirement in 1834, he was app. to revise the State statutes, 4 vols. of which he had completed when he died. He possessed great versatility and extensive knowledge, displaying, as a lecturer, great erudition, and was an admirable talker. In philosophy, he was a materialist, and in religion a free-thinker. In the nullification contest he was an ultra State-rights' man. He pub. "Information Concerning America," Lond., 1794; a collection of political essays, reprinted from a Phila. newspaper in 1800; a translation of the "Institutes of Justinian," 1812; a work on "Med. Jurisprudence," 1819; 2 of the 5 vols. of "Emporium of Arts and Sciences," Phila., 1812–14; "Lectures on the Elements of Polit. Economy," Charleston, 1826; "Letters on the Slave Trade," 1787; "Tracts, Ethical, Theological, and Political," 1790; "The Bankrupt Law of America compared with that of Eng.," Phila., 8vo, 1801; "Account of the Trial of Thomas Cooper of Northumberland," 1800; "Introd. Lecture at Carlisle Coll.," 1812; "Observations on the Writings of Priestley;" two Essays, "Foundation of Civil Govt.," and "On the Constitution of the U. S.," 1826; and many vigorous polit. pamphlets.

Cooper, THOMAS APTHORPE, actor, b. Lond., 1776; d. Bristol, Pa., Apr. 21, 1849. He received a good education; became the ward of Holcroft and Wm. Godwin on the death of his father, and at 17 made his début upon the stage in Stephen Kemble's company at Edinburgh. In 1795, he appeared with success at Covent Garden, as Hamlet and Macbeth, and Dec. 9, 1796, made his début in Phila., with Wignell's company, as Hamlet. He soon obtained a considerable reputation as a tragedian, and in 1802 returned to Eng., where, for nearly 3 years, he was one of the chief actors on the London boards. Returning to the U.S. in Nov. 1804, he soon after became a lessee of the N.Y. theatre. In 1810, he again visited Eng. He continued on the stage until late in life. App. military storekeeper at Frankford, Pa., in 1841, by Pres. Tyler, whose son m. Cooper's dau. He was some years insp. to the N.Y. and Phila. custom-houses. He was 6 feet in height, and possessed a remarkably fine person.

Cooper, WILLIAM, clergyman, b. Boston, 1694; d. there Dec. 13, 1743. H.U. 1712. Ord. 23 May, 1716, colleague pastor with Mr. Colman of Brattle Street, Boston, where he preached till his death. In 1737, he was chosen pres. of H.U., but declined the trust. He excelled in prayer, and was an eminent preacher, having a pleasing voice and an impressive elocution. Author of "Predestination Explained and Vindicated," 1740, repub. in 1804, and a number of sermons. WILLIAM his son, 49 years town-clerk of Boston, and an eminent patriot of the Revol., d. Boston, Nov. 28, 1809, a. 89.

Coote, SIR EYRE, a British gen.; d. Dec. 10, 1823, a. 66. Nephew of the celebrated Sir Eyre Coote. Ensign 37th regt. Apr. 15, 1774; lieut. July, 1776; capt. Aug. 10, 1778; maj. 47th, Feb. 20, 1783; col. Jan. 21, 1796; maj.-gen. 1798; lieut.-gen. 1805; gen. June, 1814. He served at the battle of Brooklyn, L.I., at the reduction of Fort Washington, and in the expeds. to R.I. and the Chesapeake, the battles of Brandywine, Germantown, Monmouth, and the attack on Mud Island. He was present at the siege of Charleston, the campaign in Va., and was taken at Yorktown. He served under Gen. Grey in the W. Indies in 1793–5; was severely wounded in the Ostend exped. in 1798, and served under Abercrombie in Egypt. On his return to Eng., he received thanks of parliament, the order of the Bath, and afterward the Turkish order of the Crescent. Lieut.-gov. of Jamaica, 1805–8. Publicly disgraced, and deprived of all rank, in consequence of an abominable act committed in one of the charitable institutions of England. — Philipart, &c.

Digitized by Google

Cope, THOMAS PYM, merchant, b. Lancaster Co., Pa., Aug. 26, 1768; d. Phila., Nov. 22, 1854. Son of Caleb, a Quaker of Lancaster, Pa., who protected André from a mob, while a prisoner in 1775. Said to be maternally descended from John Pym. He entered a counting-house in Phila. in 1786; began on his own account in 1790, importing his own goods; established in 1821 the first line of packets between Phila. and Liverpool, and acquired great wealth. He was active in alleviating the small-pox sufferers in 1797; was a a member of the city council ab. 1800; an efficient member of the committee for introducing water into the city; served in the State legisl. in 1807, and in the State Const. Conv.; was pres. of the Board of Trade and the Mercantile Library Co., and was an executor of Girard's will, and a trustee of the bank, and subsequently a director of the Girard Coll. He was also an efficient worker in completing the Chesapeake and Del. Canal, and in securing the construction of the Pa. Railroad. EDWARD D. COPE, naturalist, author of "The Origin of Genera," "Extinct Batrachia and Reptilia of N.A.," "Our Own Birds of the U.S.," &c., is a grandson of Thos. P., and son of Alfred.— See Hunt's Amer. Merchants; Simpson.

Copley, JOHN SINGLETON, painter, b. Boston, July 3, 1737; d. Lond., Sept. 9, 1813. Like West, he was self-taught; and some of his pieces executed at Boston, and, to use his own words, "before he had seen any tolerable picture," were unsurpassed by his later productions. After acquiring considerable reputation, particularly by his portraits (among which are those of Samuel Adams, Thos. Hancock and lady, W. W. Boylston, Judge Tyng, Judge Foster, Mrs. D. Sargent, &c.), he, in 1774, proceeded by way of Eng. to Rome, where he arrived in Aug., and returned to Lond., with the intention of settling there, late in 1775, where he was joined by his wife and children, and devoted himself to port. painting. He was introduced by West to the Roy. Acad., of which he was adm. an associate in 1777. His historical paintings soon rendered his name famous, and procured for it, in 1783, the honorable addition of R. A. His first and most popular composition was "The Death of the Earl of Chatham." He afterwards produced "The Death of Major Pierson," "The Siege of Gibraltar," "The Arrest of the Five Members, by Charles the First," "De Winter's Defeat by Admiral Duncan," and sketched, but left unfinished, a picture on the subject of Nelson's fall at Trafalgar, &c. He also painted many portraits, his last work being a portrait of his son, Lord Lyndhurst. He m. the dau. of Richard Clarke, one of the consignees of the tea destroyed in 1773. His dau. Elizab. m. Gardiner Greene of Boston, d. there 1 Feb. 1866, a. 95. Copley was peculiar both in manner and dress. As an artist, his chief merit consists in his coloring and drawing.

Coppée, HENRY, LL.D. (U. of Pa., and Un. Coll., 1866), author, b. Savannah, Ga., Oct. 15, 1821. West Point, 1845. He was at Y.C. in 1836–7. Was 3 years a student of civil engineering, and employed in the construction of the Central Railroad from Savannah to Macon, Ga. He served through the Mexican war, and was brev. capt. for the battles of Contreras and Churubusco, Aug. 20, 1847; resigned 30 June, 1855. From 1848 to 1855, he was instructor in French, and assist. prof. of ethics and English studies, at West Point. Prof. of belles-lettres in the U. of Pa., 1855–66; since then president of Lehigh U., Bethlehem, Pa. Member of several scientific and historical societies. He has pub. "Elements of Logic," 1858; "Elements of Rhetoric," 1859; "Select Academic Speaker," 1861; "Field Manual of Evolutions of the Line," 1861; "Field Manual of Battalion Drill," 1861; "Field Manual of Courts-Martial," 1863; "Grant and his Campaigns," 1866; a translation of Marmont's "Esprit des Institutions Militaires," 1862; he has edited the "Gallery of Famous Poets," "Songs of Praise," 1866; "Gallery of Famous Poetesses," 1859–60. In 1864–6, he edited the U.S. Service Magazine.— Duyckinck.

Copway, GEORGE (Kah-ge-ga-gah-bowk), an Ojibway chief. Has pub. "Acts of the Apostles in Ojibway Lang.," 1838; "The Ojibway Conquest," 1850; "Life and Travels" (by himself), 6th ed., 1847; "History and Sketches of the Ojibway Nation," illustrated by Darley, 1851, and "Organization of a New Indian Terr.," &c., 1850.

Coram, THOMAS, a philanthropic English mariner, b. ab. 1667; d. London, Mar. 29, 1751, a. 84. Having been master of a merchant-vessel trading to the American Colonies, he is usually styled Capt. Coram. He settled in Taunton, Ms., ab. 1692, and owned a farm on the river, now within the limits of Berkeley, where he constructed vessels, probably for the Newfoundland fishery. He is styled "shipwright of Boston," in Prov. Laws, act of Apr. 16, 1701. He left in 1703, and gave his farm toward erecting an Episcopal church in Taunton. He was the projector of the Foundling Hospital, in promoting the establishment of which he seduously exerted himself during many years, till he had procured a royal charter for the institution. He also promoted the settlement of Ga. and Nova Scotia; and, through his advice, a bounty was given on naval stores imported from the Colonies. After he relinquished his profession, his time was wholly employed in contriving and executing various schemes of public utility. He seems to have neglected his private affairs; and, towards the close of his life, a subscription was raised for his support. — Drake's Baylies's New Plym.

Corbin, THOMAS G., capt. U.S.N., b. Va., Aug. 13, 1820. Midshipm. May 15, 1838; lieut. June 10, 1852; com. July 16, 1862; capt. July 25, 1866. Attached to steam frigate "W[illegible]" S[illegible] block. squad., 1861–3; at the [illegible]nuregard and Walk-sr, Port Royal, Nov. 7, 1861; com. of midshipm. at Naval Acad., 1863; steamer "Augusta," 1864–5; fleet-capt. W.I. squad., 1865–6; steam sloop "Guerriere," flag-ship S.A. squad., 1868. — Hamersly.

Digitized by Google

Corcoran, MICHAEL, brig.-gen. vols., b. Carrowkill Co., Sligo, Ireland, Sept. 21, 1827; d. Dec. 22, 1863, near Fairfax C.H., Va. He came to America in 1849, obtained a clerkship in the N.Y. City post-office, and first came into public notice as col. of the 69th N.Y. militia. On the call for troops, April, 1861, he took the field with his com., and disting. himself highly at the first battle of Bull run, where he was wounded, and taken prisoner. He was confined successively at Richmond, Charleston, Columbia, Salisbury, N.C., and other places, and was one of the officers selected for execution, had the Federal authorities carried out their threats of punishing the crews of captured Confederate privateers as pirates. Exchanged Aug. 15, 1862, he was made brig.-gen., dating from July 21, 1861. He afterward recruited an "Irish Legion," and served in N.C., at the battles of the Nausemond River and Suffolk, in April, 1862, and checked the advance of the enemy upon Norfolk. He died of injuries received by a fall from his horse.

Cordova, FRANCISCO FERNANDEZ DE, discoverer of Mexico; d. 1518. Feb. 8, 1517, this navigator sailed from Cuba with Juan Alaminas, a pilot who had accomp. Columbus in his fourth voyage, steered for the continent, and in March ranged the coast of Yucatan, where he lost many men in his various encounters with the natives. It appears certain that Cordova left two of his companions in this region; for in 1518, when Grijaloa explored the country, he was informed that one of them survived, but was unable to procure his release. After exploring the coast, and remarking the grand monumental structures of Yucatan, he was forced by a tempest to abandon its shores. He visited Fla. 5 years after the exped. of Ponce De Leon, and, on returning to Cuba, d. ten days after his arrival, of wounds received from the natives.

Cordova, JOSE M., a Colombian gen., b. Antoquia, New Granada, 1747; killed at Santuario, Oct. 17, 1829. The son of a rich merchant of the Spanish party, Cordova, on the contrary, when 15 years of age, joined the Independents. His conduct at the battle of Boyaca, Aug. 8, 1819, gained for him, from Bolivar the victor, the rank of col.; and he was charged with the expulsion of the royalists from Antoquia. This duty he successfully performed; and his first care was to levy on his father the sum of 10,000 piastres. His exactions occasioned his recall, and he disting. himself anew in many combats on the banks of the Magdalina. By a skilful manœuvre he captured a Spanish fleet of 27 vessels at anchor in the port of Teneriffe, and, after a bloody battle, took possession of the town. Named general, Cordova was in the Colombian division left by Bolivar in Peru. Dec. 9, 1824, Cordova took the greatest share in the victory of Ayacucho, and he was named gen. of division on the field of battle. Covering his ambition with the pretext of establishing a federal govt., Cordova conspired many times against Bolivar, and openly revolted in Aug. 1829, but found few partisans. Hunted at Santuario, Oct. 17, by the united forces of Andradu, Ureta, and O'Leary, he defended himself with vigor, but fell at length, covered with wounds.

Coreal (ko-rā-ăl'), FRANCISCO, a Spanish traveller, b. Cartagena, 1648; was in the W. Indies in 1666–97, and left an interesting narrative, which was pub. in French in 3 vols., 1722.

Corlet, ELIJAH, an early teacher of Cambridge, Ms., b. Lond., 1611; d. Feb. 24, 1687. Oxford U. 1627. He taught the grammar school at C. 46 years. The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel compensated him for preparing Indian scholars for the university. N. Walter pub. an elegy on his death, in blank verse.

Cornbury, EDWARD HYDE, lord, gov. of N.Y.; d. Lond., Apr. 1, 1723. Son of the 2d Earl of Clarendon, and one of the first of the household troops to go over to the Prince of Orange. In return, he was made gov. of N.Y., where he arrived, May 3, 1702. He was rapacious and bigoted to such a degree as to have left the memory of the worst gov. ever app. to the Colony. He imprisoned two ministers sent out from Lond., for preaching without license. It was not unusual for him to dress in women's costume, and then patrol the fort in which he resided. He earned the contempt, as well as the hatred, of the colonists. He was removed from office in 1708, when his creditors had him taken into custody, but, after the death of his father, returned to Eng., and succeeded to the earldom.

Cornelius, ELIAS, D.D., educator and missionary, b. Somers, N.Y. 1794; d. Hartford, Ct., Feb. 12, 1832. Y.C. 1813. His father, surgeon's mate of Col. Angell's regt., and at one time an inmate of the "Jersey" prisonship, d. Somers, N.Y., June 13, 1823, a. 65. He studied theology, and in 1816 became an agent of the A. B. C. F. M., and visited the Cherokee and Chickasaw Indians. The winter of 1818 was spent at N. Orleans in the employ of the Missionary Society of Ct. Installed colleague with Dr. Worcester at Salem in July, 1819, he was dismissed in Sept. 1826, having been app. sec. of the Amer. Education Society. In Oct. 1831, he was chosen sec. of the A. B. C. F. M. Contrib. to the Quarterly Journal, and pub. annual reports of the Education Society. — See Memoir, by B. B. Edwards, 1833.

Cornell, GEN. EZEKIEL, Revol. officer of Scituate, R.I. App. in 1775 lieut.-col. of Hitchcock's regt.; present at the siege of Boston; dep. adj.-gen. Oct. 1, 1776, and subsequently brig.-gen. and com. of the brigade of State troops; in service 3 years and 3 mos.; disb. Mar. 16, 1780. This force was of great service in protecting the State during the British occupation. Member of the Cont. Congress, 1780–3, and chairman of the military committee. He was a mechanic before the war, but was self-educated, and established a valuable library in his native town.

Cornell, WM. MASON, M.D., D.D. (Jeff. Coll. 1864), LL.D. (West. U. 1863), b. Berkeley, Ms., 16 Oct. 1802. B.U. 1827. Ord. 19 Jan. 1830; pastor 1st Cong. Church, Woodstock, Ct., 1832–4, and of the Trinit. Church, Quincy, 1834–9. He then studied medicine, and since 1845 has pract. chiefly in Boston. Author of some med. treatises, and contrib. to many med. and religious periodicals. Editor of the Journal of Health, 1846–9. He now edits Pastor and People, and Guardian of Health, and is preparing a medical dictionary. With a feeble constitution, Dr. C. has performed a large amount of literary labor.

Digitized by Google

Corning, ERASTUS, merchant, and M.C. 1857–9, 1861–3, and 1865–7; b. Norwich, Ct., Dec. 14, 1794; d. Albany, Apr. 9, 1872. At 13 he entered the hardware store of his uncle, Benj. Smith of Troy, N.Y., the bulk of whose property he subseq. inherited. In 1814, he removed to Albany, where he established the well-known house of Erastus Corning & Co. Alderman of the city, and 3 years mayor. He was also, for several years, an influential railroad, bank, and Canal Co. pres.; for several terms, a member of the State legisl. In 1863, he retired from the iron-business with a fortune of 5 millions. Member of the peace congress, Mar. 1861; delegate to the State Const. Conv. 1867.

Cornplanter (Garyan-wah-gah), a celebrated Seneca chief, b. Conewaugus on the Genesee River; d. at the Seneca Reservation, Pa., Feb. 17, 1836, a. ab. 100. He was a half-breed, the son of John O'Bail, an Indian trader. He is first noticed as the leader of a war-party of Senecas, in alliance with the French against the English; was present at Braddock's defeat, and, at the period of the Revol., was one of those who spread destruction over the frontier settlements in N.Y. and the Valley of Wyoming. During the war, he was the most inveterate foe of America, for which he ever after manifested sincere friendship. He, with his associate, Red Jacket, was for many years the counsellor and protector of the interests of his people. He made great efforts to stop intemperance in his nation, and was the first and most eloquent temperance-lecturer in America. In his later years, he cultivated a farm on the Alleghany River.

Cornwallis, CHARLES, Earl and Marquis, a British gen., b. 31 Dec. 1738; d. Ghazepore, India, 5 Oct. 1805. Eldest son of the first earl, before whose d., in 1762, he was styled Lord Broome. Educated at Eton and Cambridge, he was a capt. in the army at the age of 20; was aide-de-camp to Lord Granby in the German campaign of 1761, and, though an aide-de-camp and favorite of the king, opposed in the house of lords the measures which caused the Amer. war. Notwithstanding this, he accepted a com., and, as maj.-gen., took part in the exped. under Sir Peter Parker, which attacked Charleston in June, 1776, and which failed in consequence of the gallant defence of Fort Moultrie. In Aug., he com. the reserve of Howe's army, which drove the Americans from L.I., and through the Jerseys, but was outgeneralled by Washington at Trenton. He displayed great gallantry at the battle of Brandywine, and com. the detachment which took possession of Phila., 24 Sept. 1777; shortly after which he returned to Eng., and on his examination before the house of commons, respecting the conduct of Gen. Howe, testified strongly in his favor. He was present at the capture of Charleston in May, 1780; was made com. of the dist. of S.C.; defeated Gen. Gates at Camden, 16 Aug. 1780; gained an unimportant advantage over Gen. Greene at Guilford, 15 Mar. 1781; and having invaded Va., and occupied Yorktown, his embarkation thence was prevented by the fleet of DeGrasse, and he was compelled to surrender his army of about 8,000 men to the combined forces of Washington and Rochambeau, 19 Oct. 1781, virtually ending the war. He was the ablest and most energetic of the British gens. employed in the Revol. war. He endeavored to place the blame of his capture on Sir H. Clinton, who repelled the charge; and Cornwallis pub. an "Answer" to Clinton's strictures upon his conduct. App. in 1786 gov.-gen. and com.-in-chief in India. In the war with Tippoo Saib, he took Bungalore in 1791; was victorious at Seringapatam in 1792, and compelled as the price of peace the cession of half his domains. Returning to Eng. in 1793, he was made a marquis, and master-gen. of the ordnance. Lord-lieut. of Ireland in 1798, he pacified the rebels by a moderate policy, negotiated the treaty of Amiens in 1802, and in 1805 was again app. gov.-gen. of India. Napoleon said of him, "He had talent, great probity, sincerity, and never broke his word. He was the first to impress upon me a favorable opinion of Englishmen." Without brilliant talents, his enterprise, perseverance, alacrity, and caution made him a successful general.

Coronado (ko-ro-nah'-do), FRANCESCO VASQUEZ DE, an early explorer of N. Mexico; d. 1542. The exped. of Marco de Niza, in 1539, strengthened the belief in the existence of treasure among the Indian tribes north of Fla.; and a second exped. was fitted out under Coronado, which left Culiacan on the Pacific coast, in April, 1540. Passing through what is now Sonora, and crossing the Gila, he reached the little Colorado, and visited the famed cities of Cibola, but found the reports of their wealth untrue. He found there "very excellent good stone houses 3, 4, or 5 stories high, wherein are good lodgings and fair chambers, with ladders instead of stairs." Drawings of these cities and houses were sent to Spain with his report. The people all wore mantles of cotton; and cotton yarn was found in their houses. They reached the city of Quivera, the ruins of which are ab. 170 miles N.E. of El Paso. On his way back, in March, 1542, Coronado fell from his horse at Tiguex, near the Rio Grande, "and," says the narrative, "with the fall fell out his wits, and he became mad." The narrative of this exped. furnishes the first authentic account of the buffalo and the great prairies and plains of N. Mexico.

Correa da Serra, ABBÉ JOSEPH FRANCIS, LL.D. (H. U. 1823), Portuguese botanist, and minister-plenipo. to the U. S., 1816–21, b. Serpa, 1750; d. Caldas, 11 Sept. 1823. Chosen perpetual sec. of the Acad. of Sciences of Lisbon ab. 1780. He studied at Rome and Naples, and, after residing 11 years at Paris, came in 1813 to the U. S. to prosecute researches in natural history. Ab. 1814, he supplied the place of Mr. Barton as prof. of botany in Phila. He pub. several botanical papers, — one, on the soil of Ky., in Am. Philos. Trans. i., new series.

Digitized by Google

Corse, JOHN M., brig.-gen. vols. (11 Aug. 1863.) Col. 6th Ia. vols., disting. at Chickamauga. In Oct. 1864, he defended Alatoona with success against a superior force of Confederates, and com.a division of Sherman's army in its march through Ga. and the Carolinas.

Corse, MONTGOMERY D., brig.-gen. C.S.A., b. Alex., D.C., 14 Mar. 1816. Capt. in Mex. war. Engaged in banking at Alex. when the war broke out. Maj. and afterwards col. 17th Va. regt.; brig.-gen. 1 Nov. 1862. Wounded at second Bull Run, Boonsboro', and Antietam; afterward com. a brigade in Pickett's div. in the exped. against Knoxville, and captured at Sailor's Creek, Va., in Apr. 1865. Confined some months at Fort Warren.

Cortereal, GASPARD, a Portuguese navigator, b. Lisbon; d. 1501. In the year 1500, this intrepid navigator, by appointment of the King of Portugal, left the mouth of the Tagus with 2 ships, well equipped, and at his own cost, and proceeded as far as the regions since known by the name of Canada. He reached 60° north, and imposed upon many places purely Portuguese names, such as Labrador. Sebastian Cabot had visited these coasts in 1497, but he did not land upon them. After his return from this voyage, he again left Lisbon for the arctic regions, May 15, 1501, but never returned; and an exped. sent by King Emanuel in 1503 found no traces of him. In this last voyage, he seized and carried off 57 natives, most of whom were lost in his ship. The other ship reached Lisbon in Oct. 1501. His father, JOHN VAZ COSTA CORTEREAL, a gentleman of the household of Alphonso V. of Portugal, is said to have discovered Newfoundland ab. 1463.

Cortes (kor'tēz), HERNANDO, conqueror of Mexico, b. Medellin, Estremadura, 1485; d. near Seville, Dec. 2, 1547. He left the U. of Salamanca in 1501, and was bred to the legal profession, which he quitted for military life. In 1504, he went to the W. Indies; was received with favor by the gov. of Hispaniola; was employed under Diego Velasquez in pacifying a revolt, and received from his countryman Ovando a ripartimiento of Indians, and a notarial office in Azuna. He held successively several appointments, and in 1511 accomp. Velasquez to subdue and colonize Cuba. He afterwards held the office of alcalde of Santiago in the new colony. He received from Velasquez, gov. of Cuba, the com. of a fleet sent on a voyage of discovery. Nov. 18, 1518, with 10 small vessels and 600 Spaniards, he left Santiago, and arrived in the Gulf of Mexico, where he burnt his ships, that his soldiers might have no other resource than their own valor. He first landed on the shores of Mexico, in the province of Tabasco, Mar. 4, 1519. The natives were greatly terrified by the movable fortresses in which they came, the iron which covered them, the horses on which they were mounted, and the noise of the cannon. Having conquered the Tlascalans, and induced them to become his allies, Cortes entered the city of Mexico, Nov. 8, 1519, and was received by Montezuma, the sovereign of the country, as his master, and was regarded by the natives as a god, and a child of the sun. By allying himself to those caciques who were inimical to Montezuma, employing force or stratagem with others, he obtained possession of a great portion of the country. A chieftain, acting under secret orders from Montezuma, having attacked the Spaniards, Cortes repaired to the imperial palace, had the com. and his officers burnt alive, and forced the emperor, while in chains, publicly to acknowledge the sovereignty of Charles V. To this homage he added a present of a large quantity of pure gold and a number of precious stones. Meantime, the jealousy of Velasquez was so aroused by the deeds of his representative, that he sent an army against him under Narvaez. Re-enforced by fresh troops from Spain, Cortes advanced to meet them, was victorious, and, uniting the vanquished troops with his own, again made war with the Mexicans, who had revolted against Montezuma, whom they accused of treachery. Montezuma having, in the attempt to restore tranquillity, fallen a victim to the rage of the multitude, his nephew and son-in-law, Guatimozin, succeeded him, and successfully resisted the Spaniards for three months, but could not withstand their artillery. Cortes again entered Mexico; and Guatimozin, with many of his nobles, was executed in 1521, after he had undergone horrid tortures to compel him to disclose the place where his treasure was concealed. Commissioners having been sent to inspect and control his measures by the court of Madrid, which had become jealous of the power of Cortes, who had some time before been app. capt.-gen. and gov. of Mexico, his property was seized, his dependents were imprisoned; and in 1528 he returned to Spain. His reception was flattering, and he returned to Mexico in 1530, with an increase of titles, but a diminution of power. The civil administration was in charge of a viceroy; and Cortes, with the military command, had the privilege of prosecuting his discoveries. Dissension ensued; and though, in 1536, he discovered the Peninsula of California, many of his plans were frustrated, and his life imbittered; and on his final return to Spain, in 1540, he was received coldly, and neglected. Once, having forced his way through a crowd round the carriage of the king, Charles coldly inquired who he was. "I am a man," replied Cortes, "who has gained you more provinces than your father left you towns." His "Letters and Despatches," transl. by George Folsom, were pub. 8vo., N. Y., 1843.

Corwin, THOMAS, statesman, b. Bourbon Co., Ky., July 29, 1794; d. Washington, D.C., Dec. 18, 1865. His father, Matthias, many years a member of the O. legisl., removed with his family to O. in 1798, and settled near Lebanon, Warren Co. Thomas was reared on a farm, had few opportunities for education, early exhibited a talent for oratory, was in May, 1818, adm. to the bar, and at once took high rank. His eloquence was unrivalled. Member of the State legisl. in 1822–9; M. C. 1831–40. During the administrations of Jackson and Van Buren he uniformly sided with the Whigs. In 1836 and 1840, he supported Gen. Harrison.

Digitized by Google

Whig candidate for gov. of Ohio in 1840, he made speeches in almost every county of the State, and contributed more than any other person to swell Harrison's majority. Gov. 1841–2; U. S. senator 1845–50. His speech on the Mexican war is one of his ablest efforts. Sec. U. S. treas. July, 1850–Mar. 1853; M. C. 1859–61; app. minister to Mexico in 1861, but came home on the arrival of Maximillian. — See Life and Speeches, ed. by Isaac Strohm, 1859.

Cosby, WILLIAM, gov. of N. Y. from 1731 till his d., Mar. 10, 1736. He had been previously gov. of Minorca and of the Leeward Islands, and a col. in the army. His administration was turbulent and unpopular. He app. Delancy, a man of intrigue, his successor; held in contempt the elective franchise; and continued the same assembly 6 years, without permitting its dissolution.

Costa da, CLAUDIO MANOEL, a Brazilian poet, b. 1729; d. 1789. Educated at Coimbra, he returned to Brazil, and wrote "Villarica," and other poems of merit.

Cottineau, DENIS NICHOLAS, capt. in the Revol. navy of the U. S., b. Nantes, France; d. Savannah, Ga., Nov. 29, 1808, a. 62. Formerly a lieut. in the French navy, and a knight of the order of St. Louis; com. "The Pallas" in the battle of Paul Jones with the British squadron under Sir R. Pearson.

Cotton, JOHN, one of the first ministers of Boston, b. Derby, Eng., Dec. 4, 1585; d. Boston, Dec. 23, 1652. He entered Trin. Coll. at 13; afterward removed to Emanuel Coll., and became a lecturer and tutor there. Ab. 1612, he became vicar of St. Botolph's Church, Boston, Lincolnshire, where for more than 20 years he was a noted preacher and controversialist, inclining toward the Puritan worship. Cited to appear before Archbishop Laud for not kneeling at the sacrament, he fled to London, and thence to America, landing in Boston, Sept. 4, 1633. Oct. 17, he was ord. colleague with Mr. Wilson, and teacher of the Boston Church. For 19 years, he was so influential as to have been called the patriarch of New England. In 1642, he was invited, together with Hooker and Davenport, to assist the assembly of divines at Westminster, and was in favor of accepting the invitation, but was dissuaded by Hooker, who was himself forming a system of church govt. for New England. His death was brought on by exposure in crossing the ferry to Cambrige, where he was going to preach. He was a man of learning, a critic in Greek, wrote Latin with elegance, and could discourse in Hebrew. Simple and plain in his discourses, he was exceedingly effective in exciting attention to religion. His publications were numerous, mostly sermons and controversial works, the most important being his controversy with Roger Williams, and his "Power of the Keys," on the nature of church government. He defended, against Roger Williams, the interference of the civil power in religious affairs for the support of truth. A monumental tablet, with a Latin inscription by Edward Everett, was erected in St. Botolph's Church, Boston, Eng., in 1857, in his honor, chiefly by contributions from his descendants in Boston. A memoir, by John Norton, with notes by Prof. Enoch Pond, was pub. Boston, 1884. His son SEABORN (H. C. 1651) was minister of Hampton, N.H., 1660–86.

Cotton, JOHN, b. Boston, Mar. 13, 1640; d. Charleston, S.C., Sept. 18, 1699. Minister of Plymouth, Ms., from June 30, 1669, to Oct. 5, 1697; of Martha's Vineyard from 1664 to 1667; and of Charleston, S. C., in 1698–9. H. U. 1657. Son of the preceding. Eminent for his knowledge of the Indian language. He rendered great assistance to Thos. Mayhew at Martha's Vineyard; frequently preached to the aborigines while at Plymouth; and revised and corrected Eliot's Indian Bible, printed at Cambridge in 1685. His sons, John, Roland, and Theophilus, were ministers.

Cotton, JOSIAH, judge, and preacher to the Indians, b. Plymouth, Jan. 8, 1680; d. Aug. 19, 1756. H. U. 1698. Grandson of Rev. John Cotton. He studied theology, taught school in Marblehead and Plymouth, and, though not ord. over any church, preached occasionally for several years. He also gave his attention to agriculture, having a good farm in the north part of Plymouth. Having acquired considerable knowledge of the Indian language, he visited various tribes in Plymouth Colony as a missionary during nearly 40 years. He was also clerk of the County Court, register of probate, and justice of the peace. He prepared a vocabulary of the language of the Ms. Indians, pub. in Ms. Hist. Colls., vol. ii., 3d series.

Couch, DARIUS NASH, maj.-gen. vols., b. Putnam Co., N.Y., July 23, 1822. West Point, 1846. Entering the 4th Artillery, he served in the Mexican war; was brev. for gallantry at Buena Vista, Feb. 1847, and became 1st lieut. Dec. 1847. He was afterward in com. at Key West barracks; aided in suppressing the last outbreak of the Seminoles, and in 1853 made a scientific tour in Mexico, pub. under the title of "Notes of Travel." In 1855, he resigned, and engaged in mercantile pursuits in N. Y. City, but in 1859 removed to Taunton, Ms. June 15, 1861, he became col. 7th Ms. regt., and in Aug. brig.-gen., dating from May 17. On the re-organization of the Potomac Army, he was assigned the com. of a division in the corps of Gen. Keyes, with which he greatly disting. himself at the battles of Fair Oaks, Williamsburg, and Malvern Hills. Promoted to maj.-gen. July 4, 1862, he took part in the battle of Antietam, in Franklin's corps, and was soon after put in com. of the 2d (late Sumner's) army corps. He took a prominent part in Burnside's operations at Fredericksburg, Hooker's at Chancellorsville; com. dept. of the Susquehannah, June, 1863–Dec. 1864; com. 2d div. 23d corps in the defeat of Hood near Nashville, and also in the operations in N.C. in Feb. 1865. Pres. of a Va. mining and manuf. co. since 1867. — Cullum.

Court de Gebelin (koor deh zhāb'-lăn'), ANTOINE, a French author, b. Nismes, 1725; d. Paris, May 10, 1784. A preacher in early life, he established himself in Paris in 1763, and, between 1775 and 1784, pub. 9 vols. of his great work, "Le Monde Primitif." He sympathized deeply with the American struggle for independence, and co-operated with Franklin and others in the publication of a work advocating the American cause, entitled "Affaires de l'Angleterre et de l'Amérique," 15 vols., 1776, et. seq. He was the author of a defence of animal magnetism, and of a variety of works, historical, philosophical, and political.

Digitized by Google

Courtenay, EDWARD H., LL.D. (H. Sid. Coll. 1846), mathematician, b. Md., 1803; d. Charlotteville, Va., 21 Dec. 1853. West Point (1st in class), 1821. Teacher and prof. of math. and exper. philos. there from 1828 to 31 Dec. 1834; prof. of math. U. of Pa., 1834–6, and at U. of Va., 1842–53. Engr. in construct. of Ft. Independence, Boston Harbor, 1837–41; chief-engr. of dry dock, Brooklyn navy-yard, 1841–2. Author of "Elem. Treatise on Mechanics," from the French of Boucharlat, 1833; and "Treatise on Differential and Integral Calculus, and Calculus of Variations," 1855. A.M. U. of Pa., 1854.

Covington, LEONARD, brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. Aquasco, Prince George Co., Md., Oct. 30, 1768; d. French Mills, Nov. 14, 1813. Mar. 14, 1792, he obtained from Washington the com. of lieut. of dragoons; joined the army under Gen. Wayne; disting. himself at Fort Recovery and the battle of Miami; was honorably mentioned in Wayne's official report; was promoted to the rank of capt. in July, 1794, and retired to the pursuits of agriculture. Many years a member of the legisl. of Md.; was M.C. from 1805 to 1807; was app. in 1809 lieut.-col. of a regt. of cav.; in Aug. 1813, he was app. brig.-gen., and ordered to the northern frontier. At the battle of Chrystler's Fields, he received a mortal wound, and died 2 days after. He had the reputation of being one of the best officers in the service.

Covode, JOHN, M.C. from Pa., 1855–63 and 1867–9, b. Westmoreland Co., Pa., 17 Mar. 1808; d. Harrisburg, 11 Jan. 1871. He was a farmer, and was extensively engaged in coal-mining. Chairman of a special committee of 36th Congress to investigate certain charges against Pres. Buchanan; and his "Report," pub. by Congress, attracted much attention at the time.

Cowdery, DR. JONATHAN, senior surgeon U. S. N., b Sandisfield, Ms., Apr. 22, 1767; d. Norfolk, Va., Nov. 20, 1852. App. assist. surg., Jan. 1, 1800; surgeon, Nov. 27, 1804. He served in the frigate "Philadelphia," which was stranded on the coast of Tripoli, Oct. 31, 1803, and was a prisoner in the hands of the Turks nearly 2 years. In 1806, he pub. a journal of this captivity.

Cowell, BENJAMIN, b. Wrentham, Ms., 1781; d. Providence, R.I., May 6, 1860. B.U. 1803. He settled as a lawyer in Prov.; was clerk of the federal courts, and for a time chief-justice C.C.P. He pub. in 1850 a vol. of Revol. history, entitled "The Spirit of '76."

Cowell, JOSEPH, comedian, b. Kent, Eng., Aug. 7, 1792; d. Lond., Nov. 14, 1863. He made his debut, Jan. 23, 1812, at Davenport, Eng. First app. in the U.S. as Le Clair in "Foundling of the Forest" at the Park, N.Y., in Oct. 1821. Kate Bateman is a granddaughter. Author of "30 Years among the Players of Eng. and Amer.," 8vo, N.Y. 1844.

Coxe, ARTHUR CLEVELAND, D.D., Prot.-Epis. bishop of Western N.Y. Son of Rev. S. H. Coxe, b. Mendham, N.J., May 10, 1818. U. of N.Y. 1838. He took orders in 1841; became rector of St. John's, Hartford, Ct., 1842, and was settled successively at Morrisania, Hartford, and Baltimore, where he was rector of Grace Church in 1854–64, and Jan. 4, 1865, was consec. at Geneva bishop of Western N.Y. He has written "Christian Ballads," a vol. of religious poems, N.Y., 1840; "Saul, a Mystery, and Other Poems," 1845; a vol. of travels in England, 1856; a coll. of sermons, 1855; "Halloween and Other Poems," 1844; "Advent, a Mystery, a Dramatic Poem," 1837; "Athwold, a Romaunt," 1838; "Saint Jonathan, the Lay of a Scald," 1838; "Athanasion, and Other Poems," 1842; "Thoughts on the Services." He visited Eng. in 1851. While at Baltimore, he nobly maintained the cause of the Union, against great and bitter opposition, during the Rebellion.

Cox, JACOB DOLSON, maj.-gen. vols., b. Montreal, Canada, Oct. 27, 1828. His mother was a lineal descendant of Elder William Brewster. His parents resided in N.Y. City, where the son studied law for some time, afterward spending 3 years at Oberlin Coll., O., and was adm. to the bar in 1852. He practised at Warren, O., until elected State senator in 1859. In Apr. 1861, he was made brig.-gen. State militia, and placed in com. of a camp of instruction. Brig.-gen. of vols., May 15, 1861, he com. in the Kanawha Valley, and soon drove out Gen. Wise, and took Gauley Bridge. He remained in com. of this dept. except for a short time, when Gen. Rosecrans was over him, until Aug. 1862, when he was assigned to the Army of Va. under Gen. Pope. Oct. 6, 1862, he was ordered to the district of the Kanawha; com. the 9th army corps after the death of Gen. Reno; at South Mountain, Sept. 14, 1862, and, 3 days after, Antietam. Placed in com. of the district of Ohio, Apr. 16, 1863, and of a division of the 23d army corps, he served in the Atlanta campaign of 1864, and was in the battles of Franklin and Nashville, Tenn. Maj.-gen. for these disting. services from Dec. 7, 1864. In Mar. 1865, after fighting a battle at Kinston, N.C., he joined Sherman's army. Gov. of O., 1866–8; sec. of the interior, 1869 to Nov. 1870.

Cox, JAMES, b. Monmouth Co., N.J., 1753; d. there Sept. 12, 1810. Several years member of the legisl. and speaker of the assembly; com. a company of militia at Germantown and Monmouth, and was subsequently a brig.-gen. of militia; M.C. 1809–10.

Coxe, JOHN REDMAN, M.D., b. Trenton, N.J., 1773; d. Phila., Mar. 22, 1864. He studied medicine under Dr. Rush, and at London, Paris, and Edinburgh. Settled in Phila. in 1796; was port-physician in 1798, during the yellow-fever visitation; was for several years a physician of the Pa. hospital and of the Phila. dispensatory; prof. of chemistry in the U. of Pa. in 1809–18, and prof. of materia medica from 1818 to 1835. He first introduced vaccination in Phila. Dr. Coxe never had a sick day, and d, aged 91, without any appreciable disease. He pub. "On Inflammation," 8vo, 1794; "Importance, &c., of Medicine," 8vo,

Digitized by Google

1800; "Vaccination," 8vo, 1800; "Combustion, &c.," 8vo, 1811; "Amer. Dispensatory," 8vo, 1827; "Refut. of Harvey's Claim to the Discov. of the Circulation of the Blood," 8vo, 1834; "Female Biography;" "Recog. of Friends in Another World," 1845, 12mo. Edited Phila. Med. Museum, 6 vols., 8vo, 1805, new series, 1811; "Emporium of Arts and Sciences," 5 vols., 8vo, 1812.

Cox, LEMUEL, an eminent mechanic, b. Boston, Ms., 1736; d. Charlestown, Ms., Feb. 18, 1806. Near the close of 1775, he was in prison at Ipswich for his attachment to the cause of the crown. Mr. Felt, in his "Annals of Salem," supposes him to have been the person who was the chief architect of Essex bridge in 1788, and who subsequently constructed bridges in Eng. and Ireland. "In 1796," says Mr. Felt, "he had a grant of 1,000 acres of land in Me., from our legisl., for being the first inventor of a machine to cut card-wire, the first projector of a powder-mill in Ms., the first suggester of employing prisoners on Castle Island to make nails, and for various other discoveries in mechanical arts." The celebrated bridge at Waterford, Ireland, was in 1793 built under his direction and superintendence. He also built bridges from Salem to Beverly, and over the Mystic River to Malden. — Sabine; Bradford.

Coxe, MARGARET, b. Burlington, N.J. Pub. "Claims of the Country on Amer. Females," 2 vols., 12mo, Columbus, 1842; "Botany of the Scriptures;" "Wonders of the Deep;" "Young Ladies' Companion and Token," 12mo. — Allibone.

Cox, SAMUEL HANSON, D.D., LL.D., Presb. divine, b. Leesville, N.J., Aug. 25, 1793. Commenced the study of law in 1811, afterward studied theology, and was ord. by the N.J. Presbytery, July 1, 1817. From 1820 to 1833, he had charge of the Spring-st. Church, N.Y; prof. of sacred rhetoric at Auburn, N.Y., from 1834 to May, 1837, and from that time until 1854, when obliged by the failure of his voice to give up his charge, pastor of the First Presb. Church in Brooklyn. Having sympathized with, and aided in founding the Antislavery Society, he was one of the sufferers by a mob, and had his house and church sacked, July 10, 1834. He successively advocated abolition, temperance, colonization, and New School Presbyterianism, and the Evangelical Alliance, and ranks high as a writer and preacher. He has been frequently a delegate to the religious anniversaries in London. Author of "Quakerism not Christianity," "Interviews, Memorable and Useful, from the Diary of Memory," N.Y., 1853, and other publications. Father of Bishop A. C. Coxe.

Cox, SAMUEL SULLIVAN ("Sunset" Cox), b. Zanesville, O. Brown U. 1846. He became a lawyer and an editor in O.; was sec. of legation to Peru in 1855; M.C. 1857–65 and 1869–71, and is an occasional lecturer. Author of "The Buckeye Abroad," N.Y., 1852; "Eight Years in Congress," 1865, and "Search for Winter Sunbeams."

Coxe, TENCH, writer on political economy, b. Phila., May 22, 1755; d. there July 17, 1824. His great-grandfather, Dr. Daniel Coxe of Lond., was the proprietor of West New Jersey and of Carolina, between the 31st and 36th parallels of N. latitude. He had been physician to Queen Anne, and was a gov. of St. Bartholomew's Hospital in London. In 1698, he sent 2 ships and several hundred colonists to settle this territory, which were the first ships to enter the Mpi. from the sea. The colonists were, however, by French machinations, diverted from their purpose, and settled in S.C. His son, Col. Daniel, inherited his interests; came over in 1702; resided at Burlington, and then at Trenton, N.J.; filled important stations in that province; was speaker of the assembly in 1716; judge of the Sup. Ct. 1734–9, and wrote "A Description of the Province of Carolina," 8vo, Lond., 1722; "Collect. of Voyages and Travels," 8vo, 1741; d. Trenton, May, 1739. Tench was educated at the Phila. Coll.; became a partner in business with his father, Wm., in May, 1776; was a commissioner to the Federal convention at Annapolis, in 1786; member of the Cont. Congress in 1788; assist. sec. of the treas. May, 1790; commissioner of the revenue May, 1792, and purveyor of the public supplies from 1803 to 1812. He devoted his life to the encouragement of our manufactures. His sympathies appeared to be on the side of the crown during the Revol. He pub. "A Brief Examination of Lord Sheffield's Observations on the Commerce of the U.S.," 1792; "A View of the U.S.," 1794, and "A Statement of the Arts and Manufactures of the U.S. for 1810," 1814; "An Address on American Manufactures," "An Inquiry into the Principles of a Commercial System for the U.S.," 1787; "Thoughts on the Naval Power, and the Encouragement of Commerce and Manufactures," 1806; "Memoir on the Cultivation, Trade, and Manufacture of Cotton," 1807; "On the Navigation Act," 1809. — Simpson.

Cox, WILLIAM, author, b. Eng.; d. there ab. 1851. He came to the U.S. in early life; was a printer; was employed in the N.Y. Mirror, to which he was a contrib., and pub. "Crayon Sketches," 2 vols., 1833.

Cozzens, FREDERICK SWARTWOUT, author, b. N.Y., March 5, 1818; d. Brooklyn, Dec. 23, 1869. He was educated in his native city. In 1853, he coll. a series of articles contrib. to the Knickerbocker Magazine, in a vol. entitled "Prismatics," by Richard Hayward. In 1856, he pub. the "Sparrowgrass Papers." A leading wine-merchant, he pub., in connection with his business, a periodical entitled the "Wine Press," for which, as well as for other publications, he wrote interesting essays on grape-culture. In 1858, he attended the copyright congress of Brussels, as delegate of the N.Y. Publishers' Association. Author of "Acadia; or, A Sojourn among the Bluenoses," 12mo, 1858; "Stone House on the Susquehanna;" "Memorial of Fitzgreene Halleck," 1868.

Cozzens, ISSACHAR, uncle of F. S., b. Newport, R.I., 1781. Pub. "Geological History of N.Y. Island," N.Y., 8vo, 1843.

Crabbe, THOMAS, rear-adm. U.S.N., b. Md. Midshipm. Nov. 15, 1809; lieut. Feb. 4, 1815; com. Mar. 3, 1835; capt. Sept. 8, 1841, commo. July 16, 1862; rear-adm. retired list

Digitized by Google

July 25, 1866. Engaged in attack by gunboats on 3 British frigates in Hampton Roads, June 20, 1813; also in repelling attack on Craney Island, June 22, 1813; com. sloop of war "Vandalia," W.I. squadron, 1837; and, during the Seminole war, had charge of Fort Brooke, Tampa Bay, Jan. 28 to May 17, 1837; com. frigate "Brandywine," Brazil squad., 1841; steam-sloop "San Jacinto," Medit. squad., 1852–3; com. squad. coast of Africa, 1855–7; died Princeton, N. J., June 29, 1872.

Cradock, MATTHEW, first gov. of the Ma. Company (18 Mar. 1628), an opulent Lond. merchant; d. May 27, 1641. "He was," Hutchinson says, "more forward in advancing out of his substance than any other, being generally the highest in all subscriptions," and at his decease left a large claim upon the Colony. He continued many years to carry on a trade in the Colony by his servants; but he never came over. To him is due the important measure of transferring the govt. from the Lond. company to the inhabitants here, a measure pregnant with independence. He was a member of the celebrated Long Parliament from the city of London, in 1640.—N.E. H. and Geneal. Reg., viii. 27.

Cradock, THOMAS, rector of St. Thomas's Church, Baltimore Co., Md.; d. 1760. He preached a sermon in 1753, before the gov. and assembly, on the irregularities of the clergy. In 1756, he pub. a version of the Psalms, in heroic measure.

Crafts, SAMUEL CHANDLER, jurist and statesman, b. Woodstock, Ct., Oct. 6, 1768; d. Craftsbury, Vt., Nov. 19, 1853. H.U. 1790. His father, Col. Ebenezer Crafts, founded Leicester Acad.; settled in Vt. in 1790; d. 1810, a. 70. Y.C. 1759. The son was town-clerk of Craftsbury, 1792–1829; youngest delegate to the State Const. Conv. in 1793; was several years a representative, and clerk of the house in 1798 and 1799; register of probate for the Orleans dist. from 1796 to 1815; member of the exec. council from 1809 to 1812 and from 1825 to 1827; a judge of Orleans county court from 1800 to 1816, being pres. judge for the last six years, and from 1825 to 1828; and clerk of the court from 1836 to 1838; M. C. 1817–25; gov. 1828–31; was pres. of the Const. Conv. in 1829, and in 1849 was app. a U.S. senator. M.A. of the U. of Vermont, 1809. In June, 1802, while there were but a few log-huts on the site of the present city of Cincinnati, he commenced a tour of observation to the Lower Mpi., and, in company with Michaux the younger, made a botanical reconnoissance of the Valley of the Great West in canoes and arks.

Crafts, WILLIAM, lawyer and author, b. Charleston, S.C., Jan. 24, 1787; d. Lebanon Springs, N.Y., Sept. 23, 1826. H.U. 1805. He was a successful practitioner, and an eloquent advocate of Charleston, especially in criminal cases, and was several years a member of the State legisl. As editor of the Charleston Courier he contrib. many essays, suggested by topics of the day. He delivered the Phi Beta Kappa address at Cambridge, 1817, and wrote a few poems; the "Sea Serpent," or "Gloucester Hoax," a drama in 3 acts, and contribs. to the "Omnium Bothenum," a serial devoted to local satire. A selection from his writings, including some of his orations, was pub. at Charleston in 1828, with a memoir, by Rev. Samuel Gilman.

Cragin, AARON H., senator, b. Weston, Vt., 3 Feb. 1821. Lawyer; member N H. legisl. 1852–5; M.C. 1857–61; U.S. senator 1865–71; re-elected in 1870.

Craig, HENRY KNOX, brev. brig.-gen. U. S.A., b. Pa.; son of Isaac, a maj. in the Revol. war, by a dau. of Gen. John Neville. Lieut. art. Mar. 17, 1812; engaged in the occupation of Fort George, and night assault at Stony Creek, U.C.; capt. Dec. 1813; brev. maj. Dec. 23, 1823; maj. of ordnance, May 30, 1832; disting. in battles of Palo Alto and La Palma; brev. lieut.-col. "for Monterey, Mex.," Sept 23, 1846; lieut.-col. Mar. 25, 1848; col. of ordnance, July 10, 1851; retired, June 1, 1863; brev. brig.-gen. Mar. 13, 1865.—Gardner.

Craig, JAMES, brig.-gen. vols., b. Pa. ab. 1820. He studied law, and was admitted to the bar; removed to Mo., and settled at St. Joseph's; was a member of the State legisl. in 1846–7; served in the Mex. war, and was a capt. Mo. mounted rifles from Aug. 1847 to Nov. 1848; circuit-atty. 12th judicial circuit, Mo., from 1852 to 1856; Democratic M.C. in 1857–61; app. a brig.-gen. of vols. Mar. 21, 1862, and employed in the West.

Craig, SIR JAMES HENRY, a British gen., b. Gibraltar, 1749; d. Jan. 12, 1812. Ensign in 1763; aide-de-camp to Gen. Boyd at Gibraltar in 1770; in 1771, capt. 47th Foot, with which he went to America in 1774; was in the battle of Lexington; severely wounded at Bunker's Hill, again at Hubbardton, and a third time at Freeman's Farm, Sept. 19, 1777. Included in the convention at Saratoga, sent to Eng. with despatches, and app. maj. 82d, Dec. 1777. He was engaged in the operations on the Penobscot in 1779; was ordered to the South; in Jan. 1781 occupied Wilmington, N.C., which he abandoned when Cornwallis surrendered in Nov. 1781, when he held the rank of lieut.-col. He saw much active service, usually in com. of light troops, and was an officer of merit. As a maj.-gen. he com. the exped. against the Cape of Good Hope in 1795, and in 1797 the successful exped. against Manilla. Lieut.-gen. Jan. 1801. With Sir John Stuart, he led the army of the Mediterranean to Sicily in 1805. App. com.-in-chief of Canada in Aug. 1807, he proved wholly unfit for a civil station. He saw in every opponent of his policy a disaffected rebel, seized liberal presses, suppressed opposition, and employed spies. He returned to Eng., June 19, 1811.

Craig, COL. THOMAS, Revol. officer; d. Lehigh Co., Pa., Jan. 14, 1832, a. 92. Made capt. in St. Clair's batt. Jan. 5, 1776; maj. Sept. 7, 1776; col. 3d Pa. regt. 1777.

Craighill, WILLIAM P., maj. engr. corps U.S.A., b. Va. West Point, 1853. Entering the engr. corps, he became capt. 3 Mar. 1863; brev. lieut.-col. 13 Mar. 1865, for services in defence of Cumberland Gap; maj. 23 Nov. 1865. He was engaged some years in the construction and repairs of Southern forts and harbors; was assist. prof. of engineering at West Point, 1859–63; chief engr. of Gen. G. W. Morgan's div., June–Oct. 1862, and of dept. of the Monongahela, June–Aug. 1863; assist. engr. in construction of defences of Balt. harbor, Sept., 1863–June, 1864; chief engr. middle dept. and 8th army corps, Apr.–June, 1864. Compiler of "Army Officer's Pocket Companion," 1861; translator of Dufour's "Cours de Tactiques," 1863, and, jointly with Capt. Mendell, of Jomini's "Précis de l'Art de la Guerre," 1862. — Cullum.

Digitized by Google

Craik, JAMES, M.D., physician, b. Scotland, 1731; d. Fairfax Co., Va., Feb. 6, 1814. Educated for the medical service of the British army, he came to Va. in early life; was with Washington in the exped. against the French and Indians, in 1754, and the next year was in Braddocks fatal campaign. In 1775, by the aid of Washington, he was transferred to the medical dept. of the army, and rose to the first rank and distinction. In 1777, he was active in unveiling the conspiracy to remove the commander-in-chief. In 1781, he was director of the hospital at Yorktown. After the Revol., Craik settled near Mount Vernon, and attended Washington in his last illness.

Cralle, RICHARD K., author, b. S.C.; d. Va., 10 June, 1864. Relative of J. C. Calhoun, and his amanuensis while sec. of State, and pub. an edition of his works in 6 vols., with a memoir. Previously an editor in Washington and a Swedenborgian clergyman. Author of some New Church publications.

Cranch, CHRISTOPHER PEASE, artist and poet, son of Judge C., b. Alexandria, D.C., March 8, 1813. Col. Coll. 1831. He studied divinity 3 years at H.U., but, in 1842, devoted himself to landscape-painting in N.Y. May 25, 1840, he delivered a poem at the 200th anniv. of the town of Quincy. In 1847–8, he visited Italy; went again to Europe in 1853, and resided some years in Paris. During his 10 years' absence, he executed many admirable landscapes. Since his return, he has resided in N.Y. and at Fishkill, and has painted views of Venice, some fruit-pieces, and other compositions. He was one of the contribs. to the Dial, in which were pub. some of his best poems. In 1854, a vol. of his poems appeared at Phila. He has also pub. two stories, "The Last of the Huggermuggers," 1856; and "Kobboltozo," a sequel to the former, 1857. He still writes occasionally for various journals and magazines.

Cranch, WILLIAM, LL.D. (H.U. 1829), jurist, b. Weymouth, Ms., July 17, 1769; d. Washington, Sept. 1, 1855. H.U. 1787. Richard, his father, b. Eng., Oct. 26, 1726; d. Oct. 16, 1811; came to Ms. in 1746; m. Mary, dau. of Rev. Wm. Smith of Weymouth; was a man of learning; many years a member of the legisl., and judge of the C.C.P.; pub. "Views of the Prophecies concerning Anti-Christ." Wm. studied law; was adm. to the bar in July, 1790; practised in Braintree and in Haverhill, but in Oct. 1794, removed to Washington. In 1801, the President, John Adams, app. him jun. assist. judge of the Circuit Court of the D.C., of which he was chief-justice from 1805 to 1855. In these 55 years, but 2 of his decisions were overruled He pub. 9 vols. of Reports of U.S. Supreme Court, and 6 vols. of Reports of Circuit Court of D.C., from 1801 to 1841. He also prepared a code of laws for the district; pub. a memoir of John Adams, 8vo, 1827, and, in 1831, an address on temperance. Member of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences.

Crane, ICHABOD B., col. U.S.A., b. N.J.; d. Port Richmond, Staten Island, N.Y., Oct. 5, 1857. App. 2d lieut. marines, Jan. 1809; capt. 3d Art. April 25, 1812; brev. maj. for merit. services, Nov. 13, 1813; maj. 4th Art., Sept. 15, 1825; lieut.-col. 2d Art., Nov. 3, 1832; col. 1st Art., June 27, 1843; gov. of Military Asylum at Washington, May, 1851 to Nov. 1853; bro. of Com. Wm. M. Crane. — Gardner.

Crane, COL. JOHN, Revol. officer of Ms.; d. Aug. 21, 1805. He com. the regt. of Ms. Art. through the war. During the siege of Boston, he held the rank of major, and did good service.

Crane, WILLIAM MONTGOMERY, com. U.S.N., b. Elizabethtown, N.J., Feb. 1, 1784; d. Washington, March 18, 1846. His father, Gen. Wm., severely wounded at Quebec, and a col. in the Revol. army, d. Elizabethtown, July 9, 1814. Midshipm. May 23, 1799; lieut. July 20, 1803; com. March 4, 1813; capt. Nov. 22, 1814. Comg. the brig "Vixen," he disting. himself in the attack on Tripoli, and was in "The Chesapeake," when attacked by "The Leopard." In July, 1812, while comg. the brig. "Nautilus," he was taken by "The Southampton," frigate. On his exchange, he was ordered to the Lakes, where, in com. of "The Madison" and "Pike," in Chauncey's squadron, he served with distinction for the remainder of the war. In 1827, in the flag-ship "Delaware," he com. the Mediterranean squadron, acting as joint commissioner with Mr. Offley, U.S. consul at Smyrna, to open negotiations with the Ottoman Govt. App. navy commissioner in 1841, and in 1842 chief of the bureau of ordnance and hydrography. He died by his own hand; cause unknown.

Cranfield, EDWARD, gov. of N.H., 1682–5; d. Eng., 1704. He exchanged a profitable office in Eng. to better his fortune here, but exercised his power in so arbitrary a manner, that he soon lost his place. Venturing to tax the people without their consent, he soon found "all his efforts ineffectual, and his authority contemptible." The complaints were taken up by the lords of trade, and decided against him. Returning to Eng. in 1685, he was afterwards app. collector of Barbadoes.

Crapo, HENRY H., gov. of Mich., 1865–9, b. Dartmouth, Ms., 24 May, 1804; d. Flint, Mich., July 23, 1869. He resided in New Bedford until his removal to Saginaw, Mich., in 1856, where he entered largely into the lumber-business. State senator in 1862, and at one time mayor of Flint.

Craven, CHARLES, sec. to the proprietors of S.C., and gov. in 1712–16. Ordered in 1712 to sound Port Royal River, it is probable that he founded Beaufort. The Yemassees and other warlike tribes, having, in 1715, combined for the destruction of the Colony, Gov. Craven at the head of 1,200 men, part of whom were blacks, defeated them in a series of desperate conflicts.

Digitized by Google

Craven, TUNIS AUG. MACDONOUGH, commander U.S.N., b. Portsmouth, N.H.; killed in the iron-clad "Tecumseh," destroyed by a torpedo in Mobile Bay, Aug. 5, 1864. Midshipm. Feb. 2, 1829; lieut. 1841; com. Apr. 24, 1861. He had seen 20 years' service, — 8 years' in the coast-survey, — and, during the civil war, com. "The Crusader," "The Tuscarora," and "The Tecumseh."

Craven, THOMAS T., rear-adm. U.S.N., b. D.C. Son of Tunis Craven of N.J. Many years U.S. naval storekeeper at the Portsmouth and Brooklyn navy-yards. Midshipm. May 1, 1822; lieut. May 27, 1830; com. Dec. 16, 1852; capt. June 7, 1861; commo. July 16, 1862; rear-adm. Oct. 10, 1866; lieut.-com. of the flag-ship "Vincennes" in Wilkes's U.S. Exploring Exped., 1838–42. While at Valparaiso, in July, 1839, he was instrumental in saving the crew of a Chilian vessel, wrecked in a gale there, for which he was complimented by Sec. Paulding. From 1851 to 1855, com. of midshipm., and instructor, U.S. naval acad. at Annapolis; June 27, 1861, he took com. of the Potomac flotilla, and of "The Brooklyn," in the autumn of 1861. In the attack on Forts Jackson and St. Philip, "The Brooklyn" became entangled in the obstructions in the river, and was attacked by a ram and a steamer. The latter received a broadside at 60 yards, which put a stop to her attack; while the chain-armor of "The Brooklyn" prevented injury by the shock from the ram. Capt. Craven took part in the subsequent engagements on the Mpi., until Aug. 1862. Com. N. Pacific squad., 1869.

Crawford, GEORGE W., statesman and lawyer, b. Columbia Co., Ga., Dec. 22, 1798. N. J. Coll. 1820. He studied law, and commenced practice at Augusta, Ga., in 1822; was atty.-gen. 1827–31; was in the State legisl. from 1837 to 1842, with the exception of one year; M.C. 1843; gov. 1843–7, and a member of Pres. Taylor's cabinet, as sec. of war, 1849–July, 1850; subsequently visited Europe, since which time he has lived in retirement at his home in Richmond Co. — Lanman.

Crawford, NATHANIEL MACON, D.D., divine, b. near Lexington, Ga., Mar. 22, 1811. U. of Ga. Aug. 1829. He studied law with his father, Wm. H. Crawford, but never practised. Prof. of mathematics in Oglethorpe U., 1837–41; licensed to preach in 1843, and ord. in the Baptist ministry, 1844. Pastor in Washington, Ga., in 1845, and in Charleston, S.C., in 1846. Prof. of biblical literature in Mercer U., 1847–54, and was pres. in 1855–6; in 1857, he was prof. of mental and moral philos. in the U. of Mpi, and was prof. in the Western Baptist Theol. Sem. at Georgetown, Ky., until July, 1858. He afterward resumed the presidency of Mercer U.; pres. of Georgetown College, Ky., 1865–71. Author of "Christian Paradoxes," 1858. He was considered one of the first pulpit orators of the Baptist Church at the South; d. near Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 27, 1871.

Crawford, SAMUEL WYLIE, brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. Franklin Co., Pa., Nov. 8, 1829. U. of Pa. 1847. He studied medicine, and in 1851 was made assist. surgeon, U.S.A.; was on duty in Texas 3 years, and in New Mexico until 1856, when he went to Mexico. While there, he made scientific researches, and became a member of the Geog. Society of Mexico. He was one of the garrison of Fort Sumter in Apr. 1861; com. a battery during the action; was made maj. of the 13th Inf., May 14, 1861; ordered to Eastern Va., and made insp.-gen. of that dept.; brig.-gen. Apr. 25, 1862, he was assigned to the corps of Gen. Banks in the army of the Shenandoah. He was in the battle of Winchester, and was mentioned in the report of the comg.-gen. He bore a leading part in the battle of Cedar Mountain, where he lost more than half his brigade, and, after the death of Gen. Mansfield, com. his division in the battle of Antietam, where, though severely wounded, he kept the field till the close of the action. He com. 3d div. 5th corps, at the Wilderness battle, at Hatcher's Run, and in the battles around Petersburg. Brev. maj.-gen. Mar. 13, 1865; brev. col. U.S.A. for Gettysburg; brev. brig.-gen. for Five Forks, 13 Mar. 1865; col. 2d U.S. Inf.

Crawford, THOMAS, sculptor, b. N.Y., Mar. 22, 1814; d. Lond., Eng., Oct. 10, 1857. He early manifested a remarkable taste for art, in which he was encouraged by his father, who caused him to be thoroughly instructed in drawing, carving, and in modelling in clay. In 1834, he went to Italy, and at Rome enjoyed the instruction and friendship of Thorwaldsen. After a few years' study, he established his studio in Rome, and soon obtained abundant employment. Among the most felicitous and characteristic of his works is the bust of Josiah Quincy, placed in the library of H.U. In 1839, he designed his famous statue of "Orpheus," which, with his "Hebe and Ganymede," is in the Athenæum in Boston. Of his ideal busts, the "Sappho" and "Vesta" are models of purity and taste. He executed many bas-reliefs; and his religious subjects, especially those in which the person of the Saviour is introduced, are marked by singular propriety and dignity of treatment. Among the noblest of his works are his statue, in bronze, of Beethoven, in the Music Hall, Boston, and the bronze equestrian statue of Washington, ordered by the State of Va., and erected at the Capitol in Richmond. Visiting Amer. in 1844, he m. Miss Ward, by whom he had several children. He made a second visit to the U.S. in 1849, and a third in 1856. Crawford received from Congress a commission to furnish marble and bronze statuary for the new Capitol at Washington, for which he designed — perhaps his grandest work — the colossal statue of the Genius of Amer., destined for the pinnacle of the Capitol dome. He suffered for the last years of his life from a malignant tumor or cancer of the eye, which nearly deprived him of sight, and caused him to renounce his art entirely, with many works unfinished. The industry of Crawford was wonderful. He finished upward of 60 works, many of them colossal, and left ab. 50 sketches in plaster, and designs of various kinds.

Digitized by Google

Crawford, THOMAS HARTLEY, b. Chambersburg, Pa., Nov. 14, 1786; d. Washington, D.C., Jan. 27, 1863. N. J. Coll. 1804. Admitted to the bar in 1807; M. C. 1829–33; member Pa. legisl. 1833; in 1836 a commissioner to investigate frauds in the purchase of lands of the Creek Indians; U.S. commissioner of Indian affairs, 1838–45; and from 1845 till his d., judge of the Criminal Court of D. C.

Crawford, COL. WILLIAM, Revol. officer, b. Berkeley Co., Va., 1732; d. June, 1782. A capt. in Forbes's exped. in 1758, and the intimate friend of Washington, then a surveyor. He served in the Pontiac war in 1763–4; moved to Pa. in 1768; was an efficient officer in Dunmore's campaign against the Scioto Indians; made lieut.-col. 5th Va. regt., Feb. 13, 1776; became col., and resigned, Feb. 10, 1781. One of the bravest of frontiersmen, he often led parties across the Ohio against the Indians, to whom, from his success, he was particularly obnoxious. In May, 1782, he accepted, reluctantly, the com. of an exped. against the Wyandottes on the Muskingum, fell into an ambuscade, was taken prisoner, and tortured to death at Sandusky.

Crawford, WILLIAM HARRIS, lawyer and statesman, b. Nelson Co., Va., Feb. 24, 1772; d. near Elbertou, Ga., Sept. 15, 1834. His father Joel, in 1783, removed his family to Ga., but d. in 1788; and young Crawford, after assisting his mother to support the family, by teaching, for several years, at length studied law. In 1799, he commenced practice in Lexington, Oglethorpe Co., and soon became disting. in his profession. In 1800, he was app. with Horatio Marbury to revise the laws of Ga., and compiled the first digest of her laws, pub. Savannah, 4to, 1802. Member of the State legisl. 1803–7; U. S. senator, 1807–13, and was its pres. pro tem. in March, 1812. In this body, he shone pre-eminently, soon making himself known and respected by the force of natural ability, energy, and loftiness of mind. His influence was further increased by his perfect integrity and unflinching firmness. He evinced, in the consideration of many important and exciting questions, statesmanship of a high order. He was opposed to the policy of war with Great Britain, but finally voted for it. Having declined the war secretaryship in 1813, he accepted the post of minister to France, where he remained two years, and acquired the friendship of Lafayette, who appointed him agent for his American lands, and with whom, after his return home, he carried on a confidential corresp. On his return to the U. S., he was app. to the war dept., but in Oct. 1816, was transferred to the treasury dept., the duties of which he continued to discharge until 1825, when he became the Democ. nominee for the presidency, but was defeated. A long and severe sickness destroyed all chance of his election by the house, and removed him henceforth from the political arena. Mr. Adams offered to continue him as sec. of the treas.; but he declined. He was strongly opposed to the nullification movement, and is generally regarded as the greatest of the citizens of Ga. In 1827, he was app. judge of the Northern Circuit Court of Ga., which office he retained until his death.

Creighton, JOHN ORDE, commo. U.S.N. b. N. Y. City; d. Sing Sing, Oct. 13, 1838. Midshipm. June 25, 1800; served under Preble before Tripoli; became a lieut. Feb. 24, 1807, and was attached to the frigate "Chesapeake" in June, 1807, when attacked by "The Leopard." He was afterwards attached to "The President," and was first lieut. in her action with "The Little Belt," May 16, 1811. In 1813, he com. the brig "Rattlesnake," with the rank of master-commandant (July 13), and was made capt. Apr. 27, 1816. In 1829–30, he com. the squadron on the coast of Brazil.

Creighton, JOHNSTON B., capt. U.S.N., b. R. I., Mar. 12, 1821. Midshipman, Feb. 10, 1838; lieut. Oct. 9, 1853; com. Sept. 20, 1862; capt. Nov. 26, 1868; comg. steamer "Ottawa," S. A. B. squadron, 1862; steamer "Mahaska," bombarding forts Wagner and Gregg, Morris Island, Aug. 8 to 21, 1863; comg. steamer "Mingo," S. A. B. squad., 1864–5; steamsloop "Oneida," Asiatic squad., 1867–9.

Crele, JOSEPH, the oldest man in America, b. Detroit, 1725; d. Caledonia, Wis., Jan. 27, 1866. The date of his birth is established by the record of his baptism in the French Catholic Church, Detroit. He resided for about a century in Wis. He m. in 1755; settled at Prairie du Chien; bore arms at Braddock's defeat, and, before the Revol. war, carried letters between Prairie du Chien and Green Bay. A few years before his death, he testified in the Circuit Court of Wisconsin, in a case involving the title to some real estate, to events that occurred 80 years before. He lived for some years at Caledonia with a dau. by his third wife, b. when he was 69. Until 1864, he was as hale and hearty as most men of 70; could walk miles without fatigue, and often chopped wood for the family use. During the last year or two of his life, he would sometimes say sadly, "I fear death has forgotten me."

Cresap, CAPT. MICHAEL, b. Alleghany Co., Md., June 29, 1742; d. N. Y. City, Oct. 18, 1775. Son of Col. Thomas, an emigrant from Yorkshire, who settled in Western Md. Michael was a trader; moved to the Ohio in 1774, and commenced clearing land. Difficulties with the Indians followed; and Cresap returned to Md. Capt. in the militia, and served in Dunmore's exped. against the western tribes. Com. a rifle company, July, 1775, in the army near Boston, but was obliged, by illness, to return to N. Y., where he died. A Memoir, vindicating his character from the aspersion in Jefferson's Notes, has been pub. by his son-in-law, J. J. Jacob; and a new ed. edited by Brantz Mayer, in 1866.

Crespel, EMMANUEL, a Flemish missionary of the order of Recollets. Embarked for Canada in Jan. 1724, and was successively curé near Montreal, and aumonier in various localities. The ship in which he returned to France in Nov. 1736 having been wrecked, he landed with some companions on the coast of Labrador, and, after passing the winter in that frightful place, returned to Quebec in June, and to France in Dec. 1738. An account of his travels and shipwreck was pub. in Amsterdam, 1757; an Eng. transl. was pub. in Lond., 1797.

Digitized by Google

Cresson, Elliot, philanthropist, b. Phila., Mar. 2, 1796; d. there Feb. 20, 1854. Brought up in the Society of Friends, he imbibed from them an ardent love of benevolent deeds, of which his life was passed in the continual exercise. He became a successful merchant; was one of the pioneers in African colonization, and pres. of the society. In his will, he made generous contributions to a great variety of objects.

Creswell, John A. J., postmaster-gen., app. Mar. 1869; b. Port Deposit, Cecil Co., Md., 18 Nov. 1828. Dick. Coll. 1848. Adm. to the Md. bar in 1850; member of the H. of delegates, 1861–2; assist. adj.-gen. of Md., Aug. 1862–Apr. 1863; M. C. 1863–5; U. S. senator, 1865–7; 22 Feb. 1866, he delivered, at the request of the House, a eulogy on Henry Winter Davis, his friend and colleague.

Cretin, Joseph, D.D., R. C. Bishop of St. Paul, Minn., consec. Jan. 26, 1851; d. Feb. 22, 1857.

Crevecœur (krāv'-kur'), Hector St. John, author and agriculturist, b. Caen, France, 1735; d. Sarcelles, Nov. 12, 1813. Sent by his parents to England, to complete his education at 16, he passed 6 years there; came to Amer. in 1754, settled on a farm near N.Y. City, and m. In the war, his lands were overrun by the British troops. In 1780, his affairs requiring his presence in Eng., he was permitted, with one of his sons, to embark from New York. A French fleet on the coast detained the vessel in the harbor; and he was arrested as a spy, and kept in prison 3 months. Released, after examination, he sailed for Dublin, arrived in Dec., and Apr. 2, 1781, he reached the paternal roof in France, after an absence of 27 years. He became a member of the Agric. Society of Caen, and introduced the cultivation of the potato there. His "Letters from an Amer. Farmer" were pub. Lond., 1782, Paris, 1784 and 1787. His glowing and extravagant pictures of American life induced many families to emigrate to the borders of the Ohio, where they suffered the extremities of famine and fever. In 1783, he returned to N.Y. as French consul. He found his house burnt, his wife dead, and his children in the hands of a stranger, Mr. Flaver, a merchant of Boston, who had been led to take charge of them by the kindness Crevecœur had shown to prisoners abroad. Resigning his office in 1793, he returned to France. In 1801, he pub. at Paris, "Voyage dans la Haute Pennsylvanie," &c. St. John was by nature, by education, and by his writings, a philanthropist; a man of serene temper and pure benevolence. — Duyckinck.

Crittenden, George B., gen. C.S.A. Son of Senator Crittenden, b. Ky. West Point, 1832. Resigned, 1833; counsellor-at-law, Ky., 1835–46; capt. mounted rifles, May, 27, 1846; brev. major for gallantry at Contreras and Churubusco, Aug. 20, 1847; major, March 15, 1848; lieut.-col. Dec. 30, 1856; resigned, 10 June, 1861, and joined the Confederate army, in which he was made a maj.-gen., and ordered to S. E. Ky., where, Jan. 19, 1862, he was defeated by Gen. G. H. Thomas in the battle of Mill Spring, or Somerset. He was put under arrest; was not released until November, and resigned soon afterward.

Crittenden, John Jordon, lawyer and senator, b. Woodford Co., Ky., Sept. 10, 1786; d. Frankfort, Ky., July 26, 1863. When quite young, he entered the army, and, during the War of 1812, was an officer in Gen. Hopkins's exped., and was aide-de-camp to Gov. Shelby at the battle of the Thames. After adopting the profession of law, he, in 1816, was elected to the Ky. legisl., of which he was several years speaker, and was U.S. senator from Ky. in 1817–19. From 1819 to 1835, he continued in the practice of his profession, residing principally at Frankfort, and occasionally representing his county in the State legisl. Again U.S. senator in 1835–41, when he was app. atty.-gen. by Pres. Harrison. In Sept. 1841, he resigned, and resumed his seat in the U.S. senate in 1842. He was re-elected senator for six years, from March, 1843, but, in 1848, was elected gov. of the State, which office he held until his app. as atty.-gen. by Pres. Fillmore, in 1850; again elected to the U.S. senate in 1855. In early life, Mr. C. belonged to the Repub., and, subsequently, to the Whig party. He was one of Mr. Clay's friends; always favored the protective policy; was for a U.S. bank, and against the sub-treasury system; and opposed Calhoun's bill, in 1835, empowering postmasters to take from the mails documents hostile to slavery. He opposed the annexation of Texas, and strove to bring the Mexican war to a peaceful termination as soon as practicable. It was Mr. Crittenden, who, in 1847, introduced the bill in the senate for the relief of the starving in Ireland and Scotland, supporting it in an eloquent and feeling speech. He opposed the admission of Kansas under the Topeka Constitution in 1856; voted against the repeal of the territorial laws, and in favor of Toombs's Kansas Bill, and in 1858 opposed the admission of Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution. He was considered the patriarch of the senate, a designation to which his character, as well as his age, entitled him. He was an excellent, extemporaneous debater. During the memorable second session of the 36th Congress, he proposed the plan known as the "Crittenden Compromise," prohibiting slavery north of 36° 30′, admitting new States with or without slavery, and prohibiting the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia while it existed in Va. or Md. He re-entered Congress in July, 1861; participated in the chief debates, and was an ardent Union man, but opposed confiscation, emancipation, and the enlistment of negroes.

Crittenden, Thomas Leonidas, brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. Russellville, Ky., 1819. Second son of John J. Crittenden. Studied law under his father; was adm. to the bar, and became Commonwealth's atty. On the breaking-out of the Mexican war, he was app. vol. aide to Gen Taylor, in which capacity he highly disting. himself at Buena Vista. As lieut.-col. 4th Ky. vols., he took part in the memorable battles in the Valley of Mexico under Gen. Scott. Gen. Taylor, on his elevation to the presidency, app. him consul at Liverpool (1849). Returning in 1853, he resided a while at Frankfort, Ky., but afterward engaged in mercantile pursuits at Louisville. Brig.-gen. Sept 17, 1861, and assigned a com. under Gen. Buell. For gallantry at the battle of Shiloh, April 6 and 7, 1862, he was promoted to maj.-gen., July 17, and assigned a division in the army of the Tenn. He afterward com. the 2d corps, composing the left wing of the army of the Ohio under Gen. Buell, and in Oct. was attached to Gen Rosecrans's dept. of the Cumberland, taking part in the battles of Stone River and Chickamauga, where his corps was routed, and afterwards com. a division of the 9th corps in the Va. campaign of 1864; col. 17th U.S. Inf., July 28, 1866; brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A. 2 Mar. 1867.

Digitized by Google

Crocker, HANNAH MATHER, grand-daughter of Cotton Mather, and widow of Joseph C. of Taunton, b. Boston, 1765; d. Roxbury, Ms., July 10, 1847. Pub. "Letters on Free Masonry," 1815, with a preface by T. M. Harris; "The School of Reform;" "Seamen's Safe Pilot," &c.; "Observations on the Rights of Woman," 1818; "Statement" respecting Madam Knight, in the Lib. of the Antiq. Soc. at Worcester. Dau. of Rev. Samuel. — See Living Age, No. 735; Allibone.

Crocker, MARCELLUS M., brev. maj.-gen., vols.; d. Washington, D.C., Aug. 1865. Studied 2 years at West Point; settled as a lawyer in Des Moines, Iowa. Maj. 2d Iowa vols., May, 1861; col. 13 July, 1861, and disting. at Shiloh; brig.-gen. in the Atlanta campaign under Sherman.

Crockett, COL. DAVID, noted for eccentricity, b. Greene Co., Tenn., 17 Aug. 1786; d. 6 Mar. 1836, at San Antonio de Bexar. Son of a Revol. soldier. His education was scanty; but he became a noted marksman and hunter. Served under Gen Jackson in his Creek campaign, 1813–14; was a member of the legisl., and was M.C. in 1828–34, but, becoming an opponent of Pres. Jackson, lost popularity, and, in 1834, removed to Texas. At Washington, his singular manners and oddity of expression, gave him great notoriety. Engaging with zeal in the contest with the Mexicans, he fell, while heroically fighting in defence of the Alamo. His autobiography was pub. Phila., 1834, "Tour to the North and Down East," 1835; "Sketches and Eccentricities," 1847; "Exploits in Texas," "Life of Van Buren," 1835. His son JOHN W., M.C. 1838–43, d. Memphis, Tenn., 24 Nov. 1852.

Croes, JOHN, D.D. (Col. Coll. 1811), Pr.-Ep. bishop of N.J., b. Elizabethtown, 1753; d. New Brunswick, July 30, 1832. Of German extraction. His early efforts to procure an education by his own exertions were retarded by the Revol. war, during the latter years of which he was engaged in defence of his country. Ord. deacon in 1790, and, in 1792, priest. After officiating at Swedesborough, he was, in 1801, invited by the societies of Christ Church, N. Brunswick, and St. Peter's Church, Spottswood, to become their pastor, and was at the same time elected principal of the Acad. at N. Brunswick. This charge he resigned in 1808, having previously resigned that of the church at Spottswood, and devoted himself solely to the church at N. Brunswick. Elected, in 1815, bishop of Ct., he declined the appt., and was consec. bishop of N.J., 19 Nov. 1815.

Croghan (kro'-gan), COL. GEORGE, Indian agent, b. Ireland; d. Passayunk, Pa., ab. Aug. 1782. He was educated in Dublin; settled near Harrisburg, Pa.; was an Indian trader as early as 1746, and, acquiring their languages and their confidence, became agent for the Colony. He was a capt. in Braddock's exped. in 1755; was employed in defence of the Western frontier in 1756, and in Nov. was made dep. Indian agent for the Pa. and Ohio Indians by Sir W. Johnson, who in 1763 sent him to Eng. to confer with the ministry ab. an Indian boundary-line. In this voyage, he was shipwrecked on the coast of France. While on his way, in 1765, to pacify the Illinois Indians, he was attacked, June 8, wounded, and taken to Vincennes, but was soon released, and accomplished his mission. In May, 1766, he made a settlement 4 miles above Fort Pitt. He continued to render valuable service in pacifying the Indians, and conciliating them to the British interest until 1776. He was an object of suspicion to the Revol. authorities in 1778, but, as he continued to reside on his farm, was doubtless, unjustly accused. — O'Callaghan.

Croghan, GEORGE, insp.-gen. U.S.A., b. near Louisville, Ky., Nov. 15, 1791; d. N. Orleans, Jan. 8, 1849. Wm. and Mary Coll. 1810. His father was Maj. William Croghan of the Revol., and his mother was a sister of Gen. Geo. Rogers Clarke. Aide to Col. Boyd at the battle of Tippecanoe in 1811, and made capt. 17th Inf., Mar. 12, 1812. He highly disting. himself under Harrison, in the sortie from Fort Meigs; became his aide-de-camp, rank of maj., Mar. 30, 1813, and, on the 1st and 2d of Aug. following, conducted the memorable defence of Fort Stephenson, at Lower Sandusky, against Gen. Proctor, with an army of 500 regulars and 700 Indians. Maj. Croghan was brev. lieut.-col. for his gallantry on this occasion, and subsequently received from Congress a gold medal. Made a lieut.-col. Feb. 21, 1814; upon the reduction of the army at the close of the war, he was transferred to the 1st Inf. He resigned in 1817; was postmaster at New Orleans in 1824, and was app. insp.-gen., with the rank of col., Dec. 21, 1825. In 1846, he joined Taylor's army in Mexico, and served with credit at the battle of Monterey. His son, Col. GEORGE ST. JOHN CROGHAN, was killed in a skirmish in W. Va. during Floyd's retreat from Cotton Hill, in Dec. 1861. He invented a pack-saddle for mules, for conveying wounded men over the steep mountain-passes of W. Va., successfully used.

Croix, JOHN BAPTIST DE LA, bishop of Quebec, b. of a noble family of Grenoble, France, 1653; d. Quebec, Dec. 28, 1727. First almoner to Louis XIV., he came to Canada in 1685 as successor of Bishop Laval. He founded 3 hospitals, and displayed great charity to the poor.

Cronyn, RT. REV. BENJAMIN, consec. bishop of Huron in 1857, b. 1802. Educated at Trin. Coll., Dublin. Taking orders, he held a pastoral charge in Canada. D. Sept. 22, 1871.

Crook, GEORGE, brev. maj.-gen. U. S. A., b. near Dayton, O., Sept. 8, 1828. W. Point, 1852. Entering the 4th Inf., he became 1st lieut. Mar. 1856, and capt. May 14, 1861; com

Digitized by Google

Pitt River exped., and wounded by an Indian arrow, 10 June, 1857; became, Sept. 12, 1861, col. 36th O. vols., serving in Western Va., and, at the head of 1,300 men, repulsed a much larger body of Confederates at Lewisburg, Greenbrier Co., Apr. 23, 1862. Brig.-gen. Sept. 7, 1862; took com. of the dist. of Kanawha, and engaged in the battles of South Mountain and Antietam; transferred in Jan. 1863 to com. the 2d cavalry div. of the Army of the Cumberland; fought at Chickamauga; defeated and drove the rebel Gen. Wheeler across the Tennessee with great loss; com. the 3d div. in W. Va. in April, 1864; defeated and killed Gen. Jenkins at Cloyd Mountain, May 9; brev. maj.-gen. July 18, and put in com. of the army of W. Va. He took part in Sheridan's brilliant operations in the Shenandoah Valley, especially at Opequan, Fisher's Hill, and Cedar Creek, and in his cavalry operations, ending in Lee's surrender. Maj.-gen. vols. 21 Oct. 1864; Feb. 21, 1865, he was captured by guerillas, who surprised his quarters in the night, and was exchanged Mar. 20; brev. brig.-gen. U. S. A. 13 Mar. 1865, for the camp. of 1864 in W. Va; lieut.-col. 23d Inf., July 28, 1866; brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A. for Fisher's Hill, Va.; brig.-gen. U.S.A. Oct. 30, 1873. — Reid's Ohio in the War.

Crooks, George R., D.D., clergyman and lexicographer, b. Phila., Feb. 3, 1822. Dick. Coll. 1840. He entered the ministry of the M. E. Church in 1841; labored in Fulton, Knox, and Peoria Counties, Ill.; was chosen tutor in Dick. Coll. in 1842, and in 1843 became principal of the grammar school of the coll., and assoc. with Prof. McClintock in preparing Latin and Greek text-books. In 1846, he was elected adjunct prof. of ancient languages, but in 1848 resumed the pastoral office. He has had charge of prominent churches in Phila., Wilmington, and New York, and holds a high rank as a preacher. He has pub. an edition of "Butler's Analogy," with an analysis, notes, and an index, and a Latin-English lexicon. Contrib. to Meth. Quarterly Rev.

Cropper, Gen. John, Revol. officer, b. Va., 1756; d. Bowman's Folly, Accomac Co., Va., Jan. 15, 1821. Capt. in the 9th Va. regt. in 1775, he was soon promoted to a majority in the 5th regt., which, at the battle of the Brandywine, was nearly cut to pieces; was then made lieut.-col. of the 7th Va. regt., and was at the battles of Germantown and Monmouth. Lieut.-col. 11th regt., May 15, 1778; afterwards its col.

Cropsey, Jasper Francis, artist, b. Staten Island, N.Y., Feb. 18, 1823. He studied architecture, but, on account of ill-health, devoted himself to landscape-painting, and by his picture of Greenwood Lake, N. Y., gained a membership in the Acad. of Design. From 1847 to 1850, he studied in Europe. Among his most successful pictures since are the "Sibyl's Temple," "American Harvesting," "Peace" and "War," "Autumn on the Hudson," "Richmond Hill," and "Niagara Falls." From June, 1856, to 1863, he resided in Eng. He has executed designs for illustrated books of poems, compositions entitled "The Olden Time," "A Tournament," and "Return from Hawking."

Crosby, Alpheus, scholar, b. Sandwich, N.H., Oct. 13, 1810. Dartm. Coll. 1827. Preceptor of Moor's Charity School, Hanover, 1827–8; tutor at Dartm. Coll., 1829–31; prof. of Latin and Greek there, 1833–7; of Greek only, since 1837; principal of the Normal School at Salem, Ms., 1857–65. Has pub. Greek text-books, an edition of Xenophon's "Anabasis;" "First Lessons in Geometry;" and an "Essay on the Second Advent."

Crosby, Enoch, a Revol. patriot, said to be the original of Cooper's "Harvey Birch," the "Spy," b. Harwich, Ms., Jan. 4, 1750; d. June 26, 1835. During his infancy, his parents settled in South-east, Duchess Co., N.Y. He became a shoemaker, but, when the Revol. broke out, shouldered a musket, became engaged in the "secret service," and afterward joined the army under Heath, stationed in the Highlands. The narrative of his life and adventures, taken from his own lips by Capt. H. L. Barnum, has been pub., entitled "The Spy Unmasked," 8vo, N.Y., 1828. — Lossing.

Crosby, Howard, b. N. Y. City, 1826. Prof. of Greek in the U. of N.Y.; chancellor, Nov. 18, 1870. Great-grandson of Wm. Floyd. Pub. "Lands of the Moslem," 8vo, 1851; the New Testament, with brief explan. notes. Editor of Sophocles' Œdipus Tyrannus.

Crosby, Pierce, capt. U. S. N., b. Delaware Co., Pa., Jan. 16, 1823. Midshipman, Jan. 5, 1838; lieut. Sept. 3, 1853; com. Sept. 2, 1862; capt. May 27, 1868; attached to sloop "Decatur," and present at Tabasco and Tuspan, Mexico; served in Chesapeake Bay, 1861, and sloop "Cumberland," N.A.B. squadron, at capture of Hatteras, where he rendered essential service in landing troops; com. steamer "Pinola," W. Gulf squad., 1862; co-operated in bombard. and capture of Forts Jackson and St. Philip, and N. Orleans, and in the removal of obstructions in the river previous to the battle; and at Vicksburg, and engagement with the ram "Arkansas;" com. iron-clad "Sangamon," 1863; steamer "Florida," 1863–4, in engagement at Masonboro'Inlet, N.C., while destroying four blockade-runners; com. steamer "Metacomet" in attack on Mobile, and planned and constructed torpedo drag-nets for Blakely River, and com. "Shamokin," S.A. squadron, 1866–8. — Hamersly.

Cross, Trueman, col., assist. quarterm.-gen. U. S. A., b. Md.; killed by Mex. banditti, near Fort Brown, Apr. 21, 1846. Ensign 42d Inf., Apr. 27, 1814; capt. Sept. 1819; assist. insp.-gen. Oct. 19, 1820; q.-mr. May 22, 1826; assist. q.-mr.-gen., rank col., July 7, 1838; chief of q.-mr.'s depart. of army of occupation from Oct. 1845 till his death. Author of "Military Laws of the U.S." — Gardner.

Croswell, Andrew, clergyman, b Charlestown, Ms., 1709; d. Boston, April 12, 1785. H.U. 1728. Ord. North Groton, Oct. 14, 1736. After having been two years settled in Groton, Ct., he was, Oct. 6, 1748, installed over a society in Boston, formed by persons from other churches. He was much engaged in religious controversy; wrote a narrative of the new Cong. Church; a defence of the doctrine of justification, 1746; an answer to Giles Firmin's 8 arguments on this subject; several sermons against Arminians; controversial writings with Turell, Cumming, and others; part of an exposition of Paul's journey to Damascus, 1768; remarks on Bishop Warburton's sermon before the Society for Propagating the Gospel, 1768; remarks on commencement drollery, 1771, &c.

Digitized by Google

Croswell, EDWIN, journalist and politician, nephew of Rev. Harry, b. Catskill, N.Y., 29 May, 1797; d. Princeton, N.J., 13 June, 1871. He became assist. editor of the Catskill Recorder, sustaining the War of 1812, and, on the retirement of his father, managed the paper so as to attract the attention of prominent public men. In 1824, he took charge of the Albany Argus, which he changed to a daily, and made one of the chief organs of the Democ. party. State printer, 1823–40. He retired from the Argus in 1854. He pub. addresses and other literary productions.

Croswell, HARRY, D.D. (Trin. Coll. 1831), clergyman, b. West Hartford, Ct., June 16, 1778; d. New Haven, March 13, 1858. Noah Webster was his schoolmaster. In 1802, he became editor and proprietor of the Balance, a famous Federal newspaper, at Hudson, N.Y. He wrote vigorously and severely of political opponents. An article published in the Wasp, a journal also under his direction, levelled at Jefferson, led to a libel-suit, and the celebrated trial in which Hamilton made his last and one of his greatest forensic efforts. Removing to Albany in 1808, he established a Federal paper, and was again prosecuted for libel; his opponent, Mr. Southwick recovering damages. Dissatisfied with politics, Mr. Croswell took deacon's orders in the Pr.-Ep. Church in 1814, preached at Christ Church, Hudson, N.Y., and in 1815 commenced his ministry at Trinity Church, New Haven, which terminated only with his death. He was the author of a memoir of his son Rev. Wm. Croswell, "Rudiments of the Church," and "Family Prayers."

Croswell, WILLIAM, D.D. (Trin. Coll. 1846), Pr.-Ep. clergyman and scholar, son of Dr. Harry, b. Hudson, N.Y., Nov. 7, 1804; d. Boston, Nov. 9, 1851. Y. C. 1822. He commenced the study of law at Albany, N.Y., in conjunction with literary labors in 1824, but in 1826 entered the gen. theol. sem. in New York. He pursued his theol. studies at Hartford, in 1827, under the direction of Bishop Brownell, at the same time editing the Christian Watchman, and indulging his poetic vein in compositions, among the sweetest and most pathetic in our language. Adm. in the spring of 1829 to the priesthood; rector of Christ Church, Boston, 1829–40; of St. Peter's, Auburn, N.Y., 1840–44; but in 1844 returned to Boston to take charge of a new parish, the Church of the Advent, and was involved in a controversy with Bishop Eastburn. A memoir of his life by his father, together with his poems and correspondence, was pub. in New York, 8vo, 1853. His life was a beautiful example of self-denying charity and religious devotion.

Crowe, FREDERICK, clergyman and author, b. Belgium; d. N.Y. City, Nov. 7, 1858. He was the son of a British subject. Came to Balize about 1838, and established himself as an independent missionary; labored 13 years in disseminating the Scriptures in Spanish Amer., and was the author of a valuable historical work on Central America. He was expelled from San Salvador, as is said, by the Catholics, because he circulated the Bible, and intended to open a school in San Miguel. After being imprisoned, harassed, and at last driven by mob-violence from the country, he came to N.Y., and soon after died.

Crowninshield, BENJAMIN WILLIAMS, sec. navy, Dec. 1814, to Nov. 1818; M.C. 1823–31; b. Boston, Dec. 27, 1772; d. there, Feb. 3, 1851; State senator, 1811, '22, '23.

Cruger, HENRY, jun., politician, b. N.Y. City. 1739; d. there Apr. 24, 1827. Henry, his father, merchant, and member of the assembly and council of N.Y., went to Eng. for his health, and d. Bristol, Feb. 8, 1780, a. 78. He established himself in trade in Bristol with his father, succeeding him as mayor in 1781. Elected to parliament as the colleague of Burke in 1774, and re-elected in 1784, he advocated upon all occasions a conciliatory course toward his countrymen. He retorted with such severity upon Col. Grant, who stated in parliament that the Americans would never dare to face an English army, as to be called to order by the speaker. After the war, he was a merchant in N.Y., and was elected to the State senate while still a member of parliament. A bro., J. H., was a col. in the royal army; another, a merchant of N.Y., was identified with the Whigs, and a friend of Gen. Washington.

Cruger, JOHN, uncle of Henry; d. N.Y. City, 1791–2, a. 82. Mayor of N.Y. City, 1764; speaker of the assembly, 1765; a proposer, and afterward a prominent member, of the first N.Y. Prov. Congress in 1775. The Declaration of Rights issued by that body was written by him.

Cruger, LIEUT.-COL. JOHN HARRIS, loyalist, b. N.Y. City, 1738; d. London, June 3, 1807. Nephew of John, and brother of Henry. He succeeded his father Henry as a member of the council, and at the beginning of the Revol. was also chamberlain of N.Y. City. He was a son-in-law of Gen. Delancey, and com. the 1st batt. of his loyalist corps. Captured at a plantation in Belfast, Ga., in June, 1780, but was soon exchanged for Col. John McIntosh. In Sept. he made a forced march to Augusta to relieve Col. Browne, and arrived most opportunely. His corps formed the British centre at the battle of Eutaw Springs, and was disting. His defence of Ninety-Six, when attacked by Greene in May, 1781, backed by the engineering skill of Kosciusko, and until relieved by Rawdon, earned for him great and just applause. His property was confiscated; and he went to Eng. after the war.

Cruse, PETER HOFFMAN, b. Baltimore, 1793; d. 1832. He edited the Baltimore American several years, and contrib. largely to reviews. Some of his poetry will be found in "The Red Book," a periodical pub. in Baltimore, 1818–19, by Mr. Cruse and J. P. Kennedy. — Allibone.

Cruttenden, DAVID H., b. Saratoga Co., N.Y., 1816. Un. Coll. 1841. Author of a series of "Systematic Arithmetics," "Philosophy of Sentential Language;" "Geography and History combined," &c. — Allibone.

Digitized by Google

Cudworth, GEN. JAMES; d. Eng., 1682, a. ab. 70. Son of Rev. Ralph, and bro. of Ralph Cudworth, D.D., author of "The Intellectual System of the Universe." He came to Plymouth in 1634; soon removed to Scituate; was several years assist. and one of the council of war. He com. the Plymouth troops in Philip's war; was next in military renown to Standish, and was a brave and prudent officer. Independent in his opinions, and tolerant, he opposed the severe measures against the Quakers, and was therefore unpopular. He went to Eng. as agent for the Colony in 1681, and d. soon after his arrival. Such of his letters on public business as are still extant afford evidence of a good education. Dep. gov. 1681.

Cuffee, PAUL, a philanthropic negro sea-capt., b. on one of the Elizabeth Isles, near N. Bedford, Ms., 1759; d. Sept. 7, 1818. His father, a native of Africa, was once a slave; his mother was of Indian extraction. A commanding presence, strong common sense, and untiring industry and enterprise, procured him a handsome fortune in seafaring pursuits. He was an esteemed member of the society of Friends. He encouraged the emigration of the free people of color in this country to Sierra Leone. In 1815, he carried thither 38 emigrants, 30 at his own expense, furnishing them, on arrival, with means of subsistence; spending in this enterprise nearly $4,000. He pub. in 1812 a brief account of the colony of Sierra Leone.

Cullum, GEORGE WASHINGTON, brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. N.Y. City, Feb. 25, 1812. West Point, 1833. Entering the engr. corps, he became capt. July 7, 1838; maj. Aug. 6, 1861; lieut.-col. Mar. 3, 1863; col. Mar. 7, 1867. He was employed in the construction of Fort Adams and other works at Newport, R.I.; from 1838 to 1848, he superintended the erection of Fort Trumbull, and the battery at Fort Griswold, New London, Ct., and from 1846 to 1848 of Forts Warren, Independence, and Winthrop, in Boston harbor. From 1848 to 1855, he was instructor of practical engineering at West Point, during which time he spent two years in foreign travel for his health, and in 1853–4 constructed the N.Y. assay office. He was also, in 1848, com. of sappers, miners, and pontoniers in the army. He afterward superintended the construction of the fortifications and other public works in N. and S. Carolina, and in 1858 took charge of those at N. Bedford, Newport, N. London, and New York, on the Sound. Early in 1861, he was ordered to Washington; served as aide-de-camp to Gen. Scott, with the rank of col. Nov. 1, 1861, he was made a brig.-gen. of vols., and app. chief of staff and engrs. to Gen. Halleck, serving through the campaign before Corinth, and accomp. him to Washington. While at the West, he also had com. for some time at Cairo, Ill., and in 1861–4 was a member of the U.S. sanitary commiss.; supt. U.S. military acad., 8 Sept. 1864 to 28 Aug. 1866; brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., 13 Mar. 1865, for merit. services in the Rebellion. Gen. Cullum has pub. a "Register of the Officers and Graduates of the U.S. Military Academy," 1850; "Military Bridges with India-Rubber Pontoons," 1849, 2d ed., 1863; a translation of Duparcq's "Elements of Military Art and History," 1863, and "Biog. Register of the Officers and Grad. of West Point," 2 vols., 1868.

Culpepper, JOHN, a surveyor-gen. and political leader in the Carolinas, was a refugee from the Southern or Clarendon colony, and in 1678 headed an insurrection in the Northern or Albemarle colony, in favor of popular liberty. Under his lead, the people deposed the pres. and deputies of the proprietaries, seized the public funds, app. new magistrates and judges, called a parliament, and took all the functions of govt. into their own hands. Culpepper was then sent to Eng. to negotiate a compromise. Indicted for high-treason, he was, through the influence of Shaftesbury, acquitted; returned to Carolina, and in 1680 laid out the city of Charleston. — Appleton.

Culpepper, THOMAS, Lord, gov. of Va., 1680–3; d. 1719. He was one of the grantees of the territory of Va., and in 1669 purchased of his co-grantees their rights between the Rappahannock and Potomac Rivers. He had been one of the commissioners for plantations in July, 1675. He was an able but an artful and covetous man. His estate descended to his dau., Lady Fairfax. Returning to Eng. in 1683, in violation of his orders, he was arrested immediately on his arrival; and having received presents from the assembly, contrary to his instructions, a jury of Middlesex found that he had forfeited his commission.

Culvert, GEORGE, a head chief and warrior of the Choctaw nation, b. 1744; d. Fort Towson, Ark., Nov. 4, 1839; served under Washington in the Revol., and received from him a com. of maj. of militia in the U.S. service, and a sword. He served under Wayne, and also under Jackson, against the Seminoles, in 1814. For his bravery, Jackson presented him with a col's. com., and afterward (during his presidency) with a sword. He educated his sons, and established them on plantations among his people. He was, physically and mentally, a great man.

Cumming, ALFRED, brig.-gen. C.S.A., b. Ga., 1829; killed at the battle of Jonesboro', Ga., Sept. 1, 1864. West Point, 1849. Capt. 10th Inf., 20 July, 1856; res. Jan. 19, 1861, and entered rebel army. Gov. of Utah, 1857–61.

Cumming, GEN. JOHN NOBLE, Revol. officer; d. Newark, N.J., July 6, 1821, a. 69. N.J. Coll. 1774. He was a relative of Rev. Alex. His son, Rev. Hooper Cumming, D.D., minister of Newark, d. Charleston, S.C., Dec. 1825. N.J. Coll. 1805.

Cumming, MAJOR-GEN. ROBERT, naval officer of the Revol.; d. Libertytown, Md., Feb. 14, 1826, a. 70.

Cumming, WILLIAM, col., b. Ga., 1788; d. Augusta, Ga., Feb. 1863. App. maj. 8th Inf., 25 Mar. 1813; wounded at the battle of Chrystler's Fields, 11 Nov. 1813; adj.-gen., rank of col., 16 Feb. 1814 to 31 Mar. 1815; severely wounded at Lundy's Lane; app. maj.-gen. 3 Mar. 1847, declined. He studied at the Litchf. Law School, but, inheriting a fortune, never practised. He wounded McDuffie in a duel

Digitized by Google

Cummings, Asa, D.D. (B.C. 1847), minister of North Yarmouth, Me., 1821–9; editor of the Christian Mirror, Portland, from 1826 to 1856; b. Andover, Ms., Sept. 29, 1790; d. at sea, June 5, 1856, while returning from Panama. H.U. 1817. Tutor at Bowd. Coll. 1819–20. He pub. "Memoirs of Dr. Payson."

Cummings, Henry, D.D. (H.U. 1800), divine, b. Hollis, N.H., Sept. 28, 1739; d. Baltimore, Sept. 5, 1823. H. U. 1760. Ord. at Baltimore, Jan. 26, 1763. Many years settled at Billerica, Ms. Fourteen of his occasional discourses were pub. — Allen.

Cummings, Jacob A., teacher and bookseller of Boston, b. Hollis, N.H., Nov. 2, 1772; d. Feb. 24, 1820. H. U. 1801. He pub. some elementary school-books, "New-Testament Questions," 1817; "Geography, Ancient and Modern."

Cummings, Joseph, D.D., LL.D., pres. of the Wesl. U., Middletown, Ct., b. Falmouth, Me., March 3, 1817. Wesl. U. 1840. He became prof. of natural science in the Amenia Sem., N.Y., and principal in 1843. He was licensed to preach in 1841; in 1846 joined the N. E. conference; was in 1853 app. prof. of theology in the Meth. gen. biblical institute at Concord, N.H.; pres. of Geneva College, 1854–7, and of Wesleyan U. since 1857; D.D. of Wes. U. 1854; LL.D. of the North-western U. 1866.

Cummins, Ebenezer H., clergyman and author, b. N.C.; d. Washington, Jan. 17, 1835. Frank. Coll. 1804. He was educated for the bar in Ga.; served in the State legisl., then entered the marine corps; afterward studied divinity, and settled in Baltimore, where he was a magistrate. Author of a "History of the Late War," 8vo, Balt., 1820; "Geography of Ala.," 1819.

Cummins, Francis, D.D. (U. of Ga. 1820), Presb. clergyman, b. near Shippensburg, Pa., 1752; d. Greenesboro', Ga., 22 Feb. 1832. A. M. of N.J. Coll. 1787. He was a Revol. patriot; and his name is connected with the celebrated Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence of May, 1775; licensed by the presbytery of Orange, N.C., 15 Dec. 1780; member of the S.C. convention, to consider the U.S. Constitution in 1778. For 53 years, he was pastor of different churches in S.C. and Ga. — Sprague.

Cummins, Maria S., novelist, b. Salem, Apr. 10, 1827; d. Dorchester, Ms., Oct. 1, 1866. Dau. of Judge David. Author of "Lamplighter," 1853; "El Fureidis," 1860; "Mabel Vaughan," 1857; "Haunted Hearts," and other novels. She was a contrib. to the Atlantic Monthly and Young Folks. Her first book attained a sale of 100,000.

Cunha Barbosa (Koon'-yä bar-bo'-să), Januario da, Brazilian prelate and statesman, b. July 10, 1780; d. Feb. 22, 1846. He was chaplain of John VI., and afterward prof. of moral philosophy. Dec. 15, 1821, he established, in conjunction with Ledo, a political journal at Rio de Janeiro, favoring Brazilian independence. After this had been declared, Cunha was, at the instigation of his enemies, arrested Dec. 7, 1822, and banished to France. To repair this injustice, he was app. in 1824 canon of the imperial chapel. In 1826, he became a member of the assembly. In concert with Gen. Cunha, he founded the Hist. and Geog. Society of Rio de Janeiro. He also edited a political journal favorable to the govt., and an agricultural paper. He was also imperial historiographer, and director of the national library. He left a small vol. of poems. — Appleton.

Cunha Mattos, Raymunde Jose da, Brazilian gen. and author, b. Faro, Prov. of Algarve, Nov. 2, 1776; d. March, 1840. He entered the Portuguese army in 1790, served 3 years in the south of France, and 18 years in Africa, then served in Rio Janeiro, and was afterwards acting gov. of St. Thomas. In 1817, he returned to Brazil, com. the art. of Pernambuco, and subsequently governed the province of Goyaz. He pub. a work on the interior of Brazil, in 1836. Removing to Rio de Janeiro in 1826, he was elected to the legisl.; directed the military acad. of Rio in 1832, and was soon after made com.-in-chief of the Brazilian army. He was sec. for life of the Industrial Aid Society, and one of the founders, and for several years vice-pres., of the Hist. Society of Rio de Janeiro.

Cunningham, Gen. Robert, loyalist; d. Nassau, New Providence, 1813, a. 74. In 1769, he settled in the dist. of Ninety-Six, and became a judge; imprisoned by the Whigs in Charleston, in 1775–July, 1776; made a brig.-gen. of loyalists in 1780, and placed in com. of a garrison in S.C. He removed to Nassau, N.P. The British Govt. compensated him for his losses, and gave him an annuity.

Cunningham, William, prov.-marshal of the British army in New York during the Revol. war, was executed for forgery at London Dock, Aug. 10, 1791. (See his confession in Ms. Centinel, Feb. 15, 1792.) Of the prisoners under his care, 2,000 were starved to death, and more than 250 were privately hung without ceremony.

Curry, Daniel, D.D. (Wesl. U. 1852), clergyman and author, b. near Peekskill, N.Y., Nov. 26, 1809. Wesl. U., Ct., 1837. Principal of the Troy Conference Acad., 1837. In 1839 he removed to Ga., where he was stationed successively at Athens, Savannah, and Columbus. He entered the N.Y. Conference in 1844. After having been stationed in the cities of N.Y., N. Haven, Brooklyn, and Hartford, he was, in 1854–7, pres. of the Indiana Asbury U. Returning to Brooklyn, he was, in 1858, pastor of the church in Middletown, and in 1862, at 37th St., N.Y. City. He has contrib. to the magazines of the day. Author of "Life of Wycliffe, and "Metropolitan City of America." He has also edited Southey's "Life of Wesley." Ed. of the Christian Advocate since 1864.

Curry, Jabez Lafayette Monroe, politician, b. Lincoln Co., Ga., June 5, 1825; removed in 1838, with his family, to Talladega Co., Ala. U. of Ga. 1843; H.U. Law School in 1845, and became a disting. lawyer. Member of the Ala. H. of representatives in 1847, '53, and '55; and in 1857–61, M.C., distinguishing himself as a debater. Jan. 7, 1861, he joined the other representatives of Ala. at Washington in advising the immediate secession of the State. He was a member of the Confed. Congress. After the war, he became a Baptist preacher, and pres. of Howard Coll., Ala., in 1865.

Digitized by Google

Curtin, ANDREW GREGG, statesman, b. Bellefonte, Pa., Apr. 22, 1817. Adm. to the bar in 1839, and practised at Bellefonte. He canvassed the State for Clay in 1844, and for Taylor in 1848. From 1855 to 1858, he was sec. of state, and supt. of common schools for Pa. In 1860, he was elected gov. by the Repub. party. When the civil war broke out in 1861, he was zealous in organizing troops, and in May, 1861, in a message to the legisl., advised the establishment of a reserve-corps, which rendered important service to the country. He was re-elected in 1863, and was one of the leading spirits among the loyal govs. of the Northern States during the civil war. He was active in the election of Gen. Grant, who app. him minister to Russia in Apr. '69. Res. Aug. '72.

Curtis, ALVA, M.D., b. N.H., 1797. Edited Physico-Med. Recorder 20 years in Cincin. Author of "Medical Discussions," 12mo, 1833; "Lectures on Obstetrics," 8vo, 1838; "Theory and Practice of Medicine," 8vo, 1842, repub. in Eng.; "Medical Criticisms," 1856. —Allibone.

Curtis, BENJAMIN ROBBINS, LL.D. (H.U. 1852), jurist, b. Watertown, Ms., Nov. 4, 1809. H.U. 1829. Adm. to the bar in 1832, he commenced practice at Northfield, Ms., but in 1834 removed to Boston, where he took high rank. App. to the bench of the U.S. Supreme Court in Sept. 1851, he resigned in the autumn of 1857, and has since practised his profession in Boston. He was two years in the Ms. H. of representatives. In Mar. 1868, he was one of the counsel for Pres. Johnson before the Court of Impeachment. Author of "Reports of U.S. Circuit Court," 2 vols., 1857; "Decisions of the U.S. Sup. Court," 22 vols.; "Digest" of the same to 1854; d. Newport, R. I., Sep. 15, 1874.

Curtis, GEORGE TICKNOR, jurist and author, bro. of B. R. Curtis, b. Watertown, Ms., Nov. 28, 1812. H.U. 1832. Adm. to the Suffolk bar, Aug. 1836, and representative in 1840–4. Mr. Curtis has pub. "Rights and Duties of Merchant Seamen," "Digest of the Decisions of the Courts of Common Law and Admiralty," 2 vols.; also of "Cases in the Amer. and English Courts of Admiralty," "American Conveyancer," "Treatise on the Law of Patents," "Equity Precedents," a tract, entitled "The Rights of Conscience and Property," a treatise on the "Law of Copyright," and a "Life of Daniel Webster," 2 vols., 8vo. He has also delivered a course of 12 lectures on the History of the U.S. Constitution. In 1854–8, he pub. "Commentaries on the Jurisprudence, Practice, and Peculiar Jurisdiction, of the Courts of the U.S." His best known work is a "History of the Origin, Formation, and Adoption of the Constitution of the U.S.," 2 vols., 1855–8.

Curtis, GEORGE WILLIAM, author, b. Providence, R.I., Feb. 24, 1824. His mother, was a dau. of Senator Burrill of R.I. He received his early education at Jamaica Plain, Ms. When he was 15, his father removed to N.Y., where he was one year in a counting house. In 1842, he went with his elder brother to reside with the Brook Farm Assoc., where he remained 18 months, and also spent a similar period in Concord, Ms., engaged in agriculture and study, and enjoying the society of Emerson and Hawthorne. In 1846, he went to Europe, and, after a year in Italy, entered the U. of Berlin, witnessing the revol. scenes of 1848. The 2 following years he spent chiefly in travel in Europe, Egypt, and Syria. He returned to the U.S. in 1850. Joining the editorial staff of the N.Y. Tribune, a series of letters to that journal afterwards appeared, entitled "Lotus Eating." He was one of the original editors of Putnam's Monthly, and, in the attempt to save its creditors from loss by the failure of the publishers, sunk his entire private fortune. As a lyceum lecturer since 1853, he has met with great success. In the presidential canvass of 1856, he enlisted with great zeal as a public speaker on behalf of the Repub. party. He has delivered several poems and orations before literary bodies. In the winter of 1858, he advocated the rights of women in a lecture entitled "Fair Play for Women." He has contrib. to, and for many years edited, Harper's Monthly, and since 1857 Harper's Weekly. Author of "The Potiphar Papers," a series of satiric sketches of society; "Trumps," a novel; "Nile-Notes of a Howadji," 1850; "Howadji, in Syria," 1852; "Prue and I," 1856. He edited A. J. Downing's "Rural Essays," with a memoir.

Curtis, SAMUEL RYAN, maj.-gen. vols., b. O., Feb. 3, 1807; d. Council Bluffs, Ia., Dec. 25, 1866. West Point, 1831. His family was from Ct. Resigning from the army in 1832, he studied and practised law, and was in 1837–40 engr. of the Muskingum Works. As col. 2d O. vols., he served under Taylor, and as assist adj.-gen. to Gen. Wool in the Mexican war, and was for a time gov. of Saltillo, Mex. He was afterward engaged in engineering at the West; settled as a lawyer at Keokuk, Ia., in 1855, and was M.C. in 1857–61. Here he was identified with the Repub. party and with the Pacific Railroad project. Member of the peace congress, 1861. When the Rebellion broke out, he became col. 2d Ia. vols.; app. brig.-gen. May 17, 1861, and maj.-gen. Mar. 21, 1862. He com. the army operating in S. W. Mo., and gained the victory of Pea Ridge over Price and McCulloch, Mar. 6–8, 1862. He was in com. at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., during the Price raid in Oct. 1864, and co-operated in the pursuit and defeat of Price's army. U.S. commis. to treat with the Sioux, Cheyennes, and other Indian tribes, Aug.–Nov. 1865, and to examine the Union Pacific Railroad, Nov. 1865 to Apr. 1866.

Curtiss, ABBY ALLIN, poet, b. Pomfret, Ct., 15 Sept. 1820. Daniel Allin, her father, was a sea-captain of Providence, R.I. Her first piece, "Take me Home to Die," app. in Neal's Gazette in 1846. In Sept. 1852, she m. Daniel S. Curtiss, farmer-editor of Chicago, and resides at Madison, Wis. Author of "Home Ballads," Boston, 1850. — Poets and Poetry of the West.

Curwen, SAMUEL, a merchant and loyalist.

Digitized by Google

b. Salem, Ms., Dec. 28, 1715; d. there Apr. 9, 1802. Son of Rev. George. He was educated for the ministry, but engaged in commercial pursuits in Salem, and in the winter of 1744–5 was a capt. in Pepperell's successful exped. against Louisburg. In 1759, Mr. Curwen was app. impost officer for Essex Co., and in 1775 was judge of the Admiralty Court. He left his country in May, 1775, and resided abroad until the autumn of 1784, when he returned to his native town. His Journal and Letters were pub. in 1842, with notices of his fellow-loyalists, by the editor, Geo. A. Ward of N. Y.

Cushing, CALEB, LL.D. (H. U. 1852), politician, orator, and jurist, b. Salisbury, Ms., Jan. 17, 1800. H. U. 1817. His father acquired a handsome fortune in the shipping business. He studied law at Cambridge; was tutor of mathematics and natural philos. two years, and then removed to Newburyport to practise law. In 1825–6, he served in the State legisl., and in 1829 visited Europe, publishing, on his return, "Reminiscences of Spain," and "Review of the Revol. in France." He also wrote for the N. Amer. Review, mainly on historical and legal subjects. In 1833–4, he was again elected to the legisl., and was M. C. from 1835 to 1843. During the administration of Tyler, Mr. Cushing was one of the few Whigs who sustained the course of that Pres. in abandoning his political friends; since which, he has been connected with the Democ. party. App. by Pres. Tyler commissioner to China in 1843, he negotiated an important treaty in 1844. Returning to Newburyport in 1846, he was again elected to the legisl., in which he was the most prominent member. He advocated the policy of the Mexican war, advanced the money from his own means for equipping the Ms. regt., of which he was chosen col., accomp. it to the Rio Grande in the spring of 1847, and April 14, 1847, was app. a brig.-gen. While in Mexico, in 1847, he was the Democ. candidate for gov. of Ms., and was defeated. In 1850, he was a 5th time elected to the legisl., and was mayor of Newburyport; in 1852 was made a justice of the State Supreme Court; was atty.-gen. under Pres. Pierce, 1853–7, and, on his return home was again re-elected to the legisl., remaining until 1860. In 1860, he was pres. of the Democ. convention at Charleston, S. C. In July, 1866, he was app. one of three to revise and codify the laws of the U. S. His literary, historical, and political productions, as well as his orations and addresses, have been very numerous. He delivered a poem before the Phi Beta Kappa Society in 1819, and an oration on the Durability of the Federal Union, on taking his degree. In 1826, he pub. a "History of Newburyport," and a treatise on "The Practical Principles of Political Economy;" "Growth and Territorial Progress of the U. S.," 8vo, 1839; "Life of Wm. H. Harrison," Boston, 12mo, 1840.

Cushing, JONATHAN PETER, pres. of Hamp. Sid. Coll., 1821–35. b. Rochester, N.H., March 12, 1793; d. Raleigh, N.C., April 25, 1835. Dartm. Coll. 1817. He purchased with the proceeds of his overwork, as an apprentice, the remainder of his time, and entered Phillips (Exeter) Acad., where, by working at his trade a portion of the time each day, and by school-keeping, he paid his expenses, and went through college. To restore his health, he went South; became a tutor in Hamp. Sid. Coll. in Nov. 1817; prof. of chemistry and natural philos., 1819–21. This institution, then disorganized and broken down, was, by his exertions built up and placed high in rank among kindred institutions. The labor and responsibility of the enterprise exhausted his strength, and hastened his death.

Cushing, LUTHER STEARNS, jurist, b. Lunenburg, June 22, 1803; d. Boston, June 22, 1856. Camb. Law School, 1826. He for some years conducted The Jurist and Law. Magazine in Boston; was clerk of the house from 1832 to 1844; representative in 1844; judge of C. C. P., 1844 to 1848, and subsequently reporter of the decisions of the Supreme Court. In 1845, he pub. a "Manual of Parliamentary Practice;" "Elements of the Law and Practice of Legislative Assemblies," 1855; 12 vols. Ms. Sup. Court Reports; "Introd. to the Study of Roman Law," 1854; and "Rules of Proceeding and Debates in Deliberative Assemblies," 1854. He transl. "Pothier on Contracts," 1839.

Cushing, NATHAN, jurist, b. Sept. 24, 1742; d. Scituate, Ms., Nov. 3, 1812. H. U. 1763. Counsellor, and judge Ms. Sup. Court, 1800–12.

Cushing, COL. NATHANIEL, Revol. officer, b. Pembroke, Ms., Apr. 8, 1753; d. Marietta, O., Aug. 1814. Lieut. in Brewer's regt. in July, 1775; capt. in R. Putnam's regt. from 1777 to the close of the war; was in many actions; surprised Col. Delancey's loyalist corps in May, 1780, and brev. major in 1782. Emigrated to Belpre, Ohio, in 1789.

Cushing, THOMAS, LL.D. (H. U. 1785), Revol. statesman, b. Boston, Mar. 24, 1725; d. Feb. 28, 1788. H. U. 1744. Son of Thos., speaker of the H. from 1742 to his d., 11 Apr. 1746. Many years a representative from Boston; and when Otis, who had been chosen speaker, was negatived by the gov., he was elected in his place, filling it until 1774, when he was a member of the Prov. Congress, and of the Congress which met at Phila. On his return, he was elected to the council; was commissary-gen. in 1775; judge of the C. C. P., and of Probate in Suffolk Co., in 1777; declined a seat in the Cont. Congress in 1779, and was lieut.-gov. of Ms. from 1780 until his death, and acting gov. in 1785. His signature being affixed to all public papers, as speaker of the house, caused him to be regarded in Great Britain as the leader of the Whigs in this country. Dr. Johnson, in his "Taxation no Tyranny," says, "One object of the Americans is said to be to adorn the brows of Mr. Cushing with a diadem." He was the devoted friend and counsellor of Hancock, and the friend and corresp. of Franklin, from whom he received the letters of Hutchinson and others, that produced so great an effect at the time. He was a commissioner of the Society in London for Propagating the Gospel in N. E., and one of the founders of the Amer. Acad. of Arts and Sciences. He was moderate and conciliatory in character, and possessed great influence.

Cushing, THOMAS HUMPHREY, brig.-gen.

Digitized by Google

U.S.A., b. 1755; d. N. London, Ct., Oct. 19, 1822. With his bro. Nathaniel, he served through the Revol. war, and was a sergeant under him in Arnold's naval battle on Lake Champlain; was app. capt. 2d Inf., March 4, 1791; maj. 1st sub. legion, March 3, 1793; insp. Feb. 24, 1797; adj. and insp. April 1, 1802; lieut.-col. 2d Inf.; col. Sept. 7, 1805; adj.-gen. and brig.-gen. July, 1812; app. collector of New London, Jan. 1816. He fought a duel with Mr. Lewis, M. C. from Va., in which his life was saved by his watch, which was struck by his adversary's ball. An account of his trial by court-martial was pub. in 1812.

Cushing, THOMAS PARKMAN, a public-spirited merchant of Boston, b. Ashburnham, Ms., 1787; d. Boston, Nov. 23, 1854. By his will, he bequeathed the bulk of his fortune, supposed to amount to $150,000, for the maintenance of 2 schools in his native town.

Cushing, WILLIAM, LL.D. (H.U. 1785), jurist, b. Scituate, March 1, 1732; d. there Sept. 13, 1810. H.U. 1751. He was the descendant of Matthew of Boston, 1638, whose grandson John, judge of the Supreme Court in 1728, d. Scituate, Jan. 19, 1737, a. 75. His father John, also a judge of the Supreme Court, d. 1772; was one of the presiding judges at the trial of the Brit. soldiers for the massacre at Boston, March 5, 1770. He studied law with J. Gridley; was atty.-gen. of Ms.; judge of Probate, Pownalboro', Lincoln Co., Me., 1768; judge of the Ms. Superior Court, 1772; chief-justice, 1777; judge of the Supreme Judicial Court, 1782, and at the beginning of the Revol., alone among the high in office, supported the rights of his country. First chief-justice of the State under the constitution of 1780; asso. justice U.S. Supreme Court, Sept. 27, 1789; he was, in 1796, nominated by Washington chief-justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, which honor he declined. In 1788, he was vice-pres. of the Ms. convention; was a founder and member of the Am. Acad. of Arts and Sciences in 1780. He was an eloquent speaker, and invincible at town-meetings.

Cushing, WILLIAM B., lieut.-com. U.S.N., b. Wis., Nov. 24, 1842. App. from N.Y., Sept. 24, 1857; resigned, Mar. 23, 1861; re-app. acting officer, 1861; lieut. July 16, 1862; lieut.-com. Oct. 22, 1864. There was not a year during the war that Lieut. C. did not disting. himself by some perilous adventure. Nov. 23, 1862, he was ordered in the steamer "Ellis" to capture Jacksonville, and destroy salt-works, if any, in New River Inlet. After performing this duty successfully, "The Ellis" got aground. Lieut. Cushing fired her, and escaped in a small boat, receiving special commendation for his coolness, courage, and conduct in this affair. For his daring exploit on the night of Oct. 27, 1864, in blowing up the rebel ram "Albemarle," at Plymouth, he received a vote of thanks from Congress, and a complimentary letter from the sec. of the navy. In this affair his boat was sunk; and Lieut. Cushing escaped by swimming ashore, and making use of a picket-boat belonging to the rebels, with which he reached the fleet. He com. the steamer "Manmee," Asiatic squadron, 1868–9; d. Washington, D. C., Dec. 17, 1874.

Cushman, CHARLOTTE SAUNDERS, an eminent actress, b. Boston, July 23, 1816. At the age of 12, she contributed to the support of her family by her fine voice; and she was advised by the celebrated Mrs. Wood to cultivate it for the stage. April 18, 1835, she made her début at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, as the countess in "The Marriage of Figaro." Accepting an engagement at N. Orleans, her voice failed her. Determining to become an actress, under the tuition of Mr. Barton, she studied the part of Lady Macbeth, in which she appeared with complete success. She played for 3 years to large audiences at the Bowery and at the Park, N.Y., in a great variety of parts, and brought out her younger sister Susan, taking herself the chief male parts; and for one season, in Phila., they played all the principal characters. She afterwards directed one of the Phila. theatres, until invited by Mr. Macready, in 1844, to accompany him on a professional tour in the Northern States, in the course of which she played with success the higher range of tragic parts. In 1845, she appeared at the Princess's Theatre, Lond., as Bianca in "Fazio." Her reception was enthusiastic; and for 84 nights she appeared in a variety of characters. With her sister, she acted for several years at the Haymarket Theatre, Lond., and in the chief provincial towns. In 1849, she revisited the U.S., and played Meg Merrilies in "Guy Mannering." She has since played both in Eng. and Amer. Her sister Susan was m. in March, 1848, to Dr. James S. Muspratt of Liverpool; d. Boston, Feb. 18, '76.

Cushman, HENRY WYLES, lieut.-gov. of Ms., 1851–2, b. Bernardston, Ms., 9 Aug. 1805; d. there 21 Nov. 1863. Descended from Robert. He studied at the Norwich Milit. Acad.; was a member of the legisl. in 1837, '39, '40, and '44, and of the Const. Conv., 1853. He held many public and private trusts, and was a member of the N.E. H. and G. Soc., and many years pres. of the Franklin Co. Agric. Soc. Author of the Cushman Genealogy, 1855. He had nearly completed a Hist. of Bernardston, at the time of his d. — See Geneal. Register, 1864.

Cushman, ROBERT, one of the founders of Plymouth Colony, b. Eng. ab. 1580; d. 1625. He joined the nonconformists at Leyden, and in 1617 was sent by them to Lond., with John Carver, to negotiate with the Va. Company for leave to settle within their domain in Amer., and to petition King James for "liberty of conscience there." Sent again in 1619, with Wm. Brewster, a patent was finally obtained. He made a 4th journey to Lond. in 1620, with Carver and Martin, procured "The Mayflower," a pilot, &c., and sailed in her as "assistant gov." from Southampton, Aug. 5, 1620, in company with "The Speedwell." The latter, proving unseaworthy, returned; and Mr. Cushman took charge of those who remained, and followed in the next vessel, "The Fortune," reaching New Plymouth, Nov. 9, 1621. Dec. 12, he preached the first sermon in Amer. that was printed, "On the Sin and Danger of Self-love." This sermon, with a Memoir of Cushman by John Davis, was re-pub. Plymouth, 1785. He sailed for Eng. the next day, but was captured by the French, plundered, and detained 2 weeks on their coast. After his arrival, he wrote and pub. an eloquent vindication of the colonial enterprise, and an appeal for Christian missions to the Amer. Indians. He continued in Lond. as agent for the Colonists. In 1623, he, with Edward Winslow, procured from Lord Sheffield a charter for territory on Cape Ann.

Digitized by Google

Custer, GEORGE A., brev.maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. New Rumley, O., Dec. 5, 1839. West Point, 1861. Entering the second cav., he served in the Potomac Army; was aide to McClellan, and engaged at Yorktown, So. Mountain, and Antietam, and Stoneman's raid; was aide to Gen. Pleasonton; brig.-gen. of vols. 29 June, 1863; held with his cav. brigade the right of the line at Gettysburg; com. a brigade of the cav. corps in the Richmond campaign, Apr. to Aug. 1864; and of the 3d div. cav. corps in Shenandoah Valley, Oct. '64 to Mar. '65. He routed the rebel rear-guard at Falling Waters; at Winchester, he captured 9 battle-flags, and more men than he had engaged; rendered most important service at Fisher's Hill; brev. maj.-gen. for conduct at Cedar Creek; routed Gen. Rosser, Oct. 9, 1864; and at Waynesboro' captured the remnant of Early's army, ab. 18,000 strong, in Feb. 1865. In the battles of the campaign ending in the surrender of Lee, Custer com. a cav. division, and bore a most important part; disting. himself at Dinwiddie C. H., at Five Forks, Sailor Creek, and finally at Appomattox C. H., and Apr. 15, 1865, was made maj.-gen. of vols. He never lost a gun or a color, captured more guns, flags, and prisoners than any other general not an army commander, and was exceptionally fortunate in his career. Lieut.-col. 7th cav. 28 July, 1866; brev.-maj. for Gettysburg; lieut.-col. for Yellow Tavern, Va., 11 May, 1864; col. for Winchester, 19 Sept. 1864; brig.-gen. for Five Forks, and maj.-gen. U.S.A., for services ending in Lee's surrender; Killed June 25, 1876.

Custine (kus'-tēn'); ADAM PHILIP, COUNT DE, a French gen., b. Metz, Feb. 4, 1742; guillotined at Paris, Aug. 29, 1793. After serving as capt. in the Seven-Years' War under the Great Frederick, he obtained, through the influence of Choiseul, a regt. of dragoons in 1762, which was called by his name; but in 1780 he exchanged this for the regt. Saintonge. Was quar.-master-gen. of the French forces in Amer. in 1780–3, and was present at the surrender at Yorktown. On his return, in 1783, he was made maréchal-de-camp, and gov. of Toulon. In 1789, he was dep. of the nobility of Metz, and was one of the first who declared for the popular party. He afterwards com. the army of the north; received in June, 1792, the com. of the army of the Lower Rhine, and after some successes took com. of the northern army, in May, 1793, from which, however, he was soon recalled by the committee of safety, and placed at the bar of the revol. tribunal, which, spite of a spirited defence, having determined upon his death, condemned him.

Custis, GEORGE WASHINGTON PARKE, the last of Washington's family, b. Apr. 30, 1781; d. Arlington, Oct. 10, 1857. His father, Col. John Parke Custis, the son of Mrs. Washington, was aide-de-camp to Washington at the siege of Yorktown, and d. Nov. 5, 1781, a. 28. The son had his early home at Mount Vernon, pursued his classical studies at Princeton, and, having built "Arlington House," devoted himself to literature and agriculture. This estate, which came to him under the will of Washington, passed, at his death, to R. E. Lee, who m. his only dau. Mr. Custis wrote some orations and plays, and executed some paintings of Revol. battles. He was in his early days an eloquent and effective speaker, and was well known for his generous hospitality. His Recolls. of Washington, with a memoir of the author, by his dau., was pub., with notes by B. J. Lossing, 8vo, 1860.

Cutbush, JAMES, b. Pa. Pyrotechnist, prof. of chemistry, at West Point; d. there Dec. 15, 1823. He pub. the "Useful Cabinet," 1808; "Philos. of Experimental Chemistry," 2 vols., 1813; "Treatise on Pyrotechnics," Phila., 1825; app. apothec.-gen. U.S.A., 12. Aug. 1814; post-surgeon at W. Point, 1820–1.

Cutler, BENJAMIN CLARKE, D. D. (Col. Coll. 1836), b. Roxbury, Ms., 6 Feb. 1798; d. Brooklyn, N.Y., 10 Feb. 1863. Brown U. 1822. Ord. in Nov. 1822; was settled in Quincy 7 years; spent the winter of 1830 in Savannah, was rector of Leesburg parish ab. a year; in 1832 took charge of the first city mission of the Ep. Church in N.Y.; rector of St. Ann's, Brooklyn, from Apr. 1833, to his d. Has pub. "Century Sermon, Christ Church, Quincy, Ms., 1828;" "21 Parochial Sermons," Phila., 12mo, 1857; also many other discourses, sermons, tracts, &c. — See Memoir by Rev. Horatio Gray, 1864.

Cutler, ENOS, col. U.S.A., b. Brookfield, Ms., Nov. 1, 1781; d. Salem, July 14, 1860. B.U. 1800. Tutor there one year. He studied law, settled in Cincinnati; app. lieut. 7th Inf., 1808; capt. Sept. 1810; assist. adj.-gen. Feb. 15, 1813; assist. insp.-gen. Mar. 18, 1813; maj. 38th Inf., May 1, 1814; lieut.-col. 3d, Apr. 28, 1826; col. 4th Inf., Sept. 21, 1836; res. Nov. 30, 1839. He saw service in the War of 1812, in the first Seminole campaign with Gen. Jackson, and in the Creek war.

Cutler, JERVIS, a Western pioneer, b. Edgartown, Ms., Sept. 19, 1768; d. Evansville, Ind., June 25, 1844. Son of Manasseh Cutler, LL.D. One of the band of emigrants from Ms., under Gen. Rufus Putnam, who in 1788 settled Marietta. He was an officer of the Ohio militia, and also of the regular army. In 1823, he settled as an engraver in Nashville, Tenn., and in 1841 at Evansville. He pub. in 1812 "A Topographical Description of the Western Country, with an Account of the Indian Tribes."

Cutler, LYSANDER, maj.-gen. U.S. vols., b. Me., ab. 1806; d. Milwaukee, Wis., July 30, 1866. In 1861, he took com. of the 6th Wis. regt., which he made one of the best in the service. While commanding the "Iron Brigade" of the Potomac Army, by his faithfulness and gallantry he won the grade of brigadier, and afterward of maj.-gen., proving himself an excellent leader both of brigade and division, and was twice wounded.

Cutler, MANASSEH, LL.D. (Y. C. 1791),

Digitized by Google

clergyman and botanist, b. Killingly, Ct., May 3, 1742; d. Hamilton, Ms., July 28, 1823. Y.C. 1765. He engaged in the whaling-business; then opened a store in Edgartown; was adm. to the bar in 1767, but removed to Dedham; studied theology; was licensed in 1770, and Sept. 11, 1771, was ord. minister of Hamilton. In Sept. 1776, he became chaplain of Col. Francis's regt., taking part in the action in R.I., Aug. 28, 1778, receiving for his bravery the gift of a fine horse from his col. He also studied and practised medicine, and became noted for his scientific attainments. Made a member of the Amer. Academy in 1781: the vol. of its memoirs for 1785 contains several of his scientific papers. His botanical paper was the first attempt at a scientific description of the plants of N. E. With Dr. Peck's assistance, he prepared the chapter on trees and plants in "Belknap's History of N. H." In 1784, he became a member of the Philos. Society of Phila. In 1787, as agent for the Ohio comp., he purchased from Congress 1,500,000 acres of land N.W. of the Ohio River. Dr. Cutler started the first company of emigrants to that region, who began the settlement of Marietta, Apr. 7, 1788. He himself travelled thither in a sulky, accomplishing the 750 miles in 29 days. He returned with his family to N. E. in 1790. Washington, in 1795, app. him a judge of the Supreme Court of Ohio Terr.; but he declined. He was afterward a member of the Ms. legisl., and M. C. from 1800 to 1804. Author of a Century Discourse at Hamilton, 27 Oct. 1814.

Cutler, TIMOTHY, DD. (Oxf. 1723), pres. of Y. C., 1719–22, b. 1684; d. Boston, Ms., Aug. 17, 1765. H. U. 1701. Ord. Jan. 11, 1709, at Stratford, Ct. In 1722, he renounced his connection with the Cong. churches, went to Eng., took orders, returned to Boston, and was rector of Christ Church from Dec. 29, 1723, till his death. He pub. a sermon before the General Court at N. Haven in 1717, and one on the death of Thomas Graves, 1757. A series of his letters in Nichols's "Illustrations of Literary History" have considerable historical value. "He was," says Pres. Stiles, "a good logician, geographer, and rhetorician," and was a man of extensive reading, and of a commanding presence and dignity.

Cutt, JOHN, pres. of the Province of N.H., b. Wales; d. Mar. 27, 1681. He came to this country, with his bros. Robert and Richard, previous to 1646; settled as a merchant in Portsmouth, N.H., became also a farmer and mill-owner, and acquired by industry and probity a large property. He was a deputy to the Gen. Court during the union with Ms., and was one of the committee of Portsmouth app. under the jurisdiction of Ms., and against the claims of Mason. He was app. pres. in 1679. His bro. RICHARD settled at the Shoals, and carried on fishing, but removed to Portsmouth, all the northerly part of which was owned by himself, his bro. John, and two others. ROBERT settled in Kittery, where he was a noted ship-builder. From these brothers are descended all the CUTTS families on both sides the Piscataqua.

Cutter, AMMI RUHAMAH, M. D. (H. U. 1792), physician, b. N. Yarmouth, Me., Mar. 4, 1735; d. Portsmouth, N.H., Dec. 8, 1819. H.U. 1752. His father, a clergyman (H.U. 1725), was at the time of his death chaplain of a N.E. regt. at the siege of Louisburg, 1745. He studied physic with Dr. Clement Jackson of Portsmouth; was surgeon to Col. Robert Rogers's rangers until disbanded, and in 1758 was surgeon of the N.H. troops in the successful exped. against Louisburg. On his return, he m., and soon obtained a very extensive practice. He was a decided Whig, and was physician-gen. of the eastern dept.; stationed at Fishkill from Apr. 1777, until the beginning of 1778, when he resumed practise at Portsmouth. He was a delegate to the N.H. Const. Conv.; was long pres. of the N.H. Med. Society. — Thacher.

Cutter, GEORGE W., poet, b. Ms.; d. Washington, D.C., 24 Dec. 1865. He practised law successfully in Ky. until 1845; was a capt. in McKee's Ky. Vols. in the Mexican war; was at one time a member of the Ind. legisl., and was a clerk in the treasury dept. during Fillmore's administration. Among his best pieces are, "E Pluribus Unum," and the "Song of Steam." Author of "Poems, National, and Patriotic," 8vo., Phila., 1857; "Song of Steam and Other Poems," Cincin. 12mo. — Poets and Poetry of the West.

Cutting, FRANCIS BROCKHOLST, an eminent commercial lawyer of N.Y. M.C. in 1853–5, b. N.Y. City, 1805; d. there 26 June, 1870. Col. Coll. 1825. Grandson of Leonard, Pr.-Ep. rector, of St. George's Church, Hempstead, L.I., 1766–84; d. 1794, a. 69. In the N.Y. legisl., he rendered efficient service to the Democ. party in 1836–7. He refused to follow the lead of the South while in Congress, and had a personal difficulty with J. C. Breckinridge. In 1861, he became a "war Democrat," and did good service in securing the re-election of Pres. Lincoln. Leading counsel in nearly all important commercial questions in N.Y. in 1840–55.

Cutting, JAMES A., inventor; d. July, 1867, in the Lunatic Asylum, Worcester, Ms. Early in life, he resided in Haverhill, and gained some money by the patent for a bee-hive. He went to Boston, learned the art of daguerrotyping, and invented the process of making ambrotypes, for which he received a large sum. He established an Aquarial Garden in Boston.

Cutts, RICHARD, politician, b. Saco, Me., June 28, 1771; d. Washington, Apr. 7, 1845. H.U. 1790 He studied law; engaged in commerce and politics; was captain of a merchantman; visited Europe; was 2 years in the Ms. legisl.; M C. in 1801–13; supt. gen. of military supplies in 1813–17, and, from 1817 to 1829, second compt. U.S. treasury. In Congress, he supported efficiently the administrations of Jefferson and Madison, voting for the war with Eng., although it would necessarily prove ruinous to his private fortune, consisting principally in ships.

Cuyler, SIR CORNELIUS, bart., a Brit. gen., b. Albany, N.Y.; d. St. John's Lodge, Herts, Eng., March 8, 1819. Bart. Oct. 29, 1814. In May, 1759, he joined as ensign the 55th Foot, and was at the reduction of Ticonderoga in 1759, and of Montreal in 1760 capt. 46th, May 9, 1764; first A.D.C. to Gen. Sir W. Howe from July, 1775, to Jan. 15, 1776, when he was made maj. 55th. He continued first aide to Gen. Howe; was at the battles of Long Island, Brandywine, and Germantown; lieut.-col. Nov. 16, 1777; com. his regt. at Monmouth; was at the reduction of St. Lucie in 1779; adj.-gen. to the army in the W. Indies in 1781; col. Nov. 20, 1782; Q. M. G. W. Indies, 1787–92; com. the forces there in 1792–3; captured Tobago, April 15, 1793; maj.-gen. Oct. 12, 1793; lieut.-gen. 1798; gen. 1803; gov. of Kinsale, and col. 69th, at the time of his death. — Philipart; Sabine.

Digitized by Google

Cuyler, CORNELIUS C., D.D. (Un. Coll. 1828), Presb. clergyman, b. Albany, N.Y., Feb. 15, 1783; d. Phila., Aug. 31, 1850. Un. Coll. 1806. His ancestors came from Leyden to N.Y. ab. 1650. His mother was a sister of Chief-Justice Yates. Ord. Jan. 2, 1809, over the Dutch Church of Poughkeepsie; 14 Jan. 1834, he took charge of the 2d Presb. Church, Phila.; sided with the "old school" in the split of that denomination; exercised a controlling influence over the deliberations of that party, acting as pres. of the convention of 1837, which defined its doctrine and policy. He was many years pres. of the board of trustees of Jeff. Med. Coll. Author of "The Signs of the Times," 12mo, Phila., and occasional sermons. — Sprague.

Dablon, CLAUDE, superior of the Jesuit missions on the Upper Lakes, and a friend and companion of Father Marquette; labored principally at the Saute Ste. Marie, and at the head of Green Bay. He took part in the expeds. for the survey of Lake Superior, which resulted in a valuable and curious map of that region, and statements concerning its coppermines. An account of his labors is in the Jesuit Relation of 1671, repub. N.Y., 1860.

Dabney, RICHARD, a self-taught scholar, b. Louisa Co., Va., ab. 1787; d. Nov. 1825. He was an assist. teacher at Richmond, and in Dec. 1811, barely escaped with life from the burning theatre there. In 1812, he pub. a vol. of original poems and translations, of which a new ed. appeared in 1815, in Phila.

Daboll, NATHAN, mathematician; d. Groton, Ct., Mar. 9, 1818, a. 68. He was an able teacher, had instructed 1,500 persons in navigation; pub. a valuable system of arithmetic, and also of navigation. His son, C. L. DABOLL, inventor of the fog-trumpet, d. New London, Ct., Oct. 13, 1866, a. 48.

Dacres, JAMES RICHARD, a British adm.; d. Eng., Dec. 4, 1853. His father, Vice-Adm. Dacres, com. "The Carleton" on Lake Champlain, in the fight with Arnold's flotilla, in 1776. The son entered the Royal Navy in 1796; was promoted to the com. of the sloop "Elk" in 1805; was transferred to "The Bacchante" in 1806, and to "The Guerriere," "a worn-out frigate," in 1811. In the action between this ship and "The Constitution," Capt. Hull, Aug. 19, 1812, Dacres was wounded, and "The Guerriere" captured. He was tried by court-martial, and acquitted. In 1838, he attained flag-rank, and in 1845 was com.-in-chief at the Cape of Good Hope.

Dadd, GEORGE H., M.D., b. Eng., 1813. Veterinary surgeon, settled in the U.S., 1839 Author of "Anatomy and Physiology of the Horse," 8vo; "American Cattle Doctor," 8vo; "Modern Horse Doctor," 8vo, 1854; "Manual of Veterinary Science," 8vo, 1855. — Ed. Amer. Veter. Jour.

Dade, FRANCIS LANGHORNE, maj. U.S.A., b. Va.; killed by Indians near Fort King, Fla., Dec. 28, 1835. App. lieut. 12th Inf., Mar. 29, 1813; capt. Feb. 1818; brev. maj. Feb. 24, 1828; com. a detachment on a march to Fort King, which was nearly destroyed.

Daggett, DAVID, LL.D. (Y.C. 1827), jurist, b. Attleboro', Ms., Dec. 31, 1764; d. N. Haven, Apr. 12, 1851. Y.C. 1783. Adm. to the bar in 1778; member of the State legisl. 1791–1813, and speaker in 1794; U.S. senator, 1813–19; judge of the Supreme Court, 1826–32, and chief-justice in 1832–4. He was Stateatty. in 1811, and in 1828–29, mayor of New Haven. Instructor of the law-school in 1824; Kent prof. of law in Y.C., from 1826 until compelled to resign by the infirmities of age. — See Life, by Dr. Dutton, pub. in 1851.

Daggett, NAPTHALI, D.D. (N. J. Coll. 1774), scholar and divine, b. Attleboro', Ms., Sept. 8, 1727; d. N. Haven, Nov. 25, 1780. Y.C. 1748. Minister of Smithtown, L.I., from Sept. 18, 1751, to Nov. 1755; prof. of divinity in Y.C. from Mar. 4, 1756, till his death, and acting pres. in 1766–77. He received the degree of D.D. from both N. J. and Yale Colleges. When the British attacked N. Haven, in July, 1779, he went into the fight, fowling-piece in hand, but was taken prisoner, and compelled, in an intensely-hot day, to act as guide to the advancing columns of the enemy; while they repeatedly pricked him with their bayonets when his strength failed. He never fully recovered from this treatment. He pub. some sermons; his son HENRY, an officer of the Revol., and a graduate of Y.C., d. N. Haven, June 20, 1843, a. 85.

Dahlgren, JOHN A., rear-adm. U.S.N., b. Phila., Nov. 1809; d. Wash., D.C., July 12, 1870. Midshipm. Feb. 1826; lieut. Mar. 8, 1837; com. Sept. 14, 1855; capt. July 16, 1862; rear-adm. Feb. 7, 1863. In 1847–57, he was employed on ordnance duty, and, with the exception of a short cruise in com. of "The Plymouth," sloop-of-war, was engaged in important experiments at the navy-yard at Washington, perfecting the Dahlgren gun. In 1862, he was made chief of the bureau of ordnance. He took com. of the S. A. block. squad., July 6, 1863, and, in conjunction with the land forces of Gen. Gillmore, captured, after a long and severe struggle, Morris Island, reduced Fort Sumter to ruins, and ended blockade-running in that quarter. In Feb. 1864, he led a successful exped. up the St. John's River to aid a military force intended to be thrown into Florida. In Dec. 1864, he co-operated with Gen. Sherman in the capture of Savannah, and Feb. 18, 1865, moved his vessels up to the city of Charleston. Adm. Dahlgren also invented a rifled cannon for the navy, and introduced the light boat-howitzers, which are held in high estimation. Author of "Report on the 32-Pounders, of 32 cwt.," 1850; "System of Boat Armament in the U.S. Navy," 1852 and 1856;

Digitized by Google

"Naval Percussion Locks and Primers," 1852; "Shells and Shell-Guns," 1856; "Report on Cruise of the Ordnance Ship, Plymouth," 8vo, 1857.

Dahlgren, Col. Ulrich, b. 1842; killed in a skirmish at King's and Queen's C.H., Va., Mar. 4, 1864. Son of Adm. D. A midshipm. before the war, on its breaking out, he assisted his father in the ordnance dept.; became aide-de-camp to Sigel; was disting. at the second Bull Run, and, in Nov. 1862, made, at the head of Sigel's body-guard, that attack on Fredericksburg so famous in the annals of the war. Transferred to Gen. Hooker, he again disting. himself at Chancellorsville. Retained by Gen. Meade, he performed most dangerous and important service at the head of a picked body of men in the Gettysburg campaign, in which he lost a leg. Made a col. for his gallantry. He lost his life in a raid planned to release the Union prisoners from Libby Prison and Belle Isle.

Daille, Peter, a Huguenot clergyman; d. Boston, May 21, 1715, a. 66. He was one of the earliest French Protestant ministers of N.Y.; but incurring Gov. Leisler's displeasure in 1690, and subsequently having some difference with his congregation, he went to Boston, and had charge of the French Church in School Street, before 1696, and continued there till his death.

Dalcho, Frederick, physician and clergyman, b. London, 1770; d. Charleston, S.C., Nov. 24, 1836. On the death of his father, a Pole, who had been an officer in the army of Hanover, he was invited by an uncle to Md., and received an excellent education in Baltimore. He became a medical practitioner in Charleston, where he was active in establishing the Botanic Garden. Ab. 1810 Dr. Dalcho relinquished his practice, and became associated with Mr. A. S. Willington, in conducting the Courier, a daily Federal newspaper. He subsequently studied theology, became lay-reader in St. Paul's Church, Colleton, in 1814, received priest's orders, and was assist. minister of St. Michael's Church, Charleston, from 1819 till his d. He pub. a treatise on "The Evidence of the Divinity of our Saviour," an "Historical Account of the Prot.-Ep. Church, in S.C." and "Ahimon Rezon for Masons," 8vo, 1827.

Dale, Richard, commodore U. S. N., b. near Norfolk, Va., Nov. 6, 1756; d. Phila., Feb. 24, 1826. He went to sea at 12, and at 19 com. a merchant-vessel. Early in 1776, while a lieut. in the Va. navy, he was captured by the English, and thrown into a prison-ship at Norfolk. Here he was surrounded by royalists, many of them old schoolmates, who prevailed on him to embark in a cruiser against the vessels of the State. In an affair with an Amer. flotilla soon after, he received a wound, with which he was confined several weeks; and he resolved "never again to put himself in the way of the bullets of his own countrymen." In the summer of 1776, he was a midshipman in "The Lexington," Capt. Barry. She was captured on the British coast by "The Alert," in Sept. 1777; and officers and men were confined in Mill Prison. In Feb. 1778, most of the officers and some of the men escaped; but Dale was retaken in Lond., and carried back. In Feb. 1779, he escaped in the guise of a British naval officer, reached France, and joined Paul Jones as master's mate, and soon became 1st lieut of the "Bon Homme Richard." In the memorable battle of Sept. 23, 1779, with "The Serapis," Dale was highly disting., and received a severe splinter-wound. Returning to Phila., Feb. 18, 1781, he was placed on the list of lieutenants in the navy. Joining "The Trumbull," Capt. Nicholson, in June, his ship was taken two months later, after a severe action with "The Iris" and "Monk." In this action, Dale experienced his 3d wound and his 4th capture. Being exchanged in Nov., he was employed in letters-of-marque, and the merchant-service, until the end of the war. While commanding "The Queen of France," in 1782, he, after a severe conflict, beat off a privateer of 14 guns. June 4, 1794, he was made a capt. in the navy, and in May, 1798, com. the sloop-of-war "Ganges." In 1801, he com. the squadron ordered to the Mediterranean, of which "The President" 44, was the flag-ship. He was so fettered, however, by his instructions, that no serious enterprise could be attempted; but his vigilance was such that the Tripolitans made no captures during his command. He returned home in April, 1802, and resigned his commission Dec. 17, 1802. He spent the latter part of his life in Phila. in the enjoyment of a competent estate. Dale was a thoroughly brave and intelligent seaman, and an honest and honorable man. Two of his sons were in the navy. Richard d. of wounds received in the frigate "President." Montgomery d. in Dec. 1852, a. 55.

Dale, Gen. Samuel, pioneer, b. Rockbridge Co., Va., 1772; d. Lauderdale Co., Mpi., May 23, 1841. He became a famous Indian fighter, and afterward a trader among the Creeks and Cherokees. Maj. commanding a batt. of Ky. vols. against the Creeks, Feb. 1814; disting. under Jackson, and brev. brig.-g. After the war, he settled at Dale's Ferry, on the Ala., and engaged in merchandising. In 1816, he was a member of the convention to divide the Mpi. Territory, and served several terms in the Ala. legisl. His celebrated canoe-fight with 7 Indian warriors, all of whom he killed, would be thought fabulous, if it had not been witnessed by some soldiers, who, not having a boat, could render him no assistance.—See Life, by F. H. Claiborne.

Dale, Sir Thomas, gov. of Va.; d. near Bantam, E.I., early in 1620. A soldier of distinction in the Low Countries, knighted by King James in June, 1606, as Sir Thomas Dale of Surrey; June 20, 1611, ab. a month after his arrival in Va., the States-General gave him 3 years' leave of absence, which in 1614 was extended. He administered the govt. on the basis of martial law, planted a new settlement at Henrico, and introduced important changes in the land-laws of the colony, gaining praise for his vigor and industry, his judgment and conduct. He conquered the Appomattox Indians, and took their town. He was succeeded in Aug. 1611 by Sir Thomas Gates, but continued to take an active part in the affairs of the colony; and on Gates's return to Eng in 1614, he resumed the govt. He returned to England in June, 1616; was in Holland in Feb. 1617; in Jan. 1619 was made com. of the E.I. fleet, and had an engagement with the Dutch near Bantam, but soon succumbed to the climate.

Digitized by Google

Dalhousie (däl-hoo'-ze), Gen. George Ramsay, 9th Earl of, b. 1770; d. Dalhousie Castle, Scotland, March 21, 1838. He succeeded to his title and estate, on the death of his father in Nov. 1787. Entering the army in that year, he was maj. of the 2d Foot, in 1792, and was severely wounded at Martinique. He served in Ireland in 1798, in the exped. to the Helder in 1799, in Egypt in 1801, under Sir R. Abercrombie, and in April, 1805, was made a maj.-gen. He was in the exped. to the Scheldt in 1809, and afterward in the Peninsular campaigns, where he rendered important service. July 18, 1815, he was made an English baron; in 1816, lieut.-gen. com. in Nova Scotia, and was gov.-in-chief and com. of the forces of British N.A., from 1820 to 1828. He was com.-in-chief in India, 1829–32.

Dallas, Alexander James, statesman and financier, b. in the Island of Jamaica, June 21, 1759; d. Trenton, Jan. 16, 1817. Son of a Scotch physician, and was educated at Edinburgh and at Westminster. His mother becoming a widow, and again marrying, he was prevented from obtaining any share of his father's property, and in April, 1783, quitted his native place, and settled in Phila. Having taken the oath of allegiance to the State of Pa. in June, 1783, he was in July, 1785, adm. to practise as an advocate in the Supreme Court, and in a few years became a practitioner in the U.S. Courts. He also employed himself in literary undertakings, wrote for the public journals, and at one time edited the Columbian Magazine. In Jan. 1791, he was app. sec. of Pa., by Gov. Mifflin; and in Dec. 1793, his commission was renewed. Not long after, he was constituted paymaster-gen. of a force which he accompanied in an exped. to Pittsburg. In Dec. 1796, he again became sec. of state. On the election of Jefferson to the presidency in 1801, Mr. Dallas was app. U.S. atty. for the eastern dist. of Pa., and occupied that post until his removal to Washington. Oct. 6, 1814, he was made sec. of the U.S. treasury, then in a deplorable condition; and in that highly responsible and difficult situation, he exhibited great ability and energy of character. In March, 1815, he undertook the additional duties of the war office, and successfully performed the delicate task of reducing the army. In Nov. 1816, peace and tranquillity being restored, the financial condition of the country being improved under the influence of the National Bank, which he had so long endeavored to establish, he resigned his post, and returned to the practice of the law at Phila., in which he was eminently successful. He pub. "Features of Jay's Treaty," 1795; "Speeches on the Trial of Blount;" "Laws of Pennsylvania," with notes; "Reports," 4 vols., 1806–7; "Treasury Reports;" "Exposition of the Causes and Character of the War of 1812–15," &c.

Dallas, Alexander James, capt. U.S.N., son of the preceding, b. 1791; d. in Callao Bay, June 3, 1844, commanding Pacific squadron. He entered the navy, Nov. 22, 1805; lieut. June 13, 1810; master-com. March 5, 1817; capt. April 24, 1828; served under Rodgers in "The President" in 1812, afterwards under Chauncey on Lake Ontario; accomp. Porter in his cruise for the extermination of the West-India pirates, and attained distinction in his profession.

Dallas, George Mifflin, LL.D. (N.J Coll. 1853), statesman, bro. of prec., b. Phila., July 10, 1792; d. there Dec. 31, 1864. N.J. Coll. 1810. Adm. to the bar in 1813. Accomp. Mr. Gallatin to Russia as private sec.; visited France, Eng., and Holland; returned home in 1814, and, after assisting his father in the U.S. treasury dept., resumed the practice of law. In 1817, while dep. of the atty.-gen. of Phila., he won a high reputation as a criminal lawyer. Mayor of Phila. in 1828; dist.-atty. 1829–31, and, as U.S. senator in 1832–3, ably advocated the re-charter of the U.S. Bank, a protective tariff, and other important measures. Declining a re-election in 1833, he was atty.-gen. of Pa. in 1833–5; ambassador to Russia from 1837 to Oct. 1839; vice.-pres. of the U.S. in 1845–9, and minister to Eng. in 1856–61. While vice-pres., his casting vote in the senate made the Tariff Act of 1846 — a free-trade measure — the law of the land. As minister to Eng., he was at once called upon to settle the Central-American question, and the recall of the British minister Crampton, both which matters were amicably adjusted. During the Rebellion, he manifested publicly, on all suitable occasions, his abhorrence of it and its abettors. He was an able statesman and diplomatist, a successful and influential lawyer. Allibone gives a list of 30 of Dallas's speeches and other pamphlets. His Letters from London in 1856–60 have been edited and pub. by his dau. Julia.

Dalling, Sir John, bart. of Burwod, Surrey, a British gen.; d. 1798. Maj. 27th Foot, Feb. 2, 1757; served under Loudoun in 1757; at Louisburg, 1758, and com. a corps of light inf. under Wolfe at Quebec, in 1759; lieut.-col. 43d Foot in 1760, and com. it at the siege of Havanna, in 1762; app. in 1767 lieut.-gov. and a few years later, gov. of Jamaica; maj.-gen. Aug. 29, 1777; lieut.-gen. Nov. 1782; bart. 1783. In 1780, he led an exped. against the Spanish Main. — O'Callaghan.

Dalton, John, D.D., R. C. bishop of Harbor Grace, N.F., consec. 1856; d. May 5, 1869.

Dalton, John C., physiologist, b. Chelmsford, Ms., 2 Feb. 1825. H.U. 1844. M.D. 1847. His essay on the "Corpus Luteum," &c., 1851, won the prize of the Amer. Md. Assoc. His treatise on "Human Physiology," 1859 (4th ed. 1867), placed him at once in the first rank of Amer. physiologists. He has also pub. "Physiology and Hygiene, for Schools, Families, and Colleges," 1868. — Thomas.

Dalton, Tristam, senator, b. Newburyport, Ms., May 28, 1738; d. Boston, May 30, 1817. H.U. 1755. He studied law; m. the dau. of Robert Hooper, with whom he engaged in mercantile pursuits, and took a deep interest in the cultivation of a large estate in W. Newbury, where Washington, John Adams, Louis

Digitized by Google

"Naval Percussion Locks and Primers," 185[illegible]
"Shells and Shell-Guns," 1856; "Report [illegible] Cruise of the Ordnance Ship, Plymouth," [illegible]
1857.

Dahlgren, Col. Ulrich, b. 1842; [illegible] in a skirmish at King's and Queen's C[illegible]
Mar. 4, 1864. Son of Adm. D. A [illegible] before the war, on its breaking out, he as[illegible] his father in the ordnance dept.; be[illegible] de-camp to Sigel; was disting. at [illegible]
Bull Run, and, in Nov. 1862, ma[illegible] of Sigel's body-guard, that attac[illegible]
icksburg so famous in the ann[illegible]
Transferred to Gen. Hooker, h[illegible] himself at Chancellorsville. R[illegible]
Meade, he performed most da[illegible] portant service at the head of [illegible] men in the Gettysburg cam[illegible] lost a leg. Made a col. for [illegible] lost his life in a raid plan[illegible]
Union prisoners from Libb[illegible]
Isle.

Daille, Peter, a Hu[illegible]
Boston, May 21, 1715, a[illegible]
the earliest French Pr[illegible]
N.Y.; but incurring G[illegible] in 1690, and subsequen[illegible] ence with his congr[illegible] and had charge of [illegible]
School Street, before [illegible] till his death.

Dalcho, Fred[illegible]
gyman, b. London[illegible]
Nov. 24, 1836. C[illegible]
Pole, who had b[illegible]
Hanover, he was [illegible] and received an[illegible] more. He l[illegible]
Charleston, w[illegible]
the Botanic G[illegible]
linquished hi[illegible]
with Mr. A[illegible]
Courier, a [illegible]
sequently [illegible]
in St. Paul[illegible] priest's o[illegible]
Michael's [illegible]
his d. [illegible] of the P[illegible]
Accoun[illegible] and "A[illegible]

Da[illegible] near [illegible]
Feb. [illegible]
19 [illegible]
whi[illegible]
by [illegible]
at [illegible] ist[illegible]
va[illegible]
th[illegible]
A[illegible]
v[illegible]
I[illegible]

[illegible]tain Weldon in trading voy-[illegible] months, and then engaged as [illegible]ctory at Bencoolen. In 1691, he [illegible]ntance of the gov., and arrived
[illegible]. Sept. 16, bringing with him all [illegible]and journals. Being now in want
[illegible]e sold his share in an Indian prince,
[illegible]ompanions carried about for exhibi
[illegible]. R. navy, 26 July, 1698. Hav-[illegible]n "The Roebuck" on a voyage of [illegible]n Jan. 1699, his ship foundered at [illegible] Ascencion, where, with his crew, he [illegible]from Oct. 1700 until relieved, April,
He was employed, 1708–11, in prose[illegible] a voyage to the South Seas under the [illegible]nage of British merchants. This voyage [illegible]ne world has been frequently pub., and [illegible]accurate and valuable work. The best [illegible]n is that of 1729, 4 vols., 8vo, Lond. In [illegible]he pub. a defence of his buccaneering on Spanish Main. He also wrote a treatise on [illegible]ds and Tides.

Dana, Charles Anderson, journalist, b. Hinsdale, N.H., Aug. 8, 1819. He studied two years at H.U., but did not grad., owing to a disease of the eyes. He edited the Harbinger, was a contrib. to the Boston Chronotype, was connected with the N.Y. Tribune in 1847–58, and is now editor of the Sun. He edited "The Household Book of Poetry," N.Y., 8vo, 1858, and, in connection with Geo. Ripley, edited Appleton's Cycl. Ass. Sect. War, 1863–4.

Dana, Daniel, D.D., Presb. clergyman, b. Ipswich, Ms., July 24, 1771; d. Newburyport, Ms., Aug. 26, 1859. Dartm. Coll. 1788. Son of Rev. Dr. Joseph. Settled pastor of the First Presb. Church, Newburyport, Nov. 19, 1794; pres. of Dartm. Coll. in 1820–21; settled in Londonderry, N.H., Jan. 16, 1822; dismissed Apr. 1826, and from May 31, 1826, to 1845, he was settled over the Second Presb. Church in Newburyport. Trustee of the And. Theol. Sem. from 1804 to 1856. He pub. 21 occasional sermons, besides discourses, essays, &c. — Alumni D.C.

Dana, Edmund Trowbridge, J.U.D. (Heidelberg, 1854), translator and editor of works on international and public law, and polit. economy, b. Cambridge, Ms., 29 Aug. 1818; d. there 18 May, 1869. Vt. U. 1839; Camb. Law School, 1841. Son of R. H. Dana. Practised law with his bro. R. H., jun., a few years in Boston, then studied at the German universities.

Dana, Francis, LL.D. (H.U. 1792), statesman and jurist, b. Charlestown, Ms., June 13, 1743; d. Cambridge, Ms., April 25, 1811. H U. 1762. Richard, his father, was an eminent magistrate and patriot. Francis studied law with Judge Trowbridge; was adm. to the bar in 1767; became an active Whig; was a delegate to the Provincial Congress in Sept. 1774; passed the year 1775 in Eng.; member of the exec. council from May, 1776, to 1780; delegate to Congress in 1776–8 and in 1784; member of the board of war, Nov. 17, 1777, and chairman of the committee charged with the responsibility of re-organizing the army; accomp. Mr. Adams to Paris in Nov. 1779, as sec. of legation; and from Dec. 19, 1780, until 1783, was minister to Russia. Prevented from attending the convention for framing the Federal Constitution, of which he was a member, in 1787, he strongly advocated its adoption in the convention of Ms. He declined the embassy to France in 1797. Judge of the Supreme Court of Ms. from Jan. 1785, until 1792; chief-justice 1792–1806. A founder of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences, and a vice-pres. of that body. Early in life, he m. a dau. of Wm. Ellery. His corresp. while in Europe will be found in Sparks's "Diplom. Corresp.," vol. viii.

Digitized by Google

Dana, JAMES, D.D. (U. of Edinb.), Cong. minister, b. Ms., May 11, 1735; d. New Haven, Ct., Aug. 18, 1812. H.U. 1753. Ord. at Wallingford, Ct., Oct. 12, 1758, in disregard of the "Saybrook Platform," and a long controversy ensued; dism. 1788. Minister of New Haven from Apr. 29, 1789, to the fall of 1805. He regarded the scheme of Edwards as acquitting the creature of blame, and impeaching the truth and justice of the Creator. He pub. anonymously an "Examination of Edwards on the Will," 8vo, Boston, 1770; a continuation of the same, with his name, in 1773; a century discourse, Apr. 9, 1770, and a number of sermons. Samuel W. Dana, U.S. senator, was his son.

Dana, JAMES DWIGHT, LL.D. (Amh. Coll. 1853), physicist, son of James, b. Utica, N.Y., Feb. 12, 1813. Y. C. 1833. App. teacher of mathematics in the U.S. navy, and sailed to the Mediterranean in "The Delaware," returning in 1835. In 1835–6, he was assist. to Prof. Silliman at Y.C.; from Aug. 1838 to 1842, he was mineralogist and geologist of Wilkes's exploring exped., and for 13 years after was engaged in preparing for pub. the various reports of this exped., and in other scientific labors. He returned to New Haven in 1844, m. Henrietta Francis, dau. of Prof. Silliman, and has since resided in that city. In 1855, he became Silliman prof. of nat. hist. and geology in Y.C., a post he still occupies, while editing the American Journal of Science, founded by Silliman in 1819. He has also contrib. various important scientific papers to the Proceedings of the Am. Acad. of Arts and Sciences in Boston, the Lyceum of Natural History of N.Y., and the Acad. of Natural Sciences of Phila. In 1854, he was elected pres. of the Am. Assoc. for the Advancement of Science, and is a member of many learned societies in Europe. He pub. "Mineralogy," 1837, 4th edition revised and enlarged, 1854; reports on "Zoöphytes," 1846, proposing a new classification, and describing 230 new species; on the "Geology of the Pacific," 1849; on "Crustacea," 1852–4, describing 658 new species; on "Coral Reefs and Islands," 8vo, Phila., 1853; "Suppt. to System of Mineralogy," 1855–6; "Manual of Geology," 1862, and articles in the Amer. Jour. of Science. A series of 4 articles from his pen, entitled "Science and the Bible," called forth by Taylor Lewis's work on "The Six Days of Creation," appeared in the Bibliotheca Sacra in 1856–7.

Dana, JAMES FREEMAN, chemist, b. Amherst, N.H., Sept. 23, 1793; d. N.Y. City, Apr. 14, 1827. H.U. 1813. He was the son of Luther Dana, a naval officer of the Revol. Studied medicine in Boston; spent 6 months in Lond., under the instruction of the celebrated chemist, Accum, and, on his return, was employed to refit the laboratory of Harvard Coll., and settled in Cambridge as a physician, holding also the office of assist. prof. of chemistry. In 1817, he received the degree of M.D.; in the autumn of that year was app. lecturer on chemistry in Dartm. Coll., and in 1820 prof., lecturing also on mineralogy and botany. In 1826–7, he was prof. of chemistry in the N.Y. Coll. of Physicians and Surgeons. He pub. a small work on the mineralogy and geology of Boston and vicinity, in conjunction with his bro. Dr. S. L. Dana, 1818; "Epitome of Chemical Philosophy," 1825; "Report on a Singular Disease of Horned Cattle in Burton, N.H." He also contrib. many scientific papers to the Journal of Science, the N.E. Journal of Medicine, and the Annals of the Lyceum of Natural History of N.Y. In 1815 and 1816, he received Boylston prizes for dissertations.

Dana, JOHN W., gov. of Me., 1847–50, minister to Bolivia, 1854, son of Judah, b. Fryeburg, Me.; d. near Rosario, S. Amer., Dec. 22, 1867, of cholera. He was a Democ. politician.

Dana, JUDAH, lawyer, b. Pomfret, Ct., April 25, 1772; d. Fryeburg, Me., Dec. 27, 1845. Dartm. Coll. 1795. His mother was a dau. of Gen. Putnam. He began to practise law at Fryeburg in 1798; was county atty. in 1805–11; judge of probate, 1805–22, and of the circuit of C. C. P. in 1811–23; member of the Me. Const. Conv. in 1819, one of the com. by whom the instr. was drafted; a member of the exec. council in 1834, and of the U. S. senate in 1836–7. — D. C. Alumni.

Dana, NAPOLEON JACKSON TECUMSEH, maj.-gen. vols., b. Fort Sullivan, Eastport, Me., Apr. 10, 1822. West Point, 1842. Entering the 7th Inf., he served with distinction in Mexico; was severely wounded at Cerro Gordo, and brev. capt. Resigning in 1855, he engaged in business in St. Paul until Oct. 1861, when he became col. 1st Minnesota Vols. On the 21st, he participated in the affair at Ball's Bluff. Made brig.-gen. Feb. 3, 1862, he served with the Potomac Army in all the battles before Richmond. At Antietam, he com. a brigade in Sedgwick's division of Sumner's corps, and was wounded. Maj.-gen. Nov. 29, 1862; in the operations with Army of the Gulf, and engaged at Fordoche Bayou, Sept. 1863; at Brazos Santiago, Oct. 27; com. 13th army corps, Dec.–Jan. 1864; com. dist. of Vicksburg, Aug.–Oct. 1864; 16th army corps, and dist. of W. Tenn. and Vicksburg, Nov. 1864, and dept. of Mpi. Dec. '64, to 27 May, 1865.

Dana, RICHARD, jurist, b. Cambridge, Ms., July 7, 1699; d. May 17, 1772. H. U. 1718. Grandson of Richard, who settled in Cambridge in 1640. After practising law at Marblehead and Charlestown, he removed to Boston, where he attained high rank in the profession. He was prominent in the ante-Revol. movement; occasionally presided over the Boston town-meetings, between 1763 and 1772; reported the instructions to the town representatives, Nov. 20, 1767, and May 8, 1770; was one of the associated Sons of Liberty, and at their celebrated meeting of Dec. 17, 1769, administered to Sec. Oliver the oath of non-execution of the Stamp Act. His death was considered a great loss to the patriot cause. He m. the sister of Judge Trowbridge, and was the father of Chief-Justice Francis Dana.

Digitized by Google

Dana, RICHARD HENRY, poet and essayist, b. Cambridge, Ms., Nov. 15, 1787. He was educated at H. U. and at Newport, R.I.; studied law with his father, Francis Dana; was adm. to the Boston bar in 1811, and soon after to that of Baltimore, but in 1812 entered upon the profession in his native town, and became a member of the legisl. His first literary public appearance was as an orator on the 4th of July, 1814, in which year he joined the club by whom the North American Review was originated, and for a time conducted. In 1818–19, he was its assoc. editor with Prof. E. T. Channing. In 1821–2, he pub., in numbers, "The Idle Man." His first pieces in verse, "The Dying Raven," and "The Husband and Wife's Grave," appeared in the N. Y. Review in 1825. In 1827, he pub. "The Buccaneer, and other Poems," which was well received and highly commended. It was praised by Wilson in Blackwood's Magazine, as "the most powerful and original of Amer. poetical compositions." In 1833, he pub. an enlarged vol., including new poems and the papers of "The Idle Man," and in 1850, "Poems and Prose Writings," 2 vols., being a complete coll. of his writings, excepting a series of lectures on Shakspeare, delivered in Boston, N. Y., and Phila., 1839–40.

Dana, RICHARD HENRY, Jun., advocate and writer, son of the preceding, b. Cambridge, Ms., Aug. 1, 1815. H. U. 1837. In 1834, he made the voyage described in his "Two Years before the Mast," which details the ship and shore life of a common sailor from personal experience. Adm. to the Boston bar in 1840. In 1841, he pub. "The Seaman's Friend," repub. in Eng. as "The Seaman's Manual." Mr. Dana was engaged in the numerous trials for the rescue of the slave Shadrach in 1853, and in the case of Anthony Burns in 1854. He was a delegate to the Buffalo convention of 1848; a speaker in the Repub. movement of 1856–60, and a member of the Ms. Const. Conv. of 1853. In 1861–6, he was U. S. atty. for the dist. of Ms. He has occasionally contrib. to the N. A. Review and to the Law Reporter. In 1859, he pub. a vol. of travel, "To Cuba and Back." He is the author of many speeches and addresses on political and general topics.

Dana, SAMUEL, an eminent lawyer and jurist, son of Judge Samuel (H. U. 1755; minister of Groton, 1761–75; b. Jan. 14, 1739; d. Apr. 2, 1798), b. Groton, Ms., June 26, 1767; d. Charlestown, Ms., Nov. 20, 1835. Pres. of the Ms. senate; M. C. 1814–15; and chief-justice of the Circuit C. C. P. He pub. an oration delivered at Groton, July 4, 1807.—Sabine and Allen.

Dana, SAMUEL LUTHER, M.D., LL.D., chemist, bro. of James F., and grandson of Rev. Samuel of Groton, b. Groton, Ms., July 11, 1795; d. Lowell, Ms., Mar. 11, 1868. H.U. 1813. Lieut. 1st U. S. Art., and served until the close of the War of 1812–15. He then studied medicine; received the degree of M.D. in 1818; practised from 1819 to 1826 in Waltham, where he established a chemical laboratory for the manuf. of the oil of vitriol and bleaching-salts, and founded the "Newton Chemical Co.," of which he was the chemist till 1834. Subsequently resident and consulting chemist to the Merrimack Manuf. Co. In connection with his bro., he pub. "The Mineralogy and Geology of Boston and Vicinity," 1818. In 1833, while in Eng., he pub. a clear exposition of the chemical changes occurring in the manuf. of sulphuric acid. This was followed by a report to the city council of Lowell on the danger arising from the use of lead water-pipes. He made many experiments in agricultural science; pub. "The Farmer's Muck Manual" in 1842; an "Essay on Manures," 1843, honored by the prize of the Ms. Agric. Society; a translation of Tanquerel on Lead-Diseases; and assisted in the agric. and geol. reports of the State survey. He also contrib. several articles to the N A. Review and other periodicals. He contrib. to the improvement of the important art of printing cotton, beside his discoveries in the art of bleaching it.

Dana, SAMUEL WHITTLESEY, an eminent and leading Federalist, son of Rev. James, b. New Haven, Ct., July, 1757; d. July 21, 1830. Y. C. 1775. M. C. 1796 to 1810; U. S. senator, 1810–21. Many years mayor of Middletown, Ct.

Dane, NATHAN, LL.D., an eminent jurist and statesman, b. Ipswich, Dec. 27, 1752; d. Beverly, Ms., Feb. 15, 1835. H.U. 1778. John, his ancestor, came from England, as early as 1638, and settled in Ipswich. He practised law in Beverly, where he resided till his death; was a member of the Ms. legisl. in 1782–5, and was an able and influential member of Congress in 1785–8; member of the Ms. senate in 1790, '94, '96–8; a commissioner to revise the laws of the State in 1795; in 1811, to revise and publish the charters which had been granted therein; and again, in 1812, to make a new publication of the statutes. In 1814, he was a member of the Hartford Convention, and in 1820 of that for revising the State constitution, but, on account of deafness, declined taking his seat. He was the framer of the celebrated ordnance, passed by Congress in 1787, for the govt. of the territory north-west of the Ohio, — a code, by which the principles of free gt., to the exclusion of slavery, were extended to that immense region. He incorporated in this ordnance a prohibition against all laws impairing the obligation of contracts, which the convention that formed the Constitution of the U.S. a few months afterwards extended to all the States of the Union, by making it a part of that Constitution. His professional practice was laborious and extensive; and his great work, entitled "A General Abridgment and Digest of American Law," in 9 large vols, 8vo (1823–9), remains as a proof of his learning and industry. The Dane professorship of law, founded by his munificence at H. U., and the law hall for the use of the students and professors of law, are enduring monuments of his desire to promote the interests of the legal profession and the welfare of the community.

Digitized by Google

Danforth, SAMUEL, minister of Roxbury from Sept. 24, 1650, to his d., Nov. 19, 1674; b. Framlingham, Suffolk, Eng., Sept. 1626; came to N.E. with Nicholas his father, 1634. H. U. 1643. Tutor and fellow of H. U. Brother of Thos., pres. of Me. He pub. a number of Almanacs, an "Astronomical Description of the Comet of 1664," a heavenly body, the appearance of which he believed portentous, and the election sermon, 1670, entitled "A Recognition of New England's Errand into the Wilderness."

Danforth, SAMUEL, M.D., physician, b. Cambridge, Ms., Aug. 1740; d. Boston, Nov. 16, 1827. H.U. 1758. Son of Judge Samuel, grandson of Rev. John of Dorchester. After studying medicine with Dr. Rand, he practised a year or two at Newport, and then settled in Boston, where his loyalty occasioned his being treated somewhat harshly after the evacuation of that city by the British. He practised with success until near 80 years of age, and increased his reputation by his chemical studies. In all difficult medical cases, his opinion was relied on as the utmost effort of human skill. From 1795 to 1798, he was pres. of the Ms. Med. Society. Member of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences. — Thacher.

Danforth, THOMAS, pres. of the district of Maine, b. Eng., 1622; d. Nov. 5, 1699. Son of Nicholas, who d. Cambridge, 1637. He had great influence in public affairs; was an assist. from 1659 to 1678; dep. gov. in 1679; pres. and dept. gov. until the arrival of Andros in 1688. He was also a judge of the Superior Court. In 1681, he, with Gookin, Cooke, and others, opposed the acts of trade, and asserted the chartered rights of his country. During the witchcraft troubles in 1692, he condemned the proceedings of the courts.

Daniel, ISAAC, a soldier of the Revol. and of the War of 1812, b. Westchester Co., N.Y.; d. N.Y. City, 29 June, 1864, a. 109 years.

Daniel, JOHN M., journalist, d. Richmond, Va., March 30, 1865. Noted as a newspaper writer in Richmond. He was in 1854 app. by Pres. Pierce, minister resident at the court of Sardinia, but became very unpopular, and in 1858 resigned. Soon after, he became again connected with the Richmond press, and was noted for the violence of his language, and his readiness to resort to the duello. He was a strenuous advocate for the hanging of John Brown in 1859; was a zealous secessionist; was for a time on the staff of one of the Va. corps commanders, but soon returned to Richmond, and edited the Examiner, in which he attacked Mr. Davis virulently. A Life of Stonewall Jackson, pub. in his name, was written by J. Esten Cook. A Memoir of Daniel, by his bro. F. S. Daniel, was pub. 1868.

Daniel, JOSEPH J., jurist, b. Halifax Co., N.C., ab. 1783; d. Feb. 1848. After receiving a classical education, he studied law, became an ornament to the bar; in 1807 was elected a member of the house; in 1816 was app. a judge of the Superior Court of Law and Equity, and, from 1822 to his d., was judge of the N.C. Supreme Court.

Daniel, JUNIUS, brig.-gen. C. S. A., b. N.C. 1828; killed near Spottsylvania, Va., May 11, 1864. West Point, 1851. 1st lieut. 3d U.S. Inf., May, 1857; resigned, June, 1858, and was a planter at Shreveport, La., 1858–61.

Daniel, PETER VYVIAN, jurist, b. Stafford Co., Va., 1785; d. Richmond, Va., May 31, 1860. N.J. Coll. 1805. His father, Travers Daniel, was an extensive land-proprietor and planter in Stafford Co., Va., to which State his ancestor emigrated in 1649. Adm. to the bar in 1808. In 1809–10, he was a member of the H. of delegates; one of the privy council from 1812 to 1835, being a portion of the time ex-officio pres. of the council, and lieut.-gov.; app. judge of the U.S. Dist. Court of Va in 1836, and 3 Mar. 1841, judge of the U.S. Supreme Court. He m. a daughter of Edmund Randolph, in whose office he studied law. He was a Democ. politician, and sustained the Dred Scott decision of Judge Taney.

Daniel, WILLIAM, judge, b. Va., 1771; d. Lynchburg, Nov. 20, 1839. In 1798–9, he was a conspicuous member of the State legisl., and, during the last 23 years of his life, was on the bench of the general and circuit courts of Va.

Danielson, TIMOTHY, Revol. patriot, b. Brimfield, Ms., 1733; d. there Sept. 19, 1791. Y.C. 1756. He studied theology, but did not engage in the clerical profession. In Sept. 1774, he was chairman of the Hampshire Co. convention; a delegate to the Prov. Congress at Concord, Oct. 1774, at Cambridge, Feb. 1775, and at Watertown, May, 1775. In May, 1774, being then a representative, he was chosen to the council, but was negatived by Gov. Gage. Col. of a provincial regt. in May, 1775. His chief service, however, was in the legisl., of which he continued a member several years. Member of the State Const. Conv. in 1779, and afterward of the State senate and executive council; chief-justice of Hampshire Co. His widow m. Gen. Eaton. Large and finely formed, he possessed great influence.

Daponte, see PONTE.

Darby, WILLIAM, statistician and geographer, b. Pa. 1775; d. Washington, D.C., Oct. 9, 1854. An officer under Gen. Jackson in La., and one of the surveyors of the boundary between the U.S. and Canada. Author of "Geog. Descrip. of La.," 8vo, 1816; "Plan of Pittsburg and Adjacent Country," 1817; "Emigrant's Guide to the Western Country," 1818; "Tour from N.Y. to Detroit," 1819; "Geog. and Hist. of Florida, with a map," 1821; 3d ed. of "Brooke's Univ. Gazetteer," 1823; "View of the U.S.," 8vo, 1828; "Lectures on the Discovery of Amer.," 1828; "Geographical Dictionary," 8vo, 3d ed., 1843; "U.S. Gazetteer," 1830 (with Theo. Dwight), and "Mnemonica, a Register of Events to 1829."

Darden, MILES, noted for his great size, b. N.C. 1798; d. Henderson Co, Tenn., Jan. 23, 1857. He was 7 feet 6 inches high; and at his death his weight was a little over 1,000 lbs. Until 1853, he was active and lively, and able to labor; but from that time, was obliged to stay at home, or be hauled about in a 2-horse wagon. In 1850, it required 13½ yds. of cloth, one yard wide, to make him a coat

Digitized by Google

His coffin was 8 feet long, 35 inches deep, 32 inches across the breast, 18 across the head, and 14 across the feet.

Dare, VIRGINIA, the first child of English parents in the New World, b. at Roanoke, Aug. 1587. Grand-daughter of John White, gov. of the colony sent by Sir Walter Raleigh. White's dau. m. Mr. Dare, one of the assistants of the gov.; and Virginia was b. ab. a month after the arrival of the exped.

Darke, WILLIAM, gen., b. Phila. Co., Pa., 1736; d. Jefferson Co., Va., Nov. 26, 1801. In 1740, his parents moved to Va. He was in Braddock's army at its defeat in 1755, and was made a capt. at the beginning of the Revol. war. He was made prisoner at the battle of Germantown, and was col. com. of the Hampshire and Berkeley regts. at the capture of Cornwallis. He was often a member of the Va. legisl., and, in the convention of 1788, voted for the Federal Constitution. Lieut.-col. of a regt. of "Levies" in 1791, he com. the left wing of St. Clair's army, at its defeat by the Miami Indians, Nov. 4, 1791. He made two gallant and successful charges with the bayonet in this fight, in the second of which, his youngest son, Capt. Joseph Darke, was killed, and he himself was wounded, and narrowly escaped death. He was afterward a maj.-gen. of Va. militia.

Darley, ELLEN WESTRAY, actress, b. Bath, Eng.; d. Phila., Sept. 26, 1849. Made her first app. in Amer. at the Haymarket, Boston, Dec. 26, 1796, as Narcissa, in "Inkle and Yarico;" in N.Y. in 1798, at the Park, as Joanna in "The Deserted Daughter."

Darley, FELIX O. C., artist, b. Phila., June 23, 1822. Placed by his parents in a mercantile establishment, he devoted his leisure to drawing, and, receiving from the publisher of the Saturday Museum a handsome sum for a few designs, he applied himself wholly to that pursuit. For several years, he was employed by large publishing-houses in Phila., and soon acquired reputation. The series pub. in the "Library of Humorous American Works" was very popular in the Southern and Western States. In 1848, he removed to New York, where he illustrated "The Sketch Book," "Knickerbocker," &c. He had previously made a series of designs in outline, from Judd's novel of "Margaret," which were pub. in 1856. The committee of the American Art Union commissioned him to illustrate in similar style Irving's "Rip Van Winkle" and his "Legend of Sleepy Hollow," both of which are highly creditable productions. Offers were made to him to settle in London, which he declined. He has also been engaged in the preparation of vignettes for bank-notes, and in illustrating Cooper's works; has executed "The Massacre at Wyoming," and 4 other Revol. pieces of merit, and has contrib. designs to Irving's "Life of Washington," Dickens's and Sims's novels. Another of his works is an illustration of the wedding-procession in Longfellow's poem of "The Courtship of Miles Standish." For Prince Napoleon, when in N.Y., he executed four drawings illustrative of American life, "The Unwilling Laborer," "Repose," "The Blacksmith's Shop," and "Emigrants attacked by the Indians." Among his pictures of the late civil war are "Giving Comfort to the Enemy" and "Dahlgren's Charge at Fredericksburg." He m. the dau. of Warren Colburn, and resides at Claymont, Del. — Tuckerman.

Darling, NOYES, a disting. agriculturist, b. Woodbridge, Ct., 1782; d. New Haven, Sept. 17, 1846. Y. C. 1801. Tutor there 1804–8. Engaged at one time in mercantile pursuits in N.Y. City, he afterward became especially interested in horticulture, and, also in investigating the habits of insects injurious to vegetation, and wrote frequently on this subject. He passed the latter portion of his life in New Haven, of which city he was mayor, having served long as Co. surveyor, and was at the time of his death judge of the Co. court.

Darlington, WILLIAM, M.D. (U. of Pa. 1804), LL.D. (Y.C. 1848), botanist and politician, b. of Quaker parents in Birmingham, Pa., Apr. 28, 1782; d West Chester, Pa., Apr. 23, 1863. With only a common country school education, he began to study medicine at the age of 18; studied languages and botany 2 years, and then went to Calcutta as surgeon of a ship. His "Letters from Calcutta" were afterward pub. in the Analectic Magazine. Returning in 1807, he m., and practised medicine for several years successfully at West Chester. He wrote in defence of the policy of Mr. Madison; raised an armed corps on the breaking-out of hostilities, and, after the sack of Washington in 1814, was chosen major of a vol. regt., and was a Democ. M.C. in 1815–17 and 1819–23. He founded at West Chester in 1812 an academy, an athenæum, and a prosperous society of natural history, of which he was pres. In 1813, he began a descriptive catalogue of plants growing around West Chester, pub. in 1826, with the title "Florula Cestrica," afterwards enlarged as the "Flora Cestrica," 1837, and repub. in 1853, containing a complete description and classification of every plant known in the county. In 1843, he edited the corresp. of his friend, Dr. Wm. Baldwin, and accomp. it with a memoir, entitling the work "Reliquiæ Baldwiniana." In 1853, the name of Darlingtonica California was given, in his honor, to a new and remarkable variety of pitcher-plant found in California. In 1847, he pub. "Agric. Botany;" "Mutual Influence of Habits and Disease," 8vo, 1804–6; "Agric. Chemistry," 1847. In 1849, he coll. and pub. the corresp. of Humphrey Marshall and John Bartram. His last work, pub. in the W. Chester Village Record, was his "Notæ Cestrienses." He was a member of some 40 learned societies in America and Europe. — Gen. Reg. xviii. 97.

D'Arusmont, see WRIGHT.

Daveiss, COL. JOSEPH HAMILTON, lawyer and soldier, b. Bedford Co., Va., Mar. 4, 1774; d. Nov. 7, 1811. He was bred to the law, and was at the time of his death U.S. atty. for Ky. A maj. of Ky. vol. dragoons under Gen. Harrison at Tippecanoe, he was killed while leading his men to the charge. He pub. in 1807 "A View of the President's Conduct concerning the Conspiracy of 1806."

Digitized by Google

Davenport, Col. Abraham, Revol. patriot, b. Stamford, Ct., 1715; d. there Nov. 20, 1789. Y.C. 1732. Son of Rev. John, minister of Stamford, 1694–1731. He was a man of stern integrity and generous beneficence. In a time of scarcity, he sold the product of his farm to the poor at old prices. He was a judge of the C.C.P.; a member of the exec. council of Ct.; 25 years in the State legisl.; senator, 1766–84; and during the war was one of the State com. of safety. — Hist. Stamford.

Davenport, Addington, judge, b. Aug. 3, 1670; d. Apr. 2, 1736. H.U. 1689. After visiting Eng., Spain, and the West Indies, he returned to Boston, and was register of deeds for Suffolk Co. He was afterward successively clerk of the H. of representatives, Supreme Court, and C.C.P.; member of the council; representative, 1711–13, and from 1715 to his death was judge of the Supreme Court. He was one of the founders of Brattle-st. Church in 1698.

Davenport, Addington, D.D., a Prot.-Epis. clergyman of Boston, son of the preceding, b. May 16, 1701; d. Sept. 8, 1746. H.U. 1719. He was educated for the law, but entered the ministry. From Apr. 15, 1730, to 1737, he was minister of St. Andrew's Church, Scituate; was assist. minister of King's Chapel from Apr. 15, 1737, to May 8, 1740, when he became rector of Trinity Church. On leaving Scituate, he gave his house and land to the Society for Propagating the Gospel in Foreign Parts. Dec. 23, 1729, he m. Jane, dau. of Grove Hirst, a merchant of Boston.

Davenport, Edward L., one of the best actors on the American stage, b. Boston, 1816. Made his début at the Lion Theatre, Providence, as Passion Will to Booth's Sir Giles Overreach. First appeared in N.Y. at the Bowery, under Hamblin's management; at Phila., at the Walnut, in 1838, as Count Montalban in the Honeymoon. Dec. 6, 1847, he opened at the Manchester Theatre, Eng., as Claude Melnotte, and supported Mrs. Mowatt. During Macready's farewell from the stage, he supported him; d. Canton, Pa., Sept. 1, 1877.

Davenport, Franklin, of Woodbury, N.J., served in the Revol. war under Gen. Saml. Smith at Fort Mifflin; was a U.S. senator in 1798–9; M.C. 1799 to 1801, and also a judge.

Davenport, Henry K., capt. U. S. N., b. Ga., Dec. 10, 1820. Midshipm. Feb. 19, 1838; lieut. Dec. 19, 1853; com. July 16, 1862; capt. Mar. 14, 1868. Attached to sloop "Portsmouth" at the storming of the 6 forts, Canton River, China, Nov. 1856; to the sloop "Cumberland" at the capture of Hatteras, Aug. 1861; in repulse of rebel steamer "Jamestown," in James River, Dec. 1861; com. steamer "Hetzel" at the capture of Newbern, and destruction of rebel fleet in those waters; defence of Fort Anderson, Neuse River, and repulse of Pettigrew's army, Mar. 14, 1863; defence of Newbern, and repulse of Hoke's army, May, 1864; com. flag-ship "Lancaster," Pacific squad., 1864–6, and captured 7 pirates on board Amer. steamer "Salvador" off the Bay of Panama, Nov. 10, 1864, and received thanks of navy dept; d. Aug. 18, 1872.

Davenport, James, lawyer and M.C 1796–9; son of Col. Abraham; b. Stamford, 12 Oct. 1758; d. there 3 Aug. 1797. Y.C. 1777. He was in the commissary dept. in the Revol.; was a judge of the C.C.P., and a man of literary tastes and abilities.

Davenport, John, a Puritan divine, one of the founders of New Haven, b. Coventry, Eng., 1597; d. Boston, Mar. 15, 1670. At the age of 16, he entered Merton Coll., Oxford. After 2 yrs. rem. to Magdalen, where he received the degree of B.A., and subsequently that of B. D. He commenced preaching in Lond., where his purity and worth, his learning, and talent as a preacher, were greatly esteemed. Ab. 1626, in connection with Drs. Sibs and Gouge, the lord-mayor of London, and others, he devised a plan to purchase impropriations, with the profits of which a number of ministers should be maintained, who would assist in reforming abuses. But Archbishop Laud procured its condemnation, and the confiscation of the money to the king's use. At the close of 1633, Mr. Davenport was compelled, by the increasing persecution of nonconformists, to resign his pastoral office over St. Stephen's Church, Coleman St., and retire to Holland. After officiating for a time as a private instructor, he returned to Lond. in 1635. He had been concerned in the patent of the Ms. Colony, and determined to come over. June 26, 1637, he landed at Boston with Mr. Eaton and Mr. Hopkins, was received with great respect, and invited to sit with the synod at Cambridge, to which his learning and wisdom made him a valuable accession. March 30, 1638, he sailed with his company for Quinnipiack, or New Haven, to found a new colony. Here, under the branches of an oak, he preached Apr. 18, the first Sunday after their arrival, and ministered there near 30 years. June 4, 1639, holding their constituent assembly in a barn, the "Free Planters," resolved that church-members only should be burgesses; and Davenport was chosen one of the "seven pillars" to support the ordinance of civil govt. Two of the regicides, Goffe and Whalley, were concealed in his house; and he instigated the people, by his preaching, to protect them from the commissioners of the king. With Cotton and Hooker, he was invited to join the Westminster Assembly; but his church was unwilling to part with him. He was ord. Dec. 9, 1668, over the First Chuch, Boston; but he survived this change but a short time. He wrote sermons, several controversial pamphlets, "A Discourse about Civil Govt. in a New Plantation," "The Saint's Anchor-Hold in all Storms and Tempests," a Catechism containing the chief heads of the Christian religion, and other theol. tracts.

Davenport, John, lawyer, M.C., 1799–1817, b. Stamford, Ct., 16 Jan. 1752; d. there 28 Nov. 1830. Y.C. 1770. Tutor there 1773. An active Revol. patriot, and a maj. in the commis. dept. Son of Col. Abraham. — Hist. Stamford.

Davenport, Col. William, b. Culpepper Co., Va., Oct. 12, 1769; d. Walnut Fountain, Caldwell Co., N.C., Aug. 19, 1859. He held at various times the offices of justice of the peace, Co. surveyor, legislator, &c., and contrib. largely to the erection of the female coll. of Lenoir, which bears his name.

Digitized by Google

Davenport, WILLIAM, col. U.S.A., b. N. C.; d. Phila., Apr. 12, 1858. App. capt. 16 Inf., Sept. 28, 1812; maj. 6th Inf., Dec. 16, 1825; lieut.-col. 1st Inf., Apr. 4, 1832; in battle of Bad Axe, under Gen. Atkinson; brev. col. for meritorious service in Florida, July 7, 1838; col. 6th Inf., June 14, 1842; 1st Inf., July, 1843; resigned, Jan. 31, 1850. He disting. himself at Chippewa and Bridgewater in the War of 1812, also in the Black Hawk and Florida wars. — Gardner.

David, JOHN B., D.D., Rom. Cath. bishop of Louisville, Ky. Consec. 15 Aug. 1819; d. 1841.

Davidson, JOHN WYNN, brig.-gen. vols., b. Fairfax Co., Va., Aug. 18, 1824. West Point, 1845. Entering the 1st dragoons, he accompanied Gen. Kearney, in 1846, to Cal., in com. of a howitzer battery. Was in the battles of San Pasqual, Dec. 6, 1846; San Bernardo, Dec. 7; San Gabriel, Jan. 8, 1847; Plains of Mesa, Jan. 9, 1847; Clear Lake, Cal., May 17, 1850, and at Russian River, June 17, 1850, under Capt. Nath. Lyon. He fought the battle of Cieniguilla, N. Mexico, Mar. 30, 1854, against the Apache and Utah Indians, losing 3-4 of his command, and being himself wounded. Capt. 20 Jan. 1855; maj. 2d Cav. Nov. 14, 1861; brig.-gen. vols. Feb. 3, 1862; com. a brigade in Smith's division in the Potomac Army. He served at the battles of Lee's Mills, Apr. 5, 1862; Mechanicsville, May 24; Golding's farm, June 28, and White-oak Swamp, June 30. Early in Aug. he was transferred to the dept. of the Mpi., and put in com. of the S. E. dist. of Mo. He co-operated with Gen. Steele in his exped. against Little Rock, meeting the rebel cavalry at Bayou Metre; was in the actions of Ashley's Mills, Ark., and Little Rock, 10 Sept. 1863; com. cav. exped. from Baton Rouge to Pascagoula, 24 Nov. 1864; brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., 13 Mar. 1865, for capt. of Little Rock; maj.-gen. for merit. services in the Rebellion; lieut.-col. 10th Cav. 1 Dec. 1866. — Cullum.

Davidson, LUCRETIA MARIA, a remarkable instance of early genius, b. Plattsburg, N.Y., Sept. 27, 1808; d. Aug. 27, 1825. When but four years old, a number of her little books were found to be filled with rude drawings, accompanied with explanatory verses written in characters of the printed alphabet. From an early age, every leisure moment was devoted to reading. The earliest of her productions which are preserved were written when she was 9 years old. So early, ardent, and so fatal a pursuit of intellectual improvement is unparalleled, except in the cases of Chatterton and Kirke White. In Oct. 1824, a gentleman who knew her intense desire for education placed her at a female seminary, where her incessant application soon destroyed her constitution, previously debilitated by disease; and she d. before completing her 17th year. A biog. sketch, with a coll. of her poems, was pub. by S. F. B. Morse, in 1829, entitled "Amir Khan and other Poems, the Remains of L. M. Davidson." Although a great part of her compositions were destroyed, 278 remain. — See Life, by Catharine M. Sedgwick, 1843.

Davidson, MARGARET MILLER, poetess, sister of L. M., b. Mar. 26, 1823; d. Nov. 25, 1837. Sharing her sister's precocity, she began to write at 6 years of age. At 10, she wrote and acted in a passionate drama in society at N.Y., and, notwithstanding the warning of her sister's fate, her intellectual activity was not restrained. Margaret's poems were issued under the auspices of Washington Irving; and the works of both sisters were pub. together in 1850. A vol. of Selections from the Writings of Mrs. Margaret M. Davidson, the mother, with a preface by Miss C. M. Sedgwick, appeared in 1843. Lieut. L. P. Davidson, U.S.A., the bro. of Margaret and Lucretia, who also d. young, wrote verses with elegance and ease.

Davidson, GEN. WILLIAM, Revol. officer, b. Lancaster Co., Pa., 1746; killed at the battle of Cowan's Ford, N.C., Feb. 1, 1781. In 1750, he removed with his family to Rowan Co., N.C., and was educated at Charlotte Acad. App. a major in 1776, he served under Washington, until in Nov. 1779, detached to re-enforce the army of Gen. Lincoln, at which time he com. his regt. with the rank of lieut.-col. Visiting his family on the way, he was saved from captivity, as the investiture of Charleston prevented him from rejoining his regiment. In an engagement at the head of some militia, with a party of loyalists, near Calson's Mill, he was severely wounded; but, having been app. brig.-gen. by the State of N.C., took the field 8 weeks after, and exerted himself to interrupt the progress of Cornwallis. Detached by Greene, on the last day of Jan. 1781, to guard the very ford selected by Cornwallis for his passage of the Catawba, Davidson posted himself there at night at the head of 300 men, and was killed on the following day. Congress decreed him a monument. — Rogers.

Davie, WILLIAM RICHARDSON, lawyer, statesman, and soldier, b. Egremont, near White Haven, Eng., June 20, 1756; d. Camden, S.C., Nov. 8, 1820. N.J. Coll. 1776. His father brought him to S.C. soon after the peace of 1763, and, returning to Eng., confided him to the care of Rev. Wm. Richardson, his maternal uncle, who educated and adopted him as his son and heir. He commenced the study of law at Salisbury; but, soon obtaining a lieutenancy in a troop of dragoons, he succeeded to the com., annexed it to the legion of Pulaski in 1779, and was promoted by Gen. Lincoln to be brigade-major. He fought at Stono, where he was severely wounded, at Hanging Rock, and Rocky Mount. Taking the field with a legionary corps, and rank of maj., after expending the last shilling of the estate bequeathed to him by his uncle, in its equipment, he was actively engaged in protecting the country between Charlotte and Camden from the enemy's predatory excursions. When Cornwallis entered Charlotte, N.C., Col. Davie severely handled Tarleton's legion, killing a large number, and wounding its commander, Maj. Hanger, withdrawing his own force without loss. His efficiency in saving the remnant of the army after its overthrow at Camden, as well as his other services, procured for him the rank of col. com. of the cavalry of the State. Gen. Greene, on taking com. of the Southern dept., gave him the post of commiss., in which his zeal, talents, influence, and local knowledge contrib. greatly to the successful operations which followed. After the war, he settled at Halifax, on the Roanoke, in the practice of law, and soon rose to great eminence. He was possessed of great sagacity, knowledge, and eloquence; was many years a member of the State legisl. In 1787, he was a delegate to the convention which framed the Federal Constitution; but the illness of his family called him home before its labors were terminated, and his name does not appear on that instrument. In the convention of N.C., he was its most able champion. To him the U. of N.C. is mainly indebted for its establishment and support. App. a major-gen. of the State militia; in 1799, he was gov. of the State, but was soon after sent by Pres. Adams with Ellsworth and Murray on a mission to France. Soon after his return, he withdrew from public life to his farm at Tivoli, on the Catawba River, S.C. App. a maj.-gen. by the govt. in Mar. 1813, he declined on account of bodily infirmities occasioned by his wounds in the Revol. He was a man of commanding appearance, affable, hospitable, and delightful as a companion. — See Sparks's Amer. Biog., vol xv., 2d series.

Digitized by Google

Davies, CHARLES, LL.D. (Gen. Coll. 1840), mathematician, b. Washington, Ct., 22 Jan. 1798. West Point, 1815. Emig. to St. Lawrence Co., N.Y. He worked on a farm till he entered West Point in 1814. Prof. at West Point from Dec. 1816 to May, 1837; at Trinity Coll. in 1839–41, and in the N.Y. U. in 1848–9, when he withdrew to his residence at Fishkill Landing, N.Y., and completed his series of text-books. He afterward resumed his professional duties, first in the Normal School at Albany, and in Columb. Coll. in 1857–65. His works are characterized by great perspicuity, and close logical arrangement. They consist of a series of arithmetics, algebras, and geometries, "Elements of Surveying," "Shades, Shadows, and Perspective," "Differential and Integral Calculus," "Grammar of Arithmetic," "Practical Mathematics," "Logic of Mathematics," and "Mathematical Dictionary" (with G. W. Peck). Prof. Davies was a paymaster in the army in 1841–5; d. Fishkill, Sep. 17, '76.

Davies, SAMUEL, D.D., divine and scholar, b. Newcastle Co., Del., Nov. 3, 1723; d. Princeton, N.J., Feb. 4, 1761. He was carefully and religiously educated at home by David his father, a pious Welsh planter; studied at Mr. Blair's school at Fogg's Manor. Was licensed to preach, July 30, 1746; ord. Feb. 19, 1747, and officiated at different places in Hanover Co., Va., where dissenters from the established Episcopal Church of Va. were obnoxious to the civil authorities. The success of his labors led to a controversy between him and the king's atty-gen., as to whether the act of toleration which had been passed in Eng. for the relief of Protestant dissenters extended also to Va., — a question ultimately decided in the affirmative. Sent with Gilbert Tennent to Eng in 1753 to solicit funds for the Coll. of N.J., he preached with acceptance there and in Scotland, and succeeded in the object of his mission. On his return in Feb. 1755, he resumed his pastoral labors, and, after Braddock's defeat, preached a sermon which was pub., in a note to which occurs the prophetic passage: "That heroic youth, Col. Washington, whom I cannot but hope Providence has hitherto preserved in so signal a manner for some important service to his country." The First Va. presbytery was established through his efforts in 1755, and July 26, 1759, he succeeded Jonathan Edwards as pres. of the N.J. Coll. A coll. of his sermons was pub. Lond., 1767, in 5 vols., and passed through several editions in Great Britain and Amer. The edition of his sermons pub. N.Y., 1851, 3 vols., 8vo, contains an essay on the Life and Times of Davies, by Rev. Albert Barnes. He was an eloquent preacher; and his sermons are highly esteemed for elegance of style, as well as their masterly treatment of important subjects. He also wrote verses of considerable merit, among them an elegy on his old preceptor, Samuel Blair. His son COL. WILLIAM left N.J. Coll. in 1775, became an officer in the army, and enjoyed the esteem of Washington. He was app. a sub-inspector under Steuben, in April, 1778, and was the most efficient of his assistants. He was afterward in the auditor's office, Richmond, and removed to Sussex Co., where he died.

Davies, THOMAS ALFRED, brig.-gen. vols., b. St. Lawrence Co., N.Y., Dec. 1809. West Point, 1829. Entering the 1st Inf., he resigned in 1831; followed mercantile pursuits and civil engineering in N.Y. City, where, in 1840–41, he was engaged on the Croton Aqueduct. In May, 1861, he became col. 16th N.Y. vols. In the first battle of Bull Run, he was acting brig., com. the left wing of the army, and, for his gallantry on that occasion, was made brig.-gen. March 7, 1862. Joining the army of the West, under Gen. Halleck, he com. the 2d division in the movement against Corinth, and took part in the battle of Oct. 3–4, 1862; com. the district of Rolla, Mo., Mar. 1863 to Mar. 1864, and of N. Kans. 1864–5. He is the author of "Answer to Hugh Miller and Theoretical Geologists," "Cosmogony," 8vo, 1858.

Davila y Padilla (dä'-ve-lä e pä-dēl'-yä), AUGUSTIN, became bishop of St. Domingo; d. 1604. Author of "History of the Province of Santiago de Mexico," 1596.

Davis, ANDREW JACKSON, clairvoyant, b. Blooming Grove, Orange Co., N.Y., Aug. 11, 1826. His parents were extremely poor, and his youth was passed in various labors, with but little schooling. Early in 1843, Mr. Wm. Levingston of Poughkeepsie, by mesmerism, developed in him extraordinary clairvoyant powers. He discoursed learnedly on medical, psychological, and scientific subjects, and successfully treated diseases. March 7, 1844, during a trance of 16 hours, he conversed, as he asserts, with invisible beings, and received intimations and instructions concerning the position he was subsequently to occupy as a teacher from the interior state. In Nov. 1845, he dictated to Rev. Wm. Fishbough, at New York, while clairvoyant, his first and most considerable work, "The Principles of Nature, her

Digitized by Google

Divine Relations, and a Voice to Mankind," 8vo, 800 pp. This book presents a wide range of subjects, and repudiates any special authority in the teachings of the Bible. He has pub. several other works under the same influence, — the "Great Harmonia," 4 vols.; the "Approaching Crisis;" the "Penetralia," 1856; the "Present Age," and "Inner Life," "Review of Dr. Bushnell on Supernaturalism;" "Philosophy of Spiritual Intercourse," 8vo; "Philosophy of Special Providences;" "Free Thoughts concerning Religion," 8vo, 1854; "Harmonial Man," 8vo. He is more successful as a writer than as a lecturer, and has been principally instrumental in inaugurating the modern movement known as "Spiritualism." — See the Magic Staff, an Autobiog. of A. J. Davis, 1857.

Davis, Asahel, b. Ms., 1791. Pub. "Ancient America, and Researches of the East," 30th thousand, 1854, and lecture on "The Discov. of Amer. by the Northmen," 1840.

Davis, Charles Aug., a shipping-merchant of N.Y., and a political writer, b. 1795; d. 27 Jan. 1867. Well versed in financial and commercial affairs: he was also a brilliant and genial writer upon those topics. Author of the "Peter Scriber Letters" in the Commercial Advertiser, and "Major Jack Downing's Letters" in the same paper, detailing his interviews with Gen. Jackson, and the plans for overthrowing the U.S. Bank.

Davis, Charles Henry, LL.D. (H.U. 1868), mathematician, rear-adm. U. S. N., b. Boston, Ms., Jan. 16, 1807. Son of Daniel, U.S. solicitor-gen. for Ms. H.U. 1825. Midshipm. Aug. 12, 1823; lieut. Mar. 3, 1834; com. June 12, 1854; capt. 15 Nov. 1861; commo. July 16, 1862; chief of bureau of navigation, July 17, 1862; rear-adm. Feb. 7, 1863. From 1844 to 1849, he was engaged in the U.S. coast-survey. In 1846–9, while surveying the waters about Nantucket, he discovered the New South Shoal, and several smaller shoals directly in the track of ships sailing between N.Y. and Europe, and of coasting-vessels from Boston. He was subsequently engaged in examining the state of the harbors of Boston, N.Y., Charleston, &c. These investigations led him to the study of the laws of tidal action. See his "Memoir upon the Geological Action of the Tidal and other Currents of the Ocean" (Memoirs of the Am. Acad., new series, vol. iv.), and "The Law of Deposit of the Flood Tide" (Smiths. Contribs. vol. iii.). He founded the "Amer. Nautical Almanac," superintending it from 1849 to 1856, when he was ordered to naval service in the Pacific in com. of the sloop of war "St. Mary's." He was fleet-capt. in Dupont's exped. against Port Royal, and second in com., and was assigned to the Mpi. flotilla. May 9, 1862, he was app. flag-officer of the flotilla, and on the 11th repulsed an attack by the rebel fleet. June 8, he attacked the rebel fleet opposite Memphis, capturing or destroying all but one vessel. The surrender of Memphis immediately followed. He then joined Adm. Farragut, and was engaged in the various operations ab. Vicksburg. With Gen. Curtis, he operated up the Yazoo in Aug. 1862, with complete success. Supt. Naval Observatory, Washington, 1865–7; com. S. Atlantic squad., 1867–9. Author of an English translation of Gauss's "Theoria Motus Corporum Cœlestium," Boston, 1858, and of shorter translations and articles on mathematical astronomy and geodesy; d. Annapolis, Md., Feb. 18, 1877.

Davis, Daniel, soldier, killed Sept. 17, 1814, in the sortie from Fort Erie. App. lieut.-col. comg. N.Y. vols., June 29, 1812; brig.-gen. 1814.

Davis, Daniel, lawyer, b. Barnstable, Ms., May 8, 1762; d. Cambridge, Oct. 27, 1835. He settled in Falmouth, now Portland, Me., in 1782; was successful at the bar; was 6 years in the house, and 6 years in the senate, of Ms., where he was disting. as a debater; U.S. atty. for Me., 1796–1801; solicitor.-gen. of Ms., 1800–32. He removed to Boston in 1804, and in 1832 to Cambridge. Admiral Charles H. Davis is his son. Author of "Criminal Justice," 8vo, 2d ed. 1828; "Precedents of Indictments," 8vo, 1831. — Willis's Lawyers of Maine.

Davis, David, jurist, b. Cecil Co., Md., Mar. 9, 1815. Ken. Coll. 1832. Studied law in Ms. and N. Haven; in 1835, adm. to the bar, and settled in Bloomington, Ill.; member State legisl. 1844; of the State Const. Conv., 1847; judge of the 8th jud. circuit, 1848–62; app. judge U.S. Supreme Court, Dec. 8, 1862. For many years, the intimate friend of Abraham Lincoln, and delegate to the Chicago convention, which in 1860 nominated him for president.

Davis, Edwin Hamilton, M.D. (Cin. Coll. 1837), physician and archæologist, b. Ross Co., O., Jan. 22, 1811. Ken. Coll. 1833. He explored the mounds of the Scioto Valley, and read a paper on that subject before the Philomathesian Society, subsequently enlarged and delivered at the coll. commencement of 1833. The suggestions of Daniel Webster, then making a tour in the West, stimulated him to continue these researches; and the results of 15 years' diligent study and exploration are embodied in "The Monuments of the Mississippi Valley," vol. i. of the "Smithsonian Contributions to Knowledge." He practised his prof. in Chillicothe until 1850, when, on the establishment of the N.Y. Med. Coll., he was called to the chair of materia medica and therapeutics, which he still holds. He has been a contrib. to scientific and medical journals, besides being for a time one of the conductors of the American Medical Monthly. In the spring of 1854, he delivered a course of lectures on archæology before the Lowell Institute, Boston. Author of "Report on the Statistics of Calculous Diseases in Ohio," 8vo, 1850.

Davis, Emerson, D.D. (H.U. 1847), Cong. clergyman and author, b. Ware, Ms., July 15, 1798; d. Westfield, Ms., June 8, 1866. Wms. Coll. 1821. He was preceptor of the Westfield acad. one year; tutor in the coll. one year; resumed his preceptorship, and June 1, 1836, was settled over the First Church in Westfield. He was active in the cause of education; was vice-pres. of Wms. Coll. 1861–8. In 1852, he pub. "The Half-Century," a work of great research, reprinted in Great Britain; "The Teacher Taught," Bost., 1839; "Hist. Sketch of Westfield," 1826. He also pub.

Digitized by Google

sermons, addresses, and essays. He left 5 MS. vols. of biographies of Trinit. Cong. clergymen, now in the Cong. Library, Boston.

Davis, GARRET, lawyer and senator, b. Mount Stirling, Ky., Sept. 10, 1801. He received a classical education; was employed as a writer in the County and Circuit Courts of his dist.; was adm. to the bar in 1823, and attained distinction and a lucrative practice. Member of the State legisl. in 1833–6; of the State Const. Conv. in 1839; M.C. 1839–47; and a Democ. U.S. senator since 1861. He was an intimate personal and political friend of Henry Clay, was a leader in the Whig party, and was very active in preventing the secession of his State in 1861; d. Paris, Ky., Sep. 22, 1872.

Davis, HENRY, D.D. (Un. Coll. 1810), an eminent Presb. divine, b. East Hampton, N.Y., Sept. 15, 1771; d. Clinton, N.Y., March 8, 1852. Y. C. 1796. His ancestors were from Kidderminster, Eng. He was tutor at Wms. and at Yale Colls. 7 years, studied theology, and soon became known as a preacher of great ability and eloquence. Prof. of Greek at Un. Coll., from 1806 to 1809; pres. of Middl. Coll., Vt., from Dec. 1809 to July, 1817, when he became pres. of Ham. Coll., N.Y., which office he resigned in April, 1833. Dr. Davis was active in establishing the Theol. Sem. at Auburn, N.Y., and in behalf of foreign missions. He pub. an inaugural oration at Middlebury, Feb. 21, 1810, a number of sermons and addresses, and a narrative of the embarrassments and decline of Ham. Coll., April, 1833. — Sprague.

Davis, HENRY WINTER, LL.D., statesman, b. Annapolis, Md., Aug. 16, 1817; d. Baltimore, Dec. 30, 1865. Ken. Coll. 1837. Son of an Episc. clergyman, and prof. in St. John's Coll., Annapolis; studied law; was adm. to the bar at Alexandria, Va., and rapidly rose to distinction. Removing to Baltimore in 1850, he attained celebrity by his defence of Dr. Johns, in the Episc. convention, against the accusation of Bishop Whittingham. M.C. in 1858–61 and 1863–5, serving on the committee of ways and means. In 1859, he voted for Pennington, the Repub. candidate for speaker, drawing down upon himself a storm of abuse. Though representing a border slave-State during the Rebellion, he was conspicuous in Congress for his uncompromising radicalism, his early advocacy of emancipation, and of arming the negroes. He made a great speech in the summer of 1865, at Chicago, in favor of negro suffrage. In the 38th Congress, he served with disting. ability as chairman of the com. of foreign affairs. He pub. in 1852 "The War of Ormuzd and Ahriman in the 19th Century." Feb. 22, 1866, a eulogy was pronounced upon him by Senator Creswell, by order of the house. His speeches were pub. by Creswell, 8vo, 1867.

Davis, JEFFERSON, soldier and statesman, b. Christian Co., Ky., 3 June, 1808. He studied at Transylv. Coll., grad. West Point, 1828; served as a lieut. of inf. in the Black Hawk war, 1831–2; 1st lieut. of dragoons against the Pawnees and other Indian tribes in 1833–5; resigned, and became a cotton-planter in Mpi. A Democ. M. C. in 1845–6, and conspicuous in the discussions on the tariff, Oregon, and the Mexican war; col. of the Mpi Rifles, and prominent at Monterey and Buena Vista, and highly commended by Gen. Taylor in his official despatch; U.S. senator in 1847–51, and in 1857–Jan. 1861; candidate for gov. of Mpi. in 1851, defeated by H. S. Foote, Union candidate; sec. of war in Mr. Pierce's cabinet, 1853–7; prominent in the secession movement of 1860–1; chosen pres. of the provisional govt., formed by the secessionists, 4 Feb. 1861; elec. pres. for 6 years of the Confederate States, in Nov. 1861, and inaug. 22 Feb. 1862; taken prisoner at Irwinville in Southern Ga., 10 May, 1865; confined 2 years in Fortress Monroe, and then released on bail; included in the gen. amnesty of 25 Dec. 1868. He m. a dau. of Pres. Taylor. In the senate, he was a prominent advocate of slavery, of State rights, and of a southern route for the Pacific Railroad, and a conspicuous opponent of the French Spoliation Bill. As sec. of war, he was popular with the army. Among his measures were the revision of the army regulations, the introduction of the light infantry or rifle-system of tactics, the manuf. of rifled arms, the increase of the army, and scientific explorations of the West for determining the best route for the Pacific Railroad. As a speaker, he is fluent, earnest, vigorous, and terse.

Davis, JEFFERSON C. brev. maj.-gen. U. S. A., b. Clarke Co., Ind., March 2, 1828. His ancestors were noted in the Indian wars of Ky.; William his grandfather having been in the battle at River Raisin. Leaving the Clarke Co. Sem. on the breaking-out of the Mexican war, he joined Col. J. H. Lane's regt., participated in the battle of Buena Vista and in the entire Mexican campaign, and, for gallant conduct, was made 2d lieut. 1st U.S. Art., June 17, 1848; became 1st lieut. in 1852; took charge of the first garrison placed in Fort Sumter in Aug. 1858, and was there during the bombardment in April, 1861; capt. May 14, 1861; col. 22d Ind. vols. He was given a brigade by Gen. Fremont, with whom he served in Mo. He also com. a brigade under Gens. Hunter and Pope. For his conduct at Milford, in Central Mo., where he captured a superior force with a large quantity of military supplies, he was made brig.-gen. Dec. 18, 1861, and at the battle of Pea Ridge com. one of the four divisions of Gen. Curtis's army. His division fought, March 7, the battle of Leetown, one of the most sanguinary and decisive of the war. The next day, Col. Davis stormed and carried the heights of Elkhorn, capturing five cannon, and deciding the battle of Pea Ridge against the rebels. He was then transferred to Gen. Halleck's army at Corinth, and after its evacuation was given a division in the army of the Tenn. Sept. 29, meeting Gen. Nelson at a hotel in Louisville, an affray ensued, in which Nelson was killed. After being a short time under arrest, he was restored to duty, and ordered to Covington. He led his old division, 20th army corps, in the thickest of the fight at Stone River, holding the centre of the right wing, and, for good conduct on that occasion, was strongly recommended by Rosecrans to a maj.-genship. He was in the battle of Chick-amauga; in the Atlanta campaign, and com. the 14th corps in Sherman's march through Georgia and in North Carolina. Col. 23d Inf., July 28, 1866; brev. maj.-gen. U. S. A., March 13, 1865.

Digitized by Google

Davis, JOHN, an eminent English mariner, b. Sandridge, Devonshire; d. Dec. 1605. He went to sea when young, and acquired so much reputation in his profession as to be intrusted in 1585 with the com. of an exped. for the discovery of a north-west passage to the East Indies. In this voyage, he discovered the straits in the Arctic Sea leading to Baffin's Bay, which still bear his name. Davis twice more visited the polar regions, and in 1591 went with Cavendish in his second unfortunate expedition to the South Sea. He then made 5 voyages to the E. Indies as a pilot; and during the last of these, while serving under Sir Edmund Michelbourne, he was killed in an engagement with some Japanese off the coast of Malacca. He wrote accounts of some of his voyages, a treatise entitled "The World's Hydrographical Description," and the "Seaman's Secrets," 1595; and he is said to have invented a quadrant for taking the sun's altitude at sea, which preceded the use of Hadley's sextant.

Davis, JOHN, LL.D. (H. U. 1842), jurist, b. Plymouth, Ms., Jan. 25, 1761; d. Boston, Jan. 14, 1847. H. U. 1781. He taught for a time in the family of Gen. Joseph Otis of Barnstable; studied law, and began practice in Plymouth in 1786. He was some years in the Ms. legisl.; was the youngest member and last survivor of the convention to adopt the U.S. Constitution; member of the State senate, 1795; comptroller U.S. treasury, 1795; dist.-atty. for Ms., 1796, and U.S. dist. judge for Ms., from 1801 till his death. Delegate to the State Const. Conv. of 1820. Judge Davis was one of the most profound antiquarians of N.E. His notes to "Morton's Memorial" are a monument to his learning. He was a member of many learned societies, and pres. of the Ms. Hist. Soc. from 1818 to 1843. He pub. an address before the Ms. Charitable Society, 1799; a eulogy on Washington; "The Inscriptions on Dighton Rock;" an address on comets, and another, 22 Dec. 1813, in commem. of the landing of the Pilgrims, before the Ms. Hist. Society.

Davis, JOHN, LL.D. (H. U. 1834), statesman, b. Northborough, Ms., Jan. 13, 1787; d. Worcester, April 19, 1854. Y. Coll. 1812. Adm. to the bar of Worcester Co. in 1815, and settled at Worcester, where he became an eminent lawyer and politician. M. C. from 1825 to 1833, and disting. himself in questions of a financial and commercial character. Gov. of Ms., 1833–5 and 1840–1; U.S. senator from 1835 to 1841 and from 1845 to 1853. In Congress, he was an advocate for protection to American industry; and his speeches in reply to McDuffie, Cambreling, and others, were regarded as the best statements and defences of the protective theories. He was a consistent opponent of Jackson's administration and that of Van Buren, and contributed, in a short speech against the sub-treasury in 1840, the most efficient electioneering pamphlet for the canvass of that year; more than a million copies having been distributed. He opposed in the senate the Mexican war; supported the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo; and, in the great controversy which followed as to the disposition to be made of the U.S. Territories, he was decided and earnest in favor of excluding slavery from them. He supported the Wilmot Proviso, and was one of the most decided opponents of the compromise acts of 1850. No public man ever enjoyed more fully than Mr. Davis the confidence of the people; and he was popularly known as "Honest John Davis." — See Memoir, in Amer. Antiq. Soc., Trans. v. 3.

Davis, JOHN A. G., law prof. at Wm. and Mary Coll. from 1830 to 14 Nov. 1840, when he d. from a pistol-shot fired by a disguised student; b. Middlesex Co., Va., 1801. Wm. and Mary Coll. He practised law in Albemarle Co., and for some years pub. a weekly journal at Charlottesville. Author of a "Manual for Justices of the Peace," 1838; a tract on "Estates Tail," &c., and one on "Protection of Domestic Manufactures."

Davis, JOHN W., politician, b. Cumberland Co., Pa., 1799; d. at Carlisle, Ind., Aug. 22, 1859. After completing his medical studies at Baltimore, he emigrated to Ind. in 1823; served in the legisl.; was speaker of the lower branch; and was a commissioner to treat with the Indians; M. C. in 1835–7, 1839–41, 1843–7, and speaker during his last term. He was in 1848 app. commissioner to China; was gov. of Oregon Terr. in 1853–4, and was pres of the Baltimore convention in 1852.

Davis, MATTHEW L., author, b. 1766; d. Manhattanville, June 21, 1850. A printer by trade. He became an active politician, and a frequent contrib. to the public journals. He early attached himself in politics to the fortunes of Aaron Burr, and advocated his elevation to the presidency. For many years before Burr's death, Mr. Davis was apparently his only attached friend. Sept. 15, 1797, he was associated with Freneau in the publication of the Timepiece and Literary Companion in N. York, discontinued Aug. 30, 1798. He was the Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Courier and Inquirer, under the signature of "The Spy in Washington," and was also a contrib. to the London Times over the nom de plume of the "Genevese Traveller." Author of "Memoirs of Aaron Burr," 2 vols., 8vo, and edited his Diary.

Davis, RICHARD BINGHAM, poet; d. at the residence of his father in New Brunswick, in 1799, a. 28. He edited the Diary in 1796. His poems, with a sketch of his life, by John T. Irving, were pub. 1807.

Davis, SYLVANUS, an early settler and soldier of Maine; d. Boston, 1704. He bought land of the Indians at Damariscotta, June, 1659; resided some time at Sheepscott; was severely wounded while making his escape from Fort Arowsic; captured by Indians in Aug. 1676; accomp. Maj. Waldron's exped. early in 1677; resided in Falmouth, where he owned land, in 1680; com Fort Loyal, Falmouth, and was obliged to surrender it to the French and Indians, May 20, 1690, after 5 days' defence; carried prisoner to Quebec, and exchanged 4 months after, and was a counsellor in 1691–2

Digitized by Google

His account of the conduct of the war is in 3 Ms. Hist. Colls., i., 101.

Dawes, HENRY LAURENS, statesman, b. Cummington, Ms., Oct. 30, 1816. Y.C. 1839. A lawyer by profession. He taught school, and edited the Greenfield Gazette. Adm. to the bar in 1842, and settled at N. Adams, where he edited the Transcript. Member of the Ms. legisl. in 1848–9 and 1852; of the State senate, 1850, and of the State Const. Conv. of 1853; dist.-atty. for the western dist. of Ms., 1853–7; M. C. since 1857, and one of the most useful men in that body. Chairman of the com. of ways and means.

Dawes, RUFUS, poet, b. Boston, Jan. 26, 1803; d. Washington, D.C., Nov. 30, 1859. Son of Judge Thomas Dawes. He entered H. U. in 1820, but did not graduate. Studied law with Wm. Sullivan, and was admitted to the bar, but never practised. A contrib. to the U. S. Lit. Gazette, and conducted, for a time, the Emerald, a journal printed at Baltimore. He pub. in 1830 "The Valley of the Nashaway, and Other Poems;" in 1839, "Geraldine, Athenia of Damascus, and Miscellaneous Poems," and "Nix's Mate," a hist. romance, 1840. He was a Swedenborgian, and frequently officiated in the pulpits of that denomination. He had latterly been employed in one of the depts. at Washington.

Dawes, COL. THOMAS, Revol. patriot and architect, b. Boston, Aug. 5, 1731; d. Jan. 2, 1809. A mechanic. He received only a common-school education, but took a deep interest in the controversy with Great Britain; was col. of the Boston regt. in 1773–8; and was several times a member of the house and senate, and State counsellor. He often presided at town-meetings in Boston, and managed them with great tact. Member of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences.

Dawes, THOMAS, jurist, b. Boston, July 8, 1758; d. July 22, 1825. H. U. 1777. Son of Col. Thomas. He was a zealous Whig, and an eminent counsellor. Member of the State Const. Convs. of 1780 and 1820, and of that which adopted the Federal Constitution in 1789. Judge Supreme Court, 1792–1803, Municipal Court, 1803–23, and judge of Probate until his death. Member of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences. His literary productions were highly popular, and his witticisms were proverbial. He pub. an oration, July 4, 1787; "The Law Given on Mount Sinai," a poem, 1777, and an oration on the Boston Massacre.

Dawson, HENRY BARTON, historian, b. Gosberton, near Boston, Eng., June 8, 1821. He came with his parents to N. Y. in 1834; pursued various avocations until 1845, when he pub. the Crystal Fount, a temperance newspaper, discont. in 1847. He has pub. "The Park and its Vicinity," for the manual of the Common Council of N. Y., 1855; "The Life and Times of Anne Hutchinson," for the Baptist Hist. Soc.; "The Retreats through Westchester Co. in 1776," for the N. Y. Hist. Soc.; "The Battles of the U. S. by Sea and Land," 1858; "The Federalist," with a hist. and bibliog. introduction, 1863; "The Assault of Stony Point by Gen. Anthony Wayne," 1863; "Current Fictions tested by Uncurrent Facts;" "Diary of David How," a soldier of the Revol., 1865; "Dring's Recollections of the Jersey Prison-Ship," 1865. From May 6, 1855, to Mar. 31, 1866, he edited the Gazette, a weekly Democ. newspaper at Yonkers, N.Y. Four vols. of selections from this paper have been pub. He has edited the Historical Magazine since July 1, 1866. His "Battles of the U. S." brought on a controversy upon the merits of Gen. Israel Putnam, between himself and Messrs. Griswold and Deming of Hartford, in the Daily Post of that city.

Dawson, JOHN, statesman, b. Va., 1762; d. Washington, Apr. 1, 1814. H. U. 1782. Member of the convention of 1789, also of the gen. assembly and exec. council of Va.; M. C. from the Fredericksburg dist. from 1797 to 1814; bearer of despatches to France in 1801, and vol. aide to Gen. Jackson in 1813.

Dawson, JOHN L., democ. politician, b. Uniontown, Pa., 7 Feb. 1813; d. there 18 Sept. 1870. Wash. Coll. He practised law; was app. dist.-atty. for Western Pa. in 1845; M.C. in 1851–5 and 1863–7, and was a delegate to the Democ. nat. conventions of 1844, '48, '56, and '60. App. gov of Kansas in 1855, but declined. Author of the Homestead Bill of 1854.

Dawson, J. W., educator, and man of science, b. Pictou, N.S., Oct. 1820. Edinb. U. 1840. Returning to Nova Scotia in 1841, he travelled with Sir Charles Lyell, under whose direction he made explorations in that province, and described its geology in the "Proceedings of the Geological Soc. of London." He lectured on botany and geology in the Acad. of Pictou and in the Dalhousie Coll.; pub. some educational works, and from 1850 to 1853 was supt. of instruction for N. S. In 1855, he was app. principal of McGill Coll. Member of many scientific associations; has pub. numerous papers in their "Transactions;" also a "Handbook of the Geography and Nat. Hist. of Nova Scotia," 1848; "Hints to the Farmers of N. S.," 1853; "Acadian Geology," 1855, and "Archaia," 1859. — Morgan.

Dawson, WILLIAM C., lawyer and senator, b. Greene Co., Ga., Jan. 4, 1798; d. Greensborough, Ga., May 5, 1856. Franklin Coll. 1816. Adm. to the bar, he settled at Greensborough in 1818, where he was eminently successful as a jury lawyer. He was for 12 years clerk of the H. of representatives of Ga., and several times senator and representative in the legisl; M. C. 1837–42; app. in 1845 judge of Ockmulgee Circuit; and from 1849 to 1855 he was a U. S. senator, serving on important committees, and speaking on many questions of national interest, and commanded a wide influence. During the Creek and Seminole war in 1836, he raised a vol. company for special service. In the house, he was chairman of the military com., and also of the com. on claims. He pub. "Laws of Georgia," 4to, 1831. — Lanman.

Day, HENRY NOBLE, prof. of rhetoric, West. Res. Coll., 1840, b. Ct., 1808. Y. C. 1828. Author of "Art of Elocution," "Art of Rhetoric," 12mo, 1850; "Art of Eng. Composition," "Elements of Logic," and "Introd. to Eng. Literature."

Digitized by Google

Day, JEREMIAH, D.D. (Un. Coll. 1818), LL.D. (Wms. and Mid. Colls., 1817), educator, b. New Preston, Ct., Aug. 3, 1773; d. N. Haven, Aug. 22, 1867. Y. C. 1795. Son of Rev. Jeremiah Day. Succeeded Dr. Dwight as teacher of his school in Greenfield; was a tutor in Williams Coll. in 1796–8; tutor at Yale in 1798–1801; prof. of mathematics and nat. philos. at Yale in 1801–17; pres. of that college in 1817–46. While a prof., he pub. some mathematical treatises, which have been extensively used, especially that on algebra. He pub. a treatise on the "Self-determining Power of the Will," 1838; "An Examination of Edwards on the Will," "Course of Mathematics," 8vo, N.Y., 1831; "Navigation and Surveying," 8vo, N. Haven, 1817; occasional sermons, and contrib. papers to the Journal of Science, and the New-Englander. — See Com. Address, by Pres. Woolsey, in New-Englander, Oct. 1867.

Day, JOHN, an eccentric individual, b. Eng.; d. N.Y. in 1820, a. 103. In early life, he served in the British navy, and attained the rank of lieut.; but, having killed in a duel a successful rival, he quitted the navy, and took refuge in Amer. Entering the army when the Revol. war broke out, he served as a private until its close, resuming again the servile and menial pursuits he had occupied himself in before the war. For more than 20 years after his arrival here, he never was known to speak to a female, and had little intercourse with males. His habits were temperate, his appearance slovenly, his beard long, and he never looked clean. His property, amounting to many thousand dollars, he bestowed upon an excellent and reputable lady, who had been benevolent to him during his illness. In the low occupation of carrying the baskets of huckster-women from cellars to stalls, with the pitiful pittance of sixpence for the drudgery, he amassed thousands. — Ann. Obit., 1821.

Day, MAHLON, publisher and philanthropist, b. Morristown, N.J., 27 Aug. 1790; d. 27 Sept. 1854, by the wreck of the steamship "Arctic," together with his wife and dau. Member of the society of Friends. Acquired wealth as a publisher, and, for 15 years before his death, had devoted his life to charitable and educational objects.

Day, MARTHA, b. N. Haven, Feb. 13, 1813; d. there Dec. 2, 1833. Dau. of pres. Day. She attained great proficiency in mathematics and the languages, and wrote poetry of merit. Her "Literary Remains," with memorials of her life and character, was pub., by Prof. Kingsley, N. Haven, in 1834. — Allibone.

Daye, STEPHEN, the first printer in the English-Amer. Colonies, b. Lond., 1611; d. Cambridge, Ms., Dec. 22, 1668. A supposed descendant of John Daye, an eminent printer of Lond. (1560–83), and served his apprenticeship in that city. He came over in 1638, and was employed to superintend the press sent here by the Rev. Mr. Glover. Daye, by the direction of the magistrate and elders, set up a press, and prepared other parts of the apparatus for printing at Cambridge in March, 1639. His first work was "The Freeman's Oath," next an "Almanack," calculated for N. E., by Mr. Pierce, mariner; the third was "The Psalms," in metre, crown 8vo, 308 pages. His extant works do little credit to his skill. The printing-house was taken from him ab. 1648, and put in the hands of Samuel Green, who empl. him as journeyman.

Day, THOMAS, an English author and philanthropist, b. Lond., 22 June, 1748; killed by a kick from a horse, 28 Sept. 1789. Inheriting a fortune, he studied, but never practised, law. In 1777, he m. Miss Milnes. Took an active part in the public meetings of the time, and was an eloquent advocate of Amer. Independence, also expressing his sympathy for the cause, by two poems, "The Devoted Legions," and the "Desolation of Amer.," 1777, and "Reflections upon the Present State of Eng. and the Indep. of Amer." by a pamph. He selected two young girls from a foundling-hospital, with the intention of educating them rationally, on the principles of Rousseau, and making one of them his wife; but the experiment did not succeed. One of his protegées, however, did honor to his efforts, and m. his friend Bicknell. His most popular work is "Sandford and Merton," 1783.

Day, THOMAS, LL.D. (Y.C. 1847), jurist, b. New Preston, Ct., July 6, 1777; d. Hartford, March 1, 1855. Y.C. 1797. Son of Rev. Jeremiah Day, and bro. of Pres. Day. A tutor in Williams Coll. in 1798; studied law, and commenced practice in 1799, in Hartford. In 1809, he was app. assist. sec. of the State of Ct.; in 1810, sec., — an office which he held until May, 1835; in May, 1815, assoc. judge of the County Court of Hartford, and annually thereafter, with the exception of one year, until May, 1825, when he was made chief-judge of that court, and was continued in that office until June, 1833. He was a judge of the City Court of Hartford from 1818 to 1831; was one of the committee to prepare the statutes of 1808 and also of 1821 and 1824. He reported the decisions of the Court of Errors from 1805 till 1853, pub. in 20 vols. He was an original member of the Ct. Hist. Soc., of which he was pres. from 1839 until his death. He was first pres. of the Wadsworth Athenæum, and a liberal contrib. to its funds. He pub. a "Digest of Reports of Sup. Court of Errors, from 1786 to 1829." — Litchfield Biographies.

Dayton, ELIAS, Revol. officer, b. Elizabethtown, N.J., 1737; d. there Oct. 22, 1807. He fought in Edward Hart's "Jersey Blues," under Wolfe, at Quebec; was one of the com. of safety at the opening of the Revol., and in Jan, 1776, com. a party which captured a British transport off Elizabethtown. App. col. 3d N.J. regt.; served in N.Y. and N.J.; was in the battles of Brandywine, Germantown, Monmouth, Springfield, and siege of Yorktown; aided in suppressing the mutiny of the N.J. line in Jan. 1781, and was made brig.-gen. 7 Jan. 1783. After the war, he was maj.-gen. of militia, member Cont. Congress, 1787–8, and often in the State legisl.

Dayton, JONATHAN, LL.D. (N.J Coll. 1798), statesman, son of the preceding, b. Elizabethtown, N.J., Oct. 16, 1760; d. there Oct. 9, 1824. N.J. Coll. 1776. App. paymaster of his father's regt. Aug. 26, 1776; held several commissions at different periods of the war; was in many engagements, and at Yorktown had a com. under Lafayette, and aided in storming one of the British redoubts. He was a member of the N.J. legisl.; member of the convention which framed the Federal Constitution, 1787; speaker of the house in 1790; M.C. 1791–9; speaker in 1795–9, and U.S. senator, 1799–1805. He afterward served several terms in the State senate. He was arrested for alleged complicity in Burr's conspiracy, but was not proceeded against.

Digitized by Google

Dayton, William Lewis, LL.D. (N.J. Coll. 1857), statesman, nephew of Jonathan, b. Baskingridge, N.J., Feb. 17, 1807; d. Paris, Dec. 1, 1864. N.J. Coll. 1825. Adm. to the bar in 1830; member of the State senate, and chairman of the judiciary com. in 1837; judge of the Superior Court from Feb. 28, 1838, to Nov. 1841; U.S. senator, 1842–51; atty.-gen. of N.J., 1857–61; minister to France, 1861–4. In the senate debates on the Oregon question, the tariff, annexation of Texas, and the Mexican war, he took the position of a Freesoil Whig. He maintained to the fullest extent the right of Congress to legislate with respect to slavery in the Territories; opposed the compromises of 1850; advocated the admission of California as a free State, the abolition of the slave-trade in the Dist. of Columbia, and was particularly hostile to the fugitive-slave law. He was the Freesoil candidate for the vice-presidency in 1856, and was a man of high integrity, and an eloquent debater.

Dean, Amos, LL.D., jurist, b. Barnard, Vt., Jan. 16, 1803; d. Albany, Jan. 26, 1868. Un. Coll. 1822. Descended from Walter of Taunton. He studied law, and, on being adm. to the bar, soon attained a high reputation for his profound legal attainments. In 1833, he projected the Young Men's Assoc. of Albany, before which he delivered an interesting course of lectures in 1844. He prepared numerous law treatises, all of which have been recognized as standard works. In 1851, at the organization of the law school, he was app. a prof., and had filled the chair of med. jurisprudence in the Albany Med. School, from its organization in 1839. Author of "Medical Jurisprudence," 1854; "Lectures on Phrenology," 8vo, 1835; "Manual of Law," 8vo, 1838, and "Philosophy of Human Life," 8vo, 1839. His "History of Civilization," 7 vols., 8vo, has been pub. since his death.

Deane, Charles, an historical student, b. at Biddeford, Me., Nov. 10, 1813; son of Dr. Ezra, descendant of Walter, one of the first settlers of Taunton, Ms. Was many years a merchant of Boston, and latterly a resident of Cambridge. Mr. Deane is a member of the principal historical societies of the U.S., of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. In 1856, he received the hon. degree of A.M. from H. U., and in 1871 that of LL.D. from Bowd. Among his publications are "Some Notices of Samuel Gorton," 1850; "First Plymouth Patent," 1854; "Bibliog. of Gov. Hutchinson's Publications," 1857; "Wingfield's Discourse of Virginia," 1860; "Letters of Phillis Wheatley," 1864; Smith's "True Relation," 1866; "Remarks on Sebastian Cabot's Mappe Monde," 1867; "Memoir of George Livermore," 1869; "The Forms in issuing Letters Patent by the Crown of England," 1870. Several of these (and others not here enumerated) originally appeared in the publications of the Ms. Hist. Soc., others in the Archæologia Americana. Mr. Deane edited Gov. Bradford's "History of Plymouth Plantation," 1856, and Bradford's "Dialogue, or Third Conference," between old men and young men, 1870; and several vols. of Colls. and Proceedings of the Ms. Hist. Soc., of which body he is the rec. sec.

Deane, James, missionary to the Indians, b. Groton, Ct., Aug. 20, 1748; d. Westmoreland, N.Y., Sept. 10, 1823. Dartm. Coll. 1773. Descended from James of Stonington. From the age of 12, he was with Rev. E. Mosely, missionary to the Oneidas, and mastered their language. In 1773–4, he was a missionary to the Caghnawaga and the St. Francis tribes; was afterward employed by Congress to conciliate the northern tribes, and, at the beginning of the Revol. war, was made Indian agent and interpreter, with rank of major, at Fort Stanwix, N.Y. Made prisoner by the Indians, who were about to kill him, his life was saved by the interposition of some squaws. Many years a judge of Oneida Co., and twice a member of the N.Y. assembly. He wrote an essay on Indian mythology, supposed to be lost.

Dean, James, LL.D. (U. of Vt. 1847,) educator, b. Windsor, Nov. 26, 1776; d. Burlington, Vt., Jan. 20, 1849. Dartm. Coll. 1800. Descended from James of Stonington. Tutor in the U. of Vt. in 1807–9, and prof. of mathematics and natural philosophy there from 1809 to 1814, and from 1821 to 1824. He pub. a "Gazetteer of Vermont," 1808; "Address" on his induction as prof., Apr. 24, 1810. — Alumni Dartm. Coll.

Deane, James, M.D., physician and naturalist, b. Coleraine, Ms., Feb. 24, 1801; d. Greenfield, Ms., June 8, 1858. Descended from James, an early settler of Stonington. He spent his early life upon his father's farm, studied law in Greenfield, afterwards studied medicine, received the degree of M.D. in 1831, and practised in Greenfield. In 1835, he made public his discovery of the fossil footprints in the red sandstone of the Ct. Valley. At the time of his death, he was about publishing an elegantly illustrated work upon the subject, the result of 24 years' investigation and labor, since issued by the Smithsonian Inst. He was a frequent contrib. to Silliman's Journal, the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, and was the author of a paper on the "Hygienic Condition of the Survivors of Ovariotomy," in which he established the morality of the operation. Member of the Natural History Societies of Montreal and Boston.

Deane, John, d. at Wilford, Nottinghamshire, Eng., Aug. 19, 1761, a. 82. He was shipwrecked in "The Nottingham Galley," of which he was master, Dec. 11, 1710, on Boon Island, N.E., and spent 24 days on that desert island, the crew being obliged to eat one of their comrades who had died. He pub. a narrative of the shipwreck at Boston in 1711, appended to a sermon by Cotton Mather. The same year, a counter-statement was pub. at Lond. by his mate Christopher Langman and two others. The 5th ed. of the narrative was pub. at Boston in 1762. From 1714 to 1720, he com. a ship-of-war in the service of Peter the Great of Russia; but he fell into disgrace, and was exiled to Kasan, where he was favored with the protection of Count Apraxan. He was afterwards for many years, and until 1750, the English consul at Ostend. He is supposed to be the person of his name who was the author of "A Letter from Moscow to the Marquis Caermarthen, relating to the Czar of Muscovy's Forwardness in his Navy since his return Home," pub. at Lond. in 1699.

Digitized by Google

Dean, John Ward, antiquarian, b. Wiscasset, Me., Mar. 13, 1815. Descended from Thomas of Boston, 1692. Previous to 1835, he lived some time in Portland; from 1839 to 1843, in Providence; and since then in and near Boston. He has filled several offices in the N.E. Hist. Geneal. Society, to whose "Register" he has made many valuable contributions, and of which he has been an editor. He is now pres. of the Prince Society, and rec. sec. of the Amer. Statist. Assoc. Having a very retentive memory, great industry, and an ardent thirst for knowledge, he has, while following a laborious calling, acquired an amount of historical information such as few men possess. His accuracy is remarkable; and he is ever ready to communicate to others the information derived from his diligent researches. The honorary degree of A.M. was conferred upon him in 1869 by Dart. Coll. He edited the first and a portion of the second vols. of the first series, and one number of the fourth volume of the second series, of the Historical Magazine. Author of "Memoir of Rev. Nath. Ward," with notices of his family, 8vo, 1868; and "Memoir of Rev. Michael Wigglesworth," 8vo, 1871. He has also pub. a number of hist., biog., and genealogical pamphlets.

Dean, Julia, actress, b. Pleasant Valley, N.Y., July 22, 1830; d. N.Y. City, March 6, 1868. Grand-dau. of Samuel Drake, one of the pioneers of the drama in the West. Her father, Edwin Dean, an actor of repute, was the manager of the Eagle-st. Theatre, Buffalo. Her mother, Julia Drake, was an actress of celebrity. Her first part was Lady Ellen, in "The Lady of the Lake," in her father's theatre. She gained her first success at the opening of the new theatre in Louisville. She appeared at the Bowery Theatre, N.Y., May 18, 1846, as Julia, in "The Hunchback," and achieved popularity in this part, in "Pauline," "Juliet," and "Marianna." Her beauty and talent won for her a wide reputation through the West and South. She also performed on the English stage. She m. Arthur, son of Robert Y. Hayne, Jan. 20, 1855; was divorced in Sept. 1866, and then m. Mr. Cooper of N.Y. After an absence of 12 years, she re-appeared in N.Y. in July, 1867, and took leave of the stage there in Oct.

Dean, Rev. Paul, b. Barnard, Vt.; d. Framingham, Ms., Oct. 1, 1860, a. 71. Descended from Walter of Taunton. Installed over the Hanover-st. Church from 1813 to 1823, and over the Bulfinch-st. Church from May 17, 1823, to May 3, 1840. This society was called "Restorationists," and in 1838 changed the corporate name, and has since been Unitarian. He was afterward settled over a Unit. Church at Easton, Ms. He pub. "Lectures on Final Restoration," 1832, "Election Sermon," 1832, and numerous Masonic and other occasional addresses and sermons.

Deane, Samuel, D.D. (B. U. 1790), poet, and pastor at Falmouth (now Portland), Me., from 17 Oct. 1764 to his d., 12 Nov. 1814; b. Dedham, Ms., 30 July, 1733. H. U. 1760. Librarian at H. U. 1760–2, and tutor in 1763. One of the 6 prizes awarded by H. U. for compositions on the death of George II. and the accession of George III. was awarded to him, he having written the best English ode. These compositions, and others from persons excluded by the terms of the offer from competition for the prizes, were printed in 1761, under the title of Pietas et Gratulatio, &c. Author also of other poems, the longest of which was "Pitchwood Hill,"; Georgical Dictionary, or N. E. Farmer, 1790; oration, July 4, 1793; election sermon 1794, discourses, &c. — See Geneal. Reg. iii. 385.

Deane, Rev. Samuel, historian and poet, b. Mansfield, Ms., March 30, 1784; d. Aug. 9, 1834. Descended from John, one of the first settlers of Taunton. B. U. 1805. He was settled in 1810 over the second church at Scituate, Ms., of which he was pastor 24 years. His "History of Scituate," pub. in 1831, shows evidence of much research and ability, and was one of the earliest to give a conspicuous place to genealogy. Mr. Deane was well versed in the colonial history of Plymouth and Ms. His "Populous Village," a poem, was printed in 1826. He pub. a number of sermons, and wrote many short poems; but no collection of his works has appeared.

Deane, Silas, diplomatist, b. Groton, Ct., Dec. 24, 1737; d. Deal, Eng., Aug. 23, 1789. Y.C. 1758. He settled as a merchant in Wethersfield, Ct., and was a delegate to the first Congress in 1774. In 1775, he was employed by the Marine committee to procure and to equip and fit out a large naval force. In June, 1776, he arrived in France with a commission from the committee of secret corresp., as political and commercial agent, authorizing him not only to operate in France, but in Holland and Great Britain, and to procure clothing, arms, military accoutrements, and munitions of war, sufficient for 25,000 men, and 100 field-pieces. Sept. 26, 1776, he was chosen by Congress, in conjunction with Franklin and Jefferson, ambassador to France. Franklin, Deane, and Arthur Lee (app. in place of Jefferson, who declined) succeeded in negotiating treaties with France, which were signed at Paris, Feb. 6, 1778. To Deane is undoubtedly due a full share of the credit of this important transaction; and it was through him that the services of Lafayette were secured to our country. Congress, having been much embarrassed by his engagements with foreign officers, which it found itself unable to meet, and which caused great dissatisfaction in the army, Nov. 21, 1777, passed an order for his recall, which was supplemented by a preamble and resolution (Dec. 8), calling for information of the state of affairs in Europe, and directing him to embrace the first opportunity to return, and to repair with all possible despatch to Congress. This preamble and order, accomp. by a very complimentary letter, reached him in Paris on the 4th of March, 1778. He arrived July 10, 1778; on the 13th, he reported himself to Congress. He soon perceived that he was not regarded with favor by that body. Some 6 weeks passed before any notice was taken of his attendance. He was finally required to furnish such an account of his financial transactions as it was impossible to give without returning to France. Exasperated with this treatment, he became engaged in a controversy with influential members. On the 6th of Aug. 1779, he was discharged from further attendance upon Congress, and a person was app. to audit his accounts. Deane arrived in France in 1780, but was still subjected to delays on account of an alleged want of authority on the part of the person appointed to settle his accounts. Owing to the publication of some of his letters charging the French cabinet with intrigue and duplicity, he became obnoxious to the authorities there; and he retired to the Netherlands, impoverished almost to penury. He considered himself as a man not only abused, and ill-requited for important services rendered, but denied those pecuniary rights which common honesty would say were his due. Imbittered and exasperated, he became estranged from his country, and went to Eng., where he d. in obscurity and poverty. Dr. Franklin testified explicitly to Deane's probity and honesty in all his transactions for Congress; but the enmity and misrepresentations of Arthur Lee prevailed in that body, and were the cause of his final ruin. A perusal of Deane's Letters in the first vol. of Sparks's "Diplomatic Correspondence," of "Deane's Narrative," pub. in 1855, by the Seventy-six Society, and the "Memorial of the Heirs of Silas Deane," presented to Congress in 1835, cannot fail, it is believed, to satisfy the reader of to-day, that Silas Deane was a man of eminent ability, of thorough honesty, and the victim of malice and misrepresentation. In 1842, his long-disputed claims were adjusted by Congress; and a large sum was found to be due his heirs, and paid over to them. Deane pub. "An Address to the Free and Independent Citizens of the U. S. of N. America," pp. 30, Hartford, 1784; an ed. London, 1784, pp. 95. Each edition contains matter not embraced in the other. A vol. entitled "Paris Papers, or Mr. Silas Deane's late Intercepted Letters to his Bro., and other Friends," &c., was pub. by Rivington, N.Y., 1781.

Digitized by Google

Dean, William, D.D., missionary, b. at Morrisville, N.Y., June 21, 1807; was descended from John Dean, who settled in Dedham, Ms., in the latter half of the 17th century. He went to China in 1834 as a missionary of the Bapt. Miss. Union. He has translated portions of the Bible and other works into Chinese, which have been printed for the use of his mission. A Memoir of his second wife, Mrs. Theodosia A. B. Dean, who died in 1843, was printed at Boston soon after her death.

Deane, William Reed, antiquary, b. Mansfield, Ms., Aug. 21, 1809; d. there, June 16, 1871, a. 61. Was a nephew of Rev. Samuel of Scituate. He was for many years a merchant in Boston; was a fine belles-lettres scholar and a genuine antiquary, and familiar with the customs and usages of the early settlers of N. E. He contrib. many valuable articles to the N.E. Hist. and Genealogical Register and the Historical Magazine. He was also a contrib. to the Unitarian and secular press. He made collections for extensive genealogies of the Deane and Pool families, and also for thoroughly editing "Madam Knight's Journal," an annotated reprint of which he pub. in Littell's Living Age, June 26, 1858. Author of genealogies of the Deane Family, 1849; the Leonard Family, 1851; and the Watson Family, 1864.

Dearborn, Benjamin, inventor of the patent balance, b. Portsmouth, N.H., 1755; d. Boston, Feb. 22, 1838. Son of Dr. Benj. Served his time with Daniel Fowle, printer; taught an acad. for girls, and, removing to Boston ab. 1790, pursued the same vocation. He was well versed in science. In 1784, under the signature of "A Friend of Industry," he pub. in the N. H. Gazette an able article suggesting the employment of convicts in prisons, — a plan soon afterward generally adopted.

Dearborn, Henry, maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. North Hampton, N.H., Feb. 23, 1751; d. Roxbury, Ms., June 6, 1829. His ancestor Godfrey came from Exeter, Eng., settled at Exeter, N.H., in 1639, and afterward removed to Hampton. Henry, having studied medicine with Dr. Hall Jackson of Portsmouth, settled in practice at Nottingham Square in 1772, employing his leisure in military studies. The day after the battle of Lexington, he marched at the head of 60 vols., reaching Cambridge, a distance of 65 miles, early next day. Returning, he was app. first capt. in Stark's regt.; was again at Cambridge, May 15; and June 17, participated in the battle of Bunker's Hill, taking post behind the rail-fence, and holding it until the main body of the retreating Americans were saved from being cut off. In Sept. he accomp. Arnold's exped. through the wilderness to Canada, and, being taken with a fever, was left in a cottage on the banks of the Chaudière, without a physician. His life was despaired of; but he recovered, joined his company early in Dec., and in the attack on Quebec, Dec. 31, was made prisoner, and closely confined. He was, in May, 1776, permitted to return on parole; was exchanged early in March, 1777, and was made major of Scammell's (3d N.H.) regt., with which he went in May to Ticonderoga. At the battle of Stillwater, he com. a light inf. corps of 5 companies, and, with the rank of lieut.-col., led the same com. in the decisive battle of Saratoga, Oct. 7, sharing in the honor of carrying the German fortified camp. Disting. at the battle of Monmouth, June 28, 1778. In Aug. 1779, he took part in Sullivan's exped. against the Indians in the interior of N.Y., and was in the battle of Newtown, Aug. 29; in 1781, he was attached to Washington's staff as dep. quarter-master-gen., rank of col., in which capacity he served during the siege of Yorktown, and, from that period till the end of the war, was col. of the 1st N.H. regt. In June, 1784, he, with his bros., removed to Monmouth, Me.; was chosen brig.-gen. of militia in 1787; maj.-gen. 1795; was app. by Washington marshal of Me. in 1789; was M.C. from 1793 to 1797; sec. of war under Jefferson from Mar. 1801 to Mar. 1809; collector of the port of Boston from 1809 until his app. by Pres. Madison, Jan. 27, 1812, as senior maj.-gen. in the U.S. army, and com.-in-chief of the northern department. War was declared, June 18, 1812. April 27, 1813, he captured York, now Toronto, C. W., and May 27, Fort George at the mouth of the Niagara. July 6, 1813, he was superseded ostensibly on the ground of ill health, but really, in consequence of political intrigue. He solicited a court of inquiry, but in vain. He was afterward in com. of the military dist. of N.Y. City. Minister to Portugal from May 7, 1822, to 1824, when he resigned, returned home, and retired to his estate at Roxbury, Ms. His last wife Sarah, widow of Gov. Bowdoin, d. May 24, 1826. Gen. D. was large and commanding in person, frank in manner, and of unimpeached integrity. He pub. an account of Bunker's Hill battle, and was the author of a MS. journal of his exped. to Canada, imprisonment in Quebec, exped. to Wyoming, and other adventures during the war, printed in his Life, by his son.

Digitized by Google

Dearborn, Gen. Henry Alexander Scammell, son of the preceding, b. Exeter, N.H., 3 Mar. 1783; d. Portland, Me., 29 July, 1851. Wm. and Mary Coll. 1803. He studied law with Judge Story in Salem, where he practised; afterward superintended the forts in Portland harbor; was brig.-gen. of militia, comg. the troops in Boston harbor in 1812; coll. of Boston, 1812–29; member Ms. Const. Conv. 1820, and of the exec. council; M.C. 1831–3; adj.-gen. of Ms., 1834–43, removed for loaning the State arms to the State of R.I. to suppress the Dorr rebellion; and mayor of Roxbury, 1847–51. Author of Lives of the Apostle Eliot, of Com. Bainbridge, and of his father; "Commerce of the Black Sea," 3 vols., 1819; "Letters on the Int. Improvements and Com. of the West," 1839, and an "Oration," 4 July, 1811. He left in MS. a diary in 45 vols.; a "History of B. Hill Battle," &c. Member Amer. Acad. and other scientific bodies.

Dearborn, Nathaniel, engraver, son of Benj.; d. S. Reading, Ms., Nov. 7, 1852, a. 66. He was one of the first wood-engravers in Boston. He pub. "Text-Book of Letters," "Boston Notions and Guide," and "Guide through Mount Auburn."

Dearing, James, brig.-gen. C.S.A.; killed near Petersburg, Va., April 6, 1865.

Deas, Charles, artist, b. Phila., 1818; d. insane. His maternal grandfather was Ralph Izard. Educated by John Sanderson, he early devoted himself to his art; studied under the auspices of the National Acad.; afterward travelled extensively among the Indians of the North-west, and practised his art successfully many years in St. Louis. Among his pictures are "The Turkey Shoot," "Walking the Chalk," "Long Jake," "The Wounded Pawnee," "Indian Guide," "A Group of Sioux," "Hunters on the Prairie," and "The Last Shot." The most important of his works is "Council of the Shawnees at North Bend," an incident in the life of Gen. Geo. Rogers Clarke. — Tuckerman.

De Bow, James Dunwoody Brownson, journalist and statistician, b. Charleston, S.C., July 10, 1820; d. Elizabeth, N. J., Feb. 27, 1867. Charles. Coll. 1843. His father was a merchant. He was for 7 years employed in a mercantile house, but, after graduating, studied law, and was adm. to the Charleston bar in 1844, but became editor of the Southern Quarterly Review of Charleston. An article by him upon "Oregon and the Oregon Question" attracted much attention here and in Europe, occasioning a debate in the French chamber of deputies. In the latter part of 1845, he removed to N. Orleans, and established De Bow's Commercial Review. After a short term as prof. of political economy and commercial statistics in the U. of La., in 1848, he was for 3 years the head of the census bureau of La. He collected and pub. valuable statistics of the population, commerce, and products of that State. App. in March, 1853, supt. of the U. S. census, he collected and prepared for the press a large part of the material for the quarto edition of the census of 1850. He was active in the enterprises for the advancement of the material and intellectual interests of the South; was a member of nearly every Southern commercial convention since 1845, and presided over that at Knoxville, Tenn., in 1857. He contrib. many articles upon American topics to the new edition of the "Encyclopædia Britannica;" delivered various addresses before literary, agricultural, and other associations; and was one of the founders of the La. Hist. Society, since merged in the Acad. of Science. For some years before the Rebellion, he was very bitter in his denunciation of the Northern States and their institutions; and during the war, though his Review was necessarily discontinued, his voice and pen were actively employed in the service of the Confederacy. After its overthrow, he admitted the superiority of the free to the slave labor system, and urged the Southern States to encourage immigration. He resumed his Review, first at New York, and subsequently at Nashville. Also author of "Encyclopædia of the Trade and Commerce of the U.S.," 2 vols., 8vo, 1853; "The Southern States, their Agriculture, Commerce," &c., 8vo, 1856; and "Industrial Resources of the South-west," 3 vols., 1853, compiled from his Review; "Compendium of the Seventh U.S. Census." — Appleton.

De Camp, John R., Adm. U.S.N., b. N.J. Midshipman, Oct. 1, 1827; lieut. Feb. 28, 1838; commander, Sept. 14, 1855; capt. July 16, 1862; commodore, retired list, Sept. 28, 1866; com. steam-sloop "Iroquois," 1861–2; in the attack upon Forts Jackson and St. Philip, and capture of N. Orleans, and in the various battles on the Mpi., including Vicksburg; com. frigate "Wabash," S. A. squad., 1863-4; com. receiving-ship "Potomac," Phila., 1868–9; d. Burlington, N. J., June 25, 1875, a. 60.

Digitized by Google

Decatur, STEPHEN, a gallant naval officer, son of Capt. Stephen, b. Sinnepuxent, Md., 5 Jan. 1779; d. Washington, D. C., 22 Mar. 1820. (Stephen, his father, capt. U.S.N., 1798–1801, b. Newport, 1751, d. Frankford, near Phila., Nov. 14, 1808.) Midshipman, 30 Apr. 1798; lieut. 21 May, 1799; capt. 26 Feb. 1804. His first exploit was the destruction of the frigate "Philadelphia," in the harbor of Tripoli on the night of 15 Feb. 1804, for which he received from Congress a sword, a vote of thanks, and immediate promotion. In the attack on Tripoli, Aug. 3, he com. a division of gunboats, and had a desperate personal conflict with the captain of a Turkish gunboat, whom he slew. App. to com. the frigate "United States," in which, Oct. 25, 1812, in lat 29° N., long. 29° 30′ W. he fell in with the British frigate "Macedonian," capturing her after an action of an hour and a half. For this capture, Congress awarded him a gold medal. He was afterward blockaded in N. London by a British squadron. In Jan. 1815, he attempted, in "The President," to elude the blockade; but she was injured in passing the bar, and was captured by the British squadron, after having kept up a running fight of two hours and a half with "The Endymion," which was dismasted and silenced. A few months later, he was despatched with a squadron to Algiers, captured, June 17, off Cape de Gatt, an Algerine frigate, killing the noted Admiral Rais Hammida, and, arriving at Algiers June 28, terrified the regency into a relinquishment of the claim for tribute, the surrender of all captives, and compensation for all Amer. property seized. He also obtained indemnity from Tunis and Tripoli, and procured the release of many captives. Nov. 12, he was app. a navy commissioner, and took up his residence at Kalorama, Washington, D.C., the former estate of Joel Barlow. A corresp. with Com. Barron, relative to "The Chesapeake" affair, resulted in a duel at Bladensburg, in which Decatur was mortally, and Barron severely, wounded. Courage, sagacity, energy, self-possession, and a high sense of honor, were the characteristic traits of Decatur.—See Life, by A. S. Mackenzie, 1846.

DeCharms, RICHARD, clergyman and author, b. Phila., Oct. 17, 1796; d. Phila., March 20, 1864. Y.C. 1826. Descended from Huguenots, who took refuge in Eng. in 1685. His father, a physician, came to Phila. in 1793. At 14, he supported his mother by working in a printing-office. After graduating, he studied Swedenborg's theology in Boston, printed the first 3 numbers of the New Jerusalem Magazine with his own hands, and preached one year in Bedford, Pa. At the suggestion of a female friend, to whom he was indebted for his education, he continued the study of theology in London, to fit himself for the ministry of the church of the New Jerusalem; supporting himself during his 2 years' stay there by working as a journeyman printer. His first sermon, on the "Paramount Importance of Spiritual Things," was pub. in 1828, and reprinted in London. He settled at Cincinnati (1832–9), Phila. (1839–45), Baltimore (1845–50), and New York, and pub. sermons and lectures on the fundamental doctrines of Swedenborg. He edited the Precursor and New Churchman. His chief works are the "New Churchman Extra," 8vo; "Freedom and Slavery in the Light of the New Jerusalem;" "Sermons illustrating the Doctrine of the Lord," 1840; "Series of Lectures delivered at Charleston, S.C.," 1841.

Deems, CHARLES F., D.D., b. Baltimore, 1820. Dick. Coll. 1839. Prof. in the U. of N.C., 1842; prof. of chemistry, Randolph M. Coll., 1848; pres. of Greensboro' Coll., 1850, of Centenary Coll., 1854. Author of "Triumph of Peace and other Poems," "Devotional Melodies," "Twelve College Sermons," "Life of Rev. Dr. Clarke," "Home Altar," "What Now?" "Family Worship," 12mo, 1852. Edited 5 vols. South. Meth. Pulpit. Contrib. to South. Meth. Quarterly, and other journals. — Allibone.

Deering, NATHANIEL, dramatist and miscellaneous writer, b. Portland, Me., June 25, 1791. H.U. 1810. Educated at Exeter and Cambridge. He studied law in the office of Chief-Justice Whitman at Portland, and pursued the profession in the northern counties of Me. He is now a resident of Portland. He has produced two tragedies, "Carabasset; or, The last of the Norridgewocks," produced at the Portland Theatre in 1831, and "Bozzaris." His other writings, including numerous humorous tales of "Down-East" life, have appeared from time to time in the journals of the day. — Duyckinck.

DeHaas, JOHN PHILIP, brig.-gen. Revol. army, b. Holland, ab. 1735; d. Phila. June 3, 1786. Descended from an ancient family of Northern France, and in 1750 accomp. his father to Amer., settling in Lancaster Co., Pa. An ensign in the old French war, and in Aug. 1763, participated in the bloody conflict with the Indians at Bushy Run, near Pittsburg. App. coll. first Pa. regt., Jan. 22, 1776; served in Canada and at Ticonderoga; took part in the battle of Long Island, and was promoted, Feb. 21, 1777, to brig.-gen., and served in various capacities with credit until the close of the war. The latter years of his life were passed in Phila. A son served as ensign in his own regt.

DeHaas (deh-häs), MAURICE F. H., marine painter, b. Rotterdam, ab. 1830. He studied at the Acad. of Fine Arts, and at the Antique and Life School, made sketching-excursions to the British Channel and along the picturesque coast of France, and received 2 years' instruction from the eminent Louis Meyer of the Hague. In 1856, the Queen of the Netherlands sent him a flattering letter, and a handsome present in recognition of his talent. In 1857, he was com. artist to the Dutch navy; since 1859, he has held, in New York, the first rank in his prof. Among his best works are "Storm off the Isle of Jersey," "After the Wreck," "Seashore near Hastings," "Calm off Newport," "Wreck off St. Hilliers," "Yacht Henrietta," "Clearing Up," "British Channel," "The Old Wreck," "The Rescue," "Moonrise at Sunset," and "Farragut passing the Forts below N. O."

DeHart, COL. WILLIAM, lawyer and Revol. soldier, b. Elizabethtown, N.J., Dec. 7,

Digitized by Google

1744; d. Morristown, June 16, 1801. Son of Dr. Matthias DeHart. Practised law before the Revol.; was app. maj. 1st N.J. batt., Nov. 7, 1775; was lieut.-col in 1776; resigned his commission before the close of the war, and resumed the profession of the law at Morristown, N.J. He had 2 bros. in the service, one of whom was aide to Gen. Wayne, and fell at Fort Lee in 1780. Col. DeHart was eminent in his profession, and was noted for wit and humor. In 1789, he was pres. of the St. Tammany Society. — Ord. Book N.A.

DeHart, WILLIAM C., capt. U.S.A., b. N.Y., 1800; d. Elizabethtown, N.J., Apr. 21, 1848. West Point, 1820. Aide-de-camp to Gen. Scott, Jan. 31, 1838; capt. 3 Apr. 1838; at siege of Vera Cruz, and battle of Cerro Gordo; lieut.-gov. of Puebla during its siege, Sept. and Oct. 1847. Author of a treatise on "Martial Law and Courts-Martial, N.Y.," 8vo, 1846. — Cullum.

DeHaven, EDWIN J., arctic explorer, b. Phila., 1819; d. there May 9, 1865. Midshipm. Oct. 2, 1829; lieut. Sept. 8, 1841; resigned, 1857. He served in Wilkes's exploring exped. 1839–42, and com. the first exped. fitted out at the expense of Henry Grinnell of N.Y. to search for Sir John Franklin. This exped. left N.Y., May 24, 1850, and was absent over 16 months, wintering within the arctic circle. It consisted of 2 small tugs, "The Advance" of 140, and "The Rescue" of 90 tons. Dr. Kane has given a full account of this exped. On his return, he was employed in the coast-survey.

Dehon, THEODORE, D.D., Pr.-Ep. bishop of S.C., b. Boston, Ms., Dec. 8, 1776; d. Charleston, S.C., Aug. 6, 1817. H.U. 1795. He became rector of Trinity Church, Newport, R.I., in 1798, and of St. Michael's Church, Charleston, in 1809. Oct. 15, 1812, he was consec. bishop of S.C. Besides occasional sermons, pub. during his lifetime, 2 vols. of his "Discourses" were issued in 1821. — See Life, by C. E. Gadsden, 8vo, 1833.

DeKay, GEORGE C., commodore, b. New York; d. Jan. 31, 1849, a. 47. When quite young, he entered the navy of Buenos Ayres, then contending against the Brazilian Empire, disting. himself by a series of brilliant actions under Admiral Brown, and on separate commands, and, in less than two years, reached the grade of lieut.-col., equivalent to the English rank of commodore. In July, 1847, he com. the frigate "Macedonian" on her philanthropic mission to starving Ireland. His wife was the dau. of the poet J. Rodman Drake, and grand-daughter of Henry Eckford.

DeKay, JAMES E., M.D., naturalist, bro. of Com. Geo. C.; d. Oyster Bay, Nov. 21, 1851, a. 59. Author of "Sketches of Turkey," in 1831–2, and of "Zoölogy in the Survey of N. Y.," 15 vols., 4to, with an Introd. by Wm. H. Seward; "Anniv. Address before the N.Y. Lyceum on the Prog. of the Nat. Sciences in the U.S.," Feb. 1826.

Delafield, JOHN, agriculturist, b. N.Y. City, 1786; d. 1853. Col. Coll. 1802. After losing a fortune acquired as a banker in Lond., in 1839 he withdrew to a farm known as Oaklands, at Rose Hill, Seneca Co., N.Y. Here his efforts for rural improvement added much to the agricultural wealth of the county. In 1851, he became pres. of the N.Y. State Agric. Society, and at the time of his death was pres. of the State Agric. Coll. Author of "An Inquiry into the Origin of the Antiquities of America," Cincin., 1839.

Delafield, RICHARD, brev. maj.-gen. and chief of engineers U.S.A., b. N.Y. West Point, 1818. Capt. 24 May, 1828; maj. July 7, 1838; sup. Milit. Acad., Sept. 1838 to Aug. 1845, and from Sept. 8, 1856, to 1 Mar. 1861; lieut.-col. engs. Aug. 6, 1861; col. June 1, 1863; brig.-gen. and chief-engr. Apr. 22, 1864; retired Aug. 8, 1866. Ordered to Europe by the govt. to observe the Crimean war; and his report was pub. as a senate document in 4to, 1860. Superint. engr. of the defences of N.Y. harbor, 1861–4; d. Wash'n, D.C., Nov. 4, 1873.

Delamater, JOHN, D.D., LL.D., a disting. physician and scholar of the West, b. 18 Apr. 1787; d. Cleveland, O., 28 Mar. 1867.

DeLancey, JAMES, jurist, b. N.Y., 1703; d. there Aug. 2, 1760. U. of Camb., Eng., 1729. Son of a Huguenot emigrant, from Caen, Normandy; was sent to Eng. for education, and, soon after his return in 1729, was made a justice of the Supreme Court, and chief-justice in 1733. On the death of Gov. Osborn, he, as lieut.-gov., was at the head of affairs in the province from 1753 to 1755, and also as successor to Hardy from 1757 to 1760. He was a profound lawyer, and during the administration of Gov. Clinton, 1743–53, exerted a powerful influence on the legisl. in opposition to him. He was at the head of the association which founded Kings Coll. The author of "The Review of Military operations from 1753 to 1756" represents him as a man of learning and talent, yet as an unprincipled demagogue, and finished intriguer, whose plausible arts, together with his influence as chief-justice, and a vast personal estate at use, all conspired to secure his popular triumph.

De Lancey, COL. JAMES, loyalist, b. N.Y.; d. Annapolis, N.S., 1800. Son of Peter De L. and Elizabeth Colden. Elected to the N. Y. assembly in 1769, and some time sheriff of W. Chester. He com. a batt. in the brigade of his uncle, Gen. Oliver De Lancey, and, being taken in 1777, was confined in Hartford jail. His corps were called "Cow Boys," from "their knowledge of beef." An attempt to capture or destroy this odious corps in July, 1781, was a failure. His estates were confiscated; and he went to Nova Scotia, where, in 1794, he was a member of the council.

De Lancey, GEN. OLIVER, loyalist, b. N. Y. City, 1717; d. Beverly, Eng., Oct. 27, 1785. Bro. of James, lieut.-gov. of N. Y., and many years a member of the assembly and council. As col. of a N. Y. regt., under Abercrombie, his gallantry won for him the thanks of the legisl. At the commencement of the Revol., he organized and equipped, chiefly at his own expense, a corps of 3 battalions, bearing his name. App. in 1776 a brig.-gen. in the royal service, he was the senior loyalist officer in America during the Revol. contest. On the evacuation of N. Y. in 1783, he went to Europe. His dau. Susannah m. Sir Wm. Draper

Digitized by Google

De Lancey, Oliver, gen. in the British army, b. New York; d. Edinburgh, Sept. 1822. Son of the preceding. Educated in Europe; entered the service in 1766; lieut. Dec. 1770; capt. 17th Drags, May, 1773; maj. July, 1778; lieut.-col. Oct. 1781; col. Nov. 1790; barrack-master-gen. 1792–1804; maj.-gen, 1794; lieut.-gen. 1801; gen. 1812. He was in Boston during the siege; accomp. the army to Nova Scotia, and in June, 1776, to Staten Island. He com. the cavalry during the landing on L. I., and was constantly employed on outpost service until the battle of Aug. 28, when he formed the advance of the right column. His treatment of Gen. Woodhull, who surrendered to him, on this occasion, was inhuman. He promised to protect him; but his men murdered him. He was at White Plains, Fort Washington, in the Jerseys, in the attack on Red Bank, at White Marsh, and at Monmouth. Dep. q.m.-gen. during the siege of Charleston, and in several expeds. under Cornwallis, to whom, on the return of the army to N. York, he became a.-d.-c. In 1781, he succeeded André as adj.-gen. On his return to Eng., he undertook the arrangement of loyalist claims, and was placed at the head of a commission for settling all army accounts during the Amer. war. He was removed from the office of barrack-master on the discovery of a great defalcation in his accounts. M. P. for Maidstone, 1796. Author of a pamphlet entitled "Considerations on the Propriety of Imposing Taxes on the British Colonies." London, 1766.

De Lancey, Stephen, loyalist, b. N. Y.; d. Portsmouth, N.H., Dec. 3, 1798. Son of Peter. Clerk of the city and county of Albany in 1765. Member of the council in 1776, and was lieut.-col. 1st batt. N. J. vols. in 1782. He was afterward chief-justice of the Bahamas, and gov. of Tobago. He m. a dau. of Rev. H. Barclay of Trinity Church, N.Y. A son, Sir Wm. H. De L., was aide to Wellington, and was killed at Waterloo.

De Lancey, William Heathcote, D.D., D.C.L., Pr.-Ep. bishop of Western N. Y., b. Mamaroneck, N.Y., Oct. 8, 1797; d. Geneva, N.Y., Apr. 5, 1865. Y. C. 1817. He studied theology under Bishop Hobart; ord. deacon in 1819, and priest in 1822; soon after became assist. of Bishop White of Phila., in the 3 churches of which he was rector, and in 1823 became one of the regular assistant ministers of those churches. He was annually chosen sec. of the diocesan convention of Pa. from 1825 to 1830, and was sec. of the house of bishops from 1823 to 1829. He was provost of the U. of Pa. from 1828 to 1833; travelled in Europe in 1835, and on his return, after the death of Bishop White, succeeded to the rectorship of St. Peter's. In 1838, Dr. De Lancey was chosen first bishop of the new diocese of Western N.Y., and was consec. May 9, 1839. The Hobart free college at Geneva was chiefly indebted to his efficient efforts for its support. In 1852, he was a delegate to Eng. from the Episcopal bishops of the U. S. He was one of the leaders of the High-Church party. D.C.L. of the U. of Oxford, 1852; D.D. of Y. C., 1828; and LL.D. of Un. Coll., 1847.

Delano, Capt. Amasa, traveller, b. Duxbury, Ms., 1763; d. Boston, Apr. 21, 1823. — See a Narrative of Voyages and Travels round the World, Boston, 1817 (by Rev. Horace Holley).

Delano, Columbus, lawyer and politician, b. Shoreham, Vt., 1809. Removed to Mt. Vernon, Ohio, in 1817; was adm. to the bar in 1831, and became eminent as an advocate and criminal lawyer; M. C. 1845–7 and 1865–9; commis.-gen. of Ohio, 1861; member Ohio legisl. 1864; engaged extensively in agriculture and in banking; commissioner of U. S. inter. rev., Mar. 1869–Oct. 1870; and succeeded J. D. Cox as secretary of the interior in Oct. 1870.

Delaplaine, Joseph, author of "De laplaine's Repository of the Lives and Portraits of Disting. Americans," 2 vols., 4to; d. Phila., May 31, 1824.

Delaware, Thomas West, Lord, gov. of Va.; d. June 7, 1618, on his second voyage thither, "in or near the mouth of the bay which bears his name." He succeeded to his father's title Mar. 24, 1602. He landed at Jamestown, May 23, 1610, and succeeded Sir Thos. Gates, under the charter of May 23, 1609. In March, 1611, after having built 3 forts, and regulated the affairs of the Colony, he returned to Eng. He continued to take a deep interest in the concerns of the Colony, which he was at great expense to establish. The "Relation" of the planting of his colony, London, 1611, was reprinted in 1858.

Deliniers (deb-le'-neair') Jacques Antoine Marie, viceroy of Buenos Ayres, b. Niort, France, Feb. 6, 1756; shot at Buenos Ayres, Aug. 10, 1810. A capt. in the Spanish navy, he was sent on a mission to S. Amer. at a time when Spain and Eng. were at war, and an English armament had (July 2, 1806) captured Buenos Ayres. Deliniers, who was at Montevideo, assembled the militia of the country, attacked the place, and, after an obstinate resistance, forced it to capitulate (Aug. 12, 1807). He was at once made viceroy, and, in the following year, sustained a fierce attack from the English, under Whitelocke and Auchmuty, whom he defeated, and compelled to evacuate the country. This victory crowned the reputation of Deliniers, who received from the king of Spain the grade of brigadier des armées. The Spanish junta in 1810 sent a new viceroy, Cisneros, and conferred on Deliniers the title of "Count de Buenos Ayres." The revolutionists having speedily set aside the new viceroy, Deliniers, desirous of re-establishing the royal authority, assembled a force of 2,000 men, with which he blockaded Buenos Ayres; but his feeble force was dispersed by the revolutionists, and he himself, with other royalist chiefs, was taken and shot. — Nouv. Biog. Gen.

Demers, Rev. M., 50 years a teacher in the Sem. of Quebec, b. St. Nicholas, Co. of Levis, 1774; d. May 17, 1853. He did much to promote the study of natural philosophy, and taste for the fine arts, and, in 1835, pub., at Quebec, "Institutiones Philosophicæ."

Denio, Hiram, judge, b. Rome, N.Y., 1799. Judge of the N.Y. Court of Appeals; resides at Utica. Has pub. "Reports of the Sup. Court of N.Y. 1845–8," 5 vols.; "Revised Statutes of N.Y.," 4th ed., 2 vols., 1852, by Denio and Wm. Tracey. — Allibone.

Digitized by Google

Denis, NICOLAS, a native of Tours, was gov.-lieut.-gen. for the king of France, and proprietor of a part of Acadia and Canada. Having obtained a grant of the country extending from Cape Canceaux to Gaspé, he came to Amer. in 1632, but was obliged, after making important establishments, to sustain a continued and vexatious warfare of territorial rights with his countrymen; and a conflagration completed his ruin. Denis, on returning to France, after a sojourn of 40 years in America, during which he had visited most of the French possessions, pub. the result of his observations under the title, "Description Géographique et Historique des Côtés de l'Amérique Septentrionale avec l'Histoire Naturelle de ce Pays," Paris, 1672, 2 vols. — Biog. Universelle.

Denison, CHARLES WHEELER, b. Ct. 1809. Author of "American Village and other Poems." Contrib. to the Knickerbocker and other mags. and journals. — Allibone.

Denison, DANIEL, maj.-gen., b. Eng., 1613; d. Ipswich, Ms., Sept. 20, 1682. Son of William of Roxbury. Came to New Eng. ab. 1631; removed from Cambridge to Ipswich in 1635; was the military leader of that town; commissioner to treat with the French commander D'Aulny at Penobscot, in 1646 and in 1653, and subsequently was 10 years major-gen. of the Colony. He represented Ipswich several years in the General Court; was speaker of the house in 1649 and 1651–2; sec. of the Colony in 1653; justice of the Quarterly Court, 1658; commissioner of the United Colonies, 1655–62; assist. 1653–82. His public employments were numerous, and his services very important. In 1684 was printed his "Irenicon; or, Salve for New England's Sore." His dau. Elizabeth married Pres. Rogers of H.U. App. com.-in-chief of the Ms. forces in June, 1675, but was prevented by sickness from taking the field in the Indian war. — N.E.H. and G.R. v., 140.

Denison, MARY ANDREWS, b. Cambridge, Ms., 1826 (Mrs. C. W. D.). Author of "Home Pictures," "What Not?" "Carrie Hamilton," "Gracie Amber," "Old Hepsey, a Tale of the South," N.Y., 12mo, 1858. Contrib. to many of the leading journals.

Dennie, JOSEPH, journalist, b. Boston, Ms., Aug. 30, 1768; d. Phila., Jan. 7, 1812. H.U. 1790. He studied law, and practised at Walpole, N.H., but soon adopted the literary career, having acquired some reputation by newspaper contributions under the title of "The Farrago." He pub. at Boston, in 1795, the Tablet, weekly, and edited the Farmer's Museum, at Walpole, in 1796–9, in which the popular essays of "The Lay Preacher" first appeared. In Sept. 1799, he went to Phila. as clerk in the office of Mr. Pickering, sec. of State. In 1800, after editing a while the U. S. Gazette, he began the Portfolio, to which the rest of his life was devoted, under the nom de plume of "Oliver Oldschool." This, while in its prime, was the first literary journal of the country. In 1803, he was indicted for a libel against the Federal Govt. pub. in his journal, but was acquitted. Dennie's convivial tastes led him to form the "Tuesday Club," a social gathering of the wit and genius of Phila. He was remarkable for originality, and for delicacy of thought and language.

Dennison, WILLIAM, politician, b. Cincinnati, Nov. 23, 1815. Miami U. 1835. Adm. to the bar in 1840; practised at Columbus until 1848; member of the O. legisl. 1848–50; pres. of the Exchange Bank, and of the Columbus and Xenia Railroad Co.; in 1856, delegate to the Pittsburg convention which inaugurated the Repub. party, and also to the Phila. convention; gov. of Ohio, 1860–2, and did much to organize the vols. against the Rebellion; chairman of the Ohio convention of 1862; delegate and pres. of the Baltimore convention of 1864; U.S. postmaster-gen. Oct. 1864 to July, 1866.

Denonville, JACQUES RENÉ DE BRISAY, Marquis de, gov. of Canada in 1685–9; was a brave officer, but, by not following up a victory he had gained over the Iroquois, inspired them with contempt, and by kidnapping a number of their chiefs, and sending them to France to work at the galleys, at a time when they were on a peaceful mission to himself, excited a hatred against the French, only terminated by the frightful "Massacre of Lachine." — Morgan.

Dent, JOHN HERBERT, capt. U.S.N., b. Md., 1782; d. July 31, 1823, St. Bartholomew's Parish, S.C. Midshipm. March 16, 1798, under Truxton, in the frigate "Constellation," and was in her when she captured the French frigate "Insurgente," Feb. 1, 1799. Lieut. July 11, 1799, he was in the same ship when she took the French frigate "La Vengeance," Feb. 1, 1800. He com. the schooners "Nautilus" and "Scourge," in Preble's squadron, during the Tripolitan war, and participated in the several attacks upon that city and harbor in 1804. Master com. Sept. 5, 1804; capt. Dec. 29, 1811.

Denton, DANIEL, author of "A Brief Description of New York," 4to, Lond., 1670, repr. in N.Y. in 1845, with notes by Gabriel Furman. Son of Richard. Presb. min. of Hempstead, L.I.

Denton, WILLIAM, poet, teacher, and lecturer, b. Darlington, Durham Co., Eng., 1823. He received his education in Eng., emigrated to the U.S. after attaining manhood, and in 1856 pub. at Dayton "Poems for Reformers." — Poets and Poetry of the West.

Denver, JAMES W., politician, b. Winchester, Va., 1818. He emigrated in childhood with his parents to Ohio, removed to Mo. in 1841, and taught school and studied law there; was app. capt. 12th Inf., March 5, 1847; left the service at the end of the Mexican war, July 25, 1848; emig. to Cal. in 1850; was chosen State senator in March, 1852; Aug. 2, 1852, killed Mr. Edward Gilbert, near San Francisco, in a duel with rifles at 40 paces; in Feb. 1853 was app. sec. of State; M.C. 1855–7; Mar. 4, 1857, was app. by Pres. Buchanan commissioner of Indian affairs, but resigned, and was made gov. of Kansas after the resignation of R. J. Walker; resigning this post in Nov. 1858, he was re-app. commissioner of Indian affairs, which he held till Mar. 1859. Made brig.-gen. Aug. 14, 1861, he served in the Western States; resigned March 5, 1863; delegate to the Cleveland Soldier's Convention in 1866, and settled in Washington, D.C., as an attorney.

De Peyster (de pīs'-ter), ABRAHAM, an eminent merchant and citizen of New York, eldest son of Johannes, b. New York, July 8, 1658; d. there Aug. 10, 1728. He was mayor of N.Y. between 1691 and 1695; was subsequently chief-justice of the province, and pres. of the king's council, in which latter capacity, in 1701, he acted as col. gov. He was also col. of the forces of the city and county of N. Y., and treasurer of N.Y. and N.J. He was the intimate friend and corresp. of Penn and of the col. gov., the Earl of Bellomont. His mansion in Pearl St., once the headquarters of Washington, stood until 1856.

Digitized by Google

De Peyster, JOHANNES, an early settler of New Amsterdam, now New York, b. Haarlem, Hol.; d. New York, ab. 1685. Of Huguenot descent. He held many offices of trust and honor under Dutch and English colonial rule. During the short period in 1673–4 in which the Dutch recovered possession of the province, he took a prominent part in the conduct of public affairs. He was subsequently, at different times, alderman, deputy mayor, and mayor. — Appleton.

De Peyster, JOHN WATTS, of Rose Hill, Tivoli, N.Y., brig.-gen. M.F.S., N.Y., b. N.Y. City, 9 Mar. 1821. Principal contrib. to the Eclaireur, a milit. jour., 1853–4; and its editor 1854–8; privately printed "Life of L. Torstensen," 8vo, 1855; "The Dutch at the North Pole and the Dutch in Maine," 12mo, 1857; "Early Settlement of Acadie by the Dutch," 8vo, 1858; "The Dutch Battle of the Baltic," 8vo, 1858; "Hist. of Carausius," 8vo, 1858; "The Ancient, Mediæval, and Modern Netherlanders," 8vo, 1859; "Winter Campaigns the Test of Generalship," 8vo, 1862; "Practical Strategy," 8vo, 1863; "Secession in Switzerland and in the U.S. compared," 8vo, 1864; "Decisive Conflicts of the late Civil War," 1868. Gen. De P. has prepared a genealogy of his family, and has pub. some pamphlets on military and religious subjects. — Allibone.

Derbigny, PETER, gov. of La. from 1828 until his death, Oct. 6, 1829. App. in 1820, with Livingston and Moreau, to revise the laws of La.

Derby, ELIAS HASKET, merchant, b. Salem, Ms., Aug. 16, 1739; d. there Sept. 8, 1799. His father, Capt. Richard (1712–83), was a successful shipmaster and merchant of Salem, a member of the Gen. Court, 1769–73, of the council, 1774–7. His bro. JOHN was an owner of the ship "Columbia," which discovered the Columbia River. By a remarkable concurrence of events, he carried to England the first news of the battle of Lexington, and, at the close of the war, bore home from France the first news of peace. Elias, engaging extensively in business, owned, at the commencement of the Revol., 7 ships in the W. India trade. The war ruined Amer. commerce; and Mr. Derby, uniting with his townsmen, aided in the equipment of 158 armed vessels fitted out from Salem, many of which were successful, at least 445 vessels being captured from the enemy. Appreciating the importance of speed, Mr. Derby built shipyards, studied naval architecture, and built a class of vessels superior in size model, and speed to any previously launched in the Colonies. He opened American trade to St. Petersburg in 1784, and to Canton and Calcutta soon afterward. — Hunt's Merchants.

Derby, GEN. ELIAS HASKET, merchant, b. Salem, Jan. 10, 1766; d. Londonderry, N.H., Sept. 16, 1826. One of the founders of the India trade, first importer of Merino sheep, and began the manuf. of American broadcloth during the War of 1812. Recd. an hon. degree from H.U. in 1803.

Derby, ELIAS HASKET, lawyer, b. Salem, Ms., 24 Sept. 1803. H.U. 1824. Son of Gen. E. H. Derby. He studied law under Daniel Webster, began practice in Boston in 1827, and attained distinction in railway cases. He has been pres. of the Old Colony R. R. Co., has been active in promoting the commercial interests of Boston, and was earnest and zealous in his efforts to secure the construction of iron-clads during the civil war. Besides contribs. to the Edinburgh Review, the Atlantic Monthly, &c., he is the author of "Two Months Abroad," 1844; "The Catholic," "The Overland Route to the Pacific," and many reports on the "Fisheries," the "British Provinces," &c., written while U.S. commissioner.

Derby, GEORGE H., capt. U. S. topog. engrs., b. Norfolk Co., Ms., 1824; d. insane in N.Y. City, May 15, 1861. West Point, 1846. Descendant of E. H. Derby, merchant of Salem. Severely wounded at Cerro Gordo, and brev. for gallantry. Afterward stationed in Cal., where he produced those humorous papers, since pub. under the title "Phœnixiana," the success of which has encouraged a multitude of imitators. After his death, some of his other pieces were pub., entitled "The Squibob Papers." Employed by govt. in erecting lighthouses on the coasts of Fla. and Ala., he received a sunstroke, which resulted in a softening of the brain. Capt. top. engrs. 1 July, 1860.

De Ros, JOHN FRED. FITZGERALD, rear-adm. (1857) British navy, b. 1804; d. June 19, 1861. Author of "Travels in the U.S. in 1826."

De Russy, LEWIS G., engineer, b. N.Y.; d. La., Dec. 17, 1864. West Point, 1814. Entering the 1st Art., he became capt. 3d Art., 11 Dec. 1825; paymaster and maj. 21 Sept. 1826; was dropped from the army register in 1842; col. 1st La. Vols. during the Mexican war, 1846–8; planter at Natchitoches, La., 1848–61, and civil engineer; member of the house, 1851–3, and of the senate of La., 1853–5; maj.-gen. La. militia, 1848–61. Joined the Rebellion against the U.S. — Cullum.

DeRussy, RENE EDWARD, col. engs. U.S.A., b. N.Y. City, 1791; d. San Francisco, Nov. 23, 1865. West Point, 1812. Son of Thos. of St. Maloes, France, who came to N.Y. in 1791, and long resided at Old Point Comfort, Va. Brev. capt., Sept. 11, 1814, for gallant conduct at the battle of Plattsburg; chief-engr. of Macomb's army in 1814; capt. 9 Feb. 1815; brev. maj. Sept. 11, 1824; supt. Milit. Acad. from July, 1833 to Sept. 1838; lieut.-col. engrs. Dec. 7, 1838; col. March 3, 1863; brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A. 13 Mar. 1865. At the breaking-out of the war in 1861, he was ordered to the defence of the Pacific coast. Two sons, Gustavus and John, grad. West Point; the former was a brig.-gen. U.S. vols., and brev. col. U.S.A., for gallant conduct in the civil war, and is now (1869) maj. 3d U.S. Art.

Digitized by Google

Desandrouins, Vicomte, a French engineer, b. Dec. 12, 1740. Accomp. Montcalm to Canada in May, 1756, as a capt. royal engineers, became his aide and military sec., and was disting. in the defence of Ticonderoga and in the subsequent operations in Canada. Chief-engr. in Rochambeau's army in the U.S. in 1780–3; made brig of inf., Dec. 5, 1781, and chief de brigade of the engr. corps. In 1789, he was a chev. of Malta, and a member of the National Assembly from Calais and Ardres.

Desaussure, Henry W., chancellor of S.C., 1808–37; d. Charleston, S.C., March 29, 1839, a. 75. In the Revol. war, he bore arms in defence of Charleston, and, after the organisation of the U.S. Govt., was app. by Washington director of the mint. After filling the office a short time, he returned to Charleston, resumed the practice of law, and soon rose to eminence in his profession. He pub. 4 vols. of Equity Reports, which contain the early decisions of the Equity Court of S.C.; Oration 4 July, 1798, before the S. C. Hist. Soc.

Des Barres, Joseph Frederic Wallet, soldier and hydrographer, b. 1722; d. Halifax, N.S., Oct. 24, 1824, a. 102. He received his education under the Bernouillis; entered the Royal Milit. Coll. at Woolwich; embarked in Mar., 1756, as a lieut. in the 60th regt. for Amer., where, having raised 300 recruits in Pa. and Md., he formed them into a corps of field artillery, which he for a while com. In 1757, he led an exped. against the Indians who had attacked Schenectady, surprised and captured the chiefs, and brought them over to be useful allies to the army. He disting. himself as an engr. in the siege of Louisburg, in 1758; was aide-de-camp to Wolfe, to whom he was making a report when he fell, dying in his arms, and conducted the subsequent engineering operations, including the reduction of Fort Jacques Cartier, and other strong places, which completed the conquest of Canada. In 1762, he was directing engr. and quarterm.-gen. in the exped. for retaking Newfoundland, and was publicly thanked for his services. From 1763 to 1773, he was engaged in surveying the coast of Nova Scotia. Returning to Eng. in 1774, he received the commendation of the king for the manner in which this duty had been performed. Selected by Earl Howe to prepare charts of the N. A. coast, he adapted the surveys of Holland, De Brahm, and others, to nautical purposes; pub. in 1777 "The Atlantic Neptune," in 2 large folios. In 1784, he was made gov. of Cape Breton, with the military com. of that and of Prince Edward's Island, and soon after began the town of Sydney, and opened and worked the valuable coal-fields at the entrance of the river. In 1804, he was app. lieut.-gov. and com.-in-chief of Prince Edward's Island, being then in his 82d year. He was Capt. Cook's teacher in navigation. He pub. "Cape Breton," Lond., 8vo, 1804, privately printed, and suppressed.

Deschamps, Isaac, chief-justice of N.S. from 1785 to his d., Aug. 11, 1801, a. 78. Of Swiss extraction. He came in early life to Nova Scotia; was a clerk at Fort Edward (Windsor) in 1754, and aided in suppressing the turbulence of the Acadian French in that year; member of the assembly in 1761, and justice of C.C.P. for Kings Co.; judge of P.E. Island in 1768; and a judge of the Supreme Court of N.S., 1770–85; clerk of the assembly in 1772; app. counsellor, Oct. 6, 1783.

Desha, Joseph, soldier and statesman, b. Pa., Dec. 9, 1768; d. Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 11, 1842. Emigrating to Ky. in 1781, he served as a vol. in the exped. against the Indians under Gen. Wayne in 1794–5; represented Macon Co. one term in the State legisl.; fought at the battle of the Thames as a maj.-gen.; was M.C. in 1807–19, and gov. of Ky. from 1824 to 1828.

Desha, Gen. Robert, bro. of Joseph, a prominent merchant of Mobile, and M. C. from Tenn. from 1827 to 1831; d. Mobile, Feb. 8, 1849; capt. 24th Inf., Mar. 12, 1812; brev. maj. for gallant conduct in attempt to recapture Fort Mackinac, Aug. 4, 1814; brig.-maj. Oct. 1814.

De Soto, Fernando, discoverer of the Mpi., b. Xeres, Estremadura, Spain, ab. 1500; d. June 5, 1542, on the banks of the Mpi. Of a noble but impoverished family, he was enabled by Pedrarias Davila to spend several years at a university, and became proficient in literary and knightly accomplishments. In 1519, he accomp. Davila, gov. of Darien, to Amer., and opposed his oppressive administration. Quitting his patron, he, in 1528, explored the coast of Guatemala and Yucatan for 700 miles, in search of the strait which was supposed to connect the two oceans. He accomp. Pizarro to Peru, under the promise of being his second in com., in 1532, and was sent by Pizarro as ambassador to the Inca Atahualpa. He was the hero of the battle which resulted in the capture of Cuzco, the metropolis; soon after, returned to Spain with a fortune, met a flattering reception from Charles V., and m. the dau. of Davila. In the belief that Florida was a new El Dorado, richer than any that had been discovered, he undertook its conquest at his own expense. He sailed from San Lucar early in Apr. 1538, with 600 men; reached the bay of Spiritu Santo (Tampa Bay), May 25, 1539, and passed the first winter in the country of the Appalachians, E. of the Flint River. Oct. 18, 1540, he fought a sanguinary battle with the Indians at Mavilla, or Mobile on the Alabama. Soon after beginning his march to the N.W., in the following spring, a pestilential fever carried off nearly a score of his men. He reached the Mpi. after journeying seven days through a wilderness of forests and marshes; crossed it, and marched N.W. to the highlands of the White River; then proceeded South, and wintered on the Washita. While vainly attempting to descend the banks of the Mpi., through the bayous and marshes, he was attacked with a malignant fever, and d. To conceal his death, his body was wrapped in a mantle, and at midnight was silently sunk in the middle of the stream. He had crossed a large part of the continent in search of gold, and "found nothing so remarkable as his burial-place." A history of his life and travels, by L. A. Wilmer, was pub. at Phila. in 1858.

Digitized by Google

Despard, JOHN, a Brit. gen., b. 1745; d. Sept. 3, 1829. Ensign 12th Foot, 1760; lieut. 1762; capt. Mar. 1777; maj. June, 1788; lieut.-col. July, 1791; col. Aug. 1795; maj.-gen. 1798; lieut.-gen. 1805; gen. 1814. He served in Germany; came with the royal fusileers to Quebec in Mar. 1773, and was taken prisoner at St. John's, Nov. 1775; exchanged Dec. 1776; joined the army in N.Y., and was at the capture of Fort Montgomery. In June, 1778, he was made maj. of a corps raised by Lord Rawdon; in Dec. 1779, dep. adj.-gen., and was at the capture of Charleston, and in the campaigns of Cornwallis, ending with the surrender at Yorktown. He subsequently served on the staff of the army; gov. of Cape Breton, 1800–7. He was in 24 engagements, and was 3 times shipwrecked. — Philipart.

Desprez-Crassier (dā'-prā' krăs'-seā), JEAN ETIENNE PHILIBERT, a French gen., b. Crassier, Jan. 18, 1733; d. Ornex, ab. 1803. Entering the service as a cadet in 1745, he became a capt. in 1757 in the regt. Royal Deux-ponts, which was employed in Germany until the peace of 1763. With the grade of lieut.-col. in the same corps, he fought (under the orders of Prince Maximilian, since king of Bavaria) in the Amer. war. He disting. himself particularly at Yorktown, where his brave regt., having captured two howitzers, obtained by the exploit the title of "Royal," then so flattering, and the still more extraordinary distinction of bringing with it in its marches the two pieces of artillery which it had won. Maréchal-de-camp in 1791; lieut.-gen. in Sept. 1792; he took com. of the advanced guard of the army of the centre, which repulsed the Prussians at the camp of La Lune. Suspended as a nobleman in 1793, he was restored, and employed successively in the army of Italy, the Pyrenees, and of the Rhine, but was deprived of command, Oct. 26, 1795. — Nouv. Biog. Gen.

Dessalines (dā'-săl'-lēn') JEAN JACQUES, emperor of Hayti, b. ab. 1760; killed Oct. 17, 1806. Brought when young to Cape Francois, he was purchased by a black proprietor named Dessalines. Taking the name of his master, he served him until 1791, when he joined the bands of Biasson. Subsequently joining Toussaint L'Ouverture, he rose to high rank, displaying his bravery and also his ferocity. Upon the arrival of the French exped. under Leclerc, in 1802, he occupied the dept. of the south and west, conducting a bloody guerilla war against the French, and submitted to that gen. after the affair of Crete-à-Pierrot. He affected much zeal for the French, fought the insurgents, and treated the vanquished negroes with the same cruelty he had before shown the whites. But, when he saw the army decimated by the yellow-fever, he joined the blacks, and became their com.-in-chief. He gained a victory over Gen. Rochambeau, whom he forced to evacuate the isle, and made his entry at the Cape, Oct. 30, 1803. The people of Hayti proclaimed their independence Jan. 1, 1804, and named Dessalines gov.-gen., who, in retaliation for the cruelties exercised by Rochambeau upon the blacks, invited them to a general massacre of the whites. He was crowned Oct. 8, 1804, under the name of Jean Jacques First. Feb. 16, 1805, he marched against St. Domingo; but the arrival of a French squadron with 4,000 troops obliged him to raise the siege with great loss. On his return, he occupied himself in laying down the constitutional bases of his govt., which were promulgated the 20th of May. His despotism and cruelty caused an insurrection Oct. 14, 1806. Directing his course to the south, in order to repress it, he fell into an ambuscade near Port au Prince, where he lost his life.

De Trobriand, PHILIP REGIS, brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. France. Col. 55th N.Y. vols., Aug. 1861; engaged at Yorktown and Williamsburg, Va.; com. brigade at Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Manassas Gap, Auburn and Kelly's Ford; brig.-gen. U. S. vols. Jan. 5, 1864; com. brig. 2d corps, Army of the Potomac at Deep Bottom; assault of Petersburg, Jerusalem Road, Peebles's Farm, Boydtown Road, raid to Hick's Ford on the Weldon Railroad; battles of Hatcher's Run and Five Forks, and com. a division in the operations ending in Lee's surrender. Brev. maj.-gen. of vols. and brig.-gen. U. S. A. for gallant services in the war; col. 31st U.S. Inf., July, 1866; now (1871), col. 12th U. S. Inf. Author of "Quatre Ans de Campagnes de l'Armée du Potomac." — Henry.

Deuxponts, CHRISTIAN and WILLIAM, Counts DE FORBACH DES, respectively col. and lieut.-col. of the regt. of that name; served in the army of Rochambeau in Amer. in 1780–3. CHRISTIAN, b. Deuxponts, Bavaria, 20 Oct. 1752; became col. in 1775; disting. at Yorktown; com. the Bavarian corps at Hohenlinden in 1800, with such distinction as to merit the grand cross of the order of Maximilian Joseph. WILLIAM, b. 18 June, 1754; d. 16 years before his bro. Lieut.-col. Oct. 2, 1779; wounded in the attack on the redoubt at Yorktown, on the night of Oct. 14, 1781; for his gallantry on this occasion was made by the King of France a chev. of the military order of St. Louis. He was afterward com. of the Palace Guard, a post of honor at the Bavarian court. A journal of his campaigns in Amer., edited by Dr. S. A. Green, was pub. Boston, 8vo, 1868.

De Vere, MAXIMILIAN SCHELE, LL.D., prof. of modern languages and belles-lettres in the U. of Va., b. near Wexio, Sweden, Nov. 1, 1820. He first entered the military and afterward the diplomatic service of Prussia. Emigrating to the U.S., he was app. prof. in 1844. His contribs. upon a great variety of subjects, historical, literary, and scientific, have appeared in the British Quarterly Review, the Southern Literary Messenger, Putnam's and Harper's Magazines, &c. He pub. in 1853 "Outlines of Comparative Philology," in 1856 "Stray Leaves from the Book of Nature," and "Studies in English," "Glimpses of Europe in 1848."

Devine, THOMAS C., brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. N. Y. Lieut.-col. 1st New York militia; capt. of mounted men in Va., July–Oct. 1861;

Digitized by Google

col. 6th N.Y. cav. Nov. 1861; brig.-gen. vols. Oct. 1864; lieut.-col. 8th U.S. cav. July, 1866. Engaged at South Mountain and Fredericksburg; com. brigade of cav. at Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Rappahannock Station, and various other cavalry actions; in Sheridan's cav. campaign at battles of Todd's Tavern, Spottsylvania C.H., Cold Harbor, Trevillian's Station, and brev. brig.-gen. vols., and wounded at Front Royal; engaged at Opequan, Fisher's Hill, and Cedar Creek; com. division in Sheridan's raid to Lynchburg and in the operations terminating in Lee's surrender; brev. maj.-gen. vols. for gallant services in the war; col. U. S. A. for Fisher's Hill, and brig.-gen. for Sailor's Creek, Va.; d. Ms. Apr. 4, 1878.

Dew, THOMAS RODERIC, publicist, b. King and Queen Co., Va., Dec. 5, 1802; d. Paris, France, Aug. 6, 1846. Wm. and Mary Coll., 1820. He studied law, travelled two years in the south of Europe, in 1827 was elected prof. of political economy, history, and metaphysics in Wm. and Mary Coll., and in 1836 was made pres. In 1829, he pub. his "Lectures on the Restrictive System." His essay on "Slavery" produced an extraordinary effect upon public opinion, and at the time set at rest the question of emancipation in Va. He also contrib. to the Southern Lit. Messenger. His most elaborate work, pub. in N.Y. in 1853, entitled "A Digest of Ancient and Modern History," is a treatise on the history of the world, from the earliest ages to the first French Revolution. In the summer of 1846, he m., and set out with his bride for a short European tour, but lived only to reach Paris. —Appleton.

Dewees, WILLIAM POTTS, M.D., physician, b. Potts Grove, Pa., May 5, 1768; d. Phila., May 20, 1841. Left fatherless in early life, and without the means of obtaining an education, he served some time with an apothecary, attended medical lectures in the U. of Pa., and in 1789 commenced practice. He removed to Phila. in 1793, where he devoted himself especially to obstetrics, and soon acquired a high reputation in this dept., upon which he delivered lectures. In 1812, he relinquished practice on account of ill health, and devoted the 5 ensuing years to farming at Phillipsburg, Pa. He resumed practice in 1817, with great success. In 1825, he was chosen prof. of midwifery in the U. of Pa., first as an assist., and in 1834 as principal, but, his health again failing him, he resigned in 1835. After spending one winter in Cuba, and the following summer in the North, he settled in Mobile. About a year before his death, he returned to Phila. In 1823, he pub. a vol. of occasional contribs. to the medical journals; in 1825, his "Midwifery" and his treatise on "Children" "Diseases of Females" in 1826, and "Practice of Medicine," 1830. — Williams's Med. Biog.

Dewey, CHARLES AUG., LL.D. (H. U. 1840), judge Ms. Sup. Court, 1837–66, b. Williamstown, Ms., 13 Mar. 1793; d. Northampton, Ms., 22 Aug. 1866. Wms. Coll. 1811. Son of Judge Daniel. He studied law with Theo. Sedgewick; practised in Williamstown in 1814–26; removed to Northampton, and was U. S. dist.-atty in 1830–7.

Dewey, CHESTER, D.D. (Un. Coll. 1838), M.D. (Y.C. 1825), LL.D. (Wms. Coll. 1850), physician, b. Sheffield, Ms., Oct. 25, 1784; d. Rochester, N.Y., Dec. 15, 1867. Wms. Coll. 1806. He studied for the ministry; began to preach in 1808 at Tyringham, Ms.; was afterward a tutor in Wms. Coll.; from 1810 to 1826 was prof. of mathematics and natural philos. there; from 1827 to 1836 taught the gymnasium at Pittsfield with great success; was principal of the Collegiate Inst. at Rochester, N.Y., from 1837 to 1850; and from 1850 to 1860 was prof. of chemistry and nat. philos. in the new U. of Rochester. For many years, he was prof. of and lecturer on botany and chemistry in the med. colleges at Pittsfield, Ms., and at Woodstock, Vt. Dr. Dewey preached and taught for more than 60 years. He was the author of "Reports on the Herbaceous Plants of Ms.," and of many articles in scientific journals, as well as the secular and religious press. His botanical papers in the American Journal of Science attracted the attention of the ablest European botanists.

Dewey, DANIEL, judge Ms. Sup. Court from 1814 to his d., 26 May, 1815, b. Sheffield, Ms., 29 Jan. 1766. He settled in Williamstown in 1787; studied law under Theo. Sedgewick, and attained high rank in the prof.; was a member of the exec. council, and M. C. 1813–14.

Dewey, ORVILLE, D.D., LL.D., clergyman, b. Sheffield, Ms., Mar. 28, 1794. Wms. Coll. 1814; Andover Sem. 1819. He preached 8 months as agent for the Education Society, and at Gloucester, Ms.; became a Unitarian; soon after became an assist. of Dr. Channing, and was pastor of the Unit. Church in New Bedford from Dec. 17, 1823, until his first voyage to Europe, June, 1833. "The Old World and the New," 1836, contains the account of his 2 years' visit. Nov. 26, 1835, he was called to the 2d Unit. Church, N.Y., which, during his ministry, built the Church of the Messiah. He was again abroad in 1842–4; but continued ill health compelled him to withdraw in 1848 to his paternal farm in Sheffield. Here he prepared a course of lectures for the Lowell Institute at Boston, on "The Problem of Human Life and Destiny," delivered in the principal cities of the Union. This was followed, in 1855, by another Lowell course on "The Education of the Human Race." Meanwhile, he filled the Unit. pulpit in Albany one winter, and in Washington two. In 1858, he was again settled as a Unitarian pastor over the society, in Church Green, Boston, from which he retired in 1862. His first publication was "Letters on Revivals." While in New Bedford, he contrib. much to the Christian Examiner and the N. A. Review. He pub. in 1835 a vol. of sermons. His works have been collected and pub. in 3 vols., N. Y., 1847, and were printed in Lond. in 1844. As a pulpit orator, he was earnest, original, and impressive.

DeWitt, CHARLES, member Old Congress, 1783–5, b. 1728; d. Kingston, N.Y., Sept. 1787.

DeWitt, SIMEON, b. Ulster Co., N.Y., Dec. 25, 1756; d. Ithaca, Dec. 3, 1834 Queen's Coll. 1776. Joining the army of Gates, he was present at the surrender of Bur royne; was assist. geographer to the army, 1778–80; chief geog. in 1780–3, and present at the surrender of Cornwallis; surveyor-gen. of N. Y., 1784–1834; app. surveyor-gen. of the U. S. in 1796, but declined. From 1798, regent; from 1817, vice-chancellor; and from 1829, chancellor, of the State of N. Y. Member of many literary and scientific bodies. An "Eulogium" on his life and services, by T. Romeyn Beck, was pub., 8vo, Albany, 1835. Author of "Elements of Perspective," 12mo, Albany, 1813; Map of N. Y., 1804.

Digitized by Google

Dexter, FRANKLIN, LL.D. (H. U. 1857), lawyer, b. Charlestown, Ms., Nov. 5, 1793; d. Beverly, Aug. 14, 1857. H. U. 1812. Son of Samuel, an eminent lawyer. He established himself at Boston, where he attained a prominent rank at the bar; filled many public offices; delivered the 4th of July oration in 1819 before the town authorities; was a member of the city council in 1825; a member of both branches of the State legisl.; was in 1836 one of the select committee upon the revised statutes; U. S. dist.-atty. 1841 to 1845, and in 1849 was app. by Pres. Taylor U. S. dist.-atty. for Ms. He exhibited great skill and logical acuteness in defence of the Knapps in their trial for the murder of Capt. White of Salem, in 1830, against Daniel Webster, who was employed in behalf of the govt. With his eminence as a lawyer, he united great knowledge and skill in art, and high attainments in literature and general knowledge.

Dexter, HENRY, sculptor, b. N. Y. Having lost his father, at the age of 12 he removed with his family to Ct., where he was a farmer, and afterward a blacksmith. His artist-longings, however, finally triumphed, and he settled in Boston as a portrait-painter, but eventually turned his attention to modelling, and has since executed many fine portrait-busts and statues. Among them are Pres. Felton, Gov. Wisner, Joseph Warren, S. P. Chase, the Governors of 1860, the "Binney Child," "The Backwoodsman," "The Young Naturalist," and "The First Lesson." His studio was at Cambridge, Ms., where he d. June 23, 1876, a. 60.

Dexter, HENRY MARTYN, D.D. (Iowa, 1865), pastor, 1849–67, of what is now the Berkeley-st. Cong. Church, Boston; b. Plymo. Co., Ms., 13 Aug. 1821. Y. C. 1840; And. Theol. Sem. 1844. Descended from farmer Thos. Dexter of Lynn, and from Geo. Morton of Plymouth. Pastor of the Franklin-street Church, Manchester, N.H., 1844–9. He has pub. "Street Thoughts," 1859; "Twelve Discourses," 1860; "Future Punishment," and "Congregationalism." Editor of Church's "Philip's War," 1865, and Mourt's "Relation." Now (1871) in Europe, engaged in collecting materials for a new history of Old Plymouth Colony. In 1851, he became editor of the Congregationalist, weekly, and in 1858 of the Cong. Quarterly.

Dexter, SAMUEL, LL.D. (H.U. 1813), an eminent lawyer and statesman, b. Boston, May 14, 1761; d. Athens, N.Y., May 4, 1816. H.U. 1781. Son of Samuel, a Revol. patriot, and benefactor of H.U. He studied law at Worcester, but had not been long at the bar, before he was elected to the State legisl., from which he was transferred, first to the house (1797–5), and then to the senate (1799–1800), of the U.S. Here, during a period of strong party excitement, he gained influence and honor by the force of his character and talents, his enlightened politics, and his oratory. He was app. by Pres. Adams successively sec. of war (1800) and of the treasury (1801), and had charge for a short time of the state dept. A foreign embassy which was offered him he declined; and, on the accession of Jefferson, he returned to the practice of the law. In 1815, Madison tendered him an extraordinary mission to the court of Spain; but he declined the offer. He continued many years to display extraordinary powers in his profession; having no superior, and scarcely a rival, before the Supreme Court at Washington, in which he appeared every winter in cases of the highest importance. In politics, at first an acknowledged leader of the Federalists, he separated himself from them during the War of 1812, and gave that measure his support. He argued against the validity of the embargo with all his strength, and always maintained the unconstitutionality of that measure. He was the first pres. of the first society formed in Ms. for the promotion of temperance. He drafted the eloquent answer of the senate to Pres. Adams's address on the death of Washington, and pub. a "Letter on Freemasonry;" "Progress of Science," a poem, 1780; and "Speeches and Political Papers." — See Story's Sketch.

Dexter, TIMOTHY, known as "Lord Timothy," remarkable for eccentricity, b. Malden, Jan. 22, 1747; d. Newburyport, Oct. 22, 1806. He rose from poverty to affluence; possessed much acuteness, and was honest in his dealings, but lacked that kind of prudence which so frequently hides bad, and sets off good qualities. He was benevolent. By his itch to appear in print, he frequently exposed his ignorance. See his "Pickle for the Knowing Ones." His vanity was exhibited by his assuming the title of "Lord." He built a house at Newburyport, adorned according to his own whims. His biography, by S. L. Knapp, was pub., Boston, 12mo, 1823.

Dias (dee'-äz), GONÇALVEZ, Brazilian poet, b. Cachias, province of Maranha, 10 Aug. 1823. Studied at U. of Coimbra. Author of "Primeiros Cantos," Rio, 1846; "Segundos Cantos," 1848; "Leonor de Mendonça," 1847, and other poems; died at sea in 1864.

Diaz del Castillo, BERNAL, a Spanish adventurer and chronicler, b. Medina del Campo, ab. 1500. He went to seek his fortune in the New World in 1514, and joined the expeds. of Cordova in 1517, and Grijalva in 1518. He next attached himself to Cortes, whom he served faithfully and valiantly. He was engaged in 119 battles and rencounters, and was several times wounded. In 1568, he was regidor of the city of Guatemala. In 1558, he finished his "Historia verdadera de la Conquesta de la Nueva Espana," designed to correct the misstatements of Gomara's "Chronicle of New Spain," and to claim for himself and comrades a share of the glory which Gomara gave almost wholly to Cortes. It was first pub. at Madrid in 1632. An English translation, by Lockhart, appeared in 1844. Wilson's "New History of the Conquest of Mexico" impugns the authenticity of Diaz's narrative, which he calls a collection of fables. He was a rough, unlettered soldier; but he describes accurately many interesting transactions, and supplies much important information relative to the history of the New World.

Digitized by Google

Dick, JAMES T., artist, b. N.Y. City, 1834; d. Brooklyn, L.I., 19 Jan. 1868. Son of A. L. Dick, whose engraving of "The Last Supper" gained him much repute. At the age of 14, he gained most of the prises awarded by the Manchester Academy of Design. One of the originators of the Brooklyn Art School, and a founder of the Acad. of Design. Among his best pieces are "Cooling Off," "Leap Frog," and "At Mischief."

Dick, DR. SAMUEL, member of the Old Congress, from N.J., 1783–4; d. N.J., Nov. 1812.

Dickens, ASBURY, sec. U.S. senate, 1836–61; b. N.C., 1773; d. Oct. 23, 1861. Early in life, he removed to Phila.; afterward spent some years in Europe; filled a post in the treasury dept. under Sec. Crawford, and was chief clerk of the State dept. under Van Buren.

Dickerson, MAHLON, statesman, b. Hanover, N.J., 17 Apr. 1770; d. Suckasunny 5 Oct. 1853. N.J. Coll. 1789. Adm. to the bar in 1793, he pract. with reputation in Phila.; was quarterm.-gen. of Pa. in 1805–8; recorder of Phila., 1808–10. Returning to N.J. in 1814, he was a member of the legisl.; judge of the Sup. Court, gov. and chancellor, 1815–17; U. S. senator, 1818–34; sec. U. S. N., 1834–8, and was subsequently, for a few months, a judge of the dist. court of N.J. Pres. Amer. Institute, 1846–8. Though a State's-rights Democ., he advocated a protective tariff, and was largely concerned in the mining and manuf. of iron in Morris Co. — See Nat. Port. Gall., vol. iii.

Dickerson, PHILEMON, bro. of Mahlon; M.C., 1833–5 and 1839–41; gov. of N.J., 1836; subsequently U.S. dist. judge of N.J.; b. Morris Co., N.J., 1788; d. Patterson, 10 Dec. 1862.

Dickinson, ANNA ELIZABETH, orator and reformer, b. Phila., Oct. 28, 1842. Her father died when she was 2 years old; and she was educated in the Friends' free schools. She read with avidity, devoting all her earnings to the purchase of books, and attending the lectures of disting. orators. Her early days were a continuous struggle with poverty; but her indomitable courage, and willingness to do any thing for an honest living, carried her through. Her first public speech was at a meeting of Progressive Friends in Jan. 1860, to discuss "woman's rights and wrongs;" and she at once became famous. Her first prepared speech on "Woman's Work" was delivered at Mullica Hill, N.J., in April, 1860. She next taught a school in Bucks Co., at a salary of $25 a month. From Apr. to Dec. 1861, she had a place in the U.S. Mint at Phila., from which she was dismissed for denouncing McClellan in a speech in West Chester. She first spoke in Boston at the Music Hall, in the spring of 1862, on the "National Crisis," and with great effect. In the following winter, she delivered her effective speech on "Hospital Life," at Concord, N.H., and was engaged by the Repub. committee to make campaign speeches through the State. Her eloquence secured the victory in the ensuing election; and she was honored by the press and people. A similar result followed her efforts in Ct., N.Y., and Pa. Jan. 16, 1864, at the request of the leading senators and representatives, she spoke in the H. of Representatives at Washington, and gave the proceeds, $1,030, to the Freedmen's Relief Society. This address was repeated in N.Y. and Boston, eliciting high praise. Her reputation was now thoroughly established; and that winter she addressed lyceums nearly every night at 100 dollars per night. One of her most powerful and impressive appeals was made in the convention of Southern Loyalists at Phila. in Sept. 1866. During the war, in camp and hospital, she spoke words of tenderness to the sick and dying, uttered the highest thought in Amer. politics in the crisis of our history, pointed out the cause and remedy of the war, and unveiled treason in the army and the White House, rebuking without hesitation the iniquity and incapacity of those in high places. Since the war, she has spoken much upon woman's work and suffrage. She pub. "What Answer?" 1868. — Eminent Women of the Age.

Dickinson, DANIEL STEVENS, LL.D. (Ham. Coll. 1858), jurist and statesman, b. Goshen, Ct., Sept. 11, 1800; d. April 12, 1866. He went to Chenango Co., N.Y., in 1806, educated himself; was adm. to the bar in 1827, and in 1831 settled at Binghamton, N.Y.; State senator in 1837–40; ex-officio judge of the Court of Errors, 1836–41, and lieut.-gov.; pres. of the senate and of said court from 1842 to 1844; U.S. senator, 1844–51. He ranked high as a debater, and took a prominent part in the discussion on the annexation of Texas, Mexican war, and the compromise of 1850. He was chairman of the senate committee on finance. His course on the slavery question placed him at the head of the conservative or "hunker" Democrats, one of whose candidates for the presidency he was in 1852. On the breaking-out of the Rebellion, he devoted his energies to sustaining the govt., addressing public assemblages, advising all to ignore party, and by word and deed to defend the laws and the country. At the time of his decease, he was U.S. dist. atty. for N.Y. He had a high reputation as a nisi prius lawyer, was apt at repartee, and had a strong vein of humor. His "Life and Works" were pub in 1867, in 2 vols., by his bro. J. R. Dickinson.

Dickinson, JOHN, LL.D., (N.J. Coll. 1769), statesman, b. Md., Nov. 13, 1732; d. Wilmington, Del., Feb. 14, 1808. Son of Judge Samuel. He studied law in Phila., and then at the Temple, Lond., and, after his return, practised with success at the Phila. bar. Elected to the Pa. assembly in 1764, he evinced unusual capacities for a legislator, and was, on all occasions, a ready and energetic debater. At the same time, he became known by his publications upon the attempts of Britain to infringe the liberties of the Colonies. His "Address to the Committee of Corresp. in Barbadoes," who had censured the opposition of the northern Colonies to the Stamp Act, pub. at Phila., 1766, is an eloquent and dignified defence of the Colonies. A deputy to the first Colonial Congress in 1765, its resolutions were drawn up by him. In 1767, he pub. his "Farmer's Letters to the Inhabitants of the British Colonies," repub. in London, with a preface by Dr. Franklin, and subsequently in French, in Paris. In 1774, he published his "Essay on the Constitutional Power of Great Britain over the Colonies in America." He was a member of the first Cont. Congress in 1774, and wrote those important State papers, "The Address to the Inhabitants of Quebec," "The Declaration to the Armies," the two petitions to the king, and "The Address to the States." He opposed the Declaration of Independence, as premature, and was one of the few members of Congress who did not sign that instrument. This course made him unpopular at home, and for several years he was absent from the public councils. In Oct. 1777, he was made brig.-gen. of Pa. militia. In Apr. 1779, he returned to Congress from Del., and wrote "The Address to the States" of May 26. He was, in 1781–5, pres of the States of Del. and Pa. successively, and in 1787 a member of the conv. for framing the Federal Constitution. In 1788, appeared his "Fabius" Letters, advocating the adoption of the new constitution. Another series, over the same signature, on the relations of the U.S. with France, 1797, was his last work. In 1792, he was a member of the convention which formed the constitution of Del. His political writings were pub. in 2 vols. in 1801. He was a man of elegant learning and fine conversational powers. Dickinson Coll., which he founded, and liberally endowed, perpetuates his name and important services to his country.

Digitized by Google

Dickinson, JONATHAN, Presb. clergyman, b. Hatfield, Ms., Apr. 22, 1688; d. Elizabethtown, N.J., Oct. 7, 1747. Y.C. 1706. Grandson of Nath'l, one of the first settlers of Wethersfield, Ct. He came to Elizabethtown in 1708, and 29 Sept. 1709, was installed pastor of the Presb. church, where he remained till his death. The adjoining townships of Rahway, Westfield, Union, Springfield, and part of Chatham, were included in his parish, in which he was also engaged in teaching, and in the practice of medicine. After the separation of the N.J. churches from the synod of Phila., in 1741, a charter for the College of N.J. was obtained, the first classes were opened in Elizabethtown; and Dickinson was elected pres. Oct. 22, 1746. His high reputation as a preacher and controversialist is evinced by his published sermons and theol. treatises. He was one of the ablest champions of Calvinism in this country. He pub. "True Scripture Doctrine," &c., in five discourses, 1741; a 3d ed. of his "Familiar Letters upon Important Subjects in Religion," was pub., Edinb., 12mo, 1757, and a collect. of many of his writings in the same place, 8vo, 1793. — Sprague.

Dickinson, JONATHAN, chief-justice of Pa.; d. 1722. He was a Quaker, came from Jamaica with his family in 1696, and was shipwrecked in the Gulf of Florida. His pub. account was entitled, "God's Protecting Providence Man's Surest Help and Defence."

Dickinson, GEN. PHILEMON, Revol. officer, b. near Dover, Del., Apr. 5, 1739; d. near Trenton, Feb. 4, 1809. He was educated in Phila. under Dr. Allison, and cultivated a small farm near Trenton, N.J. Entering the army in 1775, he was app. to com. the N.J. militia. With about 400 men, he attacked and defeated a large foraging party, Jan. 21, 1777. He com. the militia at the battle of Monmouth. Member of the Old Congress from Del. in 1782–3; U.S. senator, 1790–3; member of the commission app. in Dec. 1784 to select a site for the national capital.

Dickson, SAMUEL HENRY, LL.D. (N.Y. Coll. 1853), physician, b. Charleston, S.C., Sept. 20, 1798. Y. Coll. 1814. Of Scottish parentage. His father came to Amer. before the Revol., and fought at the South under Gen. Lincoln. He was in Charleston during the siege, and long afterward; taught there the school of the S. C. Society, and d. 1819. The son studied medicine at Charleston, and practised there during the prevalence of the yellow-fever in 1817. In 1818–19, he attended the medical lectures of the U. of Pa., grad. in 1819, and at once began practice. In 1823, he delivered a course of lectures on physiology and pathology, before the medical students of the city; the class consisting of about 30. He was instrumental in the establishment of a med. coll. in Charleston; and on its organization in 1824, he was called to the chair of institutes and practice of medicine. He withdrew in 1832, but on its re-organization in 1833, as the med. coll. of S.C., he was re-elected. He was prof. of the practice of medicine in the U. of N.Y. from 1847 to 1850, when he resumed his post at Charleston. In 1858, he was called to the chair of practice of medicine in the Jeff. Med. Coll., Phila., which he long filled. He has contrib. many papers to the med. journals of the U.S., and to the periodicals, and is the author of "Manual of Pathology and Practice of Medicine," N.Y.; "Essays on Pathology and Therapeutics," 2 vols., 8vo, N.Y., 1845; essays on "Life, Sleep, Pain," &c., Phila., 1852; "Elements of Medicine," Phila., 1855. He has also delivered many speeches, lectures, and addresses. He pub. a pamphlet on slavery, originally in a Boston periodical, in which he maintained the essential inferiority of the negro, and the futility of the projects suggested for changing his condition; d. Mar. 31, 1872.

Diereville (de-air'-vēll), French traveller, b. Pont l'Evêque; d. 1708. He embarked at La Rochelle, Aug. 20, 1699, as supercargo of a vessel bound to Acadia, and landed at Port Royal, Oct. 13, where he remained until Oct. 6, 1700, and reached La Rochelle Nov. 9. He brought many new plants from Amer., among others a shrub with beautiful yellow flowers, which Tournefort has named Dierevilla, and which Linnæus has classed in the genus Louicera, and which De Jussieu has re-established as a genus. He pub. an account of his voyage, Paris, 1708. — Nouv. Biog. Gen.

Dieskau (dees'-kŏw), JEAN ERDMAN, Baron, a French gen., b. Saxony, 1701; d. Surenne, near Paris, Sept. 8, 1767. He first served as a lieut.-col. of cav., under Marshal Saxe, and, after serving in the Netherlands, became in 1748 brig.-gen. of inf., and com. of Brest. Sent to Canada, Feb. 20, 1755, with the rank of maj.-gen. With 600 Indians, as many Canadians, and 300 regulars, he ascended Lake Champlain to attack Fort Edward, which was defended by Gen. Johnson. Defeating a detachment sent to its relief, under Col. Williams, Sept. 8, 1755, he pursued the fugitives, hoping to enter the fort with them. The Indians halted outside the intrenchments; the attacking force was routed and put to flight, and Dieskau, severely wounded, was made prisoner. Exchanged in 1763, he returned to France, where he received a pension.

Digitized by Google

Dillingham, PAUL, lawyer and politician, b. Shutesbury, Ms., Aug. 1800; removed with his father to Waterbury, Vt., in 1805; was adm. to the bar of Washington Co. in 1824; was town-clerk of Waterbury in 1829–44; was 18 years justice of the peace; State's atty. for Wash. Co., 1835–8; member Const. Conv. in 1836–7; was 6 years a State representative; State senator, 1841–2; M. C. 1843–7; gov. of Vt., 1865–7.

Dillon (de'-lŏn'), ARTHUR, COMTE DE, a French gen. of Irish descent, b. Braywick, Ireland, Sept. 3, 1750; guillotined at Paris, April 14, 1794. Son of Henry, 11th Viscount Dillon. Named in his infancy col. of the regt. Dillon, originally raised by his grandfather for the service of Louis XIV., he took in 1777 an active and disting. part in the Amer. war; at its head at the taking of Granada, St. Eustatia, Tobago, and St. Christopher. After the unfortunate attack upon Savannah, in which he participated, he was named successively gov. of St. Christopher, brigadier, March 1, 1780, and maréchal-de-camp, Jan. 1, 1784. He served with distinction at Yorktown. He was 3 years gov. of Tobago; was a dep. to the States-gen.; com. the army of the North in 1792; opposed the Prussians with success in the forest of Argonne under Dumouries, and compelled them to evacuate Verdun. Denounced by his political enemies on the most absurd pretexts, he was condemned, and suffered with great courage. — Nouv. Biog. Gen.

Dillon, JOHN B, author, b. Brooke Co., Va., ab. 1807. While an infant, his father moved to Belmont Co., O., and d. when John was 9 years old. He then returned to his native county, became a printer, and at 17 went to Cincinnati. While there, he contrib. poetical pieces to the journals. In 1834, he went to Logansport, Ind., where he practised law; in 1842, he pub. "Historical Notes;" in 1845, he became State librarian; has since been identified with popular education in Ind., and its benevolent institutions, and was many years sec. of the State Board of Agric.; sec. of the Ind. Hist. Society. In 1859, he pub. "A History of Indiana." — Poets and Poetry of the West.

Dimick, JUSTIN, col. U.S.A., b. Ct., July, 1800, West Point, 1819. Entering the art., he became capt. Apr. 6, 1835; brev. major "for gallant and meritorious conduct in war against Florida Indians," May 8, 1836; brev. lieut.-col. "for battles of Contreras and Churubusco," Aug. 20, 1847; com. P. F. Smith's brigade in battle of Contreras; brev. col. "for battle of Chapultepec," Sept. 3, '47; com. his regt. on the 13th, and at the capture of the City of Mexico; major 1st Art., Apr. 1, 1850; lieut.-col. 2d Art., Oct. 5, 1857; col. 1st. Art., Oct. 26, 1861; retired 1 Aug. 1863; brev. brig.-gen. U. S. A. 13 Mar. 1865; gov. Soldier's Home, near Washington, D.C., 14 Jan. 1864–68; d. Phil. Oct. 17, 1871.

Dinsmoor, ROBERT, poet, b. Windham, N.H., Oct. 7, 1757; d. there 1836. Of a Scotch Presbyterian family, who came from the N. of Ireland. His father was a soldier in the old French war; and the son was in the battle of Saratoga. With scanty education, he became a farmer at Windham, and was a zealous Presb. He published at Haverhill, in 1828, "Incidental Poems," together with a preface and sketch of the author's life, by Robert Dinsmoor the "Rustic Bard." — Duyckinck.

Dinsmoor, SAMUEL, gov. of N.H. in 1831–4, b. Londonderry, N. H., July 1, 1766; d. Keene, Mar. 15, 1835. Dartm. Coll. 1789. He was many years a maj.-gen of militia; M. C. 1811–13; State counsellor, 1821, and judge of probate.

Dinsmoor, SAMUEL, LL.D. (Dartm. Coll. 1851), gov. of N.H., 1849–53, b. Keene, N.H., May 8, 1799; d. there Feb. 24, 1869. Dartm. Coll. 1814. Son of Gov. Samuel. Adm. to the bar in 1818, and settled at Keene; afterward spent some time in Ark.; was clerk of the N.H. senate in 1826–31.

Dinwiddie, ROBERT, gov. of Va., 1752–7, b. Scotland ab. 1690; d. Clifton, Eng., 1 Aug. 1770. A member of the council as early as 1742. He detected and exposed, while clerk to a collector of customs in the W. Indies, an enormous fraud practised by his principal, for which he was rewarded with the post of surveyor of the customs of the Colonies, and afterward with the govt. of Va. Under his administration, the attempt was made to expel the French from the Ohio and Fort DuQuesne, in which Washington first disting. himself, and Braddock fell. He proved himself a zealous and active officer; discerned the capacity of Washington, whom he app. adj.-gen. of a military district, and sent as a commissioner to the French com. on the Ohio. In 1754, he suggested to the British Board of Trade taxation of the Colonies for funds to carry on the war; and in 1755 was one of the 5 colonial govs. who memorialized the ministry to the same effect. He left the Colony in Jan. 1758, "worn out with vexation and age," and charged by his enemies with converting to his own use £20,000 transmitted through his hands as a compensation to the Virginians for the money they had expended beyond their proportion in the public service.

Dix, DOROTHEA LYNDE, philanthropist, b. Worcester, Ms. Her father Joseph was a merchant in Boston, and, after his death in 1821, she supported herself by teaching a select school for young girls in Boston. Hearing of the neglected condition of the convicts at Charlestown State Prison, she visited them, and became deeply interested in the welfare of the unfortunate and suffering classes, for whose elevation she labored until 1834; when, her health becoming impaired, she gave up her school, and visited Europe, having inherited from a relative sufficient property to render her independent. She returned to Boston in 1837, and devoted herself to investigating the condition of paupers, lunatics, and prisoners, encouraged by her friend and pastor, Rev. Dr. Channing, of whose children she had been governess. In this work, she has visited every State of the Union east of the Rocky Mountains, endeavoring to persuade legislatures and influential individuals to take measures for the relief of the poor and wretched, and greatly influencing the foundation of State lunatic asylums. In April, 1854, in consequence of her unwearied exertions, a bill passed both houses of Congress, appropriating 10,000,000 acres to the several States for the relief of the indigent insane; but the bill was vetoed by Pres. Pierce, chiefly on the ground that the Genl. Govt. had no constitutional power to make such appropriations. Miss Dix has pub. anonymously "The Garland of Flora," 1829; and books for children. She has also pub. "Prisons and Prison Discipline," 8vo, Boston, 1845; a variety of tracts for prisoners, and has written many memorials to legislative bodies, on the subject of lunatic asylums. During the Rebellion, Miss Dix rendered service in the hospitals near Washington. — Appleton.

Digitized by Google

Dix, JOHN ADAMS, LL.D. (Gen. Coll. 1845), soldier, lawyer, and senator, b. Boscawen, N. H., 24 July, 1798. Brown U. 1830. Son of Lieut.-Col. Timo. Dix. He studied at the academies at Salisbury and Exeter, N.H., and in a French coll. at Montreal; entered the army as ensign in 1812; was adj. of a vol. batt. in 1813; was aide to Gen. Brown in 1819; capt. of art. in 1825, and resigned in 1828. After visiting Europe for his health, he settled as a lawyer in Cooperstown, N.Y.; was sec. of State in 1833, supt. of schools, member of the council, and a canal commissioner; became a member of the assembly in 1842, and was a U. S. senator in 1845–9. In that body, he bore a part in the discussions on the annexation of Texas, the Mexican war, the Oregon dispute, and the question of slavery in the Territories, upon which he expressed the views of the Freesoil Democrats, whose candidate for gov. he was in 1848. He advocated in two speeches a bill for reciprocal freedom of trade with the British Provinces,— a measure which prevailed 6 years later. Postmaster of N.Y. City in 1860; sec. U.S. treasury in Jan.–Mar. 1861; maj.-gen. U. S. vols. 16 May, 1861; com. at Baltimore, and subsequently at Fortress Monroe and on the peninsula; 16 Sept. 1862, he received com. of the 7th army corps; pres. of the Pacific Railroad Co.; app. by Pres. Johnson minister to the Netherlands, but declined; app. naval officer of N.Y., and was U. S. minister to France in 1867–9. Author of "Resources of the City of N.Y.," 1827; "A Winter in Madeira," 1851; "A Summer in Spain and Florence," 1855; and "Speeches," 2 vols., 8vo. Gov. of N.Y., 1873–5.

Dixon, ARCHIBALD, lawyer, b. Caswell Co., N. C., 2 Apr. 1802. His grandfather, Col. Henry, received a wound at the battle of Eutaw, which caused his death; and Warren his father, served gallantly through the war In 1805, he removed to Henderson Co., Ky., where he received a common school education; studied law; was adm. to the bar in 1824, and soon attained high rank as a criminal lawyer; member of the legisl. in 1830 and 1841, of the State senate in 1836; lieut.-gov. in 1843–7, and pres. of the senate; member Const. Conv. in 1841, and U. S. sen. 1852–5; d. Apr. 23, 1876.

Dixon, CAPT. GEORGE, author of "A Voyage around the World in 1785–8," 4to, London, 1789; d. ab. 1800. He discovered a number of small islands near the N.W. coast of Amer.

Dixon, JAMES, U.S. senator, 1857–69, b. Enfield, Ct., 5 Aug. 1814. Wms. Coll. 1834. Son of Judge Wm., in whose office he read law. Adm. to the bar; member State legisl. in 1837–8, '44; State senator, 1849–54; M.C. 1845–9. Resident of Hartford. Contrib. of poems to the N.E. Magazine and the Ct. Courant; d. Hartford, Ct., March 27, 1873. His wife, the dau. of Rev. Jona. Cogswell, d. June, 1871. — See Everest's Poets of Ct.; Lanman.

Dixon, JOSEPH, inventor, d. Jersey City, N. J., June 14, 1869, a. 71. Before he was 21, he made a machine to cut files, afterward learned the printer's trade, that of wood-engraving, then lithography, and became a thorough chemist, optician, and photographer. He was probably the first person to take a portrait by the camera. He first used the reflector so that the subjects should not appear reversed. He built the first locomotive with wooden wheels, but with the same double crank now used. He originated the process of photo-lithography. To guard against abuses of this process, he invented the system of printing in colors on bank-notes, and patented it, but never received any benefit; all the banks having used it without pay. He perfected the system of making collodion for the photographers, and aided Mr. Harrison in the mode of grinding lenses for common tubes. He is the father of the steel-melting business in this country; is widely known as the originator of the plumbago crucible, as now made; and his establishment in Jersey City is the largest of the kind in the world.

Dixwell, COL. JOHN, regicide; d. New Haven, Mar. 18, 1689, a. 81. Upon the west side of the monument placed over his remains in 1849, by a descendant, is the following inscription: "Here rests the remains of JOHN DIXWELL, Esq., of the Priory of Folkestone, in the County of Kent, Eng., of a family long prominent in Kent and Warwickshire, and himself possessing large estates and much influence in his country. He espoused the popular cause in the revol. of 1640. Between 1640 and 1660, he was col. in the army, an active member of four parliaments, thrice in the council of State, and one of the high court which tried and condemned King Charles the First. At the restoration of the monarchy, he was compelled to leave his country, and, after a brief residence in Germany, came to New Haven, and here lived in seclusion, but enjoying the esteem and friendship of the most worthy citizens till his death." He resided in

Digitized by Google

New Haven under the name of James Davids. — See Stiles's Judges.

Doane, Augustus Sidney, M.D., physician, b. Boston, Apr. 2, 1808; d. of ship-fever, Staten Island, Jan. 27, 1852. H.U. 1825. He studied in Paris 2 years; returned to Boston, intending to commence the practice of medicine, but in 1830 removed to N.Y., where he soon became a successful practitioner. In 1839, he was app. prof. of physiology in the U. of N.Y., which he soon resigned; was app. chief physician of the marine hospital, in which he was superseded in 1843; practised his profession until 1850, when he was a second time app. health-officer. He edited "Good's Study of Medicine;" translated "Maygrier on Midwifery," "Dupuytren's Surgery," "Lugol's Scrofulous Diseases," "Baylis's Descrip. Anatomy," "Blandin's Topog. Anatomy," "Ricord on Syphilis," &c. Contrib. to "Surgery Illustrated," and to sundry medical journals. — See Biog. Notice in the Internat. Mag. v. 427.

Doane, George Wash., D.D., LL.D., Pr.-Ep. bishop of N. J., b. Trenton, N. J., May 27, 1799; d. Burlington, N. J., Apr. 27, 1859. Un. Coll. 1818. Adm. to holy orders in 1821; he officiated 3 years in Trinity Church, N.Y.; in 1824, was first prof. of rhetoric and belles-lettres in Wash. Coll., Hartford; in 1828 became assist. minister, and then rector, of Trinity Church, Boston, where he continued to officiate until Oct. 31, 1832, when he was consecrated bishop; removed to Burlington, and became rector of St. Mary's Church in that city. In pursuance of a system of Christian education for females, in 1837 he established St. Mary's Hall, a boarding-school for girls. In 1846, he founded Burl. Coll., under a charter from the State legisl. Bishop Doane's theol. controversies were frequent. He visited Eng. in 1841; and in 1842 a vol. of his sermons was pub. at London. In 1824, he pub. early poems, entitled "Songs by the Way, chiefly Devotional, with Translations and Imitations." His Life has been written by his son W. C. Doane, who has also edited his "Poetical Works, Sermons, and Miscellaneous Writings," 4 vols., 1860. — Duyckinck.

Dobbin, James Cochrane, lawyer, sec. U.S.N., 1853–7, b. Fayetteville, N.C., 1814; d. there 4 Aug. 1857. U. of N.C. 1832. A successful practitioner at the Fayetteville bar; M. C. 1845–7; member of the legisl. 1848,'50, '52, and speaker in 1850, and instrumental in the Balt. Conv. of 1852 in securing for Mr. Pierce the Democ. nomination for the presidency.

Dobbs, Arthur, gov. of N.C., Nov. 1, 1754–1765, b. Ireland, 1684; d. Town Creek, N.C., March 28, 1765. He was a man of letters; of liberal views; had been a member of the Irish parliament, and disting. for his attempts to discover the north-west passage. He adopted conciliatory measures toward the Indian tribes; but his adm. was a continued contest with the legisl. on unimportant matters, displaying, on his part, an ardent zeal for royal prerogative, and an indomitable resistance on the part of the Colonists. Author of "An Account of the Countries adjoining to Hudson's Bay," 4to Lond., 1748; "Trade and Improvement of Ireland," 8vo, Dublin, 1729, and "Capt. Middleton's Defence," 8vo, 1744. — Wheeler's N. C.

Dobson, Thomas, author and bookseller; d. Phila., March 8, 1823. Author of "Letters on the Character of the Deity and the Moral State of Man," 2 vols., 12mo, 1807.

Dod, Albert Baldwin, D.D. (U. of N.C. 1844), scholar and divine, b. Mendham, N.J., March 24, 1805; d. Princeton, Nov. 20, 1845. N.J. Coll. 1822. Son of Daniel, mechanician. He passed 4 years teaching in Va., entered the Princeton Sem. in 1827, and was at the same time tutor in N. J. Coll. Licensed to preach in 1828 by the N.Y. presbytery. In 1830, he was elected prof. of mathematics in the coll., and, for a few years previous to his death, he lectured on architecture and political economy, in addition to the instruction of his proper dept. His articles in the Biblical Repertory, particularly that on capital punishment, in April, 1842, on phrenology in April, 1838, attest his ability in handling practical subjects. The former article was adopted by the committee of the N.Y. legisl. as their report, and repub. as a public document. He declined the chaplaincy and professorship of moral philosophy at West Point Acad. Some of Dr. Dod's admirable productions have been collected in a volume entitled "Princeton Essays." — Sprague.

Dodd, James B., mathematician, b. Va., 1807. Chosen prof. of mathem., nat. philos., and astronomy in the Centen. Coll., Miss., 1841, in Transylv. U. 1846; pres. pro tem. 1849–55. Author of arithmetics, algebras, and elements of geometry and mensuration. Contrib. to Quarterly Rev. of the M. E. Church South; d. Greensburg, Ky., Mar. 27, 1872.

Dodd, Mary Ann Hanmer, poet, b. Hartford, Ct., Mar. 5, 1813. Has contrib. many poetical pieces of great merit to "The Hermenethena," the "Ladies' Repository," and "The Rose of Sharon." A vol. of her poems was pub. Hartford, 1843. — Allibone.

Doddridge, Rev. Joseph, Pr.-Ep. clergyman, and pioneer of Western, Va., b. Pa., 1769; d. Wellsburg, Va., Nov. 1826. Bro. of Philip. Educated at Jeff. Acad., Canonsburg, Pa. Ord. by Bishop White in 1792. Author of "Notes on the Settlement and Indian Wars of the West. Country in 1763–83," 12mo, 1824; and Logan a dramat. piece, 1823.

Doddridge, Philip, lawyer and politician, b. Brooke Co., Va., 1772; d. Washington, Nov. 19, 1832. In his youth, he worked on a farm on the Ohio River, but was sent to school at 16. After a voyage down the Mpi. on a flatboat, he studied law, and soon gained a brilliant local reputation. Delegate from Brooke Co. to the Va. legisl. in 1815, and was a member for some years. In the Const. Conv. of 1829–30, he was the acknowledged leader of the party in favor of the white basis of representation. His success in parliamentary conflicts was due solely to close reasoning, thorough knowledge of the subject, great energy of manner, and a wonderful command of language. M.C. 1829–32, and was then engaged in codifying the laws for the Dist. of Columbia.

Dodge, Grenville M., maj.-gen. vols., b.

Digitized by Google

Danvers, Ms., Apr. 12, 1831. Educated at Capt. Partridge's military acad. in Norwich, Vt. He in 1851 removed to Ill., where, until 1854, he was employed in railroad surveys. He was afterward similarly engaged in Iowa, prosecuting his surveys west of the Missouri as far as the Rocky Mountains. In 1861, he was sent by the gov. of Iowa to Washington to procure arms and equipments for the State troops. June 17, he was made col. 4th Ia. vols. He served in Mo. in 1861, and in Feb. 1862, with Gen. Curtis in Ark. At Pea Ridge, he com. a brigade on the extreme right, and, though severely wounded in the side, kept the field until the final rout of the enemy. For his gallantry here, he was made brig.-gen. from Mar. 31. In June, he took com. of the dist. of the Mpi., and superintended the reconstruction of the Mpi. and O. Railroad. Early in 1863, he made a raid into Northern Ala. His gallantry at Sugar Valley, May 9, and Resaca, May 14 and 15, 1864, secured for him the rank of maj.-gen. June 7, 1864. Wounded at Atlanta. He subsequently com. the 16th corps in Sherman's Georgia campaign. He succeeded Rosecrans in com. of the dept. of the Mo. in Dec. 1864. M.C. from Ia. 1867–9.

Dodge, Gen. Henry, b. Vincennes, Ind., Oct. 12, 1782; d. Burlington, Ia., June 19, 1867. Son of Israel, Revol. officer of Canterbury, Ct. He com. a company of vols. in 1812; was maj. of Mo. militia in 1813; was lieut.-col. com. Mo. mounted inf. from Aug. to Oct. 1814; col. of Mich. mounted vols. Apr. to July, 1832; com. in attack on Indians at Pickatolika, June 15, 1832; successful in making peace with the frontier Indians in 1834, and in 1835 com. an important exped. to the Rocky Mountains. Maj. U.S. Rangers, June 21, 1832; col. 1st U.S. Dragoons, Mar. 4, 1833; gov. Wis. Terr. and supt. Indian affairs, July 4, 1836 to 1841, and 1845–8; deleg. to Congress, 1841–5; U.S. senator, 1849–57. As an Indian fighter, he had no superior. A sword and the thanks of the nation were voted him by Congress. Father of Senator Aug. C. Dodge.

Dodge, Mary Abigail (Gail Hamilton), authoress, b. Hamilton, Ms., ab. 1838. Her father was a farmer. She taught school in Hartford, Ct., and was afterwards governess in the family of Dr. Gamaliel Bailey of Washington, D.C., to whose paper she was a contrib. She has been a frequent contrib. to the Atlantic Monthly, and to Harper's Bazar, and has pub. "Country Living and Country Thinking," 1862; "Gala Days," 1863; "A New Atmosphere," 1864; "Stumbling-Blocks," "Summer Rest," "Skirmishes and Sketches," "Battle of the Books," 1870; "Red Letter Days," "Wool Gathering," "Woman's Wrongs, a Counter-Irritant," 1868.

Dods, John Bovee, b. N.Y., 1795. Has pub. "30 Sermons," 8vo; "Philos of Mesmerism," 1847; "Philos. of Electrical Psychology;" "Immortality Triumphant," "Spirit Manifestations Examined and Explained," N.Y., 1854; d. Brooklyn, N.Y., Mar. 21, 1872.

Doles, George E, brig.-gen. C.S.A.; killed near Cold Harbor, Va., June 2, 1864, æ. 34. Entering the 4th Ga. Inf. as capt., he was soon its col., and Nov. 1, 1862, was made a brig.-gen., and at his death com. a div. in Ewell's corps.

Dombey, Joseph, a French naturalist, b. Meaux, 1742; d. Apr. 1793, in the Prison of Montserrat. He studied medicine at Montpelier, and in 1778–85 travelled in S. Amer. He traversed Peru, Chili, &c., discovered mines of gold and quicksilver, and had many romantic adventures. In 1793, he was sent on a mission to the U.S., but was taken by privateers, and imprisoned in Montserrat. He pub. a herbal, including 60 new species of plants of Chili and Peru; and his contribs. to the Museum of Natural History at Paris were very considerable. — Biog. Univ.

Donaldson, Edwards, capt. U. S. N., b. Md., Nov. 7, 1816. Midshipm. July 31, 1835; lieut. Oct. 23, 1847; com. July 16, 1862; capt. July 25, 1866. Attached to frigate "Columbia," and in the attacks on forts on the coast of Sumatra, 1839; com. steamer "Scioto," W. Gulf. squad., at passage of Forts Jackson and St. Philip, and Vicksburg batteries; com. steamer "Keystone State," N. A. block. squad., 1863–4; com. steamer "Seminole," at the battle of Mobile Bay, Aug. 5, 1864. —Hamersly.

Donelson, Andrew Jackson, politician and diplomatist, b. near Nash., Tenn., Aug. 25, 1800; d. Memphis, Tenn., 26 June, 1871. W. Point., 1820. Aide-de-camp to his uncle, Gen. Jackson, 1820–1, and his priv. sec. from Mar. 1829 to Mar. 1837; chargé-d'affaires to Texas, 1844–5; envoy-extr. and minister-plenipo. to Prussia, 1846 to 48, and to Germany, 1848–9. Editor of Washington Union, 1851–52; candidate of Amer. Party for vice.-pres., 1852; cotton-planter in Bolivar Co., Mpi., in 1822–65; lawyer in Memphis, 1865–71. — Cullum.

Donkin, Robert, an English gen., b Mar. 19, 1727; d. Clifton, near Bristol, Mar. 1821. He entered the service in 1746; was at the siege of Belleisle in 1761; subsequently served in Flanders with Wolfe, served through the Seven-Years' war; and was aide-de-camp and sec. to Gen. Rufane, gov. and com-in-chief at Martinique. Capt. Dec. 25, 1770; maj 23 July, 1772; lieut.-col. Oct. 25, 1779; col Nov. 18, 1790; maj.-gen. Oct. 1794; lieut.-gen. 1801; gen. 1809. Gen. Donkin served through the whole Amer. war, from 1775 to 1783; in the early part of it as aide-de-camp to Gen. Gage, and afterwards as maj. of the 44th regt. Author of "Military Collections and Remarks," N.Y., 8vo, 1777, "pub. for the benefit of the children and widows of the valiant soldiers inhumanly and wantonly butchered when peacefully marching to and from Concord, April 19, 1775, by the rebels." — Introduction.

Donning, or Deming, William, the first manuf. of wrought-iron cannon; d. Mifflin, Pa., Dec. 19, 1830, a. 94. He was an artificer in the Revol. army, and made two wrought-iron cannon at Middlesex, Pa., one of which was taken by the British at the battle of Brandywine, and is now in the Tower of London. He commenced another and larger gun at Mount Holly, but getting no one to assist him who could stand the heat, — which is said to have been so great as to melt the lead buttons on his clothes, — it remains unfinished, either at Holly Forge or the Carlisle barracks. A large reward, offered by the British to the person who would instruct them in this manufacture, was no temptation to this patriotic blacksmith. — Essex Reg., Jan. 13, 1831.

Digitized by Google

Donop, COUNT, col. of a Hessian regt. in the British service; killed at Red Bank, N.J., Oct. 22, 1777, a. 37. He landed at Long Island Aug. 22, 1776; took part in the battle there Aug. 27, and Oct. 22, 1777, attacked Fort Mercer, at Red Bank, and fell at the first fire. "It is finishing a noble career early," said he to Chev. Mauduit; "but I die the victim of my ambition and of the avarice of my sovereign."

Doolittle, AMOS, the first who engraved in copper in this country, b. Cheshire, Ct.; d. N. Haven, Ct., Jan. 31, 1832, a. 78. Self-taught; at 21, he commenced business as an engraver, having previously served an apprenticeship with a silversmith. While a vol. at Cambridge, he visited the battle-ground at Lexington, and on his return to New Haven made an engraving of the action, his first attempt in that art. This is believed to be the first historical engraving executed in America. He executed 3 other historical prints in relation to the expedition to Lexington and Concord. — N. E. Mag., ii., 534.

Doolittle, BENJAMIN, minister of Northfield, Ms., from 1718 to his d., Jan. 9, 1749; b. July 10, 1695. Y. C. 1716. He was a physician also. Pub. a valuable "Narrative of the Mischief by the French and Indians from 1744 to 1748," and an "Inquiry into Enthusiasm."

Dorgan, JOHN AYLMER, poet, b. 1836; d. Phila., 1 Jan. 1867. A conveyancer by profession. A vol. of his poems, collected from the magazines and journals, was pub. in 1866. They possess much beauty and merit.

Dorhman, ARNOLD HENRY, a merchant of Lisbon, and a friend of American liberty; d. Steubenville, O., Mar. 21, 1813, a. 65. So zealous were his efforts in behalf of our captured seamen, that the British Govt. demanded his expatriation. He came to the U. S. in 1783, and received compensation, in money and a Western township, for the losses he had sustained, and received from Congress, also, an app. as their agent at Lisbon. — Nat. Intell., Apr. 4, 1813.

Dornin, THOMAS ALOYSIUS, commo. U.S.N., b. Ireland. Midshipm. May 2, 1815; lieut. 1825; capt. 1856. He com. storeship "Relief," in the South Sea expl. exped. While com. "The Portsmouth," in 1851, he frustrated Walker's fillibustering attempts, and rescued some 40 Amer. citizens of Guayamas, held in durance by the authorities of Mazatlan; afterward served as fleet capt. of "The Wabash," in the Mediterranean; of "The San Jacinto" and "Constellation," coast of Africa. During the Rebellion com. the Baltimore station, and has since had charge of the 5th Light-house District; d. Norfolk, Va., April 22, 1874.

Dorr, BENJAMIN, D.D. (U. of Pa. 1838), Pr.-Ep. clergyman and author, b. Salisbury, Ms., Mar. 22, 1796; d. Germantown, Pa., 18 Sept. 1869. Dartm Coll. 1817. After studying law, he entered the Gen. Theol. Sem. at N.Y.; was ord. by Bishop Hobart in 1820; was in 1820–9 rector of the churches of Lansingburg and Waterford, and was in 1829–35 rector of Trinity Church, Utica. In 1835–7, he was gen. agent of the domestic committee of the Board of Missions, travelling 15,000 miles. Rector of Christ's Church, Phila., from 4 May, 1837, to his d. In 1839, he was elected bishop of Md., but declined. In 1853, he visited Egypt and the Holy Land. He pub. "The Churchman's Manual," "The History of a Pocket Prayer-Book, written by Itself," "Recognition of Friends in Another World," "Historical Account of Christ's Church, Phila.," 1841; "Notes of Travel in Egypt, the Holy Land, Turkey, and Greece," 1856; "Memoir of John F. Watson," read before the Pa. Hist. Soc. — Duyckinck.

Dorr, THOMAS WILSON, politician, b. Providence, R.I., Nov. 5, 1805; d. there Dec. 27, 1854. H. U. 1823. Son of Sullivan Dorr, a successful manufacturer. He studied law in the office of Chancellor Kent, was adm. to the bar in 1827, and commenced practice in Providence. Originally a Nat. Repub. in politics, he became a Democ. in 1837. The R. I. Govt. was then based upon a charter granted by Charles II. in 1663; and the elective franchise was limited to the holders of a certain amount of real estate, and to their eldest sons,—ab. one-third of the citizens. Mr. Dorr was a member of the assembly in 1833–7, and exerted himself in vain to procure a liberal constitution. Mr. Dorr was chosen gov. by the suffrage party in 1841. May 3, 1842, Mr. Dorr's govt. attempted to organize at Providence, and to seize the reins of power. They were resisted by the legal State govt., who attacked and dispersed them, at Chepachet, May 25. Mr. Dorr fled to Ct., and afterward to N. H. A reward of $4,000 was offered for his apprehension, by the authorities of R. I. He soon returned, was arrested, tried, convicted of high treason, and sentenced to imprisonment for life, but was pardoned in 1847; and in 1853 the legisl. restored to him his civil rights, and ordered the record of his sentence to be expunged. He lived to see his State under a liberal constitution, and his party in legal possession of the govt.

Dorsey, JOHN SYNG, M.D. (U. of Pa. 1802), physician, b. Phila., Dec. 23, 1783; d. Nov. 12, 1818. He received a classical education, and studied medicine with his relative Dr. Physick. The yellow-fever soon after appeared in Phila., and became so prevalent, that a hospital was opened, to which he was app. resident physician. This opportunity of investigating the disease enabled him to aid in the establishment of a better system of practice. He returned home from a visit to Europe in Dec. 1804, and soon gained a large share of business. He was in 1807 elected adjunct prof. of surgery, which he held till he succeeded to the chair of materia medica in 1816. He delivered 2 courses of lectures upon this subject, when he was made prof. of anatomy. He opened the session with great eloquence; but, on the evening of the same day, he was attacked with a fever, which in one week terminated his existence. As a surgeon and as a teacher, he was highly accomplished. Besides contribs. to the Portfolio, and other periodicals, and an edition of Cooper's Surgery in the notes, he pub. "Elements of Surgery," in 2 vols., 1813. — Gross's Med. Biog.

Digitized by Google

Dorsey, THOMAS BEALE, lawyer and jurist, b. Md., Oct. 17, 1780; d. Dec. 26, 1855. St. John's Coll. 1799. He was adm. to practise in Baltimore in 1803; in 1807, and subsequently, was a member of the State legisl.; in 1811 app. U.S. dist.-atty. for Md.; in 1818, he resumed practice, his health being partially restored by agric. pursuits; in 1822 was app. atty.-gen. of the State, and from 1824 to 1851, he was chief judge of the third judicial district.

Dostie, DR. ANTHONY P., citizen of N. Orleans, b Saratoga Co., N.Y.; d. Aug. 5, 1866, from wounds received from the mob in that city, July 30. A barber by trade. His fondness for study soon made him prominent. He practised dentistry for some years in Chicago with success, but removed to N. Orleans, where his honest and genial nature won him many friends. The fearless expression of loyal sentiments during the war brought upon him the intense hate of the disloyal, while it procured for him, on the re-organization of the govt. of La., the app. of auditor,—a post he filled with credit and ability. The Const. Conv. of 1864 re-assembled at the call of its pres. in the spring of 1866. The mob, which, July 30, broke up this convention, sought out Dr. Dostie as one of its first victims, and, though unarmed, he was shot, and beaten till he was supposed to be dead, and thrown into a cart with the dead bodies of the other victims of the mob. —See Memoir of Dostie, by Emily H. Reed, 1868.

Doty, JAMES DUANE, gov. of Wis., 1841–4, b. N.Y., 1800; d. Salt Lake City, June 13, 1865. Early in life he removed to Wis. Terr., whence he was sent a delegate to Congress in 1839–41, and was M.C. in 1849–53. He was also for many years U.S. judge for Mich., supt. of Indian Affairs 1861–3, and gov. of Utah from 1863 until his death. — See Memoir, by A. G. Ellis, in Colls. Wis. Hist. Soc., v., 369.

Doubleday, ABNER, brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. Ballston Spa, N.Y., June 26, 1819. West Point, 1842. He was a civil engineer from 1836 until 1838; served during the Mexican war in the 1st Art., of which he became 1st lieut. in 1847; capt. 3 Mar. 1855. From 1856 to 1858, he served against the Seminole Indians, and was at Fort Moultrie until its evacuation, Dec. 26, 1860; when the garrison withdrew to Fort Sumter. The first gun on the side of the Union was fired by him, April 12, 1861. In June, 1861, he joined Gen. Patterson in Pa., and was made maj. 17th Inf., 14 May. He was put in com. of a battery, and afterward had charge of the defences on the right bank of the Potomac, near Washington. Feb. 3, 1862, he was made brig.-gen. vols., and placed in com. of the forts on the north bank of the Potomac. In the battle of Antietam, he com. a division in the 1st army corps, Gen. Hooker, and on the fall of Reynolds, Hooker's successor, at the battle of Gettysburg, took com. of the corps. Maj.-gen. Nov. 29, 1862; engaged in the battles of Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville; in the Pa. campaign, June–July, 1863; brev. brig.-gen. and maj.-gen. U.S.A., 13 Mar. 1865, for gallant and merit. services in the Rebellion. Lieut.-col. 17th Inf., 20 Sept 1864; col. 35th Inf., Sept. 15, 1867. — Cullum.

Doubleday, EDWARD, an English naturalist, b. 1810; d. Lond., 1849. After making a tour of the U.S., he pub. a paper on the "Natural History of N. Amer.," and was app. one of the curators of the British Museum. He has contrib. to science the results of his researches concerning butterflies, in a work "On the Genera of Diurnal Lepidoptera." He also wrote on ornithology, entomology, and zoölogy in the Entomological Magazine, and elsewhere. — Appleton.

Doughty, THOMAS, landscape-painter, b. Phila., July 19, 1793; d. N.Y., July 24, 1856. Apprenticed to a leather manuf., he afterward carried on the business on his own account. His taste for art, however, induced him in his 28th year, contrary to the advice of his friends, to become a painter. He had previously attempted a few paintings in oil, and had received a quarter's tuition in India-ink drawing. He practised his profession for many years in the U.S., and also in Lond. and Paris, but died poor. He enjoyed high repute as a landscape-painter. Among his best pictures are "Peep at the Catskills," "View on the Hudson," "Lake Scene," "Old Mill," "Near the Delaware Water Gap," and "Scene on the Susquehanna."

Douglas, DAVID, a British botanist, b. Scone, Scotland, 1798; d. July 12, 1834. While a laborer in the Glasgow Botanic Garden, he attracted the notice of Dr. Hooker, who procured for him an app. as botanical collector to the Hortic. Soc. of Lond. In this capacity, he travelled extensively in Amer.; in 1824 explored the Columbia River and Cal., and in 1827 traversed the continent from Fort Vancouver to Hudson's Bay. He made a second visit to the Columbia in 1829, and afterward went to the Sandwich Islands, where he fell into a pit, and was killed. Through his agency, 217 new species of plants were introduced into Eng. He collected 800 specimens of the California flora. A gigantic species of pine, which he discovered in Cal., is named after him, Pinus Douglassii. — Appleton.

Douglass, DAVID BATES, LL.D. (Y.C. 1841), scholar, b. Pompton, N.J., Mar. 21, 1790; d. Geneva, N.Y., Oct. 19, 1849. Y.C. 1813. App. lieut. of engineers U.S.A., he joined Gen. Brown in 1814; took part in the battle of Lundy's Lane; repaired Fort Erie under the guns of the enemy, and at its assault com. a battery with such skill and gallantry, that he was brev. capt. Prof. of mathematics, and afterward of engineering at West Point, with rank of major, until 1831, and subsequently, as a civil engr., was employed upon the Croton Water Works, Morris Canal, Greenwood Cemetery, the Albany Cemetery, and the Protestant Cemetery at Quebec. App. prof. of architecture in the U. of N.Y. in 1832; pres. of Kenyon Coll., O., in 1840–4; and in 1848–9 prof. mathematics and nat. philos. at Geneva Coll. In 1845, he delivered a course of lectures at N. Haven on the Niagara campaign.

Douglass, FREDERICK, orator and journalist, b. Tuckahoe, near Easton, Md., ab. 1817.

Digitized by Google

His mother was a negro slave, and his father a white man. Until the age of 10, he was a slave on the plantation of Col. Edward Lloyd; afterward lived in Baltimore, where he secretly taught himself to read and write, and, at the age of 21, fled from slavery. He went to N.Y., and thence to New Bedford, where he m., and supported himself by day-labor on the wharves and in workshops. In the summer of 1841, he spoke at an antislavery convention at Nantucket, and soon after became agent of the Ms. Antislavery Society. He travelled and lectured in N.E. 4 years; pub. in 1845 an autobiography, and soon after went to Europe, and lectured on slavery in nearly all the large towns of Great Britain. In 1846, his friends in Eng. contrib. £150 to buy him from his claimant in Md., and have him manumitted in due form. On his return to the U.S. in 1847, he began at Rochester, N.Y., the publication of Frederick Douglass's Paper, a weekly journal. Though formerly a Garrisonian disunionist, he renounced disunionism at a later period, and took the ground that slavery was illegal and unconstitutional. In 1855, he rewrote his biography under the title of "My Bondage and My Freedom." Became editor of the National Era at Washington, Sept. 1870.

Douglas, Stephen Arnold, senator, b. Brandon, Rutland Co., Vt., 23 Apr. 1813; d. Chicago, 3 June, 1861. He worked at cabinetmaking; studied in an acad. at Canandaigua, N.Y., in 1830–3; then studied law; settled in Jacksonville, Ill., in Mar. 1834, where he was an auctioneer's clerk, and taught school until his admission to the bar. Soon attaining a lucrative practice, he became an active politician and Democ. orator, his small stature procuring him the title of "The Little Giant." Atty.-gen. of the State, and member of the legisl. in 1835; app. register of the land office at Springfield in 1837; chosen sec. of the State of Ill. in Dec. 1840; judge of the Ill. Sup. Court in 1841–3; M.C. 1843–7, and prominent in the Oregon controversy; an advocate of the annexation of Texas, and a vigorous promoter of the Mexican war; U.S. senator, 1847–61. As chairman of the house committee on territories, he reported the joint resolution declaring Texas to be one of the U.S. In the senate, he supported Clay's compromise measures of 1850, maintaining that Congress should not interfere in relation to the extension of slavery in the Territories, but that the people of each should be permitted to decide whether it should be a free or slave State. Of this "Popular Sovereignty" doctrine, Douglas was the reputed author. As chairman of the territorial committee, he reported in Jan. 1854 the celebrated bill to organize the Territories of Kansas and Nebraska, which was passed, and by which the Missouri Compromise was repealed, political parties revolutionized, and intense excitement produced in the free States. In the Nat. Democ. Conv. of 1856, Buchanan and Douglas were the rival candidates; the former receiving on the 16th ballot 168 votes to 121 for Douglas. In 1857, he denounced and ably opposed the admission of Kas. under the Lecompton (fraudulent) Constitution, and was thus involved in a controversy with Pres. Buchanan. In 1858, after an exciting and memorable contest between Douglas and Abraham Lincoln for the U.S. senatorship, during which joint discussions were held in various places, Mr. Douglas was again elected. Remarkably successful in promoting the local interests of Illinois: the construction of the Ill. Central Railroad was due principally to him. He favored the acquisition of Cuba whenever that island could be obtained consistently with the laws of nations and the honor of the U.S. In 1860, he was the candidate of the Democ. party of the North for the presidency, and received a very large popular vote, though he had but 12 electoral votes. After the Rebellion began, he supported the govt. in efforts to suppress it. He m. 1st Martha D., dau. of Col. Robert Martin of N.C.; 2d, Adele, dau. of J. M. Cutts, second comptroller of the treasury.

Douglass, William, M.D., physician and author, b. East Lothian, Scotland, ab. 1691; d. Boston, Oct. 21, 1752. After receiving his professional education at Paris and Leyden, he settled at Boston, 1718. He was a violent antagonist of Dr. Boylston, in his efforts to introduce inoculation. His learning was considerable; but his prejudices were strong, and he lacked judgment and taste. He wrote many political essays in the newspapers, which were generally filled with sarcastic remarks upon the magistrates, the clergy, the physicians, and the people of N.E. His "Summary or Historical Account of the British Settlements," pub. in 1748 and 1753, is inaccurate, and records his private squabbles as well as public affairs. He pub. an almanac in 1743, '44, called "Mercurius Novanglicanus," by William Nadir, S.X.Q., still valued for its list of chronological events; also some medical dissertations. A town in Worcester Co., Ms., of which he was a proprietor and benefactor, bears his name. — Thacher.

Douglass, Col. William, a Revol. patriot, b. 1741; d. March 27, 1777. He was an officer in the French war, until the taking of Quebec; subsequently disting. himself in the Revol. struggle as com. of a flotilla on Lake Champlain; in the siege and capture of St. John's in 1775, and in taking a large number of prisoners, arms, ammunition, and stores from the enemy. He was commissioned, June 20, 1775, col. of a regt. from N. Haven Co., which took a prominent part in the battle of Long Island, and disting. himself at the battles of New York, Harlem, White Plains, and skirmishes with the enemy about N.Y. in 1776, in one of which he received his death-stroke.

Dow, Lorenzo, an eccentric Methodist preacher, b. Coventry Ct., Oct. 16, 1777; d. Georgetown, D.C., Feb. 2, 1834. Adopting the doctrines of the Methodists in the spring of 1796, against the wishes of his family became an itinerant preacher. His youth and eccentricity long prevented his recognition by the Methodist conference; but he finally received a regular license to preach, and, in spite of contumely and rebuffs and hardships of all kinds, persevered for nearly 40 years, with enthusiasm, and often with astonishing effect. He travelled over Eng. and Ireland, and almost every part of the U.S., and is said to have preached to more persons than any other man of his time. His wife Peggy, to whom he was m. in 1804, accomp. him in all his peregrinations. Dow's eccentricity of manner and dress long excited a prejudice against him; and in many parts of the country he was familiarly known as "Crazy Dow." His journal and miscellaneous writings was pub. in N.Y., 1836, 8vo, ed. by Dr. Dowling; "Experience and Travels in Europe and America, and Polemical Writings," Cincin., 1851; "A Short Account of a Long Travel," 8vo, 1823, Phila.

Digitized by Google

Dow, NEAL, reformer, b. Portland, Me., 1803. Of Quaker parentage. He was bred to commercial and manufacturing pursuits. Has twice been mayor of Portland, and served in the state legisl., where he introduced the famous prohibitory "Maine Liquor Law." App. col. 13th Me. vols. Dec. 31, 1861, he joined Gen. Butler's exped. against N. Orleans was app. brig.-gen. Apr. 28, 1862, and com. a brigade in the dept. of the Gulf. Made prisoner near Port Hudson, July, 1863.

Dowler, BENNET, M.D. (U. of Md. 1827), physician and physiologist, b. Ohio Co., Va., April 16, 1797. He practised his profession many years in New Orleans; and in March, 1854, began there the Medical and Surgical Journal. He is noted for his experiments upon the human body soon after death, the results of which were given to the world in a series of essays in 1843–4. These researches of Dr. Dowler have won for him a wide reputation. — Appleton.

Dowling, JOHN, D.D., a successful writer and preacher, b. Sussex, Eng., May 12, 1807. Settled in the U.S. in 1832. Author of "Vindication of the Baptists," "Exposition of the Prophecies," "Defence of the Protestant Scriptures," 1843; "History of Romanism," 8vo, 1845; "Power of Illustration," &c. Edited Conference Hymn-Book, Baptist Noel's work on Baptism, works of Lorenzo Dow, Conyer's Middleton on the Conformity of Popery and Paganism, Memoir of the Missionary Jacob Thomas, and a translation from the French of Dr. Cote's work on Romanism. — Allibone.

Downes, JOHN, commo. U.S.N., b. Canton, Ms., 1784; d. Charlestown, Aug. 11, 1854. He entered the navy June 1, 1802; served in the frigate "New York," in the Tripolitan war, and was specially disting. in the attack on Tripoli; lieut. March 6, 1807. He cruised with Porter in the Pacific, and in com. of the "Essex, junior," a captured whaler of 16 guns, did immense injury to the enemy. Master-com. June 24, 1813. While com. "The Epervier," in Decatur's Mediterranean squad., he captured, June 17, 1815, the Algerine frigate "Nashouda." Capt. March 5, 1817; com. "The Macedonian," in the Pacific in 1819–21; "The Java" in the Medit. in 1828–9, and from 1832 to 1834, the squad. in the Pacific Ocean. Feb. 5, 1832, he punished the natives of Quallah Battoo for outrages upon American seamen. Com. of Charlestown navy-yard in 1837–42 and 1850–2. He com. in the Pacific during the civil wars of the republics in 1847–8, rendering signal service in protecting our commerce. His son JOHN A. DOWNES, commander U.S.N., d. N. Orleans, Sept. 20, 1865. Entered the navy in 1837, and during the Rebellion com. the gunboat "Huron," and the monitor "Nahant."

Downie, GEORGE, a British commo., b. Ross, Ireland; killed in the naval action on Lake Champlain, Sept. 11, 1814. The son of a clergyman. He early entered the navy, was in the battle of Camperdown; served afterward in the W. Indies; after seeing much service, he was made a com., and placed in com. of the fleet on the Lakes of Canada in 1812. He com. the squadron in the battle of Lake Champlain, where he was killed while gallantly fighting the fleet of Macdonough. His vessels were poorly manned, and inferior in weight of metal. — Morgan.

Downing, ANDREW JACKSON, horticulturist, b. Newburgh, N.Y., Oct. 31, 1815. His death was occasioned by his philanthropic efforts to save the passengers of the burning steamer "Henry Clay," on the Hudson, July 28, 1852. Fond of the natural sciences, in his boyhood, he devoted himself assiduously to their study. His natural taste was of the highest order; and his scientific knowledge enabled him to convert all he learned to practical uses, — to enhancing the comforts, and adding to the embellishments, of rural life. The rural embellishments surrounding the Smithsonian Institute were planned by him, and many private residences, as well as public institutions, present evidences of his skill and cultivated taste. Besides his treatises on "Fruit and Fruit-Trees," 1845, "Landscape Gardening," 1841, 8vo, "Architecture of Country Houses," 1850, and "Cottage Residences," 1842, he was a frequent contrib. to the periodical press; and the Horticulturist, conducted by himself, was unequalled in its treatment of the topics coming within its range. In 1849, he wrote "Additional Notes and Hints to Persons about Building in this Country." Editor of Mrs. Loudon's "Gardening for Ladies." A Memoir of him, by Geo. Wm. Curtis, and a "Letter to his Friends," by Miss Bremer, were prefixed to a collection of his contribs. to the Horticulturist, pub. in 1854, entitled "Rural Essays."

Downing, SIR GEORGE, son of Emanuel Downing, a lawyer, who emig. in 1638 to Salem, Ms., b. Dublin, 1624; d. E. Hatley, Cambridgeshire, 1684. H.U. 1642, the first class. His father represented Salem in the Gen. Court in 1638–43. His mother was Lucy, sister of Gov. John Winthrop. Returning to Eng. in 1645, he was a preacher among the Independents; chaplain to Col. Okey's regt. in Cromwell's army, and, in 1653, commissary-gen. and scoutmaster-gen. to the army in Scotland; M.P. for a Scottish borough in 1654 and 1656, and agent in Holland in 1658–60. Turning royalist, he was knighted by Charles II., May 21, 1660; became, at the restoration, M.P. for Morpeth in 1661, and was again made envoy-extr. to Holland. Here he caused the arrest of Cols. Okey and Barksted, and Miles Corbet, 3 of the judges of Charles I., who were sent to Eng., and executed: for this act, he was reprobated by all honorable men. Through his principal agency, the New Netherlands were wrested from the Dutch, and annexed to the English possessions as New York. He was afterward sec. of the treas. and a commissioner of the customs. He was created a baronet, July 1, 1663. Sent in 1671 on a mission to Holland, he returned before completing his errand to the satisfaction of the king, and was imprisoned in the Tower, but was again received into favor. Gov. Bradstreet was his bro.-in-law. Downing St., London, perpetuates his name. He was a man of ability, and natural fitness for politics. Author of Political Tracts, 1664–72. His grandson, Sir George, founded Downing Coll., Cambridge, Eng., in 1717; d. 1747.

Digitized by Google

Doyle, Sir John, a British gen., b. Dublin, 1756; d. Aug. 8, 1834. Trin. Coll., Dublin. Lieut. of light inf. at Boston in 1775; adj. in the battle of Brooklyn, L.I., and Germantown; capt. of the "Volunteers of Ireland;" then maj. of brigade at the capture of Charleston, the battles of Camden and Hobkirk's Hill. At the head of a corps of light cavalry, Maj. Doyle operated against Gen. Marion in the spring of 1781, and destroyed his camp at Snow Island, but was pursued by Marion, and escaped with the loss of his baggage. During the wars of the French revol., he served in Holland, 1794, in Ireland as sec. of war, and in Egypt under Gen. Abercrombie, where he was highly disting. He was made a bart. in 1805; full gen. in 1819. — Rose.

Drake, Benjamin, author and journalist, b. Mason Co., Ky., Nov. 28, 1794; d. Cincinnati, April 1, 1841. Many years editor of the Cincinnati Chronicle, of extensive circulation. Author of "Tales from the Queen City," 1838; "Life of Tecumseh," 1841; "Cincinnati in 1826," by B. Drake and E. D. Mansfield, 1827; "Life and Adventures of Black Hawk," 1838; "Life of Gen. Harrison," 1840, and "The Western Agriculturist."

Drake, Charles D., jurist and politician, b. Cincinnati, April 11, 1811. He received an academical education. Was a midshipman in the navy from 1827 to 1830, but resigned, and was adm. to the bar of Hamilton Co., O., in May, 1833. He was a frequent contrib. of prose and verse to the Cincinnati journals. Removed to St. Louis in 1834, and rapidly became prominent. In 1860, he entered the Mo. legisl., and has taken a prominent part in the political movements of the day, having been a strong advocate of emancipation in Mo. Member of the State Convention of 1863; member and vice-pres., and a leading spirit, of that which formed the present constitution of Mo. in 1865; U.S. senator from 1867 to 1871; app. chief-justice U. S. Court of Claims, Jan. 1871. He has pub. "Law of Attachments," 1854; Life of his father, Dr. Daniel Drake, 1871.

Drake, Daniel, M.D. (U. of Pa. 1816), physician and author, bro. of Benj., b. Plainfield, N.J., Oct. 20, 1785; d. Cincinnati, Nov. 5, 1852. Isaac, his father, emig. to Mason Co., Ky., in 1788. Daniel began practice in Cincinnati in 1804. In 1817, he was prof. in the Transylv. Med School. In Dec. 1818, he procured from the Ohio legisl. a charter for the med. coll. of O. at Cincinnati, and also established there in 1821 the Commercial Hospital, and in 1827 the Eye Infirmary. In 1823, he again accepted a chair in the Transylv. school, and till his death was, with brief intermissions, connected with medical schools; holding professorships in that, in the Jeff. Med. Coll., Phila., the Cincinnati Med. Coll., the U. of Louisville, and at his death was prof. in the med. coll. of O. He pub. "Diseases of the Mississippi Valley," 2 vols., 1850–4; "An Historical and Scientific Account of Cincinnati and the Miami Country," 1815; "Notices of Cincinnati," 1810 and 1832; "Practical Essays on Med. Education," 1832; "Practical Treatise on Epidemic Cholera," 1832; "The Northern Lakes," 8vo, 1842; besides numerous pamphlets. In 1827–39, he edited the Western Journal of Med. Sciences, and, after its transfer to Louisville as The Western Journal of Med. and Surgery, was one of its editors from 1839 to 1848. A Memoir of him, by E. D. Mansfield, was published in Cincinnati, 1855. — See Memoir in Gross's Amer. Med. Biog. and Life, by Charles D. Drake, 1871.

Drake, Sir Francis, a celebrated navigator, b. in the village of Crowndale, near Tavistock, Eng., ab. 1537; d. in the harbor of Porto Bello, 28 Jan. 1596. Bred a sailor, he accomp. his relative, Capt. John Hawkins, to S. Amer., and was treacherously attacked by the Spaniards at St. Juan de Ulloa. In 1572, he took Nombre de Dios, and returned home with a large amount of treasure. In 1573–5, he did excellent service in suppressing the rebellion in Ireland. Dec. 13, 1577, he com. an exped. to the South Sea: a tempest, encountered immediately after passing the Straits of Magellan, left him, with a single vessel, in a forlorn condition in an unknown sea. He prosecuted his voyage, however; took several valuable prizes, and, to elude pursuit, sought a N. E. passage into the Atlantic; discovered California, and was the first to find gold there, which was reported on his return to Eng. Striking across the Pacific, he arrived at Plymouth 26 Sept. 1580, being the first Englishman who had sailed round the world. Apr. 4, 1581, Queen Elizabeth dined on board his ship, and knighted him. Mayor of Plymouth in 1581; M.P. 1584–5 and 1593. In 1591, he completed the great engineering feat of supplying Plymouth with pure water, which was brought some 20 miles. In 1585, he made another exped. to the W. Indies. Drake's next exploit was in 1587, entering the port of Cadiz in spite of its forts, and burning and destroying the Spanish fleet which Philip II. was preparing for the subjugation of the English heretics. A powerful armada was sent in 1588; but the valor of Drake and his co-adjutors broke its power; and the elements completed its destruction. In 1589, Drake and Norris led an exped. for the restoration of Don Antonio to the crown of Portugal, which failed for want of co-operation on the part of his adherents. In 1595, Drake sailed with Sir John Hawkins on another exped. to S. Amer., which resulted disastrously, both leaders being carried off by diseases incident to the climate. He left no children, and disposed of his property by will, — a fact mentioned for the benefit of those claiming to be descended from one who had no descendants.

Digitized by Google

Drake, JOSEPH RODMAN, poet, b. N. Y., Aug. 7, 1795; d. Sept. 21, 1820. He lost his father in early life, and with 3 sisters struggled with poverty. He studied medicine; and his marriage in 1816, soon after taking his degree, with Sarah, dau. of Henry Eckford, placed him in affluence. He travelled in Europe, and, after his return in 1819, contrib. verses under the signature of "Croaker," to the N. Y. Evening Post. His largest and most imaginative poem is the "Culprit Fay." Though Drake had written from his boyhood, yet the poems which gave him his reputation were all produced in a single season. His health failing, he passed the winter of 1819 in New Orleans. His death called forth a beautiful poetical tribute from his friend Halleck. A selection of his poems, including "The American Flag," was pub. in 1836, by his only child, a dau., who m. Com. DeKay.

Drake, SAMUEL, the pioneer of the drama at the West, b. Eng. 1767; d. near Louisville, Ky., Oct. 17, 1854. He was the father of those well-known performers, Alexander, Samuel, and Julia Drake, and was himself an actor of no ordinary distinction. Made his Amer. debut in 1809, at the Federal-st. Theatre, Boston. JULIA was the mother of Wm. W. Fosdick, the poet, by her first husband, and of Julia Dean, the actress, by her second. Another conspicuous actress of this family is Julia Drake Chapman, dau. of Alexander Drake. The family came to the U.S. about 1800. Its youngest member, James G., is known to the public chiefly as a song-writer. His "Tom Breeze," "Parlez Bas," and other songs, have been widely admired. He resided in Louisville, Ky., where he d. May 13, 1850. — Poets and Poetry of the West.

Drake, SAMUEL GARDNER, historical writer, b. Pittsfield, N.H., Oct. 11, 1798. He received a common school education, and between the ages of 20 and 27 was a district school teacher. Removing to Boston, he established there in 1828 the Antiquarian Bookstore, the first of its class in the U.S. One of the founders of the N.E. Hist. and Genealogical Soc., of which he was pres. in 1858. He began the publication of its quarterly "Register" in 1847, and continued it many years as editor and publisher, contributing many biog. and hist. articles to its pages. He resided in London in 1858–60. He has pub. "Church's Philip's War, with Additions," 12mo, 1825; "Sketches of the Hist. of Northwood, N.H., for Colls. H. Soc.," 1832; "Indian Biography," 12mo, 1832; "Book of the Indians," 8vo (11th ed. 1851), 1833; "Old Indian Chronicle," 18mo, 1836; "Indian Captivities," 12mo, 1839; "Genealogical and Biographical Acct. of the Fam. of Drake," 12mo, 1845; "Review of Savage's ed. Winthrop's Journal," 8vo, 1854; "Hist. and Antiqs., Boston," roy. 8vo, 1856; "Result of Researches among the Brit. Archives," 4to, 1860; "Memoir of Sir Walt. Raleigh," 4to, 1862; "Introd. and Notes to Mather's Indian War of 1675–6," 1862; "Introd. and Notes to Mather's Relation," 4to, 1864; "Introd. and Notes to Hubbard's Indian Wars," 2 vols., 4to, 1865; "Introd. and Notes to Mather's Wonders Invis. World, and Calef's More Wonders," 3 vols., 4to, 1866; "The Old Indian Chronicle," 4to 1867; "Annals of Witchcraft in the U.S.," 4to, 1869; "History of the Five Years' French and Ind. War," 4to, 1870, &c. He contrib. the article "Massachusetts," to the Encyclop. Britannica. Died Boston, June 14, 1875.

Draper, JOHN WILLIAM, M.D., LL.D., chemist and physiologist, b. Liverpool, Eng., May 5, 1811. He was educated at the U. of London. He emigrated to Amer. in 1833, continuing his chemical and medical studies at the U. of Pa., where he took the degree of M.D. in 1836. Prof. of chemistry, nat. philos., and physiology, in Hamp Sid. Coll., Va., in 1836–9. Dr. Draper next filled the chair of chemistry and nat. history in the academic dept. of the U. of N.Y., where he also delivered lectures upon physiology. In 1841, he was app. prof. of chemistry in the University Med. Coll., which he had aided in establishing; and, in 1850, physiology was added to the chair of chemistry. He has also acted as the medical faculty's sec., and, since 1850, as their presiding officer. He took charge, in 1854, of the chair of analytical and practical chemistry of the U. of N.Y. City. He has devoted much attention to the study of the action of light, and was the inventor of the application of the daguerrotype process to the taking of portraits. He has written much, and with high reputation. Between 1838 and 1857, he furnished to the Edinb. Philos. Journal ab. 40 treatises, besides contrib. to other scientific journals. Author of a "Treatise on the Organization of Plants," 4to, 1844; a popular "Text-book on Chemistry," 1846; and another on "Natural Philosophy," 1847; a "History of the Intellectual Development of Europe;" "Thoughts on the Future Civil Policy of Amer.;" "Hist. of the Amer. Civil War," 3 vols., 1867–8, and "Memoirs on the Chemical Action of Light." His most elaborate work is a treatise on "Human Physiology, Statical and Dynamical," 1856.

Draper, LYMAN C., historical writer, b. near Buffalo, Sept. 4, 1815. He has since 1833 been engaged in making colls. of Western history and biog., and has edited 4 vols. Wis. Hist. Soc. Colls. Pres. of that body. Author of "Madison, the Capital of Wis., its Growth," &c., 1857.

Draper, SIMEON, politician of N.Y., b. 1804; d. Whitestone, L.I., Nov. 6, 1866. He was a prominent merchant of N.Y., but did not succeed, and became an auctioneer. Active in politics, he was long the friend of W. H. Seward; was several times a member of the Whig State Central Committee; in 1864, chairman of the Union State Central Committee; was many years an administrator of the public charities; provost-marshal in 1862, and collector of the port of N.Y. in 1864. He was an able and influential man, of generous impulses and strict integrity.

Drayton, JOHN, gov. of S.C. 1800–2, and 1808–10. Dist. judge of the U.S. till his d., at Charleston, Nov. 27, 1822, a. 60. Son of Wm. Henry. He pub. "A View of S.C.," 1802; "Memoirs of the Revol." in that State," 2 vols., 8vo, 1821, and "Letters written during a Tour through the Northern and Eastern States," 8vo, 1794.

Digitized by Google

Drayton, PERCIVAL, capt. U.S.N., b. S.C., Aug. 25, 1812; d. Washington, D.C., Aug. 4, 1865. Son of Hon. Wm. Drayton, M.C. Midshipman, Dec. 1827; lieut. Feb. 28, 1838; was attached to the observatory, Washington, in 1852; command. Sept. 14, 1855; joined the Paraguay exped. in 1858, and from 1860 until the outbreak of civil war, was on ordnance duty at Phila. Though strongly bound by family ties to the seceding States, he remained loyal to the national flag, and, in the exped. to Fort Royal, com. the steamer "Pocahontas;" his brother, Gen. T. F. Drayton, com. at the same time the confed. troops at Hilton Head Island. He was afterward transferred to "The Pawnee," and July 16, 1862, was promoted to capt., and ordered to the new Ericsson iron-battery "Passaic." He was in the bombardment of Fort McAllister; in the attack on Sumter by Dupont; fleet capt. of the W. Gulf squad., under Farragut, and was in "The Hartford" at the fight with and capture of the rebel fleet in Mobile Bay, Aug. 5, 1864. He was particularly disting. as flag-officer. App. chief of the bureau of navigation, Apr. 28, 1865.

Drayton, WILLIAM, LL.D., judge, b. S.C., 1733; d. June, 1790. Educated at the Middle Temple, Lond., where he studied law 4 years; returned to Amer. in 1754, and in 1768 was app. chief-justice of the Province of E. Fla. During the Revol. war, he was suspended from office, then reinstated, and with his family passed some time in Eng. After the peace, he was successively judge of the Admiralty Court of S.C., assoc. justice of the State, Mar. to Oct. 1789, and a judge under the U.S. Govt., app. Oct. 1789.

Drayton, WILLIAM, soldier and statesman, b. St. Augustine, Fla., Dec. 30, 1776; d. Phila., May 24, 1846. Educated in Eng.; adm. to the bar in 1797; some time assist. clerk in a Court of Sessions in S.C., and, though a Federalist, was app. lieut.-col. 10th U.S. Inf., Mar. 12, 1812; col. 18th, July 6, 1812; brig. gen. Aug. 1, 1814; M.C. 1825–33. In 1830, he was a leader of the Union party in opposition to that of nullification. Removing to Phila., he succeeded Biddle as pres. of the U.S. Bank in 1839, and aided Gens. Scott and Macomb in preparing a system of inf. tactics. Recorder of Charleston in 1819.

Drayton, WILLIAM HENRY, statesman and political writer, b. on Ashley River, S.C., Sept. 1742; d. Phila., Sept. 3, 1779. A nephew of Gov. Bull. Educated at Westminster and Oxford, between 1753 and 1764, when he returned to Carolina. In 1769, an article under the signature of "Freeman" involved him in a political controversy with Gadsden and John Mackenzie. In 1771, after revisiting Eng., he was app. privy councillor for the Province of S.C., but, as the Revol. crisis approached, he espoused the popular cause, and protested against the proceedings of his colleagues. In 1774, he wrote a pamphlet under the signature of "Freeman," addressed to the American Congress, in which he stated the grievances of America, and drew up a bill of rights. It substantially marked out the line of conduct adopted by Congress, then in session. He was app. a judge in 1774. Suspended from his offices under the crown, he was made a member of the popular committee of safety. On the formation of a popular constitution, he was reinstated in the corresponding offices of the State, and, in 1776, was advanced to the rank of chief-justice. He pub. his charge to the grand jury in Apr. 1776, which breathes all the spirit and energy of the mind which knows the value of freedom, and is determined to support it. Member of the Provincial Congress in 1775, of which he became pres. Pres. of S.C. in 1777; member of the Cont. Congress in 1778–9. He left a manuscript history of the Revol. to the end of the year 1778, which was pub. by his son, Gov. John Drayton, in 1821, 2 vols., 8vo. — Rogers.

Drew, DANIEL, a N.Y. millionnaire, b. Carmel, Putnam Co., N.Y., 1788. At first a farmer-boy, then an employé on a North River steamboat. He became an owner of stock, a builder of magnificent steamboats, a bold stock operator in Wall Street, and finally a millionnaire. In 1866, he gave $250,000 toward founding the Drew Theol. Seminary of Madison, N.J., — a sum increased by successive donations to nearly a million dollars.

Drinker, ANNA, poet, known by the nom de plume, "Edith May," b. Pa. Her contributions to the Home Journal were highly commended by N. P. Willis. She has pub. "Poetical Works," 8vo, 1854; "Tales and Poems for Children," 1855, 12mo. — See Griswold's Female Poets of Amer.

Drown, SOLOMON, M.D., a physician and botanist, b. Providence, R.I., 1753; d. 1834. B.U. 1774. He studied medicine, was a surgeon in the Revol. army, and visited Europe, to perfect his professional education, in 1784. He subsequently practised medicine at Providence, in Ohio, and in Western Pa., but in 1801 settled in Foster, R.I., where he passed the remainder of his life. In 1811, he was app. prof. of materia medica and botany in Brown U. Member of the Am. Acad. of Arts and Sciences, and of several learned bodies. He pub. "The Farmer's Guide," 1825; also some occasional addresses.

Dreuillettes, GABRIEL, Jesuit missionary, b. France, 1593; d. Quebec, 8 Apr. 1681. He was sent to Canada in 1643; became a missionary to the wandering Algonquins, and after losing his sight, which was miraculously restored, continued his labors among them near 40 years. He evangelized the Montagnasis, Algonquins, Crees, Papanachois, and Abnakis on the St. Lawrence and Kennebec, and for several years after 1666, labored among the Ottawas and Chippewas at Sault. Ste. Marie. — Shea's Hist. of Missions, &c.

Drummond, SIR GORDON, a British gen. b. Quebec, 1771; d. London, Oct. 10, 1854. Son of Colin, paymaster to the troops in L. Canada in 1771. Ensign in 1789; became gen. 1825. He served in Holland in 1794–5, in Egypt in 1801; as a staff-officer at Jamaica for some years, and on the staff in Canada in 1808–11; lieut.-gen. 1811. Sept. 1813, he went to Canada as second in com. to Sir George Prevost. He planned the capture of Fort Niagara, Dec. 19, 1813; took the villages of Black Rock and Buffalo, Dec. 31, 1813; captured and destroyed the barracks, works, and stores at Oswego, in May, 1814, and com. at the obstinately-contested battle of Lundy's Lane, July 25, 1814, and was severely wounded. Aug. 15, he attacked Fort Erie, and was repulsed with heavy loss. He succeeded Prevost in the com. in 1814, and in the administration of the govt., but returned to Eng. in June, 1816. In 1817, he received the grand cross of the Bath.

Digitized by Google

Duane, JAMES, statesman, b. N.Y. City, Feb. 6, 1733; d. Duanesburg, N.Y., Feb. 1, 1797. From Anthony, his father, he acquired a large estate in Duanesburg, N.Y., which he began to settle in 1765. Oct. 21, 1759, he m. a dau. of Col. Robert Livingston. Adopting the profession of the law, he became a member of the Revol. committees of N.Y.; of the Old Cong., 1774–83; of N.Y. Prov. Cong., Apr. 1775, and June, 1776–Apr. 1777; on com. to draft State const.; of Com. of Safety, 1776–7; returned to N.Y. City on its evac. in 1783; was its first mayor in 1784–9; member of State sen., 1782–5, 1788–90, and of council; of conv. to adopt Fed. Const., 1788; U.S. Dist. judge, 1789–94. He opposed in Cong. the non-importation agreement, and took prom. part in controversy with Vt. relative to N.H. grants.

Duane, COL. WILLIAM, editor and politician, b. near Lake Champlain, N.Y., 1760; d. Phila., Nov. 24, 1835. At the age of 11, he was taken by his mother, then a widow and a Roman Catholic, to Ireland, and liberally educated. He became a printer. Went to India in 1784, rapidly amassed property, and became editor of the World. Having opposed the local govt., he was seized, and sent to Eng., and his wealth confiscated. He sought redress in vain, and soon became editor of the General Advertiser, siding in politics with Horne Tooke and other liberals. In 1795, he came to Phila., and edited the Aurora, which, by able management, became the most influential organ of the Democ. party. Jefferson attributed his election to the presidency to its vigorous support, and app. him lieut.-col. of rifles, July 8, 1808; adj.-gen., rank of col., March, 1813 to June, 1815. On the removal of the seat of govt., the influence of the Aurora declined. He withdrew from it in 1822, and travelled through the S. Amer. republics; pub. an account of his travels on his return, entitled "A Visit to Columbia, 1822–3," Phila., 1826. Prothonotary of the Supreme Court of Pa., from 1826 till his death. He pub. "Military Dictionary," 1810; "Hand-Book for Riflemen," 1813; "Mississippi Question," 8vo, Phila., 1803; "An Epitome of the Arts and Sciences," 1811; "Hand-Book for Infantry," 1813; "Amer. Military Library," 2 vols., 1819.

Duane, WILLIAM, b. Phila., Feb. 7, 1808. Son of Wm. J. Editor of "Christopher Marshall's Diary," 1839, and new enlarged ed., 1849. Author of "View of the Relation of Landlord and Tenant in Penn.," 8vo, 1844; "Law of Roads, Highways, Bridges, and Ferries in Pa.," 12mo, 1848, "Coffee, Tea and Chocolate," transl. from the French, 12mo, 1846; "Canada and the Continental Congress," 8vo, 1850. — Allibone.

Duane, WILLIAM JOHN, lawyer. Son of Col. Wm., b. Clonmel, Ireland, 1780; d. Phila., Sept. 27, 1865. Originally a printer; afterward a paper-dealer; adm. to the bar in 1815; often represented Phila. in the State legisl. He was a disting. lawyer; took a deep interest in schools, and was a trustee, and subsequently a director, in Girard Coll. Assisted his father as editor of the Aurora. Sec. of the U.S. treasury in 1833; was removed by Jackson, Sept. 23, 1833, for declining to order the removal of the deposits from the U.S. Bank. Author of "The Law of Nations Investigated," &c., 8vo, 1809; "Letters on Internal Improvements," 8vo, 1811; "Narrative and Correspondence concerning the Removal of the Deposits," 8vo, 1838.

Dubois, JOHN, D.D., R.C. bishop of N.Y., b. Paris, 1764; d. N.Y., Dec. 20, 1842. In 1791, the revolution drove him to the U.S. He officiated in Va. and Md.; took charge of the mission at Frederick, Md., and in 1808, having become a member of the society of St. Sulpice, settled at Emmettsburg, and took an active part in the establishment of St. Mary's Coll. at Baltimore. Oct. 29, 1826, he was elevated to the Episcopacy.

Dubouchet (dü-boo'-shā'), FLORIMOND LANGLOIS, marquis, a French gen., b. Clermont, Oct. 20, 1752; d. Paris, Oct. 1826. Having entered the army at the age of 15, and disting. himself in Corsica in 1769, he in 1776 lent his services to the Americans, and in the following year was promoted to the rank of major on the field of battle of Saratoga. In 1780, he joined Rochambeau, and was present at the surrender of both Burgoyne and Cornwallis. At the conclusion of peace, he returned to France with the decoration of the Cincinnati, and received the cross of St. Louis. An emigrant at the epoch of the French revol., he re-entered France in 1803; com. at Ypres in 1809, and Breda in 1810. At the restoration, the title of marquis was made hereditary in his family; and in Oct., 1816, he was made lieut.-gen., but occupied himself with literary labors until his death. — Biog. Univ. Suppt.

Duché (du-shā'), JACOB, D.D., an eloquent Prot.-Ep. clergyman, b. Phila., 1739; d. there Jan. 3, 1798. U. of Pa. 1757. Son of a Huguenot, who came to America with Wm. Penn. Licensed in 1759, by the bishop of Lond., as assist. minister of Christ Church, Phila. and in 1775 succeeded Dr. Peters as its rector. Marrying a sister of his classmate, Francis Hopkinson, he, at the beginning of the Revol., espoused the cause of the Colonies, and was highly esteemed by the patriots. At the assembling of the First Congress, Sept. 7, 1774, Duché was invited to make the opening prayer. "For his excellent prayer, so well adapted to the present occasion," Congress gave him a vote of thanks. July 9, 1776, he was chosen chaplain to Congress, and appropriated his salary to the relief of the families of Pennsylvanians slain in battle; but he resigned in Oct. When the British took possession of Phila., alarmed at the gloomy aspect of affairs, Duché forsook the patriot cause, and in a letter to Washington (Oct. 1777) urged him to pursue the same course. Washington transmitted the letter to Congress; and Duché fled to Eng., where he became chaplain in the Lambeth Orphan Asylum, and a popular preacher. His estate was confiscated, and he himself banished as a traitor to his country. He returned to Phila. in 1790. He was a highly polished writer, and had a fine poetical taste. In 1771, he pub. the "Letters of Tamoc Caspipina," an acrostic on his designation as the assist. minister of Christ Church and St. Peter's in Phila. in N.A. "Sermons," 8vo, 1781. — Duyckinck.

Digitized by Google

Du Coudray (du koo'-drā), PHIL. CHAS. JEAN BAPT. TRONSON, a French art. officer, b. Rheims, Sept. 8, 1738; d. Sept. 11, 1777. Educated in the corps of miners, he evinced superior talents at an early age; was promoted over the heads of 180 senior officers for services in Corsica; and was adj.-gen. of art., and one of the best engineers in France, when, in 1776, he offered his services to Deane and Franklin, who agreed that he should com. the Amer. art., with the rank and pay of maj.-gen. The dissatisfaction of Knox and other valuable officers of that arm prevented this arrangement from being carried out. Aug. 11, 1777, he was app. insp.-gen., with rank of maj.-gen., and placed in superintendence of the works on the Delaware. While hastening as a vol. to the battle of Brandywine, his horse, becoming restive while on board a ferry-boat crossing the Schuylkill, plunged with him into the river, and he was drowned.

Ducreux (dü'-kruh'), FRANÇOIS, a French historian, b. Saintes, 1596; d. 1666. Author of Historia Canadensis, 1664.

Dudley, BENJAMIN WINSLOW, M.D., LL.D., surgeon, b. Spottsylv. Co., Va., Apr. 12, 1785; d. Lexington, Ky., 20 Jan. 1870. He studied at Transylv. U., and took his medical degree at the U. of Pa. in 1806. In 1810, he went to Europe, where he was the pupil of Sir Astley Cooper, Cline, and Abernethy of Lond., and Larrey, Dubois, and Boyer in Paris till 1814, returning home with the reputation of a most skilful operator. He established himself in Lexington, Ky., in July, 1814, remaining there in successful practice until 1854, achieving the reputation of being the ablest surgeon west of the Alleghanies. He pub. several medical essays, and, on the organization of the medical school of Transylv. U., was made its prof. of surgery.

Dudley, CHARLES EDWARD, senator, b. Johnson Hall, Staffordshire, Eng., May 23, 1780; d. Albany, Jan. 23, 1841. Charles, his father, coll. of the customs at Newport, and a loyalist, d. Lond. in 1790. The son came with his mother to Newport, R.I., in 1794. Entering into trade there, he went to the E. Indies as supercargo, subsequently removed to N.Y., where, in July, 1809, he m. Blandina, dau. of Rutgers Bleecker, and in 1811 removed to Albany. State senator in 1820–5, mayor of Albany in 1821 and 1828, and U.S. senator in 1829–33. Mr. Dudley was particularly fond of astronomical science; and in 1856 his widow contrib. $70,000 towards the erection and endowment of the Dudley Observatory at Albany. At the time of her death in Jan. 1863, she had contrib. to it, in all, over $100,000.

Dudley, DEAN, b. Kingfield, Me., May 23, 1823. Educated for the law. Printer and publisher of Boston. Author of "Dudley Genealogy," 8vo, 1848; "Pictures of Life in Eng. and America," 8vo, 1851; "History of the First Council of Nice;" "Social and Polit. Aspects of England and the Continent."

Dudley, EDWARD B., gov. of N.C. (1837–41); d. Wilmington, N.C., Oct. 30, 1855, a. 64. Entering the legisl. of N.C. in 1816, he was M. C. 1829–31.

Dudley, JOSEPH, gov. of Ms., b. Roxbury, Sep. 23, 1647; d. there Apr. 2, 1720. H. U. 1665. Son of Gov. Thomas. He studied theology, but, preferring a political career, represented his native town in 1673–5; was assist. 1676–85; from 1677 to 1681 was one of the commissioners for the United Colonies; was present at the battle with the Narragansetts in 1675, and was one of the commissioners who dictated the terms of a treaty with that powerful tribe. He was agent for the colony in Eng. in 1682–3; but, unable to obtain a confirmation of the old charter, he served himself, and became a prominent candidate for the chief-magistracy. Commissioned by James II. pres. of New Eng., Sept. 27, 1685; in 1687 was app. chief-justice of the Superior Court, and was arrested as one of the friends of Andros, with whom he was sent to England. He was received with favor, and was made chief-justice of N.Y., 1690. He was again in Eng. in 1693, and during 8 years held the office of dep. gov. of the Isle of Wight, being in 1701 elected to parliament from Newtown. From 1702 to 1715, he was capt.-gen. and gov.-in-chief of Ms. Bay. He then retired to his rural home in Roxbury. He carried the doctrine of submission to royal and ministerial authority to a dangerous extreme. Dudley was a "philosopher and a scholar, a divine and a lawyer, all combined." — N. E. H. and Gen. Reg., x., 336.

Dudley, PAUL, F.R.S., jurist, b. Sept. 3, 1675; d. Jan. 25, 1751. H. U. 1690. Son of Gov. Joseph. He studied law at the Temple, London. Returned in 1702 with a commission from Queen Anne as atty.-gen. of the Province, which he held till his promotion to the bench in 1718; becoming chief-justice in 1745. He rep. Roxbury some years in the legisl., and in 1739 was chosen speaker, but was negatived. He was a learned naturalist, a member of the Roy. Soc. Lond. He left a bequest to Harv. Coll. for the purpose of establishing a yearly lecture to be delivered at that institution in defence of Christianity, called from him the Dudleian lecture. He pub. several essays on the Natural History of Amer., particularly of N. Eng., in the "Transactions" of the Roy. Soc., and a work against the Church of Rome.

Dudley, THOMAS, gov. of Ms. in 1634, '40, '45, and '50, b. Northampton, Eng., 1576; d. Roxbury, Ms., July 31, 1653. He had been an officer under Elizabeth, in the service of Holland, before joining the Puritans, and afterward retrieved the fortunes of the Earl of Lincoln by the faithful stewardship of his estates. A principal member of the Ms. company which settled Boston and vicinity, he came over in 1630 as dep.-gov. with his son-in-law, Simon Bradstreet, and held that office 12 years. After residing in Cambridge, Ipswich, and Boston, he finally settled in Roxbury, where his estate was long possessed by his descendants. In 1644, he was app. maj.-gen. of the Colony. He was a man of talent and integrity, was bold, outspoken, and energetic.

Digitized by Google

Duer, JOHN, LL.D. (Col. Coll. 1837), jurist, b. Albany, N.Y., Oct. 7, 1782; d. Staten Island, Aug. 8, 1858. Son of Col. Wm. Duer, and grandson of Lord Stirling. After 2 years' service in the army, he practised law at Goshen with Beverly Robinson, with whom, ab. 1818, he removed to N.Y., and acquired reputation as an insurance lawyer. In 1849, he was elected an assoc. justice of the Superior Court, and on the death of Judge Oakley in May, 1857, became chief-justice. In 1825, he was app. one of the commissioners to revise the statute law of the State. He was a delegate to the State Const. Conv. in 1821. In 1845, he pub. a "Lecture on the Law of Representations in Marine Insurance," and in 1845–6 a treatise on "The Law and Practice of Marine Insurance." In 1848, he delivered a discourse on Chancellor Kent, which was pub., and at the time of his death was editing "Duer's Reports of the Decisions of the Superior Court," the 6th vol. of which he left incomplete.

Duer, COL. WILLIAM, b. Eng., 18 Mar. 1747; d. 7 May, 1799. Son of John, councillor for Antigua. In 1765, he became aide to Lord Clive in India. In 1768, he purchased land in Washington Co., N.Y.; was app. col. of militia, judge of the county courts, member of the Prov. Congress, of the com. of safety, and of the com. to draft the State constitution in the conv. of 1777; delegate to the Cont. Congress, 1777–8; sec. of the Treasury Board until the organization of the dept. in 1789; member of the State legisl. and assist. sec. of the treas. under Hamilton, until 1790. 27 July, 1779, he m. Catharine, dau. of Lord Stirling. He took up his residence in N.Y. City in 1783. — See Knickerbocker Mag., xl., 95–103.

Duer, WILLIAM ALEX., jurist and man of letters. Son of Col. Wm., b. Rhinebeck, N.Y., Sept. 8, 1780; d. N.Y., May 30, 1858. He studied law with Duponceau in Phila., and Nat. Pendleton in New York. During the quasi war with France of 1798, he obtained the app. of midshipman in the navy, and served under Decatur; adm. to the bar in 1802, he engaged in business with Edward Livingston, upon whose removal to N. Orleans, he formed a professional partnership with his bro.-in-law, Beverly Robinson. He contrib. to a partisan weekly paper, the Corrector, conducted by Dr. Peter Irving, in support of Burr. Mr. Duer shortly after joined Livingston at N. Orleans, studied the Spanish civil law, was successful, but was induced by the climate, and his marriage with the dau. of Wm. Denning of N.Y., to resume his practice in the latter city. Here he was a contrib. of literary articles to the Morning Chronicle. He next opened an office in his native town, Rhinebeck, and in 1814 was elected to the State Assembly. Continuing in the legisl. till 1817, he was a prominent promoter of the canal legislation; judge of the Supreme Court from 1822 to 1829; pres. of Col. Coll. from 1829 to 1842, when ill health caused his retirement. He delivered to the seniors a course of lectures on the constitutional jurisprudence of the U.S., pub. in 1856. He delivered from the portico of the City Hall a eulogy upon President Monroe. After his retirement, he resided at Morristown, N.J. He pub. in the Colls. of the N.J. Hist. Society a life of his maternal grandfather, Lord Stirling. He delivered in 1847 an address before the literary societies of Col. Coll., and in 1848 an hist. address before the St. Nicholas Society, giving early reminiscences of New York, both of which have been pub. — Duyckinck.

Duff, MARY ANN, actress, b. Dublin; d. N. Y. City, Sept. 5, 1857, a. 62. She was a Miss Dyke, whose sister was the first wife of the poet Moore. She m. John Duff, whose forte was genteel and sprightly comedy, and who was at one time manager of the Federal-street Theatre, Boston. He d. in Phila., April, 1831, a. 44. After playing in Dublin, they came to this country in 1810, opened in Boston in Nov., and became favorites throughout the country. She was a beautiful woman, and a celebrated tragedian. She went to Lond. in 1828, and Mar. 3, played at Drury Lane, Isabella, in "The Fatal Marriage."

Duffield, GEORGE, D.D. (Y.C. 1785), clergyman, b. Phila., 7 Oct. 1732; d. there Feb. 2, 1790. N. J. Coll. 1752. Tutor in N. J. Coll. 1754–6; minister of Carlisle, Pa., from 25 Sept. 1761 to April. 1773, when he became pastor of the Third Presb. Church, Phila. He was distinguished as a scholar and orator, and was, in the Revol. struggle, an early and zealous friend of his country, and a chaplain of the Old Congress. He pub. an account of his missionary tour to the frontiers in 1766, and a thanksgiving sermon for the restoration of peace, Dec. 11, 1783. — Sprague.

Duffield, GEORGE, D.D. (U. of Pa.), b. Strasburg, Pa., July 4, 1794; d. Detroit, June 26, 1868. U. of Pa. 1811. Grandson of the preceding. Licensed to preach by the presbytery of Phila., Apr. 29, 1815; pastor of the church at Carlisle, Pa., from Dec. 1815 to 1834, and of the 5th Presbyterian Church of Phila. in 1835–7. In 1837, he succeeded C. G. Finney at the Broadway Tabernacle. From 1838 until Apr. 27, 1865, pastor of the First Presb. Church of Detroit. He was a ripe scholar. During the war, he went repeatedly to the battle-field as a delegate of the Christian commission, and ministered to the wounded. Author of "Spiritual Life," 8vo, "Dissertations on the Prophecies," "Millenarianism defended," "Fugitive Discourses," "Claims of Episc. Bishops examined," "Obligation and Perpetuity of the Christian Sabbath." Contrib. to the Biblical Repos., Presb. Mag., &c.

Duffield, REV. GEORGE, his son, b. Carlisle, Pa., 1818. Y.C. 1837. Ord. 1840; settled in Blomfield, N.J., then in Brooklyn, N.Y.; in 1852, at the Buttonwood-st. Church,

Digitized by Google

Phila.; and in 1860, at the Presb. Church, Ann Arbor, Mich. He has written many hymns, but will be chiefly remembered for the one "Stand up for Jesus."

Duganne, AUGUSTINE JOSEPH HICKEY, poet and novelist, b. Boston, 1823. He has written many novellettes and romances, "Mysteries of Boston, New York, and Phila.," 8vo, Phila., and a great number of miscellaneous papers under various signatures. His poems are the "Iron Harp," "Parnassus in Pillory," a satire; "The Mission of Intellect," a poem delivered in N.Y. in 1852; "The Gospel of Labor," 1853, and many short pieces pub. in a large illustrated edition in Phila., 1856. He has also written the "Lydian Queen," a tragedy, 1848; a "Comprehensive Summary of General Philosophy," Phila., 1845; and a "Class Book of Governments and Civil Society," N.Y. 1859. At one time, a member of the legisl. of N.Y.

Duggan, PETER PAUL, artist, b. Ireland; d. Paris, Oct. 15, 1861. He came early to this country; developed a taste for his art while quite young, and qualified himself for an art professorship in the N.Y. Free Acad. soon after its opening. He had long been an invalid. Resided some years near Lond., and removed to Paris in May, 1861. Though the crayon was his favorite medium, he occasionally painted a masterly oil head, like that of George L. Duyckinck.

Du Lac, PERRIN, author of "Voyage dans les Deux Louisianes," &c., Paris, 8vo, 1805.

Dulaney, DANIEL, lawyer and statesman, b. Md., July, 1721; d. Balt., Mar. 19, 1797. An eminent lawyer of Annapolis; many years commiss. gen., sec., atty.-gen., and councillor of Md., before the Revol. Though a loyalist, he stood up manfully against the Stamp Act. He was an able writer on the side of govt. Author of "Considerations on the Propriety of imposing Taxes on the British Colonies in N.A. for the Purpose of a Revenue," 1766, Lond., 8vo.

Dulaney, WILLIAM, col. U.S. marines; d. Beltsville, Md., July 4, 1868. App. from Va., lieut. of marines, June 10, 1817; capt. July, 1834; brev. maj. "for meritorious conduct in the Florida war," Mar. 3, 1843; maj. Nov. 17, 1847. Served in the Mexican war; com. the batt. on the fall of Maj. Twiggs; brev. lieut.-col. "for gallantry at Chapultepec, and capture of De Belen Gate and City of Mexico," Sept. 14, 1847; col. marines, Apr. 1862. — Gardner.

Dumas (du-mä'), MATHIEU, count, a French gen., b. Montpelier, 23 Nov. 1753; d. Paris, 16 Oct. 1837. Entering the army in 1773, he served as aide to Rochambeau in Amer. (1780–3); performed missions to Turkey and Holland; was a member of the legisl. assembly in 1791, and the friend of Lafayette; was condemned to death, and fled to Switzerland; entered the military service of Napoleon, and was a gen. at Waterloo; active in the revol. of 1830, and aided Lafayette in placing Louis Philippe on the throne. Besides some military works, he pub. "Memoirs of my own Time," (1773–1826). His memoirs, entitled "Souvenirs," were pub. by his son.

Dummer, JEREMIAH, scholar and political writer, b. Boston, ab. 1679; d. at Plastow Eng., May 19, 1739. H.U. 1699. Son of Jeremiah, and grandson of Richard. On leaving college, he studied theology, and preached a few months, but was not popular. He passed several years at the U. of Utrecht, where he obtained a doctor's degree. Agent of Ms. in Eng., 1710–21. He wrote an admirable defence of the N.E. charters when they were threatened in 1721, the work giving the best specimen of his English style, which is uncommonly elegant and forcible. He also pub. a letter to a noble lord on the exped. to Canada, stating the great efforts made by Ms. for its conquest. While in Eng., he procured 800 volumes as a donation to Yale Coll.

Dummer, WILLIAM, bro. of Jeremiah, gov. Ms.; b. Newbury, 1677; d. Boston, 10 Oct. 1761. While visiting Eng., he was app. lieut.-gov. of Ms. 1716, acting as chief-magistrate in 1723–8, and 1729, and enjoyed in a great degree the confidence of the people. He bequeathed his valuable farm and mansion-house for the endowment of Dummer Acad., Newbury, the first in Ms., opened Feb. 27, 1763. He was a benefactor of H. U., and in 1719, capt. of the Anc. and Hon. Art. comp.

Dumont, EBENEZER, brig.-gen. U.S. vols., b. Vevay, Ind., Nov. 23, 1814. John, his father, was a lawyer, member of the legisl. of Ind. 1822–3. His mother Julia L. (Corey), poetess (b. Waterford, O., Oct. 1794; d. Jan. 2, 1857), pub. "Life-Sketches," N.Y., 1856. She was the earliest female writer of the West, whose works have been preserved. He was adm. to the bar. When the Mex. war began in 1846, as lieut.-col. 4th Ind. vols., disting. himself at the battle of Huamantla; afterward in the State legisl.; was speaker of the house, and many years pres. of the State Bank. In 1861, at the head of the 7th Ind. regt., he served in Western Va., at Laurel Hill, Rich Mountain, and Carrick's Ford. Made brig.-gen. Sept. 3, 1861; and Sept. 12, he was engaged at Cheat Mountain. He com. the 17th brigade of the Army of the Ohio, in Jan. 1862. May 5, 1862, he attacked and routed, at Lebanon, Ky., John Morgan's command. Oct. 1862, he commanded the 12th division of Gen. Buell's army. Res. Feb. 28, 1863. M.C. 1863–7. D. April 16, 1871.

Duncan, JAMES, col. and insp.-gen. U.S. A., b. Cornwall, N.Y., Sept. 1810; d. Mobile, July 3, 1849. West Point, 1834. He served in the Florida war; was wounded at the Onithladoche, Feb. 29, 1836; capt. 6 April, 1846. As an officer of light art., he did good service in the Mexican war. Brev. maj. for Palo Alto, May 8, 1846; brev. lieut.-col. for Resaca de la Palma, May 9, 1846; brev. col. for Monterey, Sept. 23, 1846; disting. also at the storm. of Molino del Rey, Chapultepec, and capture of city of Mexico; insp.-gen. Jan. 26, 1849.

Duncan, JOHN M., traveller, d. Glasgow, Oct. 3, 1825, a. 31. Author of "Travels in the U.S. and Canada, in 1818–19," 2 vols., 12mo, 1823; "Sabbath among the Tuscaroras."

Duncan, JOHNSON K., brig.-gen. C.S.A., b. Pa., 1826; d. Knoxville, Jan. 1863. West Point, 1849. Entering the 3d U. S. Art., he resigned Jan. 31, 1855; was an engineer at

Digitized by Google

New Orleans, and entered the Confed. service as col.; was app. brig.-gen. from La., and com. Forts Jackson and St. Philip at the time of the bombardment by Farragut, becoming a prisoner of war on their surrender, Apr. 25, 1862.

Duncan, JOSEPH, gov. of Ill. (1834–8), b. Ky., ab. 1790; d. Jacksonville, Ill., Jan. 15, 1844. Self educated. He was an ensign at the brilliant defence of Fort Stephenson under Col. Croghan, for which he received from Congress the testimonial of a sword, Feb. 13, 1835. Fixing his residence in Ill., he was soon elected maj.-gen. of militia, then State senator, where, in the session of 1824–5, he originated the law which first established common schools in the State; M.C. 1827–35. He is identified with the early introduction of internal improvements into the State. — Gardner.

Duncan, SILAS E., capt. U.S.N., b. N.J.; d. White Sulph. Springs, Va., Sept. 14, 1834. Midshipman, Nov. 15, 1809; acting lieut. and distinguished in Macdonough's victory on Lake Champlain, Sept. 6, 1814; lieut. Dec. 9, 1814; commander Mar. 1, 1829.

Duncan, WILLIAM CECIL, D.D. (Col. Coll. 1857), Baptist clergyman and author, b. N.Y. City, Jan. 24, 1824; d. N. Orleans, La., May 1, 1864. Col. Coll. 1843, Ham. Theol. Sem. Ord. 1848. He in 1847 established at N. Orleans the South-western Baptist Chronicle. He was 3 years prof. of Greek and Latin in the U. of La.; then became pastor of the Coliseum-place Baptist Church in N.O., but, in the summer of 1861, was, for his loyalty to the U.S. Govt., compelled to come North. After the capture of N. Orleans by the Union forces, he returned. Author of "A Life of John the Baptist," N. Y., 1853; "The Pulpit Gift-Book," N.Y., 1855; "History of the Baptists for the First Two Centuries of the Christian Era," 1857, and "The Tears of Jesus." — Appleton.

Dundas, FRANCIS, a British gen., d. Jan. 1824. Ensign 1st Guards, Apr. 1775; capt. Jan. 1778; lieut.-col. 1780; gen. 1812. He was in the battles of Brandywine, Germantown, reduction of the forts on the Delaware, Monmouth; joined Lord Conwallis in 1780; com. his advanced guard at Guilford and Yorktown, and saw considerable service in the light company 2d batt. of Guards. He served at Martinique, 1794; gov. of the Cape of Good Hope, 1796–1803. — Philipart.

Dundas, THOMAS, maj.-gen. of Fingask, b. 1730; d. June 3, 1794. M.P. for Orkney, 1770–80 and 1784–90. Lieut.-col. 80th in Arnold's Va. expedition, Dec. 1780, and under Cornwallis at Yorktown. — Ross's Cornwallis.

Dunglison, ROBLEY, M.D., LL.D. (Y.C. 1825), physician and medical writer, b. Keswick, Eng., 4 Jan. 1798; d. Phil., Apr. 1, 1869. M.D. London, 1819, and at the U. of Erlangen, 1823. He commenced practice in Lond., but, after a few years, came to the U.S., and from 1824 to 1833 was prof. of medicine in the U. of Va. He filled the chair of therapeutics and materia medica in 1833–6, in the U. of Md.; and, from 1836 to 1868, was prof. of the institutes of medicine and medical jurisprudence in Jeff. Med. Coll., Phila. He pub. nearly 20 vols.; among these are "Principles of Human Physiology," 2 vols., 8vo, 1832; "New Dictionary of Medical Science and Literature," 2 vols., 8vo, 1833; "General Therapeutics and Materia Medica," 8vo, 1836; "New Remedies," 1839, and "Human Health," 1844, and a large dictionary for the blind; "Diseases of the Stomach and Bowels of Children," Lond., 8vo, 1824; "Introd. to Grecian and Roman Geography," 8vo, 1829; "The Medical Student," 8vo, 1837, 2d ed., 1844; "Discourse," commemorative of P. S. Duponceau, 8vo, 1844; "Recollections of Europe in 1854, 8vo; the "Va. Literary Museum," 8vo, 1830. He was vice-pres. of an institution for the blind, and of the Amer. Philos. Soc., and was a member of many literary and scientific societies. He edited "Magendie's Formulary," the "Cyclopædia of Practical Medicine," "Roget's Physiology," "Traill's Med. Jurisp.," and several smaller works. Before leaving Eng., he had edited the Lond. Med. Repos., and the Med. Intelligencer.

Dunklin, DANIEL, gov. of Mo., 1832–6; d. Jeff. Co., Mo., Aug. 25, 1844, a. 54.

Dunlap, ANDREW of Ms. (1794–1835), author of "Admiralty Practice," Phila., 8vo, 1836, 2d ed., N.Y., 1850.

Dunlap, JOHN, printer, and Revol. patriot, b. Strabane, Ireland, 1747; d. Phila., Nov. 27, 1812. At the age of 8 or 9, he came to live with his uncle Wm., a printer and publisher of Phila., who, under Franklin, was postmaster at Lancaster, Pa. At 18, he took his uncle's business, and in Nov. 1771, began the Pa. Packet, becoming one of the most successful printers and editors of the country. While the British held Phila., from Sept. 1777, to July, 1778, his newspaper, devoted to the patriot cause, was pub. at Lancaster: from 1784, it was a daily, the first in the U.S. It now bears the name of The North American and U.S. Gazette. As printer to Congress, he first issued the "Declaration of Independence." An officer of the first troop of Phila. cav., the body-guard of Washington at Trenton and Princeton. In 1780, he subscribed £4,000 to supply provisions to the army. By his talents and industry, he acquired a large fortune. — Simpson.

Dunlap, ROBERT P., lawyer and politician, b. Me., 1789; d. Brunswick, Me., Oct. 20, 1859. Bowd. Coll. 1815. Adm. to the bar in 1818; member of the State legisl. 1821–2; State senator, 1823; pres. State senate, 1827–9 and 1831–3; member executive council, 1833; gov. 1834–8; M.C. 1843–7, afterward pres. of the Board of Overseers of Bowd. Coll.; coll. of customs, Portland, 1848–9; postmaster of Brunswick, 1853–7.

Dunlap, S. F., son of Andrew, b. Boston, 1825. Author of "The Origin of Ancient Names," Camb., 8vo, 1856; repr. from the Chris. Examiner, July, 1856; "Vestiges of the Spirit History of Man," N.Y., 8vo, 1858; edited, with Notes, "Dunlap's Admiralty Practice." — Allibone.

Dunlap, WILLIAM, painter and author, b. Perth Amboy, N.J., Feb. 19, 1766; d. N.Y. City, Sept. 28, 1839. His father, an Irish officer, was wounded at Quebec, and, being a loyalist, went to N.Y. in 1777, where Wm. commenced painting, and in the summer of 1783 executed a likeness of Washington.

Digitized by Google

In 1784, he went to Eng., where he received instruction from West. He made a pedestrian tour to Oxford with Dr. S. L. Mitchell in 1786, then returned to New York, and married. Sept. 7, 1789, "The Father," a 5-act comedy, and the best of his pieces, was brought out. He appeared once upon the stage himself; in 1796 was associated with Hallam and Hodgkinson in the management of the John-st. Theatre, and in Jan. 1798, took the Park Theatre, where, in March, his tragedy of "André," in blank verse, was produced with success. In 1805, he rented the N.Y. Theatre, and in a short time became bankrupt. From 1814 to 1816, he was assist. paym.-gen. of the N.Y. militia. After many vicissitudes, he began, in 1816, a series of pictures, which placed him in the first rank of American artists. Among them are "Christ Rejected," "Bearing of the Cross," "Death on the Pale Horse," and "Calvary," which he considered the best and most finished of his compositions. He pub. memoirs of Cooke the tragedian in 1813, and of Charles Brockden Brown; "History of the American Theatre," 8vo, 1833; "The Arts of Design in America," 1834; Hist. of the "New Netherlands," 2 vols., 8vo, 1840; "A History of N.Y. for Schools," 1837; and "Thirty Years Ago, or the Memoirs of a Water-Drinker," 1836. He was vice-pres., and a founder of the "National Acad. of Design."

Dunmore, JOHN MURRAY, 4th Earl, gov. of Va., b. 1732; d. Ramsgate, Eng., May, 1809. Descended in the female line from the house of Stuart, succeeded to the peerage in 1756. Made gov. of N.Y. in Jan. 1770, and of Va. in July, 1771. He arrived at Williamsburg early in 1772, and on occasion of the Va. assembly passing the resolution recommending the committee of corresp., in March, 1773, immediately dissolved that body. Its act in the next session, of May, 1774, in setting apart the 1st of June, the day for closing the port of Boston, as a day of fasting, humiliation, and prayer, caused it to be again forthwith dissolved. On the 20th of April, he caused the removal of the powder from the magazine at Williamsburg on board an English ship. This proceeding caused the greatest excitement; the people took arms under Patrick Henry; and the gov. was forced to compromise the affair by paying for the powder. June 6, he fled with his family, and took refuge on board the "Fowey," man-of-war. Rallying a band of Tories, runaway negroes, and British soldiers, he collected a naval force, and carried on a petty warfare, plundering the inhabitants on the James and York Rivers, and carrying off their slaves. Dec. 9, 1775, his followers suffered a severe defeat at the battle of Great Bridge, near Norfolk; and, on the following night, Dunmore took refuge on board his fleet. Jan. 1, 1776, he set fire and destroyed Norfolk, the most populous and flourishing town of Va. Continuing his predatory warfare, he established himself early in June on Gwynn Island, in the Chesapeake, whence he was dislodged by the Virginians, July 8, being wounded in the leg by a splinter. Dunmore shortly afterward returned to Eng., and was in 1786 app. gov of Bermuda. — Campbell's Va.

Dunster, HENRY, first pres. of H.U., b Eng.; d. Scituate, Ms., Feb. 27, 1659. Son of Henry of Balehoult, Lancashire. Of Magdalen Coll. 1630 and 1634. He was inducted into office, Aug. 27, 1640, soon after his arrival, and resigned, Oct. 24, 1654, in consequence of having publicly advocated the principles of anti-pedobaptism, and spent the rest of his days at Scituate. He was highly esteemed for piety and learning; was a great master of the Oriental languages, and assisted in revising the new version of the psalms made by Eliot, Wilde, and Mather in 1640. By his will, he bequeathed legacies to the very persons who had occasioned his removal from the presidency; see Life of Dunster, by J. Chaplin, 1872.

Dunton, JOHN, bookseller and author, b. Graffham, Huntingdonshire, May 14, 1659; d. 1733. He was apprenticed to a bookseller in Lond.; came to N.E. in March, 1686, with a cargo of books, but met with little success, and remained but about 8 months. After 20 years of prosperity in the bookselling business, he became an author, and in 1701 was employed in the office of the Post Angel paper. He afterwards commenced the Athenian Mercury, repub. subsequently under the name of the "Athenian Oracle," in 4 vols., 8vo. In 1705, he pub. "The Life and Errors of John Dunton," in which he gives the "lives and characters of more than 1,000 contemporary characters of literary eminence," and describes the ministers, booksellers, and other citizens of Boston and Salem. His "Letters from N.E." were pub. by the Prince Society in 1867, with notes and appendix, by W. H. Whitmore.

Duponceau (du-pon′-sō), PETER STEPHEN, LL.D. (H.U. 1820), philologist and jurist, b. Isle of Rhé, France, June 3, 1760; d. Phila., April 2, 1844. After the death of his father, he went to Paris in Dec. 1775, and, becoming acquainted with Baron Steuben, accomp. him to Amer. as sec., landing at Portsmouth, Dec. 1, 1777. Feb. 18, 1778, he was made brev.-capt., and was of great assistance to Steuben in preparing his system of army discipline. Sec. to R. R. Livingston; head of foreign affairs, from Oct. 1781 until June, 1783, when he began to study law, and in June, 1785, was adm. to the Phila. bar. He became eminent in the profession, especially on questions of civil and foreign law, and accumulated money enough to devote himself to literature. Member of the acad. of arts and sciences, and pres. of the Amer. Philos. Society. In 1835, the French Institute awarded him a prize for a disquisition on the Indian languages of N.A. He pub. in 1819 a memoir "On the Structure of the Indian Languages;" in 1838, at the age of 78, a "Dissertation on the Chinese Language," in which he held the opinion that the written language was lexigraphic, representing sounds, and not ideas, and translated a "Description of New Sweden," by T. C. Holm. Among his publications on jurisprudence are translation of Bynkershoek's "Laws of War," 1810; on the Nature and Extent of the Jurisdiction of the Courts of the U.S., 1824; a Review of Kent's Commentaries in Walsh's Quarterly Review; Discourse at the opening of his Law Acad. in Phila., 1821; a Brief View of the U. S. Constitution, 1834. He made great efforts to introduce into the U. S. the production and manufacture of silk.

Digitized by Google

Dupont, SAMUEL FRANCIS, rear-adm. U.S.N., b. Bergen Pt., N.J., Sept. 27, 1803; d. Phila., June 23, 1865. Grandson of P. S. Dupont Nemours. Midshipman in the navy at 12; lieut. Apr. 26, 1826; commander, Oct. 28, 1842. In 1845, he was ordered to the Pacific in com. of the frigate "Congress," and, during the Mexican war, saw much active service on the Cal. coast. In "The Cyane," he captured San Diego; cleared the Gulf of Cal. of Mexican vessels; took La Paz, the capital of Lower Cal.; assisted in the capture of Mazatlan in Nov. 1847, and defended Lower Cal. against the Indians and Mexicans. In Feb. 1848, he landed at San José with 100 marines and sailors, and defeated and dispersed a Mexican force five times as great. Captain, Sept. 14, 1855. Having recommended the occupation of Port Royal as a central harbor or depot on the southern coast, he was given the com. of the S. A. block. squad., and intrusted with the attack on that place. Sailing from Fortress Monroe, Oct. 29, 1861, in "The Wabash," with a fleet of 50 sail of war-vessels and transports, conveying Gen. Sherman's troops, he arrived off Port Royal, Nov. 4 and 5, after a violent storm, and on the 7th attacked and captured two strong forts on Hilton Head and Bay Point, which defended the harbor. He followed up this advantage vigorously; and his operations along the southern coast were invariably successful. He also succeeded in making the blockade more effective than before. July 16, 1862, he was made a rear-adm. on the active list. In April, 1863, he com. the fleet which unsuccessfully attacked Charleston. He was soon after relieved of the com. of the S.A.B. squadrons, and subsequently held no active command. Admiral Dupont aided in organizing the naval school at Annapolis, and is the author of a report on the use of floating batteries for coast defence, which has been repub. and highly commended in Eng., by Sir Howard Douglas in his work on naval gunnery.

Duportail, LEBEGUE (dü'-por'-tăl'-leh-bĕg'), CHEVALIER LOUIS, a French gen. d. at sea in 1802. Educated at the military school of Mezières, he acquired the reputation of being an excellent engineer. Came to Amer. during the War of Independence, attached himself to Lafayette; was app. a brig.-gen. Nov. 17, 1777; maj.-gen. Nov. 16, 1781; was directing engineer at the siege of Yorktown, and was one of the general officers particularly named by Washington after the capitulation. He returned to France, with the rank of brig.; in 1788 was named maréchal-de-camp; and by the influence of Lafayette, with whom he was intimately connected, he was, Nov. 16, 1790, made minister of war. The disgrace of Lafayette determined his; and, after having been denounced in the assembly, he resigned, Dec. 3, 1791, and was employed in a military capacity in Lorraine. Seasonably warned of an accusation against him in 1792, he quitted the army, and withdrew to Amer., whence he was recalled by the events of the 18th Brumaire, but was not fortunate enough to reach his native land, as he died during the passage. — Nouv. Biog. Gen.

Dupratz, M. LE PAGE, see PRATZ.

Dupuy, ELIZA A., b. Petersburg, Va. Of Huguenot descent. Author of "The Conspirator," "Emma Walton," "Celeste," "Florence, or the Fatal Vow," "Separation," "Concealed Treasure," "Ashleigh," "The Country Neighborhood," 1855.

Duquesne (dü'-kĕn'), DE MENNEVILLE, Marquis, gov. of New France from 1752 to 1755. He was a gr. nephew of the great Duquesne. Was a capt. of royal marines, and had been recommended to his app. by De Galissoniere. He introduced great reforms into the colony; placed the colonial troops on a par with the European by constant drill and study; erected forts in the Far West for the protection of the people, and resisted the encroachments of the English and colonial troops. He built Fort Duquesne on the Ohio, memorable as the place near which Braddock was defeated in 1755. The present city of Pittsburg stands upon its site. — Moryan.

Durand, ASHER BROWN, painter and engraver, b. Jefferson, N.J., Aug. 21, 1796. His paternal ancestors were Huguenots. In the shop of his father, a watchmaker, he learned engraving. In 1812, he was apprenticed to Peter Maverick, engraver, with whom, in 1817, he became a partner. His engraving of Trumbull's "Declaration of Independence," his first large work, cost him 3 years' labor, but brought him into notice. The National Portrait Gallery contains many of his heads; and his "Musidora" and "Ariadne" are fine specimens of art. After 10 years' practice as a painter, he gave up engraving in 1835, and devoted himself chiefly to landscapes. His pictures are pleasing in color and tone, and evince much poetic feeling. The principal of his figure-pieces are "Harvey Birch and Washington," "An Old Man's Reminiscences," "The Wrath of Peter Stuyvesant," "God's Judgment on Gog," "The Dance on the Battery," "The Capture of André," &c. Some of his landscapes are "The Morning and Evening of Life," a pair; "Lake Scene, — Sunset," "The Rainbow," "Wood Scene," "Primeval Forest," "In the Woods," "The Symbol," from Goldsmith's "Deserted Village," "Franconia Mountains," and "Reminiscences of Catskill Cloves." In 1854, he painted a portrait of Wm. C. Bryant. Pres. of the Nat. Acad. of Design. His son JOHN has for some years conducted the Crayon, a monthly publication specially devoted to the fine arts. — Appleton.

Durbin, JOHN PRICE, D.D. (Dick. Coll. 1837), clergyman, b. Bourbon Co., Ky., 1800. Cin. Coll. 1825. After receiving a district school education, he entered the ministry of the Meth.-Epis. Church in 1819; was received into the O. conf. in 1820, and stationed on Greenville circuit; subsequently in Hamilton, where he attended Miami U., 12 miles distant. He was soon after elected prof. of languages in Augusta

Digitized by Google

Coll., Ky.; chaplain of the U.S. senate in 1831. In 1832, he was elected prof. of natural science in the Wesl. U., and in 1833 became editor of the Christian Advocate and Journal, N.Y. From 1834 to 1845, he was pres. of Dick. Coll. He then travelled through portions of the Old World, and, returning next year, pub. "Observations in Europe," 2 vols., 1844, and "Observations in Egypt, Palestine, Syria, and Asia Minor," 2 vols., 1845. Member of the Genl. Conf. of 1844, and took an important part in the debate which resulted in the division of the M.E. Church. In 1845, he was stationed in Phila. as presiding elder. In 1850, he was elected corresp. sec. of the Missionary Society of the M.E.Church, resigning the post in 1872. Editor of Wood's "Mosaic History of the Creation," with notes, 8vo, 1831. Contrib. to many periodicals; d. N. Y., Oct. 19, 1876.

Durfee, JOB, LL.D., jurist and poet, b. Tiverton, R.I., Sept. 20, 1790; d. there July 26, 1847. Brown U. 1813. Son of Thomas, many years chief-justice of the C.C.P. for the county of Newport. He practised law successfully; was M.C. in 1821–5; chosen a justice of the Supreme Court in May, 1833, and was chief-justice from June, 1835 until his death. Member of the State legisl. 1813–19, '27–9, and speaker, 1828. Author of "What Cheer, or Roger Williams in Exile," 1832, an edition of which was pub. in Eng., and of "Panidea," a philos. treatise. His writings were coll. and pub., with a memoir, by his son, 8vo, 1849.

Durivage, FRANCIS ALEXANDER, b. Boston, 1814. Author of "Cyclopædia of History," 8vo; "Stray Subjects," 12mo; "Life Scenes." Translated, with W. I. Chase, Lamartine's "Revolution of 1848." Author of several plays and poems, and contributed to periodicals. Co-editor of Ballou's Pictorial.

Durivage, JOHN E., journalist and actor, b. Boston, 1813; d. Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 27, 1869. For 20 years, he had been connected with the press of Boston, N. York, N. Orleans, and Cal., where he founded the Alta Californian. He had for some years acted in the Western theatres. Author of some successful farces and burlesques. He was at one time aide to Gen. Wool.

Durkee, CHARLES, statesman, b. Royalton, Vt., Dec. 5, 1807; d. Omaha, Jan. 13, 1870. He received an academical education at Royalton; became a merchant; removed to Wis. ab. 1830; was a member of the legisl. in 1837–8 and 1848; M.C. 1849–53; U.S. senator, 1855–61; delegate to the Peace Congress, 1861; gov. of Utah, 1865–9. In Congress, he was one of the early advocates of anti-slavery and freesoil principles.

Durkee, COL. JOHN, b. Windham, Ct., 1728; d. Norwich, May 29, 1782. He served in the French war; was a major of militia. An early settler of the Wyoming Valley, but returned to Ct. As a major in Putnam's regt., he disting. himself highly at Bunker's Hill, and was a col. in the battles of Long Island, Germantown, Harlem, White Plains, Trenton, Monmouth, and in Sullivan's exped. against the Six Nations; resigned 1780. Maj. ROBERT, his bro.-in-law, a soldier of the French and Revol. wars, fell at the Wyoming massacre, 3 July, 1778.

Duston, HANNAH, heroine of N.E., w Thomas D. of Haverhill, Ms., Dec. 3, 167 She was the mother of 13 children. Whe the Indians attacked Haverhill, March 15, 169 her husband, with the children, escaped, and sh with an infant and her nurse, was capture After proceeding a short distance, the infa was killed. Mrs. D. was taken to an island the junction of the Merrimack and Contoocoo Rivers, being assigned to an Indian family of persons. With the aid of a nurse and a bo also a prisoner, she killed the Indians with hatchet, — all but a favorite boy and a wounde squaw, who escaped, — and returned safely Haverhill with their scalps. Her house, occ pied by Thomas Dustin, a descendant, w standing in 1816.

Dutton, HENRY, LL.D. (Y.C. 1854), judg b. Plymouth, Ct., Feb. 12, 1796; d. N. Have April 12, 1869. Y.C. 1818. Grandson Capt. Thos. of the Revol. army. He was tutor at Yale in 1821–3; law prof. there 1847–69; practised law at Newtown, and the at Bridgeport; was State atty.; was 5 times member of the house; State senator in 184 and one year judge of the N. Haven Co. Cour gov. of Ct. 1854–5; judge of the Superi Court, and of the Supreme Court of Erro from 1861 to 1866. He pub. in 1833 a dige of the Ct. Reports, and a revision of Swift digest, and was a member of the commissio of 1849 and 1866, to revise the State statute and was chairman of the committee which 1854 prepared a new compilation of the Sta statutes.

Dutton, SAMUEL WILLIAM SOUTHMAY D.D. (B.U. 1856), Cong. clergyman, and wri er, b. Guilford, Ct., March 14, 1814; d. M bury, Ms., Jan. 26, 1866. Y.C. 1833. S of Rev. Aaron (Y.C. 1803). In 1834, taught in Mount Hope Coll., Baltimore, and 1834–5, was rector of the Hopkins gramm school, New Haven, and tutor in Yale fro 1836 to 1838. From June, 1838, to his deat he was pastor of the North Church, N. Have whose history during the last century he pu in 1842. From the establishment of the Ne Englander, in 1842, he was one of its editor publishing, also, various addresses and sermon A discourse preached at his funeral, by Re Leonard Bacon, has been pub.; also a sket of his life in the Cong. Quarterly, Apr. 1866. Ob. Rec. Yale, 1866.

Duvall, GABRIEL, jurist. Of Huguen descent, b. Pr. George Co., Md., Dec. 6, 175 d. there March 6, 1844. Clerk to the first M legisl. previous to the Declaration of Indepen ence. M.C. 1794–5; was a comptroller of t U.S. treasury from 1802 to Nov. 18, 1811, a was then app. a judge of the U.S. Supre Court, which office he held until 1836.

Duvall, WILLIAM P., lawyer and state man, b. Va., 1784; d. Washington, D.C March 19, 1854. When quite young, he we to Ky., where he studied law, rose to eminen in the profession, and also became a noted po tician. He served as capt. of mounted vo under Gen. Hopkins, Sept. 1812. M.C. 181 15; he was gov. of Fla. Terr. 1822–34.

Digitized by Google

1848, Gov. Duvall removed to Texas. He was the original "Ralph Ringwood" of Washington Irving, and "Nimrod Wildfire" of J. K. Paulding.

Duyckinck (dī-kĭnk), Evert Augustus, author, b. N.Y. City, Nov. 23, 1816. Col. Coll. 1835. Evert, his father, an enterprising publisher of New York, b. 1765; d. 1833. In Dec. 1840, he commenced, with Cornelius Matthews, Arcturus, a journal of books and opinions, continued until May, 1842. He contrib. to the early numbers of the N.Y. Review. In 1847, he commenced the Literary World, a weekly critical journal, which, with the exception of the interval, May, 1847, to Oct. 1848, he continued, with his bro. George L., until the close of 1853. In 1856, the bros. completed the "Cyclopædia of American Literature," 2 vols., 8vo., a work of great research and value, to which a suppt. was added by him in 1866. He has pub. the "Wit and Wisdom of Sydney Smith," and Poems relating to the Am. Rev. by Freneau, 1865, both with original memoirs; Nat. Port. Gallery of Eminent Americans, 2 vols., 1862; "History of the War for the Union," 3 vols., 1861–5; Memorial of John Allan, printed for the Bradford Club, 1864; a Memorial of Francis L. Hawks, D.D., read before the N.Y. Hist. Soc., 1867, printed for the Society in 1871. He has also contrib. largely to periodicals. A sermon by his son, Rev. Henry Duyckinck of St. Mark's Ch., N.Y., a promising young clergyman (b. Nov. 6, 1843; Col. Coll. 1867; d. Feb. 16, 1870), was printed in connection with funeral-services, in 1870.

Duyckinck, George Long, bro. of E.A., b. at New York, Oct. 17, 1823; d. there Mar. 30, 1863. N. Y. U. 1843. He studied law, and was adm. to the N.Y. bar, but never practised. Besides his share in the "Cyclopædia" and in the Literary World, he pub. "George Herbert," 1858; "Life of Bishop Thomas Ken," 1859; "Jeremy Taylor," 1860; "Latimer," 1861, and various essays and reviews in the periodicals of the day.

Dwight, Harrison Gray Otis, D.D., missionary, b. Conway, Ms., Nov. 22, 1803; killed by accident on the N. Vt. Railroad, Jan. 25, 1862. H. U. 1825; And. Sem. 1828. Embarking for the East in Jan. 1830, he settled in Constantinople, where, for near 30 years, he preached, superintended schools, and edited a religious paper. Author of "Christianity brought Home from the East," 12mo, 1850; "Memoir of Mrs. E. O. Dwight," N.Y., 1840.

Dwight, Joseph, soldier and judge, b. Dedham, Ms., Oct. 16, 1703; d. Great Barrington, June 19, 1765. H. U. 1722. Son of Henry of Hatfield, and grandson of Timothy of Dedham. Adm. to the bar in 1733, he became judge of C.C.P., Worcester Co., in 1739, and in 1761 judge of the Co. Court, and of Probate of Berkshire Co. A brig.-gen. at the reduction of Louisburg, in 1745, he com. the Ms. Art., and was disting. and commended by Pepperell. In 1756, at the head of a brigade of militia, he served at Lake Champlain, in the second French war; 11 years representative of Brookfield, speaker of the house in 1749.

Dwight, Mary Ann, b. Northamp. Ms., Sept. 17, 1806; d. Morrisania, N.Y., Nov. 4, 1858. In 1849, she pub. an excellent work on Grecian and Roman mythology, and in 1856 an elementary treatise on the fine arts. She had also prepared for publication an abridgment of "Lanzi's History of Painting."—Hist. Mag., iii., 28.

Dwight, Sereno Edwards, D.D. (Y.C. 1833), teacher and divine, b. Greenfield, Ct., May 18, 1786; d. Phila., Nov. 30, 1850. Y.C. 1803. Son of Pres. Dwight, and in youth was remarkable for brilliant talents, and force of character. Tutor at Yale in 1806–10; and from 1810 to 1815 practised law with success. During this period, he wrote his celebrated essay on the lawfulness of marriage with a wife's sister, entitled "The Hebrew Wife." In 1816, he entered the ministry, and was chosen chaplain of the U. S. senate. In the summer of 1817, he became pastor of the Park-st. Church, Boston; but in the spring of 1826, he resigned on account of failing health. In 1828–31, he conducted with his bro. Henry, a large school in N. Haven, called The Gymnasium. Pres. of Ham. Coll., Clinton, N.Y., 1833–5. He was an able preacher, a good writer, and a captivating and successful teacher. Author of the Life of his relative, Jonathan Edwards, "Sermons and Addresses," "The Life of Brainerd," 1822; a vol. on the "Atonement," 1830; a vol. of "Select Discourses," pub. in 1851, together with a memoir by his bro. Rev. Dr. W. T. Dwight. He edited Jonathan Edwards's Works, 10 vols., 8vo, 1830.

Dwight, Theodore, lawyer and brilliant political writer, b. Northampton, Ms., 16 Dec. 1764; d. N.Y., June 11, 1846. Bro. of Pres. Dwight. His mother was dau. of Pres. Edwards. He studied law at Hartford, practised with repute, wrote frequently on political subjects, became very popular with the Federal party, was many years in the senate of Ct.; M.C. 1806–7. His eloquence and readiness in debate insured him a leading part in Congress; and he was a prominent advocate of the bill for the suppression of the slave-trade. He edited the Mirror, pub. at Hartford, the leading Federal journal in that State during the war. Sec. of the Hartford Convention, the proceedings of which, he pub. in 1833. In 1815, he pub. the Albany Daily Advertiser, and, two years afterwards, commenced the N. Y. Daily Advertiser, continuing to act as assoc. editor and proprietor, until the great fire of 1835, when he relinquished his interest, and retired with his family to Hartford. He was a founder, and long an active director, of the Bible Society. He had a hand in the poetical and political essays of The Echo in the Hartford Mercury, in common with Hopkins and Alsop. He was the author of "Character of Thomas Jefferson, as exhibited in his own Writings," 1839.

Dwight, Theodore, author, b. Hartford, Ct., Mar. 3, 1796; d. Brooklyn, Oct. 16, 1866, from injuries received by a railroad accident. Y.C. 1814. Son of the preceding. After visiting a great portion of Europe, in 1821, he pub. "A Tour in Italy," 1824. In 1833, he removed to Brooklyn, engaged in philanthropic and literary pursuits; assisted his father in editing the Daily Advertiser; after ward taught school in Brooklyn, and then in N. Y. City. Was engaged in several magazines and periodicals, and edited and pub. the N.Y. Presbyterian. He was a good linguist, and was a member of many scientific, literary, and philosophic societies. Author of a "Hist. of Conn.," 1841; "The Roman Republic of 1849;" "A Summer Tour in the Northern and Middle States," 1847; (in conjunction with Wm. Darby), "A New Gazetteer of the U.S.," 1833; "Schoolmaster's Friend," 8vo, 1835; "The Northern Traveller," 12mo, 1841; "Lessons in Greek," 12mo, 1833; The "Father's Book;" "Life of Garibaldi," 1859. Some of his poetical pieces are in Everest's Poets of Ct.

Digitized by Google

Dwight, TIMOTHY, D.D. (N.J. Coll. 1787), LL.D. (H.U. 1810), divine and scholar, b. Northampton, Ms., 14 May, 1752; d. N. Haven, 11 Jan. 1817. Y. C. 1769. Col. Timothy, his father, was a merchant, and d. Natchez, 10 June, 1777. Mary, his mother, dau. of Jonathan Edwards, was a woman of talents and rare excellence. Tutor at Yale, 1771–7; licensed to preach, and a chaplain in the Revol. army, Sept. 1777–Mar. 1779. He did much to heighten the enthusiasm of the soldiers by his popular patriotic songs. He then worked on a farm 4 years, aiding in the support of his mother and family, and occasionally preaching; member of the legisl. in 1781 and 1786; ord. minister of Greenfield, Ct., 12 Nov. 1783, and at the same time taught an acad. with success; pres. of Yale Coll. from Sept. 1795 to his death; at the same time prof. of theol., and preacher in the coll. chapel. In 1796, he began travelling through the N.E. States and N.Y. during his college vacations; publishing in 1821, in 4 vols., 8vo, "Travels in N.E. and N.Y.," a work of permanent value and interest in regard to the natural history and social condition of the country. He was eminently qualified as an instructor, and largely increased the usefulness of Y. Coll. Dr. Dwight had a commanding presence, great industry and research, and a wonderful memory; was a strong, sound, and impressive preacher, and a poet of no mean ability. Author of "The Conquest of Canaan," an epic poem, finished in 1774, pub. 1785; "Greenfield Hill," a poem, 1794; a revision of "Watts's Version of the Psalms," 1800; "Theology Explained and Defended," 5 vols., 1818, which has passed through many editions; "Sermons," 2 vols., 1828; "Remarks on the Review of Inchiquin's Letters," pub. in the Quarterly Review, 1815; and many occasional sermons. In 1772, he delivered at Y.C. a dissertation on the "History, Eloquence, and Poetry of the Bible," pub. both in the U.S. and Europe. His son HENRY EDWIN (Y. C. 1815), author of "Travels in the N. of Germany," 1825–6, d. N. Haven, 11 Aug. 1832, a. 35.

Dwight, WILLIAM THEODORE, D.D. (B.C. 1846), clergyman and author, b. Greenfield, Ct., June 15, 1795; d. Andover, Ms., Oct. 22, 1865. Y. C. 1813. Son of Pres. Dwight. Tutor in Y.C. 1817–19; in 1821 was adm. to the bar of Phila., at which he practised 10 years. Pastor of the 3d Cong. Church, Portland, Me., from June 6, 1832, to May, 1864. He was one of the most prominent and influential ministers in Maine, and excelled as a preacher. Pres. of the Portland Benevolent Soc., of the Me. Missionary Soc., of the Cong. Library Assoc., of the Board of Visitors of Andover Theol. Seminary, and of the Albany Convention of Cong. Churches. He pub. a "Memoir of Rev. S. E. Dwight, D.D.," 1851; orations, addresses, discourses, and review articles. — Y.C. Obit. Record.

Dyer, ELIPHALET, LL.D. (Y. C. 1787). soldier and jurist, b. Windham, Ct., Sept. 28, 1721; d. there May 13, 1807. Y. C. 1740. He commenced the practice of law; in 1745–62 was representative to the Gen. Court. He com. a Ct. regt. during the French war (app. 1755); was elected a member of the council in 1762; went to Eng. in 1763 as agent of the Susquehanna Company, and was a delegate to the Stamp Act Congress in 1765. He was also a delegate to Congress in 1774, and, excepting 1779, held during the war a seat in that body. He was app. a judge of the Supreme Court in 1766, and in 1789–93 was chief-justice. —Rogers.

Dyer, MARY, wife of William, was a disciple of Anne Hutchinson, and a victim to the persecution of the Quakers; hanged on Boston Common, June 1, 1660. Quakers were by statute excluded from the bounds of Ms.; and death was the penalty for a second visit. Mary Dyer, who had left on the enactment of the law, soon returned on purpose to offer up her life. She was arrested, and sent to prison; was reprieved after being led forth to execution, and was, against her will, conveyed out of the Colony. She speedily returned, and suffered as a willing martyr.

Eagle, HENRY, commo. U.S.N., b. N.Y. Midshipm. Jan. 1, 1818; lieut. Mar. 3, 1827; com. June 4, 1844; capt. Sept. 14, 1855; commo. retired list, July 16, 1862. Attached to sloop "Natchez," W. I. squad. 1830–3; com. bomb-vessel "Ætna," during the Mexican war; stationed at Tabasco, also civil and military gov. of the Province, 1847; com. frigate "Santee," Gulf squad., 1861–2, organizing and sending out several successful expeds. against the enemy while stationed in the Gulf.

Eames, CHARLES, lawyer, journalist, and diplomatist, b. New Braintree, Ms., Mar. 20, 1812; d. Washington, D.C., Mar. 16, 1867. H.U. 1831. He studied at the Camb. Law School, but was prevented by ill health from practising, and in 1845 took a position in the navy dept. A few months later, he became assoc. editor of the Washington Union, and was app. by Mr. Polk commiss. to the Sandwich Islands for the negotiation of a treaty. In 1850, he returned, and, after editing the Nashville Union for six months, again edited the Union, until sent minister to Venezuela by Pres. Pierce. He returned to Washington in 1858, where he practised law until his death. During the last 5 years of his life, his management of prize-cases showed him to be one of the best admiralty lawyers of the country; while he won high distinction by his great knowledge of international law.

Earle, PLINY, inventor, b. Leicester, Ms., Dec. 17, 1762; d. there Nov. 29, 1832. In 1785, he, with Edward Snow, manufactured cards for carding cotton and wool. Mr. Earle at first made these by hand, but soon invented the machine, still in use, for their manufacture, by which the labor of a man for 15 hours could be performed in as many minutes. He was a member of the society of Friends.

Digitized by Google

Earle, PLINY, M.D. (1837), physician. Son of the preceding, b. Leicester, Ms., Dec. 31, 1809. Educated at the Friends' Boarding School at Providence, where he afterward taught. He travelled in Europe, returned to Phila. in 1839; from 1840 to 1842 was resident physician of the insane hospital at Frankford, Pa.; from 1844 to April, 1849, was physician to the insane asylum, Bloomingdale, N.Y., when he visited the insane hospitals of Europe. In 1853, he was app. visiting physician to the N.Y. City lunatic asylum. He has written much in the medical and scientific journals, and the Journal of Insanity. He pub. "Marathon and other Poems," in 1841, but soon withdrew the edition from the market; "Visit to 13 Asylums for the Insane in Europe;" "History, Description, and Statistics of the Bloomingdale Asylum," 1848; a volume on institutions for the insane in Germany and Austria, pub. originally in the Journal of Insanity, also a series of articles on "Blood-letting in Mental Disorders," in book-form, 1854.

Earle, RALPH and JAMES, painters. Ralph b. Leicester, Ms., 11 May, 1751; d. Bolton, Ct., 16 Aug. 1801. Grandson of Ralf, an early settler of L. He painted in Ct. in 1775, and executed 4 hist. paintings (believed to be the first ever exec. by an Amer. artist), representing views of the battle of Lexington. After the peace, he studied in Lond. under West; was made a member of the Roy. Acad., painted a portrait of the king, and returned to Amer. in 1786. He painted in various parts of N.E. Among his works is a large picture of Niagara Falls, portraits of Pres. Dwight and Gov. Strong. JAMES, a portrait-painter, b. Leicester; d. Charleston, S.C., Sept. 1796, of yellow-fever. AUGUSTUS, son of Ralph, was an eccentric and disting. painter in N. Orleans. — Hist. Leicester; Dunlap.

Earle, THOMAS, writer on law, bro. of Pliny, b. Leicester, Ms., April 21, 1796; d. Phila., July 14, 1849. Educated at Leicester Acad., removed to Phila. in 1817, engaged in mercantile pursuits for a few years, then studied law, and commenced practice in that city, where he was disting. He ed. successively the Columbian Observer, Standard, Pennsylvanian, and Mechanics' Free Press and Reform Advocate; took an active part in calling the Const. Conv. of Pa. in 1837, and was a prominent member. He lost his popularity with the Democ. party by advocating the extension of the right of suffrage to negroes. In 1840, he was the candidate of the Liberty party for the vice-presidency. He pub. an "Essay on Penal Law," an "Essay on the Rights of States to alter and annul their Charter," "A Treatise on Railroads and Internal Communications," 1830, and a "Life of Benjamin Lundy." At his death, he had nearly completed a history of the French Revol., and a translation of Sismondi's "Italian Republics."

Early, JOHN, bishop of the M. E. Church, South, b. Va., 1785. He joined the Va. conf. when young, became an itinerant minister, and was successively sec. of conf., presiding elder, and delegate of the gen. conf. At the gen. conf. in 1846, he was chosen book-agent, and became bishop in 1854; d. Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 1, 1873.

Early, JUBAL A., gen. C. S. A., b. Va., ab. 1818. West Point, 1837. Entering the 1st Art., he served in the Florida war, and resigned in July, 1838, to study and practise law in Va., where he became a member of the legisl., and State atty. 1843–7 and 1848–52. Major of a Va. regt. in the Mexican war, from Jan. 1847 to Aug. 1848. In 1861, he entered the army of Va. as a col.; com. a brigade at Bull Run, arriving on the field at a critical period of the day; maj.-gen. Feb. 1863; com. a division at Gettysburg. Early in 1864, he was ordered to com. the forces in the Shenandoah Valley, and in July invaded Md., and threatened Washington City; defeated by Sheridan at Winchester, Va., Sept. 19, 1864; again on the 22d at Fisher Hill, and Cedar Creek, Oct. 19. He pub. in 1867 "Memoirs of the Last Year of the War." Now (1871) practises law in Richmond, Va.

Early, PETER, jurist and statesman, b. Madison Co., Va., June 20, 1773; d. Green Co., Ga., Aug. 15, 1817. N.J. Coll. 1792. In 1795, he emig. with his father to Ga. Studied law in Phila., and practised successfully at the Ga. bar. M.C. in 1802–7. His speech as one of the prosecutors of the impeachment of Judge Chase was one of the ablest on that side. Judge of the State Sup. Court from 1807 to 1813; gov. 1813–15, and subsequently a State senator.

Eastburn, JAMES WALLIS, poet, b. Eng., 1797; d. on the passage to Santa Cruz, Dec. 2, 1819. Col. Coll. 1816. He studied theol. under Bishop Griswold at Bristol, R.I. With R. C. Sands, in 1817–18, he wrote "Yamoyden," a romantic poem founded on the history of King Philip, sachem of the Wampanoags, pub. 12mo, 1820. He also wrote some fugitive poems. In 1818, he was ord., took charge of a parish in Accomac, Va., and having sailed for Santa Cruz, for the restoration of his health, died a few days after embarking.

Eastburn, MANTON, D.D. (Col. Coll. 1835), Pr.-Ep. bishop of Ms.; bro. of J. W., b. Leeds, Eng., Feb. 9, 1801. Col. Coll. 1817; Gen. Theol. Sem. His parents came to the U.S. when he was a boy, and settled in N.Y. Ord. in May, 1822; assist. minister of Christ Church, N.Y., for a few years; became rector of the Church of the Ascension in 1827; was consec. assist. bishop of Ms., Boston, Dec. 29, 1842; and Feb. 15, 1843, became bishop. Bp. Eastburn delivered 4 lectures on Hebrew, Latin, and English poetry, before the N.Y. Athenæum, in 1825; in 1829, he contrib. a portion of a vol. of "Essays and Dissertations on Biblical Literature;" in 1833 pub. "Lectures on the Epistles to the Philippians," and in 1837 delivered the oration at the semi-centennial anniversary of Col. Coll. He has edited "Thornton's Family Prayers." Died Boston, Sep. 11, 1872.

Eastman, CHARLES GAMAGE, poet and journalist, b. Fryeburg, Me., June 1, 1816.

Digitized by Google

He removed with his parents, at an early age, to Barnard, Vt., and studied at Royalston acad., at Windsor, and at Burlington. Was editor of the Burlington Sentinel in 1835–6; commenced the Lamoille River Express, at Johnson, Vt., in the spring of 1838; established the Spirit of the Age, at Woodstock, Vt., in 1840, and purchased the Vt. Patriot, and removed to Montpelier, in 1846. He was postmaster at Woodstock and Montpelier, several years, and senator for Washington Co. in 1851–2. He pub. a vol. of poems in 1848, contrib. poetry to the reviews and magazines, and has delivered poems of much merit at Dartm., Vt. U., and other colleges; d. Burlington, Vt., 1861.

Eastman, Mary (Henderson), author-ess, b. Warrenton, Va., ab. 1817. Dau. of Dr. Thos. Henderson, U.S.A. She was, in 1835, m. to Capt. Seth Eastman, U.S.A., with whom she long resided at Fort Snelling and other frontier posts. She pub. "Dacotah, or Life and Legends of the Sioux," 1849; "Romance of Indian Life," 1852; "American Aboriginal Portfolio," 1863; "Chicora, and other Regions of the Conquered," 1854; "Aunt Phillis's Cabin," a reply to "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in 1852; "Tales of Fashionable Life," also many tales and sketches for Arthur's and other magazines.

Eastman, Philip, LL.D., jurist, b. Chatham, N. H., Feb. 1799; d. Saco, Me., Aug. 7, 1869. Bowd. Coll. 1820. Adm. to the bar in 1823; practised at N. Yarmouth, 1823–36, Harrison, 1836–47, and at Saco, 1847–69. In 1840, with Ebenezer Everett, he revised and pub. the "General Statutes of Maine;" State senator, 1840–2; on the north-eastern boundary commission in 1842–3; commissioner for Cumberland Co., 1843–8. In 1849, he pub. a digest of the first 26 vols. of the "Maine Law Reports."

Eastman, Seth, brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., b. Brunswick, Me., 24 Jan. 1808. West Point, 1829. Entering 1st Inf., he became capt. 12 Nov. 1839; maj. 5th Inf., 31 Oct. 1856; lieut.-col. 1st Inf., 9 Sept. 1861; brev. col. and brig.-gen. 9 Aug. 1866; retired 3 Dec. 1863. Assist. teacher of drawing at West Point, 1833–40; in the Florida war, 1840–1; author of a "Treatise on Topographical Drawing," 1837; "History, Condition, and Future Prospects of the Indian Tribes of the U.S.," illustrated, and pub. by order of Cong., 1850–7; d. Aug. 31, '75.

Easton, Col. James, Revol. soldier, b. Hartford, Ct.; d. Pittsfield, Ms. He was a builder. Removed from Litchfield, Ct., to Pittsfield, in 1763. Was a prominent citizen, an active patriot, and member of the legisl. 1774. He raised a regt. in Berkshire; was one of the leaders in the exped. which captured Ticonderoga, May 9, 1775; and was the bearer of the intelligence to the Prov. Congress. He was one of the earliest to advocate the invasion of Canada; com. a regt. under Montgomery, rendering valuable service up to the close of the year 1776, and received the thanks of Congress, Jan 9, 1776. His further service in the army was prevented by the enmity of Arnold. He sacrificed his whole fortune in the service of his country, and d. in poverty.

Easton, Nicholas, gov. of R. I., 1650–2, 1672–4; d. Newport, 15 Aug., 1675, a. 82. Came from Wales in 1634, with his two sons, Peter and John, resided 1 year at Ipswich, then in Newbury, and in 1638 removed to Hampton. He was one of the first settlers of both the last-mentioned towns, and having, in consequence of some differences with the govt., removed to Portsm., R.I., in 1638, and afterwards to Newport, erected in that place the first house. John, his son, gov. 1690–5, d. 1705, a. 88, was author of "A Narrative of the Causes which led to Philip's Indian War of 1675–6," pub. by F. B. Hough, Albany, 1858.

Eaton, Amos, physicist, b. Chatham, N.Y., May 17, 1776; d. Troy, N.Y., May 6, 1842. Wms. Coll. 1799. He fitted himself for college while a blacksmith's apprentice; studied law under Alex. Hamilton, and was adm. to the bar. Becoming agent and surveyor of the Livingston estates on the Hudson River, he studied chemistry, mineralogy, and botany, and commenced lecturing on the natural sciences, at Wms. Coll. in 1817. In 1820, Gen. Stephen Van Rensselaer employed him to make a geological survey of the region through which the Erie Canal afterward passed, which was pub. in 1824. When Rensselaer established the institute at Troy, he made Eaton senior prof. He pub. "Index to the Geology of the Northern States," 1818; "The Philos. Instructor," 1824; "A Geol. Text-Book," "A Manual of the Botany of N. America," 1833, the first popular text-book of that science pub. in the U.S., and a "Treatise on Engineering and Surveying," 4to, N.Y.

Eaton, Amos B., brev. maj.-gen. and commis.-gen. U.S.A., b. N.Y., May 17, 1803. W.P. 1826. Entering the 2d Inf., he became capt. 1 Mar. 1839; transferred to commis. dept. 7 July, 1838; maj. 9 May, 1861; col. 9 Feb. 1863; brig.-gen. and com.-gen. 29 June, 1864; brev. maj.-gen. 13 Mar. 1865. Served in Florida war, 1837–41; chief com. of subsist. in Gen. Taylor's army in Mexico in 1847–8; and brev. maj. 23 Feb. 1847, for gallant and merit. conduct at Buena Vista; d. N. Haven, Ct., Feb. 21, 1877.

Eaton, Cyrus, b. Framingham, Ms., Feb. 11, 1784. 40 years a successful teacher in Me. Became totally blind in 1845. Author of "Annals of Warren, Me.," 8vo, 1851; "Woman," a poem, 1854; "Hist. of Thomaston, Me.," 8vo, 2 vols., 1865; d. Warren, Me., Jan. 21, 1875.

Eaton, Horace, M.D., gov. of Vt., 1846–8, b. Barnard, Vt., June 22, 1804; d. July 4, 1855. Mid. Coll. 1825. He practised medicine in Enosbury from 1828 to 1848, when he was app. prof. of chemistry and nat. hist. in Mid. Coll., subsequently residing at Middlebury. Some years a member of the legisl.; lieut.-gov. from 1843 to 1846; supt. of schools from 1845 to 1850, and member of the Const. Conv. in 1848.

Eaton, Major John Henry, a noted politician, b. Tenn.; d. Washington, D.C., Nov. 17, 1856, a. 66. U.S. senator from Tenn., 1818–29; sec. of war under Pres. Jackson (as well as a warm personal friend), 1829–31; gov. of Fla. Terr. 1834–6, and minister to Spain, 1836–40. Author of an elaborate Life of Jackson, 8vo, 1824.

Eaton, Theophilus, first gov. of New

Digitized by Google

Haven Colony, — from 1638 till his d., Jan. 7, 1658, a. 66; b. Stony Stratford, Co. Bucks, Eng. His father was a clergyman. He was bred a merchant; was for some years the English agent at the court of Denmark, and was afterward a merchant of Lond., of high repute. He accomp. Mr. Davenport to N.E. in 1637; was soon chosen a magistrate of Ms., and was one of the founders of New Haven in 1638. His bros. SAMUEL, assist. minister to Mr. Davenport in 1640–44, d. Eng. 1665; NATH'L. was first head of Harv. Coll. 1637–9.

Eaton, GEN. WILLIAM, b. Woodstock, Ct., 23 Feb. 1764; d. Brimfield, Ms., 1 June, 1811. Dartm. Coll. 1790. His father, a schoolmaster and farmer, removed to Mansfield, ab. 1774. The son acquired a good English education, and at 16 entered the Revol. army, which he left in 1783, with the rank of sergeant. He taught school in Vt. in 1788–91; was clerk of the H. of delegates in Oct. 1791; capt. in the U.S.A. in 1792–7, and July 11, 1797, was made consul to Tunis, where he arrived in Mar. 1799. He concerted with Hamet the lawful chief of Tripoli, then in exile, an exped. against the usurping bashaw; captured Derne by assault, 27 Apr. 1805, and repulsed several attempts to retake the place with severe loss to the assailants. Eaton was on the point of completing his project, and capturing Tripoli, when he learned that a treaty of peace had been made, by which he was compelled to evacuate Derne. Eaton was well received on his return home; was honorably mentioned in the President's message to Congress, and was granted by the legisl. of Ms. 10,000 acres of land, but failed to obtain compensation from the govt. for his pecuniary losses, or such employment as his talents and services entitled him to expect. The King of Denmark presented him with an elegant acknowledgment in a gold box, of services he rendered several captured Danes at Tunis. In the winter of 1806 Burr endeavored, ineffectually, to enlist him in his conspiracy; and, on his trial at Richmond, Eaton testified against him. This bold and enterprising man, under the influence of disappointment, fell a victim to intemperance a few years later. His letters and journal were pub. in "The Life of Gen. Eaton," written by Prentiss, 8vo, 1813. Another, by C. C. Felton, compiled from Eaton's papers, is in "Sparks's Amer. Biog."

Ebeling, CHRISTOPHER DANIEL, a German scholar and author, b. Hildesheim, Nov. 20, 1741; d. Hamburg, June 30, 1817. He studied theology at Göttingen, but devoted himself to geographical studies, and held for 33 years the professorship of history and Greek in the Hamburg Gymnasium, and was supt. of the Hamburg Library. For his great work, "Geography and History of N. America," Hamburg, 1793–9, in 5 vols., he received the thanks of the U.S. Congress. He paid special attention to this subject, and coll. about 10,000 maps, and nearly 4,000 books, relating to Amer. This valuable coll. was purchased, and presented to the library of Har. Coll. in 1818, by Israel Thorndike.

Eberle, JOHN, M.D., physician and medical writer, b. Hagerstown, Md., 10 Dec. 1787; d. Lexington, Ky., Feb. 2, 1838. U. of Pa. 1809. He edited a political paper a while in Phila.; began to edit the Med. Recorder in 1818, which he continued 5 or 6 years; was one of the founders of the Jeff. Med. Coll. of Phila., and lecturer on materia medica, and theory and practice; was a prof. in the Med. Coll. of Ohio, 1831–7, and in the Transylv. Med. School at Lexington from 1837 until his death. He was one of the editors of the Western Med. Gazette and the Ohio Med. Lyceum. Author of "Eberle's Therapeutics," 1822; "Theory and Practice of Medicine;" "Eberle's Notes;" "Diseases of Children;" "Amer. Med. Recorder," Phila., 8vo, 1819; "Botanical Terminology," 1818.

Eccleston, SAMUEL, D.D., 5th R.C. archbishop of the U.S., b. Md. 1801; d. Georgetown, D.C., April 22, 1851. Educated at St. Mary's Coll. He visited Eng., Ireland, and France, after his ordination, and, soon after his return to Md., was elected, first to the vice-presidency, and subsequently to the presidency, of St. Mary's Coll. Sept. 14, 1834, he was app. assist. bishop to Archbishop Whitefield, whose death in that year invested him with the title and honors of the principal see of the church in the U.S.

Eckford, HENRY, shipbuilder, b. Irvine, Scotland, March 12, 1775; d. Constantinople, Nov. 12, 1832. At 16, he was placed with John Black, a maternal uncle, and naval constructor at Quebec, and in 1796 began business in N.Y., where he soon introduced improvements in naval architecture, and took the lead in his profession. During the War of 1812, he constructed the ships-of-war on the Lakes with such exped. and skill, that the glorious results may be partially attributed to him. Soon after the war, he built the steamer "Robert Fulton," which in 1822 made the first successful steam-trip to N. Orleans and Havana. App. naval contractor at Brooklyn in 1820, 6 ships-of-the-line of which "The Ohio" was the first, were constructed after his models. Disgusted with the interference of the board of naval commissioners, he left the govt. service, and was afterward employed in building vessels-of-war for various European powers, and for some of the Republics of S.A. He made a plan for the re-organization of the navy at the request of Pres. Jackson, and projected a professorship of naval architecture for Col. Coll. In 1831, he constructed a ship-of-war for Sultan Mahmoud, which led him to visit Turkey, where he organized a navy-yard.

Eddy, SAMUEL, LL.D. (1801), judge, b. Johnson, R.I., March 31, 1769; d. Providence, Feb. 2, 1839. Brown U. 1787. He studied law, but did not long practise it; was clerk of the Sup. Court in 1790–3; was sec. of State in 1798–1819; M.C. 1819–25, and was, in 1827–35, chief-justice of the Sup. Court of R.I. He made valuable contribs. to the Colls. of the Ms. Hist. Society, and pub. a work on "Antiquities."

Eddy, THOMAS, philanthropist, b. Phila., Sept. 5, 1758; d. N.Y., Sept. 16, 1827. His parents were Quakers. He began to trade in New York in 1779, afterward became an insurance-broker in that city, and was successful. He was active in originating the "Penitentiary System" of N.Y., and, in 1801, pub. his celebrated work on the State Prison of N.Y. The N.Y. Hospital, of which he was long a gov., the Insane Asylum at Bloomingdale, the great Erie Canal, the N.Y. Savings Institution, and the N.Y. Bible Society, were fostered or originated by him, and his labors earned for him the title of the American Howard. — See Memoir, by Samuel L. Knapp, 8vo, 1834.

Digitized by Google

Eden, CHARLES, gov. N.C., 1713–22; d. March 26, 1722, a. 48.

Eden, SIR ROBERT, last roy. gov. of Md., b. Durham, Eng.; d. Annapolis, Sept. 2, 1786. He succeeded Sharpe in 1768, and was more disposed to moderation than any of the other British officers, and complied reluctantly with the order of Congress to relinquish his govt. After the restoration of peace, he returned from Eng. to this country for the recovery of his estates, to which he was entitled by the treaty of 1783. He was a bro. of Sir John Eden, and m. Lady Calvert, sister of Lord Baltimore. Created a baronet, Oct. 19, 1776. His grandson, Sir Frederick Eden, an officer in the British army, fell at New Orleans, 24 Dec. 1814.

Eden, WILLIAM, LORD AUCKLAND, a disting. diplomatist. Son of Sir Robert, and bro. of the preceding, b. 1744; d. May 28, 1814. Was in 1778 one of the 3 commissioners who came to the U.S. to negotiate with the revolted Colonies.

Edes, BENJAMIN, Revol. journalist, b. Charlestown, Ms., Oct. 14, 1732; d. Boston, Dec. 11, 1803. Son of Peter and Esther of C., and descended in the fourth gen. from John of C., who was b. in Lawford Co., Essex, England, March 31, 1651. A. and Hon. Art. Co., 1760; styled "captain;" and was one of the Sons of Liberty. In his printing-office in Queen (now Court) St., many of the "Boston Tea Party" disguised themselves, and, on their return, did justice to a punch served in a punch-bowl still preserved among his descendants. In 1755, he began, with John Gill, the publication of the Boston Gazette and Country Journal, a newspaper of deserved popularity, unsurpassed in patriotism, and zeal for the cause of liberty, to whose columns Otis, the Adamses, Quincy, and Warren —the personal friends of Mr. Edes —were constant contributors. Mr. Edes wielded a caustic pen, ever ready to deal with the political questions of the day. In his letters to Lord Hillsboro', Gov. Bernard advised the arrest of both Edes and Gill, as publishers of sedition. During the siege of Boston, Edes having dissolved partnership with Gill, and admitted his sons to his business, removed his press to Watertown, and there continued to print the Gazette, which was the "chosen mouthpiece of the Whigs." The Gazette was discontinued Sept. 17, 1798, having been edited by Mr. Edes for 43 years. At the opening of the Revol. war, he possessed a handsome property, which was wholly lost by the depreciation of the currency. An obituary appeared in the Independent Chronicle of Dec. 19, 1803. — See Buckingham's Remin. of Printing.

Edes, PETER, son of the preceding, b. Boston, Dec. 17, 1756; d. Bangor, Me., in 1840. In partnership with his father; afterwards resided in Newport, R.I., Augusta and Hallowell, Me. Gen. Gage ordered his arrest "for having fire-arms concealed in his house;" and, two days after the battle of Bunker's Hill, he was thrown into prison in Boston, where he remained about three months. His journal, in MS., kept during his confinement, is in possession of the family.

Edmonds, FRANCIS W., banker and artist, b. Hudson, N.Y., Nov. 22, 1806; d. at his seat, Bronxville, Westch. Co., Feb. 7, 1863. Son of Gen. Samuel. He studied at the Nat. Acad. of Design, and became cashier of a bank, employing his leisure with his pencil. In 1835, he sent to the acad. his first picture, "Sammy the Tailor," which attracted attention, and was followed by the "Penny Paper," "Sparking," "The City and Country Beaux," "Dominie Sampson," "Commodore Trunion," &c. He became a member of the acad. in 1840; afterward visited Lond., Paris, and Rome, and assisted in the resuscitation of the American Art Union, and in the establishment of the N.Y. Gallery of Fine Arts.

Edmonds, JOHN WORTH, jurist and Spiritualist, b. Hudson, N.Y., March 13, 1799. Un. Coll. 1816. Adm. to the bar in 1819, he began practice in Hudson in 1820. Member of the legisl. in 1831, and of the senate and Court of Errors in 1832–6. In 1836–7, he was sent by govt. on special missions to the Indians on the frontiers. In 1837, he resumed practice in N.Y. City; became prison-inspector in 1843, inaugurating important reforms in the treatment of criminals; circuit judge, 1845–7; judge of the Sup. Court, 1847–1852, and member of the Court of Appeals in 1852–3, when he retired, and has since practised in New York. He became an avowed advocate of the belief in the intercourse of man with the spirits of the departed, in 1853, and in 1854–5 pub. "Spiritualism," in 2 vols., 8vo; d. N.Y. City, April 5, 1874.

Edwards, BELA BATES, D.D., scholar, b. Southampton, Ms., July 4, 1802; d. Ga., April 20, 1852. Amh. Coll. 1824. Descended from a Welsh family, embracing the two Jonathan Edwardses and Pres. Dwight among its descendants. Before he was 11, he had read the Bible through seven times, and Scott's Notes twice. He studied theology at Andover. Tutor at Amh. Coll. 1826–8; ass't. sec. Amer. Education Society 1828–36. In 1836, he was app. prof. of Hebrew in the theol. sem., and in 1848–52 occupied the chair of biblical literature. He pub. the "Ecletic Reader," and an introd. to it, "Biography of Self-taught Men," "Memoirs of E. Cornelius," 1842; a vol. on the "Epistle to the Galatians," the Missionary Gazetteer, 1832; translated, annotated, and criticised a large number of works; also ed. the Amer. Quarterly Register, 1827–42; conducted the Amer. Quarterly Observer (1833–6), the Biblical Repository (1835–8), and afterwards the Bibliotheca Sacra and Theol. Review (1844–52). A selection of his sermons, lectures, and addresses, with a memoir, by Prof. Park, was pub. in 2 vols., 12mo, Boston, 1853.

Edwards, BRYAN, historian, b. Westbury.

Digitized by Google

Wilts., Eng., May 21, 1743; d. July 15, 1800. He inherited a large fortune in Jamaica, became an eminent merchant, and a prominent member of the colonial assembly; returned to Eng., and in 1796 took his seat for the borough of Grampound, which he represented until his death. Author of "Thoughts on the Trade of the W.I. Islands with the U.S.," 1784; "History of the British Colonies in the W. Indies," 1793, 2 vols., 4to. A new edition of this work, pub. after his death, in 1801, 3 vols., 8vo, includes a "History of St. Domingo." — See Life pref. to Hist. W.I.

Edwards, CHARLES, lawyer in N.Y. City, b. Eng., 1797. Author of "Juryman's Guide," 8vo, 1831; "Parties to Bills and other Pleadings," 8vo, 1832; "Feathers from My Own Wings," 12mo, 1833; "Receivers in Chancery," 8vo, 1839, 1846; "Reports of Chancery Cases, 1st Circuit, N.Y., 1831–45," 4 vols., 8vo; "History and Poetry of Finger-Rings," 12mo, 1855; "Receivers in Equity," 1857; "Referees," 1860; "Stamp Act of 1862."

Edwards, HENRY WAGGAMAN, LL.D. (Y.C. 1833), gov. of Ct., b. N. Haven, 1779; d. there July 22, 1847. N. J. Coll. 1797. Grandson of Jonathan. He studied at the Litchf. Law School, and settled in N. Haven. Was M.C. 1819–23; U.S. senator in 1823–7; State senator, 1828–9; in 1830, a State representative, and speaker of the house, and gov. in 1833, and again in 1835–8.

Edwards, JONATHAN, the greatest of American metaphysicians, b. E. Windsor, Ct., 5 Oct 1703; d. Princeton, N.J., 22 Mar. 1758. Y. C. 1720. Timo. his father was minister of E.W. from May, 1694 to his d., 27 Jan. 1758, a. 88. H.U. 1691. He began to study Latin at 6, and before leaving coll. is said to have reasoned out for himself his great doctrine of freedom of the will. Before he was 20, he began preaching to a Presb. congregation in N. Y. City; was a tutor at Yale in 1724–6; then an assist. to his maternal grandfather, Mr. Stoddard, minister of Northampton, whom he succeeded; ord. 15 Feb. 1727, and soon after m. Sarah Pierrepont of N. Haven. Dismissed in June, 1750, for insisting upon a purer and higher standard of admission to the communion table. While missionary to the Stockbridge Indians in 1751–7, he wrote his celebrated work on "The Freedom of the Will," pub. 1754, and unequalled for close and subtile reasoning. Made pres. of N.J. Coll. in the latter part of 1757, and inaug. 16 Feb. 1758; d. soon afterward of small-pox. While at Stockbridge, his scanty means of subsistence were increased by a contrib. from his friends in Scotland, and by the industry of his wife and daughters, whose delicate handiwork was sent to Boston to be sold. He taught the doctrine, that philosophic necessity was compatible with freedom of the will, rightly defined, and with human responsibility, and was intensely attached to the system of Calvinism as opposed to that of Arminianism. Tall and slender in person, he had a high, broad, bold forehead, piercing and luminous eyes, and a countenance indicative of sincerity and benevolence. He left 5 daughters and 3 sons, one of whom was afterward pres of N.J. Coll. His other works are, "Treatise Concerning the Religious Affections," 1746; "Inquiry into the Qualifications for Full Communion in the Church," 1749; "Original Sin," 1757; "Dissertation concerning the End for which God created the World," 1789; "True Nature of Christian Virtue," 1788; "Thoughts on the Revival of Religion;" "History of the Redemption," and "Life of David Brainerd." His writings, with a Memoir by Sereno E. Dwight, were pub. 10 vols., 8vo, N.Y. — See, also, Life of Edwards, by S. Hopkins, Sparks's Amer. Biog., vol. viii., and Appleton's Cycl. art., "Edwards."

Edwards, JONATHAN, D.D. (N. J. Coll. 1785), son of the preceding, and also a theologian and metaphysician, b. Northampton, Ms., May 26, 1745, O.S.; d. Schenectady, N.Y., Aug. 1, 1801. N.J. Coll. 1765. At Stockbridge, he became thoroughly learned in the Indian language. A few months of his 10th year were passed among the Six Nations, learning the language, and becoming qualified to be a missionary among them; but the French war occasioned his return to Stockbridge. Studied divinity with Dr. Bellamy; was licensed to preach in 1766; in 1767–9 was tutor in N.J. Coll., and from 1769 to May 19, 1795, was pastor of the church in White Haven, Ct. He was in 1796 settled as pastor of the church in Colebrook, and corresp. extensively with learned men both in this country and Europe. From May, 1799, till his death, he was pres. of Un. Coll. His complete works, with a memoir by his grandson, Rev. Tryon Edwards, D.D., were pub. in 2 vols., 1842. Besides a "Dissertation on Liberty and Necessity," and a number of occasional sermons, he pub. "Observations on the Language of the Stockbridge Indians," since edited for the Ms. Hist. Soc. Colls. by the philologist Pickering; and edited from his father's MS., "The History of Redemption," 2 vols. of sermons, and 2 vols. of "Observations on Theol. Subjects." His only son, JONATHAN W., a disting. lawyer of Hartford, b. N. Haven, Ct., Jan. 5, 1772, d. Hartford, April 3, 1831. Y. C. 1789.

Edwards, JUSTIN, D.D. (Y.C.1827), clergyman, and advocate of temperance, b. Westhampton, Ms., April 25, 1787; d. Virginia Springs, July 23, 1853. Wms. Coll. 1810; And. Sem. 1814. From 1812 to 1827, pastor of a Cong. church at Andover; in 1828–9 pastor of a new church in Boston, but resigned from failing health, and becoming sec. of the Amer. Temperance Soc., of which he was the originator, he devoted 7 years to the cause by lectures and addresses in all parts of the land, and by preparing temperance documents. In 1836–42, he presided over the theol. sem. at Andover; one of the founders of the Tract Soc. at Boston in 1814; was corresp. sec. and principal manager, until in 1825 it was united with that of N.Y., when he was elected a member of the pub. committee. Of 4 of his tracts, no less than 750,000 were printed by the soc.; of his "Sabbath Manual," 535,000; of his "Temperance Manual," 143,000; of the "Comments on the New Testament," more than 70,000 before his death, the first vol. of the Old Testament, Genesis to Job, being then in press.

Digitized by Google

A Memoir of his life and labors, by Rev. Dr. Hallock, was pub. by the Tract Soc. in 1853.

Edwards, NINIAN, lawyer and statesman, b. Montgomery Co., Md., Mar. 1775; d. of cholera, at Belleville, Ill., July 20, 1833. His education, directed at one time by Wm. Wirt, was completed at Dick. Coll., Pa.; and at the age of 19 he located himself in the Green River dist., Ky. Elected to the legisl. before he was 21; adm. in 1798 to the bar of Ky., and in 1799 to that of Tenn., and rose rapidly in the profession. He was app. in 1803 judge of the Circuit Court; in 1806, of Appeals; in 1808, chief-justice of the State, and in 1809, on the organization of the Terr. govt. of Ill., was gov. until the organization of the State govt. in 1818. In 1816, with Gov. Clark and Col. Chouteau, he treated with the Indian tribes; in 1818–24, he was U.S. senator, and in 1824 he declined the Mexican mission. From 1826 to 1830, he was gov. of the State. During the War of 1812, his measures to prevent and counteract Indian hostilities were prompt, vigorous, and successful.

Edwards, OGDEN, jurist, b. Ct. 1781; d. Staten Island, Apr. 1, 1862. Grandson of Jonathan, and son of Pierrepont. He went to N.Y. ab. 1800; practised law; was surrogate for some years; a member of the State legisl., and of the conv. of 1821, in which he bore a disting. part. He then became Circuit Judge 1st judicial dist., which post he filled until 60 years of age.

Edwards, PIERREPONT, judge. Son of the metaphysician, b. Northampton, Ms., Apr. 8, 1750; d. Bridgeport, Ct., April 5, 1826. Princeton Coll. 1768. His father being a missionary to the Stockbridge Indians, his youth was passed among them; and he acquired their language perfectly. He commenced the practice of law in N. Haven, 1771; took an early and efficient part in the councils of Ct., in favor of Independence; served in the Revol. army, and was in two hard-fought battles, including that of Danbury. Member of the Old Congress, 1787–8, and an able advocate for the Constitution of the U.S., in the convention held to ratify it. Judge U.S. dist. court of Ct., at the time of his death. He was the founder of the "Toleration party" in Ct., and, by his ability and perseverance, drew upon himself the animosity of the Calvinists. First Grand Master of Masons in Ct. Father of H. W. and Ogden Edwards.

Edwards, TRYON, D.D., clergyman and author. Grandson of the 2d Pres. Edwards b. Hartford, Ct., Aug. 7, 1809. Y.C. 1828. He settled in the ministry at Rochester, N.Y., in 1834, and in N. London in 1845. He has pub. "Christianity a Philosophy of Principles," a memoir of the 2d Pres. Edwards, pub. with his complete works, 1842; "Self-Cultivation," 1843, and a memoir of Dr. Bellamy, pub. with his works, 1850. He has edited the works of Pres. Edwards (2d); a vol. from the MSS. of Pres. Edwards (1st), entitled "Charity and its Fruits;" "Select Poetry for Children and Youth," 1851; "Jewels for the Household," 1852; "The World's Laconics," 1852, and "Wonders of the World," 1853. Several of these have been repub. in Eng. He edited for many years the Family Christian Almanac.

Edwin, DAVID, engraver, b. Bath, Eng., Dec. 1776; d. Phila., Feb. 22, 1841. Son of John, the celebrated comic actor, who apprenticed him to an engraver, but joining an Amer. ship, before the mast, arrived in Phila. in Dec. 1797. He was employed by Edward Savage, the painter, and soon became the most eminent artist in the country, his reputation securing for him nearly all the portrait-engraving of the time. After 20 years' application to his craft, his sight failed, and he was compelled to resort to various methods for obtaining a livelihood; being at one time assist. to an auctioneer, then assist. treasurer at Warren's Theatre, and subsequently kept a grocery. He possessed taste and skill as a musician. — Simpson.

Egede (ĕg'-eh-deh), HANS, Danish missionary, b. Norway, Jan. 31, 1686; d. Isle of Falster, Nov. 5, 1758. In May, 1721, he went to Greenland to convert the inhabitants. He resided there 15 years, laid a successful foundation for the further propagation of Christianity, and successful and important commercial relations. He pub. a book on the topography and natural history of Greenland, in Danish, in 1729, afterwards translated into French, Dutch, and English.

Egede, PAUL, his son, b. near Drontheim, 1708; d. June 3, 1789. He assisted his father in the mission, from the age of 12, and became, in 1741, bishop of Greenland. He translated "The Imitation of Christ," and portions of the Bible, into the language of Greenland, and, at his departure, left the colony in a highly prosperous state. He was afterward active in forwarding the exploring mission of Lovenon to the coasts of Greenland, and, at the time of his death, occupied a chair of theology in the U. of Copenhagen. He pub. a new edition of his father's work, and a journal of his residence in Greenland, from 1721 to 1728.

Eggleston, MAJ. JOSEPH, one of the most efficient cavalry officers of the Revol. M.C. from 1798 to 1801; b. Amelia Co., Va., Nov. 24, 1754; d. there Feb. 13, 1811. Wm. and Mary Coll. 1776. He served under Col. Henry Lee and Greene; was in the battles of Guilford and Eutaw, and was some years member of the Va. assembly.

Ehninger, JOHN WHETTON, artist, b. N.Y., July 22, 1827. Col. Coll. 1847. He studied his art in Europe; was a pupil of Couture in Paris in 1848–9; and in 1851–3 visited Dusseldorf and the chief capitals of the Continent. His first oil painting, "Peter Stuyvesant" (1850), was engraved by the Amer. Art Union. Among his best works since are "Love me, Love my Horse," "The Sword," "The Foray," "Lady Jane Grey," and Ars Celare Artem. He has also produced some excellent etchings and drawings in outline, pencil, and India ink. A series of the former illustrated Hood's "Bridge of Sighs" in 1849 and in 1850, subjects from Irving's story of "Dolph Heyliger." Among his works are "Christ Healing the Sick," a pencil-drawing executed in 1857, and a set of 8 illustrations of Longfellow's "Miles Standish." Mr. E. has devoted much time to perfecting a system of photographic etching.

Elbert, SAMUEL, gen. Revol. army, b. Pr

Digitized by Google

Wm. Parish, S.C., 1740; d. Savannah, Ga., Nov. 2, 1788. Left an orphan at an early age, he went to Savannah, and engaged in commerce. Capt. of a grenadier company there in June, 1774. Member of the Savannah com. of safety; app. lieut.-col. Feb. 4, 1776; col. Sept. 16, 1776; com., in May, 1777, an exped. against the British in E. Fla.; captured Fort Oglethorpe at Frederica, Apr. 19, 1778, with the British vessels anchored there; actively engaged in that year in the vicinity of Savannah, and behaved gallantly at its attack by Col. Campbell, Dec. 29, 1778. He disting. himself in the action at Brier Creek, where he com. a brigade under Ashe, Mar. 3, 1779, and was made prisoner. After his exchange, he joined the army under Washington; was present at the surrender of Cornwallis, and made brev. brig.-gen. Nov. 3, 1783. Gov. of Ga. in 1785, and a maj.-gen. of militia at his death. — Hist. Mag., Jan. 1868.

Elder, WILLIAM, M.D., of Phila., b. Somerset, Pa., 1809. Author of "Periscopics," a vol. of miscellanies, 12mo, 1854; a new ed. entitled "The Enchanted Beauty," 12mo, N.Y., 1855; "Life of Dr. E. K. Kane," 8vo, 1857.

Elgin, JAMES BRUCE, earl of, gov. of Canada, 1846–54, b. 1811; d. 25 Nov. 1863. Educated at Oxford; M. P. 1841; succeeded to the title on the death of his father in Nov. 1841. Gov. of Jamaica, 1842–6. He was one of the ablest of Canadian govs. Ambassador to China, and afterward to Japan, he concluded treaties with both, the latter bearing date Aug. 26, 1858. Postmaster.-gen. of Eng., 1859–60; again ambassador to China in 1860; gov.-gen. of India, from 1860 to his death. Created a peer in 1849.

Eliot, ANDREW, D.D. (U. of Edinb. 1767), minister of Boston, b. Dec. 28, 1718; d. Sept. 13, 1778. H. U. 1737. Descended from Andrew of Somersetshire, who settled at Beverly, ab. 1683. Andrew, his father, was a merchant of Boston. Ord. pastor of the New North Church as coll. with Mr. Webb, Apr. 14, 1742; remained there till his death. During the occupancy of the town by the British, he alleviated the sufferings of the inhabitants, and ministered to his sick and wounded countrymen in prison. He was a friend to literature and science, and a benefactor of H.U. Author of a number of sermons, and in 1768 sent to a friend in Eng. an account of the effects of the dispute between Great Britain and America. Elected pres. of H.U., such was his attachment to his people, that he declined the honor. An 8vo vol. of his sermons was pub. in 1774.

Eliot, JARED, divine, physician, and scholar, b. Nov. 7, 1685; d. Killingworth, Ct., Apr. 28, 1763. Y. C. 1706. Grandson of the Apostle Eliot. From Oct. 26, 1709, to his death, he was minister to the First Church in Killingworth, Ct. He was one of the most useful men of his time. He was a good preacher, a physician of much repute, and excelled in the natural sciences; in 1761 was honored with a medal from the Lond. Society for the Encouragement of Arts, Manufactures, and Commerce. Member of the Roy. Soc. of Lond. He was the first to introduce the white mulberry-tree into Ct., and with it the silk-worm, and pub. a treatise upon the subject. Such was his success in the treatment of insanity and chronic complaints, that he was sometimes sent for to Newport and Boston, and was more extensively consulted than any other physician in N.E. He also pub. "Religion supported by Reason and Revelation," 1735; "Sermon on the Taking of Louisburg," 1745.

Eliot, JOHN, minister of Roxbury, Ms., "the Apostle to the Indians," b. Nasing, Essex, Eng., 1603; d. May 20, 1690. Educated at the U. of Camb. After pursuing the occupation of a teacher, came to Boston 2 Nov. 1631. He became minister of the church in Roxbury, Nov. 5, 1632, and soon conceived a strong passion for Christianizing and improving the condition of the Indians, of whom there were nearly 20 tribes, within the limits of the English plantations. Having acquired their language, he pub. a grammar, and a transl. of the Bible in it (1663); and the merit is claimed for him of having (Oct. 28, 1646) been the first Protestant clergyman who preached the gospel to the N. A. savages. In 1651, an Indian town was built on Charles River, called Natick, and the first Indian church established there in 1660. His humane efforts in behalf of the praying Indians, menaced with destruction during Philip's war in 1675 by the exasperated settlers, are worthy of especial praise. He left four sons, educated at H.U., classed with "the best preachers of their generation." He pub. several letters in a work entitled "The Glorious Progress of the Gospel among the Indians," 1649; "Tears of Repentance," in conjunction with Mr. Mayhew, 1653; "A Late and Further Manifestation of the Progress of the Gospel among the Indians," in 1658; "Of the Gospel among the Indians," in 1659; "A Brief Narrative of the Progress of the Gospel," 1670; "The Logic Primer for the Use of Indians," 1672; "The Psalms," translated into Indian metre, and a "Catechism," annexed to the edition of the New Testament, in 1680; a translation of "The Practice of Piety," of "Baxter's Call to the Unconverted," and of several of Shepard's works; "The Harmony of the Gospels in English," 1678; and "The Divine Management of Gospel Churches by the Ordinance of Councils, designed for the Reconciliation of the Presbyterians and Congregationalists." Nine of his letters to Sir Robert Boyle are included in the third, and his account of Indian churches in the tenth volume of the Hist. Colls. In 1639, he assisted in compiling a new version of the Psalms, known as "The Old Bay Psalm Book." In 1660, he issued a tract essaying to prove that the Indians are descendants of the Jews. Hutchinson, in his "Hist. of Ms.," relates, that, in 1660, the gov. and council of Ms. pronounced the "Christian Commonwealth," of which Eliot was the author, to be seditious. He acknowledged this by a public recantation.

Eliot, JOHN, D.D. (Edinb. 1797), minister of Boston, b. Boston, May 31, 1754; d. there Feb. 14, 1813. H.U. 1772. Ord. pastor of the New North Church, as successor of his father, Nov. 3, 1779, and remained there till his death. With his friend Jeremy Belknap, he founded

Digitized by Google

...more than ...rary ...me and ...Member ...ences. He ...Biograph- ...Account ...on of New ...ham, and ...search of Dr. ...of Ms. and ...John Eliot," ..." Memoirs of Dr. ...A. Eliot, and ...Coll. 1863), ...H.U. 1839, ...arrison of Samuel, ...ssorship at H.U. ...ge-room in Boston, ...ston. In 1845, at ...his "History of ...have appeared, ..."Ancient Romans," ..."The Early Chris- ...in the business of ...ses private pupils, he ...ssed to classes of young ...ized a charity school ...He pub. in 1856 "A ..., 1492–1856;" "Life ..." He is engaged upon ...ory of Liberty," treat- ...Mr Eliot has contrib. ...Prof. of history and ...County Coll., Hartford,

...ATKINS, merchant, b. ...d. Cambridge, Jan. 29, ... Samuel, his father, a ..., and benefactor of H.U., d. ... Mayor of Boston, 1837– ...in the State legisl. for ... and M.C. 1850–1. Father ...of H. U. since 1869.

...D., lawyer and M.C. (1854– ...b. Boston, 20 Mar. 1808; d. ...June, 1870. Col. Coll. (D.C.), ...ed law in the office of his uncle, ...Church, and became eminent in ...N. Bedford. Member of the ...of Ms., and prominent in the ...at Worcester in 1855. In Con- ...ok an active part in the legislation ...tion and welfare of the colored

...FRANK, commo. U.S.N., b. R.I. ...Jan. 1, 1812; lieut. Mar. 28, 1820; ...Feb. 10, 1862; retired 1840. Served in ..."Constellation" in all her cruises, and ...in the action with "The Belvidere;" ...a sword for his services on Lake ..., in "The Constellation" in Medit. ...capture of an Algerine frigate and a ...ship; operated against the patriots ...Fla., capturing a patriot priva- ...prize; com. steamer "Enterprise" ...Charleton, Vt., Mar. 24, 1871.

...WILLIAM, signer of the Declaration ...dence, and also of the Articles of ...tion, b. Newport, R.I., Dec. 22, 1727; d. there Feb. 13, 1820. H.U. 1747. Son of Lieut.-Gov. E. For some years after his marriage in 1750, he was engaged in mercantile pursuits in Newport; was some time naval officer of R. I., and in 1770, after 2 years' service as clerk of a court, commenced the practice of law at Newport, attaining high reputation for ability and integrity. He took an early and active part in asserting and explaining the political rights of the colonies. From May, 1776, to 1785, with the exception of 1780 and 1782, he was a deleg. to Congress, acting on many important committees relating to the finances and to diplomacy. As a member of the marine committee, and subsequently of the board of admiralty, he was eminently serviceable, and the plan of 5 ships to be fitted out at Newport has been attributed to him. He suffered great loss of property during the British occupancy of R.I. in 1777–8. App. commissioner of loans in Apr. 1786. Chosen chief-justice of the Sup. Court of R.I., he made strenuous efforts, in conjunction with Rufus King of N.Y., for the abolition of slavery in the U.S. He was coll. of the revenue at Newport from 1790 till his death. An interesting memoir, by his grandson, Prof. Channing, is in Sparks's "Am. Biography," vol. vi.

Ellet, CHARLES, Jun., engineer, b. Penn Manor, on the Delaware, Pa., Jan. 1, 1810; d. Cairo, Ill., June 21, 1862. He planned and built the first wire suspension-bridge in the U.S., — that across the Schuylkill at Fairmount. Designed and built that across the Niagara River, below the Falls, and also the first one at Wheeling, Va. For the Va. Central Railroad, he constructed a remarkable temporary track, leading over the Blue Ridge; and he improved the navigation of the Kanawha River. He was employed on the Baltimore and Ohio, the Reading and other Railroads, and was president of the Schuylkill Navigation Co. in 1846–7. On the breaking-out of the civil war, he turned his attention to the use of steam-vessels as rams. Having projected a plan for cutting off the confed. army at Manassas, and communicated it to Gen. McClellan, by whom it was rejected, he subsequently wrote two pamphlets severely censuring that general's mode of conducting the war. The navy dept. having declined to construct rams for service on the Mpi., according to his plan, he applied to Mr Stanton, sec. of war, by whom it was adopted. Made col. of engineers, he soon converted into rams 10 or 12 powerful steamers, with which he rendered great assistance in the naval battle of Memphis, June 4, where he sunk and disabled several of the enemy's vessels, and was struck by a musket-ball above the knee, from the effects of which he d. He wrote "An Essay on the Laws of Trade," 1839; a paper on the "Physical Geography of the Mpi. Valley, with Suggestions as to the Improvement of the Navigation of the Ohio, and other Rivers," in "Smithsonian Transactions," 1851; "The Mississippi and Ohio Rivers, containing Plans for the Protection of the Delta from Inundation," 8vo, Phila., 1853; a pamphlet on "Coast and Harbor Defences, or the Substitution of Steam Battering-Rams for Ships of War," Phila., 1855, and many other scientific papers. His bro

Digitized by Google

ALFRED W. ELLET, who held a commission under him as lieut.-col. in the same fleet, was app. brig.-gen. of vols., Nov. 1, 1862.

Ellet, COL. CHARLES RIVERS, son of Col. Charles, b. Phila., 1841; d. Bunker's Hill, Ill., Oct. 29, 1863. He received a thorough education. When the war broke out, he became assist. surgeon in a military hospital. He accomp. his father westward in the spring of 1862, and com. one of the rams in the action at Memphis, in which the father received a fatal wound. After his death, he became col. in the marine brigade of his uncle, Gen. Alfred W. Ellet, and soon after com. the brigade. With the ram "Queen of the West" as his headquarters, he made many daring expeds. on the Mpi. Feb. 10, 1863, in an exped. up the Red River, he captured the confederate steamer "Era," No. 5, and other vessels; but, getting aground, his vessel fell into the hands of the enemy, Ellet making his escape upon a bale of cotton. During and after the siege of Vicksburg, he rendered valuable assistance to Gen. Grant in keeping open his communications; but, in the course of this duty, he contracted the disease which proved fatal to him shortly after.

Ellet, ELIZABETH FRIES, authoress, wife of Wm. H., b. Sodus, N.Y., Oct. 1818; d. N.Y. City, June 4, 1877. The dau. of Dr. Wm. A. Lummis. She was educated at the female sem. at Aurora, Cayuga Co., N.Y.; m. Wm. H. Ellet at an early age, accomp. her husband to S. C., and returned to N.Y. in 1848. She pub. a vol. of poems in 1835; "Scenes in the Life of Joanna of Sicily," 1840; "Characters of Schiller," 1841, and "Country Rambles," and contrib. articles on French and Italian poetry and literature to several quarterly reviews. In 1848, she pub. in 3 vols., 12mo, "Women of the Amer. Revolution," one of her most popular works, the materials for which were derived from original sources. She also published "Evenings at Woodlawn," "Family Pictures from the Bible," 1840; "Domestic History of the Amer. Revolution," 1850; "Watching Spirits," 1851; "Pioneer Women of the West," 1852; "Novellettes of the Musicians," 1852; "Summer Rambles in the West," 1853; "Queens of Amer. Society," 1865; "Women Artists in all Ages and Countries," 1861; "Court Circles of the Republic" (with Mrs. R. E. Mack, 1869).

Ellet, WILLIAM HENRY, M.D., chemist, b. N.Y. City, Nov. 1, 1806; d. there Jan. 26, 1859. Col. Coll. 1824. While studying medicine, he gained a gold medal for a dissertation on the compounds of cyanogen. He was prof. of experim. chemistry in Col. Coll. from 1832 to 1835, and of chemistry, mineralogy, and geology, in the S.C. Coll., in 1835–48. The legisl. of S.C. presented him with a service of silver plate for the discovery of a new and cheap method of preparing gun-cotton. During the last 5 years of his life, he was consulting chemist of the Manhattan Gas Co. of N.Y. Elizabeth F. was his wife.

Ellicott, ANDREW, astronomer and civil engineer, b. Bucks Co., Pa., Jan. 24, 1754; d. West Point, N.Y., Aug. 29, 1820. His father and uncle united in purchasing a large tract of wild land on the Patapsco River, in 1770, and in 1774 founded the town of Ellicotts Mills, Md. His scientific attainments early attracted attention; and he enjoyed the friendship of Washington, Franklin, and Rittenhouse. He was at various times commis. for marking parts of the boundaries of Va., Pa., and N.Y. Ab. 1785, he removed to Baltimore, which he represented in the State legisl. In 1789, he was selected by Washington to survey the land lying between Pa. and Lake Erie, and during that year made the first accurate measurement of the Niagara River, from Lake to Lake. In 1790, he was employed by the govt. to survey and lay out the city of Washington. He was made surv.-gen. of the U.S. in 1792, supt. the construction of Fort Erie at Presque Isle in 1795, and was employed in laying out the towns of Erie, Warren, and Franklin. In 1796, he was app. by Washington commission. on behalf of the U.S., under the treaty of San Lorenzo, to determine the southern boundary separating the U. S. Territory from that of Spain. The results of this service of nearly 5 years appear in his "Journal," 4to, Phila., 1803. Until 1808, he was sec. of the Pa. land-office, and from 1 Sept. 1813, till his death, he was prof. of math. and civil engineering at West Point. In 1817, by order of govt, he went to Montreal to make astron. obs. for carrying out some of the articles of the treaty of Ghent. He was an active member and useful officer of the Amer. Philos. Soc., to whose "Transactions" he was a contrib. JOSEPH his bro., also a math. and surveyor, d. Batavia, N.Y. 1826. — Appleton.

Elliott, CHARLES, D. D. (Wesl. U. 1840), LL.D. (All. Coll. 1858). Methodist divine, b. Killybegs, Ireland, May 6, 1792; d. Mount Pleasant, Iowa, Jan. 6, 1869. He studied at Dublin; emig. to Amer. in 1814, and was received into the travelling connection of the Ohio conference in 1818. In 1822, he was supt. of the Wyandotte Mission, Upper Sandusky; was subsequently, for 5 years, pres. elder of the Ohio district, and was in 1827–31 prof. of languages in Madison Coll., Uniontown, Pa. Stationed at Pittsburg in 1831, he was subsequently pres. elder of that dist.; edited the Pittsburg Conference Journal, and afterwards edited the Western Christian Advocate at Cincinnati, where he remained until 1848. Resuming his regular clerical labor, he was in 1852 re-elected editor of the Advocate for 4 years. Pres. Ia. Wesl. U., 1856–60 and 1864–7. His publications are, "A Treatise on Baptism," 1834; "Life of Bishop Roberts," 1853; "Delineation of Roman Catholicism," 1851; "History of the Great Secession from the M. E. Church," 8vo, 1855; "Political Romanism," "Reminiscences of the Wyandotte Mission," and a "History of the M.E. Church in the South and West, from 1844 to 1866," 1868.

Elliott, CHARLES LORING, portrait painter, b. Scipio, N.Y., Dec. 1812; d. Albany, Aug. 25, 1868. Placed in a country-store at Syracuse, he devoted all his leisure-time to his favorite pursuits of drawing and painting; went to New York ab. 1834, and became a pupil of Trumbull and then of Quidor. He first attempted portraits without success; but some

Digitized by Google

...m
...ears
...Lany
...Sio. he
...Design.
...Greener
...Durand,
...t.
...uthor, b.
...meal de-
...ter some
...Ky. he in
...andscape-
...Newburgh,
...ese pursuits
...as resided in
...ers and first
...a Society" in
...ne of the com-
...Central Park.
...Glimpses of the
...ute Spiritual-
...ts Revolution
...venture," 12mo,
...istory, from the
...by the Northmen,
...Svo, 1857; "Cot-
...Svo, 1848.
...rom Vt., 1803–9, b.
...0 Nov. 1839. He
...nder Gen. Wayne in
...ngus of 1793–6, as a
...was a clerk in a
...n, Vt., and, while pre-
...se in verse and prose for
...Denne's Farmer's Mu-
...He resided a short
...e edited the Freeman's
...Brattleboro', Vt., he
...he practice of law, and
...State offices. He pub.
...n 1796, a vol. of poetry
..., a younger bro., was also
...tioner at the Brattleboro'
...n's Reminiscences, ii.
... DUNCAN, commodore U. S.
..., 1782; d. Phila., Dec. 10,
...Carlisle, Pa., and studied
...Apr. 1804; lieut. Apr. 23,
...24, 1813; capt. March 27,
...d in "The Essex," Capt. Bar-
...Tripolitan war, and in that
...sel on the lakes, under Chaun-
...Oct. 8, 1812, a boat exped.
...d under his com. on Lake Erie,
...ed the British brigs "Detroit"
..." They were boarded and
...ght loss. For this exploit, he
...ed by Congress with a sword. In ...York, U.C., July 24, 1813, he
...Madison," and was highly com-
...Perry's famous victory on Lake
..., Elliott com. "The Niagara,"
...for his conduct received a gold
...Congress. A court-martial, app.
...in consequence of insinuations to
...ment, pronounced him "a brave
...officer." He succeeded Perry in the com. on Lake Erie, in Oct. 1813; joined Decatur's Mediterranean squadron, in the sloop "Ontario," early in 1815; from 1817 to 1824 was a commiss. to select sites for dockyards, light-houses, and fortifications for the coast of N.C.; com. the W. India squad., in 1829–32; in 1833 took charge of the Charlestown Navy-Yard, and afterward, in "The Constitution," cruised several years in the Mediterranean. On his return, he was court-martialled, and suspended four years. A part of this sentence was remitted, and in 1844 he was app. to the Phila. Navy-Yard. He was, though a man of kind feelings, a rigid disciplinarian. A "biographical notice" of him, "by a citizen of New York," was pub. Phila., 12mo, 1835.

Elliott, JONATHAN, publicist, b. near Carlisle, Eng., 1784; d. Washington, March 12, 1846. Emig. to N.Y. ab. 1802. He was a printer, when in 1810 he vol. to assist in the establishment of the independence of New Granada, and was in several engagements under Bolivar, in one of which he was severely wounded. He was taken prisoner at the surrender of Gen. Miranda, in 1812, and suffered many hardships, but returned to the U.S. in 1813, and served in the Amer. army in the War of 1812–15. In 1814, he located himself in Washington, and edited with ability, during 13 years, the Washington Gazette. Author of "The American Diplomatic Code," 1827; "Debates on the Adoption of the Constitution," 1827–30; "Funding System of the U.S.," "Statistics of the U. S.," &c.; "The Comparative Tariffs," "Sketches of the District of Columbia," 1830. He also edited the "Madison Papers," 8vo, 1845.

Elliott, STEPHEN, LL.D.(Y.C. 1819), botanist, b. Beaufort, S.C., Nov. 11, 1771; d. Charleston, March 28, 1830. Y. C. 1791. He applied himself to the improvement of his estate and the cultivation of letters; was chosen to the legisl. at 22, continuing to serve until he became pres. of the State Bank, established in 1812. In 1813, he founded the Literary and Philosoph. Soc. of S.C., delivering in 1814 the first annual address, and subsequently a course of lectures on botany. Chief editor of the Southern Review. He pub. "Botany of S.C. and Georgia," 2 vols., 1821–4; was pres. of several literary and scientific societies, and prof. of natural history and botany in the State Med. Coll., which he was instrumental in establishing in 1825.

Elliott, STEPHEN, D.D., Pr.-Ep. bishop of Ga., son of the preceding, b. Beaufort, S.C., Nov. 13, 1805; d. Savannah, Dec. 21, 1866. Col. Coll., S.C., 1825; H.U. 1824. He practised law in Charleston and Beaufort until 1833; was ord. deacon in 1835; priest, July 22, 1838; and consec. bishop, Feb. 28, 1841. Prof. of the Evidences of Christianity and Sacred Literature in S.C. Coll. 1835–40.

Elliott, STEPHEN, JUN., brig.-gen. C.S.A., b. Beaufort, S.C., 1832; d. Aiken, S.C., 21 Mar. 1866. In 1861, he raised and equipped the Beaufort Artillery; at Pinckney Island, Aug. 1862, he com. 3 batteries, and was promoted for gallantry; com. Fort Sumter during its long bomb., and in July, 1864, was wounded by the explosion of a mine under his quarters.

Digitized by Google

Elliot, WASHINGTON L., brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. Pa.; app. 2d lieut. mounted rifles, May 27, 1846; 1st lieut. July, 1847; capt. July, 1854; maj. 1st cav. Feb. 1862; lieut.-col. Aug. 31, 1866. He disting. himself in conflicts with the Navajoes in New Mexico, Sept. 1858; brig.-gen. vols. June 11, 1862; engaged at Springfield and Wilson's Creek; col. 2d Iowa cav. Sept. 1861; com. cav. brigade at New Madrid, Island No. 10, Corinth, and raid on Ohio and Miss. R. R.; chief of cav., Army of Va., and wounded at second battle of Bull Run; chief of cav., Army of the Cumberland; in the Atlanta campaign, and pursuit of Hood; com. division 4th corps, Dec. 1864 to Apr. 1865; engaged in battles around Nashville, Tenn., for which he was brev. brig.-gen. U.S.A., and brev. maj.-gen for gallant services in the war. Author of "Manual for Cavalry." — Henry.

Elliott, WILLIAM, author and politician, b. Beaufort, S.C., April 27, 1788; d. there Feb. 1863. H. U. 1809. His father, William, (b. 1761, d. 1808), joined in the patriotic struggle against the mother-country, along with his uncles John, Edward, and Robert Barnwell. At the surprise on John's Island, he was dangerously wounded, taken prisr., and immured in a prison-ship. He served in both branches of the legisl. The son devoted himself for many years to the management of his estates, and served with credit in both branches of the State legisl. During the nullification crisis of 1832, he resigned his State senatorship upon being instructed by his constituents to vote to nullify the tariff-law. He pub. in 1851 letters against secession, signed "Agricola." Contrib. largely to the periodical press of the South; pub. an "Address before the St. Paul's Agricultural Society," 1850; "Carolina Sports by Land and Water," 1856; "Fiesco," a tragedy, printed for the author in 1850, and a number of occasional poems of merit.

Elliot, WILLIAM, lawyer, b. Marblehead, Ms., Aug. 17, 1803. Dartm. Coll. 1826. He practised law in Marblehead, Boston, and at Lewiston, Ill., in 1832; postmaster there in 1832–7; master in chancery, 1835–50; State's atty., 5th judicial district, 1838–48; has pub. "Visions of Quevedo," translated from the Spanish. — Alumni D. C.

Ellis, GEORGE EDWARD, D.D. (H. U. 1857), Unitarian clergyman and author, b. Boston, Aug. 8, 1814. H.U. 1833; Camb. Div. School, 1836. Mar. 11, 1840, he was ord. pastor of the Harvard Church, Charlestown, Ms.; resigned 22 Feb. 1869. He wrote for "Sparks's Amer. Biog." Lives of John Mason, Anne Hutchinson, and Wm. Penn; in 1857 pub "The Half-Century of the Unitarian Controversy;" was some time editor of the Christian Register, and for some years conducted, with Rev. George Putnam, the Christian Examiner. He has contrib. to various periodicals, including the N. Y. Review, the North American, and the Atlantic Monthly, chiefly upon topics of American history. Prof. of doctrinal theology in the Camb. Divinity School, 1857–63. A prominent member of the Ms. Hist. Soc., and active in antiquarian researches. He is also a zealous friend of popular education, having spoken and written much for common schools, and has published many sermons, addresses, and pamphlets. In 1864, he gave a course of Lowell Lectures on the Evidences of Christianity. Author of "The Aims and Purposes of the Founders of Ms.," 1869. In 1871, he wrote the Life of Count Rumford to accompany a complete edition of the works of that distinguished philosopher, pub. in 4 vols., by the Amer. Acad. of Arts and Sciences, of which he is a fellow.

Ellis, HENRY, F.R.S., explorer, b. Eng., 1721; d. 21 Jan. 1806. Educated to the law at the Temple, Lond. In May, 1746, he went out as agent of a company for the discovery of a north-west passage. After extinguishing with difficulty a fire in his ship, he proceeded to Greenland; exchanged commodities with the Esquimaux, July 8; proceeded to Fort Nelson; wintered in Hayes River; renewed his efforts in June, 1747, without success, and returning Oct. 14, pub. in 1748 the "Voyage made to Hudson's Bay in 1746–7, by the 'Dobbs Galley' and 'The California,' to discover a North-west Passage," &c. Ellis was rewarded for his services by being made lieut.-gov. of Georgia, 15 Aug. 1756; arrived at Savannah, 16 Feb. 1757, and May 17, 1758, was made gov.-in-chief. His services to the Colony were great, and he was highly esteemed: but the climate was injurious to his health; and he left the Province, Nov. 2, 1760. He was gov. of Nova Scotia in 1761–4. He afterward resided in Italy, principally occupied in scientific researches. His "Voyage" contains much valuable information. JOHN ELLIS, F.R.S., agent for West Florida and Dominican, d. Oct. 18, 1776.

Ellis, JOHN WILLIS, politician, b. Rowan, N.C., Nov. 25, 1820; d. Raleigh, 1861. U. of N.C. 1841. He studied law; was a member of the House of Commons in 1844–8; then became judge of the Superior Courts of Law and Equity, and was gov. of N.C. from 1859 till his death. Active in promoting the secession of his State.

Ellis, POWHATAN, lawyer and politician, b. Va. Wm. and M. Coll. 1813. He removed to Mpi., where he practised law; became a judge of the Supreme Court; U.S. senator in 1825 and in 1827–33; chargé d'affaires to Mexico in 1836–9, and minister to Mexico in 1839–42.

Ellsworth, EPHRAIM ELMER, col. U.S. vols., b. Mechanicsville, N.Y., Apr. 23, 1837; killed at Alexandria, Va., May 24, 1861. He found mercantile employment in Troy, in N.Y., and finally in Chicago, where, as a patent-solicitor, he acquired a good income. Engaging in the study of law, he gratified also his military predilections, and formed a Zouave corps in Chicago. They visited the Eastern cities in July, 1860, and excited universal admiration. He organized a Zouave regt. on his return to Chicago, where he was a zealous advocate also for the election of Mr. Lincoln, whom he accomp. to Washington. In April, 1861, he organized a Zouave regt. from the N.Y. fire-dept., and in 3 weeks led them into Washington. Ordered to Alexandria, they entered that city early in the morning of the 24th of May. Seeing a secession flag flying over the Marshall House, he with two companions entered the house, and took it down. As he descended from the roof, the proprietor, Jackson, shot him, killing himself the next instant by a ball from Brownell, one of Ellsworth's companions.

Digitized by Google

Ellsworth, Henry Leavitt, agriculturist, son of Chief-Justice E., b. Windsor, Ct., Nov. 10, 1791; d. Fairhaven, Ct., Dec. 27, 1858. Y.C. 1810. After studying law with Judge Gould at Litchfield, he settled at Windsor, but in a few years removed to Hartford, where he remained 8 or 10 years, when he was app. resident commiss. among the Indian tribes to the south and west of Ark. U.S. commiss. of patents, 4 July, 1836–May, 1845. In this post, his labors were of great importance; and his series of reports to Congress on the agriculture of the country led to great improvements in that science. He then established himself at Lafayette, Ind., in the purchase and settlement of U.S. land. In 1857, he returned to Ct. Author of "Digest of Patents, from 1770 to 1839," 8vo, 1840. — Hist. Magazine, iii., 94.

Ellsworth, Henry William, lawyer, author, and chargé d'affaires to Sweden, 1845–50, b. Windsor, Ct., 1814; d. N. Haven, Aug. 1864. Y.C. 1834. Son of Henry L. He studied in the N. Haven Law School; removed to Ind. in 1835, and after 1850 was counsel for S. F. B. Morse in suits connected with his telegr. patents. Author of "Sketches of the Upper Wabash Valley, Ind.," 8vo, N.Y., 1838. Contrib. to the Knickerbocker Mag., &c. — See Poets and Poetry of the West.

Ellsworth, Mrs. Mary W., author, d. Newton, Ms., 15 Aug. 1870. — See Janvrin.

Ellsworth, Oliver, LL.D. (Y.C. 1790), chief-justice of the U.S., b. Windsor, Ct., Apr. 29, 1745; d. there Nov. 26, 1807. N.J. Coll. 1766. His father was a farmer. Adm. to the bar in 1771, he commenced practice at Hartford, and acquired in a few years a high professional reputation, and was app. State-atty. As a member of the gen. assembly of Ct., he took a large share in all the Revol. political discussions and measures. In 1777–80, he was a delegate to Congress. In 1780, he became a member of the council of Ct., and in 1784 was app. a judge of the Superior Court. In 1787, he was a delegate to the convention for framing the Federal Constitution. It is believed that the present organization and mode of app. of the senate were suggested by him. Other duties calling him away, his name is not among the signers of the Constitution, which was adopted, but he approved the work, and warmly supported it in the State convention. U.S. senator, 1789–95. He drew up the bill organizing the judiciary, and took a prominent part in most of the great questions of politics or public economy. In March, 1796, Washington app. him chief-justice of the U. S. Sup. Court. At the close of the year 1799, Davie, Wm. Van Murray, and himself were sent envoys to France to adjust those differences which had assumed the character of war. The convention which they concluded with the French Govt. obtained the assent of the pres. and senate. In 1802, he entered again into the council of the State, and in 1807 was elected its chief-justice, but declined the station.

Ellsworth, William Wolcott, LL.D. (U. of N.Y. 1838), jurist, twin bro. of Henry L., and son of Chief-Justice Oliver, b. Windsor, Ct., Nov. 10, 1791; d. Hartford, Ct., Jan. 15, 1868. Y. C. 1810. Studied law; practised with success from 1813 to 1829; was a prof. of that science in Trinity College from 1827 till his death; M. C. 1829–33; gov. 1838–42, and was a judge of the Sup. Court of the State from 1847 to 1861. He twice declined an election to the U.S. senate from unwillingness to be drawn farther away from his cherished profession. — Y. C. Obit. Record.

Elmer, Ebenezer, the last surviving Revol. officer of N.J., b. Cedarville, N.J., 1752; d. Bridgeton, Oct. 13, 1843. Grandson of Rev. Daniel Elmer. After receiving a classical education, he studied medicine with his brother Dr. Jonathan, but in 1775 entered the army as an ensign, which in 1777 he resigned for the appointment of surgeon 2d N.J. regt. He practised physic at Bridgeton after the war; in 1789 was elected a member of the Assembly, in which he served several years; speaker in 1791 and 5; was M. C. 1801–7; many years brig.-gen. of militia; vice-president Burlington Coll. 1808–17 and 1822–32.

Elmer, Jonathan, physician, magistrate, and senator, b. Cumberland Co., N.J., 1745; d. Burlington, 1817. U. of Pa. Brother of Ebenezer. He practised physic with reputation in his native county; was a sheriff, a surrogate, and a judge during the Revol.; was a member of the Cont. Congress in 1776–8, 1781–4, and 1787, and a U.S. senator in 1789–91. Member of the Philos. Society.

Elmer, Lucius Q. C., LL.D. (N.J. Coll. 1865), jurist, b. Bridgeton, N.J., 1793. N.J. Coll. 1824. Educated a lawyer, and practised in his native town. For many years, he was State prosecutor; was in the Assembly in 1820–3, in the latter year its speaker; U.S. atty. for N.J. in 1824–9; M.C. 1843–5; atty.-gen. 1850–2, and in 1852–9 was one of the justices of the Sup. Court of the State. He pub. "Digest of the Laws of N.J," Bridgeton, 8vo, 1838.

Elmore, Franklin Harper, senator, b. Laurens Dist., S.C., 1799; d. Washington, May 29, 1850. S.C. Coll. 1819. Adm. to the bar in 1821; in 1822–36 was solicitor of the Southern Circuit; M.C. 1837–9; U.S. senator to fill the vacancy occasioned by the d. of Calhoun. Selected in 1838 by the S. C. Cong. delegation to obtain authentic information concerning the antislavery movement, the letters which passed between him and James G. Birney were printed, and went through many editions under the title of the "Elmore Corresp." Pres. State Bank of S.C. 1839–50.

Elmsley, John, chief-justice of Canada, b. Eng., 1763; d. Montreal, April 29, 1805. Nephew of the celebrated Lond. bookseller of the same name. He had been speaker of the legisl. and a member of the exec. council; app. chief-justice, Oct. 13, 1802, having previously served as a puisne judge in U. Canada. — Morgan.

Elphinstone, George Keith, Viscount,

Digitized by Google

a British adm., b. 1747; d. March, 1823. He was made com. in 1772; post-captain in 1775; adm. of the white, 1805. During the Amer. war, he com. the "Pearl," frigate, 32 guns; was in the attack on Mud Island; and at the capture of Charleston com. a detachment of seamen, and for his effective services obtained the warm commendation of Gen. Clinton. In 1782, he captured the French frigate "L'Aigle," of 40 guns. In 1795, he was made vice-adm., and captured Cape Town. In 1802, he was com.-in-chief in the Mediterranean, where he took Malta and Genoa. For his services in Egypt, he was, in 1801, made Baron Keith; Viscount, 1814.

Elton, Romeo, D.D., LL.D., clergyman and scholar, b. Bristol, Ct., 1790; d. Boston, Feb. 5, 1870. Brown U. 1813. He was ord. June 11, 1817, as a Baptist minister in Newport, R.I., and in 1824 at Windsor, Vt.; in 1825 became prof. of ancient languages and literature in Brown U. Before entering upon this duty, he spent two years in Europe, principally in Germany and Italy. Resigning in 1843, he in 1845–67 resided in Exeter, Eng., returning to the U.S. in 1869. Besides sermons, he pub. "Callender's Century Sermon;" edited, with copious notes and biog. sketches, "The Works of President Maxcy," with an introd. memoir; and a "Biog. Sketch of Roger Williams." D.D. of Nashville U., 1842. Some years one of the editors of the Eclectic Review. He bequeathed $20,000 to Brown U., and the same sum to Columbia Coll., D.C., to found professorships.

Ely, Ezra Stiles, D.D. (Wash. Coll. Tenn.), Presb. clergyman, b. Lebanon, Ct., June 13, 1786; d. Phila., June 17, 1861. Y.C. 1804. Son of Zebulon, minister of Lebanon from 1783 to his d., Nov. 18, 1824, a. 65 (Y.C. 1779; tutor there, 1781–2.) In Oct. 1806, he became pastor in Colchester, Ct.; was afterward city missionary in N.Y.; was subsequently, for 20 years, pastor of the Pine-st. Church, Phila., and in 1834 undertook to establish a coll. and theol. sem. in Mo., but, owing to the financial reverses of 1837, was unsuccessful. Pastor of the First Church in the Northern Liberties, Phila., from 1844 until the failure of his health in 1851. Author of "Ely's Journal;" a "Collateral Bible," 1828; a memoir of his father; "Endless Punishment," 1835; "Conversations on the Science of the Human Mind," 1819; "Visits of Mercy;" "Sermons on Faith;" "Contrast between Calvinism and Hopkinsianism," 1811. For several years, he edited gratuitously a religious paper called the Philadelphian. — Ob. Rec. Yale, 1861.

Embury, Emma Catharine, poetess, b. N.Y., 1806; d. Brooklyn, N.Y., Feb. 10, 1863. Dau. of Dr. James R. Manly of N.Y.; m. in 1828 to Daniel Embury of Brooklyn. She early became known as a writer of verses in the N. Y. Mirror and other journals, under the signature of "Ianthe." She pub. "Guido and other Poems, by Ianthe," 1828; on "Female Education;" "The Blind Girl and other Tales;" "Pictures of Early Life;" "Glimpses of Home-Life, or Causes and Consequences;" "Nature's Gems, or American Wild Flowers," 1845; "Love's Token-Flowers," a vol. of poems, and in 1848 "The Waldorf Family." — Duyckinck.

Emerson, George Barrell, LL.D. (H.U. 1859), teacher, b. Kennebunk, Me., Sept. 12, 1797. H.U. 1817. Son of Dr. Samuel, a surgeon in the Revol. war (b. Hollis, N.H., Sept. 6, 1765; d. Aug. 8, 1851. H.U. 1785). taught dist. schools in Me. and Ms.; then took charge of an acad. at Lancaster, Ms.; was tutor in math. and nat. philos. in H.U. from 1819 to 1821; in 1821–3 was principal of the English High School for boys in Boston, and from 1823, till his retirement from prof. life in 1855, kept a private school for girls there. Author of the second part of "The School and the Schoolmaster," and of a number of lectures on education, and of contribs. to the periodical press. Many years pres. of the Boston Soc. of Natural History, and, as chairman of the commiss. for the zoöl. and bot. survey of Ms., pub. a "Report on the Trees and Shrubs growing naturally in the Forests of Ms.," 1846.

Emerson, Ralph, D.D (Y.C. 1830), b. Hollis, N.H., 18 Aug. 1787; d. Rockford, Ill., 26 May, 1863. Y. C. 1811; And. Sem. 1814. Tutor at Yale, 1814–16; pastor of a Cong. Church at Norfolk, Ct., 1816–29; prof. eccl. hist. and past. theol., And. Sem., 1829–54; resided in Newburyport 5 years, and then removed to Rockford, Ill. Author of a Life of his bro. Rev. Joseph Emerson, a transl., with notes, of Wiggins's "Augustinism and Pelagianism," and a contrib. to Biblioth. Sacra, Christian Spectator, and other religious periodicals. — Y. C. Obit. Rec.

Emerson, Ralph Waldo, LL.D. (H.U. 1866), essayist, b. Boston, May 25, 1803. H. U. 1821. Son of Rev. Wm. Emerson, and is the 8th in succession of a consecutive line of ministers. For 5 years after leaving coll., he was engaged in teaching school. In 1826, he was app. to preach by the Middlesex Assoc. From Mar. 11, 1829, to 28 Oct. 1832, he was coll. of Henry Ware at the 2d Unit. Church, Boston. Returning in the winter of 1833–4 from a year's visit to Europe, he began the career of a lecturer, in which he has gained great distinction. In 1834, he delivered in Boston a series of biographical lectures on Michael Angelo, Milton, Luther, George Fox, and Edmund Burke. The first two afterwards appeared in the N.A. Review. In Sept. 1835, he m. Lydia, dau. of Charles Jackson of Plymouth, and fixed his residence at Concord, Ms. In 1840, he was a contrib. to a quarterly periodical, The Dial, the organ of the N.E. Transcendentalists, and, for the last two years of its existence, its editor. He again visited Eng. in 1847. In 1852, he contrib. some admirable interpretative criticisms to the "Memoirs of Margaret Fuller." Mr. Emerson has delivered many unpublished addresses on slavery, woman's rights, and other topics of public interest. "As a writer, Mr. Emerson is distinguished for a singular union of poetic imagination with practical acuteness. His style is condensed, almost to abruptness, occasionally purchasing compression at the expense of clearness." He has pub. "Essays," 1st series, 1841; 2d series, 1844; "Poems," 1846; "Miscellanies," (including "Nature," and 9 lectures and addresses), 1849; "Representative Men," 1850; "English Traits," 1856; "Conduct of Life," 1860; "May-Day and other Poems," "Society and Solitude," 1869. An edition of his works was pub. in 2 vols., 1870, by Fields, Osgood, & Co.

Digitized by Google

Emerson, WILLIAM, Unit. minister, father of Ralph Waldo, b. Concord, Ms., May 6, 1769; d. May 12, 1811. H.U. 1789. Grandson of Rev. Joseph of Malden, and son of Rev. Wm. of Concord, who d. a chaplain in the army in 1776. He became the first minister of Harvard, May 20, 1792, and from Oct. 16, 1799, to his death, was pastor of the First Church in Boston. He was one of the best writers, and most accomplished pulpit orators, of his time. In 1804 he conducted the Monthly Anthology. His numerous addresses on public occasions rank among the most correct and finished compositions of the period. His "History of the First Church of Boston" was pub., with two of his sermons annexed, 8vo, 1812, a "Selection of Psalms and Hymns," 1808.

Emmet, THOMAS ADDIS, LL.D. (Col. Coll., N.Y., 1824). Politician and lawyer, brother of the celebrated Robert Emmet, b. Cork, 1764; d. N. Y., Nov. 14, 1827. Trin. Coll., Dub. Son of an eminent Dublin physician. Studied medicine at the U. of Edinburgh; then studied law at the Temple, London, two years, and was adm. to the Dublin bar in 1791, soon rising to distinction. He soon became a leader of the "United Irishmen," and was one of its gen. committee. Arrested with others in 1798, he was imprisoned in Fort George, Scotland, 2 1-2 years, and, after the treaty of Amiens, was permitted to withdraw to France, where his wife joined him. He arrived in Amer. Nov. 11, 1804, rose to eminence in his prof. in New York, and was atty.-gen. of that State in 1812. While in prison in Scotland, he wrote "Pieces of Irish History, illustrative of the Condition of the Catholics of Ireland," pub. in connection with Dr. MacNevin, in 1807. He was a laborious, able, and successful pleader, and an energetic and florid orator. See his Memoirs, by Charles G. Haynes, 12mo, 1829.

Emmons, EBENEZER, M.D., geologist, b. Middlefield, Ms., May 16, 1799; d. Brunswick, N.C., Oct. 1, 1863. Wms. Coll. 1818. He studied and practised medicine successfully, and in 1833 became prof. of nat. hist. in Wms. Coll. Here he made important additions to the knowledge of the botany, geology, and mineralogy of the Northern States, and made a Report on the Quadrupeds of Ms. In 1836, while engaged upon the geol. survey of N. Y., as one of the geologists in chief, he formed what he called his "Taconic" theory in opposition to the received theory of the Silurians. Opposed at first by all scientific men, his views came at length to be universally adopted. App. in 1838 prof. of chemistry in the Albany Med. Coll., and removed to that city. He pub. valuable reports on the "Natural History of New York," "Manual of Mineralogy and Geology," 1826. In 1858–9, he was app. by the legisl. of N.C. to conduct the geol. survey of that State. He was prevented from leaving the State when the Rebellion began, and was not permitted to correspond with his Northern friends. It is supposed that he was detained a prisoner on parole by the Confed. Govt. He pub. 3 reports on the Geology and Agriculture of N.C., in 1856, 1858, and 1860; also text-books of geology in 1854 and 1860.

Emmons, GEORGE F., commo. U. S. N., b. Vt., Aug. 23, 1811. Midshipman, April 1, 1828; lieut. Feb. 25, 1841; com. Jan. 28, 1856; capt. Feb. 7, 1863; commo. Sept. 20, 1868. Attached to Wilkes's Expl. Exped., 1838–42; actively employed in Cal., and in several engagements there during the Mexican war; com. steamer "Hatteras," West Gulf squadron, 1862, steamer "R. B. Cuyler," same squad, 1863; captured Cedar Keys, Florida, 1862, and Pass Christian, Mpi., taking some 20 prizes, among them the rebel ram "Webb;" com. steamsloop Lackawana, 1864–5, and prevented destruction of the city and shipping of N. Orleans by the rebels; took charge of the hydrographic office in 1870. Author of "Navy of the U.S.," 4to, 1853.—Himersly's Records U. S. N.

Emmons, NATHANAEL, D.D. (Dartm. Coll. 1798), theologian, b. East Haddam, Ct., May 1, 1745, O.S.; d. Franklin, Ms., Sept. 23. 1840. Y. Coll. 1767. Pastor of the second church of Wrentham, now Franklin, from Apr. 1773 to 1827. His ability made him prominent for half a century; and his opinions were extensively sought and quoted by persons engaged in religious controversy. Six vols. of his works were pub. in 1842, edited by his son-in-law, Dr. Jacob Ide, with a memoir prefixed, and a list of 150 of his productions. Dr. E. belonged to the Hopkinsian school of divines, long held among them the first rank, and was one of the founders and first pres. of the Ms. Missionary Society.

Emory, JOHN, D.D., bishop of the M.E. Church, b. Queen Anne's Co., Md., April 11, 1789; d. Baltimore Co., Md., Dec. 16, 1835. Wash. Coll., Md. Adm. to the bar in 1808. After practising a short time with success, he entered the Phila. M.E. Conf., in 1810, filled important stations in the church from 1813 to 1820, and was a delegate to every general conf. but one during his life. In 1820, he was a delegate to the British conf. In 1824, he became connected with the N.Y. Pub. Society, and pub. a "Defence of the Original Organization of the M. E. Church," defending the policy of Wesley and his associates. Chosen bishop in 1832. His death was caused by being thrown from his carriage. He assisted in the organization of the U. of N.Y., the Wesleyan U., and Dick. College, and prepared for them a beneficial course of study. His writings, with a Life, by his son, app. in 1 vol., 8vo, 1841.

Emory, ROBERT, clergyman, son of Bishop John, b. Phila., July 29, 1814; d. Baltimore, May 18, 1848. Col. Coll. 1831. After studying law, he was from 1834 to 1839 prof. of ancient languages at Dick. College; then entered the Baltimore Annual Conf. of the Methodist-Episcopal Church, but was recalled in 1842 as pres. pro tem., and, on the resignation of Dr Durbin, was chosen pres. of Dickinson Coll. Besides a life of his father, he left a "History of the Discipline of the M. E. Church," 1843, and an unfinished "Analysis of Butler's Analogy," completed by Rev. George Crooks in 1856, and introduced as a text-book into many institutions of learning.

Digitized by Google

Emory, WILLIAM HELMSLEY, brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. Queen Anne's Co., Md., ab. 1812. West Point, 1831. Entering the 4th Art., he resigned Sept. 30, 1836; app. 1st. lieut. topog. engineers, 7 July, 1838; acted as aide-de-camp to Gen. Kearney in Cal. in 1846–7; was brev. capt. for gallantry at San Pasqual, Dec. 6, 1846, and maj. for gallantry at San Gabriel and the plains of Mesa, Cal., Jan. 9, 1847; app. maj. 3d. Dragoons, 9 Apr. 1847, but declined; lieut.-col. vols. in the Mexican war, Sept. 30, 1847: astronomer to the commiss. to survey the boundary between the U.S. and Mexico, in 1848–50; became capt. 24 April, 1851; again astronomer to the same commiss. in Sept. 1851; member of the commiss. 1854–7; maj. 2d Cav. March 3, 1855, and in May was transferred to 1st Cavalry. When the civil war broke out, he was serving in New Mexico, brought his command in good order to Kansas, and was app., May 14, 1861, lieut.-col. 6th Cav. He served in the Peninsular campaign in the Army of the Potomac; became brig.-gen. of vols. March 17, 1862, and Dec. 5, sailed from Fortress Monroe in com. of a division of a Southern exped. He com. a division of Banks's army at Port Hudson, Sabine Cross-Roads, and Pleasant Hill; and in Sheridan's campaign against Early in the Shenandoah Valley com. the 19th corps; brev. col. 27 May, 1862, for Hanover C. H., Va.; col. 5th Cav. Oct. 27, 1863; brev. brig. and maj. gen. U. S. A. 13 Mar. 1865, for Fisher's Hill and campaign of Shenandoah Valley, and for Cedar Creek; maj.-gen. vols 25 Sept. 1865. Author of "Notes of a Military Reconnoissance in Mo. and Cal.," N.Y., 8vo, 1848; "Notes of Travel in California," 8vo, N.Y.; "Report of the U.S. and Mexican Boundary Commission," Washington, 4to.

Emott, JAMES, LL.D. (Col. Coll. 1833), judge, b. Poughkeepsie, N.Y., March 14, 1771; d. there April 10, 1850. Un. Coll. 1800. He began to practise law at Ballston Centre; removed to Albany ab. 1800; was a commissioner to settle disputes concerning titles to lands in the military tract of Onondaga Co. in 1797; represented Albany Co. in the legisl. in 1804; practised law a while in N.Y. City, but returned to Poughkeepsie; from 1809 to 1813, he was a leader of the Federalist party in Congress; speaker of the N.Y. legisl. in 1814; member of that body until 1817; first judge of Duchess Co. in 1817–23, and judge of the Second Circuit in 1827–31.

Endecott, JOHN, gov. of Ms. Colony, b. Dorchester, Eng., 1588; d. Boston, March 15, 1665. He m. a cousin of Mathew Cradock, gov. of the Ms. comp. in Eng., and was bro.-in-law to Roger Ludlow, dep.-gov. Sent to this country as their agent to carry on the settlement at Naumkeag, or Salem: he arrived Sept. 6, 1628, and there laid the foundation of the first permanent town in Ms. In April, 1629, the comp. chose him gov. of London's Plantation, but in Aug. the charter and the govt. of the Colony was transferred to N.E., and Winthrop, who arrived in 1630, was app. gov. In 1636, he was sent on an exped. against the Indians on Block Island and in the Pequot country. During this year, the military commissioners adopted his views relative to the cross in the king's colors, namely, that it savored of Popery, and ordered it to be left out. He was dep.-gov. in 1641–3, gov. in 1644, when he removed from Salem to Boston, and from 1649 until his death in 1665, excepting in 1650 and 1654, when he was dep.-gov. In 1645, he was made sergeant major-gen. of Ms., the highest military office in the Colony. In 1652, he established a mint, which, though unlawful, continued to coin money more than 30 years. In 1658, he was made pres. of the colonial commissioners. He was a man of good education, talented, brave, and patriotic, but deeply imbued with the intolerance of his times. Under his administration, the Colony flourished greatly.

England, JOHN, D.D., R.C. bishop, b. Cork, Ireland, Sept. 23, 1786; d. Charleston, S.C., April 11, 1842. He entered Carlow Coll. in 1803, and while there founded a female penitentiary, and poor schools for both sexes. Adm. to orders at Cork, Oct. 9, 1808, he was soon after app. lecturer at the North Chapel, and chaplain of the prisons; began in 1809 to pub. the Religious Repertory, a monthly; and in 1812 distinguished himself in the cause of Catholic emancipation. The freedom of his language more than once brought him before the courts; and on one occasion he was fined £500. He was app. pres. of the Coll. of St. Mary; also filled the office of bishop's sec.; performed the ordinary duties of the ministry, and in 1817 was made parish priest of Brandon. Raised to the episcopate Sept. 21, 1820, he came in Dec. to Charleston, S.C., where he established a theol. sem., and a journal, The Catholic Miscellany, the first Catholic paper pub. in America. In 1826, at the request of Congress, he preached before the senate at Washington. In 1832, he travelled in Europe, and spent some time in Rome, when the pope app. him apostolic legate to Hayti. His works were pub. in 1849, in 5 vols., 8vo, edited by Bishop Reynolds.

England, SIR RICHARD, a British lieut.-gen. of Lifford, Co. Clare, Ireland; d. Nov. 7, 1812. Capt. of the 47th regt., and wounded at Bunker's Hill. He served with distinction through the war, and at one time was commandant of Detroit. He was efficient in aiding the colonization of the extreme western portion of Upper Canada.

Engle, FREDERICK, rear-adm. U.S.N., b. Delaware Co., Pa., 1799; d. Phila., Feb. 12, 1868. Midshipman, Nov. 30, 1814; lieut. Jan. 13, 1825; com. Sept. 8, 1841; capt. Sept. 14, 1855; rear-adm., retired list, 25 July, 1866. Com. "The Princeton," during the Mexican war, and rendered disting. service in the blockading squadron. During the Rebellion, he com. "The Hartford," but, from advanced age, was assigned to the command of the Phila. N.-Y., and was subsequently gov. of the nav. asylum.

Digitized by Google

Engles, WILLIAM MORRISON, D.D., Presb. clergyman and author, b. Phila., 12 Oct. 1797; d. there 27 Nov. 1867. U. of Pa. 1815 Licensed to preach Oct. 1818. Pastor 7th Presb. Church, Phila., 1820–34. Edited the Presbyterian from 1834 till his death. Book editor of the Presb. Board of Pub. 1838–63; pres. of the board, 1863–7. He pub. "Records of the Presb. Church," "Bible Dictionary," "Book of Poetry," "Sailor's Companion," "Sick-Room Devotions," "Soldier's Pocket-Book."

English, GEORGE BETHUNE, author and adventurer, b. Cambridge, Mar. 7, 1787; d. Washington, Sept. 20, 1828. H.U. 1807. Studied law and subsequently divinity. He pub. in 1813 "Grounds of Christianity examined," a work in favor of Judaism, which was answered by Edward Everett and by S. Cary. He edited, for a time, a Western paper, then sailed to the Mediterranean as a lieut. of marines, but resigned his commission, professed Mohammedanism, and accepted a com. under Ibrahim Pacha in the Egyptian army, then organizing for the conquest of Abyssinia, performing important service as an officer of artillery. He was afterward U.S. agent in the Mediterranean, and in 1827 returned to Washington, where he sought an app., but without success. He pub., beside the above, Letter to Mr. Cary, on the Review of his work; "Five Smooth Stones out of the Brook," a reply to Everett; Letter to Mr. Channing regarding his two sermons on infidelity; and "Expedition to Dongola and Sennaar," 8vo, 1823. He had a versatile genius, and especially excelled in acquiring languages. At Marseilles, he passed for a Turk, with a Turkish ambassador; and at Washington, he surprised a delegation of Cherokees, by disputing with them in their own tongue. — See S. L. Knapp's Amer. Biog.

English, JAMES E., politician, b. N.Haven, Ct., March, 1812. He was a merchant until 1855, when he became extensively engaged in manufacturing. Member of the State legisl. in 1855, and of the senate in 1856; M. C. 1861–5; gov. of Ct. 1867, and 70–1.

English, THOMAS DUNN, author, b. Phila., June 29, 1819. He received the degree of M.D. from the U. of Pa., in 1839, and, having subsequently studied law, was in 1842 adm. to the bar. He has written a novel entitled "Walter Woolfe," 1844, and has edited and contrib. to a variety of journals and magazines. Ab. 1842, he wrote for the N. Y. Mirror the song of "Ben Bolt." In 1848, he edited a humorous periodical entitled the John Donkey, and, in conjunction with G. G. Foster, a work on the French Revol. of that date. He has written a series of national ballads for Harper's Magazine, and is the author of numerous dramas, one of which, "The Mormons," has been printed. In 1855, he pub. a collection of his miscellaneous poems. He resides near N.Y., and is connected with the press of that city.

Enos, GEN. ROGER; d. Colchester, Vt., Oct. 6, 1808, a. 72. He was a col. in the Revol. army in 1775, and com. the rear division of Arnold's exped. to Quebec, through the wilderness of Me., but abandoned it, and returned to Cambridge to avoid starvation. In 1781, he com. the Vt. troops at Castleton. He was a maj.-gen. of militia, and a founder of the State of Vt. Ira Allen m. his dau. — Vt. Quarterly Gazetteer, 764.

Eppes, JOHN W., M. C. 1803–11 and 1813–15; U. S. senator, 1817–19; d. near Richmond, Va., Sept. 1823, a. 50. His wife, Maria, dau. of Jefferson, d. Apr. 1804. — Randall's Jefferson.

Ercilla Y Zuniga (ĕr-thēl'-yā, e thoon-yee'-gā), DON ALONZO DE, Spanish soldier and poet, 1533–95. Brought up at the court of Charles V., he joined the exped. sent to Chili in 1554, and celebrated the dangerous contest with the Araucanians, a native tribe, in an admirable epic entitled "La Araucana," written at brief intervals from active duty, on scraps of paper, and bits of leather, and first printed in 1577.

Eric the Red, a Scandinavian navigator, the reputed discoverer of N. America. He emigrated to Iceland, ab. 982 A.D., after which he discovered Greenland, where he planted a colony. He sent out, ab. 1000 A.D., an exploring party, under his son Lief, who discovered a continent, part of which they called Markland, and another part Vinland (supposed to correspond to the southern portion of New England). Tradition adds, that he or his son formed a settlement in Vinland.

Ericsson, JOHN, LL.D. (Wesl. U. 1862), inventor, b. province of Vermeland, Sweden, 1803; now (1872) resides in N.Y. City. At the age of 11, Count Platen gave him a cadetship in a corps of engineers; and in 1816 he was employed on the grand ship-canal between the Baltic and the North Sea. He entered the Swedish army as ensign, rose to the grade of lieut., and was for some time employed in the survey of Northern Sweden. One of the earliest of his inventions was the flame engine, intended to work independently of steam, by condensing flame. Visiting Eng. in 1826, he discovered that this engine, when worked by mineral fuel, was a total failure. Devoting himself to mechanical pursuits, he invented the steam-boiler on the principle of artificial draft. In 1829, he competed for the prize offered by the Liverpool and Manchester Railway for the best locomotive, and produced an engine that attained the then incredible speed of fifty miles an hour. This led him to construct a steam fire-engine with entire success. Directing his attention to navigation, he invented the propeller, and that new arrangement of the steam-machinery in ships-of-war which has revolutionized the navies of the world. Not succeeding in making the British admiralty believe what they saw, he came in 1839 to N.Y., and in 1841 was employed in the construction of the U.S. ship-of-war "Princeton" on the very plan which had been received with such indifference by the British admiralty. She was the first steamship ever built with the propelling machinery under the water-line, and out of the reach of shot; and she was disting. for numerous other mechanical novelties. In 1852, he was made Knight of the Order of Vasa, by King Oscar of Sweden. The same year, he brought out a new form of caloric-engine in the ship "Ericsson." During his residence in the U.S, he invented semi-cylindrical engine, centrifugal blowers, besides some improvements in managing guns, applied to the steamer "Princeton" with success. In the American dept. of the Great Exhibition of 1851, he exhibited an instrument for measuring distances at sea; the hydrostatic gauge, for measuring the volume of fluids under pressure; the reciprocating fluid-meter, the alarm barometer, the pyrometer, the rotary fluid-meter, and the sea-lead, of all of which instruments he has given a brief explanation in a pamphlet pub. in 1851. For these he received the prize medal of the Exhibition. Ericsson's caloric-engine was first placed before the scientific world in London, 1833. Its advantages over steam are economy of space, economy of first cost, economy of fuel, of repairs and running-expenses, simplicity, safety, and power. His last great invention, the iron-clad "Monitor," had just been completed, and arrived at Fortress Monroe most opportunely, Mar. 9, 1862, to stay the devastating progress of the rebel iron-clad, "Merrimack." The result of this contest settled the question of "wooden" navies. Capt. Ericsson was the first to bring the system of iron turret ships into operation.

Digitized by Google

Erskine, DAVID MONTAGUE, Baron, envoy and minister to the U.S., 1806–10; d. March 19, 1855, aged 78. Son of the celebrated Lord Thomas. Adm. to the bar in 1802, and in Feb. 1806 was returned to parliament for Portsmouth. He m. in 1800 a dau. of Gen. John Cadwallader of Phila. He succeeded to the peerage on the d. of his father in 1823. He had been minister-plenipotentiary to Bavaria.

Erskine, ROBERT, F.R.S., geographer and surveyor-gen. to the army of the U.S. Son of Rev. Ralph of Dunfermline, Scotland, b. 7 Sept. 1735; d. 2 Oct. 1780. — Ins. on tombstone at Ringwood, Passaic Co., N.J.

Erskine, SIR WILLIAM, a British gen., bart. of Torrie, b. 1728; d. March 9, 1795. Entered the Scots Greys in 1743; was a cornet in his father's regt. at Fontenoy; maj. 15th Light Dragoons in March, 1759, and served with credit in Germany; lieut.-col. March 29, 1762; app. brig.-gen. in Amer. in 1776; com. the 7th brigade in the battle of Brooklyn Heights; second in com. of Tryon's marauding exped. to Danbury, Ct., in April, 1777; app. quartermaster-gen. in Dec. 1777; col. 80th regt., and aide-de-camp to the king; com. the eastern dist. of L.I. in the winter of 1778–9; became maj.-gen. in 1779; lieut.-gen. Sept. 1787; bart. June, 1791; second in com. to the Duke of York, in Flanders, in 1793–5. Esteemed for his social and military qualities, and in Germany approved himself a brilliant cavalry officer.

Erving, GEORGE W., diplomatist, b. Boston, 1771; d. N.Y., July, 1850. George, his father, a loyalist merchant of Boston, went to Eng. with his family in 1776. The son was educated at Oxford, Eng., and, returning to his native country, was made consul to Lond. by Jefferson; was sec. of legation to Spain in 1804; special minister to Denmark in 1811; and minister to Spain in 1814–19.

Escalante d' (dĕs-kä-län'-tā), JUAN, one of Cortes' principal officers in the conquest of Mexico in 1518. He com. the colony founded by Cortes at Vera Cruz, and was killed in a battle against a Mexican chief in 1519.

Escobar, MARIA DE, b. Truxillo; living in 1547. She was the wife of Diego de Chaves, one of the first conquerors of Peru. She followed her husband to Amer., shared the fatigues and dangers of the adventurous Spaniards, and introduced the cultivation of corn and barley into the conquered country. Gonzalo Pizarro recompensed Donna Maria de Chaves by giving her a fine territory in the vicinity of Lima, together with the Indians upon it — Nouv. Biog. Gen.

Espy, JAMES P., meteorologist, b. Washington Co., Pa., May 9, 1785; d. Cincinnati, O., Jan. 24, 1860. After some years' study, he pub. in 1841 "Philosophy of Storms." He had before communicated to the British Assoc. a paper on "Storms," and another on the "Four Daily Fluctuations of the Barometer." In 1843, he was employed by the war dept. in the Washington Observatory to prosecute his investigations, and collate the reports from the different observers throughout the country. Several quarto vols. of this matter were pub. by the dept.

Esquemeling, JOHN, a buccaneer. Wrote in Dutch an account of the buccaneers of Amer., translated into English, and pub. Lond., 1684, 4to. Sir Henry Morgan obtained a verdict of £200 against the publisher for libel. — Allibone.

Estaing (des-tan[g']), CHARLES HECTOR THEODAT, Count d', a French adm., b. Ruvel, in Auvergne, 1729; guillotined at Paris, 28 Apr. 1794. Entering the Mousquetaires in 1745, he was col. of the regt. Rouergue in 1748, and brigadier in 1756. In 1757, he served in the fleet of Count d'Ache, and in 1758 took Gondeleur and Fort St. David. Joining the E. India squadron, under Count Lally, he was taken prisoner at Madras in 1759, and, violating his parole, was captured a second time, and imprisoned at Portsmouth. In 1763, he was made lieut.-gen., and in 1778 vice-adm. Employed in the Amer. war, he arrived in Delaware Bay in July, 1778, made a demonstration against Newport in Aug., which obliged the British to destroy 6 of their frigates lying there; but his fleet was so shattered by a storm as to be obliged to refit at Boston. In 1779, he sailed to the W. Indies, when he took St. Vincent and Granada, and had an indecisive engagement with Adm. Byron. He invested Savannah, 9 Oct. 1779, but lost the favorable opportunity for attack by giving the British time to complete their defences, under cover of a truce: he next ruined the enterprise by a precipitate attack, when he should have besieged in form. In this action, Pulaski was killed, and D'Estaing wounded. He returned to France in 1780. In 1783, he com. the combined fleets of France and Spain, and was made a grandee of Spain of the first class. He favored the French Revol., was a member of the Notables in 1787, com. the National Guards at Versailles in 1789, and was made adm., and put on the retired list, in 1792, but, falling under suspicion of the Terrorists, was finally guillotined.

Digitized by Google

Eustace, JOHN SKEY, gen., b. Flushing, L.I., Aug. 10, 1760; d. Newburgh, N.Y., Aug. 25, 1805. Wm. and M. Coll. 1776. App. aide to Gen. Charles Lee in 1776; was afterwards aide to Sullivan and Greene; and having, by his spirit and address, made prisoner Col. Burton, Congress, Nov. 1777, resolved that John Skey Eustace be commissioned major for his bravery and faithful services. After the war, he resigned, and went to Ga., where he practised law, was adjutant-gen., and received other civil and military appointments. In 1794, he entered the French service; was made aide-de-camp to Luckner, afterwards to Dumourier, attaining the grade of maj.-gen. and maréchal-de-camp. He com. in 1797 a division of the French army in Flanders. In 1800, he returned to his native country, and led a studious and retired life in Orange Co., N.Y., till his death. Author of many pamphlets, and an account of his "Exile from Great Britain," Lond., 8vo, 1797.

Eustis, ABRAHAM, brig.-gen. U. S. A., b. Boston, Mar. 28, 1786; d. Portland, June 27, 1843. H. U. 1804. Nephew of Gov. Eustis. He studied law in the office of his relative Chief-Justice Parker; was adm. to the bar in 1807, and opened an office in Boston. Capt. light art. May 3, 1808; major, March 15, 1810; com. his regt. in capture of York, U.C., Apr. 27, 1813; brev. lieut.-col., for meritorious service, Sept. 10, 1813; lieut.-col. 4th Art. May 8, 1822; brevet brig.-gen. June 30, 1834; col. 1st Art. Nov. 17, 1834. His son HENRY LAWRENCE, prof. of engineering in the sci. school of H. U., and a brig.-gen. in the civil war. H U. 1838, and West Point (1st in class), 1842.

Eustis, GEORGE, LL.D. (H. U. 1849), jurist, b. Boston, Oct. 20, 1796; d. N. Orleans, Dec. 23, 1858. H. U. 1815. Private sec. to his uncle, Gov. Eustis, then minister to the Hague, where he commenced his legal studies, and laid the foundation of his remarkable proficiency in the civil law. In 1817, he went to N. Orleans; was adm. to the bar in 1822; was several times elected to the State legisl.; was sec. of State, and, as a leading commissioner of the Board of Currency, instituted reforms which added stability to the currency of the State. He was also atty.-gen. of La. and a justice, and afterwards chief-justice of the Supreme Court until 1852; member of the Const. Conv. of 1845.

Eustis, WM., LL.D. (H. U. 1823), physician and politician, b. Cambridge, Ms., June 10, 1753; d. Boston, Feb. 6, 1825. H. U. 1772. Having studied medicine under Dr. Warren, he entered the Revol. army as a regimental surgeon, serving throughout the war in that capacity, or as a hospital surgeon, being for some years stationed at the house of Col. Beverly Robinson, opposite West Point, in which Arnold had his headquarters. After the war, he practised his prof. in Boston. He was a surgeon in the exped. against the insurgents under Shays, in 1786–7; member of the State legisl. from 1788 to 1794; was two years a councillor under Gov. Sullivan; M. C. 1800–5 and 1820–3; sec. of war from 1809 until Hull's surrender, in 1812, when he resigned; app. minister to Holland in 1814, and gov. of Ms in 1824, dying while in office. He m. Caroline, dau. of Woodbury Langdon of Portsmouth, N. H.

Evans, AUGUSTA J., novelist, b. near Columbus, Ga., 1836. When a child, her father removed to Texas, residing in San Antonio from 1847 till 1849, when the family settled in Mobile. In her 17th year, she wrote "Inez, a Tale of the Alamo;" but her fame was established by her "Beulah," in 1859, a novel of great power and vivid interest. Also author of "St. Elmo," 1866; "Macaria," 1864; "Vashti," 1869. In 1868, she m. L. M. Wilson, pres. of Mobile and Montgomery Railroad.

Evans, CALEB, D. D., Baptist minister, b. Bristol, Eng., 1737; d. 1791. An advocate for the freedom of America; pub. a "Letter to Wesley," on his "Calm Address to the Amer. Colonies," 12mo, 1775, pub. under the sig. Americanus; "Reply to Rev. Mr. Fletcher's Vindication of Wesley," 12mo, 1776.

Evans, GEORGE, lawyer and senator, b. Hallowell, Me., Jan. 12, 1797; d. Portland, Me., Apr. 5, 1867. Bowd. Coll. 1815. Adm. to the bar in 1818. Speaker of the house of representatives of Me. in 1829; M.C. 1829–41, and U.S. senator, 1841–7. In 1849–50, he was a commiss. of the board of claims against Mexico, and atty.-gen. of Me. in 1803,'4,'6. — Lanman.

Evans, SIR GEORGE DE LACY, a British gen., b. Moig, Ireland, 1787; d. London, Jan. 9, 1870. Entering the army in 1807, he served in India and Spain; and early in 1814, having become brev. lieut.-col. of the 5th W.I. regt., he was ordered to Amer. At the battle of Bladensburg, Aug. 24, 1814, he had 2 horses killed under him. It was he, who, at the head of 100 men, acting under orders from Gen. Ross, forced the Capitol at Washington. He also took part in the attack on Baltimore. Dec. 23, 1814, and again Jan. 8, 1815, he was wounded before N. Orleans, and was sent home. He recovered just in time to join Wellington at Quatre Bras, where again he had 2 horses killed under him. He com. in Spain, in 1835–7, the "British Auxiliary Legion," and since 1846 had been M. P. from Westminster. He served as a lieut.-gen. in the Crimean war, and was disting. at the Alma and at Inkerman. Author of "Facts relating to the Capture of Washington," &c., Lond., 8vo, 1829.

Evans, HUGH DAVY, LL.D., b. Baltimore, 1792; d. there 16 July, 1868. He ranked with the best lawyers of his day. Author of "Essay on Pleading," Balt., 8vo, 1827; "Maryland Common Law Practice," 8vo, 1839; "Essays to prove the Validity of Anglican Ordinations," 12mo, 1844; second series, 2 vols., 1851; "Essay on the Episcopate," 12mo, 1855. Ed. and contrib. to several Episc. journals. — Allibone.

Evans, JOHN, M.D. (St. L. Med. Coll.), geologist, b. Portsmouth, N.H., Feb. 14, 1812; d. Washington, D.C., Apr. 13, 1861. Son of Judge Richard. He assisted in the geol. surveys of Wis., Minn., Iowa, and Neb., and attracted notice by his discovery and description of a large deposit of fossil bones of extinct species of mammalia in the mauvaises terres of Neb. The U.S. Govt. soon after employed him upon the geol. survey of Washington and Oregon Territories. After years of severe labor, he completed this work; was for a short time geologist to the Chiriqui commiss., and was preparing at Washington the pub. of his report of the surveys of Oregon and Washington, when he died. — Appleton.

Digitized by Google

Evans, Josiah J., lawyer and senator, b. Marlborough Dist., S.C., Nov. 27, 1786; d. Washington, D.C., May 6, 1858. S.C. Coll. 1808. He was for a time a merchant's clerk; taught school for 1 year; studied law, attained a high legal position; in 1812, '13, and '16, he was sent to the legisl.; was State solicitor for 13 years; judge of the Sup. Court from 1830 to 1852, and U.S. senator from 1852 until his death. — Lanman.

Evans, Louis, geographer and engineer, b. ab. 1700; d. June, 1756. He pub. at Phila., in 1749, a chart of the interior of the British Colonies in N. A., and of the Indian countries adjacent on the north and west. A second ed. appeared in 1755. In 1756, he pub. in London a pamphlet in reply to some strictures on a statement questioning the English title to Fort Frontenac, which had been appended to the last edition of his map. Both appeared under the title of "Geographical, Historical, Political, Philosophical, and Mechanical Essays." In 1776, his map was repub. with large additions by Gov. Pownall.

Evans, Nathan George, maj.-gen. C.S.A., b. Darlington Dist. S.C., ab. 1829; d. Midway, Ala., Nov. 30, 1868. West Point, 1848. Entering the 1st Dragoons, he became 1st lieut. 2d Cav., 3 Mar. 1855; capt. May 1, 1856; disting. himself in battle with the Camanches, in Texas, Oct. 1, 1858; resigned Feb. 27, 1861; entered the confed. service; was made a col., and com. a brigade in the battle of Bull Run; promoted to brig.-gen., and com. the confederates at the battle of Ball's Bluff, Oct. 19, 1861; Feb. 6, 1865, he com. a division in Gordon's corps at Hatcher's Run. Surrendered with Lee, Apr. 9, 1865. At the time of his death, he was engaged in teaching.

Evans, Nathaniel, poet and clergyman, b. Phila., June 8, 1742; d. Gloucester Co., N. J., Oct. 29, 1767. Phila. Coll. 1765. Educated for a merchant by his parents, he devoted himself to the Muses. Was adm. to orders by the Bishop of London. Returned to Phila., Dec. 26, 1765, and entered upon his mission, but d. soon after. He pub. an edition of Godfrey's poems, prefixing a memoir and an elegy to his memory. A selection from Evans's writings, entitled "Poems on Several Occasions, with some other Pieces," was pub. in 1772, in Phila. — Hardie; Allen.

Evans, Oliver, inventor, b. Newport, Del., 1755; d. N.Y., Apr. 15, 1819. Descended from Evan Evans, D.D., first Epis. minister of Phila., who d. 1728. While apprentice to a wheelwright, he displayed his inventive talent, and, at the age of 22, invented a machine for making card-teeth, which superseded the old method of manuf. them by hand. Two years later, he went into business with his bros., who were millers. In 1786–7, he obtained from the legisls. of Md. and Pa. the exclusive right to use his improvements in flour-mills. In 1799, he set about the construction of a steam-carriage; but, finding that his steam-engine differed materially from those in use, he patented, and successfully applied it to mills. This was the first steam-engine constructed on the high pressure principle. In 1803–4, he constructed the first steam-dredging machine used in Amer. "The machine, which he named the 'Oractor Amphibolis,' having been placed upon wheels, propelled itself to the Schuylkill, 1½ miles, and, upon being fitted with a paddle-wheel in the stern, navigated the river to its junction with the Delaware. This is believed to have been the first instance in Amer. of the application of steam-power to the propelling of land-carriages. He predicted their employment on railways of wood or iron, and urged the construction of a railroad between Phila. and N.Y., but was always prevented, by his limited means, from prosecuting his mechanical experiments to the extent he desired." Author of "Young Millwright's Guide," and the "Young Steam Engineer's Guide." — Appleton.

Evans, Thomas, Quaker controversialist, b. Phila., 1798; d. 25 May, 1868. In 1827–8, he opposed the Unitarian views of Elias Hicks in a series of able papers in the Friend. In 1828, he pub. "An Exposition of the Faith of the Religious Society of the Friends," &c. In 1837, he narrowly escaped shipwreck on a voyage to Charleston, S.C., and, from overexertion at the pumps, his health was irreparably injured. From 1837 to 1854, he edited, in conjunction with his bro. William, "The Friends' Library," a coll. of the standard religious writings of the society, in 14 vols. — Thomas.

Evarts, Jeremiah, sec. of the Board of Foreign Missions, b. Sunderland, Vt., Feb. 3, 1781; d. Charleston, S.C., May 10, 1831. Y.C. 1802. After some time spent in teaching, he studied law; was adm. to the N. Haven bar in 1806; practised his profession ab. 4 years; then edited the Panoplist at Boston, and in 1820 the Missionary Herald. He was treas. of the Board of Foreign Missions from 1812 to 1820, and corresp. sec. from 1821 till his death. He wrote 24 essays on the rights of the Indians, under the signature of "Wm. Penn," 1829. — See Memoirs of Evarts, by E. C. Tracy (8vo, Boston, 1845).

Evarts, William Maxwell, LL.D. (Un. Coll. 1857), an eminent lawyer, son of the preceding, b. Boston, Feb. 6, 1818. Y.C. 1837. He studied law at the Camb. Law School, and began practice in N.Y. City, ab. 1840. He was active in the Repub. party; was the principal counsel for Pres. Johnson at his trial in the spring of 1868, and was atty.-gen. of the U.S. in 1868.

Everard, Sir Richard, gov. of N.C. 1725–9; d. London, Feb. 17, 1733. His administration was disturbed by frequent altercations with the council. He succeeded to the baronetcy in Jan. 1706, on the death of his father, Sir Hugh. His dau. Susannah m. David Meade of Va., the ancestor of Bishop M.

Everest, Rev. Charles W., poet. Wash. Coll. 1838. Formerly of Meriden, latterly in charge of the Rectory School, Hamden, Ct.

Digitized by Google

Has pub. "Babylon," a poem; "Hare Bell;" "Moss Rose;" "The Memento;" "The Snow Drop;" "The Poets of Connecticut," 1843; "Vision of Death, and other Poems." His poem entitled "Agriculture" is a beautiful picture of country-life. — Allibone.

Everett, Alexander Hill, LL.D (U. of Vt. 1826), scholar and diplomatist, b. Boston, Mar. 19, 1791; d. Canton, China, May 29, 1847. H.U. 1806. Son of Rev. Oliver. He was an usher in Phillips Exeter Acad.; began to study law in the office of J. Q. Adams, Boston, in 1807; and was a member of the literary club that founded the Monthly Anthology. In 1809, he accomp. J. Q. Adams to St. Petersburg, as attaché to the legation, to which he became sec. in 1815. He visited Eng. in 1811, and, after a short trip to Paris, returned home in 1812, and wrote some political pieces in favor of the war, and against the Hartford Convention. He became chargé d'affaires at Brussels in 1818; in 1825–9 was minister to Spain, and from 1845 till his death was commiss. to China. In 1840, he was sent on a confidential mission to Cuba. In 1829, he became editor and principal prop. of the N. Amer. Review, to which he had long been a contrib. He invited Irving to Madrid; made him an attaché to his legation, and encouraged him in the preparation of his Spanish histories. He also aided Mr. Prescott in similar pursuits. Member of the Ms. legisl. 1830–5, taking an active part as a Democ. politician. He was skilled in the languages and literature of modern Europe, as well as philosophy, diplomacy, and the laws of nations. He pub. "Europe," 1821; "America," 1827; "New Views on Population," 1822; a vol. of essays in 1845, and a small vol. of poems, 1845. To Sparks's "Am. Biography," he contrib. Lives of Warren and Patrick Henry. Also contrib. to the Democratic and Boston Quarterly Reviews.

Everett, David, journalist, b. Princeton, Ms., March 29, 1770; d. Marietta, O., Dec. 21, 1813. Dartm. Coll. 1795. While teaching a grammar school at N. Ipswich, he wrote the famous juvenile recitation commencing,—

> "You'd scarce expect one of my age
> To speak in public on the stage."

He studied law in Boston, and wrote for Russell's Gazette and Dennie's Farmer's Museum. His prose papers, "Common Sense in Dishabille," were collected in 1799, in a small vol., as was also his "Farmer's Monitor." He contrib. to a literary paper, the Nightingale, in 1796. In 1800, he produced a tragedy, "Daranzel, or the Persian Patriot," acted and pub. at Boston in 1800. He removed to Amherst in 1802, where he practised law. Returning to Boston in 1807, in 1809 he edited the Boston Patriot, and in 1812 the Pilot. Author of an essay on "The Rights and Duties of Nations," and "Junius Americanus," in the Boston Gazette, in defence of John Adams. — Duyckinck; D.C. Alumni.

Everett, Edward, LL.D., D.C.L., scholar and orator, b. Dorchester, Ms., 11 Apr. 1794; d. Boston, 15 Jan. 1865. H.U. 1811. Son of Rev. Oliver. Tutor at H.U. in 1812, and delivered the Phi Beta Kappa poem on American Poets. Ord. pastor of the Brattle-st. (Boston) Unitarian Church, 9 Feb. 1814; accepted the chair of Greek literature at H. U. 5 Mar. 1815; visited Europe, where he studied 2 years at the U. of Göttingen, and travelled extensively, returning in the fall of 1819, and entering upon the duties of his professorship. May 8, 1822, he m. Charlotte Gray, dau. of Hon. Peter C. Brooks. In 1824, he delivered at Cambridge an oration on Amer. Literature, at which Lafayette was present. M.C. 1825–35; gov. of Ms. 1836–40; minister to Eng. in 1841–5; pres. H.U. 1846–9; sec. of State, as successor of Daniel Webster, Nov. 1852–Mar. 1853, and U.S. senator from that time until his retirement to private life on account of ill health, in May, 1854. He subsequently wrote and lectured with great success in behalf of the Mt. Vernon Fund, for the purchase of the home and burial-place of Washington, that it might thenceforth belong to the American people. He was the candidate, in 1860, of the party of conciliation and compromise, for the vice-presidency. The Bell and Everett ticket, however, had but 39 electoral votes. After the Rebellion began, he gave all his influence and energies to the support of the Federal Govt. Though a remarkable example of varied culture, Mr. Everett is best known by his orations and addresses, which are models of grace and elegance of style. His historical efforts are of great value. During his term as gov. of Ms., the Board of Education was organized, normal schools founded, and scientific and agricultural surveys of the State were established. He visited Europe a second time in 1840–1, and was in 1843 app. minister to China, but declined. As minister to Eng., his management of affairs of great delicacy and importance, such as the settlement of the north-eastern boundary, and the McLeod and the Creole cases, reflected the highest credit upon his abilities. In Congress, he opposed the policy of removing the Indians without their consent, and advocated free trade. He was one of the early editors of the N. A. Review, to which he contrib., among other important articles, that on Nullification, in Oct. 1830. In this periodical he successfully vindicated American principles and institutions against a crowd of British travellers and authors, who were endeavoring to bring them into contempt. His contribs. to the N.Y. Ledger in 1858 were afterward coll., and pub. as "The Mount Vernon Papers." His speeches and addresses were coll. and pub. in 4 vols., 8vo. He received the degree of D.C.L. from the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge. He was the intimate friend of Webster, and wrote the best Life extant of that distinguished man, whose collected writings he edited. — See Memoir of Everett, Bost., 1865; Golden Age of Amer. Oratory, 1857; Character and Characteristic Men, E. P. Whipple.

Everett, Horace, LL.D., lawyer and politician, b. 1780; d. Windsor, Vt., Jan. 30, 1851. Brown U. 1797. He was successful in his practice at Windsor; was in the State legisl. in 1819–20, 1822–4, and 1834; State-atty. for Windsor Co., 1813–17; a prominent member of the State Const. Conv. of 1828, and M.C. 1829–43. He disting. himself in Congress by his zeal in behalf of the Indians.

Digitized by Google

Ewbank, THOMAS, writer on practical mechanics, b. Barnard Castle, Durham, Eng., March 11, 1792; d. New York, Sept. 16, 1870. At 13, he was apprenticed to a tin and copper smith; emigrated to New York ab. 1819, and in 1820 commenced the manuf. of metallic tubing there, from which business he retired in 1836 to devote himself to literary and scientific pursuits. In 1842, he pub. "Descriptive and Historical Account of Hydraulic and other Machines." In 1845–6, he visited Brazil, of which he pub. an account in 1856, entitled "Life in Brazil." Commiss. of patents from 1849 to 1852. He pub. 3 annual reports, also a work entitled "The World a Workshop," 1855; "Thoughts on Matter and Force," 1858; "Reminiscences in the Patent-Office," 1859, and a variety of essays on the philosophy and history of inventions in the "Transactions of the Franklin Institute." His "Experiments on Marine Propulsion, or the Virtue of Form in Propelling Blades," was reprinted in Europe. As a member of the commission to examine and report upon the strength of the marbles offered for the extension of the National Capitol, he discovered the method of greatly increasing the resisting power of building stones. Founder of the Ethnological Society.

Ewell, BENJAMIN S., instructor, b. D.C., ab. 1810. West Point, 1832. Entering the 4th Art., he was assist. prof. of math. at West Point, 1832–5; of nat. philos. 1835–6, and resigned 30 Sept. 1836; assist. engr. Balt. and Susq. Railroad, 1836–9; prof. math., Hamp. Sid. Coll., Va., 1839–42; prof. math. and milit. science, Wash. Coll., Lexington, Va., 1846–8; prof. math., and acting president, Wm. and Mary Coll., Va., 1848–9; prof. math. and nat. science since 1849, and pres. since 1854. — Cullum.

Ewell, RICHARD STODDARD, lieut.-gen. C.S.A., b. D.C. Oct. 1816. West Point, 1840. Entering 1st Dragoons, he was brev. capt. for gallantry at Contreras and Churubusco, Aug. 20, 1847; capt. Aug. 4, 1849; disting. in battle with Apaches, in N. Mexico, June 27, 1857; resigned May 7, 1861; entered Confed. service; made brig.-gen.; took part in the action at Blackburn's Ford, July 18, 1861; and at Bull Run, com. the extreme right; afterward maj.-gen., and led a corps in the army of Va., and was at the battles of White-oak Swamp and Cedar Mountain. He accomp. Lee in his movement against Pope, Aug. 1862, and Aug. 27 was defeated by Hooker at Kettle Run, near Manassas Junction. He was in the battles near Bull Run, Aug. 28–30, and also in the succeeding Md. campaign, in which he was severely wounded. On the death of Stonewall Jackson, he was, at his request, made a lieut.-gen. May 20, 1863, and assigned to the 2d corps; with it he fought at Winchester, Gettysburg, and during the first day of the battle of the Wilderness, May, 1864, and in the subsequent operations of the campaign, at one time comg. the dept. of Henrico; captured by Gen. Sheridan, April 6, 1865, near the Appomattox River.

Ewen, WILLIAM, Revol. patriot, b. Eng ab. 1720; d. Ga. soon after the Revol. He came to Ga. about 1734 as an apprentice to the Trustees; was one of the earliest and most active of the Revol. leaders of Ga.; a member of the council of safety; and, as first pres. of the exec. council, performed the duties of gov. in 1775. — Ga. Hist. Colls., 199.

Ewing, CHARLES, LL.D. (Jeff. Coll.), jurist, b. Burlington Co., N.J., July 8, 1780; d. Trenton, Aug. 5, 1832. N.J. Coll. 1798. Son of James Ewing, commiss. of loans for N.J.; a Revol. patriot. Adm. to the bar in 1802, he practised at Trenton with success; became a counsellor in 1812, and from 1824 to his d. was chief-justice of N.J. — See Nat. Port. Gall., vol. ii.

Ewing, JAMES, general, b. Lancaster Co., Pa., 1736; d. at his seat in Hellam township in March, 1806. He accomp. Braddock's exped. in 1755; July 4, 1776, he was elected a brig.-gen. of Pa. militia, and had a part assigned him in the surprise of Trenton, but was prevented, by the ice and a high wind, from crossing the Delaware as previously arranged. Vice-pres. of Pa. under Pres. Dickinson in 1782–4, and was several times member of the State legisl. His name has been variously given as Irvine, Irwin, and Erwing. — Lossing.

Ewing, JOHN, D.D. (Edinb. U. 1773), scholar and divine, b. E. Nottingham, Md., June 22, 1732; d. Phila., Sept. 8, 1802. N.J. Coll. 1754. His emig. ancestors came from Ireland, and settled on the banks of the Susquehanna. Tutor in N.J. Coll., then instructor in philos. in the Phila. Coll., and on its being made the U. of Pa., in 1779, became provost, holding the position until his death. He became pastor of the 1st Presb. Church, Phila., in 1759; visited Eng. in 1773–5 to collect funds for the acad. at Newark, Del.; vice-pres. of the Philos. Society, to whose "Transactions" he made several contribs. He was a commiss. to run the boundary-line of Del., and to settle the boundaries between Ms. and Ct., and between Pa. and Va. His learning was various and profound, and as a preacher he was highly popular. His collegiate lectures on nat. philosophy, with a biog. by Rev. R. Patterson, (2 vols., 1809), and a vol. of his sermons with a memoir, were pub. in 1812. — Sprague.

Ewing, THOMAS, LL.D., lawyer and statesman, b. near West Liberty, Ohio Co., Va., Dec. 28, 1789. Ohio U. 1815. George, his father, a Revol. officer, one of the founders of Amestown, O., d. Ind. ab. 1830. He received his early education chiefly from an elder sister, and, with his father's family, settled in the wilds of Ohio, ab. 1792. In 1814, he was a school-teacher. He studied law, and was adm. to the bar in 1816; was a U.S. senator from O. from 1831 to 1837; sec. of the treasury under Harrison in 1841; sec. of the interior under Pres. Taylor in 1849, and U. S. senator in 1850–1. D. Oct. 26, '71, in Lancaster, O. In the U.S. senate, he supported the protective system of Clay; reported a bill from the com. on post-offices, which in 1835 resulted in the re-organization of the dept. He actively defended Taylor's administration, did not vote for the fugitive-slave law, helped to defeat Clay's compromise bill, advocated river and harbor appropriations, a reduction of postage, and the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia. While sec. of the interior, he organized the dept. Differing with his party on the slavery question, he left the cabinet in July, 1850. Mr. Ewing's celebrity as a lawyer and public speaker equals his reputation as a statesman. Delegate to the peace convention, 1861. — Appleton.

Digitized by Google

Ewing, THOMAS, Jun., lawyer, son of the preceding, b. Lancaster, O., 7 Aug. 1829. Educated at Brown U. and at Cin. Law School, 1855; private sec. to Pres. Taylor, 1849–50. He began practice in Cincin., but in 1856 removed to Leavenworth, Ks.; member Leav. Const. Conv.; chief-justice of Ks. 1861–2; col. 11th Ks. Inf. 15 Sept. 1862; brig.-gen. 12 Mar. 1863. Joining Gen. Blunt, he took part in the battles of Fort Wayne, Cane Hill, Prairie Grove, and Van Buren; com. the dist. of the Border, June, 1863–Feb. 1864, then took command of S. E. Mo., and made a gallant fight at Pilot Knob, Mo., against the attack of Gen. Price, 27 Sept. 1864, making good his retreat to Rolla, and receiving the brev. of maj.-gen. He has practised law in Washington, D.C., since the war.

Exmouth, EDWARD PELLEW, Viscount, an eminent British adm., b. Dover, 19 April, 1757; d. Teignmouth, 23 Jan. 1833. He entered the navy in 1770; joined "The Blonde," frigate, which sailed to the relief of Quebec, and in the schooner "Carleton" disting. himself in the battle, 11 Oct. 1776, on Lake Champlain, with the flotilla of Arnold, whom he came near making his prisoner. In com. of a party of seamen, he rendered great assistance to the army of Burgoyne in its difficult advance to Saratoga, and was sent home with despatches, and promoted. His brother John was aide-de-camp to Gen. Phillips, and was killed in this campaign. Made post-capt. May 31, 1782; knighted 5 Mar. 1796, for services in the war against France; made rear-adm. 1804; annihilated the Dutch naval force in the E. Indies in 1806; made Baron Exmouth and adm. of the Blue in 1814, and 26 Aug., 1816, attacked Algiers, destroying the entire Algerine navy, compelling the submission of the dey, the liberation of 1,200 captives, and the payment of a large sum of money. For this service he was made a viscount; vice-adm. of Eng., 15 Feb. 1832.

Fairbanks, ERASTUS, manufacturer, and gov. of Vt. 1852–3 and 1860–1, b. Brimfield, Ms., Oct. 28, 1792; d. St. Johnsbury, Vt., Nov. 20, 1864. He had a common-school education; taught school in St. Johnsbury, Vt.; engaged in business with moderate success, and in 1825 formed a partnership with his younger bro. for the manuf. of platform scales. The enterprise proved extraordinarily successful; and their scales attained a world-wide reputation. Member of the legisl. in 1836–8; pres. of the Passumpsic and Ct. River R.R. Co. in 1849.

Fairchild, LUCIUS, gov. Wis. 1866–7, sec. of State, 1864–5, b. Franklin Mills, Portage Co., O., 27 Dec. 1831. Lieut.-col. 2d Iowa Inf. June, 1861; capt. 16th U. S. Inf. 5 Aug. 1861; com. an Iowa regt. in McClellan's and Pope's campaigns, and became brig.-gen. vols. 5 Aug. 1861.

Fairfax, BRYAN, 8th and last baron of the name, b. ab. 1730; d. Mount Eagle, near Cameron, Aug. 7, 1802. Third son of the Hon. Col. William Fairfax, pres. of the Council of Va., and resided at Towlston Hall, Fairfax Co., though, for some time during the latter part of his life, he was an Epis. clergyman at Alexandria. An affectionate intercourse existed between him and Washington throughout life, notwithstanding his being a Loyalist. He succeeded to the title on the death of Robert, 7th Lord Fairfax, in 1791. GEORGE WILLIAM, his bro., the early companion and associate of Washington, d. Bath, Eng., 1787, a. 63. On the death of his father in 1757, he succeeded to his estate, m. a dau. of Col. Carey of Hampton, became a member of the council, and lived at Belvoir. In 1773, he went to Eng. — Sabine.

Fairfax, DONALD MCN., capt. U.S.N., b. Va., Aug. 10, 1822. Midshipm. Aug. 12, 1837; lieut. Feb. 26, 1851; com. July 16, 1862; capt. July 25, 1866. During the Mexican war served under Dupont on the west coast of Mexico and Cal., and was at the capture of several towns. Com. steam gunboat "Cayuga," West Gulf squad., 1862–3; on the Lower Mpi. from June, 1862, to Feb. 1863, under Farragut; S.A. block. squad., 1863, com. steamers "Nantucket" and "Montauk" in several attacks on defences of Charleston harbor, under Dupont and Dahlgren; com. naval acad. 1864–5; com. flagship "Rhode Island," N.A. squad., 1866–7, and steam-sloop "Susquehanna," 1867–8. — Hamersly.

Fairfax, THOMAS, 6th lord and baron of Cameron, the friend and patron of Washington's early life, b. Eng., 1691; d. at his seat at Greenway Court, Frederick Co., Va., Dec. 12, 1781; son of Thomas, Lord Fairfax, and of Catharine, dau. of Lord Culpeper. Educated at Oxford, and afterwards held a commission in the Blues. A contributor to Addison's "Spectator." Succeeding to the title and to the family estates in Va., inherited from his mother, between the Rappahannock and Potomac Rivers, and a great portion of the Shenandoah Valley, he settled in Va. in 1745, fixing his residence a few miles from Winchester. Here he lived in a style of liberal hospitality, frequently indulging in the diversion of the chase. In 1748, he made the acquaintance of Washington, then a youth of 16, and, impressed with his energy and talents, employed him to survey his lands lying west of the Blue Ridge. Though a frank and avowed Loyalist, he was never insulted or molested by the Whigs. His barony and immense domain, consisting of 5,282,000 acres, descended to his only surviving bro., Robert, 7th lord, who d. at Leeds Castle, Eng., in 1791; but, as the domain was in possession of Lord Thomas during the Revol., it was confiscated.

Fairfield, GENEVIEVE GENEVRA, dau. of Sumner L., b. N. Y., 1832. Author of "Genevra, or the History of a Portrait," "The Vice President's Daughter," "The Wife of Two Husbands," "The Innkeeper's Daughter."

Digitized by Google

Fairfield, John, lawyer and statesman, b. Saco, Me., Jan. 30, 1797; d. Washington, Dec. 24, 1847. He received a common school education; practised law in his native town; became disting.; was in 1832 app. reporter of decisions of the Supreme Judicial Court; was M.C. in 1835–9; gov. of Me. in 1839–40, 1842–3; and U.S. sen. from 1843 to his d. Author of "Supreme Court Reports," 1835–7, 3 vols., 8vo.

Fairfield, Sumner Lincoln, poet, b. Warwick, Ms., June 25, 1803; d. N. Orleans, March 6, 1844. He studied at Brown U. Was two years a tutor at the South, and, determining to lead a literary life, sailed for Lond. in Dec. 1825. His poem, "The Cities of the Plain," appeared in the Oriental Herald, and at Versailles he wrote "Père la Chaise" and "Westminster Abbey." Returning in July, 1826, he soon after pub. "The Sisters of St. Clara," followed in 1830 by "Abaddon" and other poems. Having m. Miss Jane Frazee of Rahway, N.J., he gained a precarious subsistence by writing for the press, until placed by some friends at the head of Newtown Acad., ab. 30 miles from Phila. The accidental drowning of one of his pupils threw such a gloom over him, that he gave up his situation, and removed to N.Y. By the exertions of his wife in soliciting subscriptions, principally in Boston, 1829–32, he was enabled to pub. in 1832 a new poem, "The Last Night of Pompeii." He also pub. "Lays of Melpomene," 1824; and "The Heir of the World," &c., 1829. From 1833 to 1838, he pub. the N. Amer. Magazine. In 1846, Mrs. Fairfield issued a small vol. containing a life of her husband, from her pen, and a few of his poems. He excelled as an instructor in history and belles-lettres. A vol. of his poems was published in 1841. — Duyckinck.

Fairman, David, Richard, and Gideon, engravers of Phila.; d. respectively, Aug. 19, 1815, a. 33; Dec. 1821, a. 34; and March 18, 1827, a. 51.

Falcon, Gen. Juan Christomo, Pres. of Venezuela in 1863 and 1865, b. Caracas; d. Martinque, May, 1870. He had been a successful soldier, and was elected vice-pres. in 1861. In Aug. 1868, he was compelled to resign by the revolutionists under Monagas.

Fales, Mrs. Almira L., philanthropist, b. N.Y.; d. Washington, D.C., Nov. 8, 1868. In mature life, she removed to Ia., whence she went with her husband, Joseph T. Fales, to Washington, where he had a situation as examiner in the patent-office. When the civil war broke out, she entered upon the care of sick and wounded soldiers. At Pittsburg Landing and other Western battle-fields, Mrs. Fales actively ministered to the wounded and dying soldiers. The govt. placed an ambulance at her command, and with this, laden with stores, she visited the hospitals and the fields of battle. Wherever she appeared, the brightness of her smile, and the cheerful tone of her voice, at once dispelled gloom and despondency. For some time, Mrs. Fales was charged by the govt. with the superintendence of the sick and wounded sent from the hospitals in and around Washington to the hospitals in N.Y and elsewhere.

Faneuil (formerly popul. pron. Fün'-el), Peter, a liberal Boston merchant, b. of a French Huguenot family, New Rochelle, N.Y., 1700; d. Boston, March 3, 1743. In 1740, at a public meeting, he offered to build a suitable edifice for a public market-house, at his own cost, as a gift to the town. The building, commenced in Dock Square in Sept. 1740, and finished in 1742, comprised a market-house on the ground-floor, and a town-hall, with other rooms over it. In 1761, it was destroyed by fire; in 1763, it was rebuilt by the town; and in 1775, during the British occupation of Boston, it was used for a theatre. In 1805, it was altered and enlarged. During the Revol. period, it was the usual place of meeting of the patriots; and, from the stirring debates and important resolutions which were often heard within its walls, it gained the name of "the cradle of American liberty." — Drake's Hist. of Boston.

Fannin, Col. James W., Texan revolutionist, b. N.C.; killed at Goliad, March 27, 1836. Oct. 28, 1835, he defeated a greatly superior Mexican force near Bexar, and was soon after promoted by Gen. Houston, col. of artillery and insp.-gen. Attacked, March 19, at the Coleta River, by a large Mexican force under Gen. Urrea, the Texans defended themselves with spirit until night, and renewed the battle on the 20th; but, the Mexicans having been re-enforced, a capitulation was signed, by which it was agreed that the Texans should be treated as prisoners of war, and, as soon as possible, sent to the U.S. Having surrendered their arms, on the 26th an order was received from Santa Aña, requiring them to be shot. At daybreak the following morning, the prisoners, 357 in number, were accordingly shot. Fannin was the last to suffer.

Fanning, Alex. C.W., lieut.-col. U.S.A., b. Ms., 1788; d. Cincinnati, O., Aug. 18, 1846. West Point, 1812. Lieut. 3d Art. March, 1812; capt. March 13, 1813; severely wounded at capture of York, U.C., April 27, 1813; disting. in repulse of British naval forces, St. Lawrence, Nov. 2, 1813; brev. maj. for gallant conduct in defence of Fort Erie, Aug. 15, 1814; acting insp.-gen. in Jackson's div., April 1, 1818; maj. 4th Art. Nov. 3, 1832; brev. col. for gallant and meritorious conduct in battle, near the Onithlacoochie, and in defence of Fort Mellon, Fla., Feb. 8, 1837; lieut-col. 4th Art. Sept. 16, 1838.

Fanning, David, a Tory desperado of N.C. during the Revol., b. Wake Co., N.C., ab. 1756; d. Digby, N.S., 1825. A carpenter by trade, he led a vagabond life, trading with the Indians. In 1781, Fanning, having been robbed by a party of men who called themselves Whigs, joined the Tories, collected a small band of desperadoes, laid waste the settlements, and committed frightful atrocities, for which he was rewarded by Major Craig, the British com. at Wilmington, with a commission of lieut.-col. of militia. By the rapidity and secrecy of his movements, he succeeded in capturing many prominent Whigs, hanging those who had incured his personal resentment. At one time, he dashed into the village of Pittsborough, where a court was then in session, and carried off the judges, lawyers, officers, and some of the citizens; 3 weeks later, he captured Col. Alston and 30 men in his own house, and soon afterward, at Hillsborough, took Gov. Burke with his whole suite, and a number of the principal inhabitants. His name was a terror to the whole country, and he was exempted from all acts of pardon. When the Whigs gained the ascendency in N. C., he went to Fla., and afterward to St. John, N.B., where he became a member of the Assembly. Sentenced to be hanged for rape ab. 1800, he escaped from prison, and was afterward pardoned.

Digitized by Google

Fanning, EDMUND, LL.D. (Y. C. 1803), loyalist, b. Long Island, 1737; d. Lond., Feb. 28, 1818. Y. C. 1757. Son of Col. Phineas. Settled as a lawyer in Hillsborough, N.C.; soon became popular. App. col. of Orange Co. in 1763, and in 1765 clerk of the Supreme Court, and member of the legisl. He married the dau. of Gov. Tryon, and soon after became very obnoxious to the people by his exorbitant charges for legal services, and by his zeal in quelling a rebellion against the severe exactions of the govt., and in bringing its leaders to the scaffold. To escape popular indignation, he accomp. Gov. Tryon to N. Y., as sec., in 1771. Having subsequently applied to the N.C. legisl. for reparation for losses from destruction of his property, they unanimously rejected the petition, and rebuked the gov. for presenting it, thus "trifling with the dignity of the house." In 1774, he received from the British Govt. the lucrative office of surveyor-gen., as a reward for his services and losses in N. C. In 1776, he raised and com. "The King's American Regt. of Foot;" was celebrated for talent, activity, and severity towards his countrymen, and was twice wounded. After the war, he went to Nova Scotia, of which he became councillor and lieut.-gov. Sept. 23, 1783; and from 1786 until he went to Eng., in 1805, was gov. of Prince Edward Island. Maj.-gen. in the British army in 1793, lieut.-gen. 1799, gen. 1808. His indiscretion in N. C. was ever after a subject of regret to him. He was an able jurist and legislator.

Fanning, GOLBERT, d. Tenn. 1810. Pub. "Correct Method of Searching the Scriptures." Editor of the Agriculturist, 5 vols., 8vo. Contrib. to various agric. journals.—Allibone.

Fargues, THOMAS, M.D., a Canadian physician and scholar, b. Quebec, 1780; d. there Dec. 11, 1847. H.U. 1797. M.D. of the U. of Edinb., where he gave his valuable thesis on "Chorea." He resided some years in London, but in 1811 settled in Quebec, where he was long a leading practitioner. — Morgan.

Farley, HARRIET, b. Claremont, N.H. Many years editor of and contrib. to the Lowell Offering, a monthly sustained by the pens of the factory-girls there. Author of "Shells from the Strand," 1847, and "Mind among the Spindles," a selection from the Lowell Offering, with an Introd. by Charles Knight, pub. Lond., 1849. — Allibone.

Farley, MICHAEL, an active Revol. leader, b. Ipswich, Ms., 1719; d. there June 20, 1789. Several years a leading member of the General Court; delegate to the Prov. Congress in 1774–5; member of the exec. council; several years maj.-gen. of militia, and a delegate to the convention for adopting the U.S. Constitution.

Farmer, HENRY T., physician and poet, b. Eng.; d. Charleston, S.C., ab. 1840, a. 46. Emigrating in early life to Charleston, he engaged in commercial pursuits; afterward removed to N.Y., where he studied medicine under Drs. Francis and Hosack; was grad. at the Coll. of Phys. and Surgeons in 1821, and practised at Charleston until his death. In 1819, he pub. "Imagination, the Mariner's Dream, and other Poems." — Duyckinck.

Farmer, JOHN, a celebrated genealogist and antiquary, b. Chelmsford, Ms., June 12, 1789; d. Concord, N.H., Aug. 13, 1838. Inheriting a feeble constitution, he in early life devoted himself to study. He taught school 10 years, and was subsequently engaged for a few years in business, but finally relinquished active pursuits, and devoted himself to literary and antiquarian researches with zeal and success. Member of various hist. and lit. bodies, and, at the time of his death, was corresp. sec. of the N.H. Hist. Society, of which he was one of the founders. His publications were numerous: among the most important of them are his edition of Belknap's "Hist. of N. H.," and his "Genealogical Register of the First Settlers of New Eng.," 1829, a work of vast labor and research. He pub. also a History of Billerica, 1806; of Amherst, 1820; and "Gazetteer of N. H.," 1823, besides his communications to the "Hist. Colls." of the Hist. Societies of Ms. and N.H., and to the Amer. Quarterly Register; and he was also the compiler of the "N.H. Register." In 1822, in connection with J. B. Moore, Esq., he commenced the Colls. Hist.,Biog., Topog., &c., of N. H., of which 3 vols. were pub.

Farnham, ELIZA W. (BURHAUS), philanthropist and author, b. Rensselaerville, N.Y., Nov. 17, 1815; d. N.Y. City, Dec. 15, 1864. In 1835, she went to Ill., and in 1836 was m. there to Thomas J. Farnham. In 1841, she returned to N.Y., and was employed in visiting prisons, and in lecturing to women, till the spring of 1844, when she accepted an appt. as matron of the female dept. of the State Prison at Sing Sing. She pub. "Life in Prairie Land," and edited Sampson's "Criminal Jurisprudence," while there. In 1848, she was connected with the Inst. for the Blind in Boston. She was in Cal. from 1849 to 1856, when she returned to N.Y., and pub. "California in Doors and out." She then studied medicine 2 years. In 1859, she organized a society to aid and protect destitute women in emigrating to the West, and went thither at different times with large numbers of them. She pub. in 1859 "My Early Days," and subsequently returned to Cal. The "Era of Women," also pub. by her (1864), treated of social reforms in the position and rights of woman. — Duyckinck.

Farnham, REV. LUTHER, b. Concord, N.H., Feb. 5, 1816. D.C. 1837; And. Sem. 1841. Pastor of the Cong. Church, Northfield, Ms., 1844–5; and for some years had charge of the church at Marshfield. Sec. of the South. Aid Soc., 1855–61; and, since 1862, sec. of the General Theol. Library at Boston. Besides ministerial, editorial, and other labors, he has pub. a "Glance at Private Libraries," 1855; and has prep. a "Hist. of the Ms. Hort. Soc."

Digitized by Google

Farnham, RALPH, a soldier of the Revol., b. Lebanon, Me., July 7, 1756; d. Acton, Me., Dec. 26, 1861, a. 104 yrs. 5 ms. 19 days. In 1780, he settled at Acton, Me., of which township he was the first inhabitant. He was invited to Boston in Oct. 1860; and a concert was given him at Tremont Temple.

Farnham, THOMAS J., traveller, husband of Eliza W., b. Vt., 1804; d. Cal., Sept. 1848. A lawyer by profession. In 1839, he organized and led a small exped. across the continent to Oregon. He went to Cal. the same year, and procured the release of a large number of American and English prisoners of the Mexican Govt. In 1842, he pub. "Travels in Oregon Territory;" in 1845, "Travels in California, and Scenes in the Pacific;" "A Memoir of the North-west Boundary-Line," and "Mexico, its Geography, People, and Institutions," 8vo, 1846.

Farnsworth, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, D.D. (Georgetown Coll.), educator, b. Bridgeton, Me., Dec. 17, 1793; d. Louisville, Ky., June 4, 1851. Dartm. Coll. 1813. Pastor of the Baptist Church at Edenton, N.C., two years; principal of the Bridgewater (Ms.) Acad., Sept. 1821 to 1823; then of a female high school, Worcester, Ms.; next edited the Christian Watchman, Boston; prof. of theology at the New Hampton (N.H.) Theol. Inst. from May, 1826, to 1833; taught two schools in Providence, R.I.; pres. of Georgetown Coll., Ky., 1836, and of Louisville U. from 1837 to his death.

Farnsworth, ELON J., brig.-gen. vols., b. Livingston Co., Mich., 1835; killed at Gettysburg, July 3, 1863. U. of Mich. He went to N. Mexico in 1857, and was connected with the U.S. commissary dept. there and in Utah. Returning home in the summer of 1861, he was made batt. quartermaster 8th Ill. Cav., and subsequently capt. He was in all the engagements on the peninsula and the campaign of Gen. Pope; became aide to Gen. Pleasanton in May, 1863, and brig.-gen. June 29, 1863.

Farragut, DAVID GLASCOE, admiral, U.S.N., b. near Knoxville, Tenn., July 5, 1801; d. Portsmouth, N.H., Aug. 14, 1870. George, his father, a native of Minorca, came to America in 1776; served through the Revol. war; fought at the Cowpens; attained the rank of major; afterwards settled in Tenn., and was a master in the U.S.N., serving under Patterson in the defence of New Orleans. David was app. midshipman, Dec. 17, 1810; first served on "The Essex," Capt. David Porter, in which, while still a boy, he witnessed her engagement with two British ships-of-war. Before the capture of "The Essex," he had served as acting-lieut. of "The Atlantic," an armed prize. Lieut. Jan. 13, 1825. He went in 1833 to the Brazilian coast as executive officer of the sloop-of-war "Natchez." Commander, Sept. 8, 1841, and ordered to the sloop-of-war "Decatur," off Brazil. In 1847, he took com. of the sloop-of-war "Saratoga." He became assist. insp. of ordnance in 1851; com. of the Mare Island (Cal.) navy-yard, 1854; capt. Sept. 14, 1855; and from 1858 to May, 1860, com. the steam sloop of-war "Brooklyn." He com. the naval forces of the exped. against N. Orleans, sailing in "The Hartford" from Phila. in Jan. 1862. Arriving at the Gulf of Mexico, he organized the "Western Gulf blockade squad.," entered the Mpi. in Mar., and, after a terrific bombardment, passed forts Jackson and Philip, Apr. 24, destroyed a fleet of rebel gunboats, silenced two heavy batteries on the 25th; and at noon of that day the city lay at his mercy. Farragut then proceeded to Vicksburg, which, in conjunction with Flag-Officer Davis, he attempted to reduce; but the attack failed for want of a sufficient land-force to co-operate. July 11, he received the thanks of both houses of Congress, and on the re-organization of the navy, July 16, 1862, was placed first on the list of rear-admirals. While in com. of the Gulf squad. in the following autumn, he captured Corpus Christi, Sabine Pass, and Galveston. Mar. 14, 1863, in his flag-ship "Hartford," he passed the batteries at Port Hudson, and, having command of the river between Vicksburg and Port H., was enabled to blockade Red River, and thus intercept supplies from Texas for the rebel armies. He co-operated in the capture of Vicksburg and Port Hudson, in July, 1863. Aug. 5, 1864, he defeated the rebel fleet in Mobile Bay, which was followed in a few days by the fall of the forts, and the capture of the place. This exploit raised his fame to the highest point. Dec. 21, 1864, he received the thanks of Congress, and the rank of vice-admiral, created expressly for him. Made admiral, July 25, 1866. In 1867–8, in the U.S. steam-frigate "Franklin," he visited Europe, Africa, and Asia, and was everywhere received with the highest honors.

Farrar, ELIZA ROTCH, authoress, b. 1792; d. Springfield, Ms., Apr. 22, 1870. Dau. of Benj. Rotch of N. Bedford; m. in 1828 to Prof. John Farrar of H.U. Author of "Children's Robinson Crusoe," "Life of Lafayette," "Howard," "Youth's Letter-Writer," "Young Lady's Friend," 1837, "Recollections of 70 Years," 1866.

Farrar, JOHN, LL.D. (Bowd. Coll. 1833), prof. of mathematics and nat. philos. at H.U., 1807–31, b. Lincoln, Ms., July 1, 1779; d. Cambridge, May 8, 1853. H.U. 1803. App. Greek tutor at Harvard in 1805. In 1818, he pub. "Elements of Algebra," translated from the French of Lacroix, which was succeeded in the 9 following years by 11 other works, translated from Legendre, Biot, Bezout, and others, on different subjects of mathematics and physics, adapted for the course of instruction in the principal institutions of learning throughout the country. Contrib. to the N. A. Review, and to the memoirs of the Amer. Acad., of which he was recording sec. 1811–24, and vice-pres. 1829–30. In 1820, he m. Lucy M. Buckminster, who d. in 1824. He was again m. in 1828, to Eliza Rotch.

Farrar, TIMOTHY, LL.D, judge, b. Concord, Ms., July 11, 1747; d. Hollis, N.H., Feb. 21, 1849. H.U. 1767. He taught school, and settled in New Ipswich, N.H., in 1770. He participated in the early Revol. movements of the time, and was made a major, and a justice of the C.C.P. He filled the office of judge more than 40 years. App. chief justice Feb. 22, 1802. Besides his judicial duties, he was, in 1782, a member of the N.H. Const. Conv., also one of the committee which drafted the State constitution.

Digitized by Google

Farrar, TIMOTHY, LL.D., b. New Ipswich, Mar. 17, 1788. Son of the preceding. Dartm. Coll. 1807. Law-partner of Daniel Webster from 1813 to 1816; judge of the N.H. Court of Common Pleas in 1824–33; vice-pres. of the N.E. Hist. and Geneal. Soc. 1853-8. In 1867, he pub. "Manual of the U.S. Constitution," 8vo. He pub. in 1819 the Dartm. Coll. Case; a Review of the Dred Scott Case in 1857; trial of the Constitution, 1863, in the N. A. Review, and several articles in the New-Englander, 1862.

Fasquelle, (fäs-kel), JEAN LOUIS, F.B., LL.D., b. France, 1808; d. Mich., 1862. Settled in the U.S. in 1834. Prof. of languages, &c., U. of Michigan, 1846–62. Author of a "New Method of Learning the French Language," N.Y., 1854, and of several other French text-books for schools.

Fauchet (fō'-shā'), JEAN ANTOINE JOSEPH, Baron, diplomatist and author, b. St. Quentin, France, 1763. A law-student at Paris when the revol. commenced, he pub. a pamphlet in defence of its principles; was app. sec. of the Exec. Council, and was ambassador to the U.S. in 1794–6. Having subsequently produced an excellent work on the U.S., and on the connection of France with them (trans. by W. Duane, Phila., 1797), the Directory nominated him a commissioner to St. Domingo, which he declined. Under Bonaparte, he was prefect of the Var, and in 1805 of the Arno; was made a baron and a com. of the Legion of Honor, but left Italy when the French evacuated it in 1814. On Napoleon's return, he was made prefect of the Gironde. — Pantheon of the Age.

Faugeres (fō'-zheers'), MARGARETTA V., poetess, b. Tomhanick, near Albany, 1771; d. N.Y. City, Jan. 9, 1801. Dau. of Ann Eliza Bleecker. In 1792, in opposition to the wishes of her father and friends, she m. Peter Faugeres, a physician of N.Y., whose dissipation, in a few years, brought her to poverty and wretchedness. Her mother died in 1783, and her father in 1795. Her contribs. to the N.Y. Magazine and the Museum were much admired. In 1793, she pub., prefixed to the works of her mother, a memoir and some of her own poetry. In 1795, she pub. "Belisarius," a tragedy. Soon after the death of her husband, in 1798, she became an assist. in a young ladies' acad. in New Brunswick, and afterwards taught in Brooklyn. — Hardie.

Fauquier, FRANCIS, lieut.-gov. of Va. from 1758 to his d., March 3, 1768. The successor of Dinwiddie, his administration was eminently popular and useful. Jefferson considered him the ablest of the govs. of Va. He pub., Lond., 8vo, 1757, "Raising Money for Support of the War," &c.

Fay, HEMAN A., son of Dr. Jonas, b. Bennington, Vt., 1778; d. there 20 Aug. 1865. West Point, 1808. U.S. milit. storekeeper at Albany, 1818–42. Author of "Official Account of Battles of 1812–15," 1815.

Fay, DR. JONAS, statesman, b. Hardwick, Ms., Jan. 17, 1737; d. Bennington, Vt., Mar. 6, 1818. He received a good education. Was clerk of a Ms. company at Fort Edward in 1756, removed to Bennington in 1766, and soon became prominent among the settlers on the N.H. grants, in their contest with N.Y. and with the mother-country, and also in the organization of the State govt. He was their agent to N.Y. in 1772 to inform Gov. Tryon of the grounds of their complaint; clerk to the convention of Mar. 1774, that resolved to defend by force Allen and others outlawed by the N.Y. Assembly; surgeon under Allen at the capture of Ticonderoga, and subsequently in Col. Warner's regt.; member of the convention of Jan. 1777, which declared Vt. an independent State, and author of the declaration and petition announcing the fact, and their reasons for it, to Congress; sec. to the convention to form the State constitution in July, 1777, and one of the Council of Safety to administer the govt.; member of the State Council, 1778–85; judge of the Supreme Court in 1782; of Probate, 1782–7; agent of the State to Congress in Jan. 1777, Oct. 1779, June, 1781, and Feb. 1782. In 1780, in conjunction with Ethan Allen, he pub. a pamphlet on the N.H. and N.Y. Controversy, printed in Hartford. — Vt. Hist. Gaz., 171.

Fay, THEODORE SEDGWICK, author and diplomatist, b. New York, Feb. 10, 1807. Adm. to the bar in 1828. Preferring a literary life, he became a contrib. to and subsequently edited the N.Y. Mirror. In 1832, he pub. "Dreams and Reveries of a Quiet Man." He m. in 1833; spent 3 years travelling in Europe, and wrote the "Minute-Book," a journal of travels. His first novel, "Norman Leslie," appeared in 1835. He was U.S. sec. of legation at Berlin from 1837 to 1853; resident minister at Berne, Switzerland, 1853–60. He pub. in 1840 "The Countess Ida;" in 1843, "Hoboken," a romance of New York; in 1851, "Ulric, or the Voices," a poem in 19 cantos (to which a 20th was added in "The Knickerbocker Gallery" in 1855); "Sidney Clifton," 1839; "Robert Rueful," 1844; "Views of Christianity," 1856; a series of papers on Shakspeare, a variety of fugitive pieces in prose and verse, and a "History of Switzerland."

Fearon, HENRY BRADSHAW, a London surgeon, author of "A Narrative of a Journey of 5,000 Miles through the Eastern and Western States of America," Lond., 8vo, 1818.

Featherstone, W. S., brig.-gen. C.S.A., b. Tenn.; killed near Atlanta, Ga., July 20, 1864. Emigrating to Mpi., he rep. that State in Congress in 1847–51.

Featherstonhaugh, GEORGE WILLIAM, F.R.S., author; d. Havre, France, 28 Sept. 1866. Author of translation of the "Republic" of Cicero, 1828; "Excursion through the Slave States," 8vo, 1844; "Geology of Green Bay and Wisconsin," 1836; "Geological Report," 1834, of the country between the Mo. and Red Rivers; "Observations on the Ashburton Treaty," 1842; "Canoe Voyage to the Minnesota," 1847, 2 vols.; "Geol. Reconnoissance in 1835 to Côteau de Prairie," 1836. Having resided many years in the West, which he had extensively explored, he was made by the British Govt. a commissioner to settle the northern boundary of the U.S. under the Ashburton Treaty, and was afterward British consul to Calvados and Seine, France.

Digitized by Google

Febiger, CHRISTIAN, col. Revol. army, b. Denmark, 1747; d. Phila., Sept. 20, 1796. He had seen service before enlisting, Apr. 28, 1775, and at Bunker's Hill led a portion of Gerrish's regt., of which he was adj., to the scene of battle in season to do good service. He served with marked ability throughout the war; accomp. Arnold to Quebec, and was made prisoner in the attack on that citadel; was conspicuous at the capture of Stony Point, where he led a column of attack, and at Yorktown, where he com. the 2d Va. regt. From 1789 until his death, he was treas. of Pa.

Fechter (fek'-ter), CHARLES, actor, b. London, 1823. His father was a German, his mother English. He was educated in France, and became a sculptor; but, being drawn to the stage, made his début at the Salle Molière; appeared at Berlin in 1846, and Oct. 27, 1860, at the Princess Theatre, London, as Ruy Blas; Mar. 19, 1861, he appeared as Hamlet; Jan. 1, 1863, he leased the Lyceum, London, and opened as Lagadere, in "The Duke's Motto." He made his American début in Ruy Blas at Niblo's, N.Y., Jan. 10, 1870. In Oct. 1870, he opened at the Globe Theatre, Boston.

Feke, ROBERT, one of the earliest American artists. Descended from Henry, who emigrated to Lynn, Ms., in 1630, a branch of whose family settled at Oyster Bay, L. I., whence, it is said, Robert came to R. I. He left home when young, and, according to a writer in the Hist. Mag. (1859–60), was taken prisoner, and carried to Spain, where he beguiled his captivity by making rude paintings, with the proceeds of which he returned home. Settled at Newport, and made professional visits to N.Y., Phila., and other cities. He d. in Barbadoes, a. ab. 44. His first portraits are dated 1746. — Tuckerman.

Felch, ALPHEUS, jurist and statesman, b. Limerick, York Co., Me., Sept. 28, 1806. Bowd. Coll. 1827. He emigrated to Mich. when quite young; was a member of the State legisl. in 1836–7; was bank commissioner in 1838–9; auditor-gen. of the State in 1842; judge of the Supreme Court, from 1842 to 1845; gov. of Mich. in 1846–7, and U.S. senator, 1847–53. One of the commissioners to settle land-claims in Cal., under the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, in 1853–6. Delegate to the Chicago Convention in 1864. — Lanman.

Fell, J. WELDON, M.D., b. U.S.; removed to London, where he was allowed to treat the patients of Middlesex Hospital for cancerous diseases upon a new plan. He pub in 1857 "A Treatise on Cancer," Lond., 8vo. — Allibone.

Fellows, GEN. JOHN, Revol. officer, b. Pomfret, Ct., 1733; d. Sheffield, Ms., Aug. 1, 1808. He saw service in the French war; was a member of the Prov. Congress in 1775, led a regt. of minute-men to Boston immediately after the battle of Lexington, and, as a brig. gen. of militia (app. June 25, 1776), com. a brigade at Long Island, at White Plains, and at Bemis's Heights, where he was instrumental in the capture of Burgoyne. After the war, he was high sheriff of Berkshire.

Fellows, COL. JOHN, author, b. Sheffield, Ms., 1760; d. N.Y. City, Jan. 3, 1844. Y.C. 1783. He pub. a work on the authorship of Junius, a "Life of Gen. Putnam," 12mo, 1843, and "Exposition of the Mysteries or Religious Dogmas and Customs of the Ancient Egyptians, Pythagoreans, and Druids," also an "Inquiry into Freemasonry," 8vo.

Felt, REV. JOSEPH BARLOW, LL.D., (Dartm. Coll. 1857), antiquarian scholar and author, b. Salem, Dec. 22, 1789; d. there Sept. 8, 1869. Dartm. Coll. 1813. Licensed to preach in 1815; pastor at Sharon, Ms., in 1821–4, and at Hamilton, Ms., 1824–34. Commissioned by Gov. Everett, in Apr. 1836, to arrange the Ms. State papers, he had them classified and bound. In 1845, he procured from the English archives duplicates of records which had been lost, completing his labors on the State archives in 1846. Pres. of the N.E. Hist. Geneal. Society, 1850–3; librarian of the Ms. Hist. Soc., Boston, from Apr. 28, 1842, to 1858; recording sec. Amer. Statist. Assoc. 1839–59, and member of many hist. societies. He pub. "Annals of Salem," 1827; "Hist. of Ipswich, Essex, and Hamilton," 1834; "Ecclesiastical History of N. England," 2 vols., 1855–62; "Class of Alumni of Dartm. Coll., 1813;" "Hist. of Ms. Currency," 1839; "Notice of Roger Conant," 8vo, 1848; "The Customs of New Eng.," 8vo, 1853; "Genealogical Items for Gloucester and Lynn," 1850–1; "Memoir of Hugh Peters," 1851; "Memorials of Wm. S. Shaw," 1852, and occasional addresses.

Felton, CORNELIUS CONWAY, LL.D., (Amh. Coll. 1848), scholar and writer, b. W. Newbury, Ms., Nov. 6, 1807; d. Chester, Pa., Feb. 26, 1862. H.U. 1827. During a portion of his junior year, he taught mathematics in the Round Hill School at Northampton, Ms. After leaving coll., he taught in the Livingston High School, Geneseo, N.Y. App. Latin tutor in H.U. in 1829, Greek tutor in 1830, prof. of Greek in 1832, Eliot prof. of Greek literature in 1834, and was inaug. pres. 19 July, 1860. In 1833 he pub. an edition of Homer, with English notes, and Flaxman's illustrations; in 1840 a translation of Menzel's "German Literature," 3 vols.; a Greek Reader with English notes and a vocabulary; and in 1841 the "Clouds" of Aristophanes. In connection with Profs. Sears and Edwards, he pub. in 1843 "Ancient Literature and Art." He assisted Prof. Longfellow in "The Poets and Poetry of Europe," in 1845; edited the Panegyricus of Isocrates and the Agamemnon of Æschylus; translated from the French Guyot's "Earth and Man," 1849; and edited the "Birds of Aristophanes;" a selection from the writings of Prof. Popkin, in 1852; and pub. a vol. of selections from the Greek historians. In 1853–4 he made a European tour; in 1855 he revised for publication Smith's "History of Greece," and an edition of Lord Carlisle's "Diary in Turkish and Greek Waters." In 1856 a selection by him from modern Greek writers was pub. He also compiled a work on Greek and Roman metres; was the author of a life of Gen. Eaton, in Sparks's "Amer. Biog.," various occasional addresses, and of numerous contributions to the N. Amer. Review, Christian Examiner, and other periodicals. A series of vigorous articles on Spiritualism, in the Boston Courier in 1857–8, proceeded from his pen. He delivered 3 courses of lectures before the Lowell Institute, Boston, on the history and literature of Greece, and was a contrib. to the New Amer. Cyclop. Member of Mass. Board of Educa. a regent of the Smithsonian Institution, and member of the Acad. of Arts and Sciences.

Digitized by Google

Fendall, JOSIAS, gov. of Md. 1656–60. Ordered in 1655, by Gov. Stone, to seize the public stores at Patuxent, Capt. Fendall was made a prisoner, Mar. 29, in the fight which ensued, and, having afterward raised another insurrection, was, as a reward for his supposed services to the Proprietary Govt., app. gov. July 10, 1656. Having turned against his patron, he was superseded Dec. 1660, was tried in Feb. 1661, and sentenced to be banished, but, on his humble petition to the gov. and council, was pardoned, and moderately fined. In July, 1681, he was fined heavily, and banished, for seditious practices. — Chalmers; Bozman.

Fennell, JAMES, actor and author, b. London, 1766; d. Phila. June 14, 1816. He quitted the study of law for the stage, appearing in 1787 at the Edinb. Theatre as Othello, always his favorite part. He afterward played at York, and in 1789 at Covent Garden; next wrote for the Theatrical Guardian, and in 1791 pub. "Lindel and Clara, or a Trip to Gibraltar," a comedy. He lived a while in Paris, ostentatiously, but in 1792 engaged with Wignell of Phila. Performed in many theatres, and, possessing a handsome figure and considerable talent, was the idol of the playgoers, but ruined himself by dissipation, and in 1802 was imprisoned for debt. About 1804 he retired from the stage, and established saltworks on an original plan, near New London, Ct., — a ruinous enterprise. In 1806 he commenced a starring tour. At one time, he kept an acad. in Charlestown, Ms. His other works are "The Wheel of Truth," "Picture of Paris," and "An Apology for My Life," 2 vols. 1814. "His Othello, Zanga, and Glenalvon, were fine pieces of acting, and generally his villains appeared very natural." His features were very expressive, and wonderfully under his command. — Rees; Clapp.

Fenner, ARTHUR, gov. of R.I. 1789–1805, b. Providence, 1745; d. there Oct. 15, 1805. His ancestors were among the earliest inhabitants of Providence. Previously to his election as gov., he was clerk of the Superior Court.

Fenner, JAMES, LL.D. (B.U.), politician, b. Providence, 1771; d. there April 17, 1846. Brown U. 1789. Son of the preceding U.S. senator 1805–7; gov. 1807–11, 1824–31, and again in 1844–5.

Fenouillet (feh-noo'-yā') EMILE DE, journalist, b. Hyeres, France; d. Quebec, June 30, 1859. He studied law; was a writer for the Paris press; came to Quebec in Oct. 1854, and edited the Journal de Quebec, and was prof. of history and literature at the Laval Normal School. He was the contrib. of able articles to the Journal de l'Instruction Publique. — Morgan.

Fenton, REUBEN E., politician, b. Carroll, Chautauque Co., N.Y., July 1, 1819. Educated at Pleasant Hill and Fredonia Academies, and studied law, but became a merchant. Supervisor of the town of Carroll in 1843; M.C. 1853–5 and 1857–65; gov. of N.Y. 1865–9; and was chosen U.S. senator in 1869.

Fenwick, BENEDICT J., R. C. bishop of Boston, b. St. Mary's Co., Md., 1782; d. Boston, Aug. 11, 1846. Joining the Jesuits, he became pres. of Georgetown Coll., and was consecrated, Nov. 1, 1825, bishop of Boston. His administrative abilities were of the highest order. He found two churches and two priests in his diocese, which, at his death, had increased to fifty of the former, and sixty of the latter.

Fenwick, EDWARD, D.D., R. C. bishop of Ohio, b. Md.; d. Wayne Co., O., Oct. 6, 1832. Consecrated 1822.

Fenwick, GEORGE, proprietor of part of Ct.; d. 1657, in Eng. Came to America in 1636 to take charge of the plantation of Saybrook. Returning to England, he came back again in 1639, and from that time, as one of the patentees, and agent for others, superintended and governed Saybrook till Dec. 5, 1644, when he sold its jurisdiction and territory to the Ct. Colony. After his return to Eng. he was app. one of the judges for the trial of Charles I.

Fenwicke, JOHN, Quaker, and founder of a colony in N. J., b. Eng. 1618; d. poor, in 1683, after he had conveyed his claim to Wm. Penn. He obtained in 1673 a grant of land in West Jersey; emig. in 1675, and settled in Salem. His claim to the proprietorship was disputed by Gov. Andros, who arrested him in 1678, and confined him in prison for two years. — See L. Q. C. Elmer, Early Settlement of Cumberland Co., N.J.

Fenwick, JOHN R., brig.-gen. U S.A., b. Charleston, S.C., 1780; d. Marseilles, France, March 19, 1842. He was early in life disting. for his literary acquirements, having received an excellent education in Eng. App. lieut of marines, Nov. 10, 1799; capt. Aug. 1809; lieut.-col. light art. Dec. 2, 1811; severely wounded in assault on Queenstown Heights, Oct. 13, 1812, and made prisoner; brev. col for gallant conduct on Niagara frontier, Mar. 18, 1813; adj.-gen. March 18, 1813; col. 4th Art. May 8, 1822; brev. brig.-gen. March 18, 1823. — Gardiner.

Fereira (fĕr-rā'-e-rā), ALEXANDRE RODRIGUES, Brazilian naturalist and traveller, b. Bahia, 1756; d. 1815. From 1784 to 1793, he explored Brazil.

Ferguson, ELIZABETH; d. on her farm in Montgomery Co., Pa., Feb. 23, 1801, a. 61. Dau. of Dr. Thomas Graham of Phila., by Anne, grand-dau. of Gov. Keith. She was well educated, enjoyed the friendship of many eminent men, and translated "Telemachus" into verse. Her husband joined the British in the Revol., and never returned to her. His estate was confiscated; but a part of it was restored to her by the legisl. in 1781.

Digitized by Google

Ferguson, Major Patrick, a British officer; killed at the battle of King's Mountain, Oct. 7, 1780, a. 36. Son of James of Pitfour, an eminent jurist, and a nephew of Lord Elibank. At the age of 18, he entered the army in Flanders; came to Amer. in the spring of 1777; was engaged in the battle of Brandywine; was active on the Hudson in 1779, and so disting. himself at the siege of Charleston in 1780, that he was particularly mentioned by Sir H. Clinton, and app. major 71st regt. Detached by Cornwallis in the Sept. following to the upper part of S. C., he soon found himself surrounded by the hardy mountaineers of that region; and, after a gallant defence, he was defeated and slain. He was a brave and enterprising soldier, and reputed to be the best marksman in the army. — Lossing.

Ferland, L'Abbé, M. J. B. A., author, b. Montreal, Dec. 25, 1805; d. Quebec, Jan. 8, 1864. Educated at Kingston and the Coll. of Nicollet; adm. to holy orders in 1823; served one year as under sec. to Cardinal Plessis; afterwards prof. of arts, rhetoric, and philosophy, at Nicollet; priest, 1828; vicar at Rivier de Loup and St. Roch, Quebec; first chaplain of the marine hospital during the cholera of 1834; successively curé of St. Isidore, St. Foix, and, in 1837, of St. Anne of Beaupré; supt. at Nicollet, 1841, and superior in 1847. In 1848, he became a resident of the archiepiscopal palace, Quebec. In 1855, he went to France to collect materials for the early hist. of Canada. Prof. at the Laval U., June 10, 1855; and afterwards deacon of the faculty. He pub. "Observations on the History of Canada," 1851; "Notes on the Registers of Notre Dame de Quebec;" "A Voyage to Labrador;" "Courses of History of Canada, from 1534 to 1633;" "Journal of a Voyage to the Coast of Gaspé," with other narratives, and "Life of Bishop Plessis," 1863.

Fernandez (fĕr-năn'-dĕth), Diego, Spanish historian and soldier, b. Palencia; embarked for Peru in 1545, and became, in 1555, historiographer of the viceroy, Hurtado de Mendoza. His "Hist. of Peru," 1571, is said to be the best contemporary work on that subject.

Fernandez, Juan, a Spanish pilot and navigator. Discovered in 1563 the two islands which bear his name, and planted a colony on the larger one; d. 1576. The adventures of Alexander Selkirk on this island are the basis of Defoe's "Robinson Crusoe."

Ferry, Orris Sanford, lawyer and sen., b. Bethel, Ct., Aug. 15, 1823. Y. C. 1844. Adm. to the bar in 1846; began practice at Norwalk, Ct.; app. judge of probate in 1849; State senator in 1855–6; in 1856–9, dist. atty. for Fairfield Co.; and in 1860–61, M.C. In July, 1861, as col. of the 5th Ct. vols., he joined Gen. Banks's corps in Md.; brig.-gen. Mar. 17, 1862, and assigned a brigade in Shields's division, from which he was transferred to Peck's division of the 4th army corps under Gen. Keyes. U.S. senator 1867 to his death, Nov. 21, 1875.

Fersen, Axel, Count, Swedish soldier, b. Stockholm, 1755; d. there June 20, 1810. Educated at the military acad. of Turin, accomp. his friend Stedingk to Versailles, and entered the "Royal Swedes." He came to Amer. as an aide-de-camp on the staff of Rochambeau, fought under Lafayette, and received from Washington the badge of Cincinnatus. Returning to France, he became col. of his old regt., and a favorite at court. In the memorable flight of the royal family to Varennes, he was the disguised coachman of the royal fugitives. On his return to Sweden, he was elevated to high trust and dignity. Ab. 1801, was made grand marshal of Sweden. He and his sister were favorites with the king and queen, but on that account were unpopular with the people. While marshalling the funeral pageant of the deceased Prince Christian, he was seized by the mob, and deliberately tortured to death, on suspicion of complicity in his death.

Fessenden, Francis, brev. maj.-gen. U.S.A., b. Portland, Me., 18 Mar. 1839. Bowd. Coll. 1858. Lawyer by profession. Son of Senator F. App. capt. 19th U.S. Inf. May 14, 1861; wounded at Shiloh; col. 25th Me. vols. Oct. 1862 to Jan. 1863; com. 1st brigade, Abercombie's division, in the battle of Chantilly, Va.; col. 30th Me. vols. in battle Sabine Cross Roads; com. brigade in battles of Pleasant Hill and Monett's Bluff, La., and lost his leg; brig.-gen. vols. May, 1864; brev. maj.-gen. vols., and brev. maj., lieut.-col., col., and brig., and maj.-gen. U.S.A., for gallant and merit. services in the civil war.; lieut.-col. 28th U.S. Inf.; retired 1 Nov. 1866. — Henry.

Fessenden, Samuel, LL.D. (Bowd. Coll. 1846), lawyer, b. Fryeburg, Me., July 16, 1784; d. near Portland, Me., Mar. 13, 1869. Dartm. Coll. 1806. Adm. to the bar in 1809, he began practice at New Gloucester, and soon took high rank as a lawyer. Member of the Ms. Gen. Court, 1814–16, and of the senate in 1818–19; maj.-gen. of militia, 1818–32. Removing to Portland in 1822, he was its representative in the Me. legisl. in 1825–6, and was some years Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Maine. One of the original members of the antislavery party in Me., and from 1845 to 1847 was the candidate of the Liberal party for gov. Senator Fessenden was his son. He pub. two orations, and a treatise on the institution, duties, and importance of juries. — Alumni of D. C.

Fessenden, Thomas Green, poet and agric. writer, b. Walpole, N.H., Apr. 22, 1771; d. Boston, Nov. 11, 1837. Dartm. Coll. 1796. He studied law; but the popularity of a little poem, "Jonathan's Courtship," led him to the pursuit of literature. While in Lond. in 1803, and in want of money, he produced "Terrible Tractoration," a popular poem in Hudibrastic verse, advertising Perkins's metallic tractors, and satirizing the medical profession. In 1804, he settled in Boston, and pub. there, in 1806, "Democracy Unveiled," a political satire in verse, and other pieces of a similar character; then edited the Weekly Inspector at New York City two years. In 1812, he practised law at Bellows Falls, Vt.; removed to Brattleboro' in 1815, where he pub. the Reporter, a political paper; and from 1816 to 1822 edited at Bellows Falls the Intelligencer. From 1822 till his death, he pub. at Boston the N. E. Farmer, a weekly agric. journal of great value, also publishing from time to time various treatises on agric. subjects, and editing the Horticult. Register. His other writings are, "Original Poems;" "The Ladies' Monitor," 1818; "American Clerk's Companion," 1815; "Laws of Patents," 1822.

Digitized by Google

Fessenden, WILLIAM PITT, LL.D. (Bowd. Coll. 1858), lawyer and senator, b. Boscawen, N.H., 6 Oct. 1806; d. Portland, Me., 8 Sept. 1869. Bowd. Coll. 1823. Son of Gen. Samuel. Adm. to the bar in 1827; from 1829 he practised in Portland, attaining the first rank; member of the legisl. in 1832 and 1840; M. C. 1841–3; again in the State legisl. in 1845–7 and 1853–5, and U.S. senator from 23 Feb. 1854, to his death, excepting his term of office as sec. U.S. treas., July, 1864–Mar. 1865. Member of the conventions that nominated Clay, Taylor, and Scott for the presidency. He was one of the founders of the Repub. party in Me. Mar. 3, 1854, he made a most effective speech against the Nebraska Bill, and was prominent in debate, and a leading member of the finance committee. Throughout the Rebellion, as chairman of this committee, and as sec. of the treasury, he aided in maintaining the national credit. He was one of the few Repub. senators who voted for the acquittal of Pres. Johnson on his impeachment trial. He was one of the foremost senators of his time, and as a speaker excelled in clear and compact statement.

Feuillie (fuh'-yē'), Louis, French botanist and astronomer, b. near Forcalquier, Provence, 1660; d. Marseilles, 1732. Companion of J. Cassini in a scientific tour to the Levant. In 1703–12, he travelled in S. America. Author of a "History of the Medicinal Plants of Peru and Chili," 3 vols., 1714; and "Journal of Observations made on the Eastern Coasts of S. America and the W. Indies," 2 vols., 1714.

Few, COL. WILLIAM, Revol. patriot, b. Baltimore Co., Md., June 8, 1748; d. Fishkill, N.Y., July 16, 1828. His ancestor, Wm. Ffew, came with Wm. Penn to Amer. In 1758, the family removed to Orange Co., N.C., where Wm. received a good education. Removing to Ga. in 1776, he was chosen to the convention for framing a State constitution, and to the assembly, and app. one of the council. As a col., he disting. himself in several actions with the British and Indians; became in 1778 surveyor-gen., and pres. judge of the Richmond Co. Court; delegate to the Old Congress from Jan. 1780, until 1783, and in 1786; assisted in framing the National Constitution in 1787, and in its adoption by his State. Engaging in 1784 in the practice of law, he soon became eminent in the profession. Member of the const. convs. of Ga. in 1796 and 1798; U.S. senator, 1789–93, and 3 years on the Ga. bench. Removing to N.Y. in the summer of 1799, he became a member of the legisl., U.S. commissioner of loans, and mayor of the city. He rendered much service to the State in adjusting difficulties with the Indians.

Field, CYRUS WEST, merchant, son of Rev. Dr. Field of Stockbridge, b. Stockbridge, Ms., Nov. 30, 1819. He went to N.Y. in 1835, and from a clerkship rose to the head of a prosperous mercantile house. In 1853, he spent 6 months in S. Amer. travel. On his return, he became deeply interested in the project of a telegraph across the ocean. Early in 1854, he was instrumental in procuring a charter from the legisl. of Newfoundland, granting an exclusive right, for 50 years, to establish a telegraph from the continent of America to Newfoundland, and thence to Europe, associating himself with Peter Cooper, Moses Taylor, and other citizens of N.Y., under the title of the "N.Y., Newfoundland, and London Telegraph Company." In 1856, he organized the "Atlantic Telegraph Company," to continue the line from Newfoundland to Ireland; subsequently procured from the British and Amer. Govts. aid in money and ships, and accompanied the expeds. in 1857 and 1858, for the purpose of laying the cable across the Atlantic Ocean. After two failures, Mr. Field and his coadjutors succeeded, and began to operate with the Atlantic Telegraph, in Aug. 1866

Field, DAVID DUDLEY, D.D. (Wms. Coll. 1837), Cong. clergyman, b. E. Guilford, Ct., May 20, 1781; d. Stockbridge, Ms., April 15, 1867. Y.C. 1802. Son of Capt. Timo. Field, a Revol. officer. Minister of Haddam, Ct., from Apr. 11, 1804, to 1818; of Stockbridge, Ms., from Aug. 25, 1819, to 1837; and again over the same church at Haddam from April 11, 1837, until 1851, when he returned to Stockbridge. He pub. a "History of Middlesex County," 8vo, 1839; a "History of Berkshire County," 1829; an "Historical Address" at Middletown; "Hist. of Pittsfield," 1844; and a "Genealogy of the Brainerd Family," 1857; also some occasional sermons. Of his sons, David Dudley is a leading lawyer of N.Y.; Stephen J. is one of the judges of the U.S. Supreme Court; Cyrus W. is the originator of the Atlantic Telegraph; and Henry M. is editor of the N.Y. Evangelist.

Field, DAVID DUDLEY, jurist, b. Haddam, Ct., Feb. 13, 1805. Wms. Coll. 1824. Adm. to the bar in 1828, he commenced practice in N.Y., where he has been conspicuous for more than 40 years. In 1839, he pub. his first essay on law reform, followed by others in 1842, '44, '46, and '47. App. by the legisl. a commissioner on practice and pleadings, he took a leading part in preparing the code of procedure. In 1857, Mr. Field was app. by the legisl. of N.Y. at the head of a new commission to prepare a political code, a penal code, and a civil code, designed to contain the whole body of the law. Author of many political pamphlets, and took a deep interest in the great questions of the day, and, in the late war, was active with voice, pen, and purse in aid of his country.

Field, HENRY MARTYN, D.D. (Wms. Coll. 1862), clergyman and journalist, bro. of the preceding, b. Stockbridge, Ms., Apr. 3, 1822. Wms. Coll. 1838. He became pastor of a church, Apr. 11, 1843, at St. Louis; resigned in 1847, and travelled in Europe. Returning to America in the autumn of 1848, he pub. an historical sketch of the Italian revolu-tious, and a letter from Rome on the "Good and the Bad in the Roman-Catholic Church." He pub. a book on the Irish rebellion of 1798, entitled "The Irish Confederates," 12mo, 1851. In Jan. 1851, he settled at West Springfield, Ms., whence, in Nov. 1854, he removed to New York to become one of the editors of the Evangelist. In 1858, he again visited Europe, and pub. "Summer Pictures from Copenhagen to Venice," N.Y., 1859; "Hist. of the Atlantic Telegraph."

Digitized by Google

Field, JOSEPH M., actor and dramatist, b. Eng.; d. Mobile, Ala., Jan. 30, 1856. Possessing fine literary taste and acquisitions, he was an ornament to his profession, being one of the best comedians of his time. As a dramatist, he signalized himself in the production of several excellent local pieces, the best of which is "The Tourist." As "Straws" of the New-Orleans Picayune, he acquired great celebrity, contributing for some years fugitive pieces of poetry to its columns, of great merit. Latterly he had been editor and proprietor of the St. Louis Reveille, and at his decease was lessee and manager of the Mobile Theatre. He pub. "The Drama in Pokerville, and other Stories, by Everpoint," 8vo, Phila., 1847. Married Eliza Riddle 1836."

Field, RICHARD STOCKTON, LL.D. (N.J. Coll. 1859), jurist, b. Whitehill, N.J., 31 Dec. 1803; d. Princeton, N.J., May 25, 1870. N. J. Coll. 1821. Nephew of Richard, signer of the Decl. of Indep. Son of Robert C. Prof. N.J. Law School, 1847–55; atty.-gen. of N.J. some years; U.S. senator, 1862–3, and U.S. dist. judge for N.J. from 1863 to his d. Delegate to the Phila. Convent. of 1866, and an unflinching advocate of the Union cause during the Rebellion. Author of "The Provincial Courts of N.J.," 8vo, 1849; addresses, and contribs. to the Colls. N.J. Hist. Society.

Field, STEPHEN JOHNSON, jurist, b. Haddam, Ct., Nov. 4, 1816. Wms. Coll. 1837. Son of David Dudley. In his youth, he travelled in Europe and the East; studied law with his bro. David D. in N.Y., and was his partner; went to Cal. in 1849; was in 1850 elected first alcalde of Marysville; was in Oct. elected to the legisl.; judge of the State Supreme Court, 1857–63, and chief justice; app. judge of the U.S. Supreme Court, Mar. 10, 1863.

Fields, JAMES THOMAS, poet and publisher, b. Portsmouth, N.H., 31 Dec. 1817. A.M. of H.U. 1858. In his 18th year, he delivered an anniversary poem before the Mercantile Library Association of Boston. In 1848 he read a poem, entitled "The Post of Honor," before the same society. He was a member of the Boston publishing-house of Ticknor & Fields, afterwards Fields, Osgood, & Co. He collected and pub. De Quincey's writings in 22 vols. 16mo. Editor Atlantic Monthly, 1862–June, 1871. He pub. a volume of poems soon after his return from Europe in 1849; a similar vol., for private distribution, in 1854; and another in 1858, entitled "A Few Verses for a Few Friends."

Fillmore, MILLARD, 13th pres. of the U.S., b. Summer Hill, Cayuga Co., N.Y., Jan. 7, 1800. At an early age, he was sent to Livingston Co. to learn the clothier's trade, and about four months later he was apprenticed to a wool-carder in the town in which his father lived. During the four years that he worked at his trade, he did what he could to supply the defects of his early education. At the age of 19, he commenced the study of law, and devoted a portion of his time to teaching school. In 1821, he removed to Erie Co., and pursued his legal studies in Buffalo. Two years later, he commenced practice at Aurora; in 1827 was adm. as an attorney, and in 1829 as a counsellor, in the Supreme Court; and in 1830 he removed to Buffalo. Here he associated with himself in business Nathan K. Hall, afterward U.S. postmaster-general. He was a member of the assembly in 1829–32; M.C. 1833–5 and in 1837–41, and took a prominent part in the business of the house. He disting. himself in the N.Y. legisl. by his advocacy of the act to abolish imprisonment for debt, passed in 1831. In Congress, he supported the internal improvement and protective tariff policy of the Whig party. He supported Mr. Adams in the struggle upon the question of the reception of petitions for the abolition of slavery; opposed the annexation of Texas with slavery; favored the abolition of the slave-trade between the States, and of slavery in the Dist. of Col. As chairman of the committee of ways and means in the 27th Congress, Mr. Fillmore was the author of the tariff of 1842. He then resumed his profession in Buffalo; was in 1847 elected State comptroller; in 1848 was nom. and elected by the Whigs as vice-pres., and remained in that position until the death of Pres. Taylor, July 9, 1850, by which he was elevated to the presidential chair. As vice-pres., he presided during the controversy on the "omnibus bill" with his usual impartiality. During his presidency, the compromise measures, embracing substantially the provisions of Mr. Clay's bill, were passed. His administration is disting. by the exped. of Com. Perry to Japan, which sailed in the autumn of 1852, and which resulted in a favorable treaty with that country. He visited Europe in 1855–6. In 1856, he was the candidate of the American party for the presidency; d. Buffalo, March 8, 1874.

